BY WALTER C. BROWN
SYNOPSIS: Apparently two men, one a policeman and one a slinger, have killed each other in the breakfast room of Pierre Dufrance's house.

Chapter 22 MORE EVIDENCE

HARPER'S eyes took in the display of "exhibits" set out on the buffet. They stopped at the liquor glass from which the dead man had drunk, his fingerprints boldly revealed by the spray of fine powder.

Using his handkerchief as a shield, he picked them out, one by one, and held them against the light. The first four were clean and clear. The fifth brought an exclamation of triumph to his lips.

In the hall. It was Lafferty, bearing in his arms a bundle of clothing, topped by a felt hat. "Here they are, Steve," he cried eagerly, "every last piece—hanging up in Dufrance's wardrobe closet as neat and orderly as you please. Andrews spotted them right away."

The examination of the clothing further revealed that the labels had been ripped out, as several broken threads mutely testified. Harper, however, did find a marking around the false buttonhole on the left coat lapel which indicated that a fraternal pin or other emblem had been worn there for some time.

"The blunt-nosed bullet from Hamill's gun that was found on the floor simply could not have made that scar in the wood. The real murderer removed the original bullet and substituted one from Hamill's gun. Hamill was killed by the bullet from the gun found in the dead man's hand, there's no denying, but that gun was then held by other hands."

Friends of little Miss Frances Tucker will regret to learn that she is ill with measles.

On Friday evening at her home on Greene street, Mrs. H. A. White, in her usual gracious manner, was hostess at one of the prettiest and most elaborate of the many pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Agnes Gaskins and Miss Clara Louise Moye, brides-elect, Miss Virginia Jones and Miss Elizabeth Moore.

The home throughout presented a scene of loveliness, with profusions of snapdragons, painted daisies, gladioli, roses and various other flowers in pastel shades.

On arrival guests were greeted by the hostess, her daughter, Miss Dorothy White, and L. E. Tyndall, and presented to the honor guests.

Master Herbert White Lee presented the honor-guests with bouquets of sweetheart roses and sweet peas, and their fiances with bouquets of rosebuds.

Green and white was used in the dining room, which was especially pretty. The mantel and buffet were banked with snapdragons, gladioli, roses and larkspur, served white and green ices. Assisting were Miss Lelia Higgs, Mesdames E. S. Williams, H. H. Duncan, Phillip Goodson and Eugene Kirkpatrick.

At the conclusion of the games, the guests were invited into the dining room where the other members of the families were gathered to meet the guest of honor. Here Mrs. E. B. Higgs and Mrs. J. R. Moye, seated at the table, decorated with pink roses and larkspur, served white and green ices.

Little Jack Rock came in bearing a lovely tray of handkerchiefs from the guests. The honoree was presented with a piece of silver in her chosen pattern.

A delicious iced course was served with nuts and coffee.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB PLEASES AUDIENCE

The concert by the University Glee Club at the college last night was very enjoyable and high class.

The favorite glee club numbers were evidently the negro songs, and the spirited songs at the close. The piano numbers by John Hubert Liverman were received with great enthusiasm, especially his own compositions. The Mendelssohn number by the trio was well received. Thor Johnson, the violinist, is the director of the University little symphony, "Carolina Salon Ensemble."

Raymond Pink is the cellist, and Milton Mason the pianist.

The glee club sang the sacred songs, with which the program opened, with religious fervor and spirit, and caught the fire and feeling of the Russians in the three Russian songs. These, however, did not move the audience as much as "Swing Low," and "Oh, Mary Don't You Weep," sung softly, both according to the arrangements by Paul Weaver. The final group, Grieg's "Land-Sighting," Maunders' "Border Ballad," and a Bohemian folk song, "Reaper's Song," were splendidly sung. The glee club and ensemble will close their season by giving a joint concert at Duke University.

The director of the glee club is H. Grady Miller, Thomas Teer is accompanist.

