Release Of Brewer Expected By Nightfall

CONTACT MADE WITH CAPTORS BY TELEPHONE

Ransom Money in Hands of Brother Of John Labatt, Ready For Delivery; Three Telephone Conversations Conducted With Kidnappers; New York Racketeers Believed Involved

Toronto, Canada, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Telephone contact was established early today with the kidnapers of John S. Labatt and his release on payment of $150,000 ransom is expected before nightfall.

The ransom money is already in the hands of the wealthy brewer's brother, Hugh, who engaged in three phone conversations with kidnapers between 1 and 3 o'clock this morning. The calls came to the hotel here where the brother of the 50-year-old London, Ontario, brewer had established headquarters.

After the third phone call the corridors of the hotel were cleared. It was indicated Hugh Labatt had made a rendezvous with kidnapers this morning in the second conversation. Labatt said: "I can't get out alone this morning. The corridor outside my room is full of people."

Soon there came the third insistent ring. "Should I answer it?" Labatt asked Chief Inspector Miller of Ontario police. "Yes," Miller replied.

The nature of this conversation was not revealed. Miller and Inspector Gurnett of the provincial police soon left the hotel, saying they were going to get some "shut-eye." Gurnett carried a note-book containing a list of telephone exchanges.

It was believed a check on the calls was under way. The term "New York racketeers" was used by Miller in a telephone conversation with another police official in which he reported on Labatt's calls. He also referred to a man named "Massey" from "Detroit."

Funeral services for John S. Edwards, 72, who died at his home on the Ram's Horn road at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, were conducted from the Red Banks Primitive Baptist Church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Elder J. B. Roberts and burial was made in the family burial ground, better known as the old Hardee graveyard, about a mile from the church.

The final rites were attended by a large crowd and a large floral tribute told in a mute way of the high esteem in which Mr. Edwards was held by people throughout the county.

Death followed illness of two months. He was one of the best known growers of the community in which he spent virtually all his life and contributed actively to the advancement of public life.

He was unmarried and is survived by the following nephews and nieces:

NEGRO THIEF SENT TO ROADS

Lawson Huggins Who Didn't Know Local Geography Sentenced in County Court

Lawson Huggins, negro, who because of his lack of knowledge of Greenville geography, jumped into an ash can in the shadows on the city jail when chased by the police, was sentenced to 90 days on the roads by Judge Dink James in County Court yesterday morning.

Huggins was charged with stealing a pair of shoes from R. E. Harris Company's store on Evans Street. A clerk saw the negro as he started to leave the store with the shoes and gave chase.

Huggins, running as fast as his legs would carry him, ran through the fire station about two blocks away, and dived into an ash can against the walls of the city jail in the hope of escaping his pursuers.

Police who had joined the chase walked up to the ash can, pulled the negro out and nearly caused him to jump out of his skin when they informed him he was at the very doors of the jail.

This was the only case disposed of in the second day sitting of the court which met the day before after a month's vacation. About thirty cases were completed with a number of the defendant's finding their way to the roads after their inability to pay fines imposed by the court.

The majority of cases consisted of charges of larceny, assault and violation of traffic and prohibition laws.

RAIL PENSION FUND ORDERED TO BE STARTED

Railroad Retirement Board Tells Roads to Pay Over Money to New Fund

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The railroad retirement board today ordered all class one railroads to immediately pay to the United States Treasurer one-tenth of one per cent of their payrolls for July to start the fund for the railroad pension law.

The assessment amounts to $125,000. Payments are to be made by August 25.

This order was forecast yesterday when attorneys for the board in combating an effort to the railroads to obtain an injunction against operation of the act until its constitutionality could be determined, stated that the board had prepared this order and another calling for the names of all employees who would reach the age of 70 by February 1, 1935.

Justice Proctor of the District of Columbia Supreme Court denied the railroads a temporary injunction.

CODE HEAD TO SPEAK FRIDAY

J. C. Lanier Scheduled to Make Address At Mass Meeting in Williamston

J. C. Lanier, of Greenville, Code Administrator of the loose leaf tobacco warehouse industry, will speak at a mass meeting in Williamston Friday, it was announced here today.

He will speak on the subject, "Development and Dangers of the Tobacco Situation."

The meeting is expected to be attended by two or three thousand tobacco growers, dealers and business and professional men of Martin and surrounding counties.

The administrator, who has addressed members of the tobacco warehouse associations in Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, is also scheduled to speak at a "community booster meeting" in Greenville next Monday night. His subject then will be in connection with the tobacco code recently placed in operation in Georgia and South Carolina and which will go into effect on local markets with the opening of the belt next Thursday.

