Prices Reported Twice As High As The Past Season

LUMBERTON HAS AVERAGE OVER 25 CTS

Chadbourn Reports Opening Prices Range From 6 to 35 Cents a Pound; Fairmont Makes Average of 22 to 25 Cents in First Half Hour of Sales; Twenty-Three Cents a Pound Reported From Mullins

(By Associated Press) Jubilant farmers saw prices of tobacco meet their highest expectations as sales were begun today on the South Carolina and border belt markets.

Early sales indicated the average price paid for the weed would be well above 20 cents a pound and nearly twice as much as was received on the opening day last year.

The break was slight on most of the markets as the crop is short, maturing later than usual, and rain yesterday interfered with its movement to markets.

There were no reports of farmers turning tickets from the early sales on any of the markets.

At Lumberton one of the larger markets on the North Carolina border, the first 100 pounds of tobacco sold at an average of $25.81 per hundred as compared with an opening day average last year of $13.89.

Four hundred thousand pounds went on sale there and the range of prices during the early sales was from 8 cents a pound for the poor grades to 50 cents for the finer quality.

Timmonsville had a break of 350,000 pounds with early sales at an average of $24.86 per hundred. There were 150,000 pounds on the floors at Darlington where prices during the first few sales ranged from 12 to 37 cents a pound.

Prices were estimated on the Chadbourne market by observers to be twice as high as those last year for the same grades of tobacco. The break was 123,000 pounds.

Low to medium grades were offered at Dillon but farmers said prices were the highest in ten years. The estimated prices were 100 to 300 per cent over last year. The range was $5 to $46 with the average being about $22 a hundred.

Kingsree's three warehouses were filled with prospects of block sales there. Tobacco was selling at double the price of last year. The break at Mullins was 350,000 pounds. Freeman sales indicated the average would be $23 to $25 a hundred and farmers seemed to be highly pleased.

Trashy grades sold as high as 5 cents a pound but better grades brought as high as 45 cents.

Over 60,000 pounds were on the floors of the three houses at Pamlico where the first three rows sold at an average of $24 a hundred with sales from 10 to 35 cents a pound. A few piles brought as high as $40.

The quality generally was no as good as last year and in view of this prices appeared to be over twice as high as last year.

Chadbourn, N. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Opening prices on this border belt tobacco market today were approximately twice as high as last year as the weed brought from six to 35 cents a pound during the initial sales. The offerings were 124,000 pounds and the leaf was still pouring in.

Farmers seemed well pleased with prices and frequently smiled as they followed auctioneers down the aisles (Continued on page four)

CARL GOERCH HAS NARROW ESCAPE HERE

Raleigh Publisher Wrecks Plane on Golf Course But Escapes Uninjured

Carl Goerch, well-known North Carolina newspaperman and editor of "The State" came to Greenville from Raleigh in too much of a hurry yesterday and crashed into a bunker on the local golf course and turned over. Goerch escaped unhurt, declaring it was not the "first time he had done such fool tricks."

The plane was turned over, the bent propeller straightened and the plucky newspaperman-airman returned to Raleigh after playing his scheduled game of golf.

Goerch wired Dave Turner, Proctor Hotel operator, to get some of the boys together, that he would be down from Raleigh in a short time to play some golf.

As Goerch soared over the golf field, he was in such a hurry to get into the game that he failed to circle the field and come down gradually, but flew over the course about twelve feet of the ground, found he was going too fast to land and made a bee-line for a nearby bunker.

OTTO NAMED IN MARRIAGE RUMORS

The departure of the Archduke Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne, from Brussels for Italy, strengthened rumors in Europe that efforts were being made to arrange his marriage to Princess Maria, 19-year-old daughter of King Victor Emmanuel. Should the monarchy be restored in Austria, Otto's position as a suitor for Maria's hand would be strengthened. The two are shown above in recent pictures. (Associated Press Photo)

MR. ROOSEVELT SEEKS ACTION ON NEW DEAL

President Sounds Call For Non-Partisan Action in Speech in Wisconsin

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today sounded the call for further "action" by the "new deal" on a non-partisan road in a militant speech in old Wisconsin.

In his principal speech of this congressional campaign year, Mr. Roosevelt at the Wisconsin tercentenary declared:

"In the great national movement that culminated in 1932 people joined with enthusiasm. They lent a hand and voice to the common cause, irrespective of many old political traditions. They saw the dawn of a new day; they were on the march; they were coming back into possession of their own home-land."

"In one year and five months the people of the United States have received at least a partial answer to the demand for action and neither the demand nor the action has reached the end of the road."

The President mentioned no congressional candidate by name, but he significantly referred to Wisconsin's two Senators, Robert M. LaFollette, Republican independent running for re-election on a new party ticket, and F. Ryan Duffy, chosen with him in 1932, "as both friends of mine."

The President referred to the new deal as a "square deal," and quoted from his speech in Congress in this connection with a general tribute to Representative Burke of Nebraska, who is running for the Nebraska senatorial nomination against Governor Ryan.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke strongly about the critics of his administration efforts, naming those whose objectives are wholly right and wholly progressive, but who insist upon their own methods and nobody else's.

