Strike Leaders Seek Help Of Roosevelt Robbers Enter Vault With An Acetylene Torch

WANTS TROOPS TO BE FAIR IN THEIR ACTIVITY

Francis Gorman Calls On President to Request Impartiality in Use of Soldiers on Strike Front; Preparations Made For At Least a Month of Struggle

Washington, Sept. 12. — (AP) — Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the textile strike committee, today asked President Roosevelt to advise governors who have ordered troops out in the textile strike to urge fairness in their activity.

In his telegram Gorman said: "Governors of several states have called state troops into action in the strike of textile workers. So far as we can learn and observe the principle function of these groups is to protect strike breakers.

"I know that governors have full control of their state troops but I feel sure at the same time that words of advice from you urging fairness in the use of troops were used at all in a strictly impartial manner would be helpful.

"We know that there is no need whatever in any case for state troops as we protest most vigorously their use as aids to strike breakers.

While the President's mediation board resumed conferences with a delegation of cotton textile manufacturers and representatives of silk and woolen industries, Gorman said the union was preparing for "at least a month of struggle to win the textile strike."

RUM RUNNING HITS STRIDE

Two Distilling Plants Nabbed by County Officers; Distillers Busy Now

With the rum-running season nearing its peak in Pitt county sheriff's officers today reported the capture of two illicit whiskey distilling plants in Belvoir township yesterday.

One of the plants was a steam affair and the other copper. Neither was in operation and no whiskey was nabbed. The operators had transferred their supply of whiskey to regular trade channels and were not to be found when the officers appeared upon the scene.

The fall of the year always has seen the resumption of traffic at full speed ahead and thousands of gallons of whiskey have passed through various communities since the latter part of August for delivery at designated points.

The opening of the tobacco market puts more money in circulation and bootleggers like other people seeking cash, always turn their attention to high-powered rum running to get their share of the money crop.

Officers seize stills from time to time, but it is safe to say that for everyone seized from one two others take its place. Cheap whiskey has always been in demand and imbibers of the fiery beverage are finding themselves able to supply their demand more cheaply than in years.

In fact, liquor is astonishingly cheap considering the risk manufacturers and distributors run in placing it in hands of their customers. But the lower the price, the greater the demand and it is probable more whiskey will be consumed in this section of the county the coming winter than for any previous period in years.

ALBEMARLE GROCER DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

Albemarle, Sept. 12.—Lawson L. Almond, 46, Albemarle grocer and postmaster here from 1922 to 1933 shot himself to death in his home at 6:30 tonight. He was alone in the house. A neighbor heard the report of the weapon, a 20 gauge shotgun and ran into the Almond home. Almond had shot himself through the left lung.

Mr. Almond is survived by his father, Frank Almond, his wife, the former Miss Beulah Hardwood, and two sons. He was a member of the Lutheran church and was a Mason. He was also a prominent member of the Republican party of Stanly county.

His suicide is ascribed to business reverses which he had sustained recently.

SENT TO PRISON ON CHARGE OF RECEIVING

Salisbury, Sept. 12.—Ed Turner, 24 who conducts a restaurant on Lee street, Greensboro, was yesterday afternoon found guilty by a Rowan county jury of receiving stolen property, cigarettes which had been stolen from the Southern Railway.

Court Order For Seizure Of Illegal Slot Machines Becomes Effective Today

The County court order calling for the closing of all illegal slot machines and other gambling devices in Pitt county became effective today, and under its provisions all such machines caught operating today will be seized, their owners or operators arrested and carried before County court for hearing.

County officers reported several days ago the seizure of a few machines for "test" cases and numbers of operators, it was understood, have been advised of the court order and told to govern themselves accordingly.

The slot machine racket has been a paying proposition in Pitt county for years, especially the last two or three years. Officers, however, have been ordered to seize illegal machines today and carry them before the court for determination as to their legal status.

In issuing his order here last week Judge James relieved officers of all responsibility in classifying the legality of the various types of machines, declaring his court would pass on questions of this nature.

The Town of Farmville was not included in the order in that an ordinance prohibiting the operation of slot machines there has been in effect for sometime, and it was said the town is comparatively free of legalized gambling.

Officers were disinclined to say today to what extent they had gone in carrying out the court order, and Judge James was reluctant to comment on the situation other than to say, his order had been placed in the hands of all county law enforcement agencies with word to act.

It probably will be three or four days before the full extent of the drive on slot machines and other forms of gambling is known, but with the order becoming effective this morning the public is watching the battle with interest, especially those who have been up in arms over the wide scope which the slot machine racket has assumed throughout the county.

