YALE CONFERS DEGREE UPON ROOSEVELT

PRESIDENT ADOPTED BY OLD COLLEGE

Degree of Doctor of Laws Conferred Upon Nation's Leader In Impressive Ceremony; President To Address Alumni Association During the Day

New Haven, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—Yale received President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, a Harvard graduate, into her family of adopted sons today conferring upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

While the sun shone from cloudless skies on the ancient domes of the historic campus, Wootley Hall—scene of Yale's 233rd commencement—Mr. Roosevelt heard himself called "a brave leader of your people" in times of peril by President James Roland Angell, as the Chief Executive received the highest honor the university can bestow on an adopted son and a "man of today," by William Lyon Phelps.

Harvard's distinguished alumnus became the fourth president to receive honorary degrees from Yale while in office and the second to come to New Haven to receive the honor.

Presidents Washington and McKinley were awarded degrees absentia, while another Roosevelt—Theodore—came to New Haven in the fall of 1901 to accept the honor.

President Roosevelt expected to leave for New London aboard the yacht Sequoia in the afternoon after addressing the Yale graduates at their annual alumni luncheon.

LIGHT DOCKET IN COURT HERE

Half Dozen Odd Cases Given Hearing In Weekly Sitting of County Court

County court held an abbreviated session yesterday and disposed of a half dozen-odd cases.

Several cases were continued until next week and others were transferred to Superior court for jury trial.

Haloway Vines, colored, convicted of a charge of possession of liquor for the purpose of sale, was sentenced to sixty days on the county road.

Wade Bullock, charged with possession of liquor for sale, was given a suspended sentence to the roads. No pros was ordered in the case of Leon Crawford, charged with possession of liquor.

Charged with cohabiting with Annie White, John Prayer, colored, was sentenced to the roads for six months. The woman was sick and unable to attend court.

Baxter Carson, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, asked for a jury trial and the case was transferred to Superior court under bond of $100.

No pros was taken in the case of Heber Dunn, charged with reckless driving.

Cow-Carson Net Birdie Medford, Oregon.—(AP)—Members of the hole in one club can't high-hat Ralph Bardwell, for he has a golf achievement to his credit which is even more difficult and rare. In tournament play Bardwell teed off on the 13th, sent the ball over a distance fence where it struck a cow in the ribs and bounced back in a graceful curve to give him a birdie on the hole.

RELIEF BODY READY TO BUY STATE SPUDS

Mrs. O'Berry Says Expenses Will Be Assured Growers In Relief Purchases.

Raleigh, June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, state relief administrator, said today her organization would probably start buying surplus Irish potatoes from North Carolina growers today.

"We're ready to start buying any minute but have had no reports of a surplus yesterday," Mrs. O'Berry said.

"We were informed this morning that all potatoes offered at Elizabeth City last night had not been sold and farmers were holding them for $1.60 a barrel.

"We cannot buy at that price, but we will try to pay enough for surplus products to give the farmers expenses and will probably start buying today."

Mrs. O'Berry said her office was compiling a list of counties where potatoes can be used and she expects to send most of them to counties in the Piedmont and Western North Carolina.

McNEILL IS HELD IN CRASH PROBE

Baltimore, Md., June 20.—(AP)—Pending a coroner's inquest, William W. McNeill, Jr., of Raleigh, N. C., was held in custody of the Baltimore police today in connection with the death of Miss Olive Fountain, who was killed early yesterday in an automobile accident.

He was taken to central police station late yesterday but complained of a pain in his chest and was removed to the Baltimore City Hospital.

Coroner Jack Dallmann, of Middle River, is in charge of the investigation, but no date has been set for the inquest.

The accident occurred as McNeill and Miss Fountain, who was also from Raleigh, were returning from Washington to the home of Miss Fountain's sister, Mrs. F. D. McCauley. The automobile in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve and crashed into a tree.

Roosters' Revenge Morton, Texas.—(AP)—L. W. Hodges had a "flat" about a mile down the road from the place where he ran over a rooster. One of the rooster's spurs had pierced both the tire casing and inner tube.

PRESS PROBE IN DEATH OF N. Y. LAWYER

Police of Three Nations Investigating Mystery Death Of Miss Tulferson.

(By Associated Press) Today's highlights in the enigmatic case of Miss Agnes Tulferson, missing New York and Detroit lawyer.

In Vienna, when Ivan Puderjay, the man of many amours, who married Miss Tulferson last December shortly before she disappeared, is being held as a police chemist announced that dark stains found in a trunk containing some of the missing lawyer's belongings had not been made by blood.