He said the other type is the individual who demands some message to the people of the United States that will restore what he called "confidence."

Those who would measure confidence in this country," he emphasized, "in the future must look first to each citizen."

The Democratic governor of Wisconsin, A. G. Steadman, who was the only man mentioned by name by the President, introduced Mr. Roosevelt.

Late News Flashes

Plane Lands In London. . . London, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The "Trail of the Caribou" landed here after a flight of 31 hours and 43 minutes from Wasaga Beach, Ontario.

The fliers, James Ayling and Leonard Reid, had set out to establish a new long distance record, with Baghdad as their goal.

Their landing means they only covered a little more than half of the 6,500 miles they had set as their objective.

Their rapidly diminishing supply of gas forced the fliers to change their plans to land in England, Reid said.

The Canadian army set the black plane down on Heston air field after covering approximately 3,700 miles.

They were signed at 4:55 p. m., over the Stag Lane airport. They hopped off from Canada at 5:35 a. m. yesterday.

HEALTH BOARD MEETS TODAY

The Board of Health was scheduled to meet this afternoon at five o'clock at the court house to consider the resignation of Dr. R. S. McGeachy, health director, who announced the latter part of last week he had accepted the post as health director in Halifax county.

The board also was to consider its budget calling for increased health appropriations to meet infant mortality and general sanitary conditions throughout the county.

Although no successor to Dr. McGeachy has been considered, it was believed the board would select a new health officer at this afternoon's session, in view of the fact that Dr. McGeachy's resignation becomes effective the latter part of the month.

The health budget which has been cut sharply in recent years was recently declared by the health officer as inadequate to care for the public health of the county, and urged increased appropriations if for no other reason than to combat the continued infant death rate increase, described as the greatest of any county in the state. Other members of the medical profession of the county are also seeking more money to take care of public health work and have appeared before the commissioners from time to time to urge the inclusion of additional appropriations.

The Board of Commissioners, it is understood, are to meet Friday night to finally pass on the budget, and whether the increased health appropriations materialize rests upon the board's decision at this meeting.

FASCIST ROME EXPANDS BEYOND CAESAR'S CAPITAL

OVER FIFTY CENTS OUNCE TO BE PAID

Mints Will Begin Purchasing Silver at Once With Deductions; Order Does Not Affect Domestic Silver Mined December 21, 1933; All Silver in Country Must Be Delivered in 90 Days

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Pres. Roosevelt today issued orders providing for the nationalization of silver at 50.1 cents per ounce according to the provisions of the silver purchase act of 1934. The President's proclamation was made public by Secretary Morgenthau who said the mints would be directed to receive any and all silver in the United States.

The mints will deduct as seigniorage 61.825 per cent of all silver so received and will return to the depositors silver certificates or other coin and currency in amount equal to the monetary value of the remainder.

This means the mints will return for each fine troy ounce of silver an amount equal to 50.51 cents of a fine troy ounce. The order does not affect domestic silver mined since December 31, 1933, which may still be delivered to the mints under the Presidential proclamation of that date.

All other silver in the United States on August 9 today) must be delivered to the mints within ninety days.

Certain classes of silver are exempted. Provision is made for license covering silver needed for commercial and industrial use and to fulfill outstanding contracts to deliver the metal. Also exempted are all United States coin, foreign coin, silver or silver owned by foreign governments and foreign central bank and silver fabricated articles.

'DOLLAR DAY' DRAWS CROWD

Values Moving Rapidly From Counters of Participating Merchants Today

Today was semi-annual Dollar Day in Greenville and as customary on a day of this kind, thousands of people visited the business district to see what the merchants had to offer in the way of values.

Twenty merchants took part in the harvest of values today and show windows were gaily bedecked with the hundreds of items which were offered at prices away below the usual mark as business men share profits with their customers.

Many of the articles found on the various counters today originally sold for several times bargain day prices and shoppers from a distance of many miles bought liberally in preparation for the coming of winter.

Savings represented Dollar Day oftentimes pay the carfare of shoppers from a radius of many miles and in numbers of instances buyers have been known to return home with money to spare.

Dollar Day is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and has the backing of the large business houses. (Continued on page three)

HARRIS OUT OF HOSPITAL

Officer Stabbed by Negro Able to Return Home; Reported Greatly Improved

Herbert Harris, deputy in the office of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst, who was seriously stabbed by a negro on the Farmville road about two weeks ago, was released from Pitt Community Hospital yesterday afternoon and reported as greatly improved.

The officer returned to his home where he was able to sit up for brief durations, but owing to his weakened condition it will probably be several days before he is able to return to work.

Harris was stabbed in the neck, chest, back and shoulders as Jesse Dudley, negro, attacked him with a five-inch blade pocket knife on the Greenville-Farmville highway about a mile from Farmville.