The following are in the glee club: Messrs. Templeton, Lane, Aiken, Kendrick, Walker, Sawyer, Somers, Bateman, Barry, Griffin, Hunt, Clark, Wiggins, Gavin, Henderson, Briggs, Chapman, Shaffer, and Hicks.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

There will be a special service in celebration of Pentecost at the Christian Church at the eleven o'clock service tomorrow morning.

Definite goals have been set by which to measure the success of the plans for this service, which have been worked at for several weeks past.

Everything from anthem to sermon, has been planned to enable the worshippers to enter into the spirit and meaning of the celebration of the day on which the first Christian sermon was preached, thousands converted, and the way opened for the world-wide spread of the Gospel. It is hoped that every member of the congregation and many of the friends of the church will be present to share in this service.

Following is the program: Prelude: "Largo," by Handel—Sam Quinerly.

Doxology. Invocation. Hymn of Worship No. 19. Prayer.

Organ Meditation. Announcements.

Offertory: Violin Solo "London-derry Air"—Sam Quinerly. Solo: "Crossing the Bar"—James Savage.

Scripture Reading. Sermon by the Pastor. Invitation Hymn No. 51. Benediction.

'THE UNLIGHTED CROSS' AT EIGHTH STREET CHRISTIAN CHURCH TOMORROW

Tomorrow night at eight o'clock the religious drama, "The Unlighted Cross," will be presented in the Eighth Street Christian Church. This is an intensely interesting presentation of some of the problems facing a modern church and dramatically presents some of the difficulties and obstacles faced by the church of today when it seeks to make the principles of Jesus applicable to present-day problems. The story is of a young minister who endeavors to awaken in his congregation a sense of social responsibilities. Some of the wealthy members and others smugly satisfied with things as they are oppose the plans which he presents. The failure of their ability to control the religious development of their own children and the consequences which arise are graphically portrayed. All church people should learn the lessons implied in this story.

Those who will take part are: Nannie Rowlett, Margaret Thigpen, Lucille Thigpen, Victoria Jackson, Elsie Windham, Louise Briley, Marjorie West, Guy Forest, Spruill Spain, Sr., Robert Moye, Leo Burks, William Miller Burks, Taylor Carr, R. S. Fleming and Mr. Ryan. The public is cordially invited.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—The manner in which the Treasury set up its two billion dollar "stabilization fund"—authorized three months ago by Congress—even surpassed what administration officials have said all along might be expected.

Houdini in his heyday couldn't have done a better job of keeping 'em guessing than have Treasury officials. None but those in the inner sanctum know yet what has happened.

When Congress passed the gold reserve act on January 30, setting up this fund, it became one of the most discussed topics in Washington.

For weeks speculation concerning its operation appeared on the front pages and weeks after that mention of it could be found in the newspapers. Then it suddenly vanished.

At press conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary Morgenthau the subject was tabu. Questions at first were politely disregarded with a wave of the hand, then ignored.

Then bright and early on a Monday morning it was plunked into the laps of newsmen assigned to the Treasury in a way that left them first bewildered, then frantic and finally befuddled.

There was no formal announcement that the fund finally had been established. The information was contained in that for-page mass of figures known as the "Daily Treasury Settlement." A new book-keeping entry had been made.

When the move to devalue the dollar (by means of which the "stabilization fund" was set up) was authorized, the Treasury carried it on its books as a revenue item, along with receipts, excise taxes and the like.

Then a second shift was made from the revenue column to another general heading known as "trust funds."

They're Still Mum

Then came the third change—a shift to a new heading known as the "Exchange Stabilization Fund"—which for the first time gave official cognizance to the designation originally applied in the act passed by Congress.

The total sum of $1,800,000,000 was entered to the credit of the "Exchange Stabilization Fund." As far as can be determined, the other $200,000,000 of the two billion dollars has been placed as a credit to the Treasury in the New York Federal Reserve Bank where it can be drawn upon for the purposes set forth in the act creating the fund; namely, to enable the government to deal in gold, foreign currencies and such other instruments of credit and securities as may be deemed necessary to stabilize the exchange value of the dollar.

Whether this is what the administration has in mind remains to be seen. Treasury officials are as mum now as they were the day Congress authorized the fund.

