

Germany Threatens To Limit Imports From U. S.

French Cabinet To Take Action To Collect Interest In Germany

EXACT METHOD OF COLLECTION NOT DECIDED

Ministers Agree That Quick Action will be Taken to Assure Collection on Debts; Stringent Surtax Is Considered; Threaten Increase of Duties on Shipments.

Paris, June 16.—(AP)—France intends to collect interest from Germany on Dawes and Young loan bonds in some manner to protect her commercial interests, the cabinet decided today. The exact method was undetermined. But whether a clearing house which would handle all French and German merchandise accounts or a stringent surtax on all German goods will be put into effect, ministers were agreed that there would be prompt action.

Negotiations to get Berlin to make payment to French investors have been put in full swing with Roland Koester, German ambassador to Paris, conferring with Premier Doumergue.

If negotiations fail, observers said the French government sees in its adverse commercial balance with Germany a means to collect on the debt. By increasing the duties on imports from Germany which the government is empowered to do France can retaliate.

France's adverse balance of trade with the Reich in 1933 was 1,341,000,000 francs, approximately $89,500,000.

BETHEL JOINS 'SPUD' HOLIDAY

Digging Operations Suspended in Accordance With Governor's Request

Like other Irish potato-producing sections of the State, Bethel community of Pitt County, has joined the "digging holiday" ordered by Governor Ehringhaus last Thursday.

The action was taken by the governor in view of the glutted condition of the potato market, and in hope that the suspension of digging operations would relieve the situation and enable dealers to pay more for the product.

With relief forces pledged to take a considerable supply of potatoes off the market, it is the hope of the governor that the supply will be decreased to such extent that prices will be higher than $1.75 a barrel prevailing the beginning of the season.

At the Rowan General Hospital late today it was said he was still unconscious and apparently very badly hurt.

BIBLE SCHOOL TO BEGIN HERE NEXT MONDAY

One Hundred and Eleven Children Enrolled During First Day Registration

The Daily Vacation Bible School sponsored by the churches of the city in co-operation with the school system, will open Monday morning for a session of four weeks.

Registration was begun yesterday and it was reported today that one hundred and eleven students were enrolled. It was expected the number would be greatly increased when the school is thrown open Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

A competent staff of teachers will be in charge of the work which will consist of Bible study, manual training and recreation.

Miss Louise Galphin, member of the city school system, is in charge of the school. The program provides work for children from four to fourteen years of age. Preparations have been made to care for an enrollment of four hundred.

The Ministerial Association, which is playing a conspicuous part in the movement because of a desire to improve the juvenile situation here, issued an appeal last week calling on all organizations of the city appreciating the importance of the school to the youth during the summer, to contribute financially to support of the school.

Although several donations have been received, it was stated today that the desired sum was far behind, and the public has been appealed to again to give liberally so that the work may be conducted without financial handicap.

Rev. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, is chairman of the finance committee of the school, and contributions may be made to him or to The Daily Reflector.

It is the hope of supporters of the movement that hundreds of children will be returned to school campuses next fall spiritually and morally improved and that their influence may count largely in the moulding of other lives they contact from day to day.

CITY TO HONOR DADS SUNDAY

Annual Father's Day To be Observed With Gifts and Lots of Verbal Fireworks

Tomorrow is Father's Day in America, and if Dad doesn't get a verbal kick in the pants he may receive a sock or so for his feet, a handkerchief to control his nose, or a shirt to wear for a week before washing.

There will be lots of "carrying on" over the old boy who foots the bills for the family and comes home at night to rest his weary body and mind from the ordeals of the day. It isn't much joy this fellow gets out of life, and any extra "sock" certainly will not add to his troubles and may perchance make his pathway some easier. For socks do make going easier if they are the right kind—Primo Camera can testify to this fact.

In Greenville, stores were anticipating a fairly good business in the kind of goods Dad wears from day to day. The wife and children will buy the gifts today and Dad, the man of all jobs, will smile benevolently on the bills for his Father's Day gifts the first of the month and bless the hands that made them.