With blood streaming from his wounds Harris jumped into his car and drove to Farmville for medical aid but was almost immediately returned to the local hospital where 103 stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

The negro was identified by Ella Armstrong, negress, who was being carried on the roadside by Dudley, Harris who was looking for a wreck reported by telephone to the sheriff's office when he ran upon the two negroes engaged in a violent argument.

When the officer remonstrated with the negro for cursing on the highway, Dudley cursed him and then attacked him with the knife. The officer was unable to defend himself because he had left his gun locked in his automobile.

TO ADVERTISE BACK TAXES COMING WEEK

Aldermen Also Adopted Tentative City Budget at Special Meeting Today

The advertising of delinquent 1933 taxes will begin in Greenville next week, it was decided at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen at the City Hall here this morning.

In addition to discussion of the tax question, the aldermen adopted the tentative budget for the present year, and ordered it placed on display for twenty days as soon as typewritten copies could be made. The law requires that the budget be exposed to public view for that period.

The budget involves a total amount of $172,000, practically the same amount of last year. In discussing the budget several nights ago the aldermen adopted a tax rate of 96 cents this year compared with 96 cents for the past year.

The rate will be distributed as follows: General fund, 4 cents. City debt service, 43 cents. School debt service, 43 cents. School debt, 5 cents.

The board also passed resolutions confirming the sale of $10,000 worth of city notes to meet expenses incurred by the swimming pool. Advertisement for bids was ordered to be placed immediately.

The issuance of the notes was authorized by the local government commission when city officials appeared before the executive committee in Raleigh two days ago.

New Theatre Reported For Greenville

It was reported here today that C. H. Edwards is planning to build a new theater building for North Carolina Theaters, Inc., operators of State Theater, on Evans Street, near Five Points.

LANIER GOES TO S. C. MARTS

Code Administrator To Also Attend Opening of Border Belt Marts Today

J. C. Lanier, of Greenville, tobacco warehouse code administrator, left last night for South Carolina and the border markets of North Carolina to be present today at the opening of the various markets of the belt.

The administrator attended the opening of the Georgia market several days ago, got the code in operation and returned to Greenville to arrange for enforcement of code provisions on the South Carolina markets.

The code provides for fair trade practices, wages, etc. and was declared to be of great benefit to both warehousemen and growers.

Mr. Lanier reported he had little trouble getting the code under way in Georgia, and commended the warehousemen of that State for the spirit of co-operation displayed on the opening day.

After provisions of the code are in operation in South Carolina and the border, Mr. Lanier will return to Greenville to prepare for the opening of the Eastern Carolina bright leaf markets.

He recently addressed warehouse associations of each belt, explaining the code and declared that failure of warehousemen to abide by the provisions might result in the government taking over control of the industry.

With the government crop estimate indicating a total yield of over four million bales less than last year and with the tobacco poundage not coming up to expectations and the already high opening prices on the Georgia and South Carolina markets, Eastern Carolina farmers this year have every reason to expect to derive the benefits of that long looked for lucky break. In this immediate section the tobacco crop, from a quality standpoint, is one of the best in years and within another few weeks Eastern North Carolina should be the brightest spot on the business map of the whole nation.

Those who visited the site of the new swimming pool yesterday afternoon and last night and witnessed the great enjoyment and healthful recreation that hundreds of the children of the city were getting out of using the new pool should realize just how much of an asset this project is going to prove to our city. The pool, in our opinion, would have been well worth while even if the city had had to foot the entire bill, but with the greater part of the money coming from the federal government we should be doubly pleased with the pool.

Chief of Police George Clark announced this morning that the five minutes parking privilege on Evans street in front of the post office had been abolished and in the future there would be parking on only the west side of the street in that block. Certainly this will be a big improvement and should have its effect in eliminating traffic congestion in that section of the business district.

For the past several years there have been some tobacco growers in the Eastern Carolina belt who, in order to receive money on their crop before the season opened up here, have been carrying some of their crop to the border and South Carolina markets. In view of the fact that it is but two weeks before the market here will be in full swing we urge those growers to wait for the opening of their own belt markets. Not only is it a big expense to the grower to carry part of his crop the great distance from here to the border markets, but indications are that prices are on the upward road and that by the time markets in this belt open the fact that the crop

SPLIT MARRIAGE

By Katherine Hamilton Taylor

SYNOPSIS: Bob Powers will not, or cannot, understand that, although Marsha married him for an unworthy reason, she has truly come to love him. No, they are on the brink of divorce, yet each loves the other. Bob tries manfully to drive Marsha out, and perhaps reach a compromise.

Chapter 40 THE PAINTED BOX

At one that night Bob heard the careful closing of that door of Marsha's room which led to the hall. He wondered where she was going and he hoped the long, upper hall was warm enough to make her migration safe.

People who were reduced took colds, he realized, and colds, for the run-down, developed to worse ailments.

He paced his room as he tried to recall how high the fire in the library had been when he left it. He could not remember and the failure to remember worried him absurdly. She might be going to the library to get a certain book. She would stand by the shelves, hunting it. She would shiver and it would begin; that cold.

He considered following her, and dismissed the idea. She would not like it. She would most probably see his following her as a violent sort of intrusion. No doubt it would be that, as things were between them; a violent sort of intrusion.