AAA Officials Look At Record

By CARL C. CRANMER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The end of the first year under AAA finds the Department of Agriculture officials wondering if their scheme of controlled production with benefit payments may not be working too well.

When President Roosevelt, on May 12, 1933, signed the agricultural adjustment act, Secretary Wallace warned against expecting "wonders overnight."

Almost the first result was the announcement of the farmers' holiday association that a strike in the Mid-West set for midnight that night had been called off to give the new law a chance.

Almost before the ink was dry on the President's signature Secretary Wallace had gone into conference with officials of the Chicago dairy industry, and had called other pepper Grandpa had thrown around. I hurried for home and so did Top Notch. It was only when I got there that I realized what a narrow escape Top Notch had had, and that Grandpa had been knocked to the ground. I thought I would return to Grandpa's and have a look.

"Just as I flew over his place I saw an old goat behind the well where he was eating the rolls—bag and all. He had left one on the doorstep but thought he had better not return for it.

"He told me how he had butted Grandpa, when he had gone after Top Notch. I said that in return for saving Top Notch he had better take my advice and go away, as I knew what Grandpa had said he would do to the thief. So he's quite far away now. I went along with him for a little distance. He won't come back. He likes to wander around the country.

Grandpa was annoyed to find that a goat had butted him and had got the better of him, but he was thankful that no more rolls would be stolen.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Between train rides recently I encountered the slim, quizzical young man who has taken charge of athletics at Notre Dame—Elmer Layden.

Anybody who thinks Elmer went back to South Bend simply to rally the gridiron forces has the wrong idea. Layden is handling the white show and covering a lot of territory in the process. He led the track squad to Philadelphia for the Penn relays, then went off to look after the baseball team. But he was willing to talk a bit about football, since I insisted upon it.

"Spring practice went off with a lot of enthusiasm but we still are uncertain in the backfield and we miss those tackles, especially Ed Krause," said Layden. "Fellows like that cannot be replaced on short notice. Krause could be off form and still play the best tackle in the country. I don't mind telling you I'd like to have a quarterback of Carideo's type in there. But who wouldn't?"

Tough For Old Mizou

Speaking of Carideo reminds us that Confidential Agent No. 7 reports the ex-Notre Dame All-America quarterback and his ex-Puerco co-worker, Elmer (Red) Slight, coaches of football "on the spot" as coaches of football at the University of Missouri.

Cardieo, as head coach and Slight, as line coach, were signed two years ago when Missouri football was at low ebb. The administration put up a fine field house, named after its athletics director, C. L. Brewer, an old-time Wisconsin star, and arranged a winter program to bring shoobly athletes to Columbia for visits calculated to fire their enthusiasm to become Tiger fledglings.

The boys came, all right, but after looking over the excellent plant and fine educational inducements, they went elsewhere to pursue their athletics specialties; in short, to the institutions which were doing the more practical missionary work of putting jobs "on the line."

The consequence of a dearth of talent was that of Carideo's team in two seasons won only two games. They defeated Oklahoma in 1932, much to everybody's surprise, and beat Central College of Fayette, Mo., last fall. Among the team which beat Missouri in 1933 was the North-east Missouri Teachers of Kirksville.

One More Chance

Alumni outrages for Carideo's scalp and a "new deal" were loudly insisted. The editor of the campus weekly, in typical campus weekly fashion, espoused the anti-Carideo cause, the effect of which was to rally support for Carideo and cause university authorities to decide he deserved another chance.

The feeling is there will be a shake-up if Carideo does not produce better results this fall, even though his material admittedly is none too promising.

Probably closer to the fact is the likelihood that the former Notre Dame star will quit of his own volition if he doesn't make progress this year. Nobody expects or demands that Missouri win the Big Six championship, but the season will be regarded as a success if some outstanding rival, such as Kansas, can be bowled over.

HIGH POINT BEATEN BY GREENVILLE TEACHERS

High Point, N. C., May 19.—(AP)—High Point College closed its 1934 baseball campaign yesterday afternoon, bowing to Eastern Carolina Teachers College, 11 to 7.

High Point's early lead was wiped out by a five-run plunge by E. C. T. C. in the fourth inning.