Father, his inestimable value to the community and the unsearchable riches of his character, probably will be extolled from some of the pulpits tomorrow. The speakers themselves will be fathers in many instances and after letting off considerable steam in reaching certain emotional heights, will return home to receive a gastronomic spanking due to come to them sometime during the day. These spankings come from many sources. Ofttimes they are a product of the mind, but they are bound to come and in spite of all the amenities and sugar-coated pleasantries handed Dad during this occasion set aside for honoring him he has to take his medicine like a man and keep on plodding and paying. It's the penalty for being a papa, supposedly.

But in spite of all these things, Father's Day will be a big occasion and the family will join in lifting gloom from the household and making the day one to be remembered. Anything to the contrary will certainly be viewed with tolerance by Dad and when the day has closed and darkness begins gathering over the traffic-choked highways of the section, the financial heart of the family will beat contentedly, unafraid of eventualities which the coming day will bring.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BOY DROWNS IN CAPE FEAR

Southport, N. C., June 16.—Victor Sellers, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Sellers, fell into the Cape Fear River from the Thompson dock here yesterday morning and was drowned.

The child's body was recovered about an hour and a half later by his twelve-year-old brother, Herman, who hooked it with an ordinary fishing pole and line about 150 feet from the spot where he went down. Coast Guardsmen and a large number of citizens were engaged in searching the waters at the time.

The tragedy occurred while Victor was fishing with two small playmates.

STEEL STRIKE IS HALTED FOR THE PRESENT

Eyes Turn to Washington for the Non-Strike Agreement Now in the Offing.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 16.—(AP)—A strike-threatened steel industry, granted temporary amnesty by a large portion of its workers—turned to Washington today for initial steps in placing into effect a non-strike agreement.

The agreement, proposed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, called for the President to appoint a board to settle disputes within the industry.

Its acceptance at the strike convention of the Amalgamated Association of Steel Workers last night marked an armistice in the grave situation which had existed in the steel industry since the association's annual convention in April.

At the time the union voted to demand recognition and a steel workers' bargaining agreement.

COTTON TAG APPLICATION MAILED OUT

Farmers Urged to Sign at Once and Obtain Tags to Prevent Tax On Cotton

E. F. Arnold, director of the local Farm Department, said today that application blanks for Federal cotton bale tags had been placed in the hands of committeemen throughout the county and farmers may obtain them from these sources.

Mr. Arnold said it will be necessary for farmers to fill out the applications and return them at once to receive their tags and prevent the tax on 1933 cotton as provided under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act recently passed by Congress.

On receipt of the tags, the farm director stated, a government representative will call on the farmer and place the tags on his cotton.

The application blanks were received at the Farm Office here this week and were immediately sent to committeemen who took part in the reduction campaign.

Farmers were urged to see their committeemen at once file their applications so that the government representative may provide the tags and offset the possibility of a tax being imposed on the cotton.

REVIVAL TO OPEN SUNDAY

Rev. J. R. Potts, Evangelist, to Have Charge of Presbyterian Services

Preparations had been completed today for the series of revival services scheduled to open at the Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The services will be in charge of Rev. J. R. Potts, evangelist, and his initial sermon will be on the subject, "Arousing Considerations." The services will continue for a period of one week, and if sufficient interest is manifested, a longer period will be involved.

In preparation for the meeting cottage prayer services were held in the homes of various members of the denomination this week.

Committees to have charge of the various phases of the series of services were announced the first of the week, and when the meeting actually opens everything will be in readiness to take care of the large crowds expected to be in attendance from day to day.

Mr. Potts, who has seen considerable experience as an evangelist, is acting pastor of the church at this time. The congregation has been without a pastor since the death of Rev. W. S. Harden, who died several months ago, and Mr. Potts was called a short time ago to do supply work.

He is a forceful speaker, well versed in the Bible, and sermons each day are expected to be filled with much interest. He said today his sermons would be brief and pointed, and persons who dislike long-winded discourses may attend the services without fear of being verbally submerged and confounded.

EMBARGO PUT ON EXPORTS OF GRAIN CROP

Six Months Moratorium Will Be Made Permanent If Nations Still Decline to Trade With Her; Lack of Foreign Trade Given as Reason For Debt Suspension; Reprisals Promised if Other Nations Retaliate

Berlin, June 16.—(AP)—Hints that Germany should limit American imports unless the United States takes more goods from the Reich, grew stronger today.