At Brighton, England, fashionable watering place, where a woman's torso was found in a railroad station last Sunday, police made another gruesome find. It was the body of a still born baby packed in a suitcase. Scotland Yard's shrewdest criminologists were still attempting to identify the woman's dismembered body. They feared that it was not that of Miss Tulferson. The corpse bore no mark of operation such as Miss Tulferson had undergone in 1928.

New York police proceeded on the theory that Miss Tulferson had been slain before leaving on a contemplated honeymoon cruise with Puderjay. Working against time they decided to insure Puderjay's detention by pressing a grand larceny charge against him for not paying $1,500 he owed a shopping agent who purchased the Tulferson wedding finery.

NEBRASKA CONVICTS IDLE AS NRA SHUTS FACTORY

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—Nebraska convicts, out of job because of abandonment of a shirt and trousers factory at the penitentiary here, are going in for athletics, education and longer hours of rest.

The substitute activities have been satisfactory so far, says Deputy Warden Dan Kavanaugh, but he hopes the legislature will appropriate funds next year to provide new types of work.

"It's true as ever, that idle hands are dangerous," he says. NRA code restrictions caused the private company owning the factory concessions to cease operations.

A New York City judge has ruled hotels responsible for baggage lost on their property.

IN INTERNATIONAL MYSTERY

The strange disappearance of Agnes Tulferson (right), Detroit corporation lawyer, has become the subject of an international investigation, with her husband, Capt. Ivan Puderjay being held in Vienna pending developments. Police were seeking clues in New York for Miss Tulferson was last seen there December 20 when she presumably left for a European honeymoon with Puderjay. Miss Tulferson (left) sister of the missing woman, insists the attorney met with foul play. (Associated Press Photo)

DAVID KERR FOUND DEAD

Superintendent of the Champion Fibre Co., Dies at Raleigh In Pullman Car.

Raleigh, June 20.—(AP)—David J. Kerr, superintendent of the Champion Fibre Company's huge paper plant at Canton, was found dead in his berth on a railroad car here early today.

Mr. Kerr was en route to Raleigh to attend the state Democratic convention here tomorrow.

His body was found by a porter, Coroner L. M. Waring of Wake county, after a probe, attributed the death to heart trouble and expressed the opinion Mr. Kerr died shortly after retiring last night.

Kerr was prominent in political circles of Western North Carolina. He had been with the Champion Fibre Company for 27 years and was mayor of Canton for five terms.

Last night he was seen to be preparing to retire about 10 o'clock, after he had been talking with J. Wallace Winborne of Marion, state Democratic chairman, and Plato Ebbes of Asheville.

Mr. Winborne and Mr. Ebbes left their pullman car this morning and at the hotel they were notified there that a man in the car had been found dead and went back to the station to ascertain that it was Mr. Kerr.

DIGGING IS RESUMED AFTER POTATO HOLIDAY

Washington, N. C., June 20.—Potato digging was resumed Monday following the closing of the "potato digging holiday" Sunday night, with the prices apparently pegged at $1.75 a barrel and with few spuds on the market.

The "voluntary holiday" closed Tuesday night and Governor Ehringhaus said he was awaiting word as to what action the Federal Government plans to take before he engineered any further move to increase prices of the product or prevent a drop in prices.

BIBLE SCHOOL HAS NEW GIFT

Contributes $10 at Monthly Meeting Here Last Night

Another contribution of $10 was made today to the Bible School which opened at Third street school the first of the week.

The gift was made by the Pitt County Post of the American Legion at the monthly meeting of the organization last night.

A number of contributions to the cause have been received from day to day, but it was said today that the sum required for the school was yet far behind.

An appeal was made to the public, and especially to organizations to give as liberally as possible, to assure success of the school.

The school opened Monday with an enrollment of two hundred and nine, and it was expected the number would go beyond this mark during the week.

The school is sponsored by the churches of the city in cooperation with the school system. It is an effort to improve the juvenile situation through a month of study and recreation.

The school will continue for a period of four weeks.

TO RENEW SEARCH FOR MISSING WOMAN LAWYER

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The search for Agnes Tulferson, missing bride of Ivan Ivanovitch Puderjay, swain of many women, turned abruptly again to New York today from London and Vienna as the police here started a renewed attempt to locate the Detroit-New York woman lawyer.

Police subpoenaed all cable and wireless messages which the Yugoslavian adventurer may have sent or received during his mysterious visit here last fall and winter.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan would not disclose what reasons prompted the police to renew the search here on such a systematic scale but promised important developments within twenty-four hours.

LOCAL LEGION POST PRAISED FOR FINE WORK

State Adjutant Caldwell Says Record Set Here is the Best in The State

The fine record of Pitt County Post of the American Legion was lauded last night by J. M. Caldwell of New Bern, adjutant of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, speaking at the monthly meeting of the local post in the Third street school field house.

Mr. Caldwell said the local post had established the finest record in the state, not only through observance of the general Legion program but by increased membership.

