guess right on up until the morning of June 5.

Sanders' Mystery
As politicians here view it there is nothing in Sanders' call for a meeting of the National Committee which indicates definitely and decisively that he is determined to relinquish the chairmanship. He will remain in that post until his successor is chosen.

It requires a majority of 54 votes in the committee to name the chairman. There is anything but harmony now existing in the party. T. O. P. old guard, the forces of Herbert Hoover, and the Congressional group which survived the 1932 Roosevelt landslide are warring among themselves for control of the party machinery.

Any way one looks at it there is certain to be a mad scramble with Sanders having the advantage of being "in."

Safety Valve
It is known generally that petitioners seeking the ouster of Sanders have been circulated around quietly for some time. Who started them or how many names were obtained no one seems to know or will hazard a guess.

It is known also that as far back as last October Sanders himself sounded out some of the committeemen on the advisability of calling a session of the committee. It is reliably reported that all except one advised him to sit tight. This one suggested that it might be a good thing to go ahead and call the committee together and let those who had grievances "blow off steam."

That line of strategy may be what's back of the call for Chicago on June 5.

FIND BEE CONTAINS EXCESS OF ALCOHOL
Wilmington, N. C., May 16.—Results of analysis made by a commercial chemist showing at least six of the brands of beer being sold in Wilmington contain more than to 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight allowed by the State law were made public today by District Solicitor Woodus Kellum who asked for the tests. The analyses were started April 2 by Law & Company, after the consolidated board of health here had refused to make the analysis for Solicitor Kellum on the grounds such was not properly a duty of the health department.

Asked what he intended to do about the matter the solicitor declined a direct answer, but said: "Since I have been solicitor I have never condoned the violation of any law, either large or small." This was taken to indicate action within the near future.

ARE YOU A SAFE DRIVER?

Summer isn't far away when the streets and highways of the nation will be crowded with traffic. Fine dry weather will bring out thousands of motorists—and roads will resound again to the roar of motors.

Now is the time to ask yourself if you are a safe driver—and don't answer too hurriedly. You can give yourself a little quizz that will help. Are you thoroughly conversant with the driving laws of your state? Do you adapt the speed at which you drive, to local conditions—in other words, are you aware that 20 miles an hour is dangerously fast at times, and slow at others? Do you stick to your side of the road, and make certain that you can stop, under any circumstances, in the assured clear distance ahead? Are you careful not to pass on hills and curves?

Other questions of that kind will suggest themselves to you. But even if such a test, honestly answered, puts you in the safe driving status, you aren't through. How about your car? When were the tires, the brakes, the steering, the lights, last inspected by a good mechanic? A substantial percentage of motorists put off repairs till tomorrow—and sometimes that tomorrow never comes.

Last year was one of the worst in the history of the automobile so far as needless sacrifice of life and property was concerned. Every motorist should give himself a safe driving test now—and if he is uncertain as to how to do it, traffic departments and safety organizations exist to help him. Bring accidents down in 1934!

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—Republican politicians in the capital were refreshingly reminded of the fact that Everett Sanders was once secretary of Calvin Coolidge when they read his call for a meeting of the National Committee in Chicago on June 5.

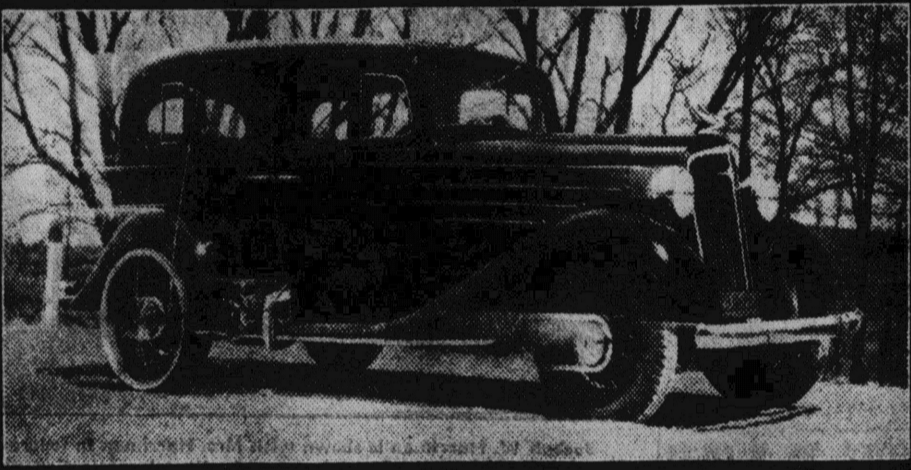

A parallel to the famous "I do not choose to run" statement is seen in the first paragraph of the committee chairman's announcement of his intention to retire from the party's helm.