In his order Judge James had the following to say: "It shall be sufficient notice on and prior to September 12 if the sheriff or any lawful officer in Pitt county shall personally and verbally notify any owner, operator, or any person or corporation permitting or directly connected with the operation or possession of any of the aforesaid machines, punch boards or devices, for the purpose of operating same, or by delivery of a copy of this order to any of said persons or corporations, and after the above date the filing of this order in the Clerk of Superior court shall be sufficient notice."

The order also said: "Any person opposing the execution of this order and the seizure or destruction of any of the aforesaid machines or board or devices shall be immediately arrested and the machines destroyed."

The action followed recommendation of the grand jury that County court take adequate steps to eliminate the widespread operation of illegal slot machines.

NEW PATROL OFFICERS HERE

Greenville Divisional Office Made School Of Instruction For State Patrol

The divisional highway patrol with headquarters in Greenville has been made the school of instruction for the entire state patrol, it was announced today by Lester Jones, lieutenant.

Mr. Jones said all new men entering this field of service would be sent to this division for schooling before being permitted to enter active service.

Four new men reported for duty here today. They are J. O. Polger, Mount Airy; C. F. Kennerly, Statesville; R. W. Arnold, Elkin; and Fred Fiesinger, Charlotte.

They will remain here for an indefinite period and then be assigned to patrol duty in sections of the state where their presence is most needed.

Patrolmen all over the state have been instructed to keep roads open in case they should be blocked by textile strikers, and this additional duty has given the men about as much as they can attend to along with their regular duties. However, these additional duties will not interfere with instruction of the young officers from day to day, and it was hoped to have them ready for service within the next several days.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Suit for $5,000 damages for injuries when struck by an automobile has been filed in the office of Clerk of Superior court N. Henry Moore by Ethel Jackson against G. T. Woolard. COTTON MILLS AT GASTONIA BACK AT WORK

Soldiers Protect Men Returning to Work In Three Principal Plants

Charlotte, Sept. 12.—(AP)— National guardsmen patrolled the property of the Doray mill at Gastonia again today as the Manville-Jencks branch, scene of bloodshed in 1929, watched more efforts to break the strike.

Automobiles escorted through lanes of troops began bringing returning strikers to the plant at 4 a. m. today and machinery started running at 7 a. m. while the soldiers held back approximately 600 pickets.

Three other Gastonia mills, the Hanover, Pickney and Rankin, also defied the general strike today reopening with approximately 400 workers on the job and the militia alert.

Estimates of the number working in the Loray plant varied. Three companies of national guardsmen were on duty and additional reenforcements were expected today and tomorrow.

Efforts continued at High Point to get hosiery mill workers out of the large plant there ahead of the actual strike call. Reports varied as to the number but several mills were known to be running with short forces.

BLIND TIGER NABBED HERE

William Joyner Held By Police on Charge Of Possession of Rum For Sale

A blind tiger fell into the toils of the law early this morning when police raided a cafe on Railroad street, arrested the operator William Joyner, colored, and seized approximately two gallons of liquor.

Joyner is charged with possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale and probably will be bound over to the next sitting of county court in mayor's court today.

Police said the cafe changed hands constantly but that the tiger never changed his color. Last week a man and woman operating the place were nabbed on a similar charge and sentenced to serve terms in jail.

Officers invaded the place this morning while the tiger evidently was napping from nocturnal activities and Joyner was taken to the city jail to await hearing. The liquor followed thousands of other gallons into the sewer.

MUCH COMMON LEAF OFFERED ON MART HERE

Sales Yesterday Featured by Damaged Tobacco and Quantity of Black Tips

Tobacco sales continued heavy on the local tobacco market yesterday and today but indications pointed to a clearing of floors this afternoon at 4 o'clock to make ready for the reception of continued large offerings the remainder of the week.

The official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public this morning, showed the market yesterday handled 1,398,074 pounds of tobacco for $370,975.48 for a general average of $26.54 a hundred.

The average was slightly under that of the day before, the supervisor said, but this was due to the marketing of large quantities of damaged tobacco and black tips. The average was considered excellent in the face of the offering of poor grades and the improvement of prices for good tobacco was still in evidence as it was the later part of last week and the first of this week.

Although there was over a million pounds of tobacco on the floors of the various warehouses today, Mr. Cobb said warehouse floors would be cleared around 4 o'clock to make way for continued heavy sales the remainder of the week.

In the neighborhood of four hundred thousand dollars has been paid out here daily the last several days. The figure was the largest since 1919 when prices of bright leaf hit an unprecedented peak in this part of the country.