In addition to this compliment, the speaker discussed the Legion program from the standpoint of both state and national departments and declared achievements had been the most outstanding in years.

Large attendance marked last night's meeting and the former service men who helped put Kaiser Bill on the blink enjoyed a delightful barbecue supper with all accessories. It was astonishing the way the Pitt County pig disappeared in the face of the concerted attack by the veterans of the World War and one was reminded of the days on the front line trenches when the boys were so mad with Germany they felt like devouring every Hun they came in contact with.

Election of officers, scheduled for last night, was postponed until the July meeting.

The post decided to put on a beauty contest July 6 and the feminine pulchritude of the community will be given an opportunity to compete for the honor of becoming "Miss Greenville" and representing the city at the state convention of the Legion in Greensboro the latter part of August. The winner of beauty honors at Greensboro will be treated to a trip to Miami to represent North Carolina in the National Legion beauty contest in October.

The post also contributed $10 to the Vacation Bible School which opened at Third street school the first of the week.

Delegates to the state convention will be elected at the next meeting. The post, because of the great growth in membership during the last year will be entitled to six delegates this year as against three last year. It was stated that every effort would be made to make the beauty pageant the best ever conducted here, and plans will get underway immediately with this end in view.

J. H. Rose presided over last night's session.

TWO ARRESTED IN BRUNSWICK DEATH

Southport, June 20.—(AP)—Walter Nelson and W. W. Skipper were arrested yesterday by Sheriff I. D. Harrelson and lodged in the Brunswick county jail here on charges of murder growing out of the death last week of Nelson's brother, Luther Nelson, a justice of the peace at Leland.

Warrants for the two were sworn by the widow of Luther Nelson.

The two Nelsons and Skipper were en route to lower Brunswick county on a fishing trip when Luther Nelson was fatally injured. His companions reported he was brushed off the side of their automobile when the machine grazed a tree. Nelson was riding on the running board after having helped push the car out deep sand where it had become stuck, they said.

Bruises were found on all three men, and Walter Nelson and Skipper reported these were sustained when they engaged in a friendly scuffle.

COHOON BOUND OVER ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Elizabeth City, N. C., June 20.—(AP)—W. L. Cohoon, 59-year-old Elizabeth City attorney and former general counsel for the State Highway Commission, was bound over to Superior Court under $250 bond when a finding of probable cause on charge of horse-whipping J. H. LeRoy, Jr., 35-year-old attorney, was returned in recorder's court here today.

The alleged assault occurred shortly before noon Saturday on the third floor of the Carolina building where both attorneys have their offices. The two had been unfriendly for some time.

The warrant charged Mr. Cohoon with secret assault and assault with a horse whip and knife with intent to kill.

SEC. PERKINS STUDIES LATE DEVELOPMENT

Union Leaders Look to President for Action If Negotiations Now Under Way Fail; Left Wingers Don't Like So Much Talk Without More Definite Action

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—A new deadlock was threatened today in the steel industry dispute. There appeared to be a possibility that peace powers Congress have just granted President Roosevelt may have to be used.

Secretary Perkins, to whom the President has given the task of averting a strike, studied latest proposals of the management and union, said to be in conflict on vital points of collective bargaining.

Union leaders looked to Mr. Roosevelt's authority to name a peace labor board as a possible means of settlement if negotiations now in progress fail.

"Today's developments mean we will have peace in the industry at least temporary," Michel Tighe, president of the steel union, said after a conference yesterday with Miss Perkins. "How long it will last I can't say."

Some observers interpreted his remarks to mean that local union leaders might chafe under prolonged negotiations.

So-called "left wingers" in the union already have shown indications that they don't like much talk without definite action.

Both the unions and the management have placed their newest cards on Miss Perkins' table. The unions suggested that a labor board be set up to settle the dispute. The managements are believed to have proposed such a board also.

LARGE CROWD HEARS POTTS

Interest in Presbyterian Revival Increases With Large Attendance In Evidence

The best crowd yet to attend the series of revival services which opened at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, was present last night and heard Rev. J. R. Potts, evangelist, deliver probably one of the best sermons of the series.

Many favorable comments about the services were heard today and it was reported that some of the churches were planning to abandon regular Wednesday night prayer services in order to afford their members an opportunity to attend the Presbyterian revival.

Friday night will be children's night at the revival and parents were urged to send children in large numbers.

Last night Mr. Potts spoke on the subject, "A Great Salvation." His text was taken from Hebrews 2:3: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

The evangelist said that the plan of salvation is the wonder of wonders of all the ages. "It is marvelous," he said, "that the greatest minds the world has known have not been able to think their way through it. Yet, while it is as wonderful as it is so simple that the smallest child in your home understands the difference between right and wrong may know enough about it to be a Christian."

