GENERAL STRIKE PARALYZES SAN FRANCISCO AREA

Two Officers Are Believed Shot By Dillinger Cohorts

SEARCH BEGUN FOR MOBSTERS AT CHICAGO

Highway Patrolmen Shot Down by Per- sons Occupying Three Cars; Head of Dillinger Detail Says Search For Indiana Desperado Has Been Under Way All Week

Chicago, Ill., July 16.—(AP)—John Dillinger, and his henchmen were hunted again today in the Chicago area.

Sergeant Harry Bingham, head of the Dillinger detail, disclosed that for three days his men have been at work on reports that the mobsters were in hiding here.

Making a routine check of their territory in a squad car two highway patrolmen came upon three cars parked in line northwest of Chicago. Besides the cars stood men and a woman.

"Anything we can do to help you?" asked Policeman Fred McAllister, alighting with Patrolman Gilbert Cross. The answer was a crash of pistols.

Cross collapsed, a bullet in his abdomen, another in his chest and the third splintering his elbow. He may be fatally wounded.

With a bullet through his shoulder, McAllister fell and rolled into a ditch for safety and emptied his revolver at the three cars which sped away.

J. Robert Cobb Dies Suddenly; Funeral Sunday

J. Robert Cobb, 78, died suddenly at his home near Sharpshoot, in Edgecombe County, Saturday morning. Mr. Cobb was a well-to-do farmer and his sudden death cast a pall of sorrow throughout the community.

Funeral services were conducted at his late home Sunday afternoon with Rev. M. Weaver, pastor of Otter's Creek Primitive Baptist Church, and interment followed in the family cemetery nearby.

He is survived by his widow; three sons, Amos, Silo and Grey; three daughters, Mrs. E. C. Edwards, of Fountain; Mrs. W. C. Edwards, of Sharpshoot; and Mrs. K. C. Lewis, of Sharpshoot; also one brother, Jack Cooboff Sharpshoot, and one sister, Mrs. Jack Edwards, of Falkland.

PROPOSE AMENDMENT TO PEANUT AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C., July 16.—(AP)—A proposed amendment to the peanut millers marketing agreement to provide for control of surplus, will be put forward at a public hearing at Fort Worth, Texas, July 23, called today by Secretary Wallace.

Under the amendment the control board would be empowered to determine the estimated prospective supply, and the supply that could be purchased under present market conditions, and would allot to the producing areas and their growers, proportionate shares of the tonnage that could be delivered. The surplus percentage would be diverted to by-products.

SENTENCED WAIVED FOR SENTENCES

Ogden, Utah.—(AP)—Many budding authors undertake their labors just to pass the time away, but it was different with William E. Neuteboom. The longer he wrote the more "time" he saved.

Neuteboom pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree burglary but confided to District Judge Eugene E. Pratt he was writing his autobiography to prove the futility of crime.

Twice the court postponed imposition of sentence to permit Neuteboom to complete his book.

BEGINS FINAL WEEK'S DRIVE

Rev. J. A. McIver Re- doubles Efforts on Reflector Subscrip- tions This Week

Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, who is conducting a subscription campaign for The Daily Reflector in an effort to raise funds for defraying his expenses to the Baptist World Alliance in Berlin, Germany, entered the last week of his drive today and urged all those desiring to aid him to send in their subscriptions at once.

Mr. McIver will leave next Sunday, embarking at New York July 25 for his trip across the ocean. He will be away a month, and during the time will visit the Passion Play in addition to sightseeing trips in Germany, France and other countries.

Inaugurating his subscription drive two weeks ago, Mr. McIver reported today he had obtained 65 of the 200 yearly subscription comprising his goal, and said he hoped those who desired to aid him would send their checks to Postoffice Box 176 this week, or get in direct touch with him.

He stated it would be impossible for him to see everybody who had promised to help him this week, and asked that either new subscriptions or renewals be given him. Under the liberal premium plan with The Daily Reflector the minister is allowed the same for renewals as old ones.

With one hundred and thirty-five subscriptions as his goal and with limited time ahead of him to obtain them, Mr. McIver again hit the trail this morning with the issuance of the appeal to those intending to help him to do so at once.

The Baptist Alliance will be in session at Berlin four days and thousands of persons from many countries will be in attendance to take advantage of its sessions.

AWARD CONTRACT ON SCHOOL WORK

Sanford, N. C., July 15.—The contract for the construction of additions to five school buildings in Lee County was awarded by the Board of Education Saturday to W. J. Jewell, of Sanford, whose bid was approximately $49,900.

The plumbing and heating contract went to Cumber Plumbing Company of Wilmington for about $7,000. There were a number of bidders on the projects.

The following are included in the contracts: Deep River School, addition of two rooms, installation of heating and sewerage system; Broadway school, addition of four rooms; Jonesboro school, addition of two rooms; Jonesboro school, addition of two rooms; Greenwood school, addition of four rooms; Lee County Training School, colored, Sanford, addition of four rooms.

The funds for the projects were procured through a grant of $56,000 from the PWA, 70 per cent of which is a loan covered by thirty-year serial bonds issued by the county.

Late News Flashes

Crippled By Strike.

San Francisco, July 16.—(AP)—A paralyzing union labor strike went into effect here and in East Bay cities today and national guard troops with tanks, machine guns and one pounders began to converge rapidly upon the stricken area.

Raid by mobs on grocery stores increased. Rioters threatened properties, smashed windows and stripped the places of food supplies.

The fear of starvation caused the state highway police to provide escorts for their first food trucks which attempted to reach the area from Sacramento. Regular army troops stood ready for call at the Resido military headquarters here.

Under virtual wartime siege the bay district was crippled and roving bands of strike pickets attempted stoppage of food supplies to the population of 1,300,000 persons.

Thousands of workers were forced to walk to their jobs when all street car service was halted by the strike.

Tanks were loaded on rail flat cars at Salinas and spend on their way to the "battlefront."

The state has 7,000 troops at its command and regular army officers said they believed the soldiers would be able to take care of the situation.

Should the regular troops be called, however, the officer said, 500 men of the 30th infantry were ready and 300 more soldiers could be mustered almost immediately.

Mayor Angelo Rossi appealed to Acting Governor Frank Merriam for more guardsmen and companies of soldiers quickly moved to headquarters on the waterfront here. Police issued "move on" orders to all groups congregating in the downtown streets.

PITT COUNTY QUIET SUNDAY

Few Arrests Reported From Various Sec- tions Over The Week End

Greenville and Pitt County passed through the week-end with no arrests of any importance, it was revealed this morning by reports from the three law-enforcement agencies here.