Farmers continued glated today over the high prices they are receiving for their crop. Numbers were busy settling bank accounts, while still others were turning their eyes toward providing their families with the necessities of life denied them when prices were low and living the most difficult this part of the country has ever known.

The paying out of such huge sums of money from day to day has played an important part in the revival of business and merchants are expected to enjoy the largest sales in years from now on through the holiday season.

PITTMAN CONFESSES HE KILLED FRANK ROSE

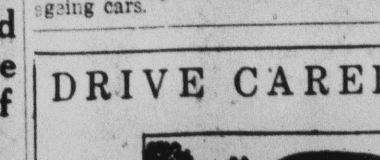

Wilson, Sept. 12.—His conscience troubling him, Walter R. Pittman, under indictment here for the murder recently of Frank Rose in a love triangle, sent for Chief of Police Gurley today, and admitted the homicide and exonerated Rose's widow, now in jail, whom he had previously accused of having fired the fatal shot that killed Rose when Pittman insisted it was not his hand that pulled the trigger of the shot gun that slew Rose but that Mrs. Rose was the culprit.

Today he told Gurley he could not be at peace with this misstatement hanging over him and that Mrs. Rose had no part in the crime.

An increase of more than 100 percent in the number of automobile fatalities is explained by Coroner R. E. Williams of San Bernardino Cal., as due in part to the increased carbon monoxide gas attributable to clogging cars.

Seven malamute pups born in an extinct crater of Pavlov volcano, Alaska, were carried in sacks slung across the backs of two other dogs of Father Bernard H. Hubbard's exploration party and brought out safely to civilization.

There are no sidewalks along most of our country highways—pedestrians must walk for the most part on the roadway. Few rural highways are illuminated after dark. It is difficult to see pedestrians in time, especially if a car with glaring headlights is approaching from the opposite direction. Then, too, pedestrians are prone to walk on the right side of the road. The left side is the right side, always, facing oncoming traffic.

NOTED FLIER FAILS TO TAKE HIS OWN LIFE

Charles A. Levine Rescued by Police at Friend's Home in Brooklyn

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)— Charles A. Levine, the first trans-Atlantic airplane passenger, was found unconscious today beside five open gas jets in the kitchen of a friend's home. Three notes lay on a table.

He was revived by a police emergency crew who watched over him with an inhalator for twenty minutes. He will probably recover.

One of the notes said: "I just cannot go on."

Levine flew with Clarence Chamberlain to Berlin in June, 1927. They covered 3,905 miles before landing.

INSURANCE CASE AIRED

Colored Woman Seeks Payment of $1,000 Policy From Metropolitan Company

After a recess of a day and a half, civil court resumed work this morning with indications that the remainder of the week would see a major part of the calendar completed.

Court started work on the case of Georgia Redmond, colored, against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., involving controversy of an insurance policy which the late husband of the plaintiff carried with the company.

The company contended the policy, for $1,000, was permitted to lapse before the death of the husband and that they were not responsible for payment.

The woman, on the other hand, contended the policy was kept paid up and is demanding payment in full.

Argument of counsel was expected to be completed during the mid-afternoon when the case will go to the jury.

Judge R. Hunt Parker of Roanoke Rapids, who is presiding over the court, did not announce a decision this morning in the case of the Town of Farmville against John Hill Paylor, Farmville lawyer, involving a dispute over a paving assessment. Paylor contended the time limit on the assessment had expired and Judge Parker took this point of law under consideration without letting the case go to the jury. Around $400 is involved in the action.

ROBBERY WAS THE FOURTH IN PAST 2 YEARS

Intruder Entered by Breaking Glass Door On One Side of The Bank; Loss Discovered When Cashier Entered Bank to Begin Day's Business; Missing Sum Covered by Insurance

Magnolia, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Bank of Magnolia, much-robbed institution in the past two years was entered again during the night by a gang which got between $5,000 and $6,000 after cutting through the vault with an acetylene torch.

The night's robbery was the fourth in the past two years but the first time the bank had been entered during the night.

The last robbery before last night was in May when a bank officer was hit over the head and a citizen was shot and wounded as the bandits fled.

The robbery was discovered this morning by L. E. Dall, cashier, when he came to open the bank for the day's business.

Authorities did not know the exact hour of the burglary nor were any clues immediately evident.

The intruders came in after breaking a glass door on one side of the bank. The $6,000 was insured.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Sept. 9.

The golden text was from Romans 8:14: "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." (Gen. 1:26-27).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones, and the material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of Spirit cannot be so unlike Spirit. Man is spiritual and perfect; and because he is spiritual and perfect, he must be so understood in Christian Science. Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique."

