

JAPANESE CABINET IS COMPROMISED AND RESIGNS

Drastic Measures Are Halted In Germany Army And Navy Circles Seeking Military Power

HITLER WILL ALLOW COURT TO ACT NOW

Two Groups in Conference Today Seeking to Find Way Out Of Serious Political Crisis; Number of Dead Placed at 60 by Nazi Press Department; Official List Pending

Berlin, July 3.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler issued an order today putting an end to special measures used to quell the "second revolution," and announced that henceforth the regular courts of justice will handle offenders against the Nazi regime.

The order was made effective July 1st. An end to extreme suppressive measures, together with assurance of the appointment of Wilhelm Goering as Vice-Chancellor of Germany and the resignation of Franz von Papen as Hitler's chief aide, focused the eyes of the nation on Berlin.

Two groups were in conference to determine the further fate of the Fatherland. One was an important session of the cabinet in Chancellor Hitler's offices where the Von Papen resignation was being discussed. Another was a meeting of the inner council of the Nazi party.

From Munich was reported the strongly-rumored death of Gustav von Kahr, the Bavarian premier, who turned against Hitler after plotting with him in his 1932 "beer putsch." Otherwise there seemed a lull in the sensationally bloody developments that have kept all Germany on edge since Saturday.

The Nazi press department issued an official estimate of the number killed during the "second revolution" at below sixty. The official list, it was stated, will be made public as soon as the few remaining cases to be judged are disposed of.

The cabinet, as the governing instrument of the nation, finds itself confronted with a multitude of problems arising out of recent events. There are problems such as determining Germany's position with reference to foreign nations as result of the cleaning process and economic problems connected with smashing of the storm troops.

At Munich where ordinarily many of the Nazi party chieftains do their work, the brown house was deserted. Even Victor Lutze, successor to Ernest Roehm as chief of staff of the Brown Shirts, was absent.

ROTES ENJOY SOME LEVITY

Lebrun Spence Contributes to Evening Of Merriment of Local Club

By WYATT BROWN You have heard many a man say he would give the shirt on his back to his friend if it were asked. In the midst of a speech he was making last night at the regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club, Lebrun Spence said he would give his shirt to any of his Rotary friends; whereupon, Phil Goodson asked for the said shirt, and it was immediately bestowed upon him. Lebrun finished his speech in his undershirt.

With nonchalant air Lebrun continued, and in making a point, requested that Dr. Bonner give a box of soda crackers to him. Dr. Bonner complied. L. F. Pace was requested to examine the box and contents to ascertain as to the sanitary qualities. Amidst admonitions of, "Don't hold it so close to my head from Herbert Waldrop and others, Dr. Pace very gingerly performed the inspection. So far all was perfectly regular.

Taking one of the crackers in his hand, Lebrun asked Sam White to take a bite. Sam did; whereupon Lebrun exultantly exclaimed: "Now, I have had a rich man eat out of my hand."

With a few preliminary remarks about dramatic motions while in college and pious mother's objections, Lebrun next produced a bit of drama. Lacking curtains to grace his work, Lebrun conscripted Bill Best, Karl Pace, Howard McGinnis, Alva Van Nortwick, Herbert ReBarker, Ben Bullard, and Claude Gaskins to act as a green. Behind this he corralled Doc Horne, Alfred Schultz, Wesley Harvey, and John Clark. Upon a given signal the screen parted and revealed the actors on all-fours braying lustily. Lebrun said: "Behold, four jack-asses in a row."

The serious part of the program was contributed by Dr. Bonner, who in a few well-chosen words indicated a few significant facts about thinking, traditions and customs.

Guests for the evening were Rev. J. R. Potts, Rev. McIver, and Dr. Bonner. H. L. Ormond won the attendance prize. Club President ReBarker has ruled that anyone to receive the attendance prize in the future must upon winning the lot also tell the name and classification of the donor of the prize.

Just before adjourning for a sing fest, Kinchen Cobb, last year's president, thanked his fellow-members for their co-operation in helping his administration achieve what success it did, with a word of tribute to the late Bob Wright.

MILL WORKERS AT GASTONIA STRIKE TODAY

Spurn Decision of Industrial Relations Board to Effect Settlement of Dispute

Gastonia, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—Textile workers at three Goldenberg Mills here spurned a decision by the State Industrial Relations Board and struck today.

