PICKETS MEET NO SUCCESS IN THE NORTH

Pickets Receive Rough Treatment at South Barre, Mass; Town Officials Refuse to Let Union Men in City; Fire Hose Used on Pickets; Rainy Weather Lessens Ardor in Carolinas

(By Association Press)
Both sides held their own in the general textile strike today with the estimate of 360,000 idle in the industry unchanged from yesterday.
Union pickets and flying squadrons met with but little success in their efforts to force the shutdown of additional New England mills. In the Lawrence, Mass. area where 15,000 have been ignoring the strike call, a scheduled invasion of the city by out of town pickets did not materialize. Police guarded approaches to the city under instructions to prevent their entry.
Eighteen automobiles and two trucks loaded with pickets said to be headed for Lawrence, were escorted by police to Doughton, Mass., where it was thought they might establish picket lines.
Pickets attempting to close mills at South Barre, Mass., were met with rough treatment. The officials refused them permission to park their cars inside the city limits and when after parking outside of town they tried to picket the mill, officials had them drenched with mill fire hose. The Barre Woolen Company, however, announced later its plants would close as a safety measure.

Late News Flashes

Agree To Meet Strike Board

Washington, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Both Francis Gorman, chairman of the textile strike committee, and George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, agreed today to meet President Roosevelt's new textile strike board within the next six hours.

The conferences will mark the board's first move to halt the huge strike which has kept upward of 300,000 mill workers away from their jobs this week.

Gorman was to meet the board this afternoon. Sloan was to come from New York for a conference early this evening. Between the two conferences the board planned to use Robert Bruere, chairman of the Cotton Textile Industrial Relations Board.

While the board was thus moving for settlement a militantly worded letter went out from strike headquarters to all officers and members of local unions calling for concentration on the remaining weak spots in the textile area.

It informed the union ranks that "we shall give the mediation board all the information we possess but we shall not budge an inch from our position that this strike must end in victory."

LYNCH MADE LOCAL HEAD SANITATION

Former Employee of State Board of Health Becomes All-Time Inspector Here

E. G. Lynch, of Raleigh, formerly connected with the State Department of Health, has been selected as the all time sanitary officer of Greenville, it was made known today.
Mr. Lynch started work this week and was assisted in getting a line on the local work by Mr. Roach, a member of the sanitary department of the State Department of Health.
Mr. Lynch will be in charge of the general sanitation throughout the city and will have the support of the State Department of Health in carrying out the program.

In addition to general sanitation he will be in charge of meat and dairy inspections, attempting to bring greater spirit of service in these two fields.
The new sanitary inspector was chosen by a committee from the Board of Aldermen, headed by Alderman L. B. Fleming. The board several months ago decided that

POOL HERE TO CLOSE SEASON NEXT SUNDAY

Operations to be Suspended Following Observance of Sunday Schedule

After observing its usual schedule Sunday, the municipal swimming pool will close for the season.
This decision was reached at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen last night, who have direct charge of operation of the pool, in view of the fact that the season of usefulness is over and to continue holding the pool open would cause the city to experience unnecessary expense.
The pool started operation slightly over a month ago and since that time has served several hundred people. Swimming and life saving classes have been conducted from day to day and scores of people who did not know how to swim are able to take care of themselves in the water.
The pool and culvert were built Tucker, who announced a curtailment of the schedule the beginning of the week in view of the lack of demand made upon the pool at this time.
The pool and culvert were built at a cost of approximately $35,000. Part of the money was provided through federal emergency relief funds with the city being called upon to put up $12,500 before the project was finally completed.
The aldermen said the pool will be opened in ample time next season to serve the public as long as possible. This means the water will be open to swimmers throughout the summer months, and thousands undoubtedly will take advantage of swimming at home instead of going to surrounding towns and resort centers as they were forced to do before the pool was completed.

Board Seeks To Extend Season Of Leaf Plants To Boost Employment

Mayor R. C. Flanagan was asked by the Board of Aldermen meeting in monthly session at the city hall last night to take up the employment situation with tobacco companies here with a view to extending the working season longer than usual.
The action came after the mayor had informed the board he had been told by the head of federal relief agencies that the coming winter was expected to present additional relief problems and that each city was expected to do its best to care for its own situation.
Alderman J. H. Boyd proposed that the mayor ask for a conference with representatives of the various tobacco companies here, impress them with the seriousness of the employment situation and ask that they extend active working months through the use of shorter hours, thus aiding employment after the market closes the first of the year.
Mr. Boyd expressed belief the companies would be glad to co-operate in the effort to provide work over a longer period of time instead of working extra hours at the rush season and closing down the first of the year.
The mayor promised he would act immediately and hoped to be able to present a favorable report at

PRICES MOUNT ON GOOD LEAF

Improved Grades Continue to Attract Attention of Buying Companies Here

Continued price improvement on good tobacco was evident on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday as the market prepared to clear floors this afternoon for the usual week-end holiday.
The official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public this morning, showed the market yesterday sold 1,172,596 pounds of tobacco for $309,516.10 at an average of $26.40 per hundred pounds.
Mr. Cobb said there was a considerable amount of black tips and other common grades in evidence yesterday, but that good tobacco continued to bring improved prices.
The report also showed that the market during the week sold 5,464,186 pounds for $1,434,753.01 at an average of $26.26 per hundred pounds.
For the same week last season, Mr. Cobb reported, the market was closed for the general warehouse holiday called by the governor because of low prices and to formulate plans for the reduction campaign which has brought about such a pronounced increase in prices.
The market during the present season has sold 9,757,578 pounds for $2,605,197.46 for an average of $26.70 per hundred pounds.
Up to the same date last season 2,693,686 pounds of tobacco had been sold for $72,751.46 at an average of $10.12 per hundred pounds.
One of the largest sales of the season was reported in progress here today in spite of rainy weather but floors will be cleared during the late afternoon for resumption of sales Monday morning.