Mr. Lanier said the code was being followed faithfully by members of the industry in the three States so far involved, and that it was proving beneficial both to members of the industry and growers.

He will visit the various markets of this great bright leaf market next week to see that provisions of the code are being carried out. It provides for fair trade practices, wages, etc., and was approved not only by members of the code authority but by President Roosevelt.

Six Convicts Escape From Richmond Pen

Richmond, Va., Apr. 16.—(AP)—Six long-term convicts who escaped from the State penitentiary today abandoned their stolen car about 30 miles from the city and took to the woods where State and county police claimed to have them surrounded.

Overpowering a lone guard at the rear of the women's quarters, the convicts forced the guard to unlock an outside door. Then carrying Mrs. Virginia Spencer, a matron across the yard as a shield, they scaled two fences, commandeered an auto and raced out of the city.

HOME LOANS PASS 5,000 MARK IN N. C.

$12,821,352 Disbursed Among Home Owners in North Carolina to Aug. 10

Salisbury, N. C., Aug. 16.—Loans closed by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation on homes throughout the State passed the 5,000 mark during the week which ended August 10. It was announced here last night by C. S. Noble, manager of the Corporation in the State. Mr. Noble's report showed that 5,033 had been closed and final papers sent to Washington, the amount disbursed being $12,821,352.31. These figures cover the operations of the Corporation since it was organized slightly more than a year ago.

Reviewing the work of the Corporation it was shown on the report that 28,740 appraisals had been completed up to August 10, and of the 17,620 applications received since the Corporation was organized all except 8,417 have been given final handling; 454 applications have been withdrawn by the applicants and 3,704 have been rejected for insufficient value, not within the law, or other reasons.

The report issued by Mr. Noble covered every phase of the Corporation's activities in the State from the initial appraisal to the final disbursement. It showed in addition to the loans already closed that in 957 cases checks and final papers are in the hands of the Corporation's closing attorneys in various counties of the State and disbursements will shortly be recorded in these cases. Complication of figures revealed, according to the report, that 52 per cent of all applications received in the past fifteen months had been handled to a definite conclusion, 6 per cent were in the hands of closing attorneys for disbursement and the remaining 42 per cent were still being handled in various stages from the initial appraisal to disbursement.

'TAG DAY' IS PUT ON HERE

Canvass is Being Made Today to Raise Funds For Local Ball Club

Today was "Tag Day" in Greenville and a bevy of pretty girls were selling tickets for $1 each to help boost the financial standing of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain League.

The main attractions of "Tag Day" was the ball game between Greenville and Ayden at Third Street school grounds which is expected to be attended by a tremendous crowd from both towns.

With Greenville leading Ayden for second place by a half game, the contest held more than passing interest to citizens of the two towns and probably the largest attendance of the season will be on hands to see the two clubs battle for supremacy.

With one more week to go before the closing of the league all clubs were putting their best foot forward this week to attempt to increase their strength in the standing of clubs. Greenville is a half game behind Kingston for first place, and as either club refuses to lose a game, the battle promises to be one of the most spectacular in recent years.

Persons appreciating the fine showing of the local club have been urged to buy dollar tickets this afternoon. The tickets will be good for gate and grandstand admission. It is hoped to raise sufficient money through the sales to lift the club off the red side of the ledger and put it in good shape for the ending of the season and the championship series.

R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who is in charge of club finances, said today that although attendance had been good here most of the season, the club had a deficit that had to be met between now and the close of the season, and it was for this reason "Tag Day" was inaugurated.

To Call General Strike

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The United Textile Workers of America today gave mandatory instructions to its executive council to call a general strike in the cotton textile industry on or before Sept. 1.

There were only ten dissenting votes to the resolution giving the strike instructions.

The action climaxed a turbulent session in which a fight developed between conservative factions of the delegates headed by Thomas S. McMahon, president of the union, and a group of insurgents led by Emil Reive, president of the Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, and who is a candidate to succeed McMahon. (Continued on page four.)

TO NAME NEW HEALTH HEAD HERE FRIDAY

Board of Health Committee to Select McGeachy Successor Tomorrow

A temporary successor to Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of public health in this county, will be chosen probably tomorrow, it was announced today by members of a committee selected by the Board of Health several days ago to provide a new health officer.

The committee is composed of Dr. Paul Fitzgerald, Dr. W. I. Wooten, and Dr. M. T. Frizzelle.