"It will not be difficult to remember what I have to present in this message. It all centers around three words: 'Great Escape' and 'Neglect.' It is a great salvation because it discloses to us a great Saviour. He is able to save to the uttermost. That means the man who is deepest in sin, the man who is farthest from God. The man who is most hopeless and helpless can lift his eyes toward Christ and cry out, saying, 'God be merciful to me' and grace can reach him."

Mr. Potts described two remarkable conversions that had come to his knowledge. One was the conversion of a young lady prominent in the highest social circles of our country, the other was that of a drunkard, a man who had served three terms in prison, and said: "A salvation that can go up into the ultra-fashionable circles of society and save a social queen and do down into the slums and save a drunken bum, is a great salvation."

"It is a great salvation in so many ways. Great is its pardon—great in its forgiveness—great in its sacrifices." The points of the sermon were graphically illustrated by stories and experiences in life.

POWELL HELD FOR ASSAULT

Greenville Carpenter Charged With Criminal Attack on 14-Year-Old Girl

Fred Powell, about 40 years old, Greenville carpenter, was being held in the county jail here today on a charge of criminally attacking a 14-year-old girl, Miss Helen Creech, also of Greenville.

Powell was scheduled to be given preliminary hearing before Magistrate A. E. Denton this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The prisoner was taken into custody at his home here yesterday afternoon by Constable C. W. Evans and was lodged in the county jail to await hearing.

Evans said Powell was alleged to have attacked the young woman while on the way to Bethel, and a warrant was issued for his arrest immediately after the affair was reported.

Powell is married and has been living in Greenville for a number of years. He has been engaged on several construction jobs during his residence here.

Twins Keep Doctors Busy Commerce, Ga.—(AP)—The stark seems to have had things framed up against the doctors in this community the other night. Dr. M. P. Deadyler delivered twin boys at a farm house and then went home to bed. He was barely asleep when another call came. This time they were twin girls. At the same time Dr. G. O. Castellaw was delivering twin girls at another farm house close by.

It's Weather That Causes Drought

Man Gets Blame

F. R. COLTON

(Associated Press Science Writer)

Washington, D. C.—Man has made the present record-breaking drought worse in its effects in many sections than it would have been forty years ago, but its main cause is failure of moisture-laden warm air to rise into the cool upper air when its vapor could be condensed and fall as rain.

This is the verdict of weather bureau experts who have been studying droughts, their causes and possible methods of ameliorating them for many years.

There is only one way to make it rain, they explain. That is to get warm air, with moisture evaporated from the earth's surface, up to heights where the temperature is colder. When this moist, warm air is cooled, it can hold less moisture, and so the excess turns from vapor into water, and falls as rain.

A drought represents a failure on the part of nature to form this process over a greater or lesser area.

The great air masses which control weather may become stagnant, with the result that the normal process of moist warm air masses from the south meeting cold air masses from the north and riding up over them with resulting condensation and rainfall, is interrupted. Excessive heat also may warm up the northern air so much that it does not cool the southern moist air sufficiently to produce much rain.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Sergeant Harper's theory that Pierre Dufresne or his wife is guilty of the murder of two men in the Dufresne house is blown sky high by the suicide of Joseph Donaghy, their chauffeur.

Chapter 40 NEW THEORY

"THANK you, Andrews," Harper acknowledged the patent sincerity of the old butler's words.

"That will be all for the present," he told them, in dismissal. The servants fled out silently, with O'Connell bringing up the rear.

Sergeant Harper leaned back wearily. His face was drawn and tired, his eyes looking dully through the window at a winter landscape he did not see.

"What do you mean, Steve?" Lafferty gasped.

"In plain words, Donaghy's suicide is a 'fake,' a 'plant.' He was murdered, just like the others. Out there is the same mysterious mark in the snow, only this time it's between the pergola and the garage!"

"Holy Moses!" murmured the lanky detective, weakly.

"Not only that," Harper went on. "I found two more of those spikes. One driven into the end of the pergola and one beside the pent roof over the garage door. You see where this leaves us?"

"But good God, man, where is it going to end?"

"I don't know, but I do know that Donaghy never went to any gambling house and lost his 'roll.' You remember that it snowed again from seven to eleven o'clock last night. I waited here until midnight to see him. How did he get back into the garage after that without leaving his own footprints in the snow?"

"I BELIEVE," Harper continued, "that Donaghy left this house and went directly to his room and stayed there. At that time it wasn't snowing. But if he did that, he couldn't have lost his money gambling and that would make that much of the letter a lie. Yet the loss of that money is given as a major reason for the suicide."

"Hmm. What about Donaghy's alibi for the night of the murders? It looked all right to me."

