MISS BARROWS TESTIFIES AT HOUSE PROBE

Woman Who Gave Dinner Says Party Was Unable To Talk About Anything Because Dr. Wirt Talked All The Time; Says Her Party Not A Success Because Of Professor's Conversation About Gold

Washington, April 17.—(AP)—Miss Alice Barrows, Interior Department employee, who was hostess at the much publicized September dinner attended by Dr. William Wirt, told House investigators today that none of the guests had mentioned the name of Kerensky or Stalin or Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell or discussed any subject at all.

As the first of the six witnesses the dinner with Dr. Wirt to testify on some six hundred people crowded the house caucus room, she said her party was not a success because of Dr. Wirt's continued conversation on evaluation of the gold dollar.

Chuckles rippled over the audience as she added that remarks to her denial of incendiary assertion which the Indiana educator attributed to the dinner attendance in his testimony a week ago.

Wearing a blue knitted dress and holding an envelope in her lap she had quietly faced the committee.

Republicans had been voted down previously in an attempt to widen the scope of the inquiry.

DR. R'BARKER HEADS ROTES

Other Officers Elected At Meeting Of Board of Directors Here Last Night

Dr. Herbert ReBarker, head of the Department of Mathematics and Dean of boys at East Carolina Teachers college, was elected president of the Rotary club at a meeting last night.

Carl Adams, also a member of the college faculty, was elected vice-president and J. C. Gaskins, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

N. D. GOVERNOR INDICTED FOR ACCEPTING FUND

Fargo, N. D., April 17.—(AP)—Governor William Langer and eight other persons were under indictment today on charges of exacting political contributions from federal relief workers in North Dakota.

SIX STATES SEEK CUT IN TOBACCO TAX

Governors of Tobacco Growing Areas Back N. C. Governor In Movement

Raleigh, April 17.—(AP)—Governors of six tobacco growing states today had lined up behind a movement instituted by Governor Ehringhaus of North Carolina to urge a 40 per cent reduction in the federal tax on tobacco products.

The North Carolina governor recently invited the chief executives to join him in Washington to place the question before President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The governors of Kentucky, West Virginia, South Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia have reported they would either go to the Washington conference or send representatives.

A reply has not been received from Governor Ritchie of Maryland. Governor Ehringhaus said.

TRUE BILL IN ARSON CASE

A true bill was returned by the grand jury in criminal court today against Claude Clemmons, Stokes community negro, charged with arson in connection with allegedly firing a negro house several months ago resulting in the death of three negro children.

Given preliminary hearing here about a month ago, Clemmons was bound over to criminal court. He was unable to provide bond and was remanded to jail.

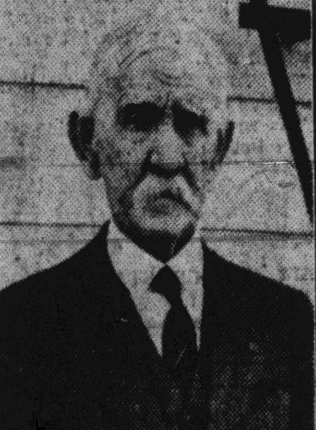

In the first hearing two children of Clemmons testified he was away from home about the same time the negro house near Stokes was destroyed by fire, causing the death of three children. Several other persons in the building had a narrow escape from death.

It was also revealed by testimony that Clemmons had threatened the mother of the three children because she had given shelter to his wife on several occasions.

Clemmons was taken into custody several days after the building was destroyed as result of alleged threats against the woman and upon information of his absence furnished by his children.

The negro denied the charge saying he was at home at the time of the fire.

Hero Remembered

Back in 1888 Lieut. Timothy Sullivan, U. S. ROBBER BAND FINDS WAY TO PUBLIC ROADS

Several Others Charged With Robbery Sentenced In Criminal Court Yesterday

Connie Brantley Bennie Simpson and three other young white men of Wilson community, charged with robbing a filling station on the outskirts of the city about three weeks ago, were sentenced to from 12 to 16 months each on the roads by Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro in the opening session of the two-week term of criminal Superior court here yesterday.

The young men allegedly entered Smith's filling station near the intersection of the Greenville-Fargo roads, obtained a supply of cigarettes and an undetermined amount of money from a slot machine which they broke into.

They were taken to Wilson where they are scheduled to go on trial for stealing a car here. They are also alleged to have robbed a filling station at Rocky Mount and Smithfield. When arrested here they were in possession of the automobile and some of the loot said to have been taken at Rocky Mount.

Members of another band of thieves also found their way to the roads yesterday when James Moye, James Edwards and Henry Moye, colored, were sentenced for entering Hatem's store here over a month ago and making away with a considerable number of women's dresses and their wearing apparel.

James Moye drew 2 1-2 to 3 years on the roads, Edwards from 12 to 18 months and Henry Moye from 18 to 20 months.

Elijah Small, colored appearing on a charge of larceny, was sentenced to from 3 to 12 months on the roads.

Pete O'Neal, Leroy Jordan, colored, charged with breaking and entering freight cars on the A. C. L. railroad here, were given from 18 to 24 months on the roads.

Simon Cardwell, convicted of stealing an automobile belonging to Mr. Pendergrass here, was sent to the roads for 8 to 12 months.

Sentence was suspended in the case of Jack Walwright of the Farmville community, appearing on a charge of stealing automobile tires.