The Board of Health at its regular monthly meeting last week received the resignation of Dr. McGeachy with regret, and then named the committee to select a temporary successor to serve out sixty days before the naming of a permanent health head.

Dr. McGeachy, it was announced, the first of the week, will go to Halifax County Monday to take up his duties with the public health department of that county, and the successor will take charge here the same day.

Dr. McGeachy has been connected with the local department four years during which time he has played an important part in reducing disease through widespread health programs.

The committee was to have met today to name the temporary health officer, but pressing business affecting members of the body resulted in postponement of the meeting until tomorrow.

CARL GOERCH ROTE SPEAKER

Raleigh Magazine Publisher Speaks at Inter-City Meeting At Bayview

Carl Goerch, Raleigh magazine publisher and former Washington, N. C., newspaperman, delivered the principal address at the Inter-City meeting of Rotary Clubs at Bayview last night.

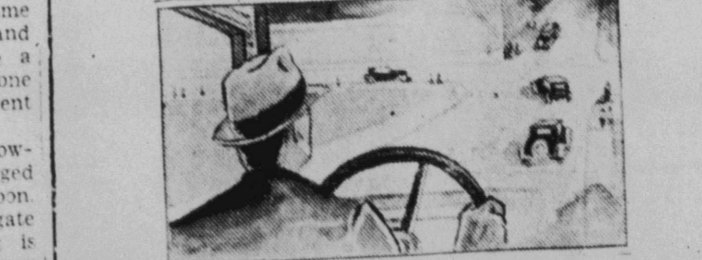

Mr. Goerch, referring to the possibilities of North Carolina, said the people did not realize the potentialities of their own State. He declared North Carolinians have every reason to be proud not only of their progress in various fields of endeavor, but because of the fact that they are not troubled by storms, drought and other disasters affecting other parts of the nation.

The talk was interspersed with considerable wit, the speaker being recognized for his ability as a humorist.

The address of welcome was made by John Bragaw, member of the Washington club, and the response was made by F. C. Harding, of Greenville. Edmund Harding, of the Washington club, was in charge of the singing.

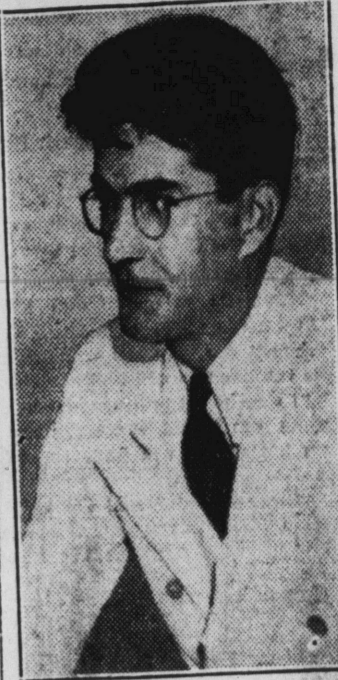

Attendance from some of the towns was described as good while others failed to live up to expectation.

LARGE CROWD AT CITY POOL

Last Wednesday Half Holiday Marked by Large Attendance of Swimmers

Greenville people yesterday celebrated the beginning of the second week of operation of the municipal swimming pool and probably one of the largest crowds of the week was on hand to pay tribute to the project built through funds provided by the government and city administration.

In view of the fact that yesterday officially marked the end of Wednesday half-holidays this summer, employees of various firms spent considerable time in the pool, seeking relief from the blistering temperatures prevailing throughout the day, especially during the afternoon.

Several hundred people have taken advantage of the pool since it was christened last Wednesday, and they are expected to visit the place daily during the remainder of the hot weather to enjoy the popular recreation.

The wading pool situated below the pool proper is also proving popular for children, and numbers may be seen paddling about every day, cooling the tiny bodies from the torrid temperatures.

Adequate life-saving facilities have been thrown about the pool, and even the most inexperienced swimmer may enjoy himself in safety.

Life-saving and swimming classes got under way the first of the week, and reports today were that scores were taking advantage of these features in the hope of preparing themselves for the greater opportunity of the pool next year.

Exclamation of surprise and pleasure have been heard from hundreds since opening of the pool. Everybody is convinced that the project is a boon to the city, and it is expected to play an important part in preventing annual loss of life caused by swimming in the treacherous currents of Tar River and other such places where no safeguard is thrown around public life.

Truck Operators Strike; Win Demands
Camden, N. C., Aug. 16.—A group of Camden County truck operators won a strike here when their demands for four instead of two cents a mile for each head of government cattle hauled to pasture lands were granted.