"Yes, and it looked all right to me. It was the average sort of account that is genuine in ninety-nine times in a hundred. It's not the too-foolish kind that can account for every minute, because the need for that was borne in mind."

Harper turned the signet ring left in his fingers. "I can't quite swallow 'Harry Dorey,'" he said. "The bare name suggests nothing, explains nothing. Why did this H.D. buy a disguise in order to look like Dufresne? We've got the right answer as to how the escape was pulled off and perhaps the name of the murdered man, but along with these two answers we get about a dozen new questions to wrestle with."

Lafferty said, "You told me that the wound was in typical suicide form—with the gun muzzle pressed firmly against the head. I suppose you realize that a murderer rarely gets a chance to hold the gun that way, unless he catches his victim asleep or unconscious?"

"Asleep, or unconscious, or—" "Or what?" Lafferty pressed. "You just gave me an idea," Harper answered guardedly, "but it's still too hazy to discuss. Here's what I want you to do, Jack. Take O'Connell and go back to the garage. Give it a good rapping out, especially for anything that might have a bearing on the suicide-murder question."

After Lafferty had gone Harper paced the length of the room restlessly, fitting this new design into the jumbled mosaic formed by all the known angles of the case. "A very pretty theory," he growled to himself, "but how to prove it? How to prove it?"

port market and the world wheat price. Since last fall exports from the northwest have been subsidized.

While wiping out of the surplus makes exports less urgent from the domestic standpoint, the administration's drive to secure tariff bargaining powers indicates it does not plan voluntarily to surrender what foreign markets have been retained for American agricultural products.

Should Argentina fail to follow through on the London wheat agreement by controlling production, it already has been indicated that AAA machinery easily might be adapted to the payment of bonuses to farmers to export rather than to reduce production.

A feature of the "control" phase of the wheat program may be adoption of the corn loan policy. About 270,000,000 bushels of corn are sealed in cribs on farms under government loans.

By adopting such a plan for wheat the government might continue with its control program, and at the same time keep a reserve of grain on farms against repetition of drought and as insurance against actual famine.

A map of crop conditions shows one of the most serious situations has to do with hay and pasture, crops which the government has been urging the farmers to expand rather than to reduce.

Nineteen states, from Ohio to Nevada, show the lowest June condition of these crops on record.

"The reports from some states seem unbelievably low," said the crop reporting board.

Thus, during the past 40 years no state has reported pastures on June 1 below 42 per cent of normal condition. This year the condition of hay and pasture in South Dakota averaged 8 per cent of normal, in North Dakota 15 per cent, Minnesota 26 per cent, Iowa 28 per cent, Nebraska 33 per cent and Wisconsin 42 per cent.

In the "critical" area, it is said, the failure or near failure of pastures, hay crops and of a large acreage of spring grains can hardly be offset by increased acreages and favorable yields of corn and emergency forage crops. A material reduction in livestock in this area seems unavoidable, the crop reporting board declares.

In the "serious" area that includes most of the rest of the corn belt, damage has been severe, but favorable weather from now on would permit harvesting of good crops of corn, soybeans, sorghums and emergency hay and forage crops.

The drought has resulted in the lowest milk production per cow on June 1 in more than half the states that has been recorded in 10 years. The drought also affects egg production. Farm production of eggs is the smallest at this time of year in 10 years.

Smallest Wheat Yield in 41 Years May End AAA

By CARL C. VRANMER

Washington, June 20.—(AP)—The June crop report forecasting the smallest wheat yield in 41 years may mean that the administration's wheat program next year will call for a "controlled" rather than a curtailed acreage.

While neither Secretary Wallace nor any other official in the agricultural department has ventured an indication thus far in advance of sweeping changes in the wheat program, analysis of the probable statistical position of the crop shows that the AAA may be able to relax its policies much sooner than was expected.

From the start Secretary Wallace has emphasized that the first objective was to reduce surpluses gradually accumulated as an oppressive factor in the market, and then to "control" acreage to prevent a repetition of the surplus.

The crop of 500,000,000 bushels forecast would be about 125,000,000 bushels less than the country normally uses. To meet that deficit there is an estimated carryover of 260 or 270 million bushels. Exports even at the low rate of last year would mean a carryover by next year of less than normal.

Much may depend upon the excess rain in the ten years ending in 1933 than in the decade ending in 1908. This decline of rainfall centered in Minnesota but covered the northern plains to the west, especially the Dakotas, and extended east to the western lake region. All the drought states have had deficient rainfall for at least two or three years.

Harper hears, tomorrow, Mrs. Croeyden's story.

Rain
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"It's raining," they cried happily. "It's pouring," said Top Notch, the rooster. "Raining doesn't half describe it."