Kelly and Lemuel Barrett, a Negro employe of Kelly, were found guilty a few days ago of violating the prohibition laws. A like sentence was imposed on Barrett. Both appealed to Superior Court and gave bond of $300 each.

PATROL TOLD TO KEEP ROADS OF AREA OPEN

Strikers Will not be Permitted to Block Highways in This Division

Members of the divisional highway patrol have been notified from state headquarters to keep highways open for the regular movement of traffic in the face of reported activities of "flying squadrons" of textile strikers.

Lester Jones, patrol lieutenant, said last night that although his department would have no part in strike activities, they had been instructed by special messenger to keep the highways open for the movement of textile products and to allow no interference along the public highways.

Members of the patrol were called to Tarboro when the flying squadron visited that area, but no trouble was experienced in keeping the highway open, Mr. Jones said.

Similar instructions have been sent to patrol members in all sections of the state where strikers are expected to cause any trouble, and it was said the order would be carried out to the letter.

Although it was not expected the flying squadron reported on the way here would actually visit the local mill, patrolmen were keeping their eyes open for any emergency and will hold the highways open to regular traffic.

WARN GROWERS OF LEAF SALE

Farm Department Says Contracting Growers Can't Sell Tobacco and pay tax

Farmers who have signed tobacco contracts, will not be allowed to sell leaf tobacco or scrap tobacco and pay the tax. The contract signer is permitted to sell the tobacco over his allotment on the allotment cards of another contract signer, who is under his allotment according to advice coming from the County Agent's office. The non-contracting signer is privileged to sell his tobacco and pay the tax or if he has been granted an allotment, he may also sell his tobacco after the allotment is used up, and pay the tax.
The contracting signer is not allowed in any instance to sell tobacco of a non-contracting signer without violating his own contract, which will be sufficient grounds for cancelling his contract, in which he will have to pay back all rental and equalization payments and will have to pay the twenty-five per cent tax on all of his tobacco in 1934 on all the farms that he owns or operates.
Growers are warned not to sell scrap tobacco to buyers who call at their farms without having same.

Captain J. H. Waldrop, head of the local military unit of North Carolina National Guards, has been notified by Adjutant General J. Van B. Metts at Raleigh to be prepared to mobilize and move for strike duty.

The order was received after numbers of military companies throughout the state had been called out to throw protection around mills and safeguard the lives of mill workers from flying squadrons. Captain Waldrop said he was notifying all of his men to be in readiness for immediate duty in case the order should come for action.

ARMED TROOPS IN CHARGE OF ALL SECTIONS

Charlotte, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A gentle rain and the bayonets of half a hundred national guards companies cooled jangled nerves in the striketoorn Carolinas today.
Union flying squadrons for the most observed a morning or rest after a day of frenzied activity during which they closed 150 textile mills and saw six of their number die before guns of anti-striker at Honea Path, S. C., where nearly a score were wounded.

While armed troops pitched camps in dozens of mill communities Governor Blackwood, who had called out all national guards in his state to protect workers who wished to remain on the job, considered appeals to declare martial law in certain sections of the strike torn Piedmont.

The troops which were not ordered out in North Carolina until last Wednesday night, today had been sent into nearly every sector of the strike front and many mills which had previously closed down as a precautionary measure prepared to reopen under their protection.

Twenty-three companies of North Carolina National guardsmen, consisting of more than 1,400 officers and men, were on guard at the strike front. All but a few of the troopers pitched camp yesterday but several were moved before dawn today and sent to strike centers.

Tobacco Men Seek to Preserve Crop From Driving Rain Sweeping Over Area

With rain sweeping over this section of the state today, tobacco farmers here to keep their leaf as dry as possible so that it may be marketed in good order.
The advice applied not only to those with tobacco already on the way to market but that in barns, Leaking packhouses, it was said, should be looked after and every effort made to protect the tobacco from the driving rain.
Tobacco marketed in good condition always brings more money than that not receiving proper attention, it was said, and growers who wish to receive the top of the market should make an effort to keep the leaf out of the rain and see that it is carefully graded before being brought to market.
The suggestion is doubly important with gale and rain reported moving up the coast. Driving rains always do more damage than those not accompanied by high wind and growers should see to it that every precaution is taken to keep the leaf dry before retiring tonight.

GUARDS HERE ORDERED TO SET FOR DUTY

(Continued From Page One) be sent to some other strike center or held at the cotton mill here was not made known. It was reported last night that a "flying squadron" of strikers from Roanoke Rapids had closed the mill at Goldsboro and was preparing to move on to Greenville and Kinston.

However, the squadron had not appeared here today, although officers of the law were keeping a keen lookout for the advance guard of strikers. The mill here is not unionized, and if employees desire to stay at work, as they are reported to do, every protection will be thrown around them.

Word from Kinston this morning was to the effect that the Kinston national guard unit was called out for strike duty this morning at 3 o'clock in the face of reports of the advance of the flying squadron on the mill there. Martial law was declared and troops immediately called out.

Kinston mill employees, like Greenville, are not unionized. They have expressed a desire to continue at work, and an appeal has been sent to the governor that they be permitted to do so with the protection of troops.