The government cattle, shipped to Camden from the drought-stricken West, arrived here Sunday morning, 185 hungry cattle in five railroad cars.

Mrs. O. N. Marshall, county relief administrator, had been authorized to pay two cents a head for each mile.

Seven drivers gathered about their trucks. Two of them began hauling. The other five simply remained where they were. Mrs. Marshall offered three cents a head. Still the five refused to move.

Then Mrs. Marshall called W. T. Mattox, district relief supervisor, who was in Elizabeth City at the time.

Mr. Mattox arrived on the scene in a short time, sized up the situation and agreed to pay four cents a mile for each head of cattle hauled. The five cars were unloaded by dark.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING BEING SOUGHT

New York Convention Of Textile Workers Declare They Are Considering General Walkout; Philadelphia Oil Strikers Appeal to National Labor Board; Police Guard Called in Chicago Strike

(By The Associated Press)
Threats of a general strike in the vast textile industry presented a fresh problem to government mediators today as negotiations for ending several strikes approached a climax.

Attacking the NRA, delegates to the New York convention of the United Textile Workers of America said they would consider calling a general strike in the industry unless collective bargaining were assured. Cotton, silk and rayon mills would be affected by such action.

Striking employees of the Gulf Refining Company in Philadelphia decided to appeal to the National Labor Board to force the company to accede to their demands.

The strikers struck "in protest" against the discharge of a number of workers.

In Pittsburgh a government conciliator sought a conference with officials of the Aluminum Company of America. He already has listened to the striking aluminum workers' complaints, has heard their demands for collective bargaining contract with the company.

A heavy police guard was under call in Chicago to prevent possible disorders resulting from strike of union drivers of the Chicago Motor Coach Company.

Disputants in the Minneapolis protracted truck drivers' strike awaited action of the National Labor Board on a request for immediate action to determine which organization the drivers want to represent them in collective bargaining.

With about 4,000 fishermen and cannery employees deadlocked in a wage controversy, salmon swam safely up the Columbia River in Oregon.

PUSH CANNING WORK IN PITT

Relief Canneries Put Aside 12,000 Cans of Food For Winter Consumption

Approximately 12,000 cans of foodstuffs for relief work during the approaching winter have been placed on shelves in Pitt County, it was made known today from the Welfare Department, in charge of canning operations throughout the county.

With plants operating full time, it was expected the total would be greatly increased by the end of the canning operations in September, it was stated.

Canning work is being carried on at plants in Greenville and Farmville and community groups in several hundred individual canners contributing their part toward holding the bad, bad wolf away from their doors during the winter.

Figures provided by the department today, including operations up to last Thursday, showed 5,967 cans at Greenville and Farmville plants, 4,697 among community groups and 1,260 among individual canners.

Canning is being conducted through funds provided by the government for emergency relief, and is expected to play an important part in providing for the destitute and needy during the year.

The plants in Greenville and Farmville have been in operation about two months now, and hundreds of people were said to have taken advantage of the opportunity to place their surplus foodstuffs away for future consumption.

Operations are probably the most extensive in the history of the county and compare favorably with similar relief activities being conducted in other parts of the country in an effort to more completely meet relief demands.

TIGER ISLAND

A New Serial by Gouverneur Morris

SYNOPSIS: The Chinese captain Wong Bo and the American radio operator Flint are joint owners of the disreputable tramp freighter "Boldero," and plan to scuttle her for the insurance. Angus McLeod, catcher of wild animals, is aboard with a menagerie. He is stricken with appendicitis and the "Boldero" puts in at a small Dutch port en route to Singapore. Harvey Bowers, big game hunter, comes aboard with the port doctor.

Chapter Two
SCOT IN TROUBLE

"UNDERSTAND," Bowers said, "that you are on your way to Singapore, and only put in here because of sickness."

"It's McLeod!" exclaimed Flint. "The animal catcher. Appendix, I guess."

"And what's the plan?" asked Bowers. "Do you leave him here and then go right on to Singapore?"

"Shouldn't wonder," said Flint. "At least, we will be heading that way, but you can't tell how long an old tub like this will hold together."

"I want to get to Singapore in the worst way," said Bowers; "and I am hoping you will have room for me."

"Room enough," said Flint. "But you'd be damned uncomfortable."

"You and me," said Bowers.

HAVING diagnosed McLeod's trouble, Van Reuter almost automatically began to prepare an injection of morphine. While he was "Your ship looks like Aladdin's palace," said Bowers.