"I have decided," Sanders wrote to members of the committee, "to tender my resignation . . . to take effect upon the election of my successor."

It is the "to take effect upon the election of my successor" which has set them all to guessing. And from all indications they will continue to

Now we ask you to Drive it only 5 miles and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car

WHY do you suppose Chevrolet keeps repeating, in all of its advertising, "Drive it only 5 miles"? Very frankly, here's the reason: Chevrolet engineers have tried out all the various makes of cars in today's low-price field. They have compared performance—on rough roads, in traffic, over hills, through sand and mud and water! And they have proved, to their complete satisfaction, the same things that hundreds of thousands of Chevrolet owners are proving in their daily driving: How much more smoothly a car travels with genuine, fully-enclosed Knee-Action. How much more comfortably it handles, with shock-proof steering. How much more restfully you ride, in a Fisher Body car. How much more safely you drive, with cable-controlled brakes. And how much finer performance and better economy are secured from an overhead-valve Six! In other words, Chevrolet engineers know for sure that the Chevrolet ride simply can't be matched by any other in the low-price field. They know it—hundreds of thousands of owners know it—and now we want you to know it too, before you make your final choice of a low-priced car. That's why we urge you to "Drive it only 5 miles"—and that's why we promise, "you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car."

JACKSON COUNTY MAN DECLARED AN OUTLAW. Sylva, May 16.—(AP)—Wes Bryson, alias Dick Bryson, of Cashiers Valley, Jackson county, was declared an outlaw in a proclamation issued in Waynesville Monday afternoon by Judge Felix A. Alley, resident judge of the 20th judicial district.

Judge Alley at the same time issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Bryson, who allegedly fired upon two men from ambush in Cashiers Valley Saturday morning. K. Bumgarner and Thomas A. Dillard, both of Cashiers Valley, were wounded by rifle bullets.

The proclamation of outlawry sets forth that Bryson wilfully and with intent to kill in a secret manner, assaulted and shot Bumgarner and Dillard and has made repeated threats in recent weeks that he proposed to kill the following nine men of Cashiers Valley: K. Bumgarner, Thomas A. Dillard, H. A. Pell, Sr., H. A. Pell, Jr., Thad Cloer, Ed Bumgarner, Warren Alexander, Chris Passmore and Weaver Swain.

Some of the passengers who were lost were trapped in their cabins. The "Lohi" was a vessel of 128 gross tons.

Legion Women Hold Meeting

Farmville, May 16.—Pleading for more vigorous action in the Auxiliary and analyzing the objectives of the announced program of the American Legion and its Auxiliary, Mrs. W. B. Absher of Wilkesboro, department president, declared that "It is a great time to be a member of the American Legion Auxiliary," in her address delivered at the annual meeting of the First Area, which was held here yesterday.

Emphasizing the necessity of the Auxiliary as a whole making mighty strides this year, she charged the members that, "we must keep step or fall out and let others go marching by under the flaming banner of service and a shining light of co-operation."

"Cooperation is not a new word, but it has a new meaning today—a new light, the same light that shines out from the wings of the Blue Eagle and holds the nation's welfare in its heart. Your cooperation holds the progress of our organization in its heart," said Mrs. Absher.

Pleading for action particularly in regard to child welfare, the president stressed the first responsibility of the Auxiliary as seeing "that the children of disabled veterans are educated and given an equal chance with other children. A greater army is needed this year if we are to carry out our program of greater service. We need a greater vision and fresh enthusiasm in this connection."

Mrs. W. B. Rodman Jr., of Washington, department vice-president of the Area, presided at the meeting held in the Methodist Church, opening with a short address and bringing it to a close with a round-table discussion in which many excellent suggestions were made and accepted.

Mrs. N. L. Alcock of Rocky Mount was nominated by the Area as its chairman, subject to the election at the State Convention to be held in Greensboro.

Reports were given of the work being done in the fifteen auxiliaries comprising the Area, of which the following towns had representatives present numbering eighty-five: Columbia, Farmville, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Scotland Neck, Stantonsburg, Snow Hill, Tarboro, Washington and Wilson.

The program was not as full as had been anticipated, owing to the unavoidable absence of Capt. Tom C. Daniels, department commander of the American Legion, and other prominent members of the Auxiliary, scheduled to speak at this time.

Mrs. R. S. McGeachy, of Greenville, past department president, and membership chairman of the Area, Mrs. Chas. L. Dunn of Scotland Neck, past Area president, and Mrs. W. M. Willis of the Farmville Auxiliary, who is district committeewoman, were present and made short talks.

