All are accused of harboring and concealing the notorious gangster. The physicians are Dr. Wilhelm Loeser and Dr. Harold Bernard Cassidy. Piquett, a criminal defense attorney, was the man who planned the defense of Dillinger on the murder charge of Crown Point, Indiana, before Dillinger talked his way out of jail with a wooden gun. At the time of the escape Piquett had said Dillinger walked out on him too.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO CRASH

V. A. Merritt, Wife, And Two Children Injured, The Former Probably Seriously

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Merritt and two children of this city, were injured in an automobile wreck on the Greenville Winterville highway this morning, but full details of the crash were not available this afternoon, in view of the fact that the highway patrol had not completed checking the accident. Mr. Merritt was confined in a local hospital suffering from severe lacerations, probably cracked skull, broken hip and fractured hand. He was the most seriously injured, although Mrs. Merritt was reported to be suffering from abrasions and contusions. The children escaped with only a few minor abrasions, it was stated.

From all information obtainable here, the Merritt car was in collision with a machine driven by a driver whose name had not been determined. Both machines were badly damaged by the impact. Although seriously hurt, it was said Mr. Merritt probably would recover barring complications. Mrs. Merritt and the children were able to return home after receiving medical attention. Mr. Merritt is operator of the local Delco agency.

CARY MAN ON RAMPAGE WINDS UP ON ROADS

Cary, Sept. 1.—Edgar Thompson was tried before Magistrate J. B. Danley in Raleigh Thursday for disorderly conduct and sent to the roads for 30 days.

Thompson, Wednesday night while on a spree, went into the dining room of his sister-in-law, threw the food which was on the table at the children, broke the dishes, drove his fist, which he cut very badly, through a glass door, and then beat Mrs. Thompson severely.

Her 13-year-old son started out to get a policeman and Edgar threatened to beat him to death if he did not come back, but Mrs. Thompson seized a butcher knife and demanded that he leave the boy alone.

After a long chase through the woods chief of police J. C. Griffin succeeded in catching Thompson near Morrisville and took him to the Wake County jail.

HEAVY LEAF SALE FRIDAY

Tobacco Market Cleas Floor in Preparation For Heavier Offerings Monday

Sales were comparatively heavy on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday but floors were cleared during the late afternoon in preparation for larger offerings Monday morning when the market resumes business after the week-end holiday.

The official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public this morning revealed that the market sold 1,235,168 pounds of tobacco for $313,131.44 at an average of $25.35 per hundred pounds.

Mr. Cobb called attention of growers to advice given out by members of the tobacco industry the first of the week urging the careful grading of leaf before it is placed on the market. Mr. Cobb said it was necessary that all leaf be free of strings and other foreign matter if growers receive the best prices now being paid by the market.

Resumption of sales Monday will mark the beginning of the third week of sales in this bright leaf belt and offerings of leaf are expected to be as large if not larger than during the present week. A pronounced improvement in the quality of tobacco to be offered is also anticipated.

Farmers have expressed appreciation with the price improvement this season and are looking forward to having some extra money to jingle in their pockets the end of the season, if the price situation holds as it is now, and it is expected to do so.

Late News Flashes

Hope To Avert Strike. Washington, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Optimism that a settlement might be reached to avert the textile strike was expressed today by Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the National Labor Board shortly after silk mill workers had been ordered to join their colleagues in the cotton, woolen and worsted industries.

Garrison made the statement during a brief recess in a conference with Thomas McMahon president of the United Textile Workers, and Emil Rieves, president of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers.

"We are still exploring the possibility of averting the strike," Garrison said of the conference. "If all sides agree I may have an important announcement in an hour." Garrison told news men he thought there still was a "distinct possibility of averting the strike."

Students Block Traffic

Havana, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Demonstrating students blocked all traffic around the University of Havana for several hours today by sniping at police from university windows but early in the afternoon they began surrendering in small groups to police armed with rifles who released those they found unarmed.

The students appeared to be abandoning their stronghold after several spurts of firing around the noon hour.

FILE ORDER FOR CATTLE

Two Hundred Heads Of Drought Animals Sought For Pasture Lands in Pitt

An order for 200 heads of drought cattle for this county was in the office of the Emergency Relief Administration today and was expected to be acted on in the near future.