He began to undress. On the morrow he would tell Bartholomew to see that the library fire was left, the last thing at night, burning high. Then if she would wander around in this manner (he felt a sharp irritation) she would be as safe as might be, under the circumstances.

Hours in bed were a substitute for sleep; the next thing, as a restorative, to sleep, if sleep would not come. He'd have to tell her so and imperatively.

She was doing nothing to help herself to grow strong. And she was far from well. It seemed as if she didn't care what happened to her. "They are the damndest!" he muttered half aloud and violently; thinking of women.

He looked at his watch before he lay down. It was, he saw, twenty minutes before two. What the devil was she doing? Probably killing herself; taking the first step toward killing herself any way!

He lay, with the light-light on, stretched on his bed, staring at the ceiling, still frowning. Half past two, he saw when he next looked at his watch. Well, he would give her twenty more minutes and then he would follow her whether she liked it or not.

HE turned on his side, miserably conscious of the discomfort of the best bed he had known in months, and propped on an elbow he looked on the face of his watch, listening keenly. Ten minutes more and he would get up, find her and tell her frankly what he thought of her criminal negligence in her care of herself.

It had been years since he had suffered any such sweep of overmastering irritation, anger. He did not know that the most even tempered man on earth suffer this when the one woman menaces herself, her health, by neglect or by taking chances.

The ten minutes were up. He struggled from bed with a sharp suddenness that was made by his strain; shoved feet into slippers and, as he moved toward his door, got into the dressing gown he had picked up on the fly.

The upper hall, lit by a small night-light, was a place of gray and it was chill. He would say, as patiently as he could—and he must not lose his head—"You've been up close to two hours; don't you realize anything of what a chill might mean to you?"

He paused. There was a line of light beneath his mother's bedroom door. He suffered a moment's shock, then, with readjustment, he realized that Marsha was in the room. He did not like it, even her habit of going there by day; it seemed to him morbid, depressing for her; wrong.

HE considered tapping upon the door to dismiss it. It might frighten her badly. He would open the door, speak gently. She would see him immediately, he decided. Softly he opened the door; for several long moments he stood at the threshold without speaking. His heart froze and the deep concern he had felt for her was swallowed by rage; what was she doing to his mother, whom she had pretended to love?

He saw her, back toward him; her abundant, curling hair around her shoulders. Her negligee had slipped to leave one shoulder bare; he saw the whiteness of her skin outlined by undulating strands of black. He saw her shiver as he began to smile bitterly.
"What are you doing?" he flung at her loudly. She turned with a start of faint panic; the knife she had held dropped from her suddenly limp hand to fall noiselessly upon the thick, velvet carpet.

Her other hand still rested upon the box she had been working to open; a painted wood box of another day that held the treasures which had belonged to Bob's mother. They were the dearest things his mother had owned, he knew, and things she had wished to hide from others' eyes. Even he had never seen that which was in the painted box.

He saw the color drain from Marsha's face; he saw her sway; her eyes, darkened by fright, were fixed on his eyes, and they did not waver.

He moved toward her, still smiling, and closed his hands around her wrists. "I am going to know what you were doing," he said; "I asked you—and you are going to answer me. Do you understand?"

She moistened her lips before answering; she whispered a breathless, "Yes."

"What were you doing?" "I was trying to get the box open," she gasped. "I thought," she added childishly, "I had locked the door."

He laughed abruptly, harshly; loosed his hold on her wrists, and he turned to close the door. A moment and he was again by her, and looking down on her; he glanced at the box. "A pity," he murmured, "to scratch it. It is rather an attractive old piece."

"I couldn't find the key," she admitted with a break of voice.

"No, quite naturally not. She sent it to me."

greatest concern to members of Congress and politicians hereabouts, a few brief excursions around the capital should change their minds quickly.

The Senate office building should be visited by skeptics. There's real anguish to be found there despite the fact only a handful of Senators are in town.

What few are there, however, are in Washington virtually incognito. They admit it frankly and ask those who detect their presence to keep quiet about it.

One Senator from a Western State admitted he had to return to Washington to get some rest. Only a few people know he is in town and they, by request, are saying nothing about it.

I had to get away from home," he said, "Never in my whole life have I seen so many people who want jobs, who declare they are starving and demand I do something."

He Is Found Out
At the moment this particular Senator was talking in an outer office the loud and insistent voice of a woman was heard. She was arguing with a secretary.

"I know he's here, for I've seen him," she shrieked. "He promised to see me when he returned and I have been here every day. What about senatorial integrity? I've got my constitutional rights."

The Senator groaned and looked apprehensively at the door.

Another place to have one's eyes opened is at headquarters of the Democratic National Committee high atop a downtown office building. Its perhaps the busiest place in Washington at the moment. Postmaster General Farley's "good man Friday"—Emil Hurja—holds forth there.

Almost any hour of the day there are long lines standing outside waiting to file their application for jobs. They stand in line sometimes for hours. They've heard now places are to be filled at FHA and other alphabetical agencies of the "new deal."

