Collapse Of Disarmament Confab Predicted By Conferees At Geneva

TENSION AND CONFUSION NOW EXISTS

Sir John Simon Gives no Inkling that Britain will Attempt to Save the Conference; Statement by Mussolini Referring to the Possibility of War Increases Pessimism

Geneva, May 28.—(AP)—Representatives of the United States and Great Britain, emerging from a long conference indicated today that the disarmament conference was in a grave situation and that its collapse is foreshadowed unless some nation can take heroic effort to save it.

The Anglo-American conferees were Norman Davis, ambassador-at-large, and Hugh Wilson, minister to Switzerland from the United States, and Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Captain Anthony Eden, lord privy seal for Britain.

It was understood that Sir John gave no inkling that Great Britain would propose concrete steps to save the conference.

Never has an international conference been accompanied by such tension and confusion.

Premier Mussolini's speech in Rome referring to the possibility of war served to increase the pessimism. It was rumored Italy might bolt from the conference. The economic rivalry which Mussolini also referred to was also regarded here as increasing the difficulty of leaders who seek to push toward disarmament agreement.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK HERE

Ehringhaus to Deliver Literary Address at College Next Saturday Night.

On next Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will deliver the commencement address of East Carolina Teachers College.

The graduation exercises will be held on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock as usual. The academic procession will be used as last year, with the members of the faculty and both the four-year and two-year graduates in caps and gowns.

Dr. Finis Idleman, pastor of Central Church, New York City, will preach the sermon at 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning and will lead the Y. W. C. A. vesper services at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

The piano recital on Friday evening at eight o'clock will open the commencement exercises.

Saturday is Alumnae Day. The business meeting will be at 10:30 in the morning. The program will center in Dr. Wright and his services to the college, the community and the state. Dinner will be at one o'clock. Class reunions will be held in the afternoon.

Death Claims Jolly Infant

Samuel L. Jolly, six-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Jolly, died at 1:10 this morning. Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial was made in the family burying ground. Surviving are the parents, and sister and brother, R. T. and Lillian Jolly.

Sets Flight Mark

Jean Batten, 24-year-old New Zealand girl flier, set a new women's record on a solo flight from England to Port Darwin, North Australia. She made the long hazardous trip in 15 days, 23 hours and 25 minutes.

JAMES LANDIS IS IN LINE FOR COMMISSION

Ferdinand Pecora Is Also Rated for Seat on the Stock Market Regulation Body.

Washington, May 28.—(AP)—The names of James M. Landis and Ferdinand Pecora figured prominently today in the speculative personnel of the new commission to regulate the stock market.

Landis is a member of the Federal Trade Commission. His transfer to the new commission probably as chairman was understood in administrative circles to be almost assured.

During the controversy over the stock bill it was reported that one of the reasons President Roosevelt favored market control by the Federal Trade Commission was to avoid the necessity of changing Landis' job.

Landis is still in his thirties and is a former teacher of law at Harvard. He had an important part in drafting the stock market control bill.

Pecora was given wide attention as counsel on the banking committee during its investigation of Wall Street and was considered by administration advisors to be an outstanding contender for one of the commission posts.

The former immigrant boy had much to do with the drafting of the stock market bill.

CIVIL COURT IS IDLE TODAY

Illness of a Relative Prevents Judge Daniels from Holding Court Here Today.

Today's session of the two-week term of civil Superior Court which convened in this city last Monday morning, was postponed over the week-end by the inability of Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, to be present.

Judge Daniels, it was reported at the office of Clerk of Superior Court J. F. Harrington today, was detained in Goldsboro on account of the death of a relative.

Court will convene tomorrow morning with a calendar of forty odd cases to be given consideration.

Around thirty cases were disposed of last week and indications were that a majority of the actions awaiting hearing at this time would be completed.

EIGHT INJURED IN RIOTING AT LAURINBURG

Armed Strikers Picket Waverly Mills Today, But Quiet Prevails.

Laurinburg, N. C., May 28.—(AP)—Armed strikers picketed the Waverly Mills here early today, scene of last night's riot in which eight men were wounded, but there was no apparent organization and quiet settled over the area as the day wore on.

Laurinburg, N. C., May 28.—(AP)—The last of the four units of Waverly Mills, Inc., to be affected by strikes was temporarily closed here today following a riot last night in which eight men were wounded, one of them probably fatally.

Guns barked as showers of bricks and other missiles rained on the animated crowd of strikers at the Prince unit which had opened for the night were thrown into a general melee.

Picketing strikers blamed the group of Prince Mill workers for launching the battle cry by firing on them; the workers on the other hand countered with charges that the pickets fired into the mill and that they were only defending themselves.

Meanwhile the sheriff's office began an investigation of the rioting.

Said Deputy Sheriff R. E. Miller: "We are investigating and are sure to issue some warrants late in the day. There have been no arrests yet."

The mill management declined to make any statement regarding the riot other than that the Prince Mill which ordinarily employs 300 workers would be temporarily closed.

HONOR DEAD OF WORLD WAR

Graves of Former Service Men Decorated with Flowers, Flags Yesterday.

Soldiers who fell in the great World War were signally honored in Pitt County yesterday when members of Pitt County Post of the American Legion and Auxiliary decorated the graves of the fallen veterans with flowers and the flag under which they fought for the salvation of civilization.

Legion committees visited graves of all veterans throughout the county and with loving hands decorated the last resting place of their former "buddies" with flowers and the American flag.

In Greenville members of the Auxiliary decorated graves of the veterans in the two cemeteries.

The day was unseasonably cold and cloudy but this did not deter the Legionnaires and their Auxiliary from carrying out the decoration plans and late yesterday afternoon found every grave carrying the thought of an appreciative citizenship.

Decoration of the graves is always a feature of the observance of Memorial Day, May 30, as is the annual sale of poppies, emblematic of the sacrifices which the soldiers made on Flanders Field.