Sheriff Sam Whitehurst said his men were permitted to rest yesterday and the same report came from Chief of Police George Clark.

The highway patrol, although busy riding the roads in an effort to detect traffic law violators, reported no wrecks of any consequence in this immediate territory.

It was almost too hot for the criminal element to do any business and officers welcomed the chance to remain in the shade and keep as cool as they could, although that wasn't much.

Arrests in and around Greenville have been at a minimum the last several days, but guardians of the law are keeping their eyes "peeled" ready to nab the first man that breaks the law.

NEGRO DIES FROM BEATING

Officers Seek William Reaves in Connec- tion With Death of Zibe Barnhill

Zibe Barnhill, 71-year-old colored man of the Bethel community, died last night from injuries allegedly inflicted when he was beat over the head with a hickory walking cane by Wm. Reaves, also colored, about three weeks ago.

Under direction of Coroner A. A. Ellwanger an autopsy was performed on the head last night and the coroner's jury immediately afterward ordered that Reaves be held for Superior Court action on a charge of murder.

Reaves was taken into custody and released under bond of $300 shortly after the assault, and was said to have gone to Rocky Mount.

Coroner Ellwanger today instructed Rocky Mount officers to be on the look out for the negro and to take him into custody for return to this county to wait action on the murder charge.

Barnhill and Reaves, the coroner said, engaged in an argument over some hogs belonging to Reaves and his estranged wife. The wife asked Barnhill to go to the pen and get her part of the hogs, and when he attempted to do so it is alleged Deaves attacked him with the cane, severely beating the aged negro over the head.

The autopsy, it was reported, revealed the fact that Barnhill's death was caused by the blows on the head.

Sought In Death Of Oklahoma Coed

Neal Myers (above), 21-year-old University of Oklahoma student, was sought by authorities in connection with the death of Marian Mills, beautiful coed at the university. He was reported with the girl before she was found dead. The county attorney questioned the story that she was the victim of a medicine taken to avoid motherhood. (Associated Press Photo)

STAGE SET FOR DOLLAR DRIVE

Salvation Army to Seek $150 Emer- gency Fund in Can- vass During Week

Finding itself without funds to meet present operating expenses, the Salvation Army this week will launch a "Dollar Drive" in an effort to take care of its needs until the annual budget campaign to be staged during the latter part of the year.

The amount sought by the organization, as announced Saturday by Captain Stratford, new officer in charge, was $150. The campaign was found necessary as an emergency measure at a meeting of the Advisory Board the latter part of last week.

The budget drive last November fell far short of its objective, Captain Stratford said, and the organization has practically existed the last few months with workers being unable to carry on their work as they desired.

Solicitors will make a canvass of the city this week, and persons desiring to support the cause have been asked to contribute $1.00. The drive will be for cash and pledges will not be taken until the budget campaign is inaugurated.

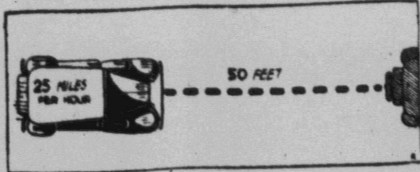

Captain and Mrs. Stratford have injected new life into the work of the Army here but they are powerless to accomplish what they desire without money and the committee will be sent out in quest of the fund which will make a vigorous drive to provide the necessary amount.

SEEK WAITER FOR SLAYING TWO WOMEN

Bizarre Trunk Mur- der Reported by Po- lice From Brighton, England, Today

Brighton, England, July 16.—(AP)—A stuttering waiter who mysteriously disappeared over the week-end was sought today for questioning in the bizarre trunk murders of two women.

A woman's body jammed doubled in a trunk was found last night. In the trunk also were the head and arms of another woman believed those from the torso found in a trunk checked at a railway station here on July 13.

A description of the waiter known as "Tom" Mancini, an Italian, was flashed by telegram and telephone to the police.

He was known to have spent a few hours late Saturday night at a Brighton dance hall after a lengthy grilling by police before the discovery of the latest body.

Authorities closely guarded details, but the newest body was said to be that of Violette Kaye, professional dancer.

All effort to identify the woman whose torso was found in a trunk checked in a railway station here a month ago has failed.

SEEK MISSING BOY IN WOODS

Search For Bobby Connor Continues Near Home at Harts- dale N. Y.

Hartsdale, N. Y., July 16.—(AP)—The search for 21-months-old Bobby Connor, strayed or kidnapped, led again today into the woods fringing the New York suburb.

With the help of bloodhounds and Boy Scouts police organized a new thorough hunt through the woodlands and dales near the Connor home from which their child has been missing since last Thursday. While authorities and the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connor, said no authentic ransom note had been received, the story of kidnapping was not abandoned.

Federal agents remained on the scene. The arrest of Bernard Sidering, 20, accused of writing an offer to Connor to sell clues to the whereabouts of the child for $50, was announced by Frank Fay, Department of Justice agent in charge, but the Federal agent expressed opinion youth knows nothing of the child's whereabouts.

DEFER PROBE OF CAR WRECK

Coroner Ellwanger Sets Mizzelle Death Investigation For Thursday Afternoon

Because of the continued illness of Isaac Mizzelle, of Martin County, severely injured in the automobile accident at House Station several days ago that claimed the life of his brother, Hardy Mizzelle, the inquest set for today has been postponed until Thursday at 2 o'clock, it was announced this morning by Coroner E. A. Ellwanger.

Mr. Ellwanger said that although Mizzelle was released from the hospital last week physicians reported today his condition was such that he would be unable to attend the inquest.

Mizzelle was injured and his brother killed when the automobile in which they were riding left the road and crashed into an oak tree at House Station after striking the fender of a car driven by Haywood Dail of Greenville. The Mizzelle car traveling toward Greenville like Dail attempted to pass the Greenville man on the right hand side, ran off the pavement on the abutment and then crashed into the oak tree. The car overturned, pinning the occupants beneath.

The other sons of the dead man were injured, one so painfully that he was confined in the hospital several days.

LARGE CROWD AT SERVICE

Union Service Held On Courthouse Lawn For First Time This Summer

Rain, which prevented the holding of union services on the courthouse lawn the past two Sundays, took a holiday last night and the service came off according to schedule with a large crowd on hand.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, who spoke on the subject, "Glorifying the Commonplace."

Taking his text from the 21st chapter of John, which describes Peter going fishing and meeting the Lord, the speaker told of the glorifying of the life of Peter while pursuing the commonplace things of life.