Voters Hit Back
Nor is it alone the wear and tear on nerves which worries the members of Congress and politicians. They have seen more tangible results.

Friends of those two Oklahoma Democratic veterans of the House, for example—Jim McClintic, a tendermer and Tom McKeown an eight-termer—attribute their defeat in the recent primary largely to patronage difficulties.

McKeown, they say, simply wasn't able to meet the demands of the job-seekers and they turned on him. McClintic, in an effort to avoid personal responsibility, is said to have turned his patronage over to local county organizations. That didn't work. They turned on him at the polls also.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.
If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, humberg, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.
If kidneys don't empty 8 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.
But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "daps" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

ROAD WILL CONNECT TWO COUNTY SEATS

Stantonsburg, N. C., Aug. 9.—The promise, made many years ago by the State, that the first objective in hard surfacing the roads of the State would be roads from county-seat to county-seat, is finally being carried out with respect to Wilson and Greene Counties.

For several days now gangs have been at work unloading asphalt, hauling supplies, and laying material to form the bed of the new hard surface road between this town and Snow Hill. The distance to be hard surfaced is approximately eleven miles, and will also complete a short cut between north and northwestern North Carolina and the new port development at Morehead City.

There are already rumors afloat that a bus line will be on through here as soon as the stretch is completed. A bus line is desired here and below here because of the lack of train service. There is only one train a day in each direction, both trains traveling in opposite directions to the way people wish to travel at the time the trains pass.

COUNTY TO CONSIDER TAKING OVER TOWN DEBT

Edenton, N. C., Aug. 9.—Chowan County citizens have been requested to meet Saturday morning at eleven o'clock at the courthouse to discuss the school tax levy for the forthcoming year and whether the county should take up the bonded indebtedness of Edenton and Chowan high school districts.

The meeting is called by the board of education of which E. W. Elliott is chairman. He will preside. During the meeting on Monday Thomas Cheats and John Holmes requested that a recommendation be made to the county commissioners to assume Edenton's bonded indebtedness.

Among other matters in addition to the opening of the county schools September 10 for white children and contract to audit the books for $75 was given to A. T. Allen of Raleigh.

BULL IN LONG DROPP TESTS ITALIAN 'CHUTE

Montecello, Italy.—(AP)—Aviators at the airport here, a big experimental field for bombing planes testing a huge parachute designed to keep planes from crashing, found THEMSELVES RUNNING OUT OF WEIGHTS.

Some one thought of Teodoro, a hefty but amiable bull in an adjoining pasture, tied the parachute to him and led him into the fuselage of a huge bomber.

At a height of several thousand feet the pilot pushed a lever which opened a chute and down shot Teodoro. But the parachute held and the old bull landed on all four feet.

Then he "took off" on his own account and the whole airforce chased him over hill and dale to rescue their parachute. But when they caught up with Teodoro he had pretty well wrecked the thing.

Teodoro was led back to his pasture, but the aviators say that whenever a plane passes over him now he sprints in the opposite direction.

NEW BERN NEGRESS IS KILLED BY LIGHTNING. New Bern, N. C., Aug. 9.—Struck by lightning while she was in bed late Sunday afternoon, with her head leaning against a post of an iron bedstead, Mahala Brown, 45, negress, was instantly killed at her home in Township Five of the North Harlowe section.

Coroner G. M. Henderson viewed the body Tuesday morning and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The lightning struck a gable of the two-story dwelling, ripped off some of the roof and hit the iron bed, killing the safest place in bed, during a thunder squall in bed, but Coroner Henderson points out that it should not be in an iron bedstead if any part of the body touches the iron.

Changed Willy Nilly

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"Why Willy Nilly, whatever have you done to yourself?" asked Top Notch in surprise as he reached the little man's house.

"I went over to the next village and bought some adhesive tape and am trying to see that my ears get started in the training work I'm going to give them. If I can train them to stay back, then I'll be able to start doing something about their pointed appearance. And I can do all this if I only have the time."

"You're not sorry to see me back, are you?" Top Notch asked. Willy Nilly certainly was a funny sight, but Top Notch felt that neither did he look any too handsome.

"I had a frightful scare," Top Notch continued, and told Willy Nilly what had happened.

Then Willy Nilly told Top Notch about the plaster, and how he really felt encouraged now that he was actually beginning to attend to his ears.

"We'll have something to eat," said Willy Nilly, "for I am very hungry and I am sure you must be, too."

"I'm hungry and dusty," said Top Notch. "I wonder, after we finish eating if you'll give me a good brushing."

"Well, I want to water the garden," Willy Nilly said, "but I guess I'll have time to fix you up a bit."

He thought to himself how thankful he was that Top Notch had escaped the accident.

But after their meal, and Top Notch's brushing, Willy Nilly exclaimed: "Look, Top Notch, who are all those creatures? Look, look!"

WISCONSIN FEEDS ITS MUSKELLUNGES ON WATER INSECTS

Madison, Wis. (AP)—Microscopic water insects are helping the Wisconsin conservation Department to propagate muskellunge, the State's famous fighting fish.

