Big Stone Gap, Va., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Ten men are unaccounted for in a small section of the Derby No. 3 mine of the Stone Gap Coke and Coal Company where a gas explosion occurred this morning. Approximately 75 men working in another section of the mine escaped through an abandoned entry.

A rescue team was immediately sent to work and during the forenoon was slowly working its way into the mine carrying fresh air in an effort to clear out the deadly monoxide gas which continued to escape from the pit's mouth.

The exact location of the ten men including Ralph Burchill, general mine foreman, was not known and there was considerable uneasiness as to their safety.

RUM-SOAKED DRIVERS ON AN INCREASE

Highway Patrol Reports Slight Increase Of Intoxicated Drivers Past Month

Drunken drivers—always a menace to public life and property—continue to show an increase in this highway patrol district, although the boom the past month was very slight. The month report issued today by Lieutenant Lester Jones, of the local highway patrol unit, revealed today that 35 drunken drivers were taken into custody during the past month as against 32 for the previous month. Lieutenant Jones said every effort was being made by his men to keep the highways as clear as possible of persons drinking intoxicating liquors, but that the job was a monumental one. The number of drunks behind the steering wheel has increased considerably the last year although officers were unable to ascribe any specific cause for the increase.

But one thing is sure, the patrolmen have no sympathy for men who try to operate automobiles while under the influence of whiskey and are keeping an eternal vigilance for such persons with the idea of making them pay the supreme penalty for infractions of highway laws. The death toll over the division was the same as the previous month, the report of the patrol head placing the number at six. There was a slight decrease in the injured, those this month being listed as 43 as against 45 for June.

One hundred and fifty-three arrests were reported by the patrol with 144 persons found guilty, receiving sentences of 68 months. Only nine were found not guilty. The patrol issued a total of 2,256 warnings which goes to show how many individual cases the patrolmen handle in addition to those actually taken into court and along with other duties.

Value of recovered property was given at $2,768. Fines were $1,939, costs $1,251, revenue collected $5,102 with the total handled by the patrol being listed as $11,060.

HITLER PAYS FINE TRIBUTE TO DEAD HERO

Von Hindenburg Exalted by New President in Solemn Services of Reich

Berlin, Aug. 6.—(AP)—From the rostrum where, on July 13 he defended his killing of 70 revolutionaries and declared he was Germany's law, Adolf Hitler today paid solemn tribute to the late President Paul Von Hindenburg and prayed for the peace, freedom and honor of Germany. "Deputies of the German Reichstag, men and women of the German people," the chancellor spoke: "I implore you all now to look beyond this transitory moment into the future. Let the strong realization enter our hearts, the Herr Reich President, Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg is not dead; he is living; for in dying he now wanders above amidst the immortals of our people surrounded by the great spirits of the past as an eternal patron and protector of the German ranks and the German nation."

Hitler declared the late President was "as innocent of the beginning of the world war as anybody in the world," pointing out that when the conflict began in 1914 Von Hindenburg was living in retirement having taken his discharge from the army at the age of 64, on March 8, 1911.

The new German leader praised Von Hindenburg as a military commander and declared: "Had the political leadership of our people during this period been congenial with the military Germany would have been spared the greatest humiliation ever to go down in German history."

He said the world war broke upon a German people "sacredly convinced of having been attacked without their guilt."

REFLECTOR TO TAKE PART IN 'DOLLAR DAY'

Special Subscription Rate to be in Force During Week, Beginning Today

An opportunity to obtain The Daily Reflector at reduced rates was announced today by the management in an effort to co-operate with local merchants in the observance of semi-annual "Dollar Day" Thursday.

The special rates will be in effect only this week and will not be repeated this year.

Under the special rates a subscription for two years may be obtained for $6.00, a saving of $4.00. A one year subscription may be had for $3.50, representing a saving of $1.50.

A three months' subscription is available at $1.00, a saving of 25 cents.

The offer expires Saturday night, August 11, and is absolutely the last opportunity to be offered this year to obtain the paper at reduced rates.

"Dollar Day" is always a big affair in the lives of both merchants and the public generally in view of the fact that the merchants attempt to share profits with the thousands of people who trade with them from day to day throughout the year.

The Reflector has always supported the merchants in their effort to share profits with their customers and the special subscription offer this week is complete expression of that desire.