The invocation was offered by Rev. H. L. Hendricks and the welcoming remarks was extended by Mrs. A. W. Bobbitt, president of the hostess Auxiliary, with the response being made by Mrs. D. M. Clark of Greenville.

A special musical program, rendered by Mrs. M. V. Jones, soloist, with Mrs. Haywood Smith as accompanist, and a quartet composed of Rev. L. R. Ennis, John and Elbert Holmes and C. F. Baucom, rendered an enjoyable musical program.

A luncheon was served in the basement dining room of the church at 1:30 o'clock.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Two men are found, dead, in Pierre Dufresne's splendid house. Although the evidence points to the fact that they shot each other, Sergeant Harper does not believe it. Then, from the reporter, Harold Doyle, Harper learns that Miss Dufresne was not where she was supposed to be at the time of the murder, and that someone has watched the Dufresne house from across the fence. He refuses to use his new evidence at once, however.

Chapter 19 THE ENVELOPES

"JUST the same, Sergeant, it would be a mighty handy weapon to swing over their heads," Lafferty said. "Ten to one it was somebody connected with this house who stood out there watching last night."

"Yes, I'll grant all that, but we'd still be aiming in the dark. We are not sure whether the marks on the other side of the wall were left by man or woman. They've been covered up too well by the later snow. On the other hand, their condition proves that they were made about the time Officer Hamill came along, for their condition is approximately the same. It may even be that his arrival caused this watcher to flee."

"The answer might be found in a certain room upstairs. You remember what Doyle told you—"

"You think it was Mrs. Dufresne for identification," was Harper's comment as he passed the list to Lafferty.

Another envelope yielded the prints made from the fingerprints found on various objects in the room—pieces of furniture, the liquor glass, the decanter, the cigarette package and the gun. Each photograph bore Jackson's identification of the mark as being that of the dead man.

The fingerprints of Officer Hamill were similarly certified as being correct. They appeared only on the gun which had been found lying under his hand. "All in order so far," Harper was forced to admit.

Next came two small cardboard boxes. The detective opened one, and from the midst of its packing of cotton wool extracted a scarred, twisted lump of metal. There was a tag fastened to it marked with several numbers.

"IS THAT one of the bullets?" Lafferty asked.

"Yes, this is the one that rubbed out our mystery man," Harper replied, examining the rifling grooves in the twisted bullet. There was a second metal pellet in the box, not quite as mis-shapen, but likewise tagged and bearing a splash of red paint on the bottom. This was the who was hidden behind the wall?" "How did you guess it?" Lafferty remarked sarcastically. "The weather last night wasn't exactly suitable for a pleasure stroll."

Harper nodded gravely. "Yes, it looks bad, but she has us blocked very nicely there. We can't do much until Dr. Ulrich lifts his embargo and then all the lady has to do is say that she was outside watching the fire. Evidence that some one was outside the house is not quite the same thing as proving there was some one inside while the crime was being committed, not with an unmarked expanse of snow between the two locations."

"Of course, we'll have to check up every one's whereabouts for last evening. The real key to the whole question lies in the identity of the man Hamill killed. I'm convinced he's not the absolute unknown they all claim he is. Donoghue threw out a hint of that, but Donoghue's going to be hard to handle."

Harper folded the sketch and put it away in his wallet. "Remember," he cautioned, "not a word about this. Now, let's give science a chance."

THEY sat down at the table side by side, and Harper spread out the first bundle of papers. There were six photographs in the lot, one of the fingerprints of the unidentified dead man's right hand, one of his left, and separate enlargements of the thumb and forefinger of each hand.

"Jackson cannot identify the fingerprints. They are not in our files. He is sending duplicate prints to other large cities and to the United States Bureau of Investigation."

Lafferty nodded approvingly. "That's a good idea."

The next package revealed a series of photographs showing the scene of the crime from various angles and pictures of the dead man in the armchair, both with and without his facial disguise.

Attached to these was Jackson's second report, giving the physical dimensions and characteristics of the victim of Hamill's gun, after the adapted and improved methods arising from the original system of Bertillon. Harper ran his eye down the divisions. "Not much help there

Grandpa Oversleeps

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER. "Well, I know you always tell me the truth," said Willy Nilly, "but I can't imagine who has been taking Grandpa's breakfast rolls each morning."

"He said he would be on the lookout for the thief and you'd better all stay away from there."

Willy Nilly had hardly finished speaking when Grandpa came walking up the steps.

"I overslept this morning," he said angrily. "To be sure that was my fault, but it's a mean, dishonest, wretched thing to steal anyone's breakfast rolls. I'd been looking forward to them."

"My animal friends all tell me that they haven't taken your rolls, Grandpa," said Willy Nilly.