INDIAN SAYS HE OWNS WASHINGTON TREATY PIPE

Holdenville, Okla. (AP)—An Indian tomahawk, fashioned into a peace pipe and supposedly used at the signing of a peace treaty between George Washington and the Indians in 1777 is owned by Wade Killebrew, 77-year-old Indian who lives in a log cabin near Sasakwa.

Through an interpreter, the aged Indian said he believed the tomahawk-pipe, handed down to him through 23 generations, was the last symbol of the treaty between the colonists and red men. The council was held near the city of Washington and a monument now commemorates the scene.

Find True Bill In Harrington Case

The Pitt County grand jury at 3 o'clock this afternoon returned a true bill against Matthew Harrington, young white man, whom the State charges with the slaying of his step-father, John Gurganus, near the city limits here on the night of February 11, last. The case has not been definitely set for trial.

GOVERNMENT COMPLETES CANNON CASE

Presentation of Testimony Against Churchman Finished During Morning

Washington, April 17.—(AP)—The government this morning completed presentation of its case against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Miss Ada Burroughs charged with conspiring to violate the corrupt practices act in connection with the Southern Methodist churchman's 1928 campaign against the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith.

It finished after questions had been put by government and defense lawyers to E. J. Armbruster, government accountant.

Armbruster made the final transaction and check of the Hoover-Smith campaign. As soon as the government rested, M. J. Fulton of Richmond, Va., Miss Burroughs' accountant, asked the court to direct the jury to acquit the churchman and Miss Burroughs without presentation of the defense testimony.

START WORK ON PROJECT AT GRIFTON

Relief Administration Orders Resumption of Work On Community Building

Completion of the community building at Grifton has been approved by the State Rural-Urban Relief administration, which is taking over projects started by the CWA here several months ago, it was announced today by K. T. Futrell, director of the work.

Actual resumption of construction work got under way yesterday, Mr. Futrell said, and work will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The Grifton building will cost in the neighborhood of $9,000 and will be one of the finest of the kind in this part of the state erected under the emergency relief program.

With the okay of this project, Mr. Futrell said he felt confident that resumption of work on various other jobs in this county would be authorized in the near future. In fact, he said he expected orders to rush all projects to a finish as soon as possible.

All projects abandoned by the CWA had to be rechecked by government agencies before work could be resumed and, it was stated, the delay experienced here as well as other parts of the country, was caused by this activity.

Numbers of community buildings, swimming pools and school improvements remain to be completed in Pitt County, and when authorization for continuing work is received little delay will be experienced. (Continued on page Two.)

LILLYCROP TO GO TO CHURCH AT SARASOTA

Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church Here, Accepts Call To Florida

Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, has resigned to accept the rectorship of the Church of the Redeemer, Sarasota, Florida. It was announced today.

He will leave Greenville May 1 to take up his new work in Florida the first Sunday in May, but will preach at the local church the next two Sunday mornings.

Mr. Lillycrop became rector of the Greenville church in the fall of 1928. Since that time the church has moved from its old location on Pitt street to the beautiful structure on Fourth street, erected at a cost of $25,000.

The congregation has experienced growth in numerical strength during the rectorship of Mr. Lillycrop, who has displayed marked interest in increasing the size of the congregation.

In addition to his activities with the church here, Mr. Lillycrop is a recognized leader in the life of the Episcopal Diocese of East Carolina. He is chairman of the Department of Religious Education, member of the Executive Council of the Diocese, member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese, and Director of the Young People's Camps of the Diocese at Camp Leach. He has also been active in other Diocesan activities and his influence counted largely in the success of the various endeavors undertaken by the body.

During his stay in Greenville, Mr. Lillycrop has forged to the limelight as an author. He has written two books which have received wide publication. "The Adventures of Betty and the Scarlet Bunny," his first work, was not only published but was dramatized in collaboration with dramatic critics of this community and then presented on the stage in several sections.

His second venture, "The Awakening of St. Timothy's League," is just off the press and deals with Young People's activities in the diocese. Several thousand copies of the work have been placed in circulation by the publishers.

Mr. Lillycrop has also carried on two denominational clubs, one for boys and the other for girls, for children of the city. Especially interested in students at East Carolina Teachers college, he started the "Friendly Hall," a lovely student's club for students of the institution.

MRS. J. P. MOSS SEEKS OFFICE

Announces For Office of Register of Deeds Now Held By J. C. Gaskins

Masculine hats have held supremacy in the political hat-tossing contest here the last several days, but today a feminine hat found its way into the ring.

It belongs to Mrs. J. P. Moss, who announced that she would seek the office of Register of Deeds now held by J. C. Gaskins.

Mrs. Moss is the first to file for this important post, although numbers of other candidates have signified their intention of entering the ballot battle by formal announcements the last two weeks.

Mrs. Moss is the second woman to enter the political arena here this year, Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Greenville having announced several days ago she would be a candidate for the State Senate post now held by Senator A. B. Corey.

Mrs. Moss was born and reared in Pitt county near Stokes and before her marriage was Miss Flossie Whitchard. August, 1913 she started work in the Register of Deeds office as stenographer and general assistant for Mr. Brascoe Bell and continued through the remainder of his administration. Mr. Gaskins succeeded Mr. Bell and was sworn into office the first Monday in December, 1916. Immediately afterwards Mrs. Moss and John Manning gave the new register of deeds his first lessons. YOUTH TURNING TO STONE, NOW GROWING WORSE

Goldboro, April 17.—(AP)—Levi Thompson, whose little two-year-old body is turning into "stone," will be taken to Duke University Hospital again April 26 for an examination following a turn for the worse in his condition.