"I don't believe you know what it is to be uncomfortable. I have been a year in the jungle. Your ship looks like Aladdin's palace to me."

"This awful smell!" objected Flint.

"I like it," said Bowers. "The fact is, I want to get to Singapore, and I don't care how I get there."

"What's so nice about Singapore?" asked Flint.

"It's the lights," said Bowers, with a quick wink of one eye. "I feel a great need of lights. Lots and lots of white lights, and a sprinkling of red ones. I invite you to dine with me our first night ashore. Is it a bargain?"

"It would be swell," said Flint, and his enthusiasm was genuine.

But for various reasons he did not wish Harvey Bowers to sail on the "Boldero." Flint knew he to be a doomed ship. He liked Bowers at first sight, but Bowers did not fit into the scheme of things. He could be nothing but a complication.

On the other hand, if the port authorities made a point of it, they would have to give him a berth. Flint and Captain Wong Bo could not afford to take any stand which might arouse suspicion.

ANGUS McLEOD had heard the rasp of the doctor's launch alongside, the approaching voices of Wong Bo and Van Reuter, and their steps along the deck.

This, as is often the case with a sick man, distracted him from his pain and gave him a moment's optimism. With the coming of scientific help, his own responsibilities toward himself were ended.

"Well," said Van Reuter cheerfully, "what seems to be the matter?"

McLeod, who had been writing considerably in his discomfort, and was now lying flat on his back, touched his right side lightly with the tips of his fingers, and made an attempt to be gallant and humorous.

"Whatever it may be, Doctor," he said, "it is one of the few things of which I am possessed, that I would be glad to part with."

Van Reuter smiled in response to McLeod's mood, and went down on one knee.

both in numbers and reputed effectiveness.

A comparative table compiled from the best information available shows the United States with a grand total of 2,739 military planes; Japan, 2,659 planes; the British Empire, 2,398; and Italy, 2,203. It is estimated that Russia's military planes number around 3,000, though actual statistics have not been made public.

Germany is prohibited from having military airplanes by the treaty of Versailles. Non-military aviation in that country is rated among the world's best.

U. S. Has Advantage

Two highly important factors work to the advantage of the United States in building a strong air defense—the natural barriers against large scale air invasion afforded by the great expanses of the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans and the potential military aviation reserve in the form of a commercial aviation far ahead of any other nation's.

The United States, with 8,800 airplanes and 13,722 pilots, has a civil air reserve about twice as large as the combined civil fleets of the other great powers. American transport planes are rated superior in design and performance, and its air-line pilots are believed to be the most highly trained.

The investigation committee headed by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, points out that military aviation in time of war must rely in large measure upon airplanes built in time of war, due to rapid obsolescence and possible heavy plane mortality. Consequently the general condition and productive capacity of the aircraft industry are of national concern.

Uses of Planes

The committee held that while the industry has not yet reached a standard of productive efficiency essential to national defense, no other power could exceed the highly industrialized United States in plane-producing capacity.

Combat strength of the army air corps is represented chiefly by three types of craft—bursuit, attack and bombardment planes.

The pursuit planes are fast, especially at high altitudes, are easily maneuvered to twist and dodge in combat, and can climb to 20,000 or 30,000 feet with a full load of machine guns, ammunition and oxygen equipment for the pilot.

Attack planes must have good visibility as they are used in "hedge hopping," spraying enemy troops with machine gun bullets and dropping small 25-pound fragmentation bombs. Often they do not fly over 200 feet high during an entire mission.

The army bomber is a powerful, multi-motored planes with large cruising radius. Equipped for night flying, it carried a pilot, a co-pilot who serves as mechanic, a bomber who also acts as a mechanic gunner, another machine gunner and a radio operator.

Pride of the navy air force are its "fighters," representing the maximum in performance, maneuverability and gunnery and said to be the finest naval planes of their type in the world.

The investigation committee headed by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, points out that military aviation in time of war must rely in large measure upon airplanes built in time of war, due to rapid obsolescence and possible heavy plane mortality. Consequently the general condition and productive capacity of the aircraft industry are of national concern.

Uses of Planes

The committee held that while the industry has not yet reached a standard of productive efficiency essential to national defense, no other power could exceed the highly industrialized United States in plane-producing capacity.

Combat strength of the army air corps is represented chiefly by three types of craft—bursuit, attack and bombardment planes.

The pursuit planes are fast, especially at high altitudes, are easily maneuvered to twist and dodge in combat, and can climb to 20,000 or 30,000 feet with a full load of machine guns, ammunition and oxygen equipment for the pilot.