The department, searching for musky food, discovered it could easily propagate a certain kind of organism on which the fish would feed during the most critical time of its life—between the exhaustion of the egg sack and the time when it can catch and eat live minnows.

Fish culturists here found that one of their biggest problems heretofore has been providing food for young muskies. They are voracious feeders and are victims of a high mortality rate.

A study of the fish reveals that after hatching it is sustained by the material of the egg which is attached to the body and absorbed by it. When the egg remnant is exhausted the fish is in danger of starvation because it is not usually large enough to catch minnows.

Now the department raises the microscopic organism and feeds it to the young muskies until they are large enough to start on their own.

PIETY OF CHINESE SON WIN HONOR BY NATION

Nanking. (AP)—Because Teng Ching-Yao, 36-year-old villager, stayed by his parents' graves for three years, the nationalist government has set up a votive tablet in recognition of his filial piety.

Teng's native village, south of Wuhu, rice center of China, in Anhwei province, now is called officially "Filial Son Village."

Grave watching for three years has been regarded by Chinese for centuries as the acme of filial devotion. The son builds himself a mud hut alongside the graves of his parents and there meditates and prays. If single, he must not get married; if married he must leave his family alone.

POOL LAUDED BY CITIZEN

New Swimming Pool Opened Yesterday Seen as Great Boon To The Community

The swimming pool, new municipal project, thrown open yesterday, was praised highly by a citizen in a letter to the Daily Reflector today.

This citizen thinks the pool will be of invaluable service to the community and protect human life from the treacherous currents of Tar river which has claimed many lives in recent years.

The letter follows: "The swimming pool which is at last open to the long suffering public, is a splendid example of what can be done when municipal and federal authorities work together. On the pool-culvert project the labor was provided by the E. R. A., and the payroll money soon found its way into the various business houses of the city. Materials paid for in part by the town were also purchased when possible through local dealers.

"Much has been said about the cost of the project. One interesting way to look at it is that if let at contract prices the culvert alone would have cost approximately $12,000. The city paid $12,500 for both pool and culvert, besides reaping the benefit of increased business. However the citizens who for years have been urging the pool for Greenville consider it not so much from the angle of finance as of human value. When one considers that the culvert replaces the open ditch draining tobacco town and other sections, and that the site of the pool was used for years as a dumping ground for rubbish, the improvement takes on new meaning. But the real value of the pool lies in providing safe and wholesome recreation for our young people.

"Every precaution has been taken to insure the safety of the swimmers. The filtering plant, costing $3,500 and housed in the basement, bears the approval of the State Board of Health. The pool itself, with the newest type scum gutter, and rounded corners, provides perfect cleanliness. The bath houses are equipped with ample showers as well as foot tubs filled with solution to kill athlete's foot. With wide sidewalks around the pool and a separate pool for young swimmers, it seems that every precaution has been taken.

"It is to be hoped that the remainder of the project calling for sidewalks and seats for spectators and the planting of shrubbery for beauty and to insure privacy will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

"Returning to the cost of swimming pools it might be of interest to note that town boards who realize that the greatest asset of any town is its young people and that the primary obligation of any town board is to secure for its citizens the utmost in healthy, happy living, are borrowing money to build swimming pools. These amounts range from $30,000 for towns the size of Greenville, S. C.

"The local pool was designed by Henry L. Rivers, C. E., and built under his supervision. The flood-lighting was installed by the Water & Light Commission."

2,000 BOTTLES OF JUMBO TO BE GIVEN FREE

M. O. Minges of the Orange-Crush Bottling Company, which company was recently awarded the franchise for bottling "Jumbo—A Super Cola" announced today that 2,000 bottles of Jumbo will be distributed free to readers of the Reflector.

"We are making this free gift offer," said Mr. Minges, "in appreciation for the tremendous amount of business we have received on this new drink from the people of Greenville and vicinity. No purchase whatever will be necessary. Presentation at any dealer's of the free coupon which we are publishing in today's Reflector will entitle anyone to a full size bottle of Jumbo absolutely free."

Mr. Minges believes that the road to more rapid business recovery in America will be found in supplying new and better products, and in giving greater value, as an inducement to increased buying and money turn-over. He sees in new and better products, as exemplified by "Jumbo—A Super Cola," the key to more rapid economic improvement.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK WHILE IN SWIMMING

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 9.—A heart attack is believed to have caused the death of T. C. Lindsey, locomotive engineer from Crews, Va., and Savannah, Ga., who failed to respond to two hours of resuscitation and inhalator treatment after being pulled from the water, while swimming two miles off Cape View.

Lindsey, accompanied by his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams and O. P. Wilkerson of Crews, left Norfolk with C. W. Sawyer, of Norfolk, aboard the latter's motor cruiser Tydee, for an all-day fishing trip.

While anchored for fishing, Lindsey jumped overboard for a swim, a thing he had done several times previously during the day. Suddenly, the party in the boat noticed that he had stopped swimming and immediately went to his assistance, pulling him into the boat.

STATE—FRIDAY!