The child still remains playful at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Braxton Thompson of the Jordan community in Wayne county. Doctors have placed him on a diet but this seemed to have little effect on the disease which sends lime into his muscles instead of his bones.

FIVE MEN ARE 'DRAFTED' FOR COUNTY BOARD

Tax Relief Association Announces Candidates For Board of Commissioners

The Pitt County Tax Relief Association, which has been quite active here the last several months in an effort to relieve the tax burden, entered the political field today with announcement of the drafting of an entire Board of County Commissioners.

The drafted board, the announcement said, will "Cooperate with President Roosevelt and his administration generally and particularly in their efforts to help us help ourselves."

Those drafted by the association are: Ben M. Lewis, Farmville township; Godfrey S. Porter, Chicod township; Jim B. Barnhill, Carolina township; J. N. Williams, Greenville township; Charlie L. Stokes, Swift Creek township.

In addition to supporting the Roosevelt administration, the drafted candidates will be committed to the following principles: Support within the Democratic party actively Democratic principles. Hold Pitt county government on a cash basis.

That property be taxed not in excess of its true value in money. Hold expenses of government within ability of the people to pay taxes.

Maintain our constitution with limitations that property be taxed at its true value in money. Compel honest count of ballots openly and fairly above suspicion.

In addition to announcement of the drafted candidates, Offie Stancill has tossed his hat into the ring for the office of Constable of Greenville township, Richard King, present incumbent, is seeking the office of sheriff and hence will not be a candidate for his old post as constable.

EFFORT TO CASH BAD CHECK TURNS OUT BADLY

Elizabeth City, April 17.—Zenas Foster, 19, of Shiloh, and Rufus Bartlett, 21-year-old negro, also of Shiloh, were bound over to Superior court under $250 bond each when a finding of forgery cause on a charge of forgery and attempt to pass a forged check was returned in recorder's court.

The two were arrested after the Negro had attempted to have cashed a check for $128 made payable to one James Cox and drawn on P. P. Gregory, of Shiloh. L. W. Linder, the bank teller, detected the forgery and the two were arrested.

The state contended that Foster engineered the forgery and that he was to receive $5. Evidence to this effect was given by the police.

BLACK WILL NOT CALL FOR GEO. GLENDEN

Chairman of Air Mail Probe Refuses Request to Summon Secretary to Attorney General; Seeks Reports That Charles Lindbergh Was Grilled By Committee; Witnesses Denies Statement

Washington, April 17.—(AP)—Mark L. Requa, Republican national committee chairman from California, and described as a "close friend" and advisor of former President Hoover, was pictured in the Senate Air Mail investigating committee today as having consented to use his Washington influence in 1931 in the interest of aviation company patronized by E. L. Cord.

Washington, April 17.—(AP)—Chairman Black, chairman of the Senate Air mail investigating committee, refused the request today of Senator Austin of Vermont, to summon George Glenden, secretary to Carl Ristine, secretary to the attorney general for questioning about an interview after reports were circulated that Charles A. Lindbergh was grilled and cross examined in a secret session. Linden took stenographic notes on the interview.

Black told Austin that several other witnesses were scheduled to be heard and that he would do nothing for the present.

The chairman indicated he would ask the whole committee to hold later whether Linden should be called.

Ristine, assigned to the air mail probe by the Justice Department, denied that Lindbergh had been grilled, saying the department here profited wanted his view on air mail profits.

JURY FINDS TRUE BILLS

Several Defendants Held For Trial As Grand Jury Begins Work Here

Grinding away rapidly at the opening session of criminal court here yesterday the six-months grand jury delved into a number of cases; and when work was suspended last night until today quite a number of true bills had been returned.

After completing the handling of presentments, the grand jurors will visit all county offices and properties and then make a report of their findings to Judge Frank Daniels, of Goldsboro.

In opening court yesterday morning Judge Daniels did not charge the jurors in view of the fact that this was done at a former session of court when the new body began service.

True bills were returned against the following: Daniel Powell, Nathan Coward, Charles Wallace, colored, assault and robbery.

Willie Brown, colored, larceny, breaking and entering.

Allan Hamlin, colored, assault with a deadly weapon and attempted rape.

Will Williams, larceny.

Charles Harris and Bill Clark, colored, breaking and entering.

Otis Taylor, assault with a deadly weapon.

Judith Lane
by JEANNEY BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Oil has been struck west of the Big Tom dam, which Judith Dale is building according to Big Tom Bevin's plan, with the fortune he left her for the purpose. She fears her workers may be stampeded by the strike, and has arranged to take them to the home, and provide a midnight lunch for them when they return.
The oil drilling has been known by Morton Lamper, who is trying to divert the Bevin money from the dam to the pockets of Mrs.
Bevin and her daughter.

Chapter 33
NORMAN AGAIN

SINCLAIR, proprietor of the Elite Eating House, had been a top sergeant in the Marine Corps during the war. Judith went directly to him, told him what she would need and appointed him "Major" of the commissary department. He was to organize the other restaurant men, one to swing lumber into long tables, another to see about coffee, a third to organize the women into small groups.

Judith joined one of these groups.
She cut bread, spread it, slipped slices of ham, of bologna, of cheese, of pressed meat, of chicken, of roast, between the bread.

Excited voices were constantly plying her with questions and she was constantly answering.