He declared the same was true of people today while pursuing the daily duties and that even the most humble and lowly was finding life worthwhile by accepting the teachings of Christ and applying them in daily contacts with others.

The song service was in charge of the choir of Immanuel Baptist Church with James Dees, young soloist, rendering a number. He was accompanied by Mrs. C. M. Thomas, organist of the church, who played for the remainder of the service.

Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will speak next Sunday night and hope was expressed by members of the Ministerial Association, sponsors of the services, that another large crowd would be in attendance.

Because of rain the two previous Sunday nights services could not be held on the lawn but brief devotional periods were held in the Superior courtroom. Because of the lack of accommodations there services in the future will be held at Memorial Baptist Church in case of rain.

Adequate seating accommodations had been provided on the lawn and several hundred persons can be taken care of without congestion. All seats were occupied last night and several persons stood on the edge of the lawn and listened to the inspirational program of music and gospel.

THREE BLACKS ARE SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE

Low Food Supplies, Shortage of Fuel and Exhausted Commo- dities Cause Grave Situation in Metro- politan District; General Johnson Can't See Why Strike Should Not be Ended Soon

(By The Associated Press)—The port seige of San Francisco—a general strike by union labor—completely paralyzed the entire metropolitan area of 1,300,000 persons beginning at 9 a. m. today.

The strike, involving an estimated 100,000 organized workmen, is aimed to assist 27,000 Pacific Coast longshoremen and marine workers who have been on strike for two months seeking changed working conditions. Four thousand National Guards are on guard.

Food supplies are low. Some commodities are exhausted. There is a shortage of fuel for motor cars.

Efforts to reconcile the differences between the striking longshoremen and their employers are stalemated. Plans are being pushed with all possible haste for a general strike in Portland, Oregon.

Three negroes who were killed and three others wounded and a white man was shot as guns blazed yesterday in Houston, Texas, where there is longshoremen-employer trouble.

General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, said at Portland, Ore.: "Why this situation should last another 24 hours is beyond my comprehension."

The president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' Association said that a general strike in the industry there was proposed by 42 locals of the Union Textile Workers of America would mean an indefinite shutdown of every mill in Alabama. An agreement was reported from Piedmont, S. C., where a serious situation had been threatened.

A nine-week strike of 1,000 Danbury, Connecticut, hatters was settled Sunday, permitting five factories to re-open today.

Picket lines were ordered today at Cohler, Wisconsin, called the port model industrial village. Twelve hundred employees are demanding the right to collective bargaining union leaders explained.

PLANS FOR PURCHASE OF BONDS COMPLETED

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—Negotiations for the Public Works Administration to buy bonds representing 70 per cent of $425,000 allotment to the Morehead City Port Commission for construction of terminal facilities at Morehead City, N. C., were completed Saturday by M. R. Beaman, general manager of the development.

Beaman said he expected to return this week to Morehead City where the PWA bond contract must be signed by Stanley Woodland, chairman of the commission; George Robert Wallace, secretary, and Luther Hamilton, general counsel.

Army engineers will begin work today on a survey on the development. The War Department has been allocated $1,550,000 to dredge the Beaufort-Morehead City channel to a depth of 30 feet on condition terminal facilities are erected by the commission.

SOMEBODY PLEASE EXPLAIN THIS

(State Magazine)

North Carolina has one of the finest school systems of any state in the union.

Some few years ago, we started a state-wide program of consolidation. As you travel around today, your eyes behold imposing brick and stone structures, not only in the centers of population but also in the rural sections.

Handsome, well-constructed, modernly-equipped buildings. A credit to the public-spirited citizens of North Carolina.

These buildings represent the expenditures of many millions of dollars on the part of our people. Nobody is making much criticism about that expenditure, although there are some who claim that we really bit off more than we could chew.

However, what's done is done. We've got the fine buildings and all of the modern educational facilities. What are we doing with them?

We're placing them in charge of men and women who, on the average, aren't paid as much as the janitors of some of our large office-buildings in Raleigh, Charlotte or Greensboro.

We insisted upon having fine buildings, and we've got them. The money was spent lavishly. But you can't educate boys and girls with fine buildings—you've got to have fine teachers.

How are you going to get fine teachers unless you pay them enough to make their work attractive to them?

In other words, it seems to us that the proper thing to do is to keep our teachers up to the same standard as our buildings.

THE EDITOR'S BEATTITUDES

"Blessed are the merchants who advertise because they believe in it and their business; for their prosperity shall increase many fold."

"Blessed are the country correspondents who send in their well-written items every week; for fame of their neighbors shall go abroad in the land."

"Blessed is the woman who sends in a written account of a party or wedding, for she shall see the details of the function and the names of her guests correctly reported."

"Blessed are those who do not expect the editor to know everything, but who call up and tell him whenever an interesting event occurs to them for they shall have a newsy paper in their town."

"Blessed are they who get their copy in early; for they shall occupy a warm place in the editor's heart."

"Blessed are all those who cooperate with the editor in his efforts in behalf of the community; for their town shall be known far and wide as a good place in which to live."

Senator "Jim Ham" of Illinois, chairman, has set to call a meeting of his committee. No one seems to know just what to do.

The uncertainty is due in large part to the administration itself. Members of the committee are not at all sure what course President Roosevelt intends to pursue with regard to the progressive Republican Senators up for re-election this year who have supported him.

Lewis has talked with the President, but judging from what he said after their conversation everything still is nebulous. Until the administration's plans are known

SPITE MARRIAGE
By Katherine Hawland Taylor

SYNOPSIS: Marsha Moore tells her vector about her problem, which is that although she is mildly in love with Bob Fingers, who she married him on the first place because she believed Geoffrey Tarleton had married another girl—and Marsha had thought Geoff the ideal mate for herself. The vector tells her to go on in the silence, and Marsha does. But she feels a slight consolation in Bob's attitude toward her.

Chapter 19 UNWELCOME CALLER

WELL, she had turned over several new pages, Marsha thought. She rose; he too rose, but unwillingly. "Ella summons us; she's wig-wagging from a window. Dinner, I suppose."

"They were both very happy that night at dinner, they each remembered later, and bitterly. The vague storm clouds which had muted other hours did not appear. They were as close as they had ever been, with a realization now of what closeness meant.

"Great dinner, you dear thing!" he said; and with absurd intensity: then, "Good heavens, I'm happy!"

Ah, she realized, she loved him, loved him! And he loved her best when he did not know quite how much she loved him. Why did she, well lured to the world and its wounding ways, expect perfection? But she did; she cried for it, inside.

His eyes, quick to note change in her made him say, "Headache?"