Persons desiring to receive the paper at the special rate are urged to mail or bring their subscriptions to the office at once, and be among the great number to be on the lists when the offer ends Saturday night.

BOARD TO PASS ON PITT BUDGET

Several Other Important Matters to be Considered by Commissioners Today

Consideration of the budget was the chief matter before members of the Board of County Commissioners in regular monthly session here today.

The budget, in tentative form, was presented to the public several days ago and was expected to receive final consideration of the commissioners today.

The commissioners also will be faced by the problem of setting the tax rate for the new year, and indications, according to a recent statement of County Auditor J. H. Coward, the rate this year will be higher than the previous year.

Mr. Coward expressed belief the rate this year would be 88 cents compared with 83 for the previous year. This is due, he stated, to increased appropriations to come departments and valuations only slightly in excess of the past year.

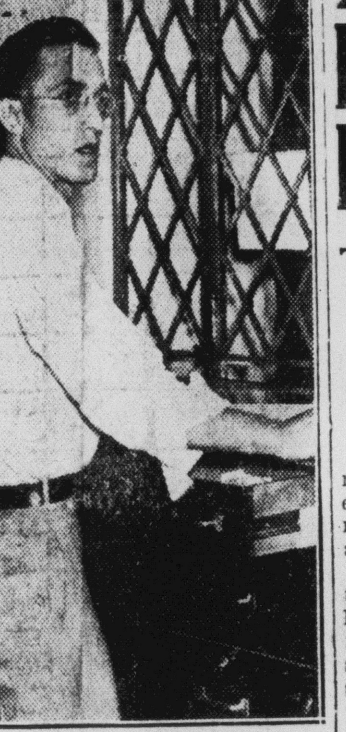

The commissioners also will finally decide on increasing appropriations to the Health Department from around $5,000 to $8,500. "The question has been under consideration for sometime and delegations representing the medical profession have vigorously championed the increased appropriations because of higher infant mortality. This death rate among children in this county has been described as the greatest in the State.

The Kiwanis Club, it was also indicated, will renew appeal for a contribution to Sheppard Memorial Library which serves practically every community throughout the county.

The commissioners were also due to finally settle the proposal for an all-time sanitary inspector for the county. Since the city of Greenville recently declared itself in favor of conducting its sanitary work independent of the county, the commissioners will have to make provisions to care for other towns and rural communities.

In a day the average farmer walks twenty-six miles, a letter carrier twenty-two, policemen fourteen, boys fifteen, girls eleven, housewives eight and train conductors seven; it has been estimated.

FLEISCHMANN URGES FAITH

Baptist Minister Speaks at Union Services on The Court House Lawn Here

Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, delivered the sermon at the series of union services on the courthouse lawn last night and another large crowd was in attendance to take part in the inspirational service.

The services will continue through the month of August, it was said last week by Mr. Fleischmann, who is president of the Ministerial Association, sponsors of the services.

Last night Mr. Fleischmann spoke on the subject, "The Good Cheer Quartette," and bought to his hearers one of the most interesting sermons of the series.

The speaker said his message was given about "Forgiveness, Faith, Victory and Assurance."

He spoke of "forgiveness" as sounded by Jesus in his message to the paralytic, "Son, be of good cheer, thy sins be forgiven thee." "Do we hear this note of good cheer singing in our hearts?" asked the speaker.

Faith in the presence of Christ in all circumstances was described by the minister as an essential, especially as expressed by Jesus when walking on the water he said to the distressed disciples, "Be of good cheer it is I; be not afraid."

"Victory," he pointed out, is found in present living because of our identification with Him. In the supper room Jesus talked intimately with his closest friends. There he said, "In the world he shall have tribulation, but he of cheer, I have overcome the world."

"This overcoming in Christ's power is our blessed privilege. To the Apostle Paul is left the note of this quartette of spiritual facts that of assurance. On the Mediterranean Sea, in the stormy journey to Rome, he declares with firm conviction: 'Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer. I believe God it shall be even as it was told me.' It is up to us to join in this assurance, to believe God even as it was told us concerning Divine forgiveness—faith in the Living Christ, victory through His presence and then blessed assurance."