Constance Cummings in "Looking For Trouble"

DOLLAR DAY DRAWS CROWDS

Those who each year take part in the event. The crowds today were augmented by additional hundreds during the afternoon hours and merchants reported goods were being moved rapidly.

Participating merchants carried Dollar Day cards in their display windows as guides to shoppers always in a hurry to find where bargains are being offered when they first hit town.

With tobacco season just around the corner, many out-of-town people were taking advantage of Dollar Day, realizing that they will have little time for shopping when the rush of marketing the golden crop gets under way. However, with the crop disposed of and dollars jangling in their pockets they are expected to provide themselves with necessities of life for the fall and winter months and other things needed to keep farm life moving normally until another harvest season rolls around.

CARL GOERCH WRECKS PLANE

Colliding with the bunker, the plane turned over on its top and let Carl Goerch dangling by his belly strap on the inside.

Seeing the predicament of the flier, gofers rushed to his rescue, turned the plane over and released Goerch from his rather uncomfortable position. Asked if he was hurt, Goerch replied: "Not on your life, this isn't the first time I've played such a foolish trick."

While a considerable portion of his gas leaked out while the plane was standing "bottoms up" it was turned over in time to prevent all of the gas from flowing out on the golf course.

Goerch is his own pilot and "everything," but it is a safe bet the next time he comes to Greenville he won't be in such a hurry; golf or no golf.

LOCAL POOL CHRISTENED BY BIG CROWD

on part of the city was unable to do so because of illness of the last several days, but he was among those present to take part in the christening.

Swimmers, who have been looking forward to completion of the project over a period of several months, derived as much enjoyment from their first plunge as they thought they would, and each hour, both afternoon and night, saw the pool well filled with coveting citizens seeking relief from the heat.

The pool was thrown open at 12 o'clock to allow citizens to inspect the plant, and numbers took advantage of this opportunity. The pool is located in a ravine, an ideal location for the project, and has been properly fenced in to afford protection for those standing on the outside watching the swimmers do their stuff below.

The row of brick bathhouses attracted considerable attention as did the filtering plant which is a guarantee of complete sanitation at all times. Below the main pool proper is a wading pool for those not so expert in the art of swimming, and numbers of kiddies splashed about in this throughout the afternoon, happy in the thought they had been provided for in the city's effort to give the city a recreational center during the summer.

With the inspection over a few minutes before 2 o'clock, the grounds were cleared for the brief opening exercises, and then swimmers made a rush for the bathhouses and later hit the water with shouts of joy.

Ample life-saving facilities have been provided to assure complete protection at all times. Life guards on duty at the pool all the time under the direction of Eric Tucker, manager, and Miss Evelyn Hart, manager of the ladies' department.

The pool and culvert erected for the drainage of the district adjacent to the pool cost approximately $35,000. The original cost was estimated at $29,000, but expenses continued to pile up as the project neared completion and the city fathers were told that an additional $5,000 would be necessary to complete work. This was provided with the city paying 70 of the cost instead of 57, as originally planned.

Citizens who attended the opening declared the money well spent, and now they have the pool they would not take several times the cost of erection because it is just what they wanted and should take care of the needs of the city for several years to come.

JOHNSTON COUNTY MAN DIES OF WOUNDS

Smithfield, Aug. 9.—Thurman Johnson, a 19-year-old boy of Elevation Township, is in jail, without the privilege of bail, awaiting hearing before Coroner Dr. E. N. Booker in connection with the death of Zab Lassiter, a prominent citizen of that community, who died from gunshot wounds inflicted by young Johnson.

Deputy Sheriff James A. Massey states that he received a call Tuesday night at about the midnight hour, informing him of the shooting of a man near the home of Mrs. Mary Langdon. He immediately summoned the coroner and upon arriving at the scene they found Mr. Lassiter dead and lying about forty steps from the back door of his home, in the edge of the corn field.

CHEAP HACK SAWS FAIL ON STEEL BARS

Elizabeth City, N. C., Aug. 9.—Two prisoners attempted to escape from the "bull pen" in the Pasquotank County jail Friday night. It was disclosed here today by Sheriff Charles Carmine. The attempt failed because cheap hacksaws blades made little inroads on the strong steel bars surrounding the "bull pen."

Sheriff Carmine said four hacksaws blades, of the ten-cent variety, were taken from the cell occupied by Cortez Stone, 18, charged with first degree burglary and with an attempt to enter a box car, and Ernest Caddy, 19, of Camden, charged with attempting to enter a box-car.

Sheriff Carmine said the two claimed the hacksaws were found in the cell.

AYDEN FALLS BEFORE STICK ATTACK HERE

Battling the ball all over the lot in the early parts of the game, Greenville yesterday trounced the league-leader Ayden club by the score of 6 to 4.

Wrenn went to the mound for the visitors, but was sent to the showers after the locals scored five of their six run-ins on his delivery. He was succeeded by Cesnovar, who tightened up and allowed only one more tally during the game.