They picketed the plants heavily but peacefully, and more than 700 workers were idle. The workers gave no reports to the cause of the action. Yesterday operatives of the Dunn and Armstrong Mills struck in sympathy with Clara Mill workers who claimed they have been locked out eight weeks. In spite of this, the two mills operated one full shift by combining forces of the three shifts.

Today the plants were closed and the pickets on duty refused to allow superintendents and overseers to enter the plants.

The Textile Board yesterday upheld the management of the Goldenberg interests in ruling that the operation of the draw frame was not unreasonable, as Clara Mill workers contended.

Raleigh, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—Theodore Johnson, chairman of the State Industrial Relations Board, said today he would forward an appeal of textile workers at the Goldenberg Mills in Gastonia on to the National Industrial Board as soon as he receives it, but he had no direct word this morning that an appeal would be taken.

CITY ALL SET FOR JULY 4TH

Business Houses to Close Here in Observance of Independence Day

Tomorrow is the Glorious Fourth of July, the day set aside for Americans to celebrate their independence from Great Britain.

In Greenville the occasion will be observed by the closing of public buildings and business houses and a baseball game in the afternoon between Tarboro and Greenville clubs of the Coastal Plain League.

R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said today all business houses of the city would close their doors for the day to permit employees to take part in festivities of the occasion.

Along with other business houses, The Daily Reflector will observe the Fourth. No paper will be issued during the day, and members of all departments will do their bit in the shooting of fireworks and other forms of celebrating.

After the morning game here with Tarboro, the Greenville club will go to the Edgecombe city in the afternoon for the second game of the day. Tarboro occupies the cellar position in the league, Greenville is on the next rung, and battles royal are expected as Tarboro attempts to get her head out of the bottom and Greenville tries to mount higher on the ladder leading to the championship series.

Indications pointed to large attendance both here and in Tarboro. Greenville and Tarboro fans have been supporting their clubs admirably in spite of their inability to show signs of brilliant playing, and tomorrow will be no exception to the rule from the standpoint of loyalty as expressed through attendance.

Providing weather conditions are favorable, hundreds of others probably will hie away to watering places to take cooling plunges in the surf, along with sun baths, and in many instances, blistered shoulders and backs.

JAPAN FAILS TO GET U. S. IN ON PACTS

Ambassador Saito Sails Home After Failure to 'Sell' Proposal to Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., July 3.—(AP)—Hiroshi Saito, Ambassador to Washington, sailed today from San Francisco to present to Tokyo that he had made little headway in "selling" several Japanese proposals to the Roosevelt administration.

State Department officials have never admitted that Saito made even cautious overtures concerning Japanese desire to negotiate a non-aggression or non-aggression pact with the United States. In answer to questions based on dispatches, Secretary Hull did announce that the United States had not considered entering into any bi-lateral or non-aggression agreements with any nation.

VIENNA CITY HALL 'FIRED'

Police Headquarters At Salzburg Dynamited; Excitement Prevails

Vienna, July 3.—(AP)—Vienna city hall, former Socialist stronghold, was the scene of a possible incendiary fire today, and reports from Salzburg said police headquarters there had been dynamited. The fire at the city hall, although quickly extinguished, caused a great deal of excitement in government circles.

Prince Ernst Von Starbemberg, head of the Heimwehr, boarded a plane for Salzburg immediately on receipt of news that the explosion had occurred at the marble hall of the Rosencranz palace where both the private directory and the Salzburg police have their headquarters. Although the building had been heavily guarded, an explosive was placed on the second floor outside the door of the safety director's private apartment.

The bomb caused heavy damage, but no one was reported injured.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. NORWOOD

Sister of Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., of Greenville Dies At Goldsboro

Goldsboro, N. C., July 3.—Mrs. Hart Norwood, member of a prominent Goldsboro family, died at the Goldsboro Hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon of a sudden heart attack. She entered the hospital Sunday evening to take treatment for an illness not considered serious. Yesterday her condition seemed very satisfactory until she complained of pain a few minutes before her death.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon by Rev. Peter McIntyre, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Interment was in Willow Dale Cemetery.