R. L. Little, director of farm relief in this county, said today the order seeking the cattle and also showing about 1,000 acres of pasture land available in this county had been filed in Raleigh with the hope of receiving some early action.

Mr. Little said Pitt county people should file a petition for one of the meat canneries being erected by the government in various parts of the state to take care of the slaughtered drought animals, and urged immediate action. He said the resources for such a plant were as great here in Pitt as anywhere else in the state and has already brought the matter to the attention of federal authorities.

When the shipment of cattle first started, Pitt county was unable to show sufficient pasture land at the first blush, but later check showed at least a thousand acres in splendid shape for taking care of the starving drought creatures.

Persons interested in the canning plant have been urged by Mr. Little to get in touch with state relief forces and urge that an allotment be made to this county immediately.

Five Persons Die In Crash Of Airplane

Oregon, Mo., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Twisted and charred wreckage marked the roadside spot today where a woman and four men crashed to their death last night in storm ridden transport plane.

Low hanging clouds that loosened rain and lightning over northwest Missouri blocked the path of a tri-motored ship of the Rapid Air Lines on its way from Omaha and it roared into an embankment, bursting into flames.

NAB INSANE PRISONER IN ROCKY MOUNT

One of Seven Who Escaped From State Prison Back Behind The Bars

Raleigh, Sept. 1.—(AP)—N. F. Goddard, one of the seven persons who escaped from the criminal insane ward at State hospital here Wednesday morning, was returned to the institution this morning.

Goddard was recaptured in Rocky Mount by police led by Assistant Chief Paul Zimmerman. He was located in the home of Ephus Blount near the city. Blount told police that he recognized the convict, took him home and put him to bed. Later he called officers. The experienced no trouble in arresting him.

With the return of Goddard only four of the seven insanes remained at large. Joe Stafford and Tom Jackson, two of the original seven were recaptured in Johnson County Thursday.

Dr. J. W. Ashby, superintendent of the hospital, said Goddard told him that Ed Deaver, leader of the group who fled from the hospital, asked him if he would like to escape. Goddard was said by Dr. Ashby to have been one of the four inmates who brandished rocks and other similar weapons demanded keys from guards while they were eating their midnight supper and opened the cells of three other prisoners.

LIGHTNING DAMAGES EVERY ROOM IN HOUSE

Newton, Sept. 1.—The four-room house of Jim Moose, who lives in south Newton, is almost a complete wreck as a result of being struck by lightning during a severe electric storm about 12 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. Moose and the other five members of his family were asleep in the house when it was struck, but no one was injured by the bolt.

The numerous visitors to the home cannot understand how any member of the family escaped uninjured or killed since the bolt damaged every room in the house except the kitchen. Mr. Moose and one son were asleep in a northeast room which was damaged worse than any of the others. The whole northeast corner of the house at the head of his bed was torn off.

OVER-MARRIED MAN IS HELD FOR NON-SUPPORT

Lexington, Sept. 1.—B. Frank Touchstone, who left here four years ago after he had been acquitted on a charge of bigamous cohabitation following his alleged marriage in Georgia to a Salisbury woman, has been arrested in Granite City, Ill., on a charge of abandonment and non-support. He left a large family here when he disappeared after his trial. Touchstone was using the name of W. F. Storey, according to word received at the sheriff's office here. He has waived extradition and a Davidson county officer started for the western town today to bring the prisoner here for trial. Touchstone, a former Greenville, S. C. man, was district representative for a large oil heating concern before he became involved in marital difficulties.

Krane and wife and Mrs. Krane's brother, Clinton Beasley, held in connection with the kidnapping of Ogolia Barber and Josephine Smith and taking them to New York to lead lives of immorality are still in jail here, having been unable to give bond. They and five others will be tried at the October term of court beginning October 15.

TWO HELD IN THEFT HERE

Negro Youths Sent to Juvenile Court After Arrest on Larceny Charges

Two little negroes, just slightly beyond the pickanniny stage, were turned over to Juvenile court authorities today on a charge of theft of an automobile battery here this week and selling it for 25 cents.

James Hines and Lonnie Waddell, each about 11 years old, were picked up by police and told where they had sold the battery, stolen from a truck parked in a local tobacco warehouse.