This sentiment accompanied another threat that Germany was in position to tell the world to buy from her or consider permanent her six months' moratorium on foreign debts.

Lack of foreign trade was given by the Reichbank as one of the principal reasons for suspension of payments on loans included in the Young and Dawes plan two years ago.

At the same time new drains on her foreign exchange caused the government to lay an embargo on grain exports. A long period of dry weather has damaged the German crop. Should the loss be heavy, compelling imports of grain, the government's carefully devised plans to halt the loss of foreign exchange will be a serious setback.

The government promised reprisals if the other nations retaliated because of the suspension of foreign debts.

GULF COAST THREATENED BY BIG BLOW

Storm Expected To Strike the Louisiana Coast During Late Afternoon Today.

New Orleans, June 16.—(AP)—Warnings hoisted today along the Gulf coast from Morgan City, La., to Pensacola, Fla. heralded the approach of a tropical disturbance of undetermined intensity expected to break on the Louisiana coast this afternoon.

Advised by the United States Weather Bureau that the disturbance would be accompanied by shifting gales with probably wind of hurricane force, residents of the coast took precautions against a blow and shipping was sent to cover.

New Orleans residents became mildly alarmed as the storm was charted a little closer to the city than other tropical disturbances of recent years which whirled and pranced around the Gulf of Mexico to the south and then either disappeared or blew out in dissipated squalls that splashed the surf over sea-walls but caused only minor damage.

FERRY AT EDENTON TO RESUME OPERATIONS

Edenton, N. C., June 16.—(AP)—The Edenton Mackey's Ferry, which operates across Albemarle Sound to connect the State Highway system, will resume operation Sunday morning after several weeks of idleness.

State Highway engineers are understood to be working on plans now for increased service.

The ferry boat has undergone extensive repairs at Norfolk, Va. Use of the ferry will save motorists an average of sixty to seventy-five miles driving to and from counties on the north and south sides of Albemarle Sound. The boat schedule provides for departure from Edenton at 7 and 9:40 a. m. and 1 and 5 p. m. and from Mackey's at 8 and 11 a. m. and 2:30 and 6 p. m.

Shipment of Florida green peas was the largest on record this season, totaling 744 carloads.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Ellen Becker former maid in the house of Pierre Dufresne, has taken bribes from both Mr. and Mrs. Dufresne to maintain silence about some suspicious water demanding rendezvous which she has found. But Sergeant Harper, investigating the double murder in the Dufresne house, has forced Ellen to talk. Now he has left orders that Mrs. Dufresne must not leave her room, and has gone to the library to confront the waiter of the house.

Chapter 46 JOLTING DUFRESNE

"THE bloodhound of the law," Dufresne declared, "come to read the handwriting on the wall. Mene, mene, tekel, upharisn. Good old Harper, come to Alexander's Feast. No, not Alexander's—Belshazzar's. Read me the writing on the wall, Harper!"

The detective did not answer this fanciful jesting. Dufresne grew restive under the growing weight of Harper's silence. "Well, what did you come up for?" he asked, testily. "I want to have a serious talk with you, Mr. Dufresne. We're nearing the end of the chase now and it has narrowed itself down to two persons. The question is, which one to arrest and charge with the murders?"

Dufresne drained his remaining liqueur and put the glass down heavily. "Why come to me? I don't want to testify that both were made by the same hand. You planned to kill that man and built up false clues to conceal the real motive.

"Today I went over the scene of your alleged ambush. You got out there and fired at your own car. You see how your story falls to pieces? If there was no crank letter writer on your trail, then there was no ambush, and without the ambush there would have been no turnout of police guards to establish your alibi.

"Your purpose was to get out of the Austerlitz, unseen and unnoticed, but you didn't dare incriminate yourself by asking any of your friends to perjure themselves by giving you a false clearance. So you thought out a way to do it. You faked the attack on your car, locked yourself in your bedroom with the avowed intention of drinking yourself into a state of coma and left the police on guard between your door and the elevator.