THREE STATES PREPARE FOR PRIMARY VOTE

Three Others on the Last Lap of Counting Ballots For Members Of Congress

(By The Associated Press)

The last lap in three spirited primary races were run today with the electorate picking the winners tomorrow in Missouri, West Virginia and Kansas.

Nomination for the two seats in the United States Senate—both now held by Republicans—are at stake in Missouri and West Virginia. No senatorship is being filled in Congress.

Candidates also were being nominated for twenty-six seats in the House of Representatives, thirteen in Missouri, six in West Virginia and seven in Kansas.

The Missouri race involving a three-cornered front Democratic State control is expected to bring out a record off-year primary vote.

Nine candidates are elbowing their way in the free-for-all for the Democratic senatorial nomination in West Virginia.

There is a six-cornered race for the Democratic nomination for governor in Kansas, but only one man has challenged the incumbent, Governor Alf Landon, on the Republican ticket.

The counting of ballots from Saturday's election in Kentucky starts today in accordance with the State law.

The battle between wets and dries in South Carolina waxed warmer on several fronts with the Democratic referendum on the question of liquor to be answered August 29.

TWO HELD FOR HOLDUP HERE

Negroes Nabbed For Robbing Man on Clark Street The Middle of June

Richard Faircloth and David Mason, colored, charged with holding up and robbing Ammie McDaniel, also colored, at the corner of Clark and Twelfth Streets on the night of July 15, were behind the bars today after being taken into custody by local police over the week-end.

Given preliminary hearing in police court this morning they were bound over to the next sitting of criminal Superior Court. They were unable to give bond and were remanded to jail.

Chief of Police Clark said the two men are alleged to have thrown McDaniel to the ground and to have taken all the money he had on his person—about $3.00.

Faircloth, it was said, immediately left town and to avert suspicion, they were being sought. Mason was not molested until Faircloth reported the latter part of last week and walked into the police trap.

The police head said Faircloth had just recently completed a road term for robbery when he and Mason allegedly stage the hold-up of McDaniel. Faircloth, it was stated, drew two years on the roads for the first hold-up, and just completed service of the sentence when he came back here and resumed his old trick of trying to live without honest toil.

Edict Issued By Governor Olson In Driver Strike

Late News Flashes

To Settle Differences In Court. New Orleans, Aug. 6.—(AP)—City and state officials who have arrayed opposing armed forces against each other for a week, today took their dispute to a civil district courtroom with Mayor Semmes Walmsley's authority over the New Orleans police at stake.

There Judge Nat W. Bond opened hearing on a city suit to enjoin the functioning of a new city police board provided for in a bill pushed through the legislature by Senator Long.

The bill provided for taking the police authority away from the mayor through creation of the special police board named by local civic organizations, which was described by the Walmsley faction as "reprisal" for the defeat of Huey Long's candidate by Walmsley in the last city election.

It was attacked on the grounds of unconstitutionality with the city claiming irregularities, marking its passage in the legislature.

Both Senator Long and Mayor Walmsley were denounced at a mass meeting by communists and socialists. (Continued on page four)

Newspapers, magazine, periodicals, newspaper print, and motion picture films. Operation of the following vehicles without permit will be lawful and the trucks cannot be stopped:

All government vehicles, public utilities vehicle carrying passengers for hire, ambulances and those carrying agricultural products.

The edict will be effective until the drivers and their employers settle their differences.

NAB ESCAPED CONVICT HERE

Negro Who Escaped From Road Forces Near Cox Mill Again Back in Stripes

Another convict who escaped from the State Prison road camp near Cox Mill last Friday was back in stripes today as result of the faithfulness of two trustees, Camp Superintendent Manly Sellars said today.

Sellars said Marshall Saddle was working along the road with two trustees during the absence of the regular guard. Saddle suddenly developed the "wanderlust" and made a successful break for the woods.

Within an hour, however, said Sellars, Saddle was recaptured by the trustees and brought back to camp to continue work.

The negro was serving a sentence of from one to two years for breaking and entering. Sellars said, with the chance of being released at the expiration of one year upon good behavior. But, his attempt to escape has sent all hope of the year sentence a-glimmering and he more than likely will remain in stripes two years.