The Legion Auxiliary and Junior Auxiliary conducted the poppy sale Saturday and hundreds of people here and in other sections of the county wore the red flowers in honor of the boys who crossed the seas and fought so valiantly against a foreign foe.

Late News Flashes

French Fliers Land in New York. Brooklyn, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—The French fliers, Rossi and Codos, brought their trans-Atlantic plane the Joseph Lezrix, to a safe landing at Floyd Bennett Field at 1:30 p. m., today. Their elapsed time since taking off from Le Bourget Field, Paris, was 38 1/2 hours.

They appeared over the field from the northwest at 1:32 p. m. and circled the airport three times, dumping gasoline in preparation for their landing.

The take down was in a long graceful slide and rolled their ship for a considerable distance before being brought to a stop.

A crowd of several hundred persons had gathered at the field in preparation for the landing which the fliers had said they would make in a message picked up during the trip off the New England coast.

DEMOCRATS WILL RALLY HERE JUNE 11

County Chairman Also Calls Precinct Meetings for Saturday, June 9.

W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, today issued a call for the county convention of the party at the courthouse here Monday, June 11, at 11 o'clock.

He also called party precinct meetings to be held in the various townships of the county Saturday, June 9, at 3 o'clock.

The county convention will be held for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Convention to be held in Raleigh, Thursday, June 21, at 12 o'clock, and discussion of other business which may come before the convention at that time.

The object of the precinct meetings is to elect delegates to the county convention, and also to choose executive committees of five members in each township to serve for the next two years.

The chairman urged that all Democrats of the county attend the convention in large numbers and take an active part in preparation for the forthcoming election.

Mr. Hooks said he was preparing to wage an intensive campaign for the Democratic cause in all sections of the county and called on all party members to participate.

S. A. Dunn Jr., of Scotland Neck has succeeded T. T. Hollingsworth here as sales tax collector for Pitt County.

Mr. Dunn will be located in the tax collector's office in the Chamber of Commerce, but will make the usual rounds of the county assisting merchants and business men in reporting their taxes.

The new collector, although originally from Scotland Neck, has been located in Rocky Mount for the last several months.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

OVERTAKING

When overtaking another car proceeding in the same direction, pass at a safe distance to the left and do not again drive to the right side roadway until safely clear of the car which you have just overtaken. Cutting in too quickly under such conditions is one of the leading causes of serious traffic accidents.

CUBA SEEKS ASSAILANTS OF CAFFERY

American Ambassador Uninjured when Gangsters Fire into His Residence.

Havana, Cuba, May 28.—(AP)—The entire strength of the Cuban national police was thrown today into a search for four men who made a daring attempt yesterday to assassinate Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador. The Cabinet, shaken by the affair, met in a special session to discuss the attempt against Caffery's life.

The explosion of two bombs in a residential section shortly after midnight added to the excitement which gripped Havana.

Authorities expressed a determination to put an end to terrorism which has harassed Havana for months. Police raked the city and environs for the assailants.

All automobiles were searched in the vicinity of the diplomat's home. Caffery spent the night there and a heavy guard surrounded the residence. The attempt made in gangster style did not harm Caffery, but may cost the life of a soldier on guard at the Caffery home.

Four unidentified men role slowly by and blazed away with sawed-off shotguns into the entrance of the home. It was the hour Caffery usually left for the yacht club.

THREE INJURED IN CAR WRECK

Child Suffers Fractured Skull in Collision of Three Cars Saturday Night.

Three persons were injured, one probably seriously, when three automobiles crashed on the Greenville-Bethel highway several miles from Greenville, Saturday night, it was made known today at the State Highway Patrol office here.

J. H. Fordham, Jr., nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Fordham of Portsmouth, Va., was rushed to the local hospital suffering from a fractured skull, and was reported in a precarious condition. Mrs. Fordham was also said to have suffered probably internal injuries and was brought to the hospital to receive medical attention. Della Coburn of Bethel received treatment for bruises and lacerations.

Will Brant, driver of the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Co., was said by officers to have been driving at a terrific rate of speed and crashed into the rear end of a coupe driven by W. H. Coburn, farmer of the Bethel community. The car driven by Brant was said to have then swung around in the road and crashed into a car driven by Fordham, traveling in an opposite direction.

Officers said all three cars were badly damaged by the impact. Brant was at liberty today pending the condition of the three injured persons.

HIGH SCHOOL FINALS HERE END TONIGHT

Rev. Theodore Parrick of Raleigh Delivers Sermon To Graduates.

The graduating class of Greenville High School was told last night by Rev. Theodore Parrick, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Raleigh, that one of the prime factors in life is discipline—the ability to control self.

Tonight Dr. W. K. Green, dean of the Liberal Arts College, Duke University, will deliver the literary address in the Campus building of East Carolina Teachers College, bringing commencement season to a close.

Diplomas will be presented to the graduating class by J. L. Little, chairman of the Board of Trustees of City Schools, and annual awards will be made by J. H. Rose, superintendent of schools.

Speaking of a crowd that virtually packed the spacious High School auditorium, Mr. Parrick declared: "The man who exercises no self-control is at the mercy of passion that gives no peace."

His text was taken from the First Epistle of Corinthians by St. Paul: "So run that you may attain."

Prefacing his remarks by reference to Paul's admiration for the athletes of Corinth, their self-control and the methods they used to achieve this end, the speaker asserted that human effort must be properly directed if life counts for what it should.

Pointing to prisons and asylums of the State, he stated that these institutions were filled with men and women who never practiced self-control, who never gave any time to disciplining their bodies so that they would respond to every command.

He declared that discipline in modern life was not very easy, but that nothing good or great ever comes easy.

Delving back into the misty pages of history, the speaker told of the achievements of Alexander the Great in conquering the world. "Although he gained the whole world," he asserted, "he lost himself by becoming the victim of dissipation and riotous living."

Outlining the great factors in discipline, he pointed to the body, the emotions, speech and last, but not least, thought.