Attack planes must have good visibility as they are used in "hedge hopping," spraying enemy troops with machine gun bullets and dropping small 25-pound fragmentation bombs. Often they do not fly over 200 feet high during an entire mission.

The army bomber is a powerful, multi-motored planes with large cruising radius. Equipped for night flying, it carried a pilot, a co-pilot who serves as mechanic, a bomber who also acts as a mechanic gunner, another machine gunner and a radio operator.

Pride of the navy air force are its "fighters," representing the maximum in performance, maneuverability and gunnery and said to be the finest naval planes of their type in the world.

Smithfield, N. C., Aug. 16.—Night Police officer E. A. Johnson has just picked up and turned over to Virginia authorities N. S. Goddard, a white man, about thirty years of age, who was driving a Ford car.

Goddard's actions excited the suspicions of the officer, who ascertained that Goddard is an escaped convict, having recently been convicted of robbery and given a term of seven years in prison from the Superior Court of Martin County.

He escaped on last January 20 while engaged in serving his sentence and he has already a previous escape to his credit. According to the evidence, Goddard went to Norfolk while on his last scouting expedition and took the Ford, the property of Richard C. Williams, while the owner was working on a night shift for the Ford Motor Company.

Smithfield, N. C., Aug. 16.—A. P. Stephenson, a white farmer, who lives in Pleasant Grove Township, was placed on trial in the Superior Court Tuesday upon a bill of indictment previously charging him with the larceny of about one thousand dollars in cash from his sister, Mrs. Follie Stephenson.

The defendant entered a plea of nolo contendere and was sentenced to serve a term of two years in the State Prison, with directions of the court that upon admission to the prison he be examined by the prison physician.

This case grows out of the habit of some people to hide their money instead of keeping it in the bank. Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Aug. 16.—Damage estimated from $20,000 to $35,000 was done to the local power plant Sunday night when transformers and other machinery went up in flames.

The accident happened between 11 and 12 o'clock, putting the town in total darkness for several hours. Almost the entire section was affected by the unusual occurrence.

Having no power to shut down the power gates at the dam, water deluged the interior of the plant. All textile mills were compelled to cease operations.

However, a fast-working crew soon had a temporary system operating, and lights flashed on. It will be some time, it is said, before transformers and other machinery can be replaced.

Keeping constantly before them the thought that heat is the greatest enemy of tire life, tire engineers of the U. S. Rubber Co. succeeded in cooling the 1934 U. S. Royal by 30 per cent, with the result that it gives more miles, is safer, and is freer from ordinary tire troubles.

By improving the method of making tempered rubber, the engineers obtained a compound that generates less heat than did even the 1933 U. S. Royal. Mr. R. N. Freeman of Standard Motor Parts Co., local U. S. tire dealer, said: "We conservatively estimate this reduction of heat to be approximately 30 per cent. This improvement results in a substantial increase in mileage over our 1933 tire."

This cooler running tire also lessens the destroying heat action against the carcass and the tread itself, and does not increase the burden on the bead, with the result that the 1934 Royal is a much safer tire. The cooler tire, at the same time is tougher and has a far greater resistance to punctures, cuts and bruises.

Pigs' Birthdays By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "Wish me many happy returns of the day and give me a present of something to eat," grunted one pig. "It's my birthday and food is the best gift in the world," squealed a second pig.

"I want to celebrate my birthday too," said a third pig. "Don't bother about a cake and candles and a party the way children do. Just let me enjoy myself in my simple pig-gish fashion with a quiet meal."

"You don't need to say 'Happy Birthday' to me," said a fourth pig. "Hand me something to eat."

"I like to have my back scratched," grunted a fifth pig, "but I do need to have even that much fuss made over me on my birthday. A good dinner is enough for me."

"Grunt, grunt, do me honor on my birthday, give me gifts of food," squealed a sixth pig. "Food, food, grunt, grunt, it's my birthday," grunted another pig. "A meal, a meal, squeal, squeal," squealed an eighth pig, "and you needn't bother about toys, games, books or any nonsense such as some creatures want—I'm not mentioning any names."

"It's my birthday!" "It's mine!" "It's mine."

Such was the grunting and squealing speeches made by all the pigs. "You can't all be having birthdays together!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "Lots of you are of different sizes and ages."

The little guinea-like man with the sticking-out ears looked at them all in amazement. He had never heard of such a thing.