Owing to the fact that only a small number of men are on duty at the mills here at this time, officers expressed belief the flying squadron would not visit here, but in case they do steps were being taken to protect the mill and enable the fifty or more employees to continue work.

The mill at Tarboro was closed two days ago and slight disorders were reported between strikers and non-union men there last night. Every available military unit in the state has either been called out for strike duty or told to hold itself in readiness to march at once.

The governor has intimated he will do everything possible to prevent a duplication of the death and disorder occurring at South Carolina mills early yesterday and troops were moving on a greater scale than at any time since the world war.

BOARD SEEKS TO EXTEND SEASON OF LEAF PLANS TO BOOST EMPLOYMENT

The next meeting of the board. E. C. Lynch, new sanitary inspector, was presented to the board by Mr. Roach, of the State Department of Health as a man fully capable of taking care of the needs of the city. The board expressed appreciation of Mr. Roach's efforts in behalf of the city and promised the new inspector he would have the entire support of the board in putting his program across.

L. B. Fleming, head of a committee named by the board some time ago to pick an efficient sanitary director, told of the selection of his committee and received expressions of appreciation from the membership.

No modern circus program would be complete without its bevy of beautiful girls to add their beauty and grace to the novelties and thrills. Charles Sparks, manager of Downie Bros. Circus, judging from the above pictured group has excellent beauty judgment as well as showmanship technique. When the big show comes here for matinee and night shows on the Winslow Circus Grounds Tuesday, Sept. 11th, some of the prettiest and most accomplished aerialists, gymnasts, equestriennes and stutary models will be included in the cast as well as quite a number of feminine stars. Senorita Thressa, young Spanish aerialist, is one of the stars as is Marion Shuford, pretty equestrienne, then from the land of the movies is Miss Dixie Starr, who shares honors in the movies with Jack Hoxie, with whom she appears in person with the circus, then too, Mile. Jean Borden, pretty Parisian and hosts of others making up a well balanced beauty contingent. The modern circus girl is not like her sister of yesteryear of the circus who used to spend their spare time designing and sewing new spangled wardrobe and repairing old. The 1934 circus girls have their own maids and their dainty little frocks bear the labels of the famous shops of New York and Paris. They have their bridge and social clubs and many of them are members of various fraternities of which they are guests at parties in most every town the circus visits. Most of them are children of old timers who after college and finishing school decided to cast their lot in the land of spangles.

Mr. Hackney, of Washington, director of the National Reemployment Service in Pitt and two other counties, told of the work of the local office and asked the city to underwrite expenses not to exceed $3.00 a month. The board also decided to expend $30 for a desk and typewriter to be used in the local office and to devote $3 a month toward office expenses.

Captain Stratford, head of the local Salvation Army, appeared before the aldermen with an appeal for continuance of the $20 a month to his organization. He said the army was having a difficult time existing here because of lack of funds and the board decided to let the $20 continue for two months longer. At the expiration of that time, Capt. Stratford is to appear before the board with a report of his activities.

Mayor Flanagan was empowered to invite representatives of municipally owned power plants in this immediate part of the state to a conference here for discussion of their individual problems. The idea of the discussion will be to more fully protect the interests of the home-owned plants and attempt to help them render a higher type of service to the sections they serve. The date of the conference was not set by the mayor.

In adopting the budget for the new year, this time permanently, the board decided to continue its contribution of $300 to the local military unit.

The matter of purchasing a new car for the police department to replace the present one was referred to the police committee with power to act. The purchase of a new boiler for the city hall was left to the building committee.

The board also decided to close the swimming pool next Sunday in view of the fact that the season for swimming is over.

Several other matters, including the paying of bills and reports from various committees occupied attention of the board.

LYNCH MADE LOCAL HEAD SANITATION

an all-time sanitary inspector was needed to take care of the needs of the city and authorized the committee to look over the situation in various towns the size of Greenville and then pick a man capable of handling the work here with the greatest degree of efficiency.

Mr. Lynch was commended with the State Department of Health for a number of years. He was in charge of sanitation in 22 counties. His contact with the situation in the various counties places him in position to render a high type of service to the city. Mr. Roach told members of the Board of Aldermen here yesterday.

The new inspector will work independently of the county sanitary unit, and his activities will be confined to Greenville alone.

Members of the committee urged that the public give him all assistance possible in carrying out his program here in an effort to improve the sanitary situation and give the city first place in this field of endeavor.

STRIKE DUTY NOT BAD AT ALL, EH, SOLDIERS?

Along with fisticuffs and the like, the country's textile strike has its pleasant moments. Here, for example, troops are employed in the rather engaging task of keeping an eye on girl pickets at the Duncan mills in Greenville, S. C. From the looks of things, a pleasant time was had by all. BAYONES AND RAIN COOL ARDOR OF STRIKERS

In the Carolinas where seven strikers and strike sympathizers met death yesterday in fighting, flying squadrons rested and rainy weather lessened the enthusiasm of strike pickets.

Public funeral services for the five of the six killed at Homea Path, S. C., yesterday were announced for tomorrow. Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, said that he would attend the funeral and Norman Thomas, socialist leader, announced he might speak at the ceremony.

The lull in the strike activities, however, did not cause a relaxation in guard duty, at the mills. Some fifty national guards companies continued on duty and occasional reports of flying squadrons visits caused deputies to hurriedly arm.

New Bern, Sept. 7.—H. J. Weiland, of 1005 McGee St., Greensboro, is in St. Luke's Hospital in a serious condition as the result of injuries sustained today in an automobile accident on State highway route 30 between Belgrade and Mayesville.

