HITLER 'RIDES ROUGHSHOD' OVER HIS ENEMIES

Pitt Balloting In Second Primary Today

EDWARDS AND PAYLOR SEEK HOUSE SEAT

Thurman Moore and Vance Perkins entered in race for County Treasurer; Light vote indicated over the county; vote expected to be compiled in short order tonight

Another battle of ballots was on in Pitt County today. It was the second primary to determine a member for the seat in the House of Representatives and a County Treasurer.

Jack Edwards, who represented Pitt County in last General Assembly, was pitting his strength against John Hill Paylor of Farmville, and Thurman Moore, County Treasurer, was attempting to hold his post against the inroads of Vance Perkins.

Neither Paylor nor Moore obtained sufficient votes for a majority in the first primary, and under the existing law Edwards and Perkins were eligible to ask for a second primary, which they did the day the registration period expired.

M. O. Blount, of Bethel, ran highest in the four-cornered House race and obtained enough ballots to assure his nomination. His vote was 5,000. Paylor's 3,525, Edwards' 3,371, and Moore's 2,844.

In the six-cornered race for Treasurer, Moore polled 2,648, Perkins 1,681, Warren 907, Martin 950, Williams 901, and Rouse 1,250.

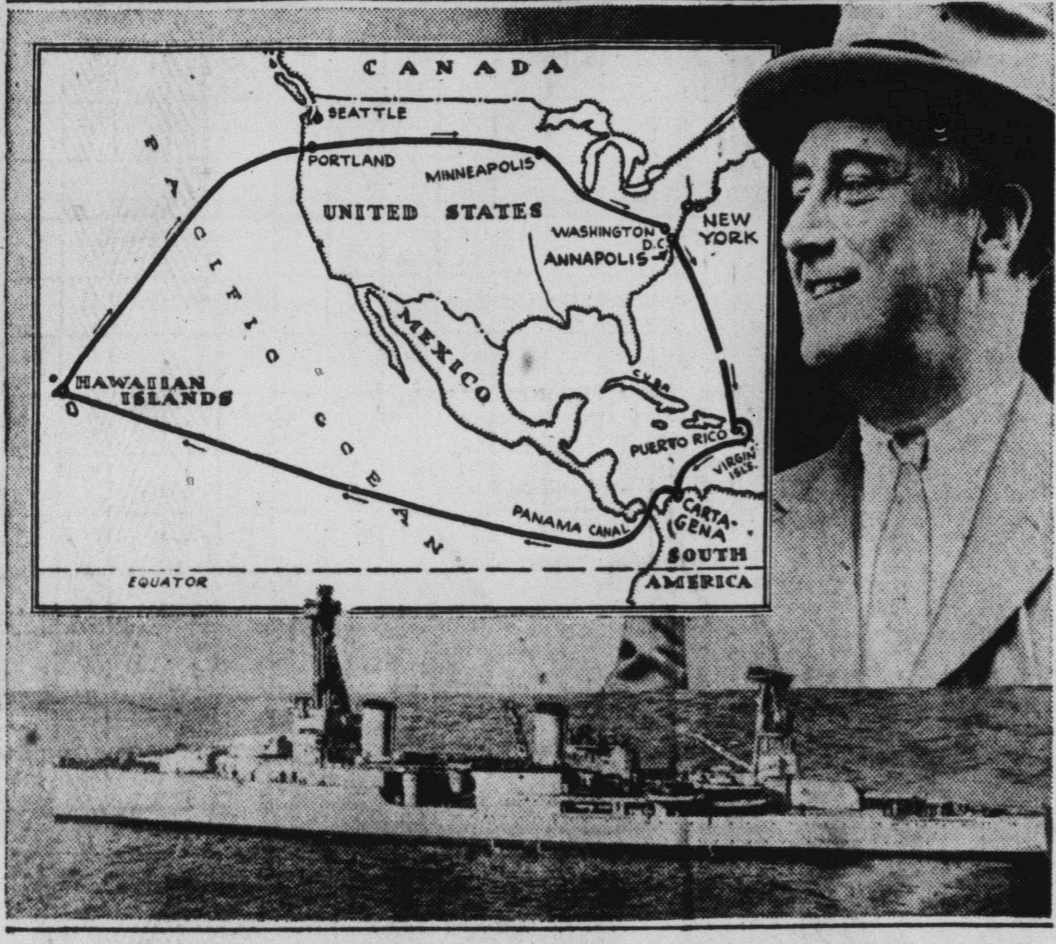

One other race was involved in the second balloting today, a contest in Swift Creek Township for the office of constable.

The polls opened this morning at 5 o'clock, sunrise, and will close tonight at sunset, 7:35.

The rush to the polls today, was small compared with the first primary when the heaviest vote in the history of the county was chalked up, the total being around 8,000.

Voting in Greenville was being conducted at both entrances to the courthouse, but election officials were not rushed to near distraction as they were in the contest June 8th when the ballot storm was larger than in the Presidential election when Roosevelt went into the White House on the greatest wave of votifig in the history of the country.