Mrs. Norwood was before her marriage, five weeks ago, Miss Anna Suther. She was a native of Cabarrus County but had lived practically all of her life in Goldsboro. She was a member of the faculty of the Goldsboro city schools and a member of the Presbyterian Church. She was a graduate of N. C. C. W. at Goldsboro.

DURHAM NEGRESS KILLS SWEETHEART

Durham, N. C., July 3.—This morning Maggie Graves, 16, negro, walked into police headquarters and handed a .32 revolver to the desk officer.

"I've shot Jesse Moore Wilkins," she said. Wilkins died on the way to the hospital.

Maggie told the officer she had seen Wilkins and another girl together this morning. "I shot him and I meant to kill him," she continued. "He told me to and I did." The girl was jailed pending investigation.

FARMER DIES OF INJURIES IN CAR CRASH

Hardy Mizzelle Fatally Hurt and Two Sons and Brother Injured in Collision

Hardy Mizzelle, 56, farmer, who resided on the Old River Road about seven miles from Greenville, was fatally injured and two sons and a brother also were hurt, in an automobile collision with a car driven by W. H. Dail, Jr., at House station yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Mizzelle died in the local hospital this morning at 3:30 o'clock from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Willie Mizzelle, son of the dead man, received probably serious head injuries and was confined in the local hospital today along with his uncle, Isaac Mizzelle, of Martin County, whose injuries were not considered very serious. A second son, Oscar, driver of the car, sustained minor injuries and was able to return home last night. Dail escaped with shock and minor bruises.

The wreck occurred at a side road leading into the Greenville-Bethel highway at House Station. Dail, it was said, had just entered the highway headed for Greenville when Mizzelle car, traveling at an alleged high rate of speed in the same direction, ran out on the shoulder of the road on the wrong side, striking the front fender of the Dail car. The driver lost control and the machine crashed into an oak tree several yards away, turned turtle, pinning the occupants underneath. Dail was said to have been over on the extreme edge of the pavement on his side of the road when the Mizzelle car attempted to pass on the right side. The Mizzelle car was virtually demolished, but the Dail machine was only slightly damaged.

A coroner's jury viewed the wreck early today, but postponed a decision following a second inquest to be held tonight at 9 o'clock.

Funeral services for Hardy Mizzelle were conducted from his late home this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. C. J. Harris, Free Will Baptist minister, and burial was made in Martin County.

Mizzelle was a native of Martin County and moved to Pitt County about fifteen years ago. He was a tenant on the Cobb farm on the Old River road.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and three daughters—Oscar, Willie and Joseph Mizzelle, and Mrs. R. B. Briley, Mrs. B. T. Eastwood, and Juanita Mizzelle, all of Pitt County; his mother, Mrs. Jesse Mizzelle, of Martin County; four brothers, Isaac, Louis, Edward and Arnon Mizzelle, of Martin County; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Davenport and Mrs. Sallie Bett Rogers, of Martin County.

RESIGNATIONS PRESENTED TO THE EMPEROR

Hitler Visits Von Hindenburg. Berlin, July 3.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler boarded a plane for Neudeck, home of President Paul Von Hindenburg tonight at the conclusion of an important cabinet session, leaving the disposition of the vice-chancellor unsettled.

Hitherto the resignation or dismissal of Vice Chancellor Von Papen had been regarded as an assured fact. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, was slated to succeed him.

A spokesman for the propaganda ministry asked about the expected Von Papen resignation, said: "It may in fact never become a fact."

"One of our leaders has gone outside of Berlin by airplane and that may change things. That is all I can say now."

The reference proved to be the departure of Hitler.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

In spite of "new eras," "new days," and "new deals" in politics, the good old game of buncoing the voter goes on forever.

Once more "my fellow citizens" are being invited to step up and watch the little green peas, or take a hand of marked cards. Some of the equipment may be new, but the tricks are the same.

To realize this it only is necessary to examine carefully the June outpouring of political statements which followed the adjournment of Congress.

There were exceptions, of course, but in the main these utterances followed the accepted forms of years gone by.

Adjectives are spent like water to inform the public that one party is the heaven-chosen repository of all virtue, and that the other is dishonest, unpatriotic, ignorant, and thoroughly base and depraved.

