Stratosphere Airmen Are Forced to Their Parachute

THREE FLIERS FORCED DOWN IN CORNFIELD

Captain Stevens Says Another Flight Will Not Be Possible Until Next May or June; Airmen Enroute to Kerney, Nebraska to Investigate Cause of Balloon's Failure

Holderidge, Neb., July 30.—(AP)—The airmen who took to their parachutes to escape death in the crash of the world's largest balloon twelve miles northwest of here are eager for another venture into the stratosphere.

Captain Albert Stevens, scientific observer, on the "Explorer" when it failed to reach more than 60,000 feet Saturday said another attempt to uncharted heights would not be possible until early next May or June.

Major William Kapner, commander of the flight from Rapid City, S. D., to Reuben Johnson's cornfield, and Co-pilot Captain Orville Anderson and Captain Stevens were en route to Rapid City today after an investigation at Kerney, Nebraska, into the cause of the balloon's failure.

The balloon took off at Rapid City shortly after daylight Saturday and soared high as it was carried in a southeasterly direction. East of North Platte, Nebraska, the big bag tore below the diaphragm and then several holes appeared in that part of the fabric.

The airmen upon discovery of the and soared high as it was carried they should start down. They attempted to drop less than 300 feet a minute to avoid new surges in the fabric, and tried to get her down in the hope of escaping the parachute descent.

On reaching the 8,000-foot level another rip occurred and the bottom of the big bag tore out. They then jumped into their parachute and began floating down about 900 feet a minute.

"We no longer had a balloon, only a parachute," Captain Anderson said, "and we couldn't hit the matter by staying in the gondola, so we agreed to bail out to lighten the load and hoped to slow down the descent to avoid a crash."

ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING COP

Wesley Moore Charged With Resisting Arrest and Assault On Officers

Charged with resisting arrest and assaulting an officer, Wesley Moore young man who resides across the river about seven miles from Greenville, was given preliminary hearing in police court this morning and bound over to the next session of county court.

Police said the young man was drinking Saturday afternoon and was told by Officer Brewer to move on. When the officer came in contact with Moore again later on, he allegedly showed fight and severely scratched the veteran officer about the face.

Chief of police George Clark said Moore had been proving rather troublesome to officers for some time.

Policeman Brewer today bore a rather scratched up face but beyond that he seemed to be getting along as well as usual and was on his job at the desk at police headquarters this morning.

Six peace officers in the party which killed Clyde Barrow and Bon Parker, southwestern desperadoes, shared a $1,000 reward offered by L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas highway patrol.

POTTS HEARD BY CROWD AT SERVICES HERE

Presbyterian Minister Speaks at Union Services On Court House Lawn

Another good crowd attended the union service on the courthouse lawn last night and heard Rev. J. R. Potts, pastor of the Presbyterian church, deliver probably one of the most forceful sermons of the series.

Congregational singing was led by Rev. A. W. Fleishmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, assisted by choir members from various churches of the city. A number of old gospel hymns were sung and the audience entered heartily into the service. One of the features of the musical program was a violin solo for the offertory by Sam Quinerly.

Mr. Potts spoke on the subject, "He Feedeth us Ashes." His text was taken from the twentieth verse of the 44th chapter of Isaiah. "He Feedeth us Ashes."

"Isaiah" the minister said "gives a description of the idolatry and wickedness of the people in his time and of a very prevalent style of diet in our time. The world spread a great feast and invites the race to sit at it. Platters are heaped up. Chalice are full. Garlands wreath the wall. The guests sit down amidst outbursts of exquisite music. They take fruit, and it turns into ashes. They uplift the tankards and their contents prove to be gall. They touch garlands and they scatter into dust. I do not know any passage of Scripture which so apocalyptically sets forth the unsatisfactory nature of this world for eye, and tongue, and lip and heart as this particular passage, describing votary of the world, when it says, 'He Feedeth us Ashes.'"

The speaker then called the kings of the earth to stand up and give testimony at the conclusion of which the question was asked: "What think you of worldly honors?" The answer was "ashes." Next a group of commercial adepts testified all of their millionaires. The question was: "What do you think now of stocks and bonds and railroads and factories, banks and counting houses and marble palaces?" Answer "ashes." (Continued on page four)

WALLACE RAPS REPUBLICANS

Administration Leader Says Party Wants Surpluses Piled Up High Again

Ruston, Ia., July 30.—(AP)—Hitting back at Republicans who attacked the AAA program, Secretary Wallace said today that the "battering of the old dealers" is "piling up the surpluses again."

The Agriculture Secretary said in a speech that the Republican party "has always been short on statesmanship" and has seduced the farmers' into believing that since the drought had disposed of the surpluses, the agricultural adjustment effort should be abandoned.

"The old dealers because they never had any real sympathy with the farmers anyway would doubtless like to see the farmers in the United States harvesting their 150,000,000 acres of wheat, 105,000,000 acres of corn, 41,000,000 acres of cotton and maintain the crop land acreage in the United States at 370,000,000 acre total of recent years," he said.

"The battle cry of the old dealers, therefore, seems to be pile up the surpluses again, but hold the tariff at a point which will make it impossible to dispose of the surpluses on the world market."

Local People Hurt In Wreck Return Home

Misses Ada James, Sonora Moore and Charlie James, of Greenville, who were injured in an automobile wreck near Havelock while on their way to Morehead City Friday night, returned home today considerably improved, but still suffering some from the severe cuts and bruises they sustained when their car turned over after being sideswiped by another machine driven by a negro.

Miss James, the most seriously injured, suffered a dislocated elbow and severe bruises. Miss Moore and Mr. James suffered mainly from cuts and bruises. The driver of the car was taken into custody and held on a charge of careless and reckless driving. It was understood he has been held for a hearing August 14 at New Bern. The local people were taken to the New Bern hospital where they remained until this morning.

AUSTRIA MOVES TO CRUSH NAZI DISTURBANCES

Former Army Sergeant Confesses He Fired Shot That Killed Dollfuss

Vienna, July 30.—(AP)—Authorities today penned the murder of Chancellor Dollfuss to a disgruntled former army sergeant.

They announced that Otto Planeta who was dismissed from military service because of his Nazi sympathies had confessed firing the shot Wednesday which killed the Austrian leader. Then they moved ahead under the leadership of the new Chancellor, Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg to smash the stubborn resistance of Nazi troops still holding out against the government in various sections of the country.

Frau Planetta saddened by the arrest of her husband and the charge against him, spoke with sorrow of the grief of Dollfuss' widow.

"Frau Dollfuss, like myself, has lost the dearest thing she has on earth. 'I want to implore her to receive me—not to ask for mercy for my husband—to tell her how I sympathize with her. Above all, I do not want her to hate me.'"

Forty Nazi early today raided the general hospital in an unsuccessful effort to abduct Dr. Anton Rintelen, former Austrian minister to Rome, who was found to be lying there seriously wounded despite the original report last Thursday that he had committed suicide.

Rintelen, known to have pro-Nazi leanings, was announced as the new Chancellor by the Nazi when they assassinated Dollfuss last Wednesday. Rintelen was immediately arrested and the announcement given out that he had shot himself fatally in jail.

Today when the raiding party entered the hospital a nurse notified the police who arrived in time to capture some of the raiders. The rest escaped. Because of the extraordinary measures of the defense against strengthened Nazis pushed taken throughout the city last night the general hospital temporarily was left without its strong guards, while police and the heiwahr members were concentrated around such strategic public buildings, such as the air ministry and police headquarters.

Under the leadership of Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, newly-named Chancellor, the cabinet will meet in a week to begin its work. Dollfuss was still Chancellor last Wednesday for a few hours, but he was succeeded by Dr. Schuschnigg. He in turn yielded to Prince Ernst von Starhemberg as the acting Chancellor. Now Schuschnigg is back in power.

He and his fellow ministers appeared before President Wilhelm Miklas in the early morning and took the oath of office. Von Starhemberg again is serving as Vice-Chancellor.

Joseph Conrad, the author, resigned from the literary staff of the London Daily Mail in a huff because he was asked to write about the books read by Crippin, a famous murderer.

Late News Flashes

Dollfuss Overthrow Popular London, July 30.—(AP)—A reliable source stated tonight that the British government has learned that an official statement was issued in Berlin last Wednesday evening proclaiming the overthrow of Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria in a "great popular revolt as important as it is welcome."