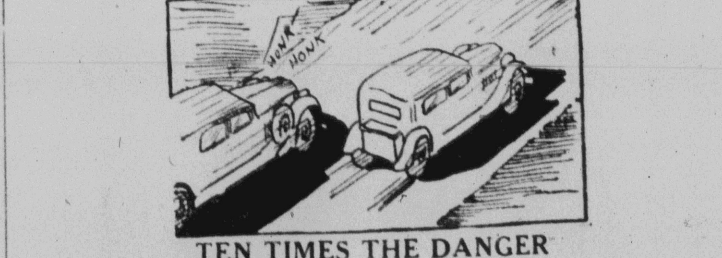

Another convict escaped from the road forces earlier during the week, the camp head said, but was recaptured within a few hours after he had broken into a negro house in the Bruce community.

Sellars praised highly the faithfulness of his trustees, declaring it was almost impossible for prisoners to escape from his camp and remain free for any length of time because of trusty vigilance.

SPITE MARRIAGE

By Katharine Harland Taylor

SYNOPSIS: Bob Powers has returned home from the war in a broken state. His wife, Marsha, has left him and taken to the hills. Now she is back in town, but she is not the same. She is bitter and resentful. Bob is trying to win her back, but she is determined to stay away from him.

Chapter 27 OLD PROBLEM

"AND you know," Bob went on, "how awkward I am; I never could get along with girls. I never could, or wanted to. You were the only one." He paused abruptly to continue with, "and my not knowing other women of any age, well, added to our closeness, my dependence upon her, hers upon me. It does seem as if I might have been permitted to get here in time, or have been let out of that job!"

Marsha found comforting him with words to be suddenly beyond her reach. Speech was too difficult; words would betray her! And, promising upon the only possibility of showing him her sympathy, she leaned yet more toward him as she tightened her small, nervous, hot hands.

She saw that it helped him. He spoke loudly, quickly, of memories, hopes; a mélange that, to a cool listener, would have seemed oddly unrelated, but that in his mind and heart knew poignant connection.

As he finished Marsha said, "I cared so much for your mother and she cared for me; she really did! And after her death I thought she must know all about me and everything of me, you know; that I had hidden from her, and it tortured me. 'I felt that if she did know me as I am, or rather as I was, she could not care for me. Then, night before last I began to feel that the dead know everything to forgive everything; or that their sleep is too deep to be troubled by the small compunctions of those who go on.'"

"And I believe that those dead know one or the other; a deep, good sleep or an understanding. And both are kind!"

BOB felt his tears start to slip down his lean cheeks; his tension relaxed and he knew ease until he saw that Marsha too was crying. Then came the chilling certainty that she was being hurt and that he could not comfort her as he would.

She held his hand against her heart and he rose suddenly. He wanted her in his arms with a want so intolerable that he had to draw away sharply, quickly, lest he be mastered by his need.

Hands limp on her knees, she looked up at him. He saw, with relief, that her tears had stopped.

"I want you to know that I shall never forget your kindness," he said unsteadily.

Film Censor Finds Censorship Begins at Home

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — (AP) — Out of obscurity, so far as the general public was concerned, recently arose the name of Joseph L. Breen.

Very eager he was, she saw, to make her understand that soon, for them both, the time together would be a matter for memory. She had drawn too close to him to suit him, she saw, too; his definite withdrawal had told her that.

And she had been hoping, and so fervently that she shook with the hoping, that somehow Bob would forget all his stubborn doubt, to remember only all she would try to be.

He moved toward the doorway to turn back, "Please," he begged her stilled, "don't cry any more!" "I don't think I shall," she answered, and she smiled in a way that troubled him. He found himself remembering her smile with anxiety, but with the feeling—and this was for a certain relief—that she wouldn't cry if she said she would not. And in this he was right.

BOB knew certainly, with a week passed, that Marsha had no more wish than he to hurry anything; "anything" being the divorce.

"There's no use of our having done all that we have and then messing it up when our noses are almost over the ropes," she pointed out in her characteristic way.

"No," he agreed.

Marsha hoped Bob would forget his stubborn doubt.

"And I wouldn't have anyone think that your mother made us stick together."

"Nor would I," he agreed again and this time morosely.

They were talking it over at the finish of a luncheon, after Bartholomew had left them.

