The fund for the Daily Vacation Bible School is still far short of the necessary goal. As a citizen you should be interested in this great piece of work and again we urge you to send in your contribution to help finance the school.

There is a lot of talk about the widening of the highway from Raleigh to Morehead City and Beaufort in order to take care of the increased traffic to and from those seaport cities that will be brought about by development of the port there. While several routes have been proposed it seems to us that the route from Raleigh via Wilson, Farmville, Greenville and New Bern is the one that should be widened to take care of this traffic. From Wilson, Rocky Mount, Farmville and Greenville there is shipped annually approximately one hundred millions of pounds of tobacco to the foreign countries and the development of the port at Morehead will make possible the shipping of this tobacco by that route. The route mentioned above is the shortest to the coast from these important tobacco market points and certainly this should be taken into consideration in the plans for making easier access to the seaport.

Most every day there comes news from some county in the state that a ban has been put on slot machines which is an indication that authorities are coming to realize the menace that the slot machines really are and have determined to rid their counties of them. While some of the machines themselves might, in theory, comply with the state laws, in actual operation the only attraction that these machines hold is that they are gambling devices and the players put their money in them hoping to get something for nothing. We are sure that the majority of the citizens in Pitt County feel the same way about the slot machines as those of other counties and would welcome some definite legal action here to rid our community of these slot machines.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE
 BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 51
COLLAPSE

"SO THIS man bounded you?" asked Harper. "Followed you back to the city and forced you to continue the affair? He made you meet him in this empty house—in this room? Then he is the one who put the notes in that sand urn on the hearth?"

"Yes. How did you know that?" she asked, surprised.

"You'd be surprised how many persons in this house knew about those secret notes. But why did this man buy a disguise so that he would look like Mr. Dufresne? We have traced that purchase, back in October."

Aline Croyden shuddered. "He turned into a beast, a maniac, once he had me in his clutches. I think at first he got the disguise to avoid detection should he be seen here, but later it pleased him to strut up and down dressed in Pierre's clothes, sneering and cursing at our money and social position. I saw that his madness would bring ruin and disgrace anyway once this house was occupied again."

She squared her shoulders. "I was desperate. It was too much to pay for my folly. I saw plainly that it was simply a question of his death or my ruin—the words trailed off into significant silence.

"Was he blackmailing you?"

"Oh, if it had only been a question of money—but he'd only laugh at me when I tried to buy him off. I began to plan. It had to be carried out here in this house. He would meet me nowhere else. He made me give him a key for the side door."

"He kept his address a secret. He would call me up from pay stations and tell me to look for the note in the urn. I built up my plan, tested every detail, went through every motion a thousand times. The first time there is snow on the ground, I swore to myself, he should die."

"Did this H.D. write those threatening letters to Mr. Dufresne?" Harper interrupted.

"I don't know. I hadn't heard about them until after—it would have been like him, his idea of a joke. I put off the next meeting until the night of my husband's concert. I knew it would be easy to slip away then."

"Weren't you nervous, afraid, when the time came?"

Mrs. Croyden shook her head. "Everything was arranged, rehearsed. I had no need to think, just act. When it got dark enough I slipped out of our house and came over here to put up the rope. Then I went downtown with my husband."

"It was nearly eight o'clock when I drove back. I left my car two blocks away. I tested the rope by reaching the house that way. It worked perfectly."

"Oh, so you came by way of the rope? I hadn't thought of that."

Aline Croyden nodded. "He was waiting in this room. We quarreled again. I think he enjoyed those scenes. It was then that I pounded angrily on the table, standing opposite him down the length of it. He went off calling me ugly names, so frayed my gun and shot him. I was amazed at how easy it had been."

"First I wanted to be sure no one heard the shot. I looked—and there was a policeman just turning in at the gate! The next thing I knew, I was standing with the front door open, telling the policeman that I had shot a burglar. He seemed to recognize me and came in without the least sign of suspicion."

"What brought him to the house?" Harper questioned.

"He said he had seen sparks coming from the chimney, and, knowing that the family was away, came to investigate. He had not heard the shot. I had been stirring up the logs in the fireplace to make a better light in the room."

The detective felt a pardonable pride in the accuracy of his previous deductions about Officer Hamill's movements and motives on that fatal night.

"It wasn't until the policeman was actually standing here looking at the body that I realized what an error I had made—that I couldn't possibly explain any of the details, my own presence, the seated body, the disguise, the two liquor glasses, anything. All this time I had been holding the gun."

"He made a step toward me and I fired—twice. That is the horror of it, she burst out."

Harper nodded understandingly. "That is true of every crime. The more you hide you harder in death had made an amended county debt service budget after Superintendent Haworth, of the city schools, had questioned the figures used and that he found a total deficiency of $400,000 in the tax levy.

Startling price reductions, just announced, place Chevrolet further ahead in its field than ever—in price, quality and value

CHEVROLET In the face of the biggest demand in years, right when the trend toward Chevrolet is at its peak, Chevrolet reduces prices! No wonder America was startled when this news flashed across the country just a few days ago. And now that the public has had a chance to figure out what this price reduction means in terms of greater value, the news becomes even more important than before. Because it means that Chevrolet now offers you a big, substantial, quality car with the famous valve-in-head engine for as little as $465, f. o. b. Flint, Mich.—making it by far the lowest-priced Six in the world. It means that you can get enclosed Knee-Action, Blue-Flame performance, cable-controlled brakes, and all the other big advancements of the day, for as much as $35.00 less than before—and Chevrolet's former prices were already among the lowest of the low. It means, in short, that Chevrolet now presents America with the finest buy the low-price field has ever seen.

Ellenberg-Whitley.