PRESIDENT'S SHIP AND ROUTE OF CRUISE TO HAWAII

The cruiser Houston has been specially fitted and equipped for President Roosevelt on his combination good will, holiday cruise to Hawaii. Besides making a survey of our outlying possessions he will call on President Enrique Olaya Herrera at Cartagena, Colombia, and plans to go ashore several times at Panama. After his Hawaiian visit, Mr. Roosevelt will return to the west coast for an overland trip by rail back to the capital. He is expected to visit the Booneville project on the Columbia river near Portland, Ore. (Associated Press Photos)

Roosevelt Trip To Pacific Islands Mixture Of Rest And Fact-Finding

By SIRGRID ARNE
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Pleasure and rest are the avowed purpose of the President's vacation tour on the U. S. S. Houston. But those close to him are guessing he will not be able to resist a little unofficial business.

The trip is scheduled to take him to most of the nation's island possessions and then back across the continent from the West coast by train. It will offer the President his first chance to see at first hand the manner in which "new deal" measures are working.

As the itinerary stands, the flagship Houston will steam out of Annapolis Saturday, headed for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, stopping at Cartagena, Colombia, thence through the Panama Canal to the Pacific Ocean, and on to the Hawaiian Islands.

Returning, the Presidential party will land either at Portland, Ore., or Seattle, Wash., where Mrs. Roosevelt plans to join the party for a trip across the continent which tentatively includes these stops en route—the Booneville project on the Columbia River thirty miles east of Portland, Fort Peck, Montana and Gutzon Borglum's Mount Rushmore sculpture in the Black Hills.

Like the various States of the Union, the island possessions are busy at improvements made possible by funds from PWA and CWA. There are roads being laid in all three of the possessions to be visited by the President. Channels are being dredged at Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

A new quarantine station is going up in Puerto Rico and one million dollars has been allocated there for an extended road program. Half-a-million dollars will be spent there to drain malarial swamps, and subsistence homestead projects recently visited by Mrs. Roosevelt are likely to draw the President's attention.

In the Virgin Islands repairs are being made at the Marine Corps station, and on St. Croix Island a new leper colony will be set-up with $25,000 of PWA funds.

West of Honolulu, in the Hawaiian Islands, lies the Pearl Harbor naval base where much repair work and new equipment are under way.

Late News Flashes

German Army Ordered Be Ready.
Berlin, June 30.—(AP)—The national German army today was ordered to be ready for emergency duties.

Heads of three groups regarded as opposed to Chancellor Hitler today met violent death as the German leader smashed a "second revolution" in Germany.

Capt. Ernest Roehm, national chief of the Nazi storm troops committed suicide when Hitler had him arrested as a conspirator against the government. Former Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher, leader of the reactionary conservatives and monarchist, was killed resisting arrest "as a conspirator."

Heinrich Klausner, chief of the "Catholic Action Party," was killed in his office by one of Hitler's special black-shirted guards. When Von Schleicher was killed his wife was also slain in the fracas that went with the arrest.

Roehm was regarded as the most extreme leader of the aridial nazis. Vice Chancellor Franz Von Paper, the man who two weeks ago warned Hitler that a second revolution led by extremists was impending, was (Continued on Page Four)

MRS. CHERRY LAID TO REST HERE FRIDAY

Final Rites For Beloved Lady Held From Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church

Final rites for Mrs. Ada Pierce Cherry, 78, widely-known and beloved because of her deeds of charity over a period of years, were conducted from Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and interment was made by the side of her late husband, James Burton Cherry, in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

The services were conducted by Rev. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. E. L. Hillman, of Durham, former pastor of the local church. Dr. Combs read passages from the Scripture and Mr. Hillman spoke in feeling terms of Mrs. Cherry's fine work in behalf of the community. He extolled her services to the church and her charity for that great multitude whose condition was improved because of her uncounted deeds of love in their behalf.

A large crowd from this and surrounding communities attended the services and the extensive floral tribute spoke in a mute way of the love and esteem of the populace.

Mrs. Cherry died at her home on Fifth Street, Thursday morning at 10:25 following illness of more than a year. She had been critically ill for several days, and attending physicians held out little hope for her recovery.

Mrs. Cherry was a native of Pitt County, the daughter of the late Blount C. and Annie Kinsale Pierce. She was married to James Burton Cherry March 16, 1875. Mr. Cherry was one of Greenville's outstanding business men. He was founder of the firm of J. B. Cherry & Company, now the Blount-Harvey Company.

One son, J. B. Cherry, Jr., who died in October, 1929, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Cherry.

Mrs. Cherry always manifested much interest in work of the Methodist Church and charity, devoting a considerable part of her time to individual charitable activities. She was one of the oldest members of the Methodist Church, both from the standpoint of age and membership. She served as church organist for a great many years, but declining health forced her to retire from active church work.

She was active in the Order of the King's Daughters and was beloved because of her interest in people in all walks of life whose lives were made brighter because of the encouragement and help given by Mrs. Cherry.

