SAY VINSON BILL WOULD HURT GROWERS

Department of Agriculture Sees Danger To Makers Of 10c Cigarettes Also

Washington, D. C., May 26.—(AP)—A belief that the Vinson bill for a horizontal 40 per cent reduction in tobacco taxes would be contrary to the best interests of flue-cured and burley tobacco growers is expressed by Department of Agriculture officials.

Reporting statements made to members of the House Ways and Means Committee and at hearings on the bill they declared such a reduction would probably force manufacturers of present ten cent cigarettes out of business and eliminate their demand for tobacco.

Tobacco growers gain most by competition for their products, officials said, and elimination of the independent manufacturers might mean a return of virtual monopoly of the market by manufacturers of 15 cent brands.

As a compromise department spokesman proposed a graduated tax of $2 a thousand on present 15 cent brands and $1.70 per thousand on present 10 cent brands to enable manufacturers of the latter to sell at fair profit on the basis of two packages for 15 cents.

Division of the tax rate would not affect processing taxes now levied on tobacco since they are absorbed by manufacturers and would probably continue to be, they added.

If the Vinson bill should pass and consumption of tobacco be increased by an estimated 40,000,000 pounds under lower prices there would still be need for the present production control plans of the Farm Administration, officials said.

They pointed out that a surplus of 40,000,000 pounds is already on hand and present efforts seek to hold production this year to normal demand. It was also added that the present program is more or less temporary and quite flexible.

PARAMORE IS GIVEN VERDICT IN CIVIL COURT

Pitt County Farmer Wins Suit for $1,500 Against Fire Insurance Association.

S. A. Paramore, Pitt County man, was awarded a verdict for $1,500 against the Farmers Mutual Fire Association by a jury in the civil term of Superior Court here yesterday afternoon.

The case was begun the day before and was not completed until late yesterday afternoon.

The insurance association refused to pay the policy, contending that Paramore had permitted it to lapse by reason of non-payment of the premium.

Paramore admitted he had not paid, but said he did not recall getting notice concerning payment of the first assessment. He did admit, however, receiving notice of assessment about six months later, and took it for granted he had sixty days of grace.

In the meantime the insured property was destroyed by fire. Paramore immediately went to the association offices to make payment, but it was refused on the ground he had not paid his premium.

Court action was started shortly afterward and the jury yesterday afternoon settled the argument in favor of the plaintiff.

Court adjourned until Monday morning following completion of the case. Records in the office of J. P. Harrington, clerk of court, showed today that approximately two dozen actions were completed during the first week of the two-week term of court. Most were disposed of through the compromise route.

Forty-odd cases are to be considered next week, and there is every indication the bulk of the calendar will be out of the way when the time for adjournment comes the end of the week.

Grand Jury Probe Looms In Hooker Money Theft

A grand jury investigation loomed today into the theft of $8,360 from the lock box of S. T. Hooker in the State Bank and Trust Company, it was disclosed today.

D. M. Clark, solicitor of the Fifth Judicial District, who returned to his home here last night, declared that although he had not had an opportunity to discuss the theft with principals in the case, on the basis of information obtained on the streets, it was his intention as solicitor to cause the matter to be brought before the grand jury for complete investigation and action by that body.

It was revealed here Wednesday afternoon that $8,100 of the money had been returned to Mr. Hooker following an investigation launched by Chief of Police George Clark. It was rumored at the time that Mr. Hooker and the police chief agreed not to expose the party or parties responsible for the theft if they would return the money.

A representative of The Daily Reflector interviewed Chief Clark and was referred to Mr. Hooker. He would have nothing to say other than a part of the money had been returned. He declared State Bank and Trust Company was in no way connected with the affair.

The reporter was then told to see Chief Clark for any further information, but that official when approached a second time, said: "There is no further information to be given other than Mr. Hooker has recovered most of his money."

He again declined to reveal the name of the guilty party and said so far as he knew there would be no further legal action taken in the case.

The money allegedly disappeared from the lock box between March 28 and April 27, and upon discovering the theft, Mr. Hooker immediately notified the police department. The chief, it was said, was trailed through fingerprint identification and suspicion.

NEGRO HELD FOR LARCENY

Charlie Higgins Held For County Court After Stealing Suit Of Clothes

Charlie Higgins, colored, decided he needed another suit of clothes to complete his wardrobe, and police said he went to the home of Roosevelt Joyner while the family was away and walked off with one of Roosevelt's best suits.