LOCALS ROUT SNOW HILL IN STICK SPREE

Snow Hill, N. C., Aug. 16.—Greenville ran its winning streak to seven games by routing Snow Hill, 18 to 5, here yesterday. As Kinston also won, the Greensies remained half a game below the league lead.

The fast-traveling Greensies, continuing their stretch bid for a place in the league's championship play-off, banked sixteen hits to roll up their high score here yesterday. Ty Wagner, Greenville catcher, paced his team's attack by hitting homers on two of his four trips to the plate.

Griffin and Newsome were the leaders in the ten-hit attack of the locals. Each made three hits in five chances.

The Greenville's big inning was the eighth, a stanza in which they pushed over half their runs.

It was Greenville's second win in a row over Snow Hill. The Greensies collided with the locals after taking four straight from Ayden. Their current winning streak was started August 7 when they defeated Tarboro, 4 to 2.

Yesterday's batteries: Greenville—Green, Traylor and Wagner; Snow Hill—Stewart, Newsome, Silvery and Royce.

KINSTON WINS

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 16.—Every Kinston player had a share in a 16-hit attack which brought the locals a 13 to 2 victory over New Bern here yesterday. Ted Bolger, Kinston flinger, allowed only six hits as he turned in his fifth consecutive victory.

Feele, with two triples and a double, led Kinston's attack. Hayworth hit a double and two singles to rank next. Rogers, Kinston's hard-hitting pitcher-outfielder, added another home run to his list.

Norwood made half of New Bern's safeties.

Flythe started on the mound for New Bern, but retired after he had been reached for eight hits and seven runs in four innings. Shippen took over the pitching duties. H. Ferebee and Covington caught for New Bern. Tatum caught for Kinston.

AYDEN ENDS LOSS STREAK

Ayden, N. C., Aug. 16.—Ayden out-slugged Tarboro to get a 9 to 8 victory yesterday and bring to an end a losing streak which had reached seven games.

Yesterday's victory was the first for Ayden in league play since August 3 when the locals took a 3-1 victory over New Bern.

The losing streak had been especially disastrous since two games were dropped to Kinston and four were lost to Greenville, two clubs which now head the locals in the league race.

Yesterday's affair was a free-hitting contest. Shields and Doug Johnson pitched and Doc Smith caught for Ayden. Steinkne and Skipper pitched and Richardson caught for Tarboro.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

How great were the old Baltimore Orioles, one of the greatest of whom, "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson, has lately passed into the shadows to join most of his team-mates in baseball's Valhalla?

The question can never be satisfactorily answered, because of the sharp changes in the game. "Uncle Robbie" himself was willing to admit he thought the New York Yankees of 1921-1923 were greater. Certainly they had more power. The old Orioles, for speed, smartness and skillful all-around play, perhaps never have been rivaled, unless it was by Connie Mack's great 1910-1914 machine.

It is unique that New Hanlon, the manager of that famous Baltimore club, National League champions of 1894-5-6, is still alive, surviving all but a scattered few of the players who helped him achieve undying fame and who subsequently contributed brilliant chapters to the history of baseball's leadership.

Sadie McManon, a pitching ace of the Orioles, Walter Brodie and Joe Kelly, outfielders, and Bill Clarke and Frank Bowerman, underdogs, to "Robbie" as catchers, are still alive. So is Jack Dodie, who succeeded the great Dan Bronners at first base. But the names that loom largest in the game's history—John McGraw, Hughie Jennings, Willie Keeler, Kid Gleason, Brothers and Robinson—have passed on.

Just Who Was Who
There were so many changes made by Hanlon in the Orioles that a good deal of confusion has surrounded the make-up of that famous club. From A. H. Spink's book on "The National Game," written in 1910, I have extracted notes and comment on the "old and genuinely original" Baltimore Orioles," wrote Spink, "which originated many of the great inside plays and tricks of the national game. There is no question but that this was the greatest combination of talent and brains the baseball world ever saw. McGraw, Jennings, Keeler, Joe Kelly Philadelphia Nationals, comes forward and the greatest catcher of them ward with an explanation for his all, Robinson, belonged to this wonderful team. Big Dan Brothers on first, Henry Reitz on second, Jennings at short and one 'Kid' McGraw at third, made up an infield the like of which had never been seen up to 1894, nor has there ever been lined up since, four men who were so great in their respective positions.

"Brothers was a giant in size and strength, one of the most dangerous batsmen of those days. In the line-up it was always big Dan 'in the hole' to pull them out. Reitz was fast as lightning as a fielder and every trick on the bases. He, with Jennings working to his right, made up a pair possessed of extraordinary fielding talent. Both lads were there when it comes to cleaning up the bases.