GROCERYMAN VICTIM OF DARING ROBBERY
Salisbury, N. C., June 30.—(AP)—T. C. Eamhardt, groceryman of this city, was the victim of a daring daylight robbery on South Main Street near the business section about 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Two strangers, traveling in a black coach, forced Eamhardt's car to the curb, leveled a gun at him and demanded his money. He handed over a bank book containing about $40, it is said. The men drove off towards the south and no trace of them has been found.

ALLOT MONEY FOR CHANNEL AT MOREHEAD

PWA Sets Aside $1,550,000 For 30-Foot Channel Morehead to Beaufort Inlet

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration announced today an allotment of $1,550,000 to the War Department for a thirty-foot channel from Beaufort Inlet to Morehead City contingent upon assurances that marine terminal facilities suitable for ocean-going vessels would be established by local interests at Morehead City.

As the same time the PWA announced approval of an appropriation for Morehead City Port Commission for a loan and grant amounting to $425,000 for construction of the marine terminal subject to the commission's entering a contract satisfactory to Administrator Licks.

The proposed loan to the Port Commission bonds to be repaid serially by 1950. The grant would be secured by 4 per cent Port Commission bonds to be repaid serially by 1950. The grant would be 30 per cent of the labor and materials.

The Morehead City Port Commission must sign a contract covering the loan and grant and otherwise meet all PWA requirements before dredging is started by the Army engineer.

POST DOUBLES MEMBERSHIP

Growth Of Legion Here to Enable the Sending of 6 Votes to State Convention

J. H. Rose, commander of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion, announced today that the membership of the local Post was twice as large as last year. The total membership was given as 228.

With today set as the deadline for members to determine delegates to the State convention at Greensboro, Mr. Rose said sufficient members had been obtained by the Post to send six full votes to the State convention, twice as many as the previous year.

The commander expressed himself as highly gratified over the fine showing made by the Post. The membership increase is believed to be the greatest of any Post in the State.

J. M. Caldwell, State Legion adjutant, speaking here several days ago, lauded the Post for the fine showing it had made, not only from the standpoint of membership, but from actual work in carrying out the program of the State and National departments.

He said the record was the finest of the State and urged the members to attempt to carry on in this splendid manner in the future.

The Legion is to give a "Beauty Pageant" here Friday night, July 6. "Miss Greenville" will be chosen from the bevy of beauties to be presented at that time. She will represent the city at the State Legion convention in Greensboro the latter part of August.

SERVICES TO OPEN SUNDAY

Rev. W. A. Ryan to Deliver Opening Sermon On Courthouse Lawn Sunday Night

Preparations had been completed today for the beginning Sunday night of annual union services of city churches to be held on the courthouse lawn during July and August.

Final plans for the services were drafted at a recent meeting of the Ministerial Association, sponsors of the services, and workmen were busy on the courthouse lawn today putting benches in place and setting up proper lighting facilities.

The initial sermon will be delivered (Continued on page four)

OTHERS HELD FOR ACTION BY NAZI FORCES

Former Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher Resists Arrest and Is Shot Down; Premier Goering of Prussia Is Deposed As Party Leader; Others Jailed to Await Drastic Action By Hitler

Berlin, June 30.—(AP)—Chancellor Adolph Hitler rode roughshod today over foes attempting to overthrow his regime.

Former Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher, reactionary and monarchist, was killed by police when he resisted arrest as a conspirator. Capt. Ernst Roehm, national commander of the Nazi storm troops and one of the most advanced radicals, was dethroned from power and ejected from the Nazi party.

Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering, of Prussia, announced he was carrying out drastic protective action on Hitler's personal order against Nazi storm troop leaders attempting to force a German revolution.

His measure, he said, was extended in two directions, against absolute reactionaries and absolute radicals.

"In order that no false news might get out," Goering told a meeting of foreign press correspondents "I have ordered all communications with foreign countries stopped for the present until you hear my statement which gives you the undiluted truth, but I warn you seriously not to let your imagination run wild.

"For weeks we have known that a certain clique of storm troop leaders have been attempting to lead the brave and decent storm troop men to a path of revolution. That would necessarily have led to the overthrowing of the state.

"The chief of the secret police and my police organization have watched these intently and know what they had in mind, namely, a second revolution.

"Dere Fuehrere, the leader" (I. E. Hitler) is determined to make an example, and to let the world know that whoever raises his hand against the Third Reich, the party government in Germany, will lose his head.

"Roehm and his co-workers thought they could bring pressure to bear, but Dere Fuehrere got ahead of them. Dere Fuehrere has had Roehm arrested and put into jail where he will await his judgment.

"Many groups of upper storm leaders have also been seized and await their day.

"Dere Fuehrere ordered me to represent him in this action which I shall carry out without giving quarter."

CLAIMS BEAUTY MARRIED, ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES

Asheville, N. C., June 30.—Nora Lee Thomas filed suit in Superior Court today to recover $5,000 damages from Miss Gonard Stornes, contending automobile injuries she sustained April 1 as the result of the defendant's negligence had marred her beauty.

The plaintiff, a minor, brought suit through her father, J. P. Thomas. She charged she was a passenger in an automobile driven by Miss Nell Spivey. The vehicle driven by Miss Stornes, the plaintiff said, failed to stop at a "boulevard" sign at Starnes Avenue and Flint Streets, causing a collision.