Of course the politicians do not really believe this at all. On the contrary they fraternize with one another privately, help each other here and there, and sit down together with no fear whatever that their watches will be stolen or their morals contaminated.

Why do they go on thinking that anyone else believes it? A favorite old refrain heard today from both political camps goes like this:

"Everything the opposition does is done for purely selfish political reasons. Everything we do springs from a wholly charitable desire to serve our country."

The "ins" protest that when they make public speeches they are not talking politics. The "outs" reply they are talking nothing but politics. And vice versa.

The transparency and futility of all this is plain. No one in his right mind thinks that sworn public officials or responsible citizens who criticize them are either so criminal, en masse, as to think only of themselves, or so perfect as to be wholly innocent of political reflections.

The unexplained mystery is why politicians who have spent a lifetime wooing public favor should go about deriding politics as though it were smallpox, and shouting indignantly that political thoughts never enter their innocent minds.

Political action is the accepted form of popular expression in the United States. The political party, rather than the bayonet or the bomb, is the legal instrument thru which changes in government are wrought. They why do so many public men speak of politics as if it were something unclean and un-American?

In no other branch of human endeavor do the participants, and the beneficiaries, take so much pains to discredit their own kind and intentionally themselves.

Many observers think it highly questionable whether the old political tricks are anything like as effective as they used to be.

The trend toward independent voting would seem to indicate that fewer Americans are being swayed by prejudice and bombast; that more Americans are voting after sober reflection, based on a realization that no man and no party is wholly good or wholly bad.

The voter is, in the end, the doctor. The old tricks will disappear only when he laughs them off the stage.

'NO DICTATORS' BRITISH CABINET WARNS MOSLEY

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN London. (AP)—Downing Street has a new sign: "No Dictators Wanted."

The sign, figuratively printed, was erected by the joint efforts of Ramsay MacDonald, the Prime Minister, and several of his cabinet as a result of the increasing prominence of the British fascist movement.

MacDonald and the national government, by this action, focused official attention on Sir Oswald Mosley and his Black Shirts for the first time.

Riots Bring Recognition For many months the government declined to be drawn into public statements of Mosley and his followers. The policy was not to dignify the movement by official recognition.

A series of incidents, however, changed that policy, and fascists have been jibing at the cabinet for what is termed "sudden alarms."

SPITE MARRIAGE by Katherine Rowland Taylor

SYNOPSIS: When Marsha Moore's but not too helpful parents died, Marsha was sent to live with her Aunt Gertrude. She arrived a scowling, sullen girl, anxious to be loved and to please. In ten years her unending spinster aunt had made her a hard and calculating, pleasure-loving young woman. Men adored her and she snickered at them. But now Bob Powers has come for a vacation from his Mexican job—and Marsha finds she does not want to hurt Bob.

Chapter Eight THE RING

MARSHA, who believed with Miss Millay that there is no wine like thirst, had expected Bob Powers to kiss her hotly, to grow a little languid and to go his way, but the affair had not followed this form.

He had kissed her not hotly, but humbly and gently and timidly, and he revealed no evidence of wanting to go any way but hers.

For two strained, unhappy weeks she had "played around" with Bob. Geoffrey Tarleton, her one anesthetic that usually took hold, was in town, she knew, and he had not looked her up.

He was a sly-eyed old young man, of an unhappily full and slack underlip, and his life had taught him to know women. His drawn motto was "Keep 'em longing," and he understood the art of doing so.

Marsha could see him in his rooms, smiling over the thought of her knowing he was in town and wondering why she did not see him. She heard, through a feline friend, that Geoffrey was paying court to a Spanish dancer who was turning New York mad.

Geoffrey, she had realized early, would always "do that sort of thing," yet two weeks at home without even calling her by telephone was rather brutal, even for Geoffrey.

Bob Powers' attitude had also complicated life. His simplicity made him see a kiss as a pledge, and she had kissed him rather thoroughly, wondering whether she could make him lose his head.

She had not; she had had instead, made him lose to her the last corner of his hitherto untouched heart. He had drawn away after her kisses to stare at a portrait of the Moore who had been an Ambassador in the Henry Adams era. The tropic moment had occurred in Miss Gertrude's arctic drawing-room.