This statement, according to the source, was withdrawn a half hour later before it could be published in any of the newspapers of Germany.

Quarters close to the British government attached great importance to the fact that the statement was reported to have been issued by the official German news agency in Berlin in view of the pretexts emanating from German capital disclaiming any connection with Barvain activities and Austrian internal affairs.

MILL WORKER ARRESTED IN THREE DEATHS

World War Veteran Charged With Mystery Slaying At Stubenville, Ohio

Stuebenville, O., July 30.—(AP)—Police believed they have the answer today to the series of strange killings at the Wheeling Steel Corporation Mill A 49-year-old World War veteran arrested yesterday was carrying strapped to his waist a 38 calibre revolver which ballistic experts said was the weapon used in the slaying of three men and wounding of a fourth. The suspect, worker at the mill gave the name of David Gascario, alias Daso. He said he carried the revolver for his protection, insisting, "I no shot anybody."

In their long questioning of Gascario police asked him if he killed any Germans in the war.

"Yes," he replied; "they all ought to be killed."

Three of the four victims here had German names.

NEGRO RUNS INTO PRISON

Lawson Huggins Didn't Know Greenville Geography and Ran The Wrong Way

Ordinarily when officers give chase to a member of the colored race the pursued one runs anyway except in direction of the city jail. But in the case of Lawson Huggins, formerly of Wilson, it was different, and he literally ran into jail.

Huggins, police said, entered R. E. Harris Company store Saturday, took possession of a pair of shoes and started to walk out without offering to pay for them.

A clerk, Mr. Warren, didn't relish the idea of letting goods go out without cash, especially when payment is not mentioned, so he grappled with the negro, causing him to drop the shoes.

The chase started with both the (Continued on page four)

NEGRO CUTS PITT OFFICER DANGEROUSLY

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Harris Badly Slashed by Negro Near Farmville

A widespread search was under way today for Jesse Dudley, 24-year old negro, who escaped Saturday night after dangerously stabbing Deputy Sheriff Herbert Harris, about a mile from Farmville, on the Greenville-Farmville highway.

With knife wounds in his neck back, shoulders and chest, the officer was reported resting comfortably as possible at the local hospital today. Hospital attaches held out hope for his recovery barring complications. One hundred and three stitches were necessary to close the wounds caused by the negro's murderous attack.

Sheriff's officers and other law enforcement agencies threw a dragnet about the county immediately after the attack was reported but the negro was still at large this morning.

Deputy Harris received a telephone call Saturday night at 12 o'clock requesting him to investigate an automobile wreck up the Farmville road. He did as requested but found no wreck. However, he heard a negro cursing a negro named Ella Armstrong at the side of the road.

The officer stopped and asked the negro man if he didn't know it was too late to be cursing on the public highway. The negro was said to have replied, "You haven't got a d— thing to do with it." Harris told the negro he was a deputy sheriff and thought he did have something to do with it.

The negro allegedly said, "I don't give a d— who you are, I'll cut your d— throat."

Pulling what officers described as a five inch blade pocket knife from his pocket, Dudley attacked Harris, slashing the officer in every conceivable place about the body.

Harris had left his gun locked in the car and was unable to reach it when the negro, viciously swinging the knife, prevented the officer from reaching the machine.

Leaving the officer streaming with blood, the negro escaped to the woods and no word as to his whereabouts had been received this morning.

Harris climbed into his car and drove to Farmville. He was immediately rushed from there to the local hospital where considerable time was required in closing the wounds.

Sheriff's officers said the Armstrong woman, who was later questioned, identified the negro as Jesse Dudley.

She was reported to have been riding in an automobile with a man whose name could not be determined when the machine crashed into a tree, injuring the woman so seriously that it was necessary to amputate her leg after she reached the hospital.

DECISION OF ONE MAN TO DECIDE FATE

Federal Mediators Seek to Avert Strike Which Has Tied Up Union Stock Yard Operations For a Week; Strike of Longshoremen On the Pacific Coast Ended; Twelve Thousand Men Vote To Return To Work

Chicago, Ill., July 30.—(AP)—Virtual paralysis of the Chicago meat industry hinged on the decision of one man.

The 48,000 men employed in the city's major packing plant awaited today only the word of William Collins, organizer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters of North America to quit their labor in sympathy with the 800 striking stock yard workers.

Collins withheld an immediate decision.

Federal mediators sought vigorously for arbitration to end the strike which has tied up operations of the union stock yards for a week.

San Francisco, Calif., July 30.—(AP)—The strike that has tied up Pacific Coast shipping for more than a month is ended.

Twelve thousand longshoremen voted to Santiago, California, Washington, to Santiago, California, have voted to return to work at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

NEGRO HELD FOR ROBBERY

Ennis Burroughs Bound Over to Higher Court Following Hearing Here Today

Ennis Burroughs, colored, was in jail here today charged with breaking into the Farmers Cafe on the night of July 24 and stealing $15 from a cash register.

The negro was taken into custody by police several days ago. He was given preliminary hearing in police court this morning and bound over to Superior court under bond. He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail.

The negro, described by police as an old offender, was said to have tricked patrolmen to another part of the city with a story that a liquor laden car was expected to pass along at a certain point. While the officers were gone, Burroughs was alleged to have broken through a cafe window, obtained the money and escaped. The robbery was discovered following return of the officers.

Chief of Police George Clark said all but $1.24 of the money was recovered when Burroughs was taken into custody.

AWAKENED TO FIND BURGLAR UNDER BED

Tarboro, N. C., July 30.—Hearing a noise in her room about 2 o'clock this morning, Miss Helen Babcock, sprang out of bed and switched on a light. As she did so, she saw a man's foot disappearing under her bed. She ran out of her room and upstairs to awaken her father, A. B. Babcock.

When Mr. Babcock reached his daughter's room the burglar had disappeared. It was found that doors on the first floor had been left open to allow quick exit. Nothing was missed from the house, though there was evidence that the night raider had conducted a search.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

WATCH THE SIGNAL The safe driver slows down upon approaching a red traffic signal. This action enables him to reach the intersection just as the signal turns green or very shortly after it turns and avoids the necessity of making a sudden application of breaks with a shifting of gears. However, the safe driver does not edge in or "jump the yellow" in his anxiety to "keep going."

SPITE MARRIAGE

SYNOPSIS: While Rob Powers finishes his work in Mexico, his wife, Marsha, is caring for his mother, ill of an incurable disease...

TARLETON AGAIN

FEBRUARY was bad for Marsha; twice Mrs. Powers was acutely ill, a nurse became a fixture, the doctor a constant visitor.

Marsha said that the dependence did not weary her, and her voice was a trifle thick. She, herself, had learned too much of dependence.

The nurse talked to Marsha "rather too persistently," Marsha felt, about getting out. To Ella and Hannah, the nurse said, sounding angry, "She ought to get out more. She suffers more when the old lady suffers, than the old lady does!"

AND because the nurse and Hannah and Ella and even Bartholomew said that they felt she should get out a bit more—if she would pardon the liberty of their speaking—Marsha went out to shop one afternoon, saying before she left, and with mock sadness, that she did not feel she was very popular. Once out, she saw Geoffrey Tarleton.

Her shopping had been done fairly quickly considering the time it takes to move in New York, where traffic is controlled in the most modern manner. And knowing her early return would be a disappointment to those who wanted her to have "a long, free afternoon," she turned, for her tea, into a small, sedate hotel on a side street.

An old waiter, who saw her as very kind as well as most beautiful, put himself out to serve her well; so much of kindness coupled with beauty, experience had taught him is rare. And although the temper of servants had not at one time mattered at all to her, Marsha was now warmed by the wish to please that she felt.

She was actually enjoying the same little moment, she decided, as she loosened her fur, when she looked up to see Geoffrey Tarleton entering the dining room and, eyes upon her, moving toward her. Threading through tables swiftly and with his usual nonchalance, nine-tenths of the few women present looked after him.

"I saw you come in; I tagged you... old habits cling. Can't I sit down for a few moments, Marsha? Say for the space of drinking a cup of the ghastly tea they must brew last week in June, followed by a sharp reduction the first part of July.