Abram F. Cox, Of Ayden, Buried

Ayden, N. C., June 30.—Abram F. Cox, 71, who died at the home of his sons, Heber F. Cox, Wednesday afternoon, following an illness of several weeks, was buried in the family burying ground three miles east of Ayden Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services were conducted from the home by Rev. R. F. Pittman of the Free Will Baptist Church.

MOREHEAD CITY SAWMILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Morehead City, N. C., June 30.—Long's Mill, the only lumber mill in operation in the city, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday morning at 12:30 o'clock. When the alarm was sent the whole structure was in flames, and it was impossible for the firemen to extinguish them. However, they worked diligently to save the lumber and other buildings. The loss was estimated at $10,000, covered by insurance.

About three years ago the Bell-Wallace shipyard adjoining the mill was destroyed by fire when the State fisheries boat, "The Captain John Nelson, which was on the water, was also destroyed.

CLEAN-UP WEEK CLOSES TODAY

Citizens to Make Final Effort to Clean Up Premises During the Day

Clean-Up Week, which opened in Greenville Monday, will come to an end today, and indications were that the movement will be a great success.

Chief of Police George Clark, who is in charge of the street department, said people in all parts of the city had co-operated most commendably in the effort to clean up all premises of rubbish and rank growth of weeds.

He said he expected today would climax the cleaning operations with those who had been putting the work off doing their bit to improve the sanitary condition of their community.

Persons who were unable to get to this work this week were urged to attend to it the first of the coming week. Cleaning up operations not only improve the appearance of the city, but have a tendency to decrease the prevalence of pests, especially mosquitoes. This year has witnessed the most severe mosquito emergency in years, and if all receptacles and weeds are removed from yards, the (Continued on page four)

THREE HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

Two Southern Trains Collide at Yale Siding Six Miles From Blackville, S. C.

Blackville, S. C., June 30.—(AP)—Two men and a woman were injured early today in a collision of two Southern Railway passenger trains at Yale siding, six miles from here. The last two cars of train No. 24, northbound from Savannah to Chimney Rock, N. C., with approximately ninety boys going to summer camp, were derailed and damaged when train No. 23, bound south from Columbia, struck him a slanting blow as they projected over the end of the siding.

The boys, although shaken, escaped without injury, and arrangements were made for them to continue to the North Carolina mountain camp.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

HIGHWAY MANNERS

In country driving, keep at least two car lengths behind the car ahead. This space is not only a margin of safety but affords an opportunity for cars overtaking yours to get back into proper lane when opposing traffic approaches. This practice is a nice bit of highway courtesy and may prevent a sad mishap.

MORE HOUSES NEEDED

If the scarcity of houses is a sign that Greenville is moving forward, certainly we must have turned the corner of the depression and are headed toward better times. Almost every day someone visits our office asking aid in locating a house in which to live and once you start out to look for one you find that they are really scarce.

With the recent announcement of lowered costs in building materials and labor in an effort to create more business in the building industry and aid in the "New Deal" it seems to us that now is a good time for some of those persons who are able, to put up several houses here to rent to persons now seeking houses and others who might come to this city if they could get suitable houses in which to live.

SPITE MARRIAGE by Katharine Haviland Taylor

SYNOPSIS: The death of Marsha Moore's gay but futile parents has left her to the "tender" upbringing of her Aunt Gertrude, whose sinister life comprehends "duty" but not kindness.

Chapter Five GEOFFREY TARLETON MARSHA accepted Bob's flowers, the books he sent (she liked his taste in books), his candles; and she thanked him prettily as she acted the role into which he had cast her.

At moments the old Marsha had risen from the new surface; she had said one day with him, "Are the Mexican women pretty?" thinking he might confess some entanglement; prove himself as were the rest; make her feel better.

Then he had gone on to tell her that sometimes for months they saw no women save a few old crones who did their laundry by beating it to nothing on the stones at some turbulent river's edge.

They were Bob's flowers.

"My dear Marsha," she read, "I have sent you these flowers because I have sent just the same selection to my mother. That should tell you something of how I feel.

"I have thought of you every waking second since our drive and I've come to the conclusion that while most men would be more entertaining, none could be more happy with you than I am.

"Perhaps that will mean something, I hope so, for it means everything to me. I've been trying to shorten the day by hurrying. It helped a lot to see you those few minutes this morning. You'll never know how beautiful you are and in all the ways that count most, dear."

"Better," Marsha agreed. "The affair, by then, will have about run its course. You do dislike my trapping methods, don't you, Aunt?"

Miss Gertrude made no reply and Marsha smiled a trifle wearily at the heavy quiet that ensued; she understood its quality so well! Such unbroken stretches had once seemed almost unbearable.

Marsha remembered, with a rise of hot indignation, the injustices that had been done her, as a child, through them; of how she had struggled to please her aunt, to make talk that would please her aunt.

After her tangle with the music teacher, she had tried no more. Miss Moore had made her understand very clearly that she was "lost," that there was "no possible redemption" for her.