He told the seventy-five graduates the body must be controlled to meet demands of every walk of life. Discipline of the emotions is one of the essential factors of human happiness, he said. Hatred unrestrained can warp the best in life, and grief and fear can throw shadows over everything worthwhile. Life is weakened by fear because it is a product of lack of self-control.

He issued a warning against idle words, pointing to the fact that words of encouragement in many instances had aided in the formation of character and put many lives on the road to nobler achievements. The blighting influence of unguarded words were brought to the attention of his hearers as he drove home the thought that the mouth must be guarded to see that only things that are good emanate from it.

Thoughts, he declared, should be disciplined because wrong thoughts usually result in wrong acts. He warned the students against double standards, double living, remarking that the world always found one out.

The graduates this year wore conventional graduate attire, caps and gowns, and formed an impressive scene as they marched to the front and were seated. The processional was rendered by the High School orchestra under direction of E. T. Robinson.

This was followed by singing of the hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus"; invocation by Rev. W. A. Ryan; responsive reading led by J. H. Rose, superintendent of schools; "Soldiers of Captain," Boys' Glee Club; Scripture reading, by Rev. W. A. Ryan; "Open Our Eyes," mixed chorus. Both songs were directed by Miss Ona Shindler, director of public school music. J. H. Rose introduced the speaker of the evening. The singing of another song and benediction by Rev. W. A. Ryan brought the program to a close.

Doris Brantley Buried Sunday

Doris Brantley, ten-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Brantley, died Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and burial was made Sunday afternoon at 4:15 in Beaufort cemetery. Services were in charge of Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church of this city.

Plane Expected To Land In N. Y. To Make Repairs

Authorities are investigating the mysterious death of Arne V. Gandy, 22 (above), whose body was found last January floating in San Francisco bay and buried in a potter's field. Later the body was exhumed and identified by a set of finger prints forwarded by his father, Curtis Gandy, Jr., of Teaneck, N. J. (Associated Press Photo)

PREPARATION FOR LANDING AT N. Y. FIELD

Wireless Report from Chatham, Mass., Says Fliers will Land in New York if Trouble Can't be Remedied in Air; Codos and Rossi are Bound from Paris to San Diego, Calif.

Thomas, Maine, May 28.—(AP)—The French transatlantic plane Joseph Lezrix passed over this section at 11:10 (Eastern Standard Time) flying southwesterly. Observers said the plane flew at a 2,000-foot altitude.

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Safely over the Atlantic Ocean the French fliers, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, raced down the New England coast today with a flurry of conflicting reports concerning their progress on their non-stop flight from Paris, San Diego, Calif., is their goal. Observers throughout Maine checked the big silver monoplane tentatively identified as the Joseph Lezrix through Eastport, Rockland and Bar Harbor, the last-named point at 10 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Meanwhile every preparation for their landing was being made at Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn on the strength of wireless reports from Chatham, Mass., that minor trouble had developed and a landing here would be necessary unless repairs could be made in the air.

A wireless message direct from the plane to the Chatham wireless operator of the Marine Corporation placed the time of landing at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) in event they find it necessary to come down at Floyd Bennett airport.

STRIKE ENDS AT TOLEDO, O.

Agreement Reported Reached in Disorders that Claimed Two Lives.

Toledo, O., May 28.—(AP)—Five days of strike-torn violence which left a casualty list of two dead and nearly 200 injured appeared to have ended today, but soldiers of the State of Ohio patrolled the strike area alert for any sudden outbreak.

Governor George White returned from a Michigan trip and received reports on the situation from Adjutant General Frank Henderson. He made no comment.

Only a few stragglers disturbed the calm of the strike area during the night. For the first time since violence flared Federal Mediator Chas. Post brought union leaders and officials of the Electric Auto Lite Company together over the same table yesterday. They left many curious designs on the table cloth and reached what Post described as possible settlement.

Charles Tucker Dies of Colitis; Interment Today

Charles Tucker, 20-months-old son of Mrs. Daisy Warren Tucker, and son of Malone Tucker, who died last week, passed away last night at 11:50 in the local hospital following a few days' illness from colitis.

Funeral services were conducted from the late home on the Belvoir road this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial followed in the Tucker graveyard near the Country Club. Services were conducted by Elder Jack Tyson, Free Will Baptist minister of Farmville.

Surviving is the mother, a brother, Gene, and the following half-sisters and brothers: L. B. Tucker, Greenville; Mrs. F. L. Andrews, Jr., Bethel; Mrs. Beatrice Carroll, Indianapolis, Ind., and Edgar and Nathaniel Warren, both of Pitt county.

Postoffice To Close May 30

The postoffice will be closed here Wednesday, May 30, in observance of Memorial Day.

The general delivery window will be open from 11:30 to 12:30. City carriers will make the morning delivery but rural carriers will not go out.

The money order and registry division will be closed all day.

CAR WRECKS GAS STATION

Lawyer Williams, Colored, Held Today for Demolishing a Building Here.

Lawyer Williams, colored, of Farmville, virtually demolished a filling station with an automobile here last night and escaped uninjured, officers reported this morning.

A gas station operated on West Fifth Street by Otis Evans was virtually torn down when officers said Williams' automobile running at around 70 miles an hour, went out of control and crashed into a gas pump, tearing that down before smashing through the station.

Officers said Williams nonchalantly stepped from the car at the end of the perilous ride and remarked: "Everything's all right."

It might have been all right as far as the negro's physical being was concerned, but he got in bad with the "law."

This morning he appeared in police court on a charge of careless and reckless driving, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and assault. He was bound over to the next sitting of County Court.

Investigating officers said it was short of miraculous how the negro escaped alive. Nobody in the filling station was injured.

SLOT MACHINE ROBBERIES

On several occasions we have called attention to the evils of the slot machine and urged that some steps be taken to rid our community of them.

In last week's issue of the State magazine there appeared one of the best articles on the subject we have seen of late and we pass it on to our readers. We urge our citizens to read every word of it and to get busy to see to it that our county is cleaned up in this respect.