"It was all very ingenious, Mr. Dufresne, but this afternoon I reproduced your feat under similar conditions."

DUFRESNE leaned back comfortably and crossed one leg over the other. "It sounds very clever. Since it interests you, suppose you explain how it was done?"

"I'll explain," answered Harper, with sarcasm. "There are two suites the cave covering the cubs so that the creeping flames would not reach them if she could help it. Her fur was singed. She could not speak.

"Jelly Bear pulled her out of the cave, Willy Nilly carried Jupiter Bear and Rip dragged out Blacky Bear. They pulled them over to a grassy patch. By this time the water—after Honey Bear's long, hard fight—had put out the fire.

"We'll keep putting water around here and watching until we're sure there is no more danger," said Fire Chief Quacko.

"Yes," agreed Willy Nilly, "you attend to that, while we take care of Honey Bear and the cubs."

"Can't you speak to me?" Jelly Bear asked Honey Bear. "Is she alive?" he whispered sobbingly.

"Yes, she is alive, and the cubs are untouched by the fire," Willy Nilly answered. "But her burns must be very painful, and she is too tired to speak. That pile of dry hay left by the circus people near the cave must have caught some of the sparks from the village fire and started smoldering."

"Oh, but she is safe!" sobbed Jelly Bear, and he licked Honey Bear's sore paws, and her scorched fur, until Honey Bear gave a little, low growling sound.

"I knew you'd save me," she murmured.

THE GUARANTEE OF DEMOCRACY

"The freedom of the press is the sole hope of freedom for the people. A dictatorship cannot endure a free press, for with one it cannot maintain itself continuously. Milk Made Municipal Monopoly in Rome

By ANDRUE BERDING Rome.—(AP)—Wine is giving way to milk on the tables of the Romans owing to the development of the finest milk plant in Europe and one of the best in the world, as Dr. Robert Stanley Breed, world-known milk bacteriologist of Geneva, N. Y., characterized it recently while in this city. Similar establishments are operating in Milan and Naples. The Rome plant, which has been in operation only two years, is "different" because it is: (1) A municipal monopoly operated by a consortium of 681 milk producers under contract with the governor of Rome. (2) It is not subject to the law of supply and demand, but sets its price in agreement with the governor so as to give the producers a fair return on their investment and work. (3) It takes care of the collection of the milk from the producer, the pasteurization, bottling and distribution to the dealers who deliver to the consumer at fixed prices. (4) It gathers milk exclusively from dairy farms built on the reclaimed swamp land around Rome. American tourists who stopped in Rome several years ago saw little hand-propelled milk carts trundled about the streets of the capital by municipal employees. The "milkman" carried a high-pitched crescent horn. Every fifty feet he would stop and blow piercingly. Windows opened. Down came buckets on strings, with a few copper coins in the bottom of the bucket. The milkman ladeled

to hear about it. You're wasting your time."

"Nevertheless, I'm going to tell you what I have found out. May I borrow your key-ring for a moment? That will illustrate what I mean."

Dufresne handed over a flat leather case. Inside were five or six keys on separate catches. Harper spread them out fan-wise. "The clues are like these keys," he explained. "Only one will open the truth about this case, but the eye alone cannot tell which one of these keys will fit the lock. The trick is to find the one that fits."

Pierre Dufresne was watching this demonstration with bored gravity when the detective put his hand over the keys and asked, suddenly, "Mr. Dufresne, why did you kill that man?"

The expected reaction did not come. Dufresne's head tilted up sharply and his manner tensed, but his gaze was level and without a trace of fright. "You'd better explain, Harper. Your mental processes are too intricate for me."

Harper brought a notched key from his vest pocket and laid it down beside its counterpart on Dufresne's ring. "These are both master-keys to the service-rooms of the Austerlitz," he said. "Does that explain?"

THE dark eyes narrowed. "I can't say that it does. In fact, I don't remember that particular key at all. Probably I found it somewhere and slipped it on my ring."

"It means the breakdown of your very clever alibi for last night, Mr. Dufresne. In the best-laid plans there's always some little thing that slips by unnoticed and in this case it's the possession of this key."