They were too young to be prosecuted in police court this morning and Mayor R. C. Flanagan ordered them sent on to Juvenile court for final disposition.

Waddell, police said, had been before the court for a similar offense in recent years and it was expected Juvenile court authorities would deal more severely with him than with Hines who is making his first bow to police circles.

Police have been troubled considerably by youthful thieves here in recent years and only a short time ago rounded up a band held responsible for a series of minor robberies perpetrated among local business houses.

The Texas chiefs of police and city marshals' union has renewed its campaign for a State Bureau of Criminal Identification.

JAMES HEADS KIWANIS CLUB

Mayor R. C. Flanagan Principal Speaker at Regular Meeting Here Last Night

Dink James, judge of County court, was elected president of the Kiwanis club at the regular meeting of the organization at the Woman's club building last night. He was chosen to fill the unexpired term of Dr. R. S. McGeachy, who resigned the first of the month to take over the direction of public health work in Halifax county.

J. C. Galloway was elected to the vice-presidency, a position vacated by Judge James when he was elevated to the higher office.

James expressed appreciation of the honor and paid tribute to the leadership of men who had gone before him. He pledged his best efforts to carry on to greater achievements.

In addition to the election of the two officers, the Kiwanians heard a rousing speech by Mayor R. C. Flanagan in which he explained the movement on foot among various cities of the state to obtain a portion of $5,000,000 surplus from the State Highway commission for street improvement.

The mayor told the Kiwanians the movement was being conducted through the North Carolina Municipal League, of which all important towns and cities are members. He said a bill would be prepared for presentation to the next legislature seeking transfer of the sum.

Speaking of street improvements recently made through funds which the federal government apportioned to this state, Mayor Flanagan said they were not sufficient to care for the needs of the various cities which are constantly paying money into the state highway department funds through usual channels of taxation and should get some of it back in street improvements.

The clubmen passed a resolution endorsing the plan and this will be presented to members of the legislature from this city so that they may be aware of the position of membership at the next meeting of the General Assembly. Members of the committee are W. A. Darden, H. H. Duncan and Hosenberry W. H. Duncanson.

The mayor was in charge of the program. The mayor and members of the club were complimented by Mr. Woodard for their ability to meet all city obligations during the depression and to enter the red side of the ledger.

Group singing was led by C. B. Rowlett with Mrs. Ray Tyson at the piano.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY SENTENCED TO DEATH

Rocky Mount, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Booker T. Watson, 15-year-old Negro, convicted of killing Hinesy T. Williams, prominent Wilson county planter, today was sentenced to die on October 26 by Judge W. A. Devin presiding over Nash county court.

The shooting took place at the farmer's hog pen just inside the Nash county line in July. Williams, who employed the Negro as a tenant, ordered him from his yard when the Negro cursed his son, the witness said, and Watson returned a few minutes later with a shotgun and inflicted fatal wounds.

Whether the walkout will be extended to the 200,000 silk and rayon industry workers—becoming then a great general textile strike—hinges on new negotiations.

The union has called out 425,000 cotton workers and 100,000 wool and worsted workers from about 1,500 mills in 21 states, most of them in the east; the managements say not more than 15 per cent will strike.

Developments: Washington—Hope of averting the walkout abandoned. Strike leaders warn against communist agitators. National Labor Board seeks early settlement.

MERCY MAY KILL

(News and Observer)

"He is one man who should have died in the electric chair," said Judge N. A. Sinclair, of Ed Deaver, who escaped electrocution for cold-blooded murder because the Governor judged him mentally incompetent and who is now at large after leading six other insane criminals to freedom from the State Hospital for the Insane.

"He started acting crazy," Judge Sinclair said, "after he came to death row, but during the trial he displayed the calmness that identified a killer. He certainly had sense enough to act crazy."

If Deaver was not crazy, he put on a good act. His jabbering and giggling is still remembered at the State Prison. While he jabbered there were some who thought he was "crazy like a fox," but the Governor was convinced that he was too insane to be executed. So once more today the State is menaced by a killer at large. If Deaver is not crazy, he got mercy by fraud. If he is crazy, he may kill again as he killed before.