Seeing Through My Windshield
(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)
The muscadine grape season is here again. These recipes you will enjoy using. Any of the following varieties of grapes may be used: Scuppernon, Thomas, Mish, James, Eden, Memory, Smith, Flowers and Luola.

Jelly Stock
(Pectin Extract)
8 pounds grades (1-2 under ripe); 2 pounds water (one qt.).
Crush grapes and boil with water 20 minutes; strain through cheesecloth and pour juice through a flannel bag. Pour into sterilized jars and process 20 minutes. Store in a cool place until ready to make jelly.

In grape jelly stock the cream of tartar crystals slowly settle to the bottom and by this method crystallization in the jelly is reduced to a minimum. Orange pectin is frequently used with grape jelly stock to prevent the formation of crystals.

Muscadine Grape Jelly.
4 cups muscadine grape jelly stock; 1 cup pectin (orange); 3-4 cups sugar.
As soon as the juice begins to boil, add the sugar gradually and cook to 223 degrees F. or 106 degrees C. Pour immediately into hot sterilized glasses.

Scuppernon Grape Jelly.
Wash and crush grapes. Add water in the proportion of 1 quart to 4 pounds grapes. Cook from 20 to 30 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth and filter through flannel jelly bag.

To 4 cups juice add 2 cups orange pectin (see recipe) and 4-2 cups sugar. Cook to 223 degrees F. or 106 degrees C. Pour into hot sterilized glasses.

Paste Stock.
Cook grape pulp until seeds separate.
Put through potato ricer or colander.
Process in jars 20 minutes.
Store in a cool, dry place; can make paste fresh when needed.
The flowers is the best muscadine variety for paste.

Grape Paste.
2 pounds paste stock; 1 pound sugar (gran. or pulverized).
Cook carefully, stirring constantly until mass will hold its shape. Use large flat pan and wooden paddle.

When finished, the paste is of the consistency of fudge and should be poured out on oiled platters or on a marble slab to dry. When cold cut in one-inch squares, roll in granulated sugar and pack in airtight boxes. This makes a wholesome confection for children as well as for adults.

CIRCUS PLAYS TO TWO LARGE CROWDS HERE
Downie Brothers circus played to tremendous crowds in two engagements here yesterday and left last night for New Bern where they will appear in two performances today.

Directed by the famous John Sparks, the show measured up to expectation. The big top was crowded yesterday afternoon and last night it was crowded to such extent that ticket sales were suspended after every available nook had been filled.

The parade at the noon hour attracted thousands of people. The pageant was colorful combining all the features that make the circus one of America's most popular forms of entertainment.

The various acts carried with them plenty of thrills for old and young alike and Jack Hoxie of movie fame and his horse drew plenty of interest.

The show arrived here by motor Sept. 3-1th-4th.

Trucks from Tarboro and the gigantic task of erecting tents and getting everything in readiness for the show was followed with interest by hundreds of people on hand when the trucks reached the city.
The crowd here was described as the largest played to by the show in years and showmen expressed themselves as highly pleased with the reception accorded them.

These metal blocks (sketched from actual blocks) are visible evidence that New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil gives you greater motor protection! Both blocks were used under exactly the same conditions in a Timken testing machine, which measures film strength.

Block No. 1 was lubricated with a competitive premium-grade oil. Block No. 2 was lubricated with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Look at the difference in wear! Measurements show that Block No. 2 suffered 96.5% less wear!

This and hundreds of other tests prove that this new, patented oil has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than straight mineral oils! The famous Indianapolis Destruction Test proved that it gives greater motor protection and lower oil consumption.

TIGER ISLAND A New Serial by Gouverneur Morris

SYNOPSIS: Wong Bo, villainous captain of the tramp freighter Boldero, has scuttled his ship. Flint, his radio man, discovers that Wong Bo intends to leave his two white passengers, Harvey Bowers and Ivy Green, to die, and broadcasts Wong Bo's treachery and harrotry. The captain shoots Flint; Bowers and Ivy release their cargo of wild animals, and prepare to escape on a raft. But Helen, Ivy's pet monkey, has gone below to get her suitcase!

Chapter 25 BOLDERO'S END

HELEN reached her mistress's cabin and there, in the rack where it had rested ever since the beginning of the voyage, was her own little red suitcase which the callous human things in their gross unthinking selfishness had left behind.

Ivy and Bowers had no more than reached the head of the cabin stairs than Helen, suitcase in hand and screaming now not with rage but with triumph, and wet to the skin, was half way up it.

A moment more and she was in her mistress' arms, suitcase and all, and telling everybody all about everything.