"You are heavenly sweet," he said, when he could manage to speak; "generous! Perhaps after twenty or thirty years together, and my trying during all that time to show you what I think and feel of you, you will understand a little of my gratitude and worship."

She had thought, "Oh, heavens!" But she did not tell him brutally that there would be no twenty or thirty years together. Such affairs sometimes "worked out," she reasoned, without help and quite satisfactorily.

She reckoned the women who "let things slide" and who "managed nicely"; their number reassured her, who heretofore had had no hesitation in dealing a death blow with a smile. But she did not sleep well.

Bob brought her the ring; she let him slip it on her finger, and looking on it, alone, she cried. She did not cry easily. But three times she had cried since "growing up."

But it might work out. She, who had offered so many poisoned cups, in the manner of Lucrezia Borgia, and with as little feeling—she didn't want to hurt him.

ONE afternoon at the start of November she went with Bob to see his mother and, heading toward the old residence street that had been so little touched by the new, she knew herself to be as tremulous and uncertain as she had been at ten.

He understood it, who understood sundry things so well and others not at all, and smiling down on her, he put his hand over hers.

"There isn't any dragon for you, dearest," he said. "Don't you know that I'm the Knight who slays them?"

She tried to smile, and seeing that she must try to smile, he was touched deeply by her perturbation. "Darling," he said, "my mother will—does—love you. Otherwise sound in taste, she cares rather amazingly for me and she knows what you have done for me. How happy you have made me, by—" (he hesitated) "stooping to me."

She murmured a stifled, "Don't!" He did not understand that, but feeling her need for comfort without understanding it, he tightened his hand on hers and he spoke quickly of matters he hoped might divert her.

Tomorrow, Marsha is drawn farther into a difficult situation.

Mosley has been having big meetings, some more or less private, and the Communists and others left groups have been making the most of the situation.

Clashes have occurred at all public gatherings of this nature and the fighting has been increasingly bitter.

The brawling brought about the government's official acknowledgment that a fascist movement exists. In fact, once the cabinet leaped into the fascist-communist controversy, it made a good job of it.

"THIN MAN" AND "CIRCUS CLOWN" AT THE STATE

Maureen O'Sullivan with Wm. Powell in scene from "The Thin Man," gay mystery story made from popular book by Dashiell Hammett, Wednesday.

Joe E. Brown is featured as a clown in his newest comedy, "The Circus Clown." He promises you plenty of fun in this picture. Friday.

speeches denouncing Mosley and his black shirts and some of the strongest language was used by conservatives.

There have been many political observers who had termed the Mosley men "tory storm troops," but these outbursts by tory leaders were taken as an indication that the conservative party, as a unit, doesn't want him.

MacDonald, sometimes hard to arouse, came out publicly against the black skirts only after long cogitation.

"This country will accept no dictatorship," the Prime Minister warned. "Great Britain wants no tampering with the liberties of a democracy."

Fascism has also been getting plenty of attention in parliament, hardly a day passes but that some member asks a question of a minister about fascist activities or denounces Mosley.

The press, too, is giving more space to the fascists' movements, especially when there's a riot.

A Washington Daybook By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington, D. C. (AP)—The manner in which President Roosevelt threw into discard much of the legislation enacted in the rush of the closing hours of the Seventy-third Congress may give impetus to a long-talked-of reform on Capitol Hill.

Congressional leaders recognize the evil in the old practice of Senators and Representatives attempting to jam through "pet" bills in the turmoil and confusion which always accompanies the wind-up of a session. Thus far, however, they have been able to do little about it.

Vice-President Garner attempted to halt the stampeded in the Senate this year. Declaring it had been his observation that bills were passed publican Leader Snell and his aides halted the mad rush by yelling louder than those seeking passage of "pet" measures.

Passing the Buck The difficulty in attempting to control this situation lies in the fact that usually both Houses have been working at top speed day and night in an effort to adjourn.

Nerves are frayed, everybody is fatigued and anxious to get the session over so they can rest. Consequently, there is a disposition to let down the bars. Once down, the flood of bills rushes in.

In the majority of cases even the sponsors of these bills hardly expect to see them become law. Once through Congress, however, their responsibility is at an end.

The buck has been passed to the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue. What does it matter if the Presidential axe falls heavily and effectively? The member's duty to his constituents has been discharged.