"Lefty" Dean was the hero of the terrific stick onslaught in the first and second frames, accounting for a triple and double that figured largely in the scoring. Lambeth and Weaver, with two singles each, took second place. "Big" Miller, Ayden third-sacker, accounted for two hits for the visitors, while Wall, outfielder, walked away with fielding honors by making good several difficult chances.

"Ty" Wagner, Duke University star, who has been doing the catching for the locals all season, but who had been out of the line-up several days on account of an injury, was back in the game yesterday and did his part in the hitting attack as well as his usual work behind the bat.

Traylor did mound duty for Greenville. He yielded up ten hits, but they were so well scattered that only a few counted in the scoring. Greenville was credited with eight safeties, the majority of which were bunched in the first and second innings to give the locals a lead which apparently seemed to disconnect the visitors during the remainder of the way.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Cotton futures steady, one point lower to three points higher with buying on continued dry weather in the Western belt offset by quiet active profit taking. Offerings were absorbed quite readily at the opening prices and the market stiffened several points after the call. December sold up to 13.85 and March to 14.01, or about a point above the best prices of late yesterday and six to seven points above yesterday's closing.

Realizing continued and the market was four or five points off from the best at the end of the first half hour. December contracts later sold off to 12.63, or about 22 points from the high level of the morning, but the market met a renewed demand at this level and steadied later in the morning. At midday December was 13.78 and March 13.95, or about yesterday's closing quotations.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The stock market fell back cancelling yesterday's gains only to recover again under the leadership of the silver issues after news of the nationalization of silver today. Losses of one to two points were numerous in the morning, but the list turned dull as traders tried to liquidate silver issues.

In the early afternoon silver issues after wavering uncertainly on the first appearance of the news started up and most of these early losses in other divisions were cancelled or reduced to small fractions. Grains and cotton encountered profit-taking and bonds were heavy. Wall Street's early efforts to interpret silver nationalization were rather confused, but the action was not unexpected in view of the recent approach of the market price to 50 cents, the limits at which the Treasury could buy domestic stock other than newly mined metal. Transfers were 1,300,000 shares.

Germans Find Roman Theater

Frank-on-Main, Germany.—(AP)—Further excavations of a Roman theater uncovered at Heidenheim, near Frankfurt, in 1928, has established that it was a soldiers' theater, probably built in the first century. It is the first Roman military play-house in Germany.

S. C. BORDER LEAF SALES HIGH

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Farmers received prices nearly double those of last year for their tobacco here today.

Early sales ranged from $8 to $50 a hundred pounds and an average struck for the one hundred piles sold was $25.81 a hundred pounds. Last year's opening prices was $13.83 a hundred. Approximately 400,000 pounds were here today.

Private reports received from Greenville tobacco men on the South Carolina and North Carolina border leaf markets today said prices averaged from 23 to 25 cents a pound, twice as high as those prevailing last year.

B. B. Sugg and G. V. Smith wired from Mullins that sales there were not so heavy, but that quality was pretty good. They estimated the average at 23 cents a pound.

From Fairmont, K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales of the local market, said "after first half-hour of sales estimate average 22 to 25 cents a pound. Quality fair; large sales."

W. Z. Morton, who said he visited Lumberton, Fairmont and Whiteville, said the average was well above $20.00 per hundred pounds. "Quality," he said, "was only fair."

R. V. Keel wire: "Figured fifty pile lot of tobacco at Lumberton averaged $23.39 per hundred pounds; figures on tobacco on two floors at Fairmont, forty piles on one floor, averaged $21.83, and fifty-seven piles on another floor averaged $24.14 per hundred. Everybody pleased."

Valdosta, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A drop of 241 cents in the price of tobacco here yesterday marked the first day of the 1933 season when the local market fell below the parity price. This was apparent today when the figures for yesterday became public. The sales yesterday were 143,179 pounds for $120,581, an average of $18.73 cents per pound. The Hahira market sold 114,664 pounds for an average of 17.67 per pound, showing a drop from the previous day. At Tifton yesterday 452,314 pounds sold for an average of $21.63 per pound.

DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN TO YOU

NEW GOODRICH SILVERTOWN, THE ONLY TIRE WITH LIFE-SAVER GOLDEN PLY, PREVENTS THE GREAT CAUSE OF BLOW-OUTS AT HIGH SPEEDS

—Gives months of extra tire mileage FREE!

WHERE would you land if you had a blow-out? What would happen to you and your family? You might come out of it safe and sound. But isn't life too sweet to take chances? Especially when, year after year, thousands of people are being killed or injured when blow-outs throw cars out of control.

What causes blow-outs

Today, due to high-powered motors and whirlwind revolutions of small, modern wheels, the heat generated inside the tire is terrific. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms and grows—until BANG! A blow-out!

To protect you, every new Goodrich Silvertown has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This remarkable invention resists internal heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form inside the tire. The great, unseen cause of blow-outs is eliminated before it even begins.

No extra cost!

Remember, you pay no price premium for this extra safety, this extra mileage. Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with the Life-Saver Golden Ply cost no more than other standard tires. It's better to be safe than sorry. See your Goodrich dealer.