"Is that so?" Dufresne re-filled his glass with steady hand. "Is this the appropriate point for me to break down and confess all?" he drawled. "Your whole story is a fake," Harper answered. "You wrote those threatening letters and sent them to yourself. We have specimens of your hand-lettering and experts are ready

on that floor, separated by a corridor. There is a bend in this corridor, but since it ends at a window twenty-eight stories above the street, no attention was paid to it. But next to that window is a service-room and in that service-room is a large dumb-waiter used to send laundry hampers and such things up and down to the various floors.

"I went out the rear door of your suite, crossed the hall, got in the dumb-waiter, pressed the button, and rode down to the basement. I came out into a sort of store-room, walked out the employees' entrance, re-entered the building by the front door, and rode up again in the elevator. The men on watch had seen nothing, because they could not see around that bend in the hall. That is how you got out last night, Mr. Dufresne."

Rome Acquires Hygiene

All that is gone. The "Milk Central," as it is called, began to rise. The most modern machinery was installed, the most hygienic methods employed.

Inspectors were sent out to instruct milk producers in the latest scientific methods. Systems of check-up on the good or bad performance of the farmers were started. Residents of Rome then for the first time made the acquaintance of milk bottles.

A trip through the milking plant today shows 600 employees, mostly girls, handling the various processes. The sanitary and bacteriological control is rigid. From letters are sent out if the milk comes in with sediment in the cans; if it is deficient in fat content; if it contains too many germs; if it shows that the cows are ill.

Small Costs Cut Price Three offenses pass with warnings, the fourth brings a fine, and successive offenses may bring suspension.

The total cost of handling the milk, including the amortization of the plant capital in fifteen years, is 21 centesimi, or about two cents a quart. Dr. Breed said this was a remarkably low figure. Milk sells in Rome for 130 lire, or about 11.5 cents a quart.

Per Capita Consumption Low The immediate effect of the Milk Central has been a decided increase (Without Pressure Cooker) To can string beans, select those that are young and tender and which have few strings. The Green Pod Stringless is a good variety. If the beans are gathered when young and tender, and the strings removed, a good product results. Snap the beans at both ends, string, and place in a thin cotton bag, and dip in boiling water from 3 to 5 minutes. This improves the flavor of the beans and allows more to be packed in a can. Pack closely to within one-quarter inch of the top and fill with hot water. Add 1 level teaspoonful of salt. Process No. 3 cans 1 hour and 15 minutes. Beans should be canned the same day they are gathered. "Straight from the vine to the can" should be the motto. Old beans necessitate processing with steam pressure. When canning string beans in glass jars, process quart jars 1 hour and 25 minutes.

But that may be learned from half a hundred books; the distinguishing feature of "A Chinese Testament" is the picture it offers of daily life in China. It has been a long time since the details of Chinese living has been better presented.

Writing Churchman. William, Cardinal O'Donnell's "Recollections of Seventy Years" is much more than a mere autobiography. The detail of his eminence's life, from boyhood in Lowell, Massachusetts, to his present position of honor in the book as a matter of course. But also there is in it a remarkable demonstration of the way the Church moves to attain its ends, particularly of the benign machinery of the Church. And Cardinal O'Donnell is frank enough to give, as well, an idea of how a churchman looks at the religious world outside his own fold. He writes, in other words, with frankness.

WELL, TAKE A SQUINT AT THIS SCORE

Snow Hill, N. C., June 16.—Snow Hill held a scoring party at the expense of Greenville yesterday and the final tabulation showed the locals on top of a 19-2 score. Manager Walker's locals made seventeen hits.

John Griffin hit two triples and two singles to lead the locals. Newman Royce and Lindley each made three hits for Snow Hill. The visitors made eight hits.

SPORT SLANTS

One of the strangest of old Gus Fan's reactions, this year and last, is his marked preference for Lou Gehrig over Jimmie Foxx in marking a ballot for the all-star American League ball team.

The vote last summer was outstanding in Gehrig's favor when the public balloting took place to decide the make-up of the teams that fought it out for major league all-star honors at Chicago. Foxx, it is true, received a big vote all-told, including the support of those who would like to see him on third base in order to make room for Gehrig at first, but the consequence was that he did not get the nomination for either all-star position.