"No," she assured him.

"You looked a little done-in just then. You're certain?"

He was almost too gentle with her when he felt she suffered in any way. It thawed her.

"I'll tell you about it some day," she promised, "some day when you are bored. I believe confessions fill gaps admirably. Betty Forsythe concocts the most amazing tales. She says her husband sleeps, otherwise, and that she would rather listen to his shocked remonstrances than to his synopacted snores. Perhaps I'll come to that!"

"YOU'D better not!" he answered. "I suppose I'm a fog, but I hate that sort of thing. Bad enough for a man to beat out a lot of repentant goo."

"But if a woman has it to blast? And some secret that keeps bothering her by bobbing up from, well—say a tall past like mine?"

He smiled.

"I wonder how many men did care for you?" he questioned idly.

"Ever count 'em? Heavens, when I think! Lucky for me you didn't care enough for any one of them." He reached for a mint, and after a nibble, complained, "Stale," he said, "where did you get them? Don't you think they're stale?"

Marsha sampled the condemned, considered carefully, and then said she thought the mints were stale. And she looked all the evening as if she had a headache.

Walking in the pale thin sunlight the next morning, Marsha looked up and over the low, stone wall. A motor, which had been purring up the lane, had come to a standstill.

Quiet has its own arresting quality; often it is more ominous than the loudest din. It was the quiet that made Marsha turn in the path; and it was Geoffrey Tarleton's quiet that led her to say, "Why, Geoff! What are you doing here?"

He answered with "Happened along."

"Wonderful!" she said in the way she felt to be school-girlishly enthusiastic. "Won't you come in? Bob is in the village, I believe."

"Well, in such case I might," Geoffrey responded, as he raised his brows and smiled.

"I meant he'll be sorry to miss you."

"Oh, I see. How do I reach your delectable retreat? Ladder or airplane? Oh, gates; I see. A bit along, isn't it?"

"Better park in front," she called. "The tradesmen come rushing around the corner and never seem to think—" The rest of her warning was absorbed in the sound of changing gears.

She frowned as she turned to pace toward the lower end of the garden. She wished Geoff had not come. . . Geoff who smiled at her and, with his smile made her feel an idiot; Geoff, who asked questions in her. Among them a wonder about whether she wasn't drugged.

SHE walked the length of the path three times, and smiled tolerantly over Geoff's method, which was to heighten interest with suspense. How they understood each

Italian Addition

Still another denomination in the recent stamps commemorating the world championship soccer football games, as championed by Italy, has been added to that country's postage. It is a high value airmail, 50 lire, equivalent to about $2.75. A huge soccer football takes up most of the right half of the stamp, with an airplane over a colonial port as the other half of the design. Incidentally, this stamp was for use in the colonies.

The WORLD OF STAMPS
By QUINTON JAMES

For the first time in its comparatively brief history, dating back to the end of the World War, Yugo-Slavia has brought out a group of air mail stamps.

The set of five values does not show the sharpness of engraving, printing and coloring generally to be found in modern adhesives. While each has an airplane in flight, the scenes depicted are different.

Starting with 10 paras, denominations run from 50 paras through 1 and 2 pears to 3 dinars. The two high values give indication of better workmanship and shading than do the others.

Another Yugo-Slavia

Yugo-Slavia also has presented the stamp collector with six others. Two set of the semi-postals issue in behalf of two cities, Sarajevo and Zagreb. Each bears a surtax in addition to the regular postage.

On the Zagreb stamps, printed in connection with the annual athletic games, the "sokol" is a reproduction of a statue showing an athlete standing before a falcon, symbolic of the "sokol." These games differ from the Olympics in that they comprise sport for the nation's sake rather than sport for sport's sake. The values are 0.75 plus 0.25 dinar, 1.50 plus 4.50 dinar and 1.75 plus 0.25 dinar.

The Sarajevo trio, bearing the dates 1914-1934, mark the twentieth anniversary of the Sarajevo event which led to the World War, the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand. Values are the same as the other issue. So are the colors, green, carmine and brown.

U. S. Duck Stamps

Whether the newets addition to the U. S. stamp list, a dollar adhesive for duck hunters, will be included in the regular catalogue has not yet been determined. If listed it probably will be in a special department as a tax stamp. Designed by the chief of the bureau of biological survey, J. N. Darling, the cartoonist, it has a waterfowl scene.

The stamp, which must be affixed to a duck hunter's license, is a tax authorized by Congress to aid in developing homes for wild animals.

Other Issues

An announcement from Brussels says that the Belgian stamps for the exhibition of 1935 are now on sale. The four values are 35 centimes green showing the Congo palace at the exhibition; 1 franc red, palace of the City of Brussels; 1.50 franc brown, corner of old Brussels, and 1.75 franc blue, palace of the Belgian section.

Germany announces a set of four stamps, 3, 6, 12, and 25 pfennigs as a colonial memorial issue. Each pictures a man prominent in the history of the former German colonies.

SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon us in a Deed of Trust executed by Abram A. Joyner and wife, Anna A. Joyner, on the 13th day of December, 1922, and recorded in Book T-14, page 159, we will on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1934 at the Courthouse door in Pitt County, Greenville, N. C., sell at public auction for cash to the highest bidder the following land, to-wit:

A certain tract of land in said County and State, bounded as follows: Situated in Falkland Township, Pitt County, N. C., and lying on the North side of Tyson Creek and on the E. side of Spring Branch and known as lot No. 2 in the division of lands among the heirs of Elbert Forbes deceased, and more particularly described as follows: to-wit: Beginning in the Tarboro-Snow Hill Road opposite an iron stake corner of Lot No. 1, thence with the said road as follows: S. 24-35 W. 333 ft.; S. 31-55 W. 720 ft., to the run of Tyson Creek; thence up the corner of lot No. 3 entered by an ash and gum pointers; thence with the line of lot No. 3 N. 26-30 E. 1066 ft. to a stake in the field, corner of lot No. 1; thence with the line of Lot No. 1, S. 28-30 E. 1299 ft. to the place of beginning, containing 28-60 acres of land.

Also another lot, being lot No. 2-A in the same division and being the Woodland to go with No. 2, more particularly described as follows, to-wit: Beginning on the Greenville-Wilson Road at the corner of lot No. 3 opposite an iron stake; thence with the said road S. 56-30 E. 507 ft., to the corner of lot No. 1, opposite an iron stake; thence S. 33-30 W. with a chopped line between Nos. 2-A and No. 1 1366 ft., to a corner of lot No. 1 at the edge of the cleared land; thence with the line of lot No. 1 and the edge of the cleared land N. 64-10 W. 82 ft.; N. 6-05 E. 188 ft; N. 63-40 W. 220 ft., to the corner of lot No. 1 in the line of lot No. 3; thence 982 ft. to the beginning, containing 12.70 acres of land and known as the Woodland to go with lot No. 2. The dwelling located on lot No. 2 is included in and made a part of the Deed.