"Sunshine" Jones, little, black killer, was also too crazy to be executed. So he was sent to the Hospital for Negro Insane at Goldsboro, from which he had sense enough to escape and, later, to attack a prominent Durham citizen into whose home he had broken. Ed Deaver was too crazy to be executed. But he had sense enough to pick locks which State Hospital officials in their sane innocence thought could not be picked. Today he is somewhere in North Carolina armed, as defense against punishment for any crimes which his twisted mind may lead him to commit, by the judgment of mental incompetence in the Governor's clemency.

Dreadful as must be the responsibility of a Governor in his power to take or to save the life of a felon, that power ought not to be exercised with thought for the felon alone. When clemency was granted to "Sunshine Jones, the life of a law-abiding citizen in Durham was endangered. When clemency was granted to Ed Deaver, a menace to men, women and children was created in whatever section of the State he may be hiding today.

In North Carolina it has been demonstrated that the State today cannot keep the criminal killers which it preserves in a seclusion which will protect the safety of society. Twice within recent months executive clemency has operated to menace the lives of law-abiding citizens who have a right to ask safety in North Carolina. These citizens are entitled to consideration along with the idiot and the maniac who kill. Humanity ceases to be a virtue when it is exercised to save a life which can never do anything but stain and menace society and without regard for the lives and safety of the people for whom the protection of government was designed.

TIGER ISLAND

A New Serial by Gouverneur Morris

SYNOPSIS: Harvey Bowers big game hunter and Ivy Green, animal trainer from a defunct far eastern circus are caring for a group of animals housed for Singapore. Wong Bo, captain of the S. S. Boldero and Flint, his radio operator, plan to scuttle the Boldero for insurance. Now, IVY BO BO HAS stolen Bowers' valuable gun.

Chapter 16

WONG BO'S PLAN

WONG BO had gone about this business of stealing the guns and weighting the cases quite openly. Their owner was asleep in the bows and Wong Bo had noted that once he had retired for the night, he never grew restless and came wandering aft. He made it his business to guard the white girl and watch over her.

Wong Bo chuckled to himself. A lot of protection Bowers would be if, for instance, Wong Bo himself covered the white girl, or if he were to tell the crew that they could have her! As a matter of fact, he had told them that they could not.

That, and not Bowers' presence, was the reason why she had not been molested.

What was to be done in the event that Bowers should accidentally find out about the stolen guns? He would of course raise a mad and angry threatening noise. Wong Bo car-was inserting the pass-key into the lock of Bowers' cabin, it was Ivy herself who started a conversation. Except for talks concerning the condition and the care of the menagerie, it was the first serious conversation that they had had. If Flint had been eavesdropping it would have made him very unhappy.

"Are you asleep?" Ivy asked. "Never when you're awake," said Bowers.

"Then you don't always answer when you're spoken to?"

"When did that happen?"

"Last night, I asked twice if you were awake and you didn't say anything."

"I am awake now," said Bowers. "What was it you wanted to say last night?"

"Oh," she said, "just something that I want to get off my chest. I have been rude to you and snippy ever since we started, I had you doped all wrong. You have been steadily kind and patient. This could have been a mighty tough trip if you hadn't been. I guess that's about all there is to say and I am sorry I have been so mean and pernickety."

"I HAD it coming to me," said Bowers. "Since we are being frank, I doped you all wrong. I

"I had you doped all wrong," Ivy said.

ried, well hidden but extraordinarily handy, a short barreled double-action .38 caliber revolver. He would use that, then have Mr. Bowers thrown overboard.

If the girl screamed and made too much fuss, he would present her to the crew with his compliments, and after a while she could be thrown overboard. Flint would make a scene, but Flint would never be in a position to bear witness against his captor without incriminating himself.

If Bowers had to die, then of course the woman had to die too. Once you let her get ashore, she would be sure to talk. It was a pity that Flint liked her so much, but that couldn't be helped.

BUT he did not anticipate trouble. The purloined guns would be in Wong Bo's boat. Bowers would be in another boat. The gun-cases would go down with the ship.

It would be funny to let Bowers think that he had saved the weapons, later to find that he had saved only spools of copper wire and odds and ends of junked metal! But it would lead to questions probably in the court of justice which would not be easy to answer.