McGraw a 'Rabbit'

"Over at third stood a little, quiet, graceful fellow, 'Kid' McGraw. In those days the now famous leader of the New York Giants was not much bigger than a rabbit. He weighed about 110 pounds and didn't appear strong enough to bat the ball out of the infield. But he fooled them all and has been fooling them all ever since.

"Then there was the greatest outfielder of them all covering left garden, Joe Kelly. Kelly, with Walter Brodie and a young man named William Keeler—'hit 'em where they ain't Willie'—made up that most famous of famous outfielders.

"The pitchers were Kid Gleason, W. V. Hawke, Charles Esper, George Hemming, and Sadie McManon. Frank Bonner was a substitute infielder and Bill Clarke a substitute backstop. Robinson generally played in the infield when not backstopping."

They put Gene Sarazen, the "king of clubs," back into the middle of the deck at the seventh annual P. G. A. championship in Buffalo.

Al Watrous, the Detroit veteran, got the credit for it, but Sarazen himself had a lot to do with his own elimination in the second round.

For the last year Gene has been taking the game lightly. Last Winter while stationed in Florida he took a keen interest in aviation. Later when he made an exhibition tour of South America with Joe Kirkwood they covered their itinerary by air.

Then he turned to farming. Strictly speaking he's a gentleman-farmer. He bought a site in Brookfield Center, Conn., where he and his wife live. He purchased a few head of cattle.

With the farm uppermost in his mind, he went to the National open at Merion and "below" his chances of winning the title by taking a seven on the par four eleventh hole.

After that it was the British open and then a barnstorming tour through Europe. He finished some nineteen strokes in back of Henry Cotton and his projected tour was a financial flop. So he was ordered back to America by the Chicago sporting goods concern that sponsored his European trip.

The Lambs 'Got' Him
As defending champion, he didn't have to qualify. He barely got by his first round encounter with Herman Barron and appeared to have got straightened out.

He went to a dinner party that night and some kindly disposed butler presented him a pair of lambs. He frolicked with them on his host's lawn. After the party he took the animals back to the Park club, tied them to a nearby tree and slept in the first aid tent along the first hole. The lambs cried about 4 a. m. So Gene took them for a

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, seven to eight points advance on higher Liverpool cables and reports that the processing tax was under official discussion in Washington.

The market seemed to be meeting some cotton from houses with Liverpool connections as well as some local and New Orleans selling which held the advance in check and prices at the end of the first half hours were five to eight points higher with December selling at 13.88.

The market was quiet later in the morning with prices sagging off slightly at midday. December was around 13.65 and May 13.91, or about three to six points net higher.

The market reacted later in the day under increased liquidation and scattered selling futures, closing heavily steady four to seven points lower. Spots quiet; middling 13.50.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A quiet buying movement gave the stock market the best upturn so far this week today.

The market was still sluggish, but selling virtually vanished and buyers found it was necessary to reach for stocks.

Commodities firmed with wheat and hogs again assuming the leadership, the latter reaching the best levels since September 1, 1931. The bond market was irregular and higher and foreign exchanges about steady.

Modest gains were held by S. Steel, Western Union, Postal Telegraph, New York Central, Chrysler and American Telephone.

Strike At Penitentiary.
New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Welfare Island penitentiary was in a state of siege today with 15,000 prisoners locked in their cells following a strike.

So well was the situation handled by the prison staff that word of what had occurred did not leak out until the prisoners were brought under control.

The entire prison population went without lunch as a result of the revolt, while Austin J. McCormack, commissioner of correction and his deputy, David Marcus, interviewed the prisoners to learn the cause of insubordination.

Tobacco Strong In S. C.
Lake City, S. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The tobacco market here was strong today with about 450,000 pounds on the floors.

Sales indicated the average of the day would be around $24 a hundred. Yesterday's official sales figures were 393,520 pounds at an average of $23.18.

Good tobacco was selling at a premium but the quantity of low grades offered brought down the average.

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—One banker has been appointed in each state to serve as liaison officer between the banking institutions and the Federal Housing Administration forces in carrying out the government program for housing, repairs and modernization, the American Bankers Association announced today.

The appointments have been made to insure "the fullest co-operation by banks throughout the country with the housing program," said Robert V. Fleming, second vice-president of the association. The appointees were selected by the State Banking Association.

S. S. Lawrence, of the branch Banking and Trust Company of Wilson, was chosen for North Carolina.