This sale is made by reason of the failure of Abram A. Joyner and wife, Anna A. Joyner, to pay off and discharge the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust.

A deposit of 10 per cent will be required from the purchaser at the sale.

This the 6th day of July, 1934.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT JUMNER
Washington, D. C. (AP)—The Democratic senatorial elections committee, charged with the duty of seeing that the party at least retains and if possible increases its strength in the Senate in the fall elections, is having difficulty in getting started.

Senator "Jim Ham" of Illinois, chairman, has set to call a meeting of his committee. No one seems to know just what to do.

The uncertainty is due in large part to the administration itself. Members of the committee are not at all sure what course President Roosevelt intends to pursue with regard to the progressive Republican Senators up for re-election this year who have supported him.

Lewis has talked with the President, but judging from what he said after their conversation everything still is nebulous. Until the administration's plans are known

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rivers, and his brother, Henry Rivers, Jr., met him in Norfolk, Va., yesterday.

Gift To Library.
Sheppard Memorial Library has been given a beautiful book of American Lyric Poetry. The book itself is an ornament. The binding is a combination of soft red suede and rough tan leather. It is artistically lettered in gold.

Among the poems is a group by our own Eva Berry Harris, and they are among the most beautiful in the book. One of them is:

A Sonnet.
He is no longer with us; far too soon
His lovely soul took its unearthly flight
To regions far away from star to moon—
To Elysian places of delight.
Methinks if we could see beyond the sky
We'd know how sweetly the immortals dwell
Then age-old mysteries would clarify,
Illusions disappear and doubts dispel.
Indeed, if we could see, we'd yearn to go,
There'd be no canting to conceal our zeal;
But strangely here within this bungalow
Although we cannot see, yet we can feel—
No longer with us—while my sad eyes fill
I know full well his love protects us still.

The library appreciates the beautiful gift and considers it a valuable addition to her best book collection. Greenville is proud of Mrs. Harris.

THE TRAIL TO YESTERDAY
I have wandered out on the old trail again,
Of memories that are still fresh and serve;
Back to the trail I used to know of yesterday,
Riding and seeing again as it lay.

Memories of a shack on a river bank,
Which the trail to yesterday has led mind to think;
Where I found happiness on lonely trails unknown
Which first withered as the flower first blown.

Down the dim trail it seems as in the past I used to ride,
Down the old river trail, and across the ford;
I can see again that shack under the starlit sky,
The man I love now more than I did of yore.

Upon a grassy butte overlooking the Ute river,
Looking back to the trail of yesterday;
This picture will stay in my life forever,
It was framed in the rain and the darkness of yesterday.

In a small clearing there, a clearing in a dense wood beside a river,
Where I found him on the trail of yesterday;
Again I can see the parson as he faded into the horizon gone forever,
That had bound me to the one I love, on the trail to yesterday.

The dim trail winds among the foothills and in the horizon fades
Where snow white peaks shimmering in the distance haze;
Above it all swam the sun, filling the world with a clear white light,
Behind the foothills and on the trail to yesterday visions now bright.

BOYHOOD AMBITION TO BE ASTRONOMER IS REALIZED
Evanston, Ill.—(AP)—When James Cuffey, of Highland Park, Ill., was a boy he used to tell his playmates that when he grew up he would be an astronomer.

Now 22 and a senior at Northwestern University, he is about to realize that ambition. Recently he was appointed to the post of assistant to Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard University observatory.

The Life Saver
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Willy Nilly wanted to continue his work, but Rip the dog was so anxious to have a companion on a long walk that he agreed to leave his chores.

After all, thought Willy Nilly, it is rather hot here in the garden today, and I believe a walk would be better for me than working.

"I have no more backbone than a piece of butter left near the fire," Rip barked.

Willy Nilly told Rip, but Rip wagged his tail so delightedly and jumped up and down with such joy that Willy Nilly was happy, too.

As they walked through the woods they suddenly heard excited voices. "What can be the matter?" Willy Nilly asked. Rip ran ahead to see.

He rushed back again. "Oh, come quickly, there is no time to waste; hurry, hurry, hurry," he barked.

Willy Nilly ran as quickly as he could. He saw the people; then he saw someone about to fling a rock at Jelly Bear.

"Wait! Wait!" shouted Willy Nilly. The people looked at the little man with his pointed, sticking-out ears, his little bit of a nose, his side whiskers, and thought what a strange creature he was.

Jelly Bear growled out as quickly as he could what had happened. "Don't you dare fling that rock at the bear!" cried Willy Nilly. "He has saved your little girl's life. He's a life saver! He's a hero. He's my wonderful Jelly Bear."

The people were too amazed to speak.

Movies Try Self-Censorship Plan

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—The ideal solution of the vexing problems of "mortality" in the movies, as many film men have seen it from early in the battles, is a rigid, "self-censorship" in the industry before production.

In a form this came into being in 1969 with creation of the organization that became in 1915 the National Board of Review. Apart from the industry, yet supported largely by the producing companies, its pre-viewing of film and recommendations constituted "self-censorship" in a sense because it was voluntary submission of product to a reviewing board.

Its recommendations, however, were not mandatory, and while it could without its approval, it could not prevent distribution of a film if refused to approve.

Hays Office Is Buffer
The industry's attempts at self-regulation came to have centralized authority with organization in 1922 of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Will H. Hays, president. From that time on the "Hays office" has been the "buffer" between the industry and its critics.

Immediately prior to Hays' acceptance of his post, picture men in 1919 had voted to "reform themselves"—in the language of a reformer of the time—"by censoring their own films." The same reformer later declared this promise broken.

In 1901, united film men adopted a "code of morals" embodying thirteen principles. In 1922, one of Mr. Hays' first acts of office was to form a "committee on public relations," including representatives of numerous national welfare organizations.

Reform Cries Persist
The cries for reform persisted and have persisted since regardless of promises made by the producers' organization. Reformers have charged promises were broken, while the producers' association continued to reiterate its desire to make wholesome pictures.

During prohibition years, prohibitionists charged the films were failing to support the Eighteenth Amendment, and in 1925 the producers agreed to refrain from scenes which might be objectionable to these partisans. In the reform point of view, the agreement was not upheld.