Roosevelt reported the theft to the police, and before Higgins hardly had time to try on his ill-gotten possession, he was nabbed by the police.

This morning he was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor R. C. Flanagan and bound over to the next sitting of the County Court under bond of $200. He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail to await final disposition of his case.

The case was the highlight of this morning's session of police court, only two or three other minor matters coming up for consideration.

HEALTH QUEEN PRESENTED TO CLUBMEN HERE

Ryan Calls Attention of Kiwanians to Seriousness of Juvenile Delinquency.

Members of the Kiwanis Club meeting in regular session at the Women's Club last night were afforded the opportunity of gazing upon a real queen—Miss Pearl Ward Barnhill, of Pactolus, who was recently chosen as health queen of Pitt County.

Miss Barnhill was presented to the club by Miss Ethel Nice, Home Demonstration Director of this county, who explained that the new queen was chosen from among more than 500 4-H Club girls from all sections of the county in elimination contests conducted from time to time during the last several months.

Miss Barnhill rated 100 per cent when she went through the final tests here last Friday, and will represent the county at the district health contest to be conducted in some city yet to be named during the latter part of the summer.

Should she win in the district contest she will have the honor of representing the county in a State-wide contest at Raleigh.

The program was in charge of Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, who also delivered the principal address of the evening. The speaker realized at the outset that his part of the program had been eclipsed by presentation of the health queen, but he delved into his subject, "A Civic Responsibility," in his usual vigorous style, bringing out some startling facts concerning the social decadence manifesting itself among some of the youth of the city.

He presented transcripts from 26 different cases of youths whose delinquencies range all the way from lying and drinking to outright thievery. He said they were from elementary schools of the city and had proved problems beyond the solution of the school system because of lack of time and money to deal individually with such cases.

He called attention of the Kiwanians to their responsibility in an effort to rectify the situation. He saw only one hope and that through the employment of a trained social worker to co-operate with the public school system in minimizing the wave of lawlessness among such students.

He declared the church nor the homes could handle the situation. The parents in such homes, in many instances, he asserted, are as bad as the children themselves and the churches are not given sufficient time to contact them properly.

He urged an awakening of the various organizations of the city to the seriousness of the situation, and advocated the sending of a delegation before the board of aldermen to ask for a supplement to the school funds so that a trained worker or workers might be employed to deal with the problem.

He estimated it would be an outright saving to the city in that each of the criminally inclined children would destroy several times more property than represented in fund set aside for such work.

Berry Bostic, who has an incomparable "cornfield" bass, decided last night he could sing and called on Miss Agnes Fullilove to aid him in a duet involving that old, old melody, "Reuben, Reuben, I Been Thinking." Accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., club pianist, Berry was so far outshone by his companion that he didn't feel much like raising another tune.

Dr. McGeech called attention to the committee to appear before the Board of County Commissioners the first Monday in June to ask for a contribution to the Sheppard Memorial Library Fund, and asked all members to be present.

PARTRICK WILL DELIVER HIGH FINALS SERMON

Raleigh Minister to Address Graduating Class Here Tomorrow Night 8 O'clock.

Rev. Theodore Partrick, of Raleigh, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon before members of the graduating class of Greenville high school in the high school auditorium tomorrow evening at eight o'clock.

Graduating exercises will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Cambus building of East Carolina Teachers College, and the literary address will be delivered by Dr. W. K. Green, dean of the Liberal Arts College of Duke University. The graduating class of approximately 75 young men and women will be awarded diplomas by J. L. Little, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Greenville public schools.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of schools, will make announcement of awards and honors for the year.

Commencement season actually got under way last night with presentation of the annual senior class play in the high school auditorium. The play entitled, "You're Telling Me," was probably one of the best presented in years and the best presented in years and the best presented in years.

Between the acts the audience was given an opportunity to learn something about what has been accomplished in the realm of music also.

The high school orchestra under direction of E. T. Roberson rendered numbers prior to and during the performance. In addition, some of the youthful singers who won first place in the State-wide music contest at Greensboro several weeks ago, were permitted to display their talent. Gus Forbes and Edward Conway appeared in a duet and were heartily applauded.

Miss Helen Phelps and Gus Forbes later appeared in solo numbers, and their fine young voices made a very favorable impression upon the audience.