Let there be no misunderstanding about how we regard Gehrig. The Iron Man of the Yankees is a great player in every respect. He will be no handicap to the American League. He has done some things that Foxx never will do, such as playing ten straight seasons without missing a single game but on performance, especially during the past few years, he does not outrank the Maryland hauler. To be specific, during 1932-1933, Foxx has hit more home runs, driven in more runs and posted a higher batting average than Gehrig. These factors are a pretty fair measure of offensive ability and they are indisputable, yet the idea seems to be prevalent that Foxx is just another farmhand around the place when the talk about first basemen comes up.

Defensively, while there is no doubt about Gehrig's steadiness, I would not concede Columbia Lou holds an edge over Maryland Jimmie. Neither is a Hal Chase or a Fred Tenney when it comes to doing fancy stuff around the bag.

Plenty of Pitchers There should be no trouble this year with the National League's all-star hurling staff, although the nominations still may be subject to the wear and tear of another tough pennant race.

Managers like Charley Grimm of the Cubs, Bill Terry of the Giants and Frank Frisch of the Cardinals cannot afford to sacrifice ball games just for the satisfaction of having their ace pitchers rested up for the inter-league session. However, among such men as Hubbell, Bush, Warneke, Dizzy Dean and Schumacher, at least two or three should be "in pink."

The American League will be harder pressed for pitching talent unless Manager Joe McCarthy is kind enough to save Vernon (Lefty) Gomez for the game. Whitehill of the Senators, Marberry of the Tigers and possibly Hildebrand of the Indians will be on the all-star roster but none has shown as much stuff this season as Gomez and the one-time "greats" of the league, Grove, Earnshaw, Ferrell, et al, are no longer much more than names.

Late News Flashes

First the House adopted the resolution for a presidential board to handle collective bargaining disputes. Not even a record vote was required. While that branch proceeded on reports adjusting differences with the Senate on the railway pension and other measures the Senate was voting for the bill that will provide for more private lending for home construction and repairing.

Some slight amendments necessitated a conference with the House before it could be sent to the White House to take its place alongside the many other recovery measures enacted in this 73rd Congress.

Senator Wagner of North Carolina, explained the new labor resolution to his colleagues. It was generally accepted that adoption would soon follow after which no major obstacle to adjournment would exist.

Many of the legislators had railroad tickets ready and bags packed. There was a minimum of adjournment fanfare with President Roosevelt going his usual busy way in lieu of arranging to visit the capitol to sign the last minute legislation.

Among the less conspicuous measures to get attention while the House waited for the Senate to wind up, was one to let farmers live in their foreclosed homes for six years following the foreclosure date.

The House substituted its own version for the bill passed by the Senate necessitating another of the several conferences that were underway for settlement of differences between the two branches.

The senator-representative meetings were being held in offices just off the Senate floor, agreements of conference now and again being rushed into the Senate or House for action so the bills could be sent to the White House.

Cuba Starts Terrorist Drive.
Havana, June 16.—(AP)—Terrorists who struck at the life of President Carlos Mendicta with a bomb concealed in a camera box stirred the Cuban cabinet today and the government into a grim anti-terror campaign.

Ten suspects are in jail, arrested after an explosion yesterday which injured the President and killed two men and wounded ten others at an official luncheon.

The cabinet met early this morning and made public a new law of public order which the government hopes will break up the present epidemic of terrorist activities.

Merrion Democratic Speaker
Raleigh, N. C., June 16.—(AP)—With the veterans of the "hustings" Cameron Morrison, sounding the keynote, Democrats of North Carolina will center their attention here Thursday for their biennial State convention.

Spacious Memorial Auditorium will be the scene of the convention, but its seating capacity of more than 4,150 is expected to be overrun as the hosts of Democracy gather to lay plans for the fall election and consider works of the first National Democratic Administration in years.

The bear entered the enclosure and opened six of the bee gums, and sprung two traps, but made his escape safely enough.

Only his love for honey sent him back. He got into a trap and was slain.