In 1930 the Producers' Association drafted a new and revised "code of ethics" which still exists. Whether or not the studios have lived up to this code, the agitation that prompted it continued, and this disapproval had reached its height in the current campaign of the Catholic Church, with its "legion of decency" engaged in a warfare on "unclean" films, aided by other churches and numerous women's organization.

Breen Directs Work
Enforcement of the code has rested in the Hollywood office of the Hays' organization, where recently Joseph I. Breen has been in charge of the work. It discouraged the filming of objectionable novels or plays and was always a source of information for director and producer as to what could and what could not be filmed.

If any offending producer disagreed with the "Hays" office ruling, a jury composed of fellow producers, serving in rotation, passed on the picture.

Breen, known as an aggressive and alert monitor, took over the work in December of 1933, and co-incidental with the new rise of anti-movie agitation, began a campaign of stricter "self-censorship" for the industry.

New Plan Proposed
Out of the conference of Catholic bishops in Cincinnati recently, attended by industry representatives, came a new plan, under which appeals from Breen's decisions would be made directly to the heads of the film companies in New York, serving as a jury, rather than to a jury of Hollywood producers.

The virtue of this change, it has been argued lies in the fact that it puts responsibility for the films upon the shoulders of the actual heads of the companies.

Opera Written By Rancher-Teacher
By AURELIUS KINSEY
Sacramento, Calif.—(AP)—John Laurence Seymour, 41-year-old Sacramento junior college teacher, whose opera, "In the Pasha's Garden," has been selected by the Metropolitan Opera Association of New York for presentation this coming season, accepts modestly the distinction of being the sixteenth American thus honored.

"I am delighted and gratified," he said. "It is a testimony to the sincerity of the Metropolitan to promote genuine native American music."

Seymour was born in Los Angeles, attended high school there and wrote his first music, a violin-piano composition, when he was nine years old. The libretto of the chosen opera was written for Seymour by Henry Chester Tracy of Hollywood.

Travels On Vacations
For fifteen years, since leaving the University of California, Seymour has taught for his "bread and butter," saved his earnings and with them traveled abroad during vacation periods.

He has discussed and studied opera with leading composers of France, Germany and Italy. His own operas, seven completed to date, have won praise from such musical authorities as Vincent d'Indy and Henry Busser of France, Riccardo Zucconia and Idebrando Pizzetti of Italy, and Max Schilling of Germany.

Seymour, the man, digs post holes and strings barbed wire on his small ranch near Sacramento. Seymour, the instructor, has won the high regard of colleagues and students; Seymour, the composer, lives within a realm entirely separate from external—a world bounded by his cherished library of French, Italian and German operatic scores and his piano in a plain, comfortable little home attended by his widowed mother, Rosa A. Seymour.

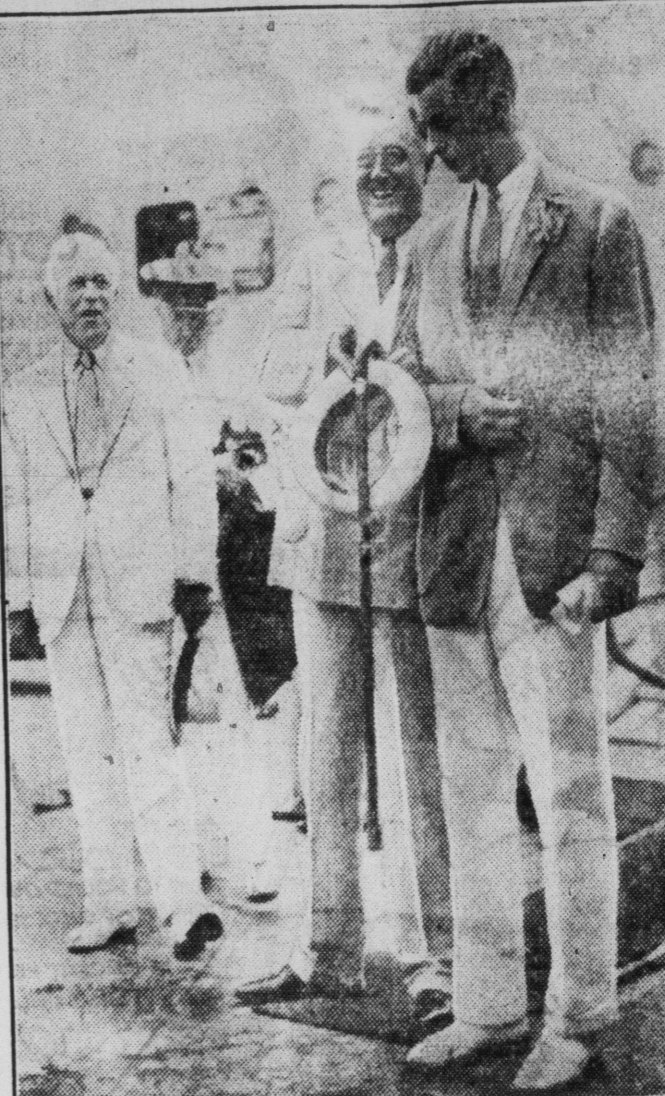

Pasha Buries Lover
"In the Pasha's Garden," written in 1924, puts into action a short story of the same title by H. G. Dwight, American author.

It is a story of a Turkish pasha whose French wife entertains a lover of her own race. Surprised by one of the pasha's eunuchs, the wife hides her lover in a huge chest. The eunuch finds the key to the chest and takes it to tea.

After his wife retires, the pasha summons servants, has them dig a large hole in the garden and bury the locked chest. Having thus disposed of his wife's lover the pasha seats himself upon the mound of fresh earth, lights a cigarette and enjoys the song of a nightingale.

"Moonshiners" in the southern mountains are said to find rhododendron roots excellent fuel for their liquor distilleries because they make no tell-tale smoke for revenue officers to see.

TAR BABIES TAKE 'BUGS' FOR A RIDE

Tarboro, N. C., July 16.—Tarboro's celebrities turned in another exhibition of steady play to get a 4 to 1 victory over Greenville here Saturday afternoon.

The win was the second in a row for the locals, and the current "streak" has accounted for as many league victories as the team had turned in for 25 starts before a re-organization was perfected last week. The locals have won three of six games played since Orin Perritt took over the managerial job but one of these victories came in an exhibition game.

Three Tarboro hurlers combined Saturday afternoon to hold Greenville to six hits. Thomas started for the first inning, a stanza in which Greenville tallied its run. Shoaf pitched until the fifth and Woodie pitched the last of the way.