The program tomorrow night will consist of processional by the high school orchestra; hymn, "Stand Up For Jesus"; invocation, Rev. W. A. Ryan; responsive reading, Boys' Glee Club; "Soldiers of the Captain"; Scripture Reading; mixed chorus, "Open Our Eyes"; sermon by Rev. Mr. Partrick; song, "Now the Day Is Over"; and benediction, Rev. W. A. Ryan.

MAN NABBED BY POLICE ON ARSON CHARGE

Military Passes Issued Today to People Going Into Strike Zone; Toledo Machine Gun Company Called Into Action as Menace of Fire Causes Troops to Take Extra Precautions

Toledo, O., May 26.—(AP)—Militiamen tighten their lines about the riot zone of the Electric Auto-Lite plant today frankly worried over a fire menace as one man was booked on an arson charge.

A man who gave his name as Thomas Mayer, 26, was arrested by National Guardsmen in the area where renewed rifle fire broke out early today in the wake of strikers' rejection of a peace proposal. His arrest followed an investigation of a series of incendiary fires during the night.

A. F. Caritz, district fire chief, said most of a dozen alarms were false by that a box-car and two houses had been fired with oil waste. The flames were extinguished quickly.

Military passes were being issued this morning for the first time to newspapermen and others who wished to enter the riot zone. Meanwhile orders were issued for the Toledo Machine Gun cavalry troops which had been holding itself in readiness for just such duty to proceed with horses and guns to the downtown armory.

Absence of rioters this morning enabled the soldiers to police the streets and pick up bricks, stones, bottles and other missiles which covered almost every foot of ground in the area.

SLAIN MAN IS BURIED TODAY

Funeral For Casey Cade, Killed by Ben Gwaltney Yesterday, Held Near Snow Hill

Funeral services for Casey Cade, 28-year-old automobile mechanic, who was allegedly slain by Ben Frank Gwaltney, 40, in an altercation early Friday morning, will be conducted from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cade, near Snow Hill, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Final rites will be in charge of Rev. Henry Sawyer, Free Will Baptist minister, and burial will be made near the home of his parents.

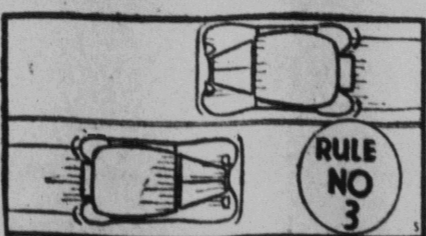

A coroner's jury yesterday investigated the death of young Cade and declared he came to his death at the hands of Ben Frank Gwaltney and ordered that Gwaltney be held without bond.

Cade is survived by his parents and six brothers, Leslie, Robert, Parrott, and Lacy, of Pitt County; Raymond, of Raleigh, and Arnold, of Rocky Mount.

Cade, officers said, was working on an automobile at the home of R. H. Coggins when he and Gwaltney engaged in an altercation over some meat Gwaltney alleged Casey had stolen. Conflicting statements said Cade chased Gwaltney with a pair of pliers and that Gwaltney went to Coggins' home, obtained a shotgun and returned to within a few feet of where Cade was working and emptied a load in the mechanic's stomach. Cade died on the way to the hospital.

Coggins fled from the scene of the slaying, but later surrendered to county officers.

NOT DROPPED YET

The announcement by Solicitor Clark that he will see to it that the grand jury investigates the recent theft of over $8,000 here, for the return of which the thief has apparently been promised immunity from prosecution, will no doubt meet with the approval of the law-abiding citizens of this county. No criminal should be permitted to get away with a crime like this without punishment simply because, when caught, he refunds the bulk of the stolen loot, and certainly the people of Pitt County have not reached the stage that they are willing for criminals to be traded with by officers of the law on such a basis.

HOW LONG WILL WE PUT UP WITH THIS?

Of course this is just gossip picked up along our streets, but those close to the political situation in Pitt County know just how near such gossip approaches the truth.

One visitor asked us as to how the various candidates stood in his precinct, replied that if "So and So" had as much money to spend in the community as another candidate there would be no question but that he would walk away with the biggest vote. Asked as to the prospects of a certain candidate in another race, he replied that one of the candidates had gone into the township, donated $150 each to two of the precinct bosses upon the promise of 50 per cent of the votes in the precinct, with another $150 each to be paid in case the vote reached 60 per cent. This, the speaker said, in his opinion, was bad politics because the candidate had paid all his money to two of the ward politicians and that meant the leaving out in the cold of others who usually received pay for their work, who would of course, work against him because they had received none of the money.