The Boldero was to be wrecked at night. The passengers would be forwaled. Doors and hatches would be shut so that they could not be opened. The passengers would not be allowed to go below for their belongings.

The suits in which they slept would have to serve until they were landed in Borneo. There Bowers could arrange his credits by cable or radio and renew their supply.

Life was the main thing. No one whose life has just been saved mourns about possessions which have not.

Bowers had never been happier than while he was being robbed. A number of times during the day he had felt that Ivy's baffling coolness and aloofness were a trifle forced. He had the feeling that if only a little she was softening toward him, and that night just when Wong Bo had knocked around the East a good bit. Well, you know as well as I do what the average man can expect from a girl in a stranded show. The only difference I gave you was your looks.

"You're the best-looking thing in the China Seas. After you called me down hard and plenty, I began to see the other differences and I have been kicking myself black and blue for taking the wrong tack in the beginning."

"Do you know," said Ivy, "how you read about a person in the papers and you either like 'em or hate 'em? I have read about you and I formed my opinion and when you came to the tent that day and said that you were you I said to myself, 'Here's where I tell him where he gets off and what I think of him.'"

"And you did," said Bowers. "Oh, no, I didn't," said she, "not the half of it."

"Lose your nerve?"

"No," she said, "I found that I didn't feel quite the way I thought I would. Will you tell me something?"

"Of course."

"What is it that makes a man want to kill?"

"It isn't true of all men," said Bowers. "The instinct has been bred out of a lot of them. I began wanting to kill as soon as I knew that there were things to kill. Later my father took me to the Natural History Museum and the Zoo. I saw live animals and stuffed animals and the skeletons of animals that don't exist any more. My father told me what he knew and guessed about primitive man. He thought that the human race lived in trees before it lived in caves. That is why so many people, especially children, have falling dreams."

"Do you mean," said Ivy, "that you think you are on a high place and you slip and come to the bottom with an awful smash and find yourself awake in your own bed all a-sweat with fear?"

Monday, Bowers and Ivy find the agree on a few things.

pencil and paper in this manner: When Rainey was elected speaker there were 313 democrats in the house. They were located geographically as follows: west, 54; north, 116; south 93; border states 50.

It is agreed generally that what losses the democrats suffer in the coming general elections will be in the north and west sections of the county. That being true, the south and border states may have more than a majority in the next congress.

The question then would seem to be: If the cry of sectionalism is raised, will the southern and border states, in the interest of keeping harmony within the party be willing to set aside, or will they use their majority to elect one of their own regardless?

FIND LOAD OF RUM IN CAMFLOUGED TRUCK

New Bern, Sept. 1.—State Highway Patrolman W. T. Crawford stopped by a stalled milk truck on Wednesday night to see if he could offer the two occupants any aid, but at his approach the two men fled to the woods.

The Offer

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"Can't we have a moment's peace?" Willy Nilly thought. He wondered what in the world the two strange men could be doing in Puddle Muddle. Up the hill they came, carrying their queer boxes.

they arrived where the Puddle Muddlers were gathered, eating their berries.

"Good-day," said the second man "Good-day," answered Willy Nilly "It's a pleasure to meet you," continued the first man. "Your name is Willy Nilly, I believe."

"That is right," agreed Willy Nilly nervously. He could not understand what they wanted.

"There are a number of you," said the second man. "By that I mean that there are quite a few animals here with you in Puddle Muddle. Well, pets make good friends in deed."

"I'm certainly fond of my friends here with me," agreed Willy Nilly, not knowing what the men were leading up to by all this talk.

"It's getting a bit over-crowded, though, with the two cubs added to your family this season," said the first man.

"What do you mean?" asked Willy Nilly in an anxious tone.

"Oh, we have such a good idea, such a wonderful idea. Fame, wealth, success—everything fine in life is to be had and enjoyed by all of you if you only say the word and sign the paper. We're here with a grand offer."

"Say what word? Sign what paper?" asked puzzled Willy Nilly.

Franklin-Smith. High Point, Aug. 31.—Of wide interest in this state and in Virginia was the wedding Thursday evening of Miss Georgia Anderson Smith of Greenville, N. C., to Mr. Julian Clyde Franklin of High Point, in the chapel of Centenary Methodist Church of Winston-Salem, with the immediate families of the couple and a few close friends in attendance. Dr. Raymond A. Smith, assistant pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony.