Dr. J. F. Patterson, attending physician reported tonight that Weiland was suffering from severe lacerations of the scalp, face and right ear. More than 80 stitches were taken in his face and scalp. There was also an injury in the Plymouth, Sept. 7.—Otis Sprull, 25, colored, was the victim when a driver of the truck in which he was riding lost control of the vehicle and it plunged into a fence at the side of the road, crushing Sprull to death with the end of a load of logs.

Ernest Lanier, colored, was driving the truck which was owned by Bete Price here. Alphonso Brooks is in a Rocky Mount hospital with a broken leg as the result of the same accident. A fourth Negro escaped unhurt.

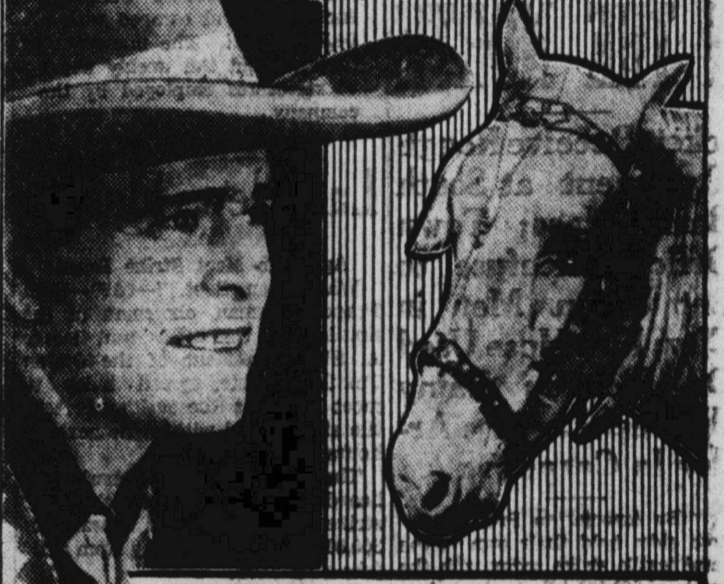

When Brooks lost control of the truck he yelled to those riding to leap from the seat of the cabless truck. All did but Sprull, who was obstructed by the logs.

The letter came from a person signing himself "L" at Guadalajara, Mexico. "The intended victim is repeatedly warned to 'wire, do not write. I beg you to please be absolutely discrete.' The intended victim is asked to send his telegram of acceptance to 'a person of my confidence who will safely deliver it to me, Antonia Ruiz, Hotel Grances, Guadalajara.'"

Postmaster Dasher said he had been instructed to notify the newspapers as soon as he learned of such letters, in order that the public generally might be warned against them.

NEW MALARIA CASES FOUND LESS SEVERE

Camden, Sept. 7.—Two or three new cases of the malignant malaria now epidemic in Camden county are reported each day, according to Dr. W. D. Stevens, county health officer, who estimates that there are now between 200 and 250 cases of the fever in lower Camden county.

While it is still the same type of fever, the doctor says, the new cases are not as severe as the first reported. The cool weather of the past few weeks has had little effect upon preventing spread of the disease, Dr. Stevens reveals. He adds that surveyors are busy in the county making plans for drainage but no ditching has been done yet.

CAMDEN BOARD ADDS 14 CENTS TO TAX RATE

Camden, Sept. 7.—A general county-wide tax rate of 75 cents was approved by the Camden county board of commissioners Tuesday, at which time the county budget was adopted for the coming year. The 75-cent rate is 14 cents higher than last year's rate.

S. B. Seymour, Camden Courthouse board member, said the rate would vary in each school district when the school tax is added. He said the rate in Courthouse district, when the school tax is added, would be $1.33; South Mills, $1.31; Shiloh, $1.41, and a bit higher in Old Trap, the remaining district.

These rates are subject to final action by the board.

The increase in tax rate this year, Mr. Seymour said, was due to necessary repairs to South Mills high school, which was almost destroyed by fire several months ago, and construction of a new colored school near Shiloh.

LONG MISSING WILL FOUND IN LUCAMA

Lucama, Sept. 7.—Of interest to many children and relatives of the late P. T. Lucas family of Lucama, was the finding of the will of Mrs. Frances Newsome Lucas, wife of Rev. P. T. Lucas, deceased. Mrs. Lucas died 16 months ago. It was generally supposed that she had a will, but it had not been found until Tuesday. A brother, L. E. Newsome, of Lucama, came across it while searching among his papers for another document.

Mr. Newsome wrote the will for his sister about 25 years ago. Both the executor and witnesses of the will are dead. However the will does not alter in any way, settlements and transactions which have already been made, as all property was to be distributed equally among the several children.

Tips on CONTRACT

(By Tom O'Neil)

KEEP AN EXIT CARD

Players who know how to make real squeezes succeed with many pseudo squeezes. In the real squeeze an adversary is unable to protect honors in more than one suit when the declarer runs a long string of which the adversary has none. In a pseudo squeeze the adversary discards incorrectly.

In all squeezes the declarer usually is one trick short of the goal sought and the idea is to develop that trick by making a low card in when it would not do so if the adversaries were not compelled to discard. If the trick or tricks are to be lost they must be lost before the squeezing begins unless the squeeze also involves an end play. In that case the loss must be taken toward the end of the hand.

The defense to any end play is to keep an exit card, a means of getting out of one's hand in a method not favorable to the declarer, a card that will not be a lead up to a tenace.