The diversion was fortunate. A heavy cargo-hatch, immediately opposite the moored raft, had yielded at last to the terrible pressure of air anxiety and self-reproach. To be advantageously cast away, one should have several days in which to prepare. In a hurried snatching up of whatever may or may not be useful, many things go overlooked.

The shipwrecked couple had tea and coffee. They had a variety of canned meats, vegetables and soups. They had some tins of biscuits. They had a bag of sugar and a bag of salt, matches and a fire-ax, some changes of clothes.

Bowers had the wherewithal to keep himself cleanly shaved for a number of months. Ivy had some face powder and a quarter-stick of rouge. It pleased Bowers to think that he had brought off his guns with plenty of ammunition. He was glad that his pocket-knife was not a toy.

But he dreaded the moment when Ivy should say that she was thirsty and he would have to confess that he had not thought to bring water!

Suppose they reached the volcanic island toward which they were headed and found no water? This was not likely, but was within the possibilities. He became unduly despondent, and then he remembered that there were sure to be coconut palms, and this thought cheered him.

THE coconut is not an occasional crop. Upon every tree in full bearing there are at all times nuts and burst with a sound like the explosion of dynamite. Anyone in the vicinity of the flying fragments and splinters might have been most seriously hurt.

The Boldero, arrested in her sinking, now began to move up for lost time. From the ship to the raft was now no more than a big step. Ivy, encumbered by Helen, did not even need a helping hand.

They cast loose, and for a time, not wishing to be anywhere near the Boldero when she made her final plunge, Bowers paddled frantically with the blade half of a broken oar. He made his offing and the breeze, strong enough at moments to ruffle the surface of the sea, caught them and had soon carried them beyond any possible reach of suction.

Bowers, his back to the Boldero, steered for the volcano. But Ivy kept him posted. Presently she said: "You had better look now, if you want to see the last of her."

The Boldero was going down by the head and the end came very suddenly. The ship's stern rose until the propeller showed half clear of the sea, and the bows sank until the fore-castle-head would never be anything to anyone but a memory of a great happiness.

Thereafter the Boldero seemed rather to melt away into nothing than to sink.

WITH the Boldero afloat, it would have been easy enough to estimate the progress of the raft, but with nothing upon which to triangulate vision, it seemed as if the raft were standing still.

The volcano on Tiger Island had almost disappeared in the brightness of the young day. It was scorching hot and the breeze was more a hope than a fact. The escaped menagerie, ear, horn, tooth and talon had vanished completely, and Bowers' occasional efforts to propel the raft with the broken oar did not meet with any great success. It seemed as if the raft were ambitious to spin like a top.

Although Bowers showed a cheerful face he was up to the ears in assistance homesteads program. The FSHA, however, is primarily experimental.

Other recovery agencies are lending a helping hand. The Tennessee valley authority, operating in an area, four-fifths as large as England is attempting to demonstrate the advantages of farm life with part-time factory work.

Much of the work of PERA is tied up with projects for combining farm and industrial activities.

'Pet Child' Of President Evidence of the administration's keen interest in this problem was given recently in an official announcement from the White House that President Roosevelt planned to call soon a conference of industrial leaders to discuss the whole problem.

Mr. Roosevelt's personal interest has been shown in other ways as well. At the opening of the subsistence homesteads exhibit here recently, he characterized the project as one of "my own pet children."

"By using raw matter, brain trust or otherwise," he said then, "the administration intends to push forward its program of subsistence homesteads.

Sundown Stories

Loyal Puddle Muddlers

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER Willy Nilly was, in a way, feeling very happy. The bears were ready to sacrifice even their cubs for him. Yes, they were saying that he should accept the offer made by the two men to take Blacky and Jupiter along so they could act in the movies.

But the little man, Willy Nilly, had seen the tears falling from Jelly Bear's eyes and had noticed that Honey Bear had turned her back. Evidently she did not want to be seen for probably she, too, was crying.

She said something in a low voice to Jelly Bear, and he spoke to Willy Nilly, blinking away his tears. "I have rather weak eyes as you know," growled Jelly Bear softly, "and sometimes they seem to water. But I wonder, Willy Nilly, if you'd go up to the cave and get a little package wrapped in brown paper."

"I would go myself but I—I didn't like to speak of it before—but I—I have a stiff leg and it hurts me to walk. It's not really bad, I will be all right if I keep a bit quiet. Do you mind getting the package? It's most important we should have it now."

"You'll find it underneath some dirt, 'way in the cave," said Willy Nilly. Off he went.

"Oh, don't let the cubs go!" cawed Christopher to the bears.

"We couldn't get along without them," barked Rip.

"They must stay!" crowed Top Notch, and the ducks quackingly cried the same.