The nuptial vows were spoken before the altar which was decorated with masses of ivy and flowering clematis. The scene was lighted by the soft glow of tall tapers burning on either side of the altar.

Prior to the taking of the vows, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Barnes of High Point, rendered the wedding music. Mrs. Barnes played Liebestraum by Liszt, as the organ prelude, after which Mr. Barnes sang "I Love You Truly." The bride and groom entered together to the strains of Lohengrin, and as the vows were taken "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" was softly played. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was used as the recessional.

The bride wore a lovely fall model of brown satin trimmed with lace with matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of tall-tan roses and valley lilies. For travel Mrs. Franklin changed to a swagger suit of blue and green tweed with blue accessories.

J. Manning at Bethel, and Mrs. W. J. Manning at Bethel.

The spacious living room and drawing room which was performed by Rev. O. E. Long, pastor of the bride. Only immediate members of the families were present. Lovely in simplicity were the floral decorations. Tall baskets of asters and lilies intermingled with ivy and fern formed the stately background of the improvised altar which was flanked on either side with beautifully illuminated candelabra.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Dewey Farrell of Greensboro, aunt of the bridegroom, sweetly sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "At Dawning," accompanied on the piano by Miss Sara Brown Braxton of Winterville. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the pastor took his place at the altar. Then little Miss Martha Chesson of Plymouth, niece of the bride, slowly descended the stairs, dropping rose petals from a miniature silver basket followed by Master Hoke Stephens, Jr., of Willow Springs, nephew of the bride, who carried the ring in a white lily. The bride entered the room on the arm of the groom and they took their places before the altar. The impressive ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attractively attired in a fall going-away suit of tan crepe and satin, with accessories to match. She was graduated in 1932 from Greensboro College where she won much popularity in campus activities and for the past two years she has been a member of the Winterville school faculty.

Kinston, Sept. 1—Greenville got back in the Coastal Plain League championship series yesterday by defeating Kinston 6 to 4. The locals had a slight edge in hitting, but Greenville safeties were more timely. It was Greenville's first victory in the series against two for Kinston. The teams play at Greenville today at 4:30 and here Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Tick Poole's men are likely to have to go up against a Kinston ace pitcher, Rogers, tomorrow and another, Bolger, Sunday. Rogers beat them Wednesday, Bolger Thursday.

David Smith, whose home is at Whiteville was the winning hurler today. His support was ragged at times, perfect at times. May, Lambeth and Woodworth fielded sensationally.

Greenville threatened in the first inning when they got two men on, but were unable to score.

Kinston scored two in its half of the first when Irwin singled, Zaiser doubled and Hayworth singled. Bad base running cost them another.

Peele's single, Tatum's sacrifice and two Greenville errors gave the Hearmen one in the second.

The visitors got to McKelthan, whose home is at Wilmington and who is on the University of North Carolina varsity, in the sixth frame. They got four hits in a row. Huiskamp, Woodworth and Dean singled, Wagner doubled and three Greenies raced home to tie the score.

Kinston went ahead in its half of the sixth when McKelthan, Vick and Weathers singled.

That ended the local's scoring. Smith pitched masterfully the rest of the way while his mates settled down to give him brilliant backing.

The visitors tied the score and took a two-run lead in the seventh, an error, four hits and a passed ball turning the trick. McKelthan went out and Physoc went in.

The Hermen's murderer's row came up in the ninth. Vick, center-fielder first up, drew a base on balls. Behind him were Weathers, Irwin and Zaiser, all dangerous with the bat and inclined to rap out extra-base hits. But a beautiful double play, Lambeth to Weaver, put an end to the threat. The shortstop went in the air after Weathers' drive that appeared labeled for two bases.

Monday Is Circus Day.
The date marked in our date book for the circus is Monday, Sept. 3rd, and that means it is almost here, and are the children glad—and are some grown-ups glad?

Some one has said "there never came a laden heart beneath a circus tent that did not go away lighter" and as old man "Depression" seems loathe to leave us, we hope for one day anyway, the Russell Bros. Three Ring Circus will be successful in driving him away from our midst.