The locals matched Greenville's tally in the first, added two more in the fourth and pushed over another in the sixth.

Shoaf and Clery, each with two hits, were high men in Tarboro's ten-hit collection. Shoaf batted 1.000. Weaver, Greenville first-sacker, made three hits in four chances to account for half of his club's safe blows.

Smith and Forbes shared pitching duties for Greenville, Forbes going to the hill in the fifth. Wagner caught for Greenville; Manager Perritt caught for Tarboro.

BUGS PLAY POSTPONED GAME TODAY

After a one-day rest the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain League went over to New Bern this afternoon to make up for a rained-out game there the latter part of last week.

Next Monday Tarboro will appear here to make up for the game rained out here Friday afternoon.

Milton Harrington, manager of the local club, said today his club was catching up with delayed games as fast as possible and that the game with Tarboro here Monday would put his club on even terms with the schedule.

After licking Tarboro five or six times the last two weeks, Greenville left before the rejuvenated Tar Baby outfit Saturday afternoon and enabled Tarboro to count two badly needed victories in a row.

Tarboro has been hanging around in the cellar all season, having only three wins to their credit until the two victories the latter part of the week. With new faces in the lineup they are expected to be in the race the remainder of the season.

Although the club has a hard road ahead because of being so far behind in the standing of clubs they have a good chance to win first place honors, although Kinston today had a three-game lead at the top of the column.

With the second half of the schedule getting under way this week all clubs will fight harder than ever to hold their places, and if possible, mount to higher ground, and fans are being to be treated to some of the best play of the season.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

The National League's chief executive, John Arnold Teydler, need not go into hiding or apologize to his friends and associates over the second straight defeat of his all-star array of ball players.

When all who saw or heard the details of the 1934 Battle of the Polo Grounds forget all about the score they will still be telling their grandchildren how Carl Owen Hubbell struck out the Big Five of the American League in succession in the first two innings with that bobbing, weaving, fluttering thing they call the "screw ball."

It's an old refrain by now around the big league benches, but mark it down for posterity that with two men on bases, Hubbell fanned Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Jimmie Foxx in rapid-fire order, then picked up where he left off by striking out Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in the next inning. The more you think or read about it, the BIGGER this marvelous performance becomes. It grows on your imagination.

Just One Loud Foul!

Put it this way: Here were five of the greatest batsmen in the game, each and every one anxious to do his stuff in the year's most spectacular game before a crowd of 50,000 fans. Together they have held at in the National League and more

KINSTON BEATS AYDEN

Ayden, N. C., July 16.—Kinston defeated Ayden, 4 to 2, Saturday and boosted its hold on first place to a margin of three games over the runner-up locals.

Orin Rogers, University of Virginia ace, pitched for the visitors. He was reached for ten hits, but he kept them nicely scattered, and Ayden's runs came on homers by Faust Johnson and Knowles.

Knowles started on the mound for Ayden, but had to retire in the seventh because of an arm injury. Doug Johnson finished. The visitors tallied three times against Knowles. Neither team made more than one run to an inning. The game was reeled off in speedy fashion and neither team made an error. Bright fielding plays were frequent.

Faust Johnson, with three hits, topped Ayden's batters. Tommy Irwin, with a pair of safeties, was the only Kinston player to get into the hit column more than once.

Tatum caught for Kinston; Stephenson caught for Ayden.

SNOW HILL WINS

New Bern, N. C., July 16.—A big sixth inning in which Snow Hill converted four hits and walk into a trio of runs, was enough to give Manager Walker's outfit a win over New Bern here Saturday afternoon. However, Snow Hill added another in the seventh to take victory by a final count of 4 to 1.

Bill Wheaton, New Bern's ace hurler, was chased from the mound during the sixth-inning outburst. McEvoy followed, but he was yanked in the seventh after Manager Walker doubled to score Griffin. Lefty Kennel twirled the rest of the way.

Snow Hill collected eight hits. Tuck and Griffin, each with a pair of blows, were the leaders. New Bern was held to six hits by Stewart. Four of the locals' blows were doubles—hit by Mathis, Wheaton, Shipp and Patton. Patton, Wake Forest College varsity first-sacker, is a newcomer to the local roster. He headed New Bern's attack, getting two for four.

Each team made one error. He Ferebee caught for New Bern; Rove caught for Snow Hill.

than any other in either league except the Athletics. What said "hit less wonders?"

In succession the world champions have been handicapped by the absence of Gus Mancuso, Roy Parmelee, Johnny Vergez, Hughey Critz and Joe Moore. The pitching gap was toughest to fill. Meanwhile Blony Ryan subbed alternately at second and third, proving himself the great infield freeman, and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul said it with home runs in replacing the more agile Moore in the outfield.

It's an old baseball saying that the successful ball club is the one with adequate reserve strength. The Giants have it and consequently have been able to sustain their pace despite the percentage of accidents which besets every team.

Prkima Donna Trouble?

What about the rest of the contenders in the National League?

The Chicago Cubs have been too streaky, looking like world-beaters one week and doing a series of tailspins the next. They have great hitters and great pitchers, but they lack the all-for-one-and-one-for-all psychology that marks the performances of the Giants. This may be doing the Bruins an injustice, but the impression persists that they have prima donna trouble.

The Cardinals, another potentially irritable outfit, again face the closing half of the season with only two pitchers of reliable ability. Last season Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean carried the load until they cracked in the stretch. This year Dizzy and his kid brother, Paul Dean, have been the only consistent Cardinal winners, and Paul lately has fallen a bit off the pace. Should Carleton and Bill Hallahan manifest a real reversal of form and start winning regularly, the Cardinals would be tough to stop. They have so far been the hardest club in the league for the world champions to beat.

The Pirates and the Braves simply do not seem to have it. Technically it is still a five-cornered race but right now I do not see how Pittsburgh can muster the pitching or Boston produce the punch necessary to make them factors in the stretch drive.

The Changeable Yankees

Unless the Detroit Tigers can hold on under pressure I would not be surprised to see the Yankees make a runaway of the American League race. New York hasn't a club that compares with its former powerhouse, but it still has more punch than any other team in the league, is getting the pitching breaks and has a wealth of reserves. Washington has cracked and the Red Sox have too many weaknesses.

With the indestructible Lou Gehrig as clean-up clouter and the team's main driving force, Joe McCarthy has sufficed his talent to the very best advantage. This applies to the infield, to outfield and to the pitching staff.