"Do you think we want them to go?" cried Honey Bear, and now she crumpled up in a great heap and sobbed and sobbed.

"We're doing it for Willy Nilly's sake," she said, between sobs. "He has done so much for us. He needs the money. He has done everything for all of us. It's our first chance to help him."

"I think he'd rather have us, with all the trouble we cause him, than be without us," cackled Top Notch, the rooster, "and I ought to be the one to help him. All this last muddle came because of me. Yet he loves me in spite of it. And this time I'm not being conceited."

No one thought Top Notch was being conceited now. "I agree with Top Notch, caw, caw," said Christopher Columbus Crow. "Certainly I'm always getting into mischief. I can't seem to help myself—probably because mischief always seems such fun to me."

"But we'll all do what we can to help him now. We'll fill the pantry—we'll find food. We'll do chores. Oh, the cubs mustn't go!"

Honey Bear's cubs Blacky and Jupiter had gone over to their mother when they had seen how she felt.

She was hugging them now, and the tears were falling from her eyes.

"My dear little ones, my own little precious babies," she sobbed. "Oh, oh, must mother let you go from her arms? But you understand why it is—and you want to go on adventures, don't you? Poor Honey Bear. Her heart was breaking."

"I'm afraid to go out into the big world," cried Jupiter.

"I don't want to act for any one except the Puddle Muddlers," cried Blacky.

"They'll be good to you. The men really looked kind. I watched them very carefully," said Honey Bear. But as she put her arms around her cubs again after wiping the tears from her eyes with a big old leaf she had found, it was in her bear's thoughts that this might be the last time she would be hugging them so. And she sobbed more than ever.

"I'm a foolish old bear," she said. "I'm being very selfish. It will be hard at first for all of us, but after a while we'll all get used to it and, when we think of each other the thoughts will be happy and pleasant."

"That may be so with some," said Top Notch. "But we Puddle Muddlers care for each other too much. Oh, yes, we'd get along. So would I get along I suppose if I lost one leg. But I'd never be quite the same again."

"You're a wise rooster," cawed Christopher. "This would be worse, too, because the loneliness would be in our hearts and in our thoughts."

"Yes, yes," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "Now our ducks are at camp but we go to see them every little while and soon they'll be coming home again. If they were going to leave us and go far far away where we couldn't see them if we wished, it would be quite another matter. By the way, what has happened to Willy Nilly?"

SLOT MACHINES MUST GO

According to a recent order by Judge Dink James the time limit for the operation of slot machines in this county was up last night and all machines in operation after that time were to be seized by officers and the persons in whose establishments the machines were operated were to be ordered into court. It is noticeable that in the past few days many of the slot machines very much in evidence before have disappeared, but whether they have gone out of operation or whether they have just been moved to another location less public, is not known. Under the order, however, all machines in evidence must be seized and it will be up to the court to decide upon their legality rather than the officers, so in view of this order it is up to the officers to do their duty by taking up each and every machine they can find and hold same until the cases have been disposed of by the court. We believe that the majority of the people of this county want to see these slot machines done away with and certainly the officer that fails to do his duty along this line will meet with general public disapproval.

A Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON DAY BOOK Washington — With the problem of relief for the destitute becoming more and more of vital concern to the federal government, the question of what to do about it is occupying some of the best minds of the administration. Those officials directly charged with giving aid to the hundreds of thousands who have been left without opportunity for work because of new developments in industry are not the only ones trying to arrive at a solution of the problem. The cooperation of numerous other agencies has been enlisted in an effort to develop some sort of a program where the government and private business together can cope with the situation. The answer, all seem agreed, lies in decentralization of industry—the setting up of small factories in the rural districts so that industrial workers may live in the country and raise a large share of their food.

Decentralization Seen

Some visualize in the not too far distant future a change in environment for millions and a return to the farm and factory combination of a century ago. The latest census figures show that two-thirds of all factory wage jobs today are to be found in three per cent of the land of the nation. Only during the last 10 years has decentralization begun on a large scale. Now it is estimated that some five million workers are employed in mechanical and manufacturing industry in the country or in towns of less than 2,500 population. The nucleus around which the government is centering its efforts in this direction is the $25,000,000 sub-

YOUR GRANDAD LOOKED BEFORE HE BOUGHT . . .

You can bet he made sure a horse was "sound in wind and limb." He knew it paid to look them all over before he bought.

Don't buy ANY car too hurriedly

At that, it's a lot easier for you to get the real facts about an automobile than it was for grandfather to size up a horse. And if you're as tired as we are of being told that every automobile is the "best in the world," you'll do your own looking, your own comparing, your own deciding.