She would not make that appeal, she understood Geoffrey too well to play into his hands that way. Yet she was harassed and troubled and not on Geoffrey's account.

Bob Powers, if she appealed, would come running with a humble longing to serve. She wished she had never met him. ... Bob Powers was "absurdly good," one could see; and it was downright disconcerting to have anyone suppose that you were absurdly good too.

They were Bob Powers' flowers of which she spoke, a bouquet which looked as if it had been plucked from an old-fashioned garden by some one who loved flowers more ardently than do most florist's clerks.

His note lay atop the sweet mixture; a note addressed in a bold, steady hand which told pleasant things to those who read the manner of writing as well as the words which writing writes.

She had always admired his honesty and she had always felt that she could get along better with him than with any one else whom she knew. But his message rather annoyed her and she knew it would not have annoyed her a month past. Of course one changed— She opened Bob Powers' note.

Chapter Six MAN FROM MEXICO AN HOUR later Marsha made ready to dress for dinner; Jean ran her bath. Marsha said, "Thank you, Jean—" to receive no answer beyond a short sniff. Once again she had felt that life might be much more bearable if there were only a servant in Miss Gertrude's menage who would answer pleasantly.

She lay in the tub relaxing, and stepping from it, she saw herself in a long mirror. Lovely she was, she knew. But if she had been plain she might have been very good and "beautiful—in all the ways that count most." That had echoed!

She dressed slowly and carefully; Bob was coming after dinner, and they would doubtless go somewhere to dance. She chose a black dress that was not so black as her hair, coiled the hair low, snapped

"I AM going to a committee meeting," said Miss Gertrude; "we are to discuss plans for the Community House—"

"Can you see them as my ancestors?" asked Marsha.

around her white throat the string of pearls that had been her mother's.

She could see her mother playing with them, while she teased some man by turning upon him the softest eyes. Marsha had come by her habits straight enough, she knew; it was odd that they sometimes troubled her.

When he appeared at nine, Marsha, herself, opened the door to him. For a moment he hesitated; then quickly he stepped within the hall. "This is about the pleasantest thing that ever happened to me," he said.

"Your flowers are lovely, Bob—" "Not lovely enough," he faltered in answer.

"I so appreciate your sending me the same sorts that you sent your mother. And she did; she felt her eyes smart to turn quickly from him. "It was all wrong," she added, "but I liked it. Aunt's out. Do you think you could stand an evening of domestic turn?"

"Rather!" he answered eagerly. He laid his hat and gloves on a table; slipped from his coat to follow her into the small, prim drawing room that was depressed by sterna portraits of very God-fearing folk; genteel folk of repressed instincts and an unyielding sense of the proper.

"Can you see them as my ancestors?" Marsha asked, after a short glance around the walls. She laughed; he smiled. "Your ancestors," he stated, "were gods and goddesses but unusually kind ones. I think you are descended from Niobe who bragged that her children were the most beautiful in the world. One child must have escaped death. The others, you know were killed—because they were so beautiful—"

"It works that way sometimes, but let's not brood on it—" she said. "Sit down, Bob—"

She had dropped to a small old sofa; he looked longingly at the space that was by her. Again she laughed. "You may," she said gently. (Copyright, 1934, by K. Haviland-Taylor)

Sundown Stories

Homesick Yellow Beak By MARY GRAHAM BONNER Camp Director Big Duck and Mrs. Big Duck at once announced that dinner was ready, and shortly after dinner (for ducks can go in swimming after eating) there were splashing games and diving and swimming contests.

In this way all the ducks got to know each other quickly. Only little Yellow Beak from Puddle Middle felt sad. He tried to join in the games, his own brothers and sisters were at the camp, but he kept thinking of Puddle Middle.

His little duck mind remembered how each puddle looked, how the cubs stood up on their hind legs to see all they could of the world, how Top Notch strutted down the roads, walking carefully over every rut.

And Yellow Beak thought of Rip and his beautiful, kind eyes and his silky ears. And he thought of Willy Nilly who was always ready to help every one. It was a shame that Willy Nilly never had a chance to attend to his sticking-out ears.

What wouldn't he give now, though, for a look at those funny ears!

Yellow Beak tried to eat his supper. Mrs. Big Duck had noticed him and was being very kind to him and she sang a jolly little quacking song before he put his head under his wing for sleep.

But Yellow Beak couldn't sleep. He was quiet for a long time, nor did he bring forth his head. Now Mrs. Big Duck would think they were all asleep, and Yellow Beak would start for home. That was his plan.

Very, very quietly he left the others asleep. He didn't make a sound. But oh, it was so dark!

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Re-Vivifying the Big Decoration Scene The two things that impressed me most after seeing the Baer-Carnera brawl all over again in the movies were (1) the outstanding persistence kept continually employing the only weapon at his command, a left jab, and in the fight at all it happened in either the eighth or tenth rounds, when he was very wobbly and going down in sections.

The pictures clearly substantiate the terrific right-hand beating that the giant absorbed and offer argument for a return match only on the basis of the consistent courage with which Carnera carried the fight to his heavier-opponent.