The State says:

One of the most striking cases of negligence ever permitted to exist in North Carolina is that which involves the operation of the thousands of slot machines in all sections of the state.

Talk about highway robbery! Robin Hood, in his day and time, was a piker compared with these machines.

Responsible business men have set up these contraptions in their stores and offices with the deliberate intention of robbing those who come in.

Just a System of Robbery. Whenever you see one of these slot machines you can take it for granted that the man who permitted its installation has absolutely no consideration for his friends. He is perfectly willing for them to be robbed. He actually encourages the robbing process.

The assumption, therefore, is that if he will rob you that way, he also will rob you in some other way, if the opportunity arises.

Rather a startling way of looking at it, but it's true, nevertheless. The slot machines now being operated in North Carolina represent the greatest graft which ever has been permitted to go unchecked in this state.

The odds against the person playing them are 3 and 4 to 1. There are many of these machines which pay from $50 to $100 a week to those who control them. It's the most wonderful—we might say awesome—hold-up game ever to have been developed.

Boys and Girls Among Victims. Young boys and girls are among those who play the machines. The interesting part about this is that the habit of gambling is instilled in them at an early age.

The slot machine beckons to them from all sides. It's a lot of fun—insert a nickel, pull down the crank, and watch the lemons, plums, cherries and oranges whirl around.

It's a lot of fun to throw fifteen or twenty nickels in the machine and then exclaim excitedly when five or four checks are received in return. Regardless of how much money may have been put into the slot, there's always a feeling of having triumphed when a small refund is obtained.

Winning the Jack-pot. Once in a great while, the operator succeeds in landing a jack-pot. This—for some reason or other—is considered one of life's outstanding achievements. It is something to brag about for weeks to come. The thing which the average player does NOT brag about, however, is how much it cost him to land that jack-pot.

And another thing about which there is very little bragging is how much of the money which was won in this fashion was immediately played back into the machine again.

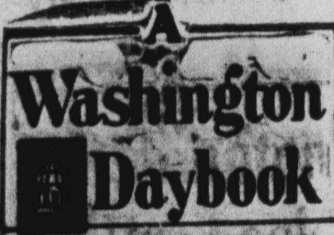

It is supposed to be strictly against the law to operate these machines for gambling purposes. They're gambling devices, pure and simple. Not only that, but they don't give the player a square chance or an even break. They're just plain, straightforward out-and-out devices for robbery. And yet, despite all this, they continue to flourish in all parts of the state. They aid in bringing about disrespect for all laws and law-enforcement agencies. There is absolutely no justification for their existence, and every last one of them ought to be confiscated as quickly as possible.

Officials Are Indifferent. Municipal, county and state officials apparently are absolutely indifferent to the situation. The only way that they are going to be stirred to action is for the citizens of North Carolina to rise up and demand action in bringing to a termination the deplorable situation which has been permitted to flourish without apparently any restraint whatsoever.

The statute says that machines of this type are legal only "when they return the same things in market value each and every time they are operated." The manufacturers have been beating the law by round-about methods, all of which are entirely beside the point. The machines may be intended as devices for vending gum, mints or other products, but what they are first, last and all the time are gambling machines.

Spasmodic Raids Been Made. From time to time, local campaigns have been started in some parts of the state against the continued operation of the slot machines, but in the majority of cases they have proved ineffective. It will be only through a concerted, statewide drive that any lasting results can be accomplished. It will be only through general co-operation that any good can be done.

Washington, D. C.—Politicians view President Roosevelt's withdrawal of the name of Willard L. Thorp, whom he recommended for director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, as another example of Rooseveltian strategy understood for the moment only by the President himself.

As they have it doped out, there are two things which prompted the President to retreat so silently and quickly:

First, the last thing he wants at the present time is to precipitate a row on Capitol Hill. With the session so near the end he wants to keep everyone in as happy a frame of mind as possible for what is certain to be a driving finish.

Second, he is playing for bigger game. His tariff bill is not out of the legislative woods yet. His chief "brain trust"—Professor Tuwelle—still hasn't been confirmed as Under-secretary of the Treasury.

The Thorp incident carried a sufficient wallop to stir up a hornet's nest if it had been tampered with too much. The President elected to play safe for the present, however much he regretted to lose a good man at the head of the main stem in Secretary Roper's Department of Commerce.

Handling Darrow's Report. There is general agreement that the manner in which the President handled the long-awaited Darrow report on NRA was a master-piece in skill and technique.

It was a striking example of what is getting to be called around here as the "Roosevelt way."

When it became known that the report had been placed in the President's hands, one of the first questions popped at him by newsmen at a White House press conference was what he intended doing with it.

Flashing his famous smile, he replied that it was so bulky he did little more than glance at it. He even doubted that any newsmen, singly, could tell what it was all about; that it would require a committee of best brains among them to digest it intelligibly.

He, therefore, had parcelled it out in three directions—to NRA to the Federal Trade Commission, and to the Department of Justice. Each would make a report to him.

It now develops when the report actually is made public NRA will issue its reply simultaneously.

Presidential Pen Trouble. The pen problem at the White House, by its own admission, is becoming a "serious" drain on the Treasury.

President Roosevelt has signed so many important measures at the present session of Congress that the consumption of pens has become enormous. It's because members of the House and Senate who played an active part in steering the legislative through Congress insist that they have the pen with which the President signs the bill as a souvenir. Often there are a half-dozen or more pens used to affix his signature.

Holding a handful of pens just before he signed the sugar bill recently, Mr. Roosevelt jokingly said he was considering either requiring the members of Congress to bring their own pens or else charge them 25 cents for those provided by the White House.

argument whether the Reed victory over Governor Pinchot had any real national significance. The interesting thing, however, is that regardless of the justification, the incident already is having its decided effect on the course of the campaign.

No previous political event since the present administration began produced such a salvo of Republican statements hitting at the Roosevelt policies. Some came from party leaders who had been most cautious therefore about attacking the President.