Marsha had made things more easy than he had supposed they could be, Bob reflected as she poured his coffee; she had changed the shape of the table to bring it down to cozy, new smallness and she had had it moved.

The arm chair in which his mother sat, had disappeared. Marsha had been wholly considerate, rarely understanding, Bob sat staring at her, wishing she weren't so pale, so thin; that she would eat more; that she could sleep. He knew she did not; he saw her light too often, a slit of gold, beneath the door that divided their rooms.

She had not moved her raiment, herself, to the lavender or the blue guest room. He was grateful, deeply grateful, that she had not; it helped him, during the sleepless nights, to know she was near and perhaps, he thought, heart quickening, his being within hail comforted her.

He longed to ask her of that and of other matters, but he kept himself, by forcing his strong will, to the impersonal and apart from her whenever he could, without making the servants suspicious. They sat together each evening, usually reading to read. They had their meals together. Twice, and on days when the grudging, chill spring had repented its mood, they had motored.

"Are you in a hurry for the divorce?" he heard.

"Certainly not," he replied stiffly. "I'd thought we'd quiet all talk, if—after you went back—I'd stay on here. A good many women would not consider going to Mexico possibly anyway, you know. And certainly, if I stayed here, for six or eight months, no one could suspect the truth. And when we do get our divorce everyone will think only that it has lasted rather longer than do most marriages. You see?"

He presumed she was right, but he wished she would not talk of it so lightly. The idea of the divorce shook him as it never had before. He kept thinking of it, sitting with her during the evening.

And now, with a few months gone, so that no one would suspect they had made a deal, the divorce would be real, accomplished.

Cotillion Club Dance Friday.
Announcement was made today by the Greenville Cotillion Club that Hal Thurston had been secured to play for their dance Friday evening August 10, in the Greenville high school, from ten until two o'clock.

Thurston will bring to Greenville one of the most versatile road bands in the South, coming here fresh from their engagement at Isle of Palms, Charleston, S. C. A partial list of the engagements played this summer include: Lumina, Wrightsville Beach, Wilmington, N. C.; Buckroe Beach Casino, Newport News, Va.; Hotel Robert E. Lee roof garden, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Tanttilla Gardens, Richmond, Va.; Lakeside Park, Roanoke, Va.; White Lake Casino, White Lake, N. C.; Atlantic Beach Casino, Morehead City, N. C.; Alpha Gamma Beta Club, Columbia, S. C.; Isle of Palms, Charleston, S. C.

In addition to featuring an entirely new style in musical arrangements, so far as the band goes, Miss Peggy Wood, personality singer, adds to variety with many of her own original compositions.

Celebrate Birthday.

The places were marked with candy clowns which were given as favors. Ice cream and cake was served by the host's mother.

Wade received many useful gifts and toys.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Love" was the subject of the lesson sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 5.

The golden text was from Isaiah 40:11: "He shall feed his flock like a shepherd; he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."—Ps. 51:10.

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds. The habitual struggle to be always good is unceasing prayer. Its motives are made manifest in the blessings they bring—blessings which, even if not acknowledged in audible words, attest our worthiness to be partakers of Love. Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him; but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness."

Greenville Playmakers Club.
Friday morning the Greenville Playmakers Club entertained the junior and senior groups with a very successful play, "Cinderella." It was given in the open air theatre at the new playgrounds. The characters were: Harriet Gaylord as Cinderella; Mary Jane McIver as the Prince; Tiny Bowen as Cinderella's real mother; Winifred Barnes and Virginia Rouse as the step-sisters; Julia Ann Bland as the Step-mother; DeLaine Alford as Fairy Godmother; Belle Reddick as Queen, and Frances Clark as Messenger. It was very good and all of us enjoyed it. The players all did well and Harriet kept everyone filled with laughter.

Special mention is made of the interest and hard work of our president, Margaret Putrell. Much of the success of the play was due to her.

Other club officers are: Secretary, Phyllis Shuff; stage manager, Frances Clark; reporter, Doris Duval.

"Cinderella" was the first of a series of plays the club hopes to give.

DORIS DUVAL.

Folk Dances.
The senior members of the Greenville playground are daily taught folk dances by Mrs. Virginia Earle. We extend our appreciation to Mr. Rose for letting us use the Greenville high school auditorium for this purpose. At present Mrs. Earle is teaching Dutch folk dances. When we have mastered these we will give a costumed recital, inviting the public in order to show it how much we have learned.