A Changing Picture Some of the most loyal administration supporters are not averse to using this neat little political trick. They have no malice in their hearts against the President. They would be the last to admit any attempt to embarrass him.

They simply believe the Chief Executive can better afford to take the chance. Their political sphere is confined to a single State or district. The President operates on a national scale and on national issues.

Mr. Roosevelt's practice, however, of not only vetoing these bills but telling why in each instance changes the picture somewhat. It tends to rob the "hard-working, always alert," member of some of his political thunder.

And it may result either in Congress deciding to remain in session until proper consideration can be given these bills or in making it virtually impossible for them to be brought up for action at all.

Other communities in the county are asking for these story hours, showing the need for a recreational program throughout Pitt county during the unusually long summer vacation.

The Terrible Object
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
It seemed as though little Yellow Beak had lost his voice, his power to move—everything.
He had cried out to the huge object he saw in the dark that he didn't want to be hurt. But not another word could he quack now.
The huge and terrible object just stood there, saying not a single word.
"He just wants to torment me," little Yellow Beak thought, but he could not speak.
At last he managed to give a faint cry and in a weak little voice said: "Please, please don't do anything to me. I never did anyone any harm. I've only been naughty once in a great while. I am not a bad duckling."
But the huge and terrible object still would not say a word.
"Won't you promise not to hurt me?" little Yellow Beak begged. "I'll give you grain and seeds and everything if you'll only promise."
"Please, please promise."
But the huge and terrible object just stood there, not speaking, and frightening little Yellow Beak so

JOHN THOMAS HELD IN JOYNER KILLING

Nashville, N. C., July 3.—John Thomas, young man of the Taylor's Cross Roads section, is being held in Nash County jail here on suspicion of being connected with the death of Bard Joyner, farmer of the same community, who died early Sunday morning as a result of a bullet wound through his forehead. Joyner was first adjudged a suicide by Corner M. C. Gully, of Nashville, who performed the autopsy, there being no evidence pointing to murder.

Thomas has been working on the same farm with Joyner for several years. He will be given a hearing tomorrow morning at Joyner's home.

Funeral services for Joyner were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Elm City Grove Church with Rev. Garland Henricks, pastor, officiating. He was buried in the Barnes graveyard. Joyner, who was around forty years old, leaves a wife and three small children.

GARDEN SENTENCED TO DIE SEPTEMBER 14

Durham, N. C., July 3.—James "Buck" Carden, 38, sentenced early Sunday morning by Judge N. A. Sinclair to be electrocuted on Friday, September 14, for the murder of his wife, Vera Waggoner Carden, will be delivered by local police to the State's Prison sometime this week.

R. O. Everett, counsel for the defense, made a motion to set aside the first degree murder verdict delivered by a Durham County grand jury at midnight Sunday. The motion was denied and he then served notice of appeal, citing ten exceptions. He was given sixty days in which to perfect the appeal.

Throughout the entire four-day trial, the State, represented by Solicitor Leo Carr, Major L. P. McClellan, of Greensboro, and James R. Patton, Jr., demanded a first degree conviction, claiming that Carden killed his wife after premeditation.

SEARCH IN VAIN FOR FOUR STORE ROBBERS

Nashville, N. C., July 3.—Nash County officials have been unable to apprehend the four bandits who entered the store of Matthews, Manning & Company of Spring Hope early Sunday morning and took away approximately $100 worth of merchandise. The robbers made an entry at the rear of the store by cutting the screen and breaking the pane of the window. Four sets of tracks led east through the woods to a place around five hundred yards from the store where flour, sugar and shells were left. The trail traced by Deputy Sheriff John H. Griffin and his posse of men then ran east to a side road off the Nashville-Spring Hope highway, where the robbers, apparently, made their getaway in an automobile. Other than these there have been no more helpful clues discovered. The robbery took place around 2 or 3 o'clock, but was not discovered until 6 o'clock. Owners of the store, J. T. Matthews and W. H. Manning, are both from Nomeyer.