The campaign committees plainly took on a more belligerent attitude. New hope arose in the breasts of the party workers charged with raising a campaign fund.

Those who sought to minimize the importance of the primary result simply were waved aside. The feeling of party managers seemed to be that it did not matter so much whether the ray of light was feeble or bright; at least it was some ray, and the very first since the Maine election reports in 1932

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: The gun that killed one of the two men found murdered in Pierre Dufresne's house is still about the place, although Sergeant Harper has not been able to find it. He has found a few pieces of string, however, which seem to have a connection with the mystery. Now he has located the bootmaker who sold a disguise to one of the murdered men, so that he might resemble Dufresne.

CRANK LETTERS

"THIS man came in with a picture," Pagliotti added, "a clipping from a newspaper, showing a man with a beard. He said it was a friend of his and that he wanted to make himself up like him as a joke. We studied over the picture and I myself trimmed the beard and mustache to match as he wished."

"Was there a name printed under the clipping? Would you recognize the picture again?" Pagliotti shrugged his regrets. "I do not remember. I would have forgotten all, except for the clipping."

Harper pondered a moment. "Can you recall anything else about this man? Was he well-dressed? Did he come in an automobile? Was his manner nervous or secretive?"

"There was nothing out of the way about his manner. The other questions I cannot answer."

The detective took a long pull on his pipe. "One more question, Mr. Pagliotti. You know the man who bought that disguise from you has been killed. It has been suggested that he was crazy—a dangerous maniac. What do you say to that?"

Pagliotti's answer was immediate, explosive. "Oh, no, no. I do not believe it. Not that man."

Harper smiled. "I'm inclined to agree with you. Thank you very much. Your information should be helpful to us."

The Italian bowed politely, shook hands, and departed with the alert Mr. Harris, leaving Harper with a new and puzzling addition to his collection of data concerning this mysterious affair. The detective began to look through the packet of crank letters which Dufresne had turned over to the police.

There were eight of them in all, the earliest postmarked November 9th, a little more than five weeks after the purchase of the disguise. What had the masquerader been doing those five weeks? Why had such a long interval elapsed before his alleged letters began bombarding his intended victim? Dufresne had not even been back in the city from his summer vacation when this man had appeared at Pagliotti's.

If this nameless man had really intended to kill Dufresne, why had he not done so without all this fanfare of threats and hard language? His course had certainly been that of the cowardly "crank," not that of the determined killer.

The butler appeared. "Mrs. Croden thought you might like a bite of lunch, sir. It can be served in here, so that it will not interrupt your work. Is there anything special you would like?"

"That's fine, Andrews. Anything you happen to be serving will be quite all right. Thank Mrs. Croden for me, please."

"It will be ready in half an hour, sir."

"Fine. In the meantime, will you ask Mrs. Whitmore to come here?"

Mrs. Whitmore took at least ten minutes to make her appearance. The detective wondered what the servants were saying about the murders, for he knew that in the sanctity of their own quarters every tongue would be wagging unrestrainedly. A great deal of the talk would be mere idle gossip and conjecture, but mixed with this must necessarily be many items of first-hand knowledge that would be invaluable to him, could he hear them.

When Mrs. Whitmore did make her appearance, her attitude and the expression of her face left no doubt as to her personal stand. The belligerent gleam in her eye, the twist of her tightly shut lips promised little aid and no sustenance, for the police processes.

"Mrs. Whitmore, I have some questions to ask. As all of you now know, there was a double murder here last night. To withhold information of any kind is a serious matter. In a case like this it can mean—prison. I want you and all the others to understand that clearly."

Harper paused, feeling that this prologue was wasted on the determined woman. Mrs. Whitmore nodded curtly. "I understand that, but I didn't have anything to do with it and I don't know anything about it," she answered haughtily.

"Of course not. Don't misunderstand my purpose in sending for you. Let us start a little way back."

The campaign committees plainly took on a more belligerent attitude. New hope arose in the breasts of the party workers charged with raising a campaign fund.

Those who sought to minimize the importance of the primary result simply were waved aside. The feeling of party managers seemed to be that it did not matter so much whether the ray of light was feeble or bright; at least it was some ray, and the very first since the Maine election reports in 1932 argument whether the Reed victory over Governor Pinchot had any real national significance. The interesting thing, however, is that regardless of the justification, the incident already is having its decided effect on the course of the campaign.

No previous political event since the present administration began produced such a salvo of Republican statements hitting at the Roosevelt policies. Some came from party leaders who had been most cautious therefore about attacking the President.

The campaign committees plainly took on a more belligerent attitude. New hope arose in the breasts of the party workers charged with raising a campaign fund.

plainly forecast a first-class party disaster. So a revived party spirit is the practical result, quite regardless of the soundness of the reasoning which brought it about.

Will It Last? The next question is whether this new enthusiasm will survive the controversy which promises to develop at the June meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago.

Senator Reed rates himself as an orthodox Republican. He is a friend of the Mellons. He was, on occasion, a spokesman for the Hoover administration. He holds to the traditional Republican policies on such subjects as currency, taxation, and the tariff.

There are many in the party who want to get away from those traditions. They want the Chicago meeting to choose a chairman, and the 1936 convention to choose a candidate, leaning toward a new liberalism. They believe there is no hope for the party unless that is done.

It remains to be seen whether, in the long run, the Reed victory clarifies or complicates that situation. Presumably, the Pennsylvania result will send the old-time Republicans to Chicago greatly encouraged in their hope of retaining control of the party. If they are so bold as to reject all others of compromise, what will happen?

Potential Roosevelt Vote. In Pennsylvania, too, much remains to be settled. The Democrats, in particular, find themselves facing a question of major strategy. Both Pinchot and the Democratic nominee for Senator, Joseph P. Guffey, ran on Roosevelt platforms, and their combined vote far outnumbered the vote for Reed. Can this potential majority be capitalized in November?