"Oh, let's hope it keeps up," said Willy Nilly. "What you mean," said Top Notch, "in his practical fashion, 'is that you hope it will keep on coming down.'"

"Don't be so fussy, Top Notch," barked Rip, the dog. "But I suppose all vain creatures are fussy."

"There, there," said Willy Nilly. "No quarrelling. We won't have to worry about the dry grass and the woods and be afraid of any more fires if we have enough rain. Let's rejoice instead of snapping at each other."

"We're not snapping at any one," quacked the ducks. "But we're going straight out into it and let the rain run right off our backs."

"I'm going down to fix up my general store in the shed," cackled Top Notch. "It needs attention."

"I'm going to the nest to straighten it out," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Let's watch him as he goes out and see that he doesn't take something that doesn't belong to him," cackled Top Notch.

"I suppose you're afraid I may take your little mirror," cawed Christopher. "But I won't. Unkind words have often been said about crows but no one has remarked that we're vain."

"How do I know that?" inquired Top Notch. "I don't hear a great deal of conversation and news." Just then there came a tapping of wings on the door.

Philco Agency Here Awarded A Loving Cup

The Carolina Kelvinator Co. of this city, today was the proud possessor of a silver loving cup presented by the Philco Radio and Television Company of Philadelphia at a meeting at Bayview yesterday, for scoring the greatest sales record of all other agencies in the United States during the spring period.

The presentation was made by D. J. MacKillop, representing the Philadelphia office, at the annual dealers' meeting of the Carolina Kelvinator Company, distributors for Eastern Carolina.

In a business session of two hours many talks and discussions took place. Speakers were J. T. Little, secretary-treasurer of the Carolina Kelvinator Co., E. E. Rawl, sales manager, and H. M. Blount, service manager.

The new 1935 Philco radios were presented to the dealers by Jack Allison, field representative of the Philco factory.

Following an afternoon conference of the dealers, bathing, swimming and fishing were enjoyed. A delightful buffet supper was served.

The dealers expressed optimism over the business outlook of the territory and said the prospects for capturing another sales record was very bright.

Tips on CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL
Finesse One, Squeeze Other
Three kings hardly warrant a double of a grand slam contract without a her indications of trick-taking possibilities. A double in the hope of making at least one of the kings is likely to give a good declarer a clue to success.

An opponent of Mrs. Paul Lynch of Kew Garden, N. Y., learned that lesson when she made a grand slam after quite optimistic bidding. The double marked the way to successful finesses preparatory to a squeeze. Here was the hand:

NORTH
♥	Q965
♦	AJ43
WEST
♠	K8
♥	104
♦	K82
EAST
♠	J1097
♥	8
♦	1076
♣	J9642
SOUTH
♠	AK732
♥	Q95
♦	AB

Over South's opening bid of one heart, North, with a great fit in hearts, forced with two spades. Use of the four and five no trump conventions resulted in a seven-heart bid by South. West doubled. The spade and diamond suits are too shaky for a grand slam contract, though a little slam should be reached.

West opened the club king, which was won by South's ace. The diamond queen was led and West covered with the king. Why? Obviously either because West held the ten of diamonds protected or he hoped to promote the ten in East's hand. After winning the diamond ace

In A Garden

For garden parties, informal dinners and "go in to the races," Worth designs this new frock of finely pleated white net with a deep pilgrim collar of the same fabric. The waist bouquet is of pansies in brown and yellow tones, and the broad-brimmed hat is of Japanese straw plaited in checkerboard effect.

and putting herself back in the South hand with a heart, Mr. Lynch successfully finessed the spade queen and led the jack of diamonds. Returning to the South hand again with a heart, the declarer ruffed the eight of clubs in the North hand then played out all the hearts.

The question was whether the nine of diamonds could be made to take a trick or whether a low spade in the North hand could be set up and the diamond nine discarded upon it. The position of the nine-spot was a menace over East, forcing him to keep the ten. In keeping the ten he had to unguard spades all would be well.

After all the trumps but one had been played the situation was:
NORTH: S-A 6 4
WEST: S-K; D-8; C-Q
EAST: S-J 10; D-10
SOUTH: S-5; H-3; D-9

On the lead of the heart three, West discarded his last club and the four of spades was shed North. East let go a spade and the last two tricks were taken with the ace and six of spades. And so the contract was made by finessing West and squeezing East. An attempt to set up a spade in the North hand or ruffs would have encouraged entr- difficulties.

Impetus to G. O. P. Fire
They will be able to point to Fugwell—"Chief Brain-truster," the man who typifies in their minds "planned economy" or "regimentation" of the American people—as the occupant of a vital post at the controls of government.

And they think they will be able if necessary to select from the prolific pen and frequent utterances of the professor any information they desire to substantiate their charges.