ROSA LEE MCGOWAN.

On each Saturday morning a joint meeting of all Pitt county playground instructors is held in the Greenville high school.

Enthusiastic reports were given on last Saturday. Ayden has 69 children enrolled; Farmville has 99 children enrolled; Greenville had 320 children enrolled Friday and has 21 new on roll today. A total of 509 children are now taking part in the Pitt county playgrounds.

Plans are being forward for a county-wide folk game and dance meet.

End Play

If an adversary has a sure trump trick, at times the situation can be turned to the declarer's advantage. It may be possible to put the adversary into the lead with his trump so that he has to lead away from an honor in another suit, or give the declarer a ruff and a discard.

A good example of this is from a grandmaster of the game, Lewis Osborn, director of the Deschanelles Club, New York.

to the king and the lead of the ace showed that East must make his queen.

In order to avoid losing more than one trick and being set, Osborn now saw that he must finesse successfully against the diamond king and then finesse against the diamond ten or cause the ten to drop after finessing against the king.

For the contract to be made, East, who already had been shown to possess the queen of clubs, must have the diamond king. If he had the diamond ten also and another diamond he would cover any diamond led from North in order to get one diamond trick.

Finessing twice or dropping, therefore, was not to be considered. But there was a possibility of putting East into the lead with his queen of trumps so that the diamond situation would resolve itself.

Osborn led four rounds of spades. When both West and East followed suit on the ace, king and queen, Osborn decided that East could now make his club if he wished. On the spade deuce a diamond was discarded North and East shed a heart, not liking the looks of things.

A low club put East into the lead willy nilly and he returned a heart. South discarded a low diamond and ruffed in the North hand. This queen of diamonds was led North. East covered. The trick was taken South with the ace, the next trick was won by the jack of diamonds North, and the last two by trumps South.

Kroll opera house—which still serves as the temporary Reich building following last year's fire—was non-political in character, although he made frequent references to the principles of his own regime in tracing Von Hindenburg's career.

With his voice choked with emotion Hitler declared:

"We want to preserve the miracle of this new resurrection of our people as a precious inheritance of the great age and we want to pass it on to generations to come after us. He who thus observes fidelity to his people shall himself remain unforgotten in fidelity."

Hitler's oration was heard by a crowd which packed the Kroll opera house, still the temporary home of Parliament, pending completion of repairs to the Reich building.

Italy Awaits Heir To Crown Prince

By ANDRUE BERDING
ROME—(AP)—The battle royal of American cities for the privilege of harboring the national political conventions is almost as nothing compared with the intense desire of several Italian cities to be the birthplace of the royal prince (perhaps princess) who will be born to Crown Prince Marie Jose probably in September.

Naples hopes for the honor because Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose live here in the royal palace, and Humbert is commander of the Naples military zone.

Five Othérs in Race
Capri longs for it because the princess is passing these months of expectation there, in the company of Princess Mafalda, second daughter of King Victor Emmanuel.

Turin thinks it has a chance because the prince and princess lived there when they were first married.

Rome has a chance because the king and queen live here, and Marie Jose has spent many months here.

Racconigi, near Turin, where the prince owns a palace, is agog over its own possibilities.

San Rossore near Pisa, believes it is the running because the royal summer home is there, and September is usually a hot month in Italy.

Naples Offers Cradle
Naples and Racconigi believe they have definite evidence in their favor.

In Naples orders have been given to refurbish some of the apartments in the royal palace. At Racconigi Crown Prince Humbert has ordered two apartments done over.

The people of that neighborhood say that the apartments are destined for the two queen-mothers (Helen of Italy and Elizabeth of Belgium) who are expected to be present for the royal birth. Prince Humbert himself was born at Racconigi, September 15, 1904.

Meantime all Italy, regardless of geographical position, is eagerly awaiting what is called in this kind of "heto event" ("the happy event"). Humbert and Marie Jose, married more than four years ago, have not yet had a child.

The Naples municipality has taken unto itself the honor of providing the cradle for the baby who may one day be king of Italy (unless it's a princess).

The cradle will be made from the offerings of close to a million Neapolitans, each offering being limited to 80 centesimi (about two American cents).