Should Pinchot be encouraged to run as an independent, and if he did so, would he split the Republican vote and elect Guffey, or split the Roosevelt vote an elect Reed? That is something which doubtless will receive very earnest thought on the part of the Democratic generalists. Much more will be heard about this senatorial race before it is over.

After luncheon, all the guests assembled in the living room amid laughter and conversation, the strains of the wedding march was heard being played by Mrs. Charles White. Then Misses Nina James and Mary Woolard entered the room carrying a basket with gifts from the hostess to the brides-elect. There was much enjoyment as each young lady opened her package.

Gifts were included for Miss Sarah Gulley and Mrs. Ed Wilkerson who were absent.

Quite a number of friends enjoyed the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Woolard.

REV. E. J. REES SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A. SERVICE

Rev. E. J. Rees, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Washington gave a very stirring message last night to the college Y. W. C. A., at regular Sunday evening services.

On Trial

He brought out the fact that the basis for membership in the Y. W. is changing all the while. One of the main points which one should consider in becoming a member is that of sharing with others not only his religion but all other phases of life. In this he used several illustrations which came from his own college experiences. One is brought into the larger relationships in life is the Y. W. C. A. is one of the largest professional women's organizations in the world. Every college girl should be proud to be a member, and should uphold its high ideals.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 27.

The golden text was from I Thes. 5:23: "The very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God our whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; For in him we live, and move, and have our being." (Acts 17:24, 25, 28).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As astronomy reverses the human perception of the movement of the solar system, so Christian Science reverses the seeming relation of soul and body and makes body tributary to mind. Thus it is with man who is but the humble servant of the restful mind, though it seems otherwise to finite sense. But we shall never understand this while we admit that soul is in body or mind in matter, and that man is included in non-intelligence. Soul, or spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects soul. God, for man is God's image."

DISH WASHING SUGGESTIONS TO EASE KITCHEN LABORS

Here are suggestions for making the dish-washing job an easier one: Before attempting to wash a meat grinder, run some bread through it to clean out meat particles. Then use a stiff brush to wash it.

When washing dishes which have contained gravy or other greasy substances, add a few drops of ammonia to the water. It will facilitate washing and eliminate the odor of grease. Then rinse thoroughly.

Dishes soiled by eggs or milk should be washed first in cold water, but greasy dishes should be immersed at once in hot water.

How To Dice Celery

To dice celery, freshen the stalks in cold water and wash thoroughly. Then cut the stalks in small sections, lengthwise. Lay several stalks together on a board and cut crosswise. Tiny leaves may be used for garnishing, while larger leaves may be dried for soups.

Leaves Aid Schools

Austin, Texas.—(AP)—The Texas school system receives part of the ad valorem, poll, occupation, gross receipts, oil and sulphur, cigarette permit, beer and horse race levies, in addition to all of the tax of 3 cents per package on cigarettes. It receives also $2,395,000 annually in interest on its permanent fund and from land sales, leases and rentals.

Americana, Early

The United States in 1886 provides the background for a corking good adventure story with a historical flavor. The author is Neil Swanson, who did a good job some time back in "The Judas Tree." His latest is "The Jhantom Emperor" (Putnam) and there are Indians, marches through virgin forests and a grandiose plot by an adventurer to make himself ruler of the southwest through domination of the Indian nations.

Needless to say, even in those adventurous days the scheme didn't succeed, although the nucleus of an army was raised and became a menace to the countryside till "the phantom emperor's" followers died or dwindled away and he himself disappeared from history.

The author has followed the route of this "army" and absorbed a good deal of flavor along with his historical documents and such.

My Beauty Hint

By ANN GREENWAY

Once I read in a child's book that natural beauty comes more readily to those who begin and end each day in a cheerful mood. So the first thing I do each morning is sing the most pleasant song I can think of. By the time I am ready for my morning stroll, which I take regardless of the weather, I have a care in the world.

New Books

By JOHN SELBY

Future commentators may find something of interest in the phenomenon of our speedy era which has permitted a great many writers to prose to me voluminous books, instead of getting slimmer, are like the modern woman's silhouette, ending more and more to burgeoning.

One of the best examples was Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel," a fat, juicy book of a few years back; now we hear his latest novel, to be published shortly by Scribner's in several times its thickness. Storm Jameson plans a six-volume novel, several French and British authors are contemplating what-not, and T. S. Stripling, Pulitzer prize winner, finishes his trilogy of the South with "Unfinished Cathedral." (Doubleday, Doran.)

Mr. Stripling, progressing from the early South in "The Forge" through "The Store" to modern times, suffers a perceptible loss in the romantic flavor of the earlier volumes, for as incidents came closer they of course became more realistic. There is an echo of the Scottsboro case and even of the Florida real estate boom, of the happy era before 1929. The canvas is a large one, but Mr. Stripling paints deftly. There is much rich fare in "Unfinished Cathedral," a little confusion, and the feeling of accomplishment at the end.

Further word from Washington has been that the Presidential postage series, under course of planning, probably will not come out until fall. EXILED BOOTLEGGERS CAUGHT; FACE SENTENCES OF TWO YEARS

Raleigh, N. C., May 28.—Kernith Davis, Raleigh's banished booze baron, and his lieutenant, Rufus Hamilton, are back in the city, this time as residents of the county jail.

Arrested yesterday afternoon in a Durham hotel, the two men were returned to Raleigh last night by Sheriff Numa F. Turner, Deputy H. L. Pearce and Detective C. L. Hunicutt. Both of them are subject to suspended sentences of two years for returning to the State after they had been exiled last January by Judge Henry A. Grady in Wake County Superior Court.

After leaving Raleigh, Davis and Hamilton were reported to have been operating in and around Portsmouth, Va., but contrary to the court order, they have been seen in Raleigh occasionally, police said.

WORLD'S STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Brazil has another new stamp. It is being issued in connection with that country's first national congress on aeronautics.