Judeed purely, therefore, from a political standpoint Tugwell's elevation is all that Republicans and anti-new dealers could desire. It will afford them fresh impetus to crusade against those just recent condemned in the G. O. P. national committee's declaration as the "small group vested with temporary authority" working "covertly" in alleged unconstitutional fashion.

KELLUM TO TRY 28 ON SLOT MACHINE CHARGE
Wilmington, N. C., June 20.—Trial of the twenty-eight people indicted for violation of the "slot machine law" by the New Hanover grand jury last week has been set for the next term of criminal court, which open on July 23, District Solicitor Woodus Kellum said today.

Ten of the twenty-eight were im-marked, dictated Monday and the remainder later in the week.

The majority have been arrested by sheriff's officers on capias issued by the clerk of court.

The drive against operators of the alleged gambling devices has resulted in their disappearance from numerous cafes, filling stations, beer gardens and similar establishments in the city and county. An observer said it was practically impossible to find one today. Machines have been operated here for the past few years and the current campaign is the first active one against them.

They say eight hours sleep is essential to health and beauty, but I always have nine. That extra hour does more for the texture of the skin than a gallon of creams. WILMER HINES, TENNIS ACE, IN LOCAL MATCHES

Wilmer Hines, one of the leading amateur tennis players of the country, was a Greenville visitor yesterday and gave himself a limbering up in a couple of matches with Charles Woodward and "Billy" Brown, members of the local tennis team who have enjoyed considerable success in competition with surrounding towns the last year or so.

The matches were played on the Charles Heber Forbes court, considered one of the best in the city. Hines, who is visiting Harold Stator at Bethel, promised to return to Greenville for further matches either this afternoon or tomorrow.

Hines recently returned from Europe where he competed with some of the leading aces of the country. While in Germany he played Von Gramm, but was beaten to the tune of 8-6. It was stated that Chancellor Hitler witnessed the contest and was so impressed by the playing of the young American that he invited Hines into his box. It was probably the first time a German had won anything since the beginning of the World War when they ran the French helter-skelter through barbed wire entanglements and the great Nazi leader evidently wanted to celebrate. Anyhow, his invitation to Hines was something of an event and was so considered by the tennis realm and the world in general.

In addition to playing in Germany, Hines competed with leading stars of England, France and other countries. He was a member of the team sent across the pond by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Hines was graduated from the University of North Carolina two years ago and is considered one of the finest tennis players ever turned out by the school. He is a schoolmate of Harold Stator and probably will be in Bethel for several days. Pitt county people feel rather close to Hines because of the fact that his father, John Hines, formerly of Ayden, is a native of this county.

SNOW HILL STOPS AYDEN

Ayden, N. C., June 20.—Snow Hill stopped Ayden's winning streak by taking a 3 to 1 victory here yesterday behind the pitching of Sivley. The Snow Hill hurler took the decision over Turbeville, Presbyterian Junior College star, in a tight mound duel.

Turbeville fanned fourteen and gave only five hits, but the visitors used two hits a walk and an error to score a pair of runs in the second inning and added another in the eighth. Ayden's lone run came in the first frame.

The locals made seven hits off Sivley who fanned five. Snow Hill made one error; Ayden made two.

Wall and Smith, each with two hits, led Ayden. Griffin made two hits to lead Snow Hill.

Batteries: Snow Hill—Sivley and Royce; Ayden—Turbeville and Smith.

WAGNER AND MAY ARE FROM DUKE ALRIGHT

The sports writer for this paper was in a temporary jam today because of inadvertently referring to May and Wagner, pitcher and catcher, respectively, of the local ball club, as former "U. N. C." men.

As everybody knows, and as the sports writer knew also, they are products of Duke University and are playing some mighty fine ball for the local club even though we are on the next floor to the cellar in the standing of clubs column.

But—when Duke supporters read the story yesterday and saw the reference about May and Wagner being from U. N. C. well, they started seeing red and their optics hadn't cleared sufficiently this morning to give them even keel.

And, when U. N. C. supporters read the story they were equally as exasperated. Whereas Duke wanted to claim May and Wagner as their personal property, the University boys weren't so anxious for the honor, and the result was "hell pay the cap'n" this morning.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of schools, and a former Duke man, squawked as fiercely as anybody. Over the telephone he demanded a retraction, explanation or something.

Next came Bert Moye, official scorer of the ball club, who is always sitting on a heap of red hot coals, calling hits errors and errors hits, who wanted to know "If we didn't know the two players in dispute were from Duke?"

Because of the layman's unfamiliarity with the intricacies of the newspaper office, we feel disinclined to go into further details concerning the affair but offer our best bow of apology to both Duke and Carolina and hope both will always be as proud of their men as Duke followers are proud of May and Wagner.