♥ 10 3
♦ A K Q J 5
♣ 9 7 4
WEST: ♠ K 8 6
♥ Q J 9
♦ 9 7 4
♣ 10 4 3 2
EAST: ♠ Q 9 7 5
♥ A K 8 6 2
♦ 8 6 3

SOUTH: ♠ A J 10 3
♥ A J 7 5 4
♦ A 8 5

With East and West passing the bidding went: North one club; South one spade; North two diamonds; South two no trump; North four no trump and South six no trump.

After West's opening of the heart queen Heacock, sitting South, could count reasonably upon five tricks in clubs, four in diamonds, one in spades and one in hearts, one trick short of the contract. Naturally to take two spade finesses in the hope that the missing honors would be held one by each adversary would be futile since a heart would be returned and the contract set forthworth. The only possibility left was an end play squeeze. If there should be no real squeeze the enemy could be given a chance to err.

Taking the first trick with the ace of hearts the declarer played out all the diamonds and all the clubs. East had to find four discards and West two. East shed four spades. West, therefore, felt obligated to protect spades, and discarded two hearts.

On the eleventh trick, with the ten of hearts and two low spades left in the north or dummy, and the ace, jack and ten of spades in the south, a low spade was led. East had to play his singleton queen. The trick was taken by the ace. A second spade was won by West's king and he had nothing left to lead but the eight spuff, which was won by South to fulfill the contract.

West should have kept a heart as an exit card since he could hope to win only the king of spades. If South had the king in hearts he would have played it before applying the squeeze in diamonds and clubs.

"Now," said Willy Nilly, "let us each give our ideas in turn. What do you say, Honey Bear?"

"It's certainly an honor," growled Honey Bear. "They can see at once that Jupiter and Blacky are the sweetest and most adorable little bears in all the world as well as in Puddle Muddle."

"Well, naturally they're the neatest, in Puddle Muddle," cackled Top Notch, the rooster, in his practical way, "as they are the only cubs we have here."

"Don't show off, Top Notch," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "We have a tremendous business plan to think over and decide."

"What do you think, Jelly Bear?" Willy Nilly asked.

"It would be great to have all the world able to see them and their clever ways—but, I don't know."

"I don't know either," said Honey Bear, looking lovingly at the cubs. "What do you say about it, my darlings?"

"We'd certainly see the world and have adventures," said Jupiter Bear. "We're growing, of course, and mustn't be babies all our lives."

But Jupiter Bear did not say this with a great deal of force.

"We'd be known all over, and not only in Puddle Muddle and the country around," said Blacky Bear.

"We'd bring in lots and lots of money and you'd never have to worry about work, Willy Nilly," added Jupiter, "and supplying everyone with food."

Jelly Bear nodded his big head.

New Firm Opens

Today's announcement of the opening of the Pitt Oldsmobile Co., Inc. will be received with a great deal of interest by the people of Greenville and Pitt County. This new firm will handle the Oldsmobile exclusively and their entire efforts will be centered on the sales and service of the Oldsmobile.

The new Oldsmobiles are beautiful in appearance, the body lines developing advanced ideas in aerodynamic designing. Engineering improvements that are entirely new to the industry are included in the chassis. In addition to the radically different front wheel mountings these include the center control steering and ride stabilizer.

All 1934 Oldsmobiles are powered by the specially designed Oldsmobile L Head Type Engines which have proven their worth in millions of miles of satisfactory service in the hands of thousands of satisfied owners: Top Speed Acceleration, Hill Climbing Ability, and Economy. Both the six and the eight cylinder engines have the most efficient build, regardless of price. Oil under pressure is supplied to all Main, Connecting Rod and Camshaft Bearings as well as Piston Pins. The lubrication of Piston Pins through rifled drilled Connecting Rods is expensive construction but essential to quiet, long life operation of an engine.

The Knee Action Wheels give entirely new and improved riding quality to the car. It is really a riding glide. No matter how rough the road there is no pitching, and the passengers, especially those in the rear seat, enjoy riding comfort and absence of fatigue that has never before been equaled.

The Center Control Steering is one of the train of improvements of which the new front and rear springing is a part. Wheel Shimmy and wheel flight are entirely absent. Parking the car and maneuvering it in restricted space is almost effortless.

Maximum safety and efficiency have been achieved in the New Super Hydraulic Brakes. They are operated by a piston with a Hydraulic cylinder rather than a mechanically operated cam, the self energizing action, new in Hydraulic Brakes, employs the forward motion of the car to multiply braking power.

This new firm is under the management of Robert (Bob) Greene, Associated as salesmen are M. D. Walker and David Dodd.

In addition to the sales department Pitt Oldsmobile Co., Inc. will have a complete Repair Department and Skilled Mechanics to service Oldsmobiles. This is an all important factor in the economical operation of your car.

During this rainy weather the farmers will do well to look after their tobacco in their packhouses to see to it that it does not get wet. Wet tobacco damages easily and for that reason wet and damaged tobacco brings a much lower price on the market.

The order to the local unit of the National Guard to stand by for orders to mobilize for service in connection with the strike situation in this state brings the strike closer to home to us even though we have not yet been affected otherwise. As we see it, any worker is privileged to quit his job if he so desires, but if he wishes to continue at the job certainly the strikers should not be permitted to hinder him.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington) Hints thrown out in many quarters indicate that Washington is cogitating the possibility of a new economic coup of major proportions to put more power into the recovery drive.

What it will be evidently is not yet known even in innermost administration circles. Various proposals are under study, and the brain trust is burning midnight oil.