If you're interested in safety, step on the great equal-action brakes in a Hudson or Terraplane. Then try the brakes of other cars. If it's smooth power you seek, ride behind the sweet-running engine of a Hudson-built car. Then see how others compare. What about ruggedness, low upkeep cost, ability to keep on "taking it"? Hudson and Terraplane dealers can show you sworn affidavits of owners. Ask other dealers for evidence like this!

Compare—Then You Be the Judge

That's why we say: "Don't buy any car too hurriedly." Not even a Hudson or a Terraplane. Look at the others, too. Decide by what you see and feel, rather than what you hear. Then buy where you get the most for your money. We'll be glad to help you. Come in, examine, drive—then compare.

JUDGE JAMES CLUB SPEAKER

County Court Jurist Tells Rotarians of Necessity For Drivers' License

By WYATT BROWN
 "People ask me to double the fine but please do not take their privilege to drive from them," said Judge Dink James last night at the regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Rotary club. In his opinion a drivers' license would be a good thing for it would give a more ready method of guarding who drives and weed out those unfit to drive who demonstrate their inability.

A law in anticipation of a drivers licensing law was passed in our state legislature requiring those unable to satisfy a judgment for damage done to another have their automobile license revoked. A law comprehending driver's license requirements was proposed by a Pitt County representative in the North Carolina legislature in 1931 and it passed the House but failed in the Senate.

Law requiring a drivers license would tend to reduce road hazards from incompetent physically and mentally drivers and render the public more driver safety conscious, Judge James said. He is also attracted by the feature that driver's accident records are kept on their licenses and officials can keep better tab on violators. Revoking license of drivers in Judge James' opinion is the most effective way to deal with dangerous drivers.

Automobile dealers object to such a law because so many of their customers are ignorant and reckless drivers and this has kept the law license of drivers in Judge James' too, the twenty per cent increased safety claimed by enthusiasts is not certain; so people are skeptical about such a law, he said.

Following Judge James Professor Slay of East Carolina Teachers college faculty appeared under the aegis of Health and Happiness Committee. He made a very good point in showing the role of the health crusader as found in Pasteur and Reed in eliminating fear from the lives of people by making epidemics fairly negligible in modern society. For this reason Dr. Slay would like to see famous doctors who have saved more lives lost in the World War and saved more money in health than the debt of the Franco-Prussian War played up as heroes to school children instead of Napoleon and the like.

Health crusaders are the happiness makers and builders of health in our nation. Dr. Slay included thumb nail sketches in his talk of the health crusaders who have been outstanding in eliminating such things as hydrophobia, yellow fever, pellagra etc.

Guest of the club were: Dr. William Kitchen MacDowell, Dr. Frank Wilson, Jr. and James Galloway. Claude Gaskins won the attendance prize. In the absence of the regular presiding official former president of the club, Jasper Winslow, presided over the meeting.

REALTY FLOW NORMAL HERE

Thirteen Pieces of Property Change Hands in Pitt Last Few Days

The normal flow of realty business continued in Pitt county the last several days and records in the office of the register of deeds today revealed the exchange of thirteen pieces of property in various sections of the county.

The largest of the transactions was from Mrs. Carrie D. Laughinghouse to J. H. Manning and others a lot for a consideration of $5,500.

The remainder of the transactions involved sums ranging from $1 to $2,000.

- They follow:
- F. C. Harding, tr. to J. S. Dixon 1 1/2 acres $1,550.00

 - Hardy Johnson to R. A. Fountain and Son 7 3-4 acres $1.00
 - Town of Grimesland to R. D. Edwards $161.38
 - W. C. Braswell, tr. to Hood Bank 3 lots $800.00

The result of price protection in the book business, under the ebookers' code, has been a gain in business for smaller retailers, but a loss in total sales to publishers, a prominent wholesaler says.

COMING IN PERSON!

CLYDE BEATTY—WORLD'S GREATEST TRAINER

The world's greatest wild animal trainer, Clyde Beatty, will make his appearance in person at Greenville soon as the "feature of features" with the great Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

There is no question about the position the fearless Beatty holds in the rank of wild animal trainers, for, no other man or woman in the world, ever before, dared enter an arena with forty wild and ferocious lions and tigers—the most treacherous beasts known to man.

Beatty is essentially a product of the American circus. He was born near Chillicothe, Ohio, and began his career as an animal trainer in 1922, although at that time he had no idea he would today be acknowledged the greatest in the world.