Bethel, N. C., June 21.—A wedding characterized by beauty and simplicity was solemnized on Wednesday, June 20, at 7 p. m., when Miss Lois Whitley became the bride of John Vinson Ellenberg. The wedding took place in the home of the bride with Rev. I. H. Presley of Whiteville, N. C., officiating.

The living room was effectively decorated with lilies and fern, and tall baskets of silver king. The beautiful improvised altar was banked by lilies, ivy and daisies and topped by slender white candles with lovely background of pines.

Ushers were Alva Lee and Alton Whitley, brothers of the bride. Just before the ceremony, "A Perfect Day" was played by Miss Lois McLamb of Dunn. She wore beige mossy crepe with a shoulder corsage of sweet peas and roses. Mrs. I. H. Presley of Whiteville, sang "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "I Love You Truly." She wore pink flat crepe with a corsage of sweet peas and roses.

The bride and groom entered to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride wore an ensemble of navy blue triple sheer crepe trimmed with white organdy, with navy blue accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses, showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Ellenberg is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Whitley of Bethel. She is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, having received her A. B. degree in June, 1931. For the past three years she has been a member of the faculty of the Benson graded school.

The Plan

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The rain continued, a delightful rain without any thunder and lightning, and just heavy and steady enough to refresh Puddle Muddle. Willy Nilly had so much to do he didn't know where to commence, but he started in fixing up his house. Christopher was busy in his nest, Top Notch in his general store, the bears were off on a little trip of their own, and Rip, the dog, was out for a long cross-country run. The Puddle Muddlers had plenty with which to occupy themselves.

Mrs. Quacko Duck and Mr. Quacko, Mr. and Mrs. Quacko, the Quackys and all the little ducks followed Mrs. Quacko to Quacker-ville.

When they reached Mrs. Quacko's pond she said: "First of all we must have some of my seed and water soup, and then we'll talk over the plan."

They were hungry after the walk, and they all nibbled while the rain ran down their feathered backs.

Mrs. Quacko was a very good hostess and she saw that they nibbled and nibbled until they had had enough. Then they swam slowly around the pond until they reached the tiny shore at one end.

"Now," quacked Mrs. Quacko, "I will tell you all about my plan. I have thought it would be a marvelous idea for all the little ducks to go to camp this summer. That's a very fine and smart and superior thing to do—to let the ducklings have a taste of camp life.

"They meet other little ducks, they play games, they learn the names of trees and plants. Oh, it's very good for them."

"But where is there a camp for ducklings?" quacked Mrs. Quacko.

Tomorrow—Mrs. Quacko Talks

Notice, Boy Scouts. Troop 33 will camp overnight at the artesian well Monday leaving at 5:30 from the Rotary building. Transportation will be provided. Each scout will bring his own blankets, food, equipment and, if possible, cot and tent, as there may not be enough to go around. Scouts of Troop 30 may go also and are requested to bring a cot or extra blankets. Tenderfoot who have not passed the first building or cooking tests toward second class are asked to come prepared to do so.

ACCUSED OF BREAKING STATE ELECTION LAW Asheville, N. C., June 22.—The Buncombe grand jury Wednesday indicted Grudger Whittemore, registrar at Ivy precinct for the June 2 primary, on a charge of violating the State election law.

The indictment accused the defendant of refusing to permit voters to designate their markers, a violation of the 1933 State election law. The grand jury's action followed Judge J. Will Press' charge at the opening of court today.

Lave Snelson, registrar at Leicester, No. 1, will be tried in general county court on July 2 for the same alleged offense.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Hot weather apathy, in addition to stock market influences, placed this stock market in somewhat of a comatose condition today and prices were irregularly lower during the greater part of the session.

There was intermittent dips and rallies, but few of these flurries ruffled the dull trading session.

The silver issues were hesitant in contrast to the strength of yesterday. There were scattered firms as well as soft spots in evidence.

Board rooms were all but deserted as most brokerage customers seeing little chance of profit-taking at the present pace decided to take a longer week-end holiday.

Moderately reactionary tendencies marked the late trading. Transfers were 700,000 shares.

Reynolds Opposes McNinch.
 Virginia Beach, June 22.—(AP)—Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina who is vacationing here, said today he opposed the appointment of Frank R. McNinch either as chairman or member of the Federal Power Commission, "but if the president saw fit to appoint him I have nothing more to say."

"I opposed him on the grounds he not only voted against Al Smith but he led the fight against him in North Carolina," said Reynolds.

NEGLIGENT DRIVING RESULTS IN FATALITY

Asheville, N. C., June 22.—J. F. Joyce, 61, Haw Creek merchant, was injured fatally Wednesday morning about 4:45 o'clock when the car he was driving left the south side of Woodfin Street, at the intersection of Locust Street, and crashed into a tree.

An inquest was held at Lewis Funeral Home by Dr. J. L. Carroll, coroner. The coroner's jury found that Joyce came to his death "through his own negligence from driving while under the influence of whiskey and intoxicated."

Mrs. Mary Farmer, 68, Flint Street, was a passenger in the Joyce car. She suffered a laceration about the face and a dislocated wrist, and was taken to the Mission Hospital. Her condition is not serious.

Joyce was taken to the hospital where he died a short time later. Death was caused by injuries to his chest and head. The car was traveling toward Asheville at the time.

GIVE IOWA FARMER $500 —HE'LL GET WATER SYSTEM

Ames, Ia.—(AP)—Give the average Iowa farmer $500 and he would spend most of it on and means of eliminating his constant trek for water.

That is indicated by results of a Federal rural housing survey completed in ten Iowa counties under the direction of Dr. Margaret Reid of the Iowa State College Economics Department.

The survey shows that in 77 per cent of the 28,789 homes in the territory, the water supply is an average distance of 94 feet away. Most of the farmers indicated a desire to install systems that would eliminate having to carry it.