There were times when her weary muscles rebelled and she wished she were a thin slice of something to be slipped between sheets. She began to look upon her bed as a sandwich, herself as a filling, laughed at herself for thinking it, and then found Delphy at her side with a cup of coffee.

"Mr. Larson, he say he's back with one truck load and you're to come along over next trip."

Judith agreed wearily. She left the big tent with its makeshift tables, piles of sandwiches and washbol-lers of coffee, its laughing woman, its returning truck loads of excited men talking "Oil-oil."

She climbed into the high seat of a gravel truck, sat between the driver and Larson. "Sandwich" she thought sleepily.

The about of men in the truck awakened her after a long lapse of semi-slumber. This time her eyes saw twinkling lights, saw the skeleton derrick, looming ahead, saw men running like pygmies about a roped off enclosure.

"There she is!"

Larson helped her down, steadied her a moment, then they walked over to the lighted area. Judith stepped in something that squashed under her feet. Oil... the place was drenched with it.

"She came in so fast we couldn't cap her," one man was saying excitedly.

Judith looked at him and then at the man to whom he was speaking, an oil-field worker, evidently, from his stained clothes. She started, leaned forward, peering intently, then closed her eyes and clutched at Larson's sleeve. The man was her husband, Norman Dale.

Judith Dale opened her eyes slowly. Larson, intent upon the scene before him, had not noticed. She looked past him to the man who had been talking to Norman Dale.
He was still there, but Norman had vanished.

Perhaps she was wrong. Perhaps she had longed so to see him that she fancied some person similar to him was he. This man had looked at her and his eyes had seemed to widen in surprise. Of course she hadn't seen him clearly, his hat brim was tipped forward, his face covered with several days' growth of beard. Norman shaved every day.

"That man, the one you were talking to when I came up, where did he go?" She had leaned across Larson addressing the man on the other side.

"He just saw a fellow he wanted to catch before he got away."

"He reminded me so much of a friend of mine, would you mind telling me his name?"

"Let's see, now what do they call him. Of course his nickname's Professor, because he talks so booky, and I think his other name is Jackson."

"Has he been in camp long?"

"Not so very long, 'bout a month or so, fine fellow." The man turned away.

Judith didn't sleep on the return trip. Perhaps Norman was there within a few miles of her, had been there right along and hadn't come near.

So he'd left Lamper, she thought in derision. Perhaps he'd left Lamper's office. Could he have been the man who had talked to Scoggins, his oil man? But no, Scoggins would have remembered him as being her husband, Professor Jackson.
Was he spying there for Lamper?
No use thinking about it, her

THE DEADLY GAS
When starting the spring and summer driving pay particular attention to the exhaust pipe on your car. Out of that pipe comes a deadly gas generated by the engine —carbon monoxide. Unless the mechanism is in perfect condition the gas may not be carried out into the open air where it dissipates, but may leak up into the car.

Quantities of carbon monoxide are present in three out of five motor vehicles now moving on highways.
Though the fumes are not concentrated highly in the majority of vehicles, they are sufficiently strong in 7 per cent to cause collapse and greatly to increase the probability of fatal accidents and asphyxial deaths.

Traffic experts have been analyzing causes of highway accidents now classified as "drove off roadway," "poor judgment," or "inattention." They believe that in such cases drivers may have been dazed or overcome by carbon monoxide.

Defects in exhaust facilities contribute to this hazard. Short or split exhaust pipes, leaking flexible exhaust tubes, defective manifold gaskets or leaking mufflers and connections, are highly dangerous. Defective floor boards, openings, around pedals or in dash board, and poor engine efficiency, are contributory factors.

Motorists can control the hazard by observing the following: 1. Stop engine in parked closed car, (especially in garage), or ventilate freely. 2. Inspect car regularly and replace at once defective manifold gaskets, particularly flexible exhaust tubes which year out rapidly. 3. Ventilate moving vehicle from front. 4. Install seamless exhaust pipes, or have seam facing ground.
Pipe should discharge at rear side opposite driver. 5. Avoid following too closely a car with smoking exhaust.

START WORK ON PROJECTS AT GRIFTON

enced in getting construction work under way, the director said.
Greenville is probably more directly affected than any other part of the county as here a swimming pool, school repairs, drainage and other projects were under way when the CWA disbanded orders were received. Mr. Putrell expressed the opinion that several other construction jobs would receive official sanction probably the latter part of the week with work being started immediately.

LABOR SOLICITOR IS BOUND OVER TO COURT

Greensboro, April 17.—A. J. Co-bert, Los Angeles man arrested here yesterday for soliciting workers to wary mind protested. A sleep and tomorrow she would go back and look for him.

But when she awakened she did not call for a horse and ride over as she had intended. What could she say if she located him? If he had wanted to see her, he'd had a month in which to visit Big Tom Town.

She stuck, literally and figuratively. It seemed as the summer progressed that she was glued to the high stool over her drawing board, checking progress with Big Tom's specifications. The heat burned down through the boards of her shack until even Delphy, who usually congealed in the winter and then thawed into comfort at midsummer, admitted it "am quite warm."

Cunard sent insulating beard up from Laredo, which helped a little.
Awnings at the windows, made by some of the engineers from old canvas and daubed with var-colored paint, added to the comfort. Delphy's window boxes with their profusion of petunias and nasturtiums broke the drabness of the outlook.

Down in Big Tom Town, tents and motor houses were graced with coffee tins, sprouting blossoms, gifts of seed from Delphy.