Rail shipments, the board reported, increased 2.6 per cent in June over May, a move contrary to a usual seasonal decline. "The advance this month... was due to increases in shipments of grains and grain products, ore and miscellaneous items," the board stated.

Department store sales declined in June 6.7 per cent below May in dollar value of turnover, as shown by board statistics, while the net physical volume of turnover declined 6.5 per cent. Department store prices at retail in June, the board found, were 0.2 per cent under May and about 1 per cent above January, 1934.

Washington Daybook

Washington—The capital has a diplomatic situation of its own these days when the corps of foreign envoys is brought together at state functions.

It's all because two South American countries, Paraguay and Bolivia are at war over possession of the Chaco.

Both countries have diplomatic missions in Washington quartered in two of the city's swankiest hotels. Oddly enough, the two ministers have the same given names. Dr. Don Enrique Finot is the Bolivian envoy; Dr. Don Enrique Bordenave is Paraguay's representative.

At state functions, such as the luncheon given at the Pan-American Union in honor of visiting President-elect Lopez of Colombia, extreme tact and diplomacy must be used.

Sundown Stories

The Party

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Willy Nilly, the little gnome-like man, was back in Puddle Muddle with his animal friends. They were very happy for it had been decided that in their neighborhood, and in the country around, no crows would be destroyed because of the harm they sometimes did.

"I agree, bow, wow," barked Rip. "I agree, quack, quack," said Mrs. Quacko Duck.

"So do I," growled Jelly Bear. "And I do, too," growlingly agreed Honey Bear, smiling a bear's smile.

losing standing among fellow practitioners, and the possibilities of accusation of aiding in the escape of a criminal would be likely to deter surgeons from knowingly and willfully performing such an operation on an outlaw.

In 1788 the Paris faculty interdicted face repairing. This appears not to have been to prevent criminals from disguising themselves, but because of diaphanous as to the merits of plastic surgery.

Plastic surgery is considered as probably one of the earliest medical developments. The Hindoos 2,000 years ago are credited with creating the art of rebuilding noses. The incentive was a custom permitting irate princes to cut off the noses of their prisoners.

Duelling in Europe in the Middle Ages created a strong demand among gentlemen for new noses. A Sicilian named Banca is credited about 1440 with introducing the plastic nose into Italy. He was said to have learned about it from India.

But Gaspard Tagliacozzi, an Italian who lived from 1546 to 1599, is the accredited father of this modern nose restoration. It is said that one of the dueling gentlemen for whom Tagliacozzi built a new nose, feared to blow it least it come off. So the surgeon seized him by the nose and led him about the house to prove it was a good job.

Medical ethics, with its threat of the anti-trust laws and the committing of treason against the United States. Many persons, Director Hoover says, are under the erroneous impression that the apprehension of murderers is a regular function of Uncle Sam's detectives. This is the duty of local or State police.

In assisting police to bring notorious "public enemies" to justice, Federal officials frequently have difficulty in finding a violation of Federal law on which to base proceedings against such offenders. The only Federal charge against Dillinger, for example, was the interstate transportation of a stolen automobile while Al Capone was convicted only of income tax evasion.

Central Crime Laboratory
The government, however, is expanding its activities in the entire field of criminology. In addition to the new laws which give Federal officers jurisdiction in some cases over bank robberies and other customary State offenses, progress is being made in the building up here of a great central laboratory for scientific crime detection.

Some of the equipment has been prepared especially for use in frustrating kidnappers. The European art of moulagage—a method of taking and preserving in wax or plaster such impressions as footprints, teeth marks and tire prints—is being given careful study.

It is believed that had this process been in use by the police at the time of the abduction of the Lindbergh baby, accurate molds of footprints reported to have been seen by first arrivals at Sourland Mountain after the abduction, might have been obtained.

The manner in which Cherry Hill cemetery is now being kept is a great improvement and no doubt the citizens generally are thankful but there is still room for improvement which might be brought about by removing the rubbish more often after it is placed in and about the garbage cans in the cemetery. With the lots and walks in the cemetery well kept it would present a pleasing appearance but for the fact that all about one may see garbage cans filled to overflowing and piled around with rubbish.

The check-up of the tobacco acreage in this county instead of revealing "chiselers" as some had expected showed just the reverse with most of the growers having cut their crop just a little more than was necessary instead of letting it run over their allotment. When these tobacco growers signed their government contracts they surely meant business and they have seen to it that they have met the terms fully. We congratulate them upon this action and we are sure that they have every right to expect the government to see to it that they get a fair and square deal in the way of tobacco prices.

According to our notion the new fire whistle is no improvement. It sounds so much like many of the new automobile horns and many of the horns blow so much that one will not know whether or not a fire alarm is sounding.

And speaking of automobile horns, aren't they a nuisance? Of course they are necessary on every motor vehicle as a means of warning pedestrians and other motorists but it seems to us that lots of motorists think they are playthings to be footed incessantly at all hours of the day or night whether or not there is anybody in the way to be warned. The authorities should put a stop to a lot of this unnecessary blowing of automobile horns.

Mid-Year's Trade Down But Higher Than In 1933
(By The Associated Press)
Business activity at mid-year was brought down to the general level of February with a slump in June. It is reported by the conference of statisticians in industry of the National Industrial Conference Board. Passenger car and truck production in the United States and Canada in June decreased 7 per cent over May, but was 27 per cent over June of last year, the board reported, with the first six months of this year 75 per cent above last year. New car registration data, the board reported, indicated a May to June increase and a 41 per cent gain over June, 1933. Building Awards Down Building and engineering construction awards declined in June. It was found with the cumulative total for the first six months of 1934 nearly double last year and 28 per cent over 1932. Residential building awards in June were set at 7 per cent over May and 16.5 per cent greater in the first six months than the first six months of 1933. Non-residential awards dropped 18.3 per cent from May to June, the board found; and public works increased 1.1 per cent in the same period. Publicly financed awards, the board said, comprised 57 per cent of the value of all contract awards. Steel production was charted in June 10 per cent under May, the first monthly decline since November, but there is a 16.1 per cent increase over June, 1933, and the 1934 six-month total is almost double that of last year. June steel output of last year was reported at 52.7 per cent of capacity available, but the first half of July showed a sharp drop to a 25 per cent average. Electricity Production Up

Electric power production in June marked a seasonal increase with the board reporting the year's peak the important groundwork now is being laid. Hull is up to his neck in preparing the way for what is to come. He says he might be able to get away some time later, but it doesn't make much difference.

Farewell To Politics
Insiders say the real reason why Senator Dill of Washington proclaimed to the world that he never again did he intend to run for public office was not so much because he was tired of the senate, but because he had his eye on more fertile fields.

The particular field, they opine, is that of communications—especially radio. Dill was co-author of the first law passed by congress setting up the federal radio commission—now absorbed by the new communications commission.

The far-reaching legislation enacted by the last congress affecting communications along with the intense interest he has displayed in the subject, is believed to have figured largely in his decision to quit politics.

Type Of Surgery 2,000 Years Old Gave Dillinger A New Face
By HOWARD BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)
New York.—(AP)—The plastic surgeon's art which lifted John Dillinger's face, removed tell-tale scars and straightened his nose, goes back to wars and jealousies of more than 2,000 years ago.

The thing that was done to Dillinger's face is the first described, historically, by the physician Galen in 300 A. D. Then it was common to "excise" the "callosities" left by the skin together to hide them. Cuts on lips and noses were incidents of sword fighting, and in some oriental countries there was a special custom permitting jealous husbands to cut their wives' noses.

Hard Work—Not 'Heroics'—In Life Of Federal Agents
By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Sensational exploits such as the killing of Dillinger, the capture of "Machine Gun" Kelly and the smashing of kidnaping rings loom large in the public eye, but there is usually more hard work than glamor or heroics in the life of a Federal agent.