Carnera must have landed at least one hundred stiff jabs to various parts of Baer's grinning or scowling features, yet altogether they did not do as much damage as the first right hand that dropped Primo in the first round.

The difference in the power and leverage behind the blows of the two men is amazingly clear in the movies, but the giant's recuperative powers appear equally astonishing.

Strange as it seems by comparison with the actual ringside evidence, the pictures show Carnera going strong, going effectively and consistently outpointing Baer from the fourth to ninth rounds, inclusive. He was only on the floor once in six successive rounds and on that occasion it was from losing his own balance in a futile lunge at the fast-moving Baer.

Injury in Eighth Round? This incident occurred in the eighth round, and it may have caused the pinjury to Primo's right foot. Up to that time he was constantly on his toes, when upright and leading, but thereafter he moved more slowly and employed a more flat-footed stance.

Twice in the tenth round, when he was knocked down, it was obviously becoming a great deal more laborious for the Italian to hoist his 263 pounds back to a vertical position.

The pictures absolutely substantiate Referee Arthur Donovan's statement, made to ringsiders immediately after the fight, that he was influenced in stopping the bout by Carnera's own unwillingness to continue. Clearly revealed is Primo's expressive gesture of spreading his gloves helplessly and looking at Donovan in an appealing manner, as much as to say: "There's no use going on. I've tried everything and it's done me no good."

Ill-Advised Alibi Alibi is just as much a part of the fight game as the extravagant and reckless statements attributed beforehand to the principals. If all of the excuses made for Carnera were legitimate, he would appear the most unfortunate of all championship victims. But the fact that most of his bad luck was wrapped up in Baer's fists.

Program Week July 2nd. Monday-Tuesday, "Viva Villa" — cast Wallace Beery, Fay Wray, Leo Carillo. From the novel by Edgcomb Pinchon. The film may not be historically accurate but Wallace Beery's "Pancho Villa" is nevertheless a very real person, a valiant roisterer, a cruel savage, yet a human and sorrowing peon. A vital story. Adults.

Wednesday, "The Thin Man" — cast, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Maureen O'Sullivan. A fast, gay and thrilling mystery story, from the romantic fiction of the year, by Dashiell Hammett. No report.

Thursday, "I Am Suzanne" — cast, Lillian Harvey, Gene Raymond. A wholly charming and whimsical romance between a puppet show operator and a dancer in which fantasy and realism are combined in a clever and original manner. Family audience.

Friday, "The Circus Clown" — cast, Joe E. Brown. A comedy, the big tops, with Joe E. in the role of a clown. No report.

Saturday, "Jimmy the Gent" — cast, James Cagney, Bette Davis, Alice White. A fast moving, slangy picture based on a story "The Hair Chaser." Broad comedy, typically Cagney. Entertaining for those who like this type of brisk noisy entertainment. Adults.

I am advertising through our daily paper for the first time since I have been in business. I am located near Tucker & Clark's Stable, 521 Cotanch St. General repairs of all kinds. Truck bodies and Trailers, and building Tobacco Trucks. Got plenty on hand. I am building a good Tobacco Truck. I started with the John Flanagan Buggy Co., Jan. 1st, 1900. I was employed under E. G. Flanagan and W. E. Hooker until the 20th day of September, 1932. I gave perfect satisfaction with them and the public. I am looking to the public for support, and if they will help me fit my business I will appreciate it, and do the best for the public that I possibly can. Living on my own property, am in position to do work more reasonable.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Williams.

Celebrates Third Birthday.
Little Miss Ann Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albion Dunn, delightfully entertained a number of her little friends at her home "The Oaks" on the Country Club road Wednesday afternoon, celebrating her third birthday.

The little guests gathered around the attractively decorated table, which was centered with a pink and white birthday cake with three glowing candles, and sang "Happy Birthday" to little Ann. A tempting pink and white ice course with mints was served on the lawn. Favors were snapping mottos in the pastel shades. Many games were enjoyed on the spacious lawn.

The little hostess received a number of attractive gifts.

To Begin Summer Schedule.
The Eighth Street Christian Church will begin its usual summer schedule of services tomorrow. The morning service is a united one, beginning with the worship period at 9:45. This period takes the place of the morning worship and the worship period for the Bible school, closing at 10:30. During the teaching period, from 10:30 to 11:00 o'clock, all classes through the Intermediate group will meet in their class rooms, while the young people's and adult groups will remain in the church auditorium for the discussion period. Members are requested to note that there is no eleven o'clock service; the sermon being delivered and Holy Communion administered during the 9:45-10:30 period.

During July and August this congregation will worship with the other congregations of Greenville in the union services on the court house lawn.

Children's Books For Library.
Seven children were waiting for new books when the doors of Shepherd Memorial Library opened at five minutes before two o'clock yesterday. By three o'clock twenty-one of the new books were out, one to a child. Two of the easy ones were taken out by Carolyn Stokes and Virginia Congleton of Stokes. "Pop Warner" and "Tom Mix" were among the first ones to leave the library. All of the new books were out during the afternoon. They will be returned all during the week and be ready for week-end readers again next Friday. With each new one the children usually found two others which he had not read, had all three charged to him, and went back home to read quietly during the hot afternoon. Did you get one of the new ones yesterday? If not, be on time next Friday and get a good one.