AND then the storm season announced its approach with brassy sky and sultry heat. For days it seemed the air was filled with flinty bits of bronze. Judith watched the sky with apprehension, held long consultations with Scoggins and Scofield. The dam town had grown to a dangerous size, if one were to try to find place for them in the safety of the ship rock.

"It wouldn't come a flood two years together," comforted Scoggins.

"It wouldn't any place else in the world," Judith agreed, "but let's be sure our people are above the danger line at the time of the first storm."

She saw the first storm coming, a blue-black mist which spread like smoke against the northern skies, then rose and deepened in color.
She went back to the house, sent Delphy with messages to the stables and had the boys ride out to warn the men working in the river channel. The women and children were brought to her house.

They laughed at her for her alarm and she laughed with them, but she wanted no loss of life.

She watched the storm's approach, grateful that it did not look as formidable as the previous year, but formidable enough at that.

"Old Mother Summer is weepin' th' sky," chanted Tommy Scoggins, who had discovered her retreat. He looked up at her and smiled a toothless smile which seemed strangely charming on his fat, freckled face.

Judith smiled back, tears behind her eyes. Last year how different it had been. Big Tom had been there and she had sat snugly in the curve of Norman's arm. She wondered where he was now.

"Know what it makes me think of, Miss Judy?" inquired Tommy, pointing to black clouds which had separated from the mass and were blowing forward, slashed with red forked lightning. "Witches, black ones, ridin' brooms. Say, Miss Judy, dy' reckon you could talk Pop into buyin' me an airplane 'stead of a car? Gee there ain't no place here a fellow can drive a car."

Judith turned from the storm-swept sky. "Would you be terribly disappointed if you didn't get either one?"

"You mean maybe there won't be no... I mean any, oil?"

"How far down are they now?"

"Past two thousand," he admitted. Then, with bravado, "Gee, I could get along with a horse just as well, if I could have two guns to go with 'em."

The near cannonade of thunder sent them back down hill and a few moments later the storm struck.
Daylight this time, excepting for the twilight of greenish-black clouds. They could see the blue-white flame of lightning, zinging down in anky darts, crashing with brittle force.

The river was rising. Judith, Larson and the engineers watched it with interest and apprehension. It flooded the low basin, lapped the base of Scoggins No. 1. They saw it lapping the lowest tents and then with one great roar, Scoggins No. 1 burst into flame, a flame that seemed to rise to meet a red dart hurled from the clouds.

"She's gone... she struck the derrick."

Judith stood white lipped, silent.
She had no more reserve funds to rebuild.

not be stopped. His letters of introduction said he was seeking workers for the mill due to prolonged labor troubles in the plant.

No Threat Of Flax Surplus

Fargo, N. D.—(AP)—Field of flax can replace wheat in North Dakota next summer without a resulting surplus in the former product, says A. H. Benton, marketing representative of North Dakota Agricultural college.

After finding out these facts, I at once served a notice on the solicitor
as I only had a few days before court would open, and the law required me to give him ten days notice.

Since serving the notice I have made further investigation of the law and I have found a very late case that was handed down by the Supreme Court last fall in which it
held that a motion for a new trial
must be made at the same term that the defendant was tried. That being so it would be trifling with the law,
for me to pursue this course any further and that is what I don't want to do. The case that I refer to is State vs. Edwards in the 205 N. C. report page 661.

Therefore the only course left is to appeal to the Governor, thru his executive counsel, for executive clemency. I do not want the public to misunderstand me in this matter.
There is only one way to do any thing, and that is right, on the level open and above board. I know I have been criticised already, and I expect more from those that do not know the truth about this case. But before you do this be sure you are right and I am wrong. But please be honest and fair.

The defendant in this case is a negro, a man of bad character, but we do not put people to death in this state, just because their character is bad or because he is a negro.
Justice is justice, right is right and that is what the laws of this land are for—to see that every man gets a square deal, no matter who he is, white or black, rich or poor, high or low.

Therefore, we as sound thinking people, honest and fair and wanting to do the right thing, I ask of you to harken unto the word of God.
"Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." And as some great writer has said, "Revenge is a kind of wild justice, which the more man's nature runs to, the more ought law to weed it out." Then lets be sane and level headed, subdue our revenge and be reasonable.

And as Milton, another great writer, says, "Revenge at first though sweet, bitter ere long back on itself recalls." Oh! let us hope that none of us will ever taste the bitterness of the recoil, because of our vengeance.

I believe if the defendant in this case had been a white man or if the prosecuting witness, the girl, had been a negro this defendant would not be on death row today.

So, what is wrong? I can tell you the truth hasn't been told. I mean all the truth. I say and still contend that there are things about this case that have never been told, and if there is any person in this county that knows the truth he or she should have the manhood or woman hood enough to reveal it to the pardon commissioner, Mr. Edward Gill, Raleigh, N. C. And tell him all you know and sign your name to what you say.

Let the truth speak then justice will be done and that is what we want.

I am sincere and honest about this matter because a man's life is at stake and I do not believe he should be electrocuted on the facts as they exist at this time. Not what you have heard or what you believe from hearsay. But what is the truth about the matter.

If there is any person who would like to know the facts as I really have them, I will be glad to show them so that you may know the truth. My office is in the Blount Building office No. 202, and it will be a pleasure to enlighten any one that is interested in a human life.

Seek the truth and you shall know.