In addition to Clyde Beatty, the huge show will offer many other wild animal displays by noted trainers, one being John Helliott and a mix-

Leader Of Textile Strikers Started In Mill As Child

Washington—(AP)—A diminutive, unassuming man who worked as a child in the woolen mills of England stands out as the principal figure in what may be the nation's greatest strike.

Francis Gorman was thrust into the national limelight by the vote of the United Textile Workers giving him supreme command of the general textile walkout.

He was a messenger in a woolen mill in Bradford, Yorkshire, England, when his family in 1903 decided to seek the greater opportunities they heard existed in America, but for Gorman it meant merely another textile mill.

He became a skilled wool sorter in Providence, R. I., and Lawrence, Mass., and within a few years became president of the Rhode Island wool sorters union. He gained prominence in textile union circles in a famous strike in Pawtucket, and in 1924 left the textile looms to become a paid officer of the United Textile Workers.

Somewhere along the trail Gorman acquired a fund of information on economics and social service and facility of expression that has made him an effective speaker.

In his periods of relaxation—and there have been very few in recent months—he spends hours listening to symphonies and other music. He's something of a joker and even during the nerve-wracking hours of the present textile crisis his merry quips frequently relieve the tension at strike headquarters.

Ordinarily Gorman is a dapper dresser, but of late his clothes are rumpled as if his customarily sleek black hair. Driven by tremendous energy, he is quick, nervous in manner, but decisive in speech and action.

He was appointed labor commissioner of Rhode Island but the Senate withheld confirmation. He is a member of the advisory board of the United States Re-employment Service of the Department of Labor and was one of the first labor leaders to advocate unemployment insurance. He's married and has five children. But he's been so busy lately he doesn't know where he lives.

His family is in Providence, R. I., but recently moved and Gorman doesn't know the new address.

New Books

By JOHN SELBY
 Georges Duhamel has been known in this land for more or less learned treatises, and not in his more charming incarnation as novelist. Up to the publication of "Papa Pasquier" (Harper's) that is. And that study of the French by Vera Brittain (Macmillan): a small volume of poetry by the author of "Testament of Youth" by no means revolutionary, but usually sensitive and always expressive.

"One of Us," by Earnest Poole (Macmillan): a novel of conflict between generations and modes of thought that seldom goes faster than a walk; by the author of "The Harbor," but not the same sort of book.

Deep Staff
 "These Hurrying Years," by Gerald Heard (Oxford): a review of the first third of this century, undertaken in an attempt to show that our course has been determined by unseen, subterranean forces rather than by the commonly blamed economic and political stimuli.

"Zaharoff, High Priest of War," by Guffes Davenport (Lothrop): a reasonably interesting account of the life and machinations of Sir Basil Zaharoff, whose latest exploit has been making the front pages in connection with his submarine manufacturing deal.

"Black God," by D. Manners-Sutton (Longmans): what happened while a certain black man sat on the bank of a certain African river, awaiting his revenge; an African story for those who don't believe Africa is as lush and romantic as it is cracked up to be.

bourgeoisie, the first of a series of novels put together to resemble reminiscences, will quite probably change the balance. For there is a quiet and calm truth in "Papa Pasquier" that cannot very well be ignored.

Papa was one of these quixotic men who are always asserting, usually wrong and seldom pertinent. His wife was the faithful and self-sacrificing Frenchwoman whose chief fault was loving her husband too well. There were four children at the time of this novel only one of which, Laurent, is made very tangible.

And the theme of the book is the way in which a prospective legacy led Papa Pasquier into dream after dream, excess after excess; how it forced his wife to cover all these lapses, how it even affected the children and brought the family to the verge of destitution. Finally the legacy arrived, and it was not worth the trouble.

The story and the writing are typically French, but there is no dullness in the book after the first 34 pages of pseudo-genealogy are behind one.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Cotton futures were fairly steady 5 to 8 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and on generally favorable weather.

Offerings were comparatively light and after selling off to 13.12 at the start December rallied to 13.16 right after the call on trade buying and covering.

By the end of the first half hour December was ruling around 13.15 with active months showing net losses of three to six points.

A little more selling developed after publication of the weekly weather report. The market at midday was quiet at about the lowest prices of the morning with December selling at 13.10 and May 13.27 or 8 to 9 points net lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Further pressure on U. S. Government securities gave today's financial market a rather spotty appearance.

While federal loans apparently were without any substantial support and corporation bonds sagged sympathetically, stocks maintained a fairly steady tone.

Trading in the equities department was extremely dull throughout most of the session.

There were a few issues that exhibited quite strength but most of the leaders did virtually nothing.

Grains gave no indication of any immediate spurt to higher levels although the majority were a trifle better.

The late tone was a trifle irregular. Transfers were 350,000 shares.