SAFETY IN MILL OFFICE
OPENED BY CRACKSMEN

Gastonia, N. C., June 30.—Safe-crackers leaving the marks of professionals, opened and looted the safe in the offices of the Trenton mill on West Main Avenue sometime late Wednesday night or Thursday morning, escaping with a small amount of cash and a batch of private papers belonging to officials of the mill.

The amount of cash taken, mill officials said, was probably not over $200 or $300, if that much, but the thieves carried away a number of important personal papers, insurance policies, stock certificates, etc. of no value to them but of extreme importance to their rightful owners.

The safe was opened with some sort of a drill, and experts called in to repair the safe Thursday morning said the work was obviously that of professionals. The thieves managed the job without arousing the attention of the night watchman.

My Beauty Hint

By JEAN GALE
(Screen Actress)
Rouge should never be "obvious." Nothing so detracts from otherwise perfect make-up. Study the lines of your face in order to determine how to obtain the most "natural color." If girls with oval faces would blend the proper shade of rouge over the face, there would be less of that "china doll" effect in make-up.

By PAULINE GARON
(Screen Actress)
Avoid a rouge line by having the lips parted when rouging. Blend from the center of the mouth to the corners. Blend eyeshadow from the lashes toward the eyebrows.

A new coiffure can add zest to going out. Here is one: The hair is twisted into tiny ringlets—hundreds of them—all over the head. Then it is carefully combed out, without breaking the individual, presenting a novel and attractive appearance.

'BUGS' TRIM KINSTON 2-1 HERE FRIDAY

The Greenville baseball club of the Coastal Plain League rose up in its hitherto weekly might and smote the Kinston league leaders to the tune of 2 to 1 in a ten-inning contest at Third Street School athletic field here yesterday afternoon.

The game unquestionably was one of the finest exhibitions of baseball played here in years, and was witnessed by a crowd that cheered themselves hoarse in the final frame when Bostic was given a free pass to first, went to second on a sacrifice by May and raced home on a sizzling single by "Skipper" Milton Harrington to unknit the one-to-one tie which had existed since the fifth frame with either side being unable to break it.

It was another battle of Duke and University of North Carolina with May and Wagner, Duke stars, forming the battery for Greenville and Bunn Hearne, U. N. C. coach using his best efforts to keep his lusty college boys on the band-wagon at the top of the standing of clubs' column.

But it was a case of too much May who pitched brilliantly throughout the game to enable Greenville, hovering near the cellar, to trim the Lenoir county lads the second time this season. McKeithan, Carolina sophomore, did the mound work for the visitors, and his performance was creditable throughout the game.

Kinston had two bobbles chalked up against them to the locals one. Each club played brilliantly at times, but hits were at a premium with both hurlers staging one of the finest mound duels seen here in some time.

Kinston connected for over twice as many hits as the locals, but they were not bunched closely enough together to be converted into tallies. They registered a total of nine safeties, one by Tatum going for an extra base. Greenville, on the other hand, obtained only four wallops, but they were secured opportunistically and resulted in "bringing the bacon home."

Kinston, which has been riding the waves of success for the last several days, failed to get any breaks of the game, it is true, but that has happened to Greenville most of the season except yesterday, when the breaks and timely stick work were transformed into victory.

The locals went to Kinston this afternoon. The local battery probably will consist of "Lefty" Dean, last season's pitching ace who rejoined the club yesterday, and breaks or no breaks. Bunn Hearne and his boys are going to have to employ all of their cunning at bat if they connect with a sufficient number of Dean's baffling speed balls to give them victory.

Here's the box-score of yesterday's encounter.

AYDEN BEATS NEW BERN

Ayden, N. C., June 30.—Worley Knowles whose homer and fine pitching yesterday gave Ayden a win over Kinston, was the hero again yesterday in an Ayden victory. This time the locals defeated New Bern, 7 to 6, in eleven innings.

The locals, three runs behind as the ninth inning opened, put over one tally and had a runner on base when Knowles came to bat. A home run was needed to tie—and Knowles produced the homer and sent the game into extra innings. Ayden won in the eleventh when, with a runner on third and two outs, Mumford lifted a Texas leaguer into short left and the visiting left-fielder and shortstop pulled an Alphonso and Gaston act.

Royal, with four or five, and Knowles, with his homer and a single, were Ayden's batting leaders. H. Ferabee, with three hits in as many batting turns, was the New Bern big gun.

The locals outthit New Bern, 13 to 10. Batteries: New Bern—Flythe, Dunn and H. Ferabee. F. Ferabee; Ayden—Shields, Tuberville and Smith, Mumford.

Members of the local team were guests of S. M. Edwards, president of the Ayden Rotary Club, at a barbecue supper given last night.

'LEFTY' DEAN BACK AT WORK

"Lefty" Dean, Mount Airy, youngster, who helped Greenville win the Coastal Plain League flag last season, came back to the local club yesterday and appeared in the outfield in yesterday's encounter with Kinston.