In the duties of his office, Mrs. Moss worked for Mr. Gaskins until March 1918, at which time she resigned to accept a position elsewhere.

With this experience and the fact that she has had a typewriter in her home for several years and has kept up her practice, Mrs. Moss said she felt confident she can handle the work in the office in a more economical manner than is being done at the present.

Considering the fact that Mr. Gaskins has been in the office for nearly eighteen consecutive years, Mrs.
Moss declared she feels that a change would be beneficial to the entire public.

Hele in protecting officers in the discharge of their duties to the limit. And I also believe in every man getting a square deal. Lets see to it that Jim Green gets one.

national Relations Committee of the Greenville Rotary club, in his remarks before the regular meeting of the club. A realization of the interdependence of nation's permeared the Montevideo conferees.

First, Dr. Wright explained that the Pan-American Union grew out of the International Bureau of American Republic created and maintained by the twenty-one republics in North, South and Central America for the purpose of forwarding cultural and commercial intercourse of these nations. This organization, he went on to explain, does not exist to settle international differences but to further friendship and international relations of the members.
If all the nations of the world could form such an organization with similar purposes, it would facilitate friendliness of all nations in the opinion of the speaker. These purposes were paralleled with the principles of Rotary International.

The Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay which bristled with guns was approached by a conferece of the Pan-American Union in a friendly discussion. No names were called and no blame placed. But an armistice between the disputant's resulted. These conferees worked with the spirit of Rotary.

A great advance in the relations of the members of the Pan-American Union was affected by the Roosevelt Administration's declaration that it would have a policy of non intervention which declaration improved the attitude of the Union nations not only toward the United States but toward each other in view of our former strict observance of the Monroe Doctrine.

Last night Fordice Harding, Carl Adams, Herbert ReBarker, Jasper Winslow, Jonathan Overton, and Steve Willkerson were elected to serve with Kinchen Cobb this year's club president who automatically becomes a member of the group, to serve as the club board of directors for the ensuing year.

Edgar Meeks won the attendance prize. Dr. G. R. Combs pronounced the invocation.

can present the matter at the convention of the Congress the first of the following week. If the matter should meet with the approval of the Congress it will press the matter of getting an early construction and completion of this project.

It is opinion of the officials of the Eastern North Carolina Association that a very favorable showing will be made at the hearing to be held in Greenville on the 26th.
The survey already shows that the potential tonnage will exceed 350-000 short tons with an approximate annual savings of a quarter of a million dollars to Greenville and the territory that would be served by this waterway. The previous reports show that the total carrying charges, that is, the interest on the money expended in construction, upkeep of the locks and dams, etc., would not exceed $50,000 annually.

Unquestionably, the completion of this project would mean more to Greenville and Eastern North Carolina generally than any other one thing that could be done towards getting a just and reasonable freight rate adjustment into effect. It would be difficult to even estimate this indirect savings that would result from a completion of this waterway.

The Jim Green Case

I was appointed by the Court, Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro who was holding the court here in January 1934, to represent Jim Green as he was going to be tried for his life; appointed one afternoon, and the case set for trial next morning, no time to find out the real facts in the case. I was told that it was a bang up case of rape. I was shown a confession, but the confession and the testimony of the prosecuting witness, the girl, do not coincide, therefore one must be wrong. The man was tried and convicted and sentenced to be electrocuted on the 25th day of April 1934.
Today he sits on death row.

On March the 29th information came to my office about the above named case, this information was so astounding that I immediately investigated same—then I went to the state prison at Raleigh and talked with Green under the pretense that I was in Raleigh on other business, and happened to stop in to see him. I told him he was to die on the 25th day of April and there was no way to save him, that every effort had been made that could be made and there wasn't any need for him to go to the chair with a lie on his lips. Then I asked him in the presence of two or more attendants of the prison about what I had learned, he not knowing what I had been told, and he told me the same that I had been told here in my office on the 29th day of March. He also, told me other things that I did not know about the case, then I came back and inquired and have found them to be true.

After finding out these facts, I at
once served a notice on the solicitor
as I only had a few days before
court would open, and the law required me to give him ten days notice.

Since serving the notice I have
made further investigation of the law and I have found a very late
case that was handed down by the Supreme Court last fall in which it
held that a motion for a new trial
must be made at the same term that
the defendant was tried. That being
so it would be trifling with the law,
for me to pursue this course any further and that is what I don't want to do. The case that I refer to is
State vs. Edwards in the 205 N. C. report page 661.

Therefore the only course left is to appeal to the Governor, thru his executive counsel, for executive clemency. I do not want the public to misunderstand me in this matter.
There is only one way to do any
thing, and that is right, on the level
open and above board. I know I have been criticised already, and I expect
more from those that do not know
the truth about this case. But before
you do this be sure you are right
and I am wrong. But please be honest and fair.

DAVIDSON

Chapel Hill, April 17.—The N. C.
State tennis team and the Davidson baseball squad invade Chapel Hill today for contests with University of North Carolina teams at 2:30 and 4 o'clock, respectively.

The baseball game is expected to produce a pretty mound duel between Earnest McKeithan, who set Davidson down with four hits before, and Jenkins of Davidson, who beat Duke 5-4 last week.

The tar heels, who turned in three double plays and continued their heavy hitting in beating Wake Forest 6-0 Saturday, are leading the race for both the Big Five and Southern Conference titles which they won last year, being undefeated in their first seven starts.