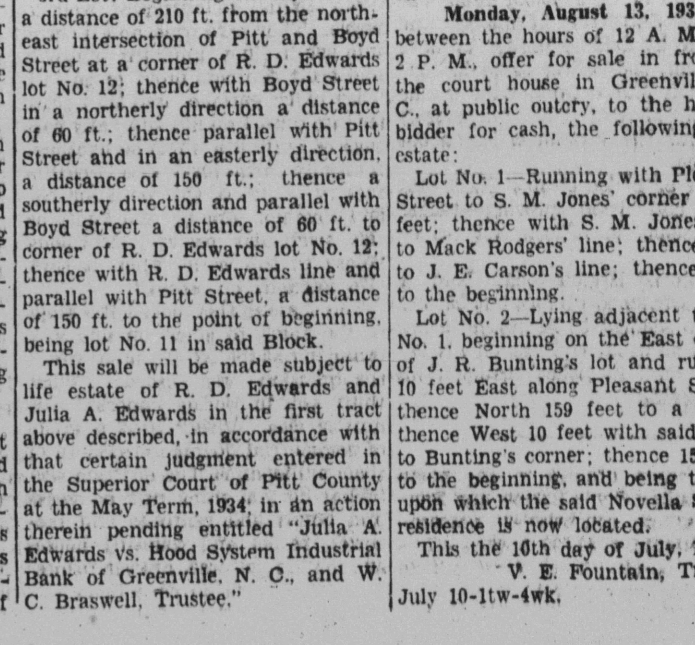

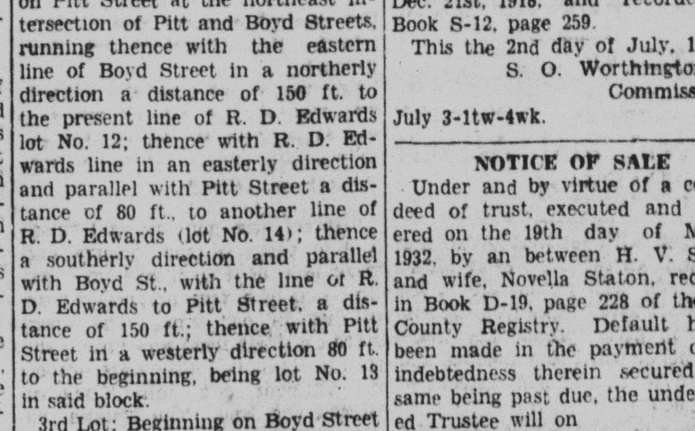

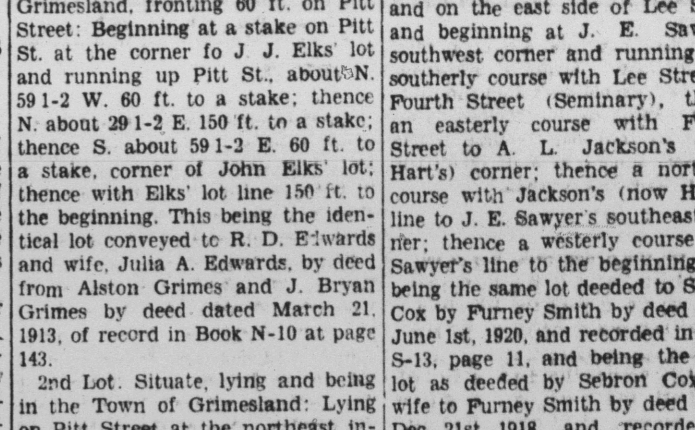

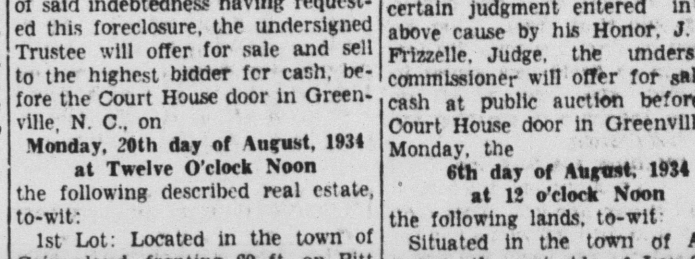

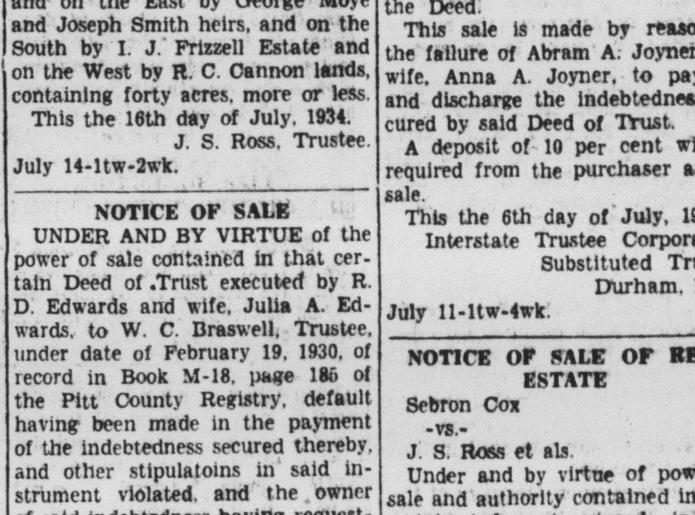

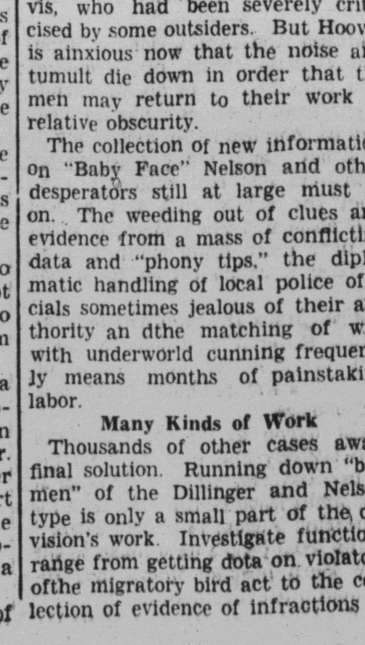

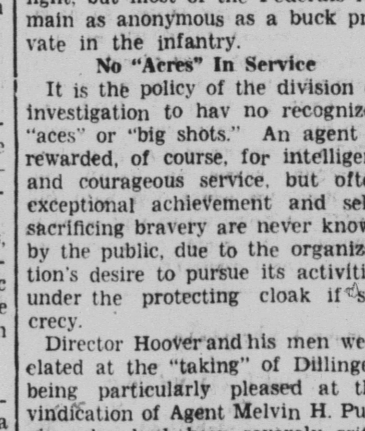

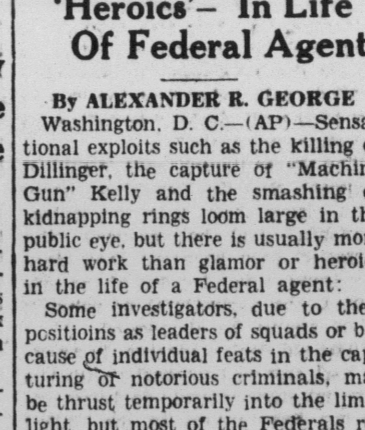

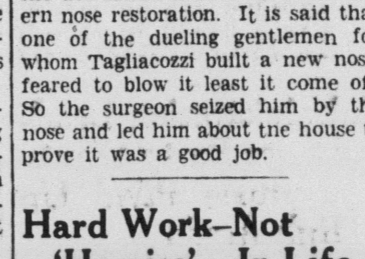

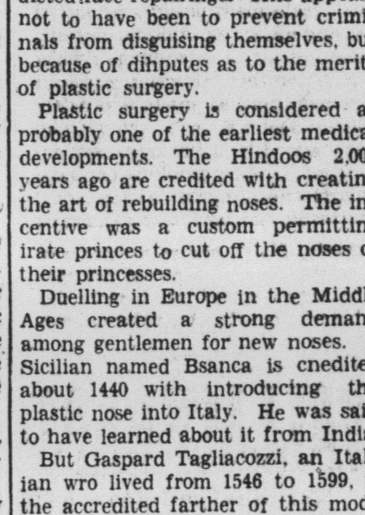

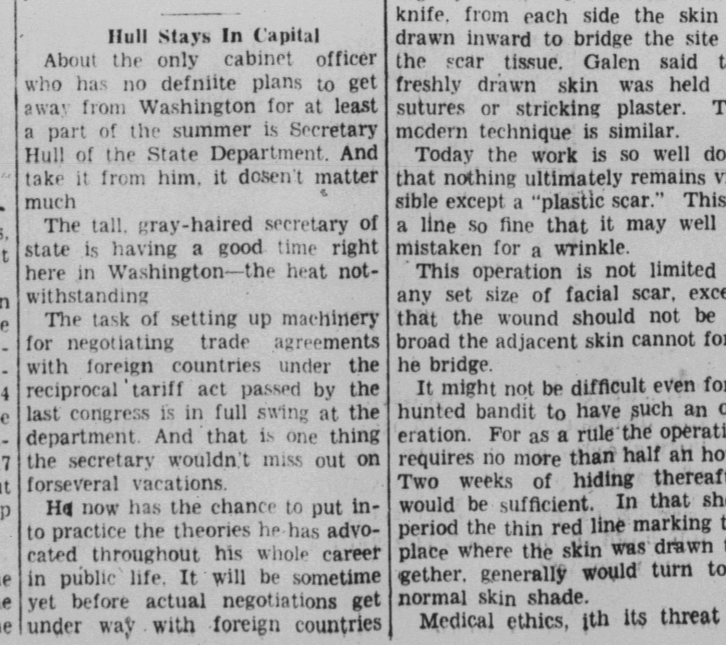

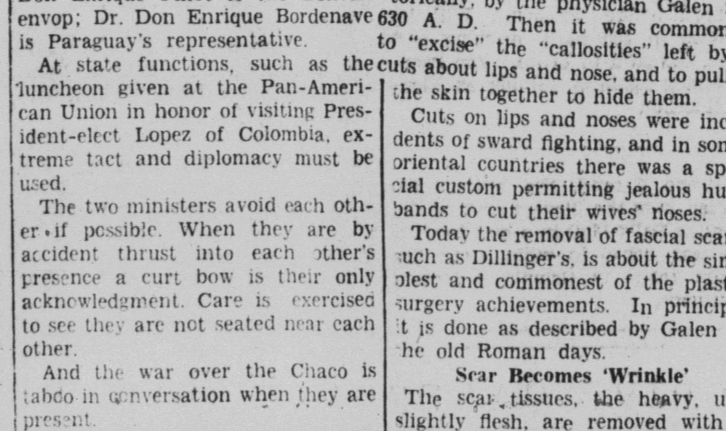

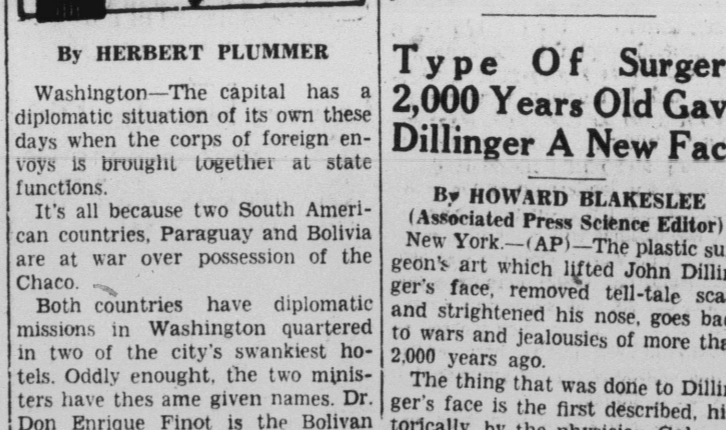

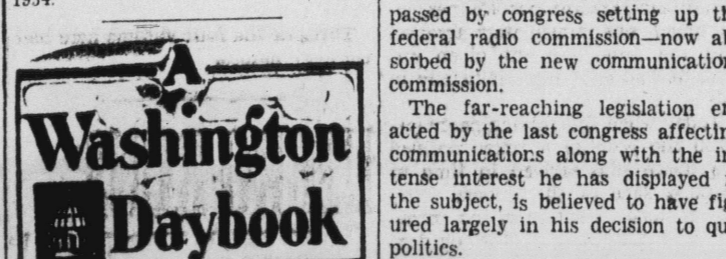

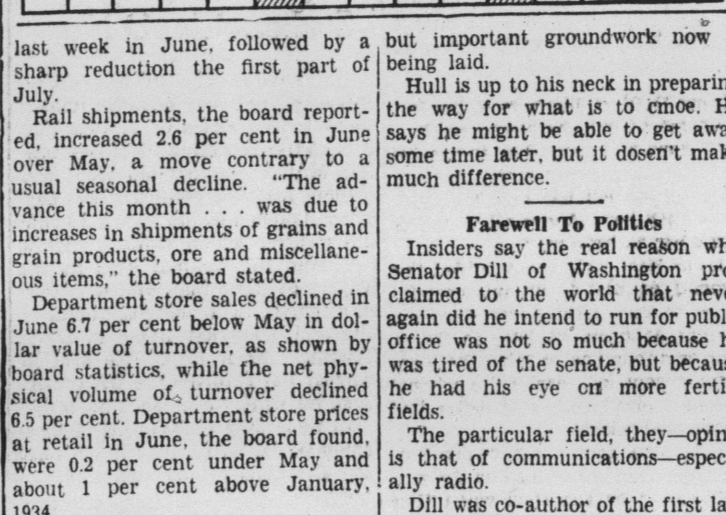

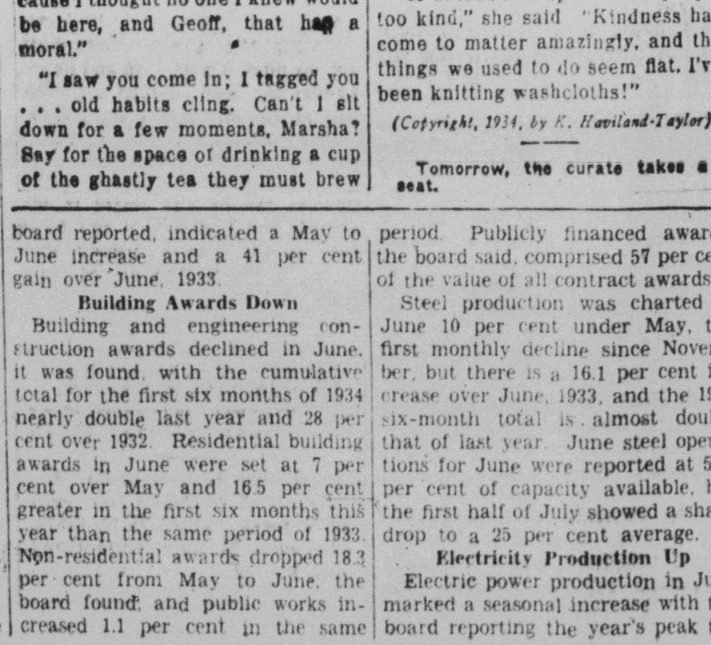

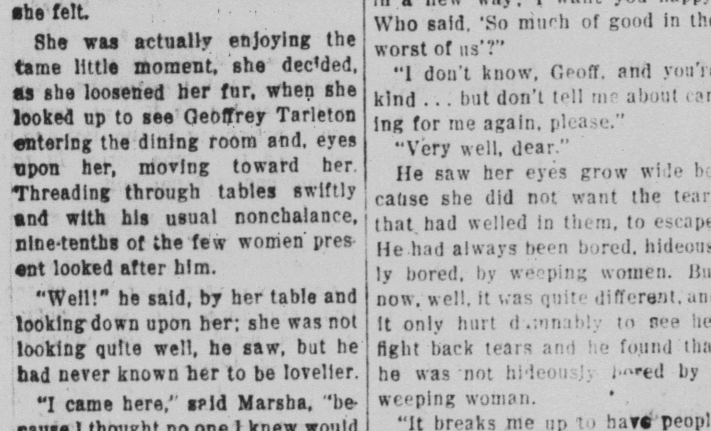

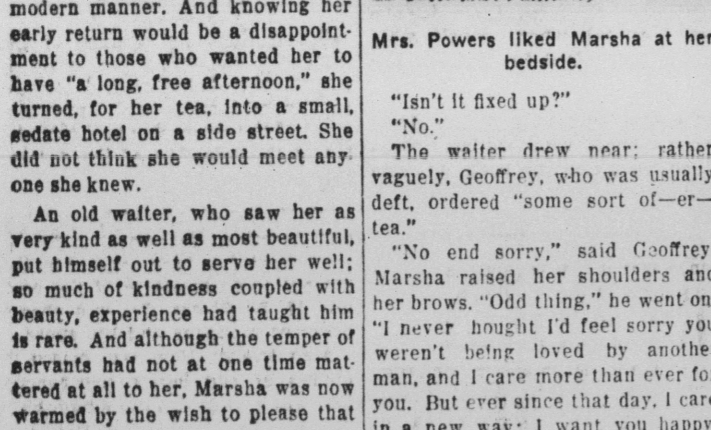

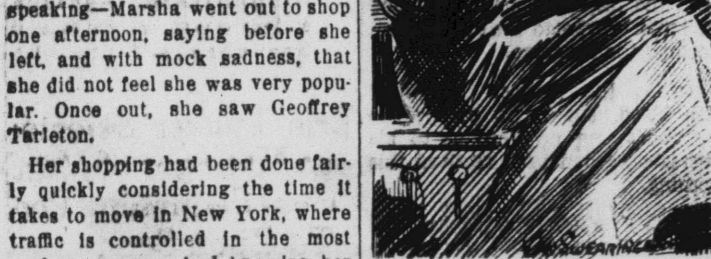