"Lefty" probably will pitch for the locals in Kinston this afternoon, and if he is going good, Bunn Hearne and his boys are going to have the time of their lives connecting with a sufficient number of bingles to give them victory. Dean has a baffling speed ball that proved the downfall of many a batter last season, and he is expected to use it advantageously for the "Bugs" again this season.

Dean has been playing semi-pro ball in Massachusetts since the closing of Oak Ridge, but informed "Skipper" Milton Harrington several days ago he was returning to Greenville to rejoin the Coastal Plain aggregation.

Dean, in addition to his hurling ability, is a power with the bat. He obtained one of Greenville's four hits against Kinston yesterday, and probably would have gotten more had he been sufficiently rested from his long trip from Massachusetts.

With Dean in camp the locals are expected to show some of the old-time pep exhibited last season, and if Kinston doesn't watch somebody else is going to claim the top rung of the standing of clubs' column—and that someone is going to be Greenville.

SNOW HILL WINS

Tarboro, N. C., June 30.—Snow Hill defeated Tarboro, 5 to 1, here yesterday.

The game was scoreless until the sixth when Snow Hill tallied three times and Tarboro scored one. The visitors added two more in the seventh.

Bill Croom and Biggs, each with two hits in four tries, led Tarboro. Manager Piehead Walker made three hits in as many tries to pace the visitors. Two of his tries were doubles. Tuck was next with three for four.

The players of both teams and fans got extra exercise riding the umpire for what they considered "misses."

New York Cotton

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, six to nine points higher on steady Liverpool cables and reports that ten counties in Texas were added to the drought emergency list.

The initial demand was readily enough supplied to cause setbacks of two to three points, but buyers were encouraged by reports of continued dry weather in the southwest and prices worked up to 12.24 for October by the end of the first half hour, or about eight to twelve points higher. New York futures closed steady, seven to nine points higher. (Courtesy Speight & Haygood, Inc.)

ed by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church and special music will be provided by the choir of the Christian Church.

The second sermon the following Sunday will be delivered by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church; the third, by Dr. G. R. Comas, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, and the fifth by Rev. J. A. Potts, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

All churches of the city are cooperating in the movement to bring members of all denominations together in worship each Sunday evening, and hope was expressed by leaders that hundreds would be in attendance each service.

Ample seating accommodations to take care of hundreds have been provided, and everybody wishing to do their bit toward success of the services are urged to attend and be assured of being taken care of in the way of seats.

CLEAN-UP WEEK CLOSSES TODAY

Through a "Tin-Can Matinee" yesterday, State Theater obtained a wagon load of cans from back lots and gave impetus to the campaign to clean-up the city.

An artificial fountain known as "Andrew's geyser" which shoots a stream of water about 250 feet high, can be seen at seventeen different places from trains climbing the Blue Ridge Mountains between Old Fort, N. C., and Ridgeway, N. C.

In times of depression, the Romans, following the example of other ancient nations, reduced the amount of gold and silver in their coins without lowering the face value.

WORK BEGINS ON THE AVENUE

Resurfacing Operations Started Yesterday to be Completed in Few Weeks

Sections of Dickinson Avenue were closed today to traffic as construction forces began resurfacing operations from Five Points to the Coast Line depot.

Work actually got under way yesterday and will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. Preliminary work in preparation for resurfacing was completed several weeks ago, and while the project was to have been finished immediately afterward the contractors were unable to move machinery here before this week.

A steam roller chugged its way noisily up the Avenue today and hundreds of people paused their busy way to watch the ungainly piece of mechanism bowl slowly along at its monotonous task.

If everything goes well, as it probably will, work will be completed in a few weeks, and the Avenue will again be thrown open to traffic. A greatly improved thoroughfare. The surface had been torn up considerably in recent years by wear and tear and the resurfacing is expected to convert it into one of the finest streets in the city.

The work is being done through funds apportioned to the State by the Federal Government as was the improvement of Fifth Street from Library Street to the city limits.

Dickinson Avenue in the fall and winter is the most congested street in the city. It is always chock full of traffic during tobacco season and improvement of the surface is expected to speed up the movement of the thousands of vehicles of every description which pass over it from day to day.

Late News Flashes

Policeman Killed in Bank Hold-up
South Bend, Ind., June 30.—(AP)—A gang of bandits believed to have been led by the notorious John Dillinger raided the Merchants National Bank here today and escaped after killing a policeman and wounding four persons, one of them seriously. Their loot amounted to $20,000 in cash and currency.

The officer killed was Patrolman Harold Wagner. He was shot down as he approached one of the bandits who had stationed himself outside the bank.

The robbers entered the bank firing promiscuously and covered their retreat by a shower of bullets. The driver of the car in which the men escaped after the robbery was identified as Dillinger by Detective Harry Henderson, who arrived just as the bandits were fleeing.

Fliers Forced Down
Elers, France, June 30.—(AP)—A dwindling gasoline supply today forced two flying brothers from Brooklyn, Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, to land their big tri-colored monoplane at St. Andre Messel, near here, thwarting for the second time their hopes of flying the Atlantic non-stop to Warsaw, Poland.