Talking to another man who is close to one of the present candidates and who has seen county politics from the inside, stated that at every turn of the hand the candidate was being seized by the petty politicians from various sections of the county, for hand-outs or loans that would never be repaid, and that if these pleas were turned down it meant that those so turned down would become ardent workers for an opposing candidate. Every candidate who has ever entered a race in this county knows that this is one of the greatest and most costly nuisances connected with a campaign and yet they have to put up with it if the candidate hopes to get elected. These are just a few remarks that we have heard regarding the politics in this county. Idle gossip, you might say, but if you will look into the matter you will find that such things probably do and are taking place in Pitt County campaigns. We bring these things before the voters of the county, not in an effort to help or hurt any candidate, but in the hope that the voters in the various sections of the county will study for themselves the qualifications of the candidates and vote their own wishes in the matter rather than to listen to the precinct politicians who take it upon themselves every two years at election time to control the vote in their precincts and sell their services and their influence to the highest bidder.

Unless the voters in Pitt County break away from the evils that now surround our primaries the day is not far distant when good citizens will refuse to enter the race for office and the county will be turned over lock, stock and barrel, to the petty politicians.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE BY WALTER C. BROWN

Harper moved on quietly, smiling to himself as he unlocked the door to the breakfast-room. He had no doubt but that the master of the house had missed the piece of twine and was searching for it.

It was getting on toward noon and Harper shut the door of the breakfast-room behind him and sat down at his work-table to re-arrange his plans in accordance with the vital changes the last few hours had made in the case.

The case had now been in Harper's hands for something like fourteen hours and he had no need to apologize for the progress made.

There was not the slightest doubt in his mind that some one still present in this house had planned and executed this whole scheme. The difficulty would arise in linking one of them to the facts so long as the identity of the masquerader remained unrevealed. It was impossible to assign a motive out of their slender knowledge.

At least four of the eight persons in the Dufresne household were under direct suspicion in Harper's mind. He was mulling over these various personalities, as they had revealed themselves to his observation under different phases, when ing up and down, head bent, eyes on the floor, hands thrust deep into his pockets. Harper moved on quietly, smiling to himself as he unlocked the door to the breakfast-room. He had no doubt but that the master of the house had missed the piece of twine and was searching for it.

Chapter 28 WET STRING

"NO LUCK, Steve," Lafferty reported, finished with his part of the search.

"What've you got there?" "Just a length of twine," Lafferty answered. "I picked it off the door, near the window-seat."

"The window-seat? That's where Dufresne and Macklin were sitting. Let's have a look at it."

Lafferty handed it over, with a chuckle. "Big clue?" he chaffed.

But Harper was paying little attention to his assistant's joking. He roughly estimated the length of the twine at about twelve feet. "Dufresne has been wearing that lounging robe all morning," he mused. "It could have fallen from his pocket."

He ran the tough cord through his fingers. "It feels wet here in the center, Jack."

Harper glanced into the drawing room. he was interrupted by a sharp knock on the door.

A BRISK young man wearing a gray overcoat and hat entered, and, behind him, a short, dark-skinned man bundled up in a heavy fur coat. "I'm Harris, of the Central Bureau," said the young man, saluting. "Detective Lafferty sent me out to trace that disguise. This is Mr. Pagliotti, who has a theatrical supply house on Twelfth Street. He can identify the beard and the man who bought it."

Harris handed over a tissue-wrapped package, inside of which were the beard and goatee as well as Jackson's photographs of the dead man.

Harper turned to the plump Italian. "Can you identify these as having come from your stock?" "Yes, sir. We make everything in our own workrooms and I'd know our goods anywhere. The finest workmanship, sir." Pagliotti spoke with very little accent, his bearing confident, his black eyes gleam with intelligent curiosity.

Harper held up one of the pictures. "Is this the man who made the purchase?" "Yes, sir. I remember him distinctly."

"When was the purchase made?" "Your man asked me that. I replied, early in October."

"October?" exclaimed Harper, half rising in his chair.

"October," Pagliotti repeated. "I recalled that it had been some time before our Halloween rush. We keep a record of all cash sales, as this one was, so I looked up the original slip. Here it is."

The Italian proudly produced a cash sales voucher. The date was October tenth, just three months to the day before the masquerader met his death while wearing this purchase. Here was a vital fact that was at variance with all other known features of the case.