TARBORO BLANKED

Tarboro, N. C., June 20.—New Bern yesterday handed Tarboro its eleventh straight league defeat—and did it by the shutout route. The Craven County boys took an 8 to 0 verdict behind three-hit pitching of McEvoy.

Braswell, Tarboro's starting flinger, opened festivities by walking the first three batters. Wheaton's fly scored one and Lane's hit sent in the two other ticketed batsmen. Braswell was reached for five more runs before he retired in the fifth in favor of Felts. Felts gave only two hits and fanned seven in five innings.

Lane and Wealton, each with two hits, faced the New Bern attack. Batteries: New Bern—McEvoy and H. Perrebe; Tarboro—Braswell, Felts and Hall.

ed to cause some eyebrow-lifting, as much as to suggest that it was by the purest of luck that the Californian suddenly looked around and found that he had been promoted to the head of the class, not by his own special efforts but through the mistakes of others.

It is true that in golf, as in most sports, you can take quick advantage of the other fellow's errors, so long as you don't make too many yourself. Dutra not only made no critical mistakes of his own, when it developed he had a real chance to win the title, but he demonstrated what he has said about him all along—that he has one of the finest all-around golf games of any professional in America.

This is no alibi for the experts, who almost completely overlooked Dutra in pre-tournament calculations but it is a fact that they would have had a much higher regard for high chances had been reported in better health. There was even some doubt for a time that Dutra would start. He had a severe spell of illness, due to amoebic dysentery, only a week before reaching Merion. I talked with him the evening before the battle began. He was practicing chip shots and exposure shots, giving a running fire on instruction to interested bystanders at the same time.

"To be frank with you," he told me, "I don't know how I am going to stand the gaff of this 72 holes. I am feeling better, but I have lost so much weight that I may tire much more quickly than usual. At the same time I think I am hitting the ball very well. Maybe, because of my illness, my swing is more relaxed and I have no tendency to tighten up. I like the Merion layout and maybe that will help."

Dutra was exhausted when he finished his final round, with a huge crowd milling around to acclaim him, but he stuck to his guns and achieved perhaps the most courageous golfing triumph since Jess Sweetser, a very sick man, fought his way on a fever nerve through the British amateur tournament in 1925.

He Can Make the Shots

Dutra needs no testimonial as to his shot-making ability. Two years ago when he was knocking them off from one side of the country to another it was quite apparent that the big, methodical and easy-swinging Spaniard was on his way to the top. It was just a question of when he would crash through, owing to the ways connected with the open championship had the wide range of things that can happen to the best of them at unexpected moments.

Witness Gene Sarazen, who likewise needs no endorsement to prove he is a great player and a fine pinch-hitter. Twice in as many years big, juicy sevens have slapped Mr. Sarazen down just when he looked to have everything under control. You will recall that he took two costly sevens at St. Anish drew in the course of the 1933 British open championship, and failed by a single shot to the Denny Shute achieved perhaps the most courageous golfing triumph since Jess Sweetser, a very sick man, fought his way on a fever nerve through the British amateur tournament in 1925.

Watch These Young 'ns

One of the developments of the National open was to point the finger of attention to a couple of youthful amateurs who will bear some watching when the match-play scramble starts in the amateur championship at Brookline this September. They are both from the midlands and their names are Z. Eaton, of Oklahoma City, and Rodney Bliss, Jr., of Omaha.

Bliss is a home-town rival of Johnny Goodman. He went to Cornell University and was runner-up to Walter Emery, of Oklahoma, for the Intercollegiate championship last year. He was also runner-up to Jack Westland in the 1933 Western amateur. He has beaten Goodman in state amateur play, but of course, has never rivalled Johnny's national prominence. Nevertheless there is some personal rivalry and Bliss gained the satisfaction of outscoring Goodman in the tournament in which Johnny lost his place as the Open King.

Eaton has also come along fast. He was a scoring sensation in mid-Western tournaments last year, taking the medal honors in the Western amateur and the Trans-Mississippi, in which he lost to Lawson Little in the semi-finals in a sensational 38-hole match.

KANG-TEH PINS ORCHIDS ON FRIENDS OF EMPIRE

Changchun, Manchukuo.—(AP)—Emperor Kang-Teh, the former

Henry Pu-Yi, has decided that meritorious services to his Japanese-ruled state shall be rewarded with the "Grand Imperial Order" of the Orchid.

There will be nine grades of "Orchid" decorations, the highest being called "the Collard of the Grand Order of the Orchid," and the lowest being "the Grand Order of the Prosperous Cloud."

A special order is being created for foreign missionaries who have aided the poor of the realm. So far, however, there are no applicants for this decoration, the missionaries fearing that their government, which would never recognize Manchukuo, would disapprove acceptance of such honors.