One suggestion, possibly put out as a trial balloon, is that instead of further restricting industry the NRA now urge every factory to operate to capacity, reemploying millions of workers and getting hundreds of millions of new dollars into circulation.

Another is that a fresh attack be made on the debt problem, in the form of projected legislation to scale down all indebtedness except that of the federal government.

There are others, with no sign yet that any one of them is near adoption. But the fact that so many remain unemployed—that the relief load promises to be so great unless something is done—is spurring officials to the search for something, somewhere, to turn the trend de-

TIGER ISLAND A New Serial by Gouverneur Morris

Chapter 21 ALIBI

THE fact that it was going to rain, and that navigation was difficult in those waters, did not really disturb Wong Bo in the least. There would be of course an inquiry into the loss of the Boldero, and if he could say, and produce witnesses, that the mischance had occurred in waters which are well known to be difficult, and in a blinding storm of rain, it would be immensely to his advantage.

Flint's nerves were all a jump, and perhaps Wong Bo's were, but he gave no evidence of it. He was calm and untroubled. He had made a rough plan, shaped it, and filed all the details down to a hair. He would execute that plan as coolly and peacefully as if it had been the letting go of an anchor in a safe harbor.

Even if it had not been for Wong Bo, his charts and his filing glass you would have known that something out of the ordinary was going to happen, because the birds and the beasts knew it and were giving notice. They were talking among themselves in low anxious voices.

The monkeys clung together, and more and more often there rose from them low moaning sounds in stead of the usual chattering. The tiger whimpered and whined, but at the first far off rumble of thunder the male gave answer in a full throated roar of fear and defiance.

The Boldero was nearing the end of the submerged reef, and not wishing to pass beyond this, Wong Bo had ordered the engine into slow speed. This fact would also be of advantage in any investigation. It would tend to prove that he had practiced caution.

There came suddenly a blue-white illumination by lightning. Captain Wong Bo happened at the moment to be leaning on the forward rail of the bridge, Flint, a bundle of rapped, jumping nerves, was close beside him.

It happened when the flash came that the eyes of both were fixed on the black triangle formed by the forecastle-head and the bow plates of the Boldero.

During the instant of day-white illumination, and before the ensuing crash of thunder, a mattress, an unpressed pillow and neatly made-up bedding could be seen aft of the pinacle.

Bowers had not slept in his bed. Flint gripped the rail so tightly that the nails of his fingers began to cut into the flesh. Wong Bo, however, was vastly amused. He chuckled so that he shook from head to foot like a man made of blanc-mange.

"Let's get going," said Flint savagely. "Let's pile her up now."

"I think better wait a little," said Captain Wong Bo. "Pitty soon him lain. Heap lain. More better."

"To hell with the rain," said Flint, "and everything else!"

An eavesdropper in the vicinity of the forecastle-head would have discovered at once that the passengers were not asleep. He would have heard a murmur of voices which were very close together, which murmured in turn and spoke a kind of lovers' litany. First the man's voice: "Does it matter where we live?"

"No."

"Do you care?"

"No. Do you?"

"No."

There was a perceptible pause in the whispering. Then the woman's voice: "Does it matter when we die?"

"No."

"Do you care?"

"No. . . . Do you?"

"N. . . . no."

There had been a lull in the approaching storm. It was as if it had been gathering itself for a spring. There were sounds of vast rippings and tearings. Lightning and thunder flashed and crashed without perceptible intervals, and then the rain struck like a blow.

Captain Wong Bo turned to Flint, and gave the first order toward the carrying out of his carefully conceived plan of barratry.

"I think you go below now," he said.

The lightning flashes were almost continuous, and the decks and super-structures of the Boldero were as brightly lighted as Broadway. Bowers and Ivy could be seen making their way aft. Their drenched pyjamas clung to them. Their faces were gay with laughter and excitement but the rain was too heavy for them, and they were hurrying for shelter.

As Flint sped to execute his orders, Captain Wong Bo relieved the man at the wheel but did not at once alter the course of the ship. The first officer had come on the bridge, and thinking very quickly, Captain Wong Bo realized that it would be necessary to let this man and several others into the secret of what was going to happen, and buy their silence by giving them a share in the returns. If he had not stolen the guns this would not have been necessary.

In point of view of time, when a Chinaman gives an explanation mixed up with a lot of orders, he has a great advantage over a white man, because the man to whom he is making the explanations and giving the orders makes all his admissions of complete understanding and of readiness to obey at the same time.

For a minute or two then, Captain Wong Bo and his first officer both talked at once. The first officer, beaming then at the thought of unexpected wealth, hurried off to obey the orders which he had received.

He was to see to it first that doors were so fastened and batches battened down that the passengers who had gone below could by no means at their disposal return to the deck. They would be at the moment in their cabins changing into dry things.

He had his pass-key on a ring. He was, if it could be done without detection, to lock them in. If detected he had his automatic. Let him use it.

THE first officer had not long departed upon his errand of rat-trapping when Flint, who had been all the way down into the bowels of the ship, returned to the bridge. Captain Wong Bo meanwhile had altered the course of the Boldero, and now the doomed ship no longer ran parallel with the reef but approached it on a long diagonal.

Flint reported that the sea-valves were rusted solid and that he did not believe that they could be moved by any human force. The lightning flashed and the rain and the thunder boomed and roared.

Since the sea-valves had failed them, it was necessary for the Boldero to hit the reef as hard as possible. Captain Wong Bo ordered full steam ahead.