"Are you quite sure about all this?" "I am positive," replied Pagliotti, promptly. "There is more to be told, an incident that fixed itself in my memory."

Mr. Pagliotti gives Harper more important information, Monday.

PUBLIC FORUM

DISCUSSING PROBLEMS OF INTEREST TO THIS COMMUNITY. IN ALL CASES NAMES MUST ACCOMPANY ANY COMMUNICATION. Please Make Your Discussion As Short As Possible.

THE PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED

Wishing to congratulate those candidates who have replied so promptly to the questions asked by the Reflector, please let me express some thoughts along these lines.

We all know that a public office is a public trust, consequently a public officer is a servant of the people, therefore his or her sole aim in seeking office should be an ardent desire to serve the people to the best of his or her ability in every way, at all times and in all places. Let this thought dominate every candidate.

In studying these answers I find nothing particularly objectionable, but some of them are not as vehement as I (if I may be allowed an objection) would like them.

Let us consider first, the schools—how shall the standard of our schools be raised? There is a strong movement tending to eliminate the small country high schools. Experience, observation and history all tell us plainly that such elimination will be fatal to the cultural development, and to our progress toward good citizenship in the country. While all these candidates are from the towns, yet we hope they may see this in the right perspective and settle this question once for all. Our very civilization depends on an intelligent, educated country people. We must keep these high schools or we perish.

Prohibition and its enforcement is a very live question and should be given the strictest attention—its enemies are ever alert—we must not lay aside our armor.

Legalized gambling? Were there not two counties in our last Legislature that enacted laws to allow gambling? Was there not later much wrangling over these measures? Has it not been ruled in our own county that slot machines are not gambling devices? What are they? Time and space forbid further comment. Whoever is elected to our next General Assembly let him or her go with the determination to serve the people with all their heart and with all their strength.

MISS MOYE HONORED AT BRIDGE PARTY

Complimenting Miss Clara Louise Moye, who on June 14th will marry Aubrey Shackell of East Orange, N. J., Mrs. Thomas Clifton charmingly entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon.

Tables were placed in the living rooms in a lovely setting of pink and white roses. The place for the honor guest was marked with a shoulderette of sweetheart roses, and plaques for other guests with bridal tulle. Concluding the game Miss Jesse Moye was given a pretty pink and white wedding cake on a hobnail plate, for high score. For runner-up, Mrs. Reid Perkins was given imported guest soap. Miss Moye was remembered with a gift of lingerie.

Guests were then invited into the dining room where the bridal motif of green and white was used. The table was especially pretty, covered with a cloth of hand-made lace, enlivened with a green crystal bowl of bride's roses, flanked by green holders with white tapes.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Pat Daughtridge, Miss Mary Harding and Miss Sonora Moore, served a delectable ice course and salted nuts. The plates were decorated with roses.

Leaves For Washington.

Mrs. Beckwith Speaks At College.

Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith gave a delightful talk to the Y. W. C. A. of the college last night at their regular weekly meeting. She gave interesting reminiscences of the early days of the college and the story of the beginning of the Y. W. C. A., the first student organization on the campus. She contrasted the splendid equipment and opportunities for varied social and extracurricular life the students now have with the more meager life of the first days, but she made them feel there were so many compensations in those days. She brought in amusing incidents, sprinkled her talk with flashes of wit, and bits of philosophy, she drove home some good sound lessons about taking advantage of the opportunities at hand.

Miss Elva Brown sang a beautiful solo, "Others."

Mrs. Ellis Entertains.

Mrs. L. P. Ellis entertained Thursday at a bridge party for her niece, Miss Marguerite Yaeger of San Antonio, Texas, who has spent the winter with her while attending E. C. T. C. Wells, the prize of high score was awarded Miss Ursula Marshall and low score and consolation to Miss Yvonne McLawhorn. Miss Yaeger was then presented a lovely corsage made up of handkerchiefs given to her by the guests and the hostess. The entire party was a surprise to the honored guest.

Those present who are students of E. C. T. C., were, Misses Vivian Carolus, Benita Beldin, Anne Le Due Hartman, Annie Lee Jones, Ursula Marshall, Sue Warren, Catherine Shute, Yvonne Brown McLawhorn, Frances Willard, Louise Curran, Imogene Ricks. D. O. K. K. MAKE MERRY IN ROCKY MOUNT

Zeta Temple 248 of the Dramatic Knights of Korass held its spring ceremonial in Rocky Mount yesterday. More than 200 Dokies from all over the eastern part of the state were present for the occasion. Registration of candidates was completed during the afternoon and at six o'clock supper was served at Bob Melton's place. Eighth Order work was put on at the Masonic Temple beginning at seven o'clock and lasting until eleven.