CHWY EXPLOSION MAKES TEN FOOT GAP

Kinston, N. C., July 3.—There is a ten-foot gap in the Central Highway at Fort Barnwell as a result of an explosion caused by heat. Masses of concrete and asphalt were hurled into the air. No person was injured. Engineers said the surface on the road buckled and blew up as a result of the intense heat to which it had been subjected for a week or longer. The section has sweltered under a hot wave. It was the second such explosion recently in Craven County.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

In the classic art of mile-running, which is being kept pretty much alive and kicking despite the metric-minded gentlemen of the American A. A. U. and I. C. A. A. A. Princeton's remarkable runner, Bill Bonthron, has one more rendezvous with Father Time and an outstanding rival.

Tiger Bill will match strides in London this July with Jack Lovelock, the slim New Zealander who showed his heels to Bonthron a year ago at Princeton and held the world record of 4:07.6 until Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, shaved it to 4:06.7 on the same cinder oval recently.

On time, Cunningham has the more consistent record. He has been in three races under 4:10. Bonthron and Lovelock, however, can furnish a rousing finish by combining to take a good, lusty crack at Cunningham's new record when they meet in White City stadium.

That Thing Called Pressure
 Bonthron's reversal of form at Los Angeles, only a week after his stunning defeat by Cunningham at Princeton and after being air-sick most of the way across the country, was amazing but understandable. The pressure was heavy on Bonthron at Tigertown. Not only was he under the guns of a terrific hally-hoo, but thousands of his college followers were on hand expecting him to win, and he was subject to the strain of commencement days. Put all these things together, mixed with natural nervousness, and it is easy to realize that Bonthron was too tense to give his best.

With the pressure off him entirely, the Tiger star could toe the mark at Los Angeles without worrying about the outcome or any other factors. By contrast the load was shifted to Cunningham, who undoubtedly began to feel the burden of a hard campaign as well as some after-effects of his foot sprain.

Topsy-Turvy Theory
 The theory of mile-running has been radically changed by our American ace this year and offers fresh possibilities of making further inroads on world record time. I do not think we will see a four-minute mile achieved by human legs, but certainly 4:04 now appears altogether possible.

Even when Lovelock raced to his world record at Princeton he and Bonthron adhered to the orthodox habit of taking a breather in the third quarter, followed by a crackling final 400. Lovelock's quarters were 61.4, 62.2, 65.1 and 58.9. Cunningham upset this custom by taking it relatively easy only in the second quarter and then shooting the works for the last half at Princeton, where he was clocked in 61.8, 64, 61.8 and 59.1. Bonthron, following suit, reeled off his quarters in 62.1, 64.5 and 58.8 at Los Angeles.

The interesting thing to be noted here is the comparison of times for each of these three stars over the last half-mile—2:00.9 for Cunningham, 2:02.3 for Bonthron and 2:04 for Lovelock.

Bank Appraisers Study Soil Types In This Section

Land Bank appraisers of North Carolina, who are making a tour of the eastern section of the State making typical studies of various types of farms in connection with the short course they attended last week at State College, made an inspection of the bright leaf tobacco farm of Martha Olivia Whichard near Greenville today.

The appraisers arrived here last yesterday afternoon, spent the night at the Proctor Hotel and went out to the farm this morning after breakfast.

In addition to the inspection here, the group will go to Kinston, Pink Hill, Kenansville, Warsaw, Clinton, and Roseboro.

Several stops it was said, were to be made along their route for the purpose of identifying the type of crops and soil.

The tour Thursday will carry the appraisers to the Charlotte vicinity where numbers of stops will be made in identifying upper Piedmont soils.

JOHN MCCOWN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Durham, N. C., July 3.—John McCown, of Durham, received serious bruises today when the automobile which he was driving was sideswiped by another driven by William S. Schlanger, of Scranton, Pa., on the Oxford highway near here. It is understood that Schlanger assumed responsibility for the accident. He said that he saw the McCown car too late to avoid the accident. Both automobiles were badly damaged. No charges have been preferred.

ELEVEN KNIFE WOUNDS ADMINISTERED IN FIGHT

Burlington, N. C., July 3.—Carl ("Sonny") Andrews, young white man of Graham, was held in the Alamance County jail today without privilege of bond for slashing John Boles with a knife.

One of the knife thrusts under the left arm and across the chest punctured the lung cavity and is considered the more critical of eleven different wounds.