There was no wind. How long it would be before the Boldero struck the reef, Captain Wong Bo himself did not know exactly, but he knew that it would be soon. Flint, upon the impulse of what sounded more like an exclamation than an order hurried off to the wireless-room and began at once to broadcast messages of distress.

Three shorts, three longs, three shorts, S O S! S O S! S O S! The Boldero had hit a reef and was sinking fast. (Flint smiled grimly. She hadn't hit it yet but she was going to. Damn her!) He broadcasted the ship's position.

To Wong Bo at the wheel, the crackling and spluttering of the wireless were pleasurable sounds.

To him they did not spell latitude and longitude or the despairing letters S O S. They spelled rather "Alibi! Alibi! Nice. Heap nice! Alibi! . . ."

Suddenly the waters ahead were lightened by a bright flash. The rain, it seemed, had stopped, for the waters looked mirror-smooth and not as if they had been pitted with smallpox. Now they split open like a ripped coat, and for a short fraction of time showed a white lining. Then the seam closed.

The ship was going to hit in a very few seconds, and as Wong Bo did not propose to be thrown violently against the wheel, he let go the spokes and laid himself flat down on the deck.

Almost immediately with a great shock and a great sound of crunching and crashing, the Boldero struck. The engines were still going full speed ahead. Captain Wong Bo got to his feet and ordered them to be stopped and then reversed.

Flint, his nerves no longer jumping, and jerking, came out of the wireless-room. The world upon which he had called for help was trying to tell him that help was on the way. But he was all through with being a wireless-operator.

Tomorrow, Ivy and Bowers find the door locked.

divisions already existing among House Democrats, however, cannot be doubted. In other words, while the administration forces are rated certain to win, the victory probably will leave new estrangements in its wake.

In some respects, the job of floor leader may be, for this reason, actually more important than that of speaker. That position is the real objective of several who have announced for speaker.

General boom is one of the offshoots of the recent flare-up in NRA between Richberg and General Johnson.

High up in official circles there has been speculation like this: Governor-General Murphy is said to want to come home from the Philippines soon to re-enter Michigan politics. The governor-generalship was the place originally destined for Homer S. Cummings, who was shifted to attorney general upon the death of Senator Walsh.

Should Cummings succeed Murphy at Manila, thus taking the appointment first tendered him, three things would argue for Richberg's appointment as attorney general to succeed Cummings.

First, it would remove an element of difference from NRA. Second, it would provide the "new deal" with an earnest, able prosecutor to fight its court battles. Third, it would place Richberg in the normal line of promotion to the Supreme Court, whither most of Washington expects him to go eventually.

Britain Lures Idle Youths Into Skilled Trades Study

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN

London—(AP)—Revolutionary changes in the methods of labor training may emerge from the test trade training centers established in eight cities of England by the ministry of labor.

In these centers the tradition of apprenticeship has been superseded by special instructional work in the skilled trades and officials express themselves astounded by the success which has marked their efforts.

The experiment was first tried out five years ago to aid the unemployed but has only just now gained much prominence. The trade unions instead of opposing the scheme, have looked upon it with a benevolent eye and officials hope for continued expansion of the system.

Unemployed young men who volunteer—there is no compulsion—are taken from the "depressed" areas where unemployment is at its worst and sent to the training centers.

The one on the outskirts of London has several hundred young men from Wales and from northwestern and northeastern England. All would be on the dole but for their desire to get ahead rather than stagnate on state relief money.

The "students" do not live at the center but are given an allowance sufficient for board and lodging. A free noon meal is provided at the center.

At the end of six months course most of the students are ready for regular jobs and a large percentage have obtained work, either by themselves or through the ministry.

But they are not the traditional type of apprentices. The training is entirely different and officials say there is far more interest and enthusiasm manifested.

One important trade or vocation taught is that of waiter.

Young men, selected from the coal regions or manufacturing towns are taught to keep themselves and their clothes clean, and are put through a difficult water-training course.

A regular restaurant is their laboratory. They take turns at the various waiter tasks, such as captain, table waiter, assistant waiter and bus boy.

All of the graduates of these courses are snapped up by leading hotels and restaurants like the Savoy, Ritz and swanky Claridge's.

These waiters work around in all dining room jobs and then the better ones are picked for continental training. They are sent to France, Switzerland, Germany and other countries on an exchange basis for a year or more.

Young English waiters thus get an idea of the way meals are served

Where First Lives Were Taken In Mill Strike

As the general textile strike spread riotously through the south and east, the first lives were taken in an outbreak at Trion, Ga. Two men were killed there and more than a score were wounded when strike sympathizers clashed at the Trion cotton mill. W. M. Hix, a deputy sheriff, and J. V. Blalock, strike sympathizer, were the two killed. Above is shown the mill where the gun battle took place. Below is a group of pickets in front of the plant. in foreign cities and also learn something of foreign languages.

The general idea behind the class is to give England home-bred waiters in the future instead of importing them from the continent. Until only recently, waiting on table has been looked upon as a menial, undignified job, beneath the average Britisher.

ROUTING OF TEACHER APPROVED BY BOARD

Wilmington, Sept. 7.—The Columbus County school board has sustained C. C. Russ, superintendent of the county schools in refusing to confirm the election of G. O. Rogers, principal of the Whiteville schools. It was learned here today from attorneys interested in the matter.

A hearing was conducted by the school board at the courthouse at Whiteville Monday night and all evidence was reported completed. The board handed down its decision Tuesday evening. As the result of the latest move in the long drawn-out fight, the matter is scheduled to be presented before Judge Henry A.