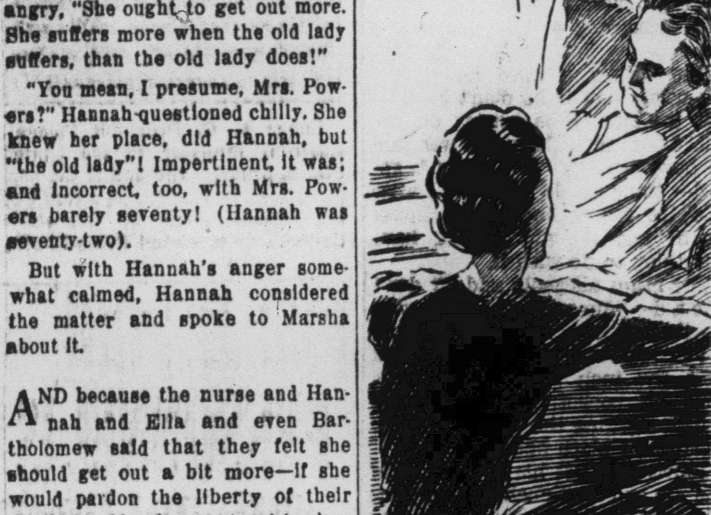

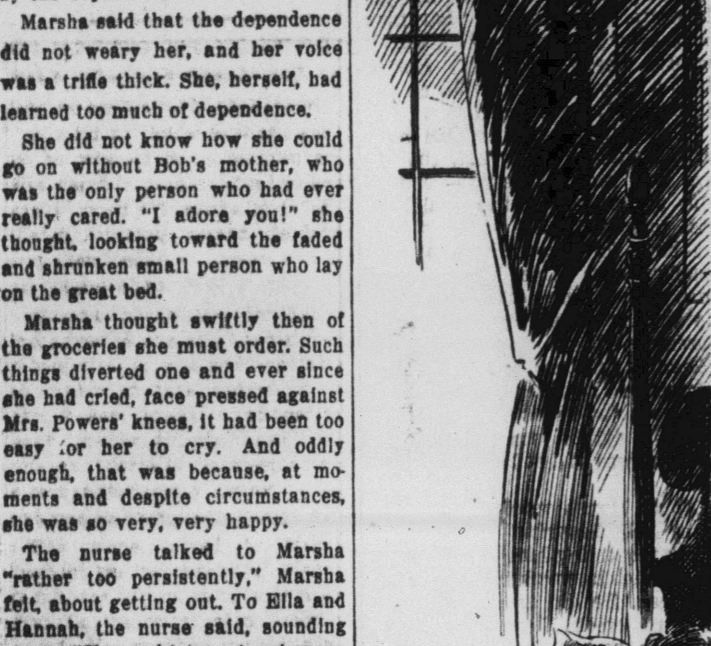

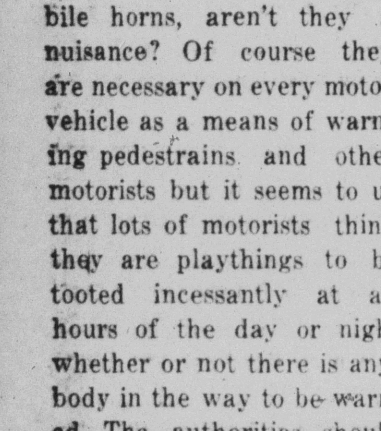

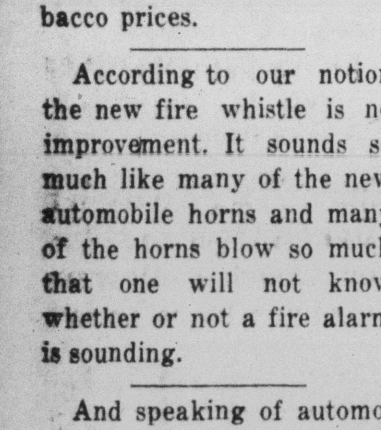

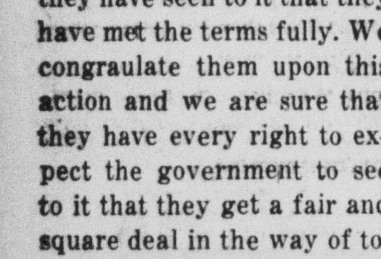

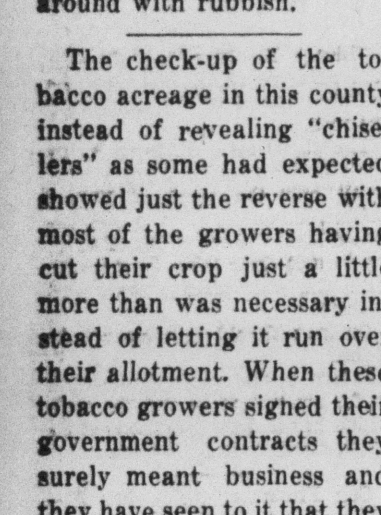

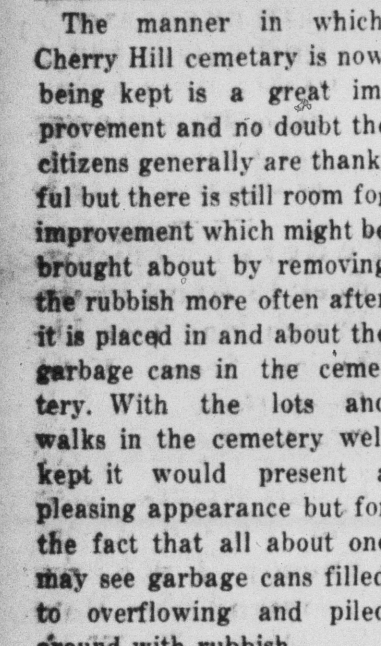

Some investigators, due to their positions as leaders of squads or because of individual feats in the capturing of notorious criminals, may be thrust temporarily into the limelight, but most of the Federals remain as anonymous as a buck private in the infantry.

No "Aces" In Service
It is the policy of the division of investigation to have no recognized "aces" or "big shots." An agent is rewarded, of course, for intelligent and courageous service, but often exceptional achievement and self-sacrificing bravery are never known by the public, due to the organization's desire to pursue its activities under the protecting cloak of "secrecy."

Director Hoover and his men were elated at the "taking" of Dillinger, being particularly pleased at the vindication of Agent Melvin H. Purvis, who had been severely criticized by some outsiders. But Hoover is anxious now that the noise and tumult die down in order that the men may return to their work in relative obscurity.

The collection of new information on "Baby Face" Nelson and other desperadoes still at large must go on. The weeding out of clues and evidence from a mass of conflicting data and "phony tips," the diplomatic handling of local police officials sometimes jealous of their authority and the matching of wits with underworld cunning frequently means months of painstaking labor.