Owing to the flood of gifts which seemed about to descend on the expectant parents, orders have been issued throughout the kingdom that those who are thinking of presents are kindly requested to make a donation instead, to the National Maternity and Infancy organization.

Top Notch's Invitations

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Top Notch, the rooster, had been visiting all his friends. From one barnyard to another he had gone and everywhere he had told them of the news of Puddle, Muddle and of what exciting lives they had.

Before leaving any place he had said:

"Do come over and see us. Willy Nilly, the little man who owns Puddle Muddle, and all of us who are his friends, will always make you feel welcome. We like company."

The hens, the roosters, the chickens, the ducks, the pigs, the dogs, all had received invitations from Top Notch.

Now he was on his way home. He had been around a good deal and that was fun. But it was always even more fun to be getting back to Puddle Muddle.

He supposed they were a strange collection of friends—only a little znoome-like man, another a dog, a third a crow, and besides there were Jelly and Honey Bear, the cubs Jupiter and Blacky, and all the ducks.

He stopped off and called on the ducklings at The Ducklings' camp and they had enjoyed seeing him. He thought they were looking in the best of duck health but he said to himself:

"Great Roosters and Little Chickens! I don't see how they want to spend all that time in the water."

Now Puddle Muddle was not far off. He was thinking about it and looking forward to seeing Willy Nilly when there was a quick grinding sound and Top Notch felt the whole world had fallen on his head.

"Whatever can it be?" thought Top Notch, his rooster heart going pitter-patter.

MAY BLANKS SNOW HILL TO 1-0 TUNE

Reynolds May, Duke University's pitching gift to the local Coastal Plain League club, turned in a splendid hurling performance Saturday afternoon as the Greenvilles defeated Snow Hill, 1 to 0.

May hooked up against a worthy foe in Stewart. The Snow Hill hurler allowed four hits. May gave just three safeties and struck out nine. Stewart fanned none.

The game was reeled off in fifty-eight minutes, and probably set some sort of record for fast play. May topped off his fine pitching by getting a pair of hits. Tuck accounted for two of the visitors' safeties.

Potts, Greenville catcher, had to retire in the third inning after a four tip had split his hand. Bostic turned catcher and did the receiving over the rest of the route. Roy caught for Snow Hill.

The locals will play Tarboro here this afternoon in a play-off of a game which was rained out recently.

KINSTON BESTS AYDEN

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 5.—Kinston sliced Ayden's hold on the league lead to four games by defeating the leaders, 5 to 4, here Saturday afternoon. The locals out-hit Ayden, 8 to 6.

Kinston managed to come out in front despite a ninth-inning rally by Doc Smith's boys. Cecil Longest, former Carolina pitcher, started the locals and had given only five hits up to the ninth. He started the ninth by issuing walks to the first two batters. Bolger was rushed in to relieve him, and the first batter to face Bolger got life on an error. A single sent in two runs. The situation still had the home fans scared. However, the next batter hit to Bolger and the runner on third was put out in a chase. By this time Bolger had warmed up and he struck out the next two swingers.

Zaiser hit a home run and a single to pace Kinston. Peelle was right with him, getting a triple and a double. Miller, with two singles, was best for Ayden. Jim Shields and Doc Smith caught for Ayden. Tatum caught for Kinston.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Wall Street began the new week with little enthusiasm for anything save the grain market.

Stocks absorbed a flurry of selling in the first hours which depressed a number of leaders one or more points, some to new lows for the year but prices later recovered partially as bullishness cropped out in some of the gold and silver issues.

The rise in what carried the May delivery above $1.12, a new high for the season. Other grains also showed pronounced strength and rubber and cotton were firm.

Bonds were soft along with stocks. An early drop of about four points in Union Pacific and two points in Santa Fe carried those issues to new lows for 1934.

Recoveries of a point or so from the worst followed in dull trading. The late was irregular.

U. S. Smelting rose about four points net. Transfers were 800,000 shares.

John Darsey, statistician of the State Department of Agriculture, made the report.

The sales were some 2,000,000 pounds under sales for the first week of 1933. The Department of Agriculture made no official average of last year's price but an unofficial average of the price paid on each of the 15 markets for the first week was 22.81 cents per pound.