Grady at Clinton Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for review.

A Washington Day Book

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—(AP)—Upon the shoulders of a quiet, earnest and pleasant young lawyer of 37 years rests the responsibility and the hopes of the administration for restoring peace in the far-flung troubled textile industry.

He is Lloyd K. Garrison, great-grandson of the famous New England abolitionist, and chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

In his headquarters, borrowed by the government incidentally, directly across the street from the building which houses a portion of the Department of Labor, Garrison and his colleagues on the labor relations board have girded themselves for their first real baptism of fire.

Only last month he was installed as chairman of the board. The summons came as a surprise to him. He was leaving his duties as dean of the law school of the University of Wisconsin for a summer in the east.

On the eve of his departure Secretary Perkins of the Labor Department communicated to him the desire of President Roosevelt that he enlist for three months in the government service.

He hurried to Washington, organized his board and began hearings in the board of review room.

It is necessary to observe Garrison in action to form any sort of estimate of the man.

He has quick and expressive eyes and a ready smile. There is an air of informality about him personally, as well as his "little courtroom."

During hearings, if the day be a hot one, coats come off. There is always a quiet dignity about, however, and the procedure is kept within the bounds of legal decorum.

Garrison tempers the strict rules of evidence with common sense and he has managed several times to soothe differences of bitter contenders. His board sits rather as judge and jury than as magistrate alone.

Usually he sees to it there's opportunity for a liberal exchange of ideas before the testimony begins. By so doing he has been able to prevent more than one stalemate. His objective seems always to be an agreement rather than a sentence.

Eton Bans 'Stocking'

Eton England—(AP)—Boys at a n- client and fashionable Eton college, largest of England's old public schools, have been placed under a new ban, "Stocking"—vernaacular for buying food—in the streets is strictly forbidden, particularly from ice cream vendors. Boys who disobey will be fined.

Unwanted Hindus Cling To Homes In South Africa

Capetown—(AP)—British Guiana, New Guinea and Borneo are suggested by an investigating committee of the South African government as suitable sites for a colonization program which would give India an outlet for surplus population and enable South Africa to rid itself of its unwanted Hindus.

South Africa has almost 200,000 British Indians as a souvenir of the decades after 1860 when indentured coolie labor was brought from India to the sugar plantations of Natal. Its present plan of giving free passage home to every Indian who will return, virtually has broken down because four-fifths of the proposed emigres were born here and find India uncongenial.

The investigating committee was appointed last year in the hope that the government of India would cooperate in the quest. Its report notes the inavailability of other lands, tropical regions under the British flag for Indian colonization, but suggests that in their Indian, colorists might find "fertile areas offering great rewards to effective and organized settlement."

Indian leaders in South Africa regard the report coolly. Their countrymen are reluctant to leave South Africa, but desire freedom from the "non-European" stigma which classifies them with the mixed and native population.

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to two, advance on steady Liverpool cables and commission house buying.

Prices eased off right after the call realizing or liquidation which probably included further evening up for tomorrow's government crop report.

December reacted from 1934 to 1937 but was not holding fairly steady around 1330 at the end of the first half hour when active months were appoint or two under yesterday's closing quotations. Trading was quiet later in the morning and fluctuations were irregular within a narrow range.

At midday December was selling around 1332 and May 1350 with active months about net unchanged to two points lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Financial markets were somewhat fretful today and irregular price movement characterized the trend in most categories.

Stocks steadied in the early dealings and stocks which lead yesterday's relapse failed to get back any of their losses. After the noon hour equities again pointed downward and th activity expanded on the dipping movement. The trials were fairly resistant. Just how much of a market factor current labor troubles were conjectural.

Grains were mixed with the general tendency lower as some trad's voiced fear of Argentine wheat imports.

U. S. government securities were a bit ragged after extending a rally moderately in the morning.

The lat tone was heavy. Transfers were approximately 650,000 shares.

Shelby, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Several hundred members of union flying squadrons besieged Double Shoals mill here today shouting threats unless its doors were closed and officers at the scene sent in a hurried call for troops.

Protection Would End Strike.

Political Foes Ready For Battle.
New Orleans, Sept. 7.—(AP)—New Orleans became a huge potential battlefield as General Huey Long and T. Semmes Walmisley took over command of gigantic political armies.

"General" Lon's state soldiers came into New Orleans by automobiles, buses and special trains from all over the state as Walmisley's military staff reinforced his police power.

Both Senator Long and Mayor Walmisley professed the great clang of arms was to insure a "pure and peaceful" primary election of September 11. Both have candidates in the field.

"Kingfish" Long placed his faith in the full strength of the Louisiana national guards, estimated to total approximately 2,000 fully armed men.

Walmisley had 1,000 regular police and 500 Othrs sworn in to aid them. Long charged that Walmisley also on th aid of Colonel Guy Maloney, leader in the Central American revolution to head a machine gun squad. This was categorically denied.

The animal was slain and the child restored to her mother with only a few scratches.

EXPANSION IN GOLD MINING STIRS ITALIAN COLONY HOPE
Asmara, Eritrea—(AP)—There's a gold rush of sorts going on in this banana country of the Italian colonies.

It is a rush of white helmeted engineers and company managers to government offices, seeking permits for expanding mining facilities and refining plants. They hope to be in on the ground floor of a gold production program which is expected to bring a future yield of 110 pounds of the precious metal each month.

Eritrean mine production in 1931 was a scant five pounds. In 1933 this jumped to 286 pounds, and the first five months of the current year showed a production of 204 pounds.