Only three hits were made by the visitors, but they coupled these with eight errors and bad judgment on the part of the Panthers to take the game by a four-run margin.

ended by agreement of workers to return to duty pending arbitration of grievances over wages and hours striking tugmen at other Great Lake ports are expected to do likewise.

New strike threats arose at Toledo and Cincinnati. At Toledo the Central Labor Union's approval of plans for a general strike in sympathy with a walkout of 1,900 automobile workers and 500 employees of the Toledo-Edison Company, tentatively authorized the strike.

Raps Britain For Stand On Far East Issue

"It looks," the official said, "as though Great Britain is moving in the direction of an ally to Japan to counterbalance the Chaco-American rapprochement. However, the Chinese hope this is not true, for Britain should line-up with the United States and thus hold a balance of power over Japan.

you," Senator McKeller of Tennessee, asked Hurley.

"I did," Hurley replied. "Why?" queried McKeller.

"Because I was ordered to do so by the assistant attorney general, William Stanley, and I had to do it."

Reynolds reviewed for the committee a call he said he and Bailey who was not present at the hearing, paid on Hurley in the report of the Patton appointment.

Four Killed in Blast

Painesville, O., May 19.—(AP)—Four persons were believed killed and three others were seriously wounded today when an explosion of undetermined origin wrecked the plant of the Bronze Power Works one mile east of here on Route 20.

The plant manufactures power used in painting, but was stired with explosive chemicals, police said which prevented firemen from turning water or any other liquid on the flames.

First reports to the police said only seven persons were in the building at the time of the blast. Three who were extricated were taken to hospitals in such serious condition from burns they were unable to describe what happened.

Police, firemen and sheriff's deputies rushed to the scene with the first alarm. Police headquarters reported they were forced to resort to shoveling dirt up to the base of the flames in an effort to bring the fire under control.

Whether the workmen caught in the building were dead or alive police were unable to determine immediately, but they expressed doubt the men could still be alive.

Oppose Housing Bill

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—Indications of disinclination in Congress to enact the administration housing bill before adjournment were combatted today by spirited advocacy of that reemployment device.

Both branches were in recess and numerous legislators were week-ending out of town, but this did not detract a whit from the fervor of Secretary Perkins in testimony before a Senate committee that a plan to encourage home building and repair is a most essential feature of the recovery program.

Joining her was Charles Edison, son of the late inventor, who is New York director for the National Emergency Council. He said that if newer breadlines were not to be formed there was need of fortifying the building trade.

Seek Arms Embargo

Geneva, May 19.—(AP)—The council of the League of Nations today unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the Chaco committee to consult arms exporting countries for an embargo on shipments of arms and munitions to Bolivia and Paraguay.

Representatives of the two warring countries sat at the council table but did not speak.

The resolution was adopted in public session. It had been presented only a few minutes previously.

League jurists were to draw up definite proposal to be cabled immediately to the various governments whose co-operation is being sought. Settlement of the Chaco dispute is also requested in the resolution. It urged Paraguay and Bolivia to re-examine the resolution proposed by the league commission toward some possibility for peace. Both countries have rejected the council formula.

Dillinger Indicted

Madison, Wis., May 19.—(AP)—A federal grand jury today returned indictments against John Dillinger, Indiana desperado, and nine of his companions, four of whom are women, charging them with harboring and concealing persons sought by the Department of Justice.

Although accused of bank robberies, jail breaking and jail delivery and other criminal acts, the only federal charge against Dillinger here to date was violation of the Dier act prohibiting the transportation of stolen automobiles. Dillinger used the sheriff's car in his getaway after escaping from the Crown Point, Ind., county jail.

The grand jury submitted its report to Judge Patrick Stone in U. S. District Court.

Flag Pole Cat

High Point, N. C.—(AP)—A gray cat, name and ownership unknown, has every right to claim the championship as a feline flag-pole sitter.

A dog chased her to the top of a tall electric light post and she sat there two days. Finally a lineman rescued her.

Livestock experts advise that young pigs be fed shelled corn in addition to the milk from the sow's udder.