Many Kinds of Work
Thousands of other cases await final solution. Running down "bad men" of the Dillinger and Nelson type is only a small part of the division's work. Investigate functions range from getting data on violators of the migratory bird act to the collection of evidence of infractions of

Washington, N. C., July 28—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thomas Jolly announce the marriage of Lou Vera Jackson to her sister to Mr. George Hyman Buck on Saturday the twenty-eighth of July nineteen hundred and thirty-four Washington, North Carolina. At Home Greenville, N. C. No invitations issued in this city.

An impressive wedding ceremony was witnessed Saturday morning, July 28, at 9 o'clock at the First Christian church when Miss Lou Vera Jackson of this city became the bride of George Hyman Buck of Greenville.

In the absence of the bride's pastor, the Rev. Richard Bagby, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. McInnis of the First Presbyterian church with only a few intimate friends and members of the couple's families attending.

The church decorations consisted of Queen Anne's lace, a lovely green background being provided by use of palms.

Before the ceremony Miss Kathleen Ellis, church organist, played "The Rosary" and "O Perfect Love" rendering "Schubert's Serenade" during the ceremony.

The bride entered the church with the bridegroom, the couple making their way to the altar down the left hand aisle.

The bride, a pretty brunette, was becomingly gowned in a costume of navy mirlow-flax silk, trimmed with chartruse mousselin-de-sol. Navy blue accessories were worn with the suit her flowers being a shoulder corsage of brier cliff roses and gypsophilla.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a tour of Western Carolina. Upon their return to this section they will make their home at Greenville.

Mrs. Buck is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Jackson of this city. For the past eight years she has been employed at the J. K. Hoyt Department store. There she contacted daily the residents of this section and through her courteous mannerisms became popular with many. She made her home here with her sister, Mrs. William Thomas Jolly.

Mr. Buck is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Buck of Greenville and is well known in this city. He is now employed with Swift and Company serving as superintendent of the company's plant.

First Church Of Christ, Scientist
"Truth" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 29.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 25:5. "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:31, 32)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and health with key to the scriptures" by Mary Baker: "If thought is startled at the strong claim of Science for the supremacy of God or Truth, and doubt the supremacy of good, ought we not, contrariwise, to be astounded at the vigorous claims of evil and doubt them, and no longer think it natural to love sin and unnatural to forsake it,—no longer imagine evil to be ever-present and good absent? Truth should not seem so surprising and unnatural as error, and error should not seem so real as truth. Sickness should not seem so real as health." (Page 130.)

New Books

By JOHN SELBY
As long as times goes on, writers will try to get the charm of the Old South, and its problems, into print.

It is a difficult assignment, as Stark Young doubtless learned when he wrote "So Red the Rose" (Scribners). The whole atmosphere of the Old South—the julep-lifting Colonel, the delicately graceful Southern wife, the faithful servant, the invading Yank—all has become stereotyped in the public mind.

What is more sad than that, it has become stereotyped in writers' minds as well. So that when Mr. Young started, as he obviously did, to write a grateful tale having to do with the period immediately before the Civil War, the war itself and the carpetbagging era thereafter, he must have found himself badly handicapped.

He has partly overcome the handicap by an almost fierce insistence upon the individuality of his characters. These are, chiefly, the McGeehes of "Montrose," near Natchez, and their relatives, the Bedfords of "Portobello" in Louisiana across the Mississippi. The interlacing roots of the two clans touch many strange places; their activities in the story itself bring another large group of characters and places into the book.

And the story itself is convincing, and thus supports Mr. Young's edifice very completely. If he has not written a "different" book, he has at least made an honest one that often is beautiful.

Thumbnailed Reviews

"The Barter Lady: A Woman Farmer Sees It Through" by Evelyn Harris (Doubleday, Doran): An accurate and well put statement of the farmer's predicament today, with the story of how Mrs. Harris partly solved her individual problem super-imposed thereupon.

"Sweet Land," by Lewis Gannett (Doubleday, Doran): The story of what an Easterner with an open mind learned from a long motor trip to the coast and back; the frequently ignored fact that the West's history is far longer than the East's is emphasized, and astutely.

"The Vicente in the Kitchen," by Vicente de Mauduit (Covici, Friede): Another of the cook-books which are intended to help us back to the old standards of good living; the Vicente is more logical than the composers of certain other recipe books that have come to this desk.

"The Dead Man At the Window," by Jean Toussaint-Samat (Lippincott): Another excellent mystery by the Frenchman who wrote "The Shoes That Had Walked Twice"; this one also is about the country of the ebangs near Marseilles, and this one also is beautifully written, and intelligent.

"The Tired Business Man's Library" (Appleton-Century): A collection of fifteen new titles, all of them adventure, detective or mystery tales, designed to please the man who wants to relax and not think much; they come as a set, uniformly bound, and contain a good deal of entertainment.

"Brain Guy," by Benjamin Appel (Knopf): A very hard-boiled novel indeed about a very dumb "guy" indeed, laid in the West Side of New York—which is not nearly far enough away, many will feel.

TWO KILLED AND THREE HURT IN CROSSING CRASH
Latta, S. C., July 30.—(AP)—A man and his daughter were killed and three others were critically injured at the Main Street crossing early today when the automobile they occupied was struck by an Atlantic Coast Line freight train.

Ezra Jackson, 32, of Dillon, S. C., was killed instantly and his daughter, Celso, 12, died several hours later in a Florence hospital.

Those injured were Mrs. Jackson, and her daughter, Gladys, age 7, and Donnie Jackson, cousin of the dead man. All were taken to Florence for medical care.

Engineer R. V. Kennedy said he did not see the car until the bumper sill of his engine collided with the rear end of the automobile.

BRUSSELS TO GET LIBRARY OF BOOKS BY WOMEN ONLY
Paris.—(AP)—The first library composed exclusively of books written by women will be established next year at Brussels by the International Council of Women.

Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, of Greenwich, Conn., American delegate to the annual convention here, suggested the library. Two thousand books by women writers already have been collected and will be turned over to Brussels at the council's 1935 convention in that city.

At present the council plans to donate similar volumes to each city in which its international conventions are held, and it expects each city to build as large a library of feminine writers as possible around the gift collections.

PLAYGROUND HAS SPLENDID OPENING HERE

Children Enter Into Activities of Supervised Play in Gratifying Way

The supervised playground opened under auspicious circumstances this morning and the 148 children who appeared at the opening hour entered activities in a most gratifying manner, Mrs. E. T. Robeson, Pitt County playground director, said.

The groups were composed of 13 first through fourth grades and 56 seniors from the fifth through eighth grade.

Mrs. Robeson said the children entered into activities in an enthusiastic manner, and indications pointed to success in all fields of diversion.

Although no complete report had been received from Ayden and Farmville where similar playgrounds were opened, Mrs. Robeson planned to visit both places this afternoon to make a complete check of activities.

Work this morning was given over to handicraft. Tables were the things considered today, and tomorrow will be confined to chairs.

Mrs. Robeson urged parents to co-operate with playground directors by warning children not to go in the college woods or near the swimming pool. Children also were requested to go to the Cotanch Street entrance to the playground.

Mrs. Robeson said children also have been instructed not to go from the high school to the playground without being accompanied by an instructor.

These warnings were issued, Mrs. Robeson said, to throw a safeguard around the children while taking part in playground activities.

Mrs. Robeson announced three voluntary instructors for the local playground who have agreed to work throughout the summer for experience. They are Mrs. Billy McGowan, Miss Maria Garrett and Miss Mary Shaw Robeson.

In charge of the playground at Ayden is Mrs. Sally Evans, director, and Miss Ada Bett Joyner, instructor. At Farmville Miss Vivian Case is director and Mrs. Jack Smith, instructor.

Summer enrollment in Maine camps for boys and girls was reported to be 15 per cent above last year.

LOCALS PLAY NEW BERN TO 13 INNING TIE

Greenville and New Bern battled to a stalemate through 13 innings Saturday afternoon. Darkness ended the battle with the score tied at 5 all.

A great rally by New Bern had brought on a deadlock. The visitors did all their scoring in the ninth, mixing three singles and a double with three walks. Greenville's runs came in the early innings. The locals made two in the first, one in the fifth, and two in the sixth.

Dunn started on the mound for New Bern but Whealon took over duties in the 10th. Smith started for the locals and was relieved by Forbes in the ninth. Dean also had to come to the firing line in this inning. Dean pitched the rest of the way.