Printed in blue on rather heavy paper the value is 200 reis for use as regular postage. Centered on the stamp is an allegorical figure representing aviation, a man wearing a mechanical pair of wings. In the upper left corner is the date 1709 and the name Bartolomeu Gusmao while in the opposite corner is 1901 and Santos Dumont. Both were pioneers in aeronautical investigation from the standpoint of practicability as well as theory. The dates refer to important years in their careers.

U. S. Stamp Activities

Present indications are that the next new stamps to come from Uncle Sam's presses will be the projected national parks issue, a group of ten pictorial illustrating scenes in various national parks and commemorating national parks year.

The values, it is indicated, will range from 1 to 10 cents, with the half-cent and 1 and one-half cent values, which have been included in recent issues, apparently to be omitted.

memoratives and a value insert. Now, that most of the furor over the Mother's Day stamp has quieted down, it would seem that this special adhesive has been quite popular with stamp users. The original printing of 200,000,000 had to be augmented by an extra printing of 50,000,000.

Coupled with the Mother's Day stamp aftermath was the Washington report, which Postmaster General Farley later termed a "joke," that the success of the Mother's Day sticker might warrant serious consideration being given a Santa Claus stamp for Christmas. Whether Santa Claus will or will not appear on a stamp, New York collectors thought there wouldn't be any doubt as to its sale on a basis as widespread as the Mother's Day issue.

Two of Belgium's colonial possessions, Congo and Belgian East Africa, have prepared morning stamps in honor of the late King Albert. They are in solid black, including a black border outside of the stamp proper.

The portrait of the late king is the same on both stamps and shows him wearing a light colonial uniform. The value in each instance is 150 francs, and the design of the border is identical with the 1.25 franc stamp of the issues of 1931 of the two colonies.

The value, 1.50, is a new one.

Topical Trends

The current issue of Mexico has undergone a perforation change for the 1, 2 and 4 centavos. Mexico also has a new 10-centavo special delivery in carmine and blue, showing an Indian putting on "high speed" foot.

Australia's postoffice department is planning two centenary stamps. The bridge set of the Dominican Republic now contains a one-half, a 1 and a 3-centavo.

Two new stamps of the Netherlands bear large portraits of Queen Wilhelmina and her daughter, Princess Juliana. They were issued on behalf of the "erisis fund."

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS ROAD DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Gates, N. C., May 28.—"Accidentally killed" was the verdict of the jurors in the coroner's inquest investigating the death of E. V. Bagley, who was killed on the Gatesville-Mitchell Fork highway Thursday night when struck by a car driven by R. M. Riddick, cashier of the Hertford Banking Company at Hertford.

R. A. Raws, candidate for coroner, was appointed by the clerk of court to act as coroner. Six witnesses took the stand, stating that Mr. Bagley was walking down the center of the right side of the highway when he was struck by the automobile. Evidence also came out as to the deceased being deaf. R. M. Riddick upon taking the stand stated that Mr. Bagley was caught on the car fender and was carried on the car sixty feet before it finally stopped. The witnesses were N. J. Riddick, J. D. Baines, Jimmie Harrell, Thonon White, J. F. Rountree, and R. M. Riddick.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF SHERIFF SURRENDERS

Rdmore, Okla., May 28.—(AP)—John Smith, Thackerville, Okla., constable, who had been sought since the fatal shooting last Friday of Sheriff Sam H. Randolph, 46, of Love county, surrendered here yesterday. Sheriff Randolph was shot in the heart. Officers said they understood there had been "ill feeling" between Randolph and Constable Smith. Deputy Sheriff Lovell Green said he witnessed the shooting. Smith fled from Thackerville immediately after Sheriff Randolph was slain. Poses searched for him Saturday. Smith surrendered to Bennett Wallace, a city detective and the constable's longtime friend. He said he had not wanted to place himself in custody of Love county officers to be placed in jail there because members of the slain man's family lived in the county. Smith denied that Sheriff Randolph was unarmed when the shooting took place and gave Wallace a pistol he said he had taken from the sheriff. No charges were filed immediately against Smith. He was detained at the jail here. Both Smith and Randolph participated in the arrest last week of Leo Hudgins and his confession to killing I. C. J. Trowbridge of San Diego, "credit" for solving the case was disputed between them.

New York Cotton

New York, May 28.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady two to four lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and unfavorable weather. Trading was quiet after the call but there was some scattering liquidations and local selling which sent prices off to 11.57 for October, with active months general showing losses of about 5 to 8 points.

October was ruling around 11.60 and December 11.70, or about 3 to 5 lower at the end of the first half hour.

The market remained quiet but held generally steady at mid-day. October worked up to 11.65 and March to 11.90, making the market about two points higher to two lower but the bulges were not fully maintained.

Futures closed steady, one higher to two lower, middling 11.60.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 28.—(AP)—The stock market reacted slowly for higher levels today, and while large scale operations were extremely scarce, the apparent upward trend impressed the analysts as modest bull indicators.

Strength of grains may have aided the equity list, although this was based largely on more serious drought reports. Wheat spurred about the limit to five cents a bushel and corn, oats, rye and barley were not far behind.

After rallying moderately in the forenoon, the stock market leveled off and held narrow to a price range. Trading was quiet throughout. Shares that got up one to around two points included Case, Dupont, American Sugar Refining, American Telephone, Santa Fe and Allied Chemical. Armour shares were active. Transfers were 600,000 shares.

field officials be advised of their intentions to land and to make repairs of some minor trouble to the ship. Rossi said undue vibrations of the wings had caused them to decide to land at Floyd Bennett Field instead of going on to the Pacific coast. The heavy load of gasoline was thought to have been responsible for their trouble. Mechanics immediately began an inspection of the ship.

A large detail of police was on hand at the field to cope with the crowd. Deputy Chief Inspector A. Bracken was in charge with fifty patrolmen, 20 mounted police and 20 motorcycle police.

President Prepares Messages.

Washington, May 28.—(AP)—Congress made a slow start on its work today while President Roosevelt concentrated on his final preparations of messages to be sent to the capitol.