Carolina won both its Easter games from the Wildcats and will be out to make it three in a row. However, Davidson showed a vastly improved team in splitting a brace of games with the strong State and Duke nines last week.

Coach Bunn Hearn will stick to his regular infield of McGaskill, catcher, Bradt, first base, Weathers second, Irwin, short, Leonard, third, with Vick in center, McIver in left, and either Barham or Tatum in right.

Davidson's probable lineup is Mock rf; Smyre, ss; MacKorell, 3b; Morgan, lf; Bumgarner, 2b; Burns, 1b; Rogers, cf; and Ravenel c.

PIRATES FACE THREE GAMES

The Pirates of East Carolina Teachers College are playing three baseball games this week. On Tuesday and Friday they are to meet the "Scatls" of Presbyterian Junior College. On Saturday the are to meet the strong Carroument team in Rocky Mount.

Either Jimmie James or Troy Burnette, local boys, are to pitch for the Pirates on Thursday. On the trip last week Burnette held the fast Forr Bragg team to 9 hits. The locals won the game by a score of 5 to 4.

The games are to be played at College Park. The games are to start at 3:30.

DRESS REHEARSALS FOR FACULTY PLAYS

If the dress rehearsals held last night, before a small but critical audience were a forecast of what the main performance will be of the three one-act plays to be presented by the Staff of East Carolina Teachers' College they will be greatly enjoyed by the audience to-night.

They will be given in Austin Auditorium at eight o'clock. Each play is about half an hour long, and the interludes are short and will be filled with musical features.

The chorus of women's voices under the direction of Miss Eugenia Thomas is a decidedly new feature. The violin ensemble will play favorite collections.

The first play, "Fourteen," is an amusing comedy in which an ambitious society woman struggles to give a dinner party. Misses Greene and Wadlington and Mr. Picklesimer will portray the characters in the play. Mrs. Bloxton is stage manager.

The next play is "Two Crooks and a Lady." This deals with the attempted theft of a famous diamond necklace. Taking part in this play are: Misses Cassidy, Hyman and Newell; Dr. A. D. Frank, Mr. M. L. Wright and Dr. H. J. McGinnis.

"The Man Upstairs" is a comedy centering around the jealousy of husbands and wives. The cast includes: Mr. J. B. Cummings, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Miss Eunice McGee, Mr. R. C. Deal and Miss Margaret Sammon.

The proceeds will be used in helping to finance the Commencement Pageant.

SPRING SUITS GO FEMININE AS MANNISH TREND FADES

A Black linen shirt, black patent leather hat and belt and black suede gloves give the 1934 touch to this spring suit of beige wool flecked with black. Marcel Rochas designs it with the trimly tailored, though feminine, lines in vogue this season. The coat is three-quarter length.

By RITA FERRIS (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris, April 17.—(AP)—Femininity is the essence of that new spring suit.

Though a trimly tailored effect of simplicity is still the rule, the hard mannish line in vogue for several seasons has been tossed on fashion's scrap heap. Woofs are often a little softer, silhouettes look less as though they had been stretched by hard black crayon on white paper, accessories such as golden snail or silver seashell fastenings are decidedly feminine.

Square, padded, exaggerated shoulders are no longer seen. Some designers show the trimly squared shoulders always favored for tailored suits; others display a much softer, almost sloping shoulder line. Jacket lengths are a matter in which madame "may have her own way." The favorite is the classic hip-length line, ending a little below the hip bones, but one designer shows suits with jackets no longer than the waist, and others display both belted and loose three-quarter-length jackets.

Two-toned weaves are a heavy favorite in the suit world. Tweeds, shadow plaids, herringbones, diamond-patterned plaids and stripes, as well as homespuns and hopsacks, are legion. Edge and brown, black and gray, navy and horizon blue or the favorite mixtures.

Soft black wools woven with 15-needle stripes to give the shiny finish, quitted satins, crisp taffetas and cravat silks are much used for jaunty little afternoon suits, cut with jackets which nip in to the waist and end in longer black tails.

Later new hopes were expressed when Peru pushed Jorge Prado to Rio as minister with instructions to attempt to speed the negotiations.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LAND
By virtue of authority vested in me by the terms of that certain mortgage deed executed to me by John H. Adams, dated the 21st day of January, 1922 and of record in Book D-14, at page 482, Pitt County Registry, I shall offer for sale at public auction at the Court House door in Greenville, N. C., to the highest bidder for cash on Saturday, May 12th, 1934 at 12 o'clock M., the following described tract of land:

A tract of land containing 75 acres, more or less, purchased by Israel Adams and wife, Ann Eliza; BEGINNING at the "Hunting Run" canal on the public road and runs down said canal to the south edge of the bog; thence with the South edge of the bog to a pine, a marked corner; thence a line to a lightwood stake on the road; thence with said road to the beginning, containing seventy-five acres, more or less. For a further description, reference is hereby made to that certain deed in Book U-9, page 45.

This the 6th day of April, 1934. Mrs. Lula W. Fleming, Mortgagee.

LETICIA DISPUTE NEARS CRISIS AT RIO CONFERENCE

By PAUL SANDERS
Rio De Janeiro.—(AP)—What will happen if Colombian and Peruvian delegations, conferring here on the Leticia boudry dispute, do not manage an understanding within two months is preoccupying diplomatic circles.

A League of Nations commission's mandate over Leticia, the Amazonian collection of huts which is the focal point of the dispute, expires June 23.

Before that time the peace negotiators must reach an agreement or a basis for continuing negotiations.