New York Cotton

New York, July 3.—(AP)—Cotton futures opted steady, five to eight points higher in response to steady Liverpool cables which was offset by scattered liquidation.

October contracts worked up to 12.22 with active months showing net advances of about 11 to 14 points at the end of the first half hour.

Trading was quiet later in the morning. The market held fairly steady, with October ruling about 12.25 at midday when the general list showed gains of 14 to 18 points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 3.—(AP)—The heat humidity, the Fourth of July holiday and various other restraining influences combined today to hold the stock market in a narrow and dull trading range.

The majority of speculators who might have been active gave the board room a wide berth and a few members accounted for the greater part of the scattered dealings. A few issues showed firming tendencies, but the list as a whole was in a slumberous mood.

Sentiment showed some improvement when wheat rallied a cent or more a bushel. Corn and oats, however, were hesitant.

A few firm sports appeared in dull stock trading, but the majority of leading shares showed narrow ranges. Transfers were 375,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

 chief, there will be "very little red tape" connected with their responsibilities under the Bankhead cotton act.

Responding to numerous communications from ginners complaining about red tape which they feared in the compulsory ballage production program, Cobb issued a statement clarifying the relations of the act to the ginners.

The Bankhead legislation levies a tax of 50 per cent of the average central market price per pound of lint cotton which has been determined as 11.24 cents on all cotton ginned above the 10,460,251 bales of 478 pounds net weight fixed as the maximum to be ginned tax free.

The average central market price may be re-determined from time to time should the secretary of agriculture find it advisable. But at no time may the tax be less than five cents a pound.

The ginners will be issued bale tags which they will attach to all cotton ginned this season when the producer surrendered tax exemption certificates covering the amount of the cotton ginned or when the producer pays the excess bale tax.

Under the act an affidavit will be required from producers who take their ginned cotton home for storage and postpone payment of the tax. This affidavit may be sworn to before any county agent or county or community production control committee. This service will be available without cost to farmers wishing to defer tax payments.

Many ginners, Cobb said, have the erroneous impression these affidavits must be sworn to before a notary public.

Internal revenue bureau representatives will visit the gins monthly and administer their services free on gin returns. Gin operators are required by the act to give bond for the performance of their services but the internal revenue bureau will collect the excess bale taxes.

Fliers Reach Warsaw.
 Warsaw, July 3.—(AP)—Poland rousingly acclaimed today two of its native sons, Joseph and Benjamin Adamowicz of Brooklyn, N. Y., for their trans-Atlantic flight.

The first brothers to cross the ocean by air landed here late yesterday after a hop from Touran, Poland, where they had been forced down. Thousands roared a welcome as the soda pop manufacturers who were driven through decorated street to a formal reception.

The fliers made a forced landing on the coast of France last Saturday after a hop from Harbor Grace, N. F. They were forced down twice between France and Warsaw.

Governor Seeks Lower Gas Prices.
 Raleigh, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—Governor Ethingrass of North Carolina today called upon dealers who sell gasoline at wholesale in the State to lower their prices to end "discrimination against the people of this State in favor of users of gasoline in other States."

Speaking to some twenty representatives of gasoline wholesalers, the Governor sighted prices at which gas is being retailed in Virginia and Tennessee and pointed out that generally the retail prices are five cents higher in North Carolina.

"Admitting that you cannot lower the price, I am asking you to carry the story to your higher officials that we want lower prices in North Carolina," the Governor said.

"My hand may be tied now so I cannot do anything, but we will have a meeting of the legislature in January and I want you to take that into consideration."

The Governor said that 263,000-000 gallons of gas were used by North Carolinians last year. If sighted figures to show that the price of gas here had risen from 17.1 cents per gallon in March, 1933, to 22.4 cents at present.

"That means North Carolina people are paying tribute of $14,202,000 yearly in increased gasoline cost," the Governor said.

TEXTILE OPERATIVE FATALLY HURT IN DIVE

Gastonia, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—J. C. White, 20-year-old textile operative, died at a local hospital today as the result of an injury received from a dive in a swimming pool here last Saturday.

Apparently dead from drowning soon after he had dived headlong into the waist-deep water, he regained consciousness when an inhalator was used and seemed to have completely recovered until paralysis developed yesterday.