The highest average price paid on the first week at any market was 27.31 cents for 222,232 pounds sold at Strickland's warehouse on the Adele market. The highest average for all warehouses at any one market was 24.45 per pound for 976,310 pounds sold at Tifton.

Wilson To Get Cannery.
Raleigh, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, state relief director, announced today that a relief cannery would be started operating in Greensboro immediately.

Mrs. O'Berry added that contracts for canneries in Asheville and Wilson probably would be completed today or tomorrow if the communities make satisfactory arrangements.

When set-up of the proposed Asheville plant will employ about 300 or 400 men under the present plans.

Hold Negro For Attacking Girl.
Cartha, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Malvin McLaurin, 25, negro taxi driver of Gibson, was ordered held for Superior court without bail after preliminary hearing in recorder's court this morning on a charge of criminally attacking Miss Ina Katherine Gordon, 19, of Greensboro.

The girl was the principal witness against the negro, testifying he twice assaulted her last night after offering her and her sister, Mary Elizabeth, 16, a ride as they were hitch-hiking their way home to Greensboro from Fayetteville.

Officers who arrested McLaurin quoted the negro as confessing the crime. McLaurin did not take the stand in his own defense.

Von Hindenburg Laid to Rest.
Neudeck, Germany, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Through a lane of flaming torches sixty miles long the body of Paul Hindenburg will be taken tonight to his grave.

A squadron of seven airplanes piloted by East Prussian fliers will scatter roses over the Neudeck estate the late president's funeral home so well. Funeral services will then be held in the manor house.

The coffin bearing the body of Germany's hero will be placed on a gun carriage for the trip to Tannenberg, scene of one of his greatest military triumphs.

Flowers and branches of fir and oak will be thrown along the roadside. At Tannenberg, site of Germany's victory over Russia in 1914, the body will be placed in the marshal's tower of the national memorial, a tower now known as the Von Hindenburg's tower.

Proposed changes are expected to include a realignment of geographical set-ups, probable personnel changes in some of the regional boards, uniform procedure in the handling of labor difficulties and a possible reduction in the number of boards.

Drinks On the House
Afternoon tea at the State Department long has been one of the accepted customs in governmental circles around Washington. Ogden Mills, when he was Secretary of the Treasury, often had tea served in his office around 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Postmaster General Farley is fond of giving parties to newspapermen assigned to cover his department following his press conferences.

Washington Daybook
By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Defeat of the veteran Oklahoma member of the House. Jovial, Irish Tom McKeown, of Ada, may upset the committee of that body for proceeding against certain Federal judges in impeachment proceedings in the next Congress.

McKeown, an eight-term, was chairman of a sub-committee investigating the judicial conduct of various members of the Federal bench. His committee had amassed considerable information for use in a drive instituted by the House to "clean up" the Federal judiciary.

Due to the press of business in the Seventy-third Congress it was found necessary to postpone action until the next session.

McKeown and his committee had been particularly active in looking into the activities of Chicago Federal judges.

When the drive is launched in the next Congress by Hutton Summers of Texas, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, the aid and counsel of McKeown may be missed.

Milk Matters
Plans for what is expected to be the most far-reaching investigation of the milk industry in history are being carefully mapped out at the Department of Agriculture.

Not much is being said about it publicly, but those on the inside predict tumultuous upheavals once the machinery has been set in motion.

Former Representative Victor Christgau, of Minnesota, a dairy expert now connected with the AAA, is one of the big figures behind the proposed investigation.

Drastic changes in the nineteen regional labor boards throughout the country are being considered by the President's new Labor Relations Board.

The purpose is to try to expedite the handling of a local labor disturbance. At present each board is working in a different manner, causing a great deal of confusion for the national body.

Tobacco is sold in open auctions. We buy the right kinds—mild and ripe—for Chesterfield—and pay the price

.. but even that's not all there is to it

AFTER you receive the tobacco from the farmers you have to dry it just right and then store it away for ageing for over two years. Then you take the different types of home-grown and Turkish tobaccos and weld them together in such a way as to make a balanced blend.

The Chesterfield process of blending and cross-blending tobaccos is different from others, and we believe it helps to make a milder and better tasting cigarette.

Down where they grow tobacco—in most places—Chesterfield is the largest selling cigarette.