Both Nations Wary
Members of both delegations state that the case will be decided without resorting to hostilities, but mean while both countries have increased military and naval strength since their near-war in late 1932.

Both sides are understood to be willing to prolong the negotiations, but only Peru is willing to extend the status quo with possession of the disputed territory in the neutral hands of the league.

Columbia, which obtained Leticia and a narrow corridor between the Amazon and Putumayo river from Peru by treaty in 1922, insists on possession of Leticia at the expiration of the league mandate.

Peru, which seeks revision of the 1922 treaty because of popular dissatisfaction, clamored by seizure of Leticia by Peruvian citizens in 1932 yielded Leticia to the league commission last June, under a Geneva formula for the present Rio negotiations.

Try To Speed Pact
The negotiations started in Rio last October and have coasted along slowly. In the hope of getting progress the delegations, Colombian headed by Roberto Urdaneta Arbelaez, foreign minister, and Peruvian headed by Victor Maurtua, chose Afranio de Mello Franco, former Brazilian foreign minister, as chairman and mediator.

Later new hopes were expressed when Peru pushed Jorge Prado to Rio as minister with instructions to attempt to speed the negotiations.

Very Much Improved After Taking Cardui
"I have suffered a great deal from cramping," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Sr., of Waco, Texas. "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui, thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Notice of Sale of Land
By virtue of authority vested in me by the terms of that certain mortgage deed executed to me by John H. Adams, dated the 21st day of January, 1922 and of record in Book D-14, at page 482, Pitt County Registry, I shall offer for sale at public auction at the Court House door in Greenville, N. C., to the highest bidder for cash on Saturday, May 12th, 1934 at 12 o'clock M., the following described tract of land:

A tract of land containing 75 acres, more or less, purchased by Israel Adams and wife, Ann Eliza; BEGINNING at the "Hunting Run" canal on the public road and runs down said canal to the south edge of the bog; thence with the South edge of the bog to a pine, a marked corner; thence a line to a lightwood stake on the road; thence with said road to the beginning, containing seventy-five acres, more or less. For a further description, reference is hereby made to that certain deed in Book U-9, page 45.

This the 6th day of April, 1934. Mrs. Lula W. Fleming, Mortgagee.

UNEMPLOYED MAN TAKES HIS OWN LIFE
Norfolk, April 17.—The body of J. P. Seaborn, 48, was found in a room in a local hotel here with a bullet wound apparently self-inflicted, in the right side of his head.

Investigation revealed that he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Seaborn and was born near Emporia.

The reason for the suicide was given in a four-page letter left by the dead man. He bewailed the fact that he was listed by the government as too old to be given employment and pointed out that men of all ages

Combination BRUSH Offer
Only 5c
For Housewives
Who Want Brighter Homes

Dear Madam:
Here is a Brush, which in combination with our helpful Booklet "How to Paint" is yours for only 5c. It is a Brush of the latest type for painting or varnishing, 1 1/2 inches wide, 8 1/2 inches long with full black Chinese bristles set in rubber.

COLORFUL PICTURES
This Booklet, with pictures in colors, tells you how to paint, varnish, lacquer and enamel; how to stencil and stipple; how to paint a chair, a kitchen, or bathroom. It has color suggestions for rooms and furniture. It tells you, in easy steps, how you can quickly get real results with our paint products.

TO HELP YOU
Our reason in making this offer—We want the names of housewives who, from time to time, wish to brighten up their homes. We have other helpful literature to send them—new facts about the latest creations in paints and varnishes.

FROM A LEADER
This Company, The Glidden Company, has for generations been a leader in this line. The first Varnish Stain, Jap-A-Lac, was its development. The latest in enamels, varnishes, etc. has been perfected in its laboratories, and the greatest enamel of all, "Ripolin", perfected in Holland, is sold exclusively in this country by it.

YOU'LL LIKE THIS OFFER
We present to you this Brush and the colorful Booklet "How to Paint" for only 5c

Mrs. Wright Hostess To U. D. C.

The George B. Singletary Chapter U. D. C. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Robt. H. Wright Friday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. W. P. Moore, presided over the business session. Delegates were named to attend the district meeting at Tarboro.

Plans for Memorial Day were made and committees named to carry them out.

Calls for funds for the various causes of U. D. C. work were read and responded to.

The program was "Colonial Women," a paper written by Miss Edna Claire Stroud, but on account of the lengthy business session, it was postponed until next meeting.

The hostess served delicious refreshments.—Reported.

Bridge Tea For Mrs. Skinner

Yesterday afternoon at her home on Fifth street, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen was a charming hostess, honoring Mrs. Charles C. Skinner, Jr., a recent bride.

The home throughout was lovely with profusions of mixed spring flowers in various shades.

Bridge was played at seven attractively appointed tables.

Mrs. Skinner, honor guest, was remembered with a lovely gift, and was also given a blooming azalea for high score. Miss Elizabeth Bost was presented an attractive novelty for low score and Miss Clara Louise Moye, bride-elect, received an appropriate gift.

At five o'clock a number of additional guests were invited for an informal tea.

The dining room was especially attractive. The table was covered with an imported Chinese cloth and centered with a beautiful bowl of roses, lilies, snapdragons and daisies. Mrs. A. M. Moseley and Mrs. E. B. Ferguson seated at either end poured coffee. At another table Mrs. J. S. Ficklen and Mrs. R. B. Davis served an ice and other tempting refreshments.