A class of 12 candidates were greeted by "Bolivar" and the old fellow being rather starved out during the past two years certainly devoured the fresh meat in short order. In fact Bolivar is now on the war path and is expecting lots of fresh meat for an early fall ceremonial.

Dokies who were not present missed the treat of a lifetime. However, plans are under way for another ceremonial soon, and if you could not be present last night then get ready for the next one.—Reported.

Honey Bear Comes

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER Honey Bear had heard from Christopher that the cubs were playing around Grandpa Grouchy Galump's, but that they couldn't get into trouble because Grandpa was away. And, too, he had looked and covered everything up so completely.

She had been taking a nap after her marketing trip when the cries of Blacky came to her.

She got up with a start. What could have happened? She hurried over to Grandpa's place, and saw Blacky leaning over the side of the well, crying for all he was worth.

"Do you see him?" Blacky moaned. "He is 'way down the well, and it's so steep he can't get up."

Honey Bear looked down. At first she couldn't see Jupiter as her eyes weren't used to the darkness, but Jupiter had heard his mother's voice, and the poor little Bear felt that Honey Bear, his dear mother, would save him.

"Are you hurt, my precious cub?" she called down the well.

"No-o-o, I don't think so," answered Jupiter. "But I'm frightened. The bucket came all the way down and the well is so deep. It's so dark here and the sides of the well are so slippery. Will you be able to get me up, Mama? And the bucket has water in it, too, now, I'm cold."

His voice sounded so small. Honey Bear must think, and think quickly.

"I'll save you," she called down to Jupiter. "I'll save my little Jupiter. The cub felt better now.

But how was she to do it? She must save him—but how?

Rotes To Meet Kiwanians On Next Tuesday

The long-heralded game between Kiwanians and Rotarians will be played at Third Street school grounds next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, it was announced today.

The game had originally been set for Wednesday afternoon, but when it was found that some of the Kiwanis players would be out of town on that day, the date was moved up to Tuesday.

The Kiwanians have three wins and one loss to their credit this season and are confident of turning the Rotes back by a comfortable margin.

However, the Rote team is an unknown quantity at this time, and promises to spring something of a surprise. Practice was called by the manager of the team this week so the boys may get limbered up for the fray.

Stiff limbs, headaches and back-aches usually follow games between the two clubs, especially among those who are not as young as they used to be, and the forthcoming encounter is expected to be no exception to the rule.

The public has been urged to turn out in large numbers to the game and help raise funds for the high school athletic organization.

To Select Court Nominee.
Asheville, May 26.—(AP)—Chairman J. Wallace Winborne of Marion, today called the State Democratic Executive Committee to meet in Raleigh at eight o'clock Thursday night to select a party nominee for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Michael Schenck of Hendersonville, has been named to the unexpired term of Associate Justice William Adams who died Sunday. Justice Adams was the party's nominee to succeed himself.

Mr. Winborne explained the nominee for Superior Court judge of the 18th district will be selected by the executive committee of the judicial district.

Judge Schenck's appointment to the high court created the vacancy.

FRENCHMEN PLAN FLIGHT TO THE UNITED STATES

Lebourget, France, May 26.—(AP)—Paul Cordos and Maurice Ross, world-record long distance fliers, decided today they will start tomorrow on an attempt to fly non-stop to Santiago, Calif.

They will take off at 5 a. m., 11 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

They reached their decision to combine their transatlantic and trans-continent flight at 6:30 tonight after a study of a weather map embracing the whole course.

Good weather was reported over the North Atlantic which the fliers planned to take.

They immediately discarded the alternative plan for a flight to Rio de Janeiro. The runway here already had been prepared for them. Their plane is ready to be wheeled out of the hangar and filled with gas and oil shortly before their departure.

The Frenchmen said they intend to pass directly over New York City, lending belief that they will fly the regular transcontinental commercial route over the United States.

Congress Makes Progress

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—Settlement of Senate and House differences over the stock market control bill and progress of the Wagner labor measure were today's main capital developments.

The congressional branches still have to ratify the conference agreement under which an independent board will regulate the exchanges, a Senate victory and the House 45 per cent marginal requirement is retained.