Topmost for the President was his appeal for repeal of the cocoon import tax. First for the Senate was the dragging reciprocal tariff debate. And in the House forefront was only minor legislation.

All of which meant that the real flush of the week, including President's views on war debts and unified policy for handling national resources was put off.

Mr. Roosevelt also had before him preparations for his speech to be delivered at the Gettysburg battlefield on Wednesday, Memorial Day. He will go from Gettysburg to New York to review the fleet on Thursday and then proceed to Groton School in Massachusetts to attend the graduation of his son.

Important committee work in Congress was confined to executive sessions on such bills as that for house building campaign with federal aid and for regulation of oil and communications.

Japan Woos Brizil's Favor

By PAUL SANDERS

Rio De Janeiro.—(AP)—Japan's trade push in South America and pro-occupation with pending immigration articles in the new Brazilian constitution has brought a persistent flow of Japanese propaganda in this country.

Japanese agency dispatches, citing Nippon's industrial development and arguments of the Japanese Association for Liberty of Trade in behalf of free commerce and against tariff barriers, were published in the Brazilian press.

American Tariff Cited

The association's comments that the Hawley-Smoot tariff in the United States and the British empire trade pacts contributed to economic nationalism were quoted at length.

The dispatches also described in detail the increasing population problems of the crowded island empire.

Japan nearly doubled her exports to Brazil in 1933 and sent 24,000 settlers to this country. The immigration movement set a record for Nipponese entries, and the trade again was one of the biggest percentage advances for any country in comparison with 1932.

Nippon's Quota Small

An amendment was offered in the constitutional assembly to limit annual immigration to 2 per cent of the total arrived from each foreign country in the past fifty years.

Because Portuguese, Italian and Spanish stock prevails, in that order, those countries would dominate and Japanese entries would amount to only about 3,000 a year on a basis of 2 per cent of the 150,000 now in Brazil.

Japan in 1933 sold $788,890 worth of merchandise to Brazil in comparison with $416,975 in 1932. At the same time, Brazilian exports to Japan increased slightly, from $273,415 to $307,320.

United States Leads Trade

To aid her trade drive, Japan is tripping to buy cotton from Brazil, and has set machinery in motion to buy tropical oils direct from Brazilian producers instead of from Germany, at present the principal intermediary market. Despite the Japanese commercial push, Nippon still ranks far down the list in exports to Brazil. The United States retained its lead in 1933, with sales amounting to $30,384,600, beside which Japan's $786,890 looks small. After the United States came Great Britain with $27,888,500; Argentina, $18,100,00 and Germany, $17,192,000.

It has been estimated that erosion causes farmers in the United States an annual loss of $400,000,000 in destroyed land, loss of plant food and through other channels.

NEW GULF WINS 7 OUT OF 12 POWER TESTS AGAINST 32 OTHER GASOLINES

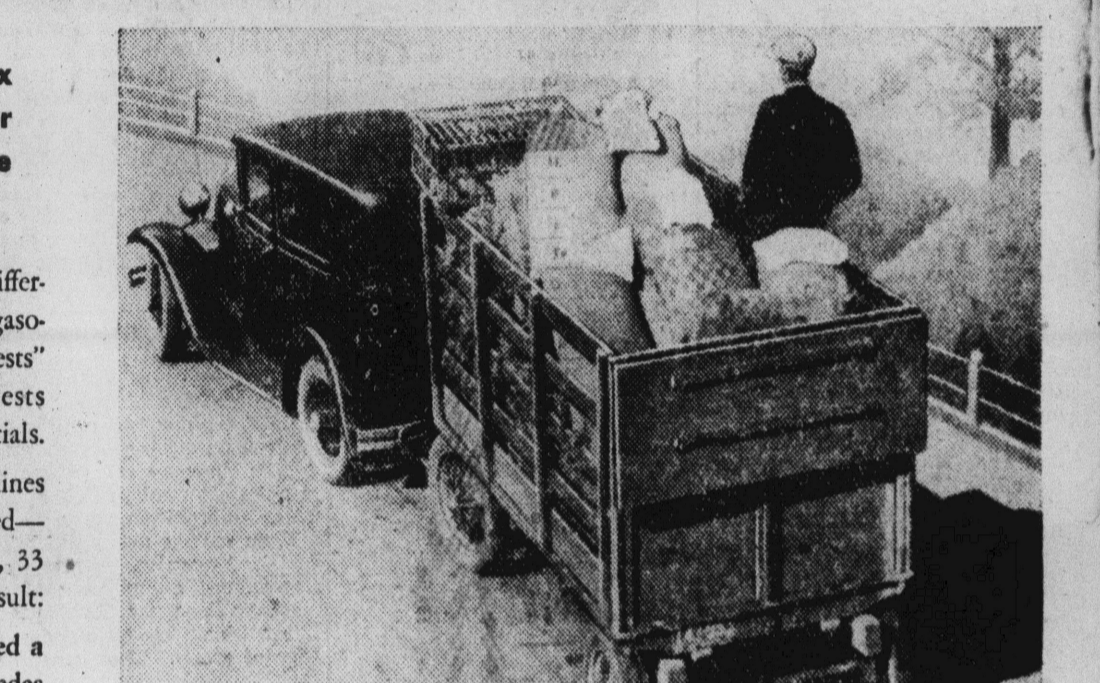

Which gasoline will coax the most power from your motor? You'll find the answer right here!

TO PROVE to doubters the difference in power of various gasolines, Gulf made 12 "Power Tests" on famous American hills—tests conducted by non-partisan officials.

In each case, well-known gasolines sold in each section were tested—including Gulf. In the 12 tests, 33 brands of gasoline were used. Result: 7 out of 12 times Gulf propelled a car and load up mountain grades farther than any other gasoline tested! Gulf won more power tests than the 32 other gasolines combined!

Drive to a Gulf station. Fill up with that Good Gulf—and let it prove its greater power to you!