Lefty Kennel, pitcher called in as a pinch-hitter, hit a double off Dean to bat in the two runs which tied the score in the ninth.

Greenville made 13 hits; New Bern made 10. The visitors made three errors to one for the locals.

Norwood, with a double and a single, and Martin and Lambeth each with two singles, led Greenville's attack. Potts caught for Greenville; Ham Ferbee caught for New Bern.

What turned into a marathon game near being halted shortly after it had started—a downpour of rain caused a cessation of activities in the second inning.

SNOW HILL CLIMBS

Snow Hill, July 28—Snow Hill, dropped out of the first division in a recent readjustment of the standings, climbed back to third place today as Newsome pitched three-hit ball for a 6-0 shutout against Tarboro.

Newsome gave two hits in the first inning and then pitched hitless ball the rest of the way save for a safety in the eighth.

Newsome and Mewborn featured in Snow Hill's errorless defense play. Flynn, with a double and a triple, batted in three runs to feature for Snow Hill.

The locals made nine hits. Tarboro made one error.

Batteries: Tarboro—Woodlief, Jenkins and Rogers; Snow Hill—Newsome and Royce.

KINSTON TOPS AYDEN

Ayden, July 28—Kinston handed Ayden a 5 to 1 defeat today to make a sweep of the two-game series.

Bolger, new hurler, pitched well for Kinston. He hails from Altoona Pa., home town of Tommy Orwin, Carolina star and Kinston shortstop, Bolger had a fling in professional baseball a number of years ago but has been out of pro ball long enough to regain his amateur status under league rules.

Faust Johnson, Ayden star and former Wake Forest College athlete made a single in the eighth inning—his one hit of the day—to keep intact a streak during which he has hit safely in 22 consecutive games.

Mitchell and Stephens made two hits each to lead Ayden. Manager Vergil Weathers made two hits to top Kinston. Each club made eight hits.

Fielding of Miller, Ayden third-sacker, was the defensive feature of the event.

Batteries: Kinston—Bolger and Tatum; Ayden—Wrenn, Johnson, Byrd and Stephenson.

By ALAN GOULD

Galloping around the mid-season bases.

What price glory when you find the fans booing and the ball writers razzing the great Walter Johnson over his handling of writers suggest Babe Ruth ought to take himself out of the game so the Yankees can have a better chance to win the pennant.

Pitching and infield troubles have had much more costly to the New Yorkers than anything Ruth has done or neglected to do this season, on top of which the loss of Earle Combs is a staggering blow.

Carl Hubbell fanned the American League's Big Five in a row only to lose a pitching duel to Allyn Stout of the cellar champion Cincinnati Red a week later, but King Carl's support has been far from the best lately.

The Giants gave their ace hurler something like five runs in three consecutive games. Who said the firing line would help other teams more than it would the Giants? Terry, Ott and Moore have been three of the league's five leading hitters lately and the world champions are batting twenty points higher on the average than last season.

Ferrell and Grove

Wes Ferrell refused to sign a $10,000 contract with Cleveland this spring and remained a holdout until traded to the Red Sox. Lefty Grove, sold to Boston for over $100,000, applied his fountain pen to a $20,000 contract. Ferrell, starting six weeks late, has won twice as many games for the Red Sox as Grove, so how can you figure profit and loss in such a business?

Furthermore, the Phillies, who profit by more than $100,000 in the sale of Chuck Klein and Virgil Davis, now have the most improved club in the National League and a stronger cast than last year.

Manager Jimmy Wilson has turned up two of the year's pitching sensations in Curt Davis, right-hander with upwards of a dozen victories to his credit at mid-season, and Elmer Moore, Chickasaw Indian from Tahlequah, Oklahoma, with Galveston and Baltimore.

Fox's Big Test

Jimmie Fox, through the end of July, has kept pace with Babe Ruth's performance in 1927—the year the Bambino touched his high homer mark of 60—but the trick will be in duplicating Ruth's September rush of seven years ago.

The Babe collected 17 home runs in the last month of the 1927 campaign, breaking his record by one after it appeared he didn't have a chance to do so. Incidentally Bob Johnson, outfielder of the A's and Fox's main rival for circuit clouting honors now, seems certain to be the fourth American Leaguer to collect 40 or more homers, Ruth Gehrig and Fox being the others.

Guy Bush has developed a screw ball, but he won't match Hubbell until he produces one that can be taught to break in two directions.

NEGRO RUNS INTO PRISON

negro and Mr. Warren showing pretty good sprinting ability. Huggins evidently wasn't acquainted with Greenville geography and ran through the fire station and dived into an ash can almost against the walls of the city bastle.

Naturally, policemen who had joined the chase were amused over the turn of events, but when the negro found how near he was to the jail he nearly fainted.

Given preliminary hearing in police court this morning he was bound over to the next term of County court. He was remanded to jail when he failed to give bond.

HAVELOCK YOUTH BADLY INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Richmond, Va., July 30—Suffering from a fracture of the skull and also fractures of the left shoulder and wrist, Morris Tilton, eighteen, of Havelock, N. C., was reported today as being in a serious condition in a Petersburg hospital. He sustained the injuries last night when a motor truck in which he was riding left the roadway near that city and crashed into a tree. Percy Tilton, his uncle, also of Havelock, driving the truck, and two others aboard the vehicle, escaped injury. Percy Tilton is said to have been blinded by the lights on an approaching car.

DILLINGER'S 'HOSPITAL' FOUND

The small cottage (above) on Chicago's west side was revealed by Chicago police as the "hospital" where John Dillinger hid his face lifted, after James Johnston Probasco, 67 (right), leaped 19 floors to his death while being held for questioning in department of justice offices. Below are some of the implements police said were used in the operation, which proved a futile effort to disguise the slain public enemy. (Associated Press Photos)

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Stocks gave ground rather easily today and the heaviness of a number of fast market bell weathers apparently tended to accentuate the hesitation in most share groups.

Although the trading volume was low, leading issues yielded one to around three points before steadying under moderate support. There was little news that might have acted as a further depressant to sentiment.

Considerable drought pessimism continued to prevail, but the European situation seemed to be tense.

Grains at Chicago moved forward around one to two cents a bushel under the leadership of corn which took new high for the season.

Guatemala Airmails

With all except one of its airmail issues—that of the specially designed six-cent rose stamp of 1930—consisting of surcharges of one kind or another making regular postage adhesives available for airmail, Guatemala has come forward with three more overprints for the same purpose. Her first airmail surcharge was in 1929.

Two of the values are overprinted "aero exterior" for use on mail going outside the country, with the additional notation, "1934." The stamps are from the issue of 1929, consisting of the 5-centavo brown red and the 15-centavo ultramarine.

The overprint on the other reads, "aero interior 1934," the 2-centavo deep blue also from the 1929 issue. Thus, this stamp can be used for airmail within the country only.

From Over the World

Ecuador has placed a second surcharge on the 10-centavo olive brown semi-postal stamp, changing the value to 2 centavos. Originally a telegraph stamp, the first surcharge in red brought it into the classification of a semi-postal. The overprint with the new value is in black.

Also from Ecuador comes eight new stamps, three of which are 5 centavos and the others 10 centavos.

The only difference are the colors, the 5's being blue, dark brown and violet. The 10's are brown, orange, carmine, blue green and olive. Each pictures a mountain scene.

The recent issue of postage due stamps of Italy has been surcharged for use both in the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Libia.

Canada has announced a new 1-cent dark violet postage due stamp. The re-issue of Von Hindenberg stamps of Germany also includes a 25-pfennig ultramarine.

About U. S. Stamps

With the change in the air postage rate to six cents, the current eight-cent olive green airmail envelope falls into the obsolete class. Apparently that means there will be a new six-cent envelope for air use in addition to the new six-cent airmail adhesive.

Mrs. Anna Dall

Miden, Nev., July 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall obtained a divorce from Curtis Dall in the small courthouse where her brother Elliott was divorced a little more than a year ago from Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt.

With all the speed usual in Nevada divorce cases, District Judge Clark Gill granted the decree immediately after the President's only daughter gave brief testimony in support of charges of extreme cruelty.

Only Mrs. Dall, Mrs. S. Dana, court official, attaches and attorneys for the principals were present at the trial.