The management of a big circus like the Russell Circus does not intend or expect that every customer will see everything—an individual would need a pair of eyes for each of the three rings. The publisher of the great Sunday newspaper does not expect every reader to enjoy every department of his paper and the circus situation is the same proposition.

However, on account of the unusual array of exclusive features seen with the Russell Circus and absolutely not to be seen elsewhere, the management tries to present the program in such a manner that the thrills which are promised at the rate of one a minute during the almost two hour performance shall

N. C. ACRES BECKON 400 FAMILIES

This is a scene at "Penderlea" Pender County, N. C., where 4,500 acres have been set aside for a subsistence homestead project. Giant tractors were used to clear the land of tree stumps. It is planned to settle some 400 families there.

Gigantic caterpillar tractors, tearing tree stumps out by the roots, are clearing the way for one of the President's pet projects, in Pender County, North Carolina.

Long before he was President, Mr. Roosevelt was urging abandonment of "submarginal" farms and substitution of farm-factory set-ups which would hold out economic hope to poor farmers.

"Penderlea" is the name of the 4,500 acres near Wilmington chosen by M. L. Wilson, subsistence homestead director, to be future homes for at least 400 families—a $1,000,000 project.

The 400 families will be picked for "good" qualities from nearby unyielding acres.

They're the hillside farmers who took the land left over after the early planters had their rich pick.

At Penderlea they'll have 15 or 20 acres apiece and raise things they can process for their own use and other crops, such as medicinal herbs, which can be processed by be caught by a majority of the audience.

Of course children will be in demand on this circus date and unfortunate indeed is that child who is not taken to the circus by a parent, a friend or a kind, charitable neighbor.

Performances will start promptly at two and eight o'clock, doors being opened one hour earlier to the managerie. The tents are rain-proof and are well lighted by the electric plant carried by the circus.

STRIKE NOT EXPECTED TO AFFECT SANFORD

Sanford, Sept. 1—It is not anticipated that the impending strike of the textile workers will be felt directly in Sanford. Two or three attempts have been made in the past few weeks to unionize the workers in the Sanford Cotton Mills, but little encouragement was given the organizers who came to Sanford from Erwin, Durham, Shel-

Late News Flashes

Ippolito, told the Louisiana State Legislature probing committee today that the "lottery ring" of New Orleans paid weekly to Mayor Semmes Walmsley approximately $1,000 and superintendent of police George Reyer around $700.

Each of the sums of 20 ottery establishments, the witness said, paid $50 weekly to the mayor and $35 to the police superintendent.

A witness saying he was J. A. Knight testified that in the third precinct he had participated in the payoff to policemen but that occasionally the police would jail hand-book operators and lottery vendors despite paid protection, just to cover up their dust and make it look like they were doing something.

Weekly Weather

Generally fair weather except shower periods at the end of the week and some possibility of rain along the coast at the beginning of the week. Gradual return to normal temperatures.

Textile Strike Extended

Washington, Sept. 1—(AP)—The general textile strike was extended today to include 200,000 silk workers.

The inclusion of the silk workers in the general walkout effective at 11:30 tonight local time in all textile communities makes the walkout complete in the industry.

Already the strike had involved some 425,000 workers in the cotton textile and 100,000 more in the wool and worsted industries.

Renews Auto Code

Hyde Park, Sept. 1—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed an order renewing the auto code of NRA for 60 days.

Mr. Roosevelt declined flatly to discuss the resignation of Lewis Douglas as director of the budget.

Help! A Mouse!

Telephone users in relief headquarters at Columbia, S. C., kept on accusing Genevieve Pendergast (above) of cutting their connections—all of which puzzled her very much, for she wasn't guilty. Finally the night watchman solved the mystery. "There's a nice mouse in your switchboard," said he. "I feed him and he keeps me company." (Associated Press Photo)

DOOMED TO DEATH FOR REVOLT

Convicted of high treason because of a plot to overthrow the Cuban government, Major Angel Echevarria (left) and Captain Augustin Erice, youthful army officers, are under death sentence. Later President Carlos Mendieta granted them a stay of execution until the Cuban assembly meets in December to pass on the constitutionality of capital punishment. The condemned men are shown listening to testimony at the court martial just outside Havana. (Associated Press Photo)