The two young hurlers of whom most was expected, Johnny Allen and Russell Van Atta, have been huge disappointments, but Johnny Borcia, Johnny Murphy and Jimmy DeShong have come through to share the load with Left Gomez and Red Ruffing. The two young infielders touted so high, Red Rolie and Don Heffner, have not lasted as a combination, while Tony Lazzeri is the victim of a trick knee, but Jack Saltzgraver and Frank Crossetti helped save McCarthy's troubles. Similarly, Sam Byrd and Myril Hoag, in the outfield, have handled emergencies created by Babe Ruth's decline, Earle Combs' injury and Dixie Walker's bad arm.

Gabby Gets Speechless

Gabby Harnett, the big, red-faced catcher of the Cubs, was almost inarticulate after the game when anybody mentioned Hubbell and when Gabby gets that way, you have a fair idea of just how he felt about the performance of the southpaw.

Gabby insisted that Hubbell threw mostly screw balls, but from whence a few hundred other excited occupants of the press coop were watching, it appeared that King Carl had as baffling a high curve as he did a screw ball. It seemed to me he was using the screw ball mainly as a threat and then making them look foolish trying to reach curves that broke sharply across the chest.

Hubbell had marvelous control for the span in which he was so "hot." The lively ball was flying "uncle" every time it fluttered from his left hand and cutting the corner from such baffling angles that the sharpest eyes in baseball batting history couldn't follow its finishing course successfully.

Ball players who have batted against Hubbell for a season or more say that when he has his screw ball working to suit him it just "comes up there, dips and disappears." It's one of those things, they say, that you miss by a half-foot if you swing at it and which crosses the heart of the plate, if you don't swing at it. Foxx and Simmons both verified this by first-hand experience.

How does Hubbell explain it? A lot of fellows have tried to get his answer, but the Oklahoma agriculturalist has nothing but a smile and a deprecatory gesture in reply. King Carl prefers to let water over his head and out there in the pitching box speak for itself. He's the Great Silencer of baseball in more ways than one.

New York Cotton

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 15 to 21 points advance on active commission house buying owing to continued dry weather in Texas and on higher Liverpool cables.

In addition to trade and commission house buying there was fair demand at the opening from houses with Liverpool and Bombay connections with the advance extending to 1324 for October and 1340 for December right after the call. These prices represented net advances of 24 to 26 points on the active positions which naturally carried the market into new high ground for the movement.

Considerable realizing was encountered, and after the initial demand had been supplied, the volume of business tapered off.

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Labor markets drifted over the financial markets today and prices in various securities categories developed a somewhat heavy tone.

Stocks pointed lower from the start although the majority of declines held in the neighborhood of fractions to around a point, and the activity was as dull as in the preceding session.

Cotton continued to improve getting up around $1.00 a bale to new high levels since 1930. Grains were a little nervous. Corn advanced but wheat and cereals generally sagged under realizing.

Silver and rubber were quiet and narrow. Bonds maintained a fairly steady position. The dollar was eas-er in terms of some leading Berlin exchanges. Prices drifted downward in the late dealings and hesitancy embraced rails, equities and industrials.

Transfers were 500,000 shares.

Negro Killer on Death Row

Rocky Mount, July 16.—(AP)—Booker T. Watson, 16-year-old negro boy charged with killing Hinesy P. Williams, 45-year-old Wilson county farmer in what Sheriff C. L. Johnson of Nash county said was one of the most brutal crimes in his knowledge, was held today on death row in state's prison.

The shooting occurred Sunday afternoon a few yards inside the Nash county line.

Students Stage Revolt

Gottingen, Germany, July 16.—(AP)—One thousand students of a university here staged a fourth revolt against Adolph Hitler today, clashing with brown shirted members of the student body who support the chancellor.

Hoses played on the combatants as the fire department tried to stop the fight but police finally restored order. The ringleaders were arrested and charged with "breach of the peace and incitement to revolt."

Negro Man Killed BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Raleigh, N. C., July 16.—Richard Penny, negro, 56, was instantly killed yesterday morning when struck by a freight train near the Mount Church crossing eleven miles east of Raleigh.

Coroner Lawrence M. Waring, who investigated, said the negro had evidently been drinking and sat down on the end of a cross-tie and went to sleep. His left shoulder was crushed.

Agents Declared Careless

St. Louis, Mo., July 16.—A coroner's jury today found that Lear D. Reed, Department of Justice agent, was criminally careless in the killing of Mrs. Jessie B. Masterson during a raid on her home and ordered that he be held for the grand jury.

The verdict was returned after testimony of several witnesses that Reed, in charge of the St. Louis Federal Agency, led a raid on the Masterson home in belief he would find machine guns used in the killing last May of John C. Johnson, negro State's witness in a kidnapping case.

Miss Tripp Stricken

Relatives here were appraised this afternoon that Miss Bernice Tripp suffered a stroke of paralysis at Gallipolis, Ohio, today while returning from the Chicago World Fair. She was placed in a hospital in the Ohio city. Her condition was not immediately determined. Miss Tripp, accompanied by Miss Zelota Tripp and Willard Wheeler were enroute home when the former was stricken.

Farmers of western Kentucky were paid $750,000 for their strawberry crop this season.

CO-EDS TAKING COURSE IN DESIGNING OF HOMES

Austin, Texas.—(AP)—No longer will the male of the species have the final say—if he ever did—on architectural details of a home, when 25 co-eds of the University of Texas complete their education.

A course in home designing is offered to home economics classes at the university. The girls are taught to prepare plans for an ideal home, down to the minutest detail or floor planning, lighting, color combinations, materials and cost. Making financial arrangements and provisions for up-keep in the family budget are included in the course.

DAZZLING Men with her Beauty

Berlin.—(AP)—No trade barriers or currency troubles seem to harm the humble German mouth organ, which apparently is more popular than ever all over the world.

More than 6,000,000 mouth organs were exported in this year's first quarter, an increase of 60 per cent over last year. Canada, Argentina and British South Africa were the chief buyers.

Accordions were in even greater demand, the increase in exports for the same quarter being 80 per cent. They went chiefly to the United States and Great Britain.

KEEPING TRACK OF ARTICLES STORED DURING SUMMER

In packing away garments for the summer, it is helpful to write on the wrapping what each package contains. To a list should be kept of these stored articles and their storage places, so that they may be obtained quickly if they are needed. It saves a great deal of poking around in closets and upsetting careful arrangements.

The same principle should be used in packing luggage for summer vacations. It is helpful to have a list showing what the various bags and trunks contain, and to arrange things so that one bag has articles needed immediately, another has "bulky" articles, and so on.