"I've just come to tell you that although they were stolen this morning while I was asleep, it won't happen again. And when I catch the thief I'll not only punish him mildly, he's going to be punished so he'll never forget it as long as he lives—and if he does any tricks like that a second time, he won't live to tell about it."

The ducks, the bears, Rip, Top Notch and Christopher all shivered to hear Grandpa talk in this way, although each knew he was not guilty.

Grandpa left after this, but Top Notch was deciding so stinging. After all he had often shown what a good detective he could be. And Christopher was deciding "me" thing too. He was known for his discoveries. It would be dangerous to go near Grandpa's, but they would be careful. Nervously, each made his plans.

Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Victor L. Andrews, on Sunday afternoon at the family burying ground.

He is survived by his widow and seven children.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse. Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Because so many people know from having used it that Theodor's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

Kiwians To Meet Chicod On Thursday

Members of the Kiwanis Club will go to Chicod tomorrow afternoon to play the high school of the place in connection with commencement exercises.

It was said today that virtually all members of the team planned to make the trip, including some who have been more or less holdouts during the season.

Donald Conley, who has done all of the pitching for the locals this season, will again be on the mound and his twisters are expected to enable the clubmen to add another victory to their string. They have been defeated only one time this season and that was by the Greenville high school club several days ago. The score was 7-6—very close and very disconcerting to the former leaguers and college stars comprising the local club.

Chicod has a strong team this season and is expected to offer the Kiwanians plenty of competition, especially in view of the fact that the game is being played in connection with school finals.

Local Golfers Set For Visit To Ry. Mount

Greenville golfers will go to Rocky Mount Friday to play the golf team of that place. The contest will be in connection with the Eastern Carolina Golf Association tournament which has been in progress for some time now.

The Greenville club will go to the Railroad City with one more game to their credit, having trimmed Kingston here last week to the tune of 34 to 12. Some of the boys are really "strutting" following their victory over the Kingstonians and feel capable of taking on a few of the stars who have set the golfing world on fire with the brilliance of their successes.

However, they are not letting their cock-sureness interfere with their skill, and hope to take the Rocky Mount boys into camp by a comfortable margin. As usual, they will be served lunch before the contest opens on the Rocky Mount course.

Hooker Acquires Flanagan Interest In Local Store

Announcement was made today that W. E. Hooker has acquired the Flanagan-Buggy Co.'s interest in the Flanagan-Meeks Paint Co., and in the future will take an active part in the management of the business.

Hereafter, it was stated, the firm will operate as the Hooker-Meeks Hardware Co., and will continue in business at the same stand, 323 Evans street.

Mr. Hooker is a lifetime resident of this section and is connected with a number of business interests in Greenville. He is well known and liked, and said he will be glad at all times to greet his friends and acquaintances and will appreciate having them call on him.

E. T. Meeks, who has had charge of the store since its opening September 1, 1931, will continue in the same capacity.

Mr. Meeks has been a resident of Greenville since the beginning of the business. Prior to that time he had thirty years of experience as a traveling salesman in the paint and oil industry which gives him a thorough knowledge of the details of the business.

N. Y. Stock Market

STOCKS
New York, May 15.—(AP)—Financial markets were inclined today to wobble uneasily as traders and investors displayed no particular urge to take conspicuous position on the price argument. Transactions in the stocks during the greater part of the session were the slowest of the year to date, and the ticker tape for minutes at a time was almost motionless.

Quotations were narrow, although some of the metals lagged noticeably of yesterday's substantial gains. Commodities provided no special encouragement for a resumption of equities advance.

Wheat and other cereals were lower, but quiet. Rains in the drought-stricken districts were still proleptical. Cotton, rubber and silver were a little

Make Effort To End War.
London, May 16.—(AP)—The Associated Press was informed authoritatively today that a group of world powers, including the United States and Great Britain, planned to take concerted action to end the bloody warfare in the Chaco region between Paraguay and Bolivia. These powers are considering measures of repression which would include political, financial and economic phases.
The action is being considered here in Washington and in Geneva. It is regarded as possible that the League of Nations may take action shortly.

In Congress Today.
Washington, May 16.—(AP)—Congressional leaders were told today that President Roosevelt considers only five major bills must be passed before adjournment—industrial loans, extension of temporary bank deposit insurance, communications, regulatory tariffs and deficiency appropriations. The President called for the earliest possible adjournment, and June 5 was tentatively fixed.

Mr. Roosevelt also would like to see Congress pass his new housing plan as well as the commodities exchange and oil control bills, but after talking with him, House leaders said they believed these would not be allowed to stand in the way of adjournment.
It was understood the President planned to send a message shortly to Congress on unemployment insurance, old age pensions and workmen's compensation.
