TEXTILE STRIKE EXPECTED TO END TOMORROW

President Roosevelt Appeals For End of Textile Walkout

Union Leaders Plan To Confer On New Proposal

STRIKE VOTE EXPECTED FOR LATER TODAY

Report of President's Mediation Board to Be Considered in Conference Today; Strike Leaders Favorably Impressed With Mediation Board Report; Special Board May Serve On Arbitration

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Termination of the textile strike tomorrow at the latest was indicated today as the executive counsel of the United Textile Workers arranged to meet to act upon the report of the president's mediation board. Strike leaders were well pleased with the report of the president's mediation board which they characterized as an indictment of the mill owners and explained that the strike could be ended only by instructions from the council. A vote to accept the report and end the strike immediately was expected late today or tomorrow at the latest if manufacturers also accept the recommendations of the president's board and agreed to take back all strikers without discrimination.

Beaufort County Couple Awakens Near Midnight to Find Unexpected Present

A stork in human guise visited the home of F. A. Eakes, in Beaufort county, last Monday night and left a baby boy on the front porch. It was revealed by reports reaching the city today.

The child, described as three or four days old, was snugly encased in a goods box, had a bottle of milk and a goodly supply of clothes, and was bawling at the top of his voice when members of the Eakes family found him.

The report said Mr. and Mrs. Eakes were snoozing peacefully near the midnight hour when they were awakened by the opening and closing of the front door.

Investigating, Mr. Eakes found the box on the front porch directly in front of the door, and upon opening it discovered the unexpected present.

The person placing the child on the porch was believed to have sped away in an automobile, although this fact could not be verified by Mr. and Mrs. Eakes.

The baby was taken into the home and named "Billy," and today had become a permanent member of the family. No idea as to the identity of the child's parent was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Eakes.

The baby was said to be in the best of health and didn't seem to care a darn about his new environment, contenting himself with periodic attacks on the bottle of milk so thoughtfully left in the box by those who found the new home for him.

The Eakes' home is about a half mile from the Pitt county line and had been the scene of many visitors since the arrival of the baby.

HUNDREDS DIE AS TYPHOON LASHES JAPAN

Nearly Thousand Persons Reported Killed And 3,000 Injured By Heavy Gale

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(AP)—At least 867 persons were killed and 3,027 injured today by a typhoon which roared across western-central Japan from Argasi to Nagano.

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The most destructive typhoon in a generation lashed the cities in the heart of Japan today, leaving 645 known dead and more than 1,000 injured and scores missing.

Newspapers estimated that Osaka City alone suffered damage of 300,000,000 yen, about $90,000,000.

The greatest tragedy was enacted in the flimsy built schools of Osaka and Kyoto where the children were just beginning their lessons when the gale roared up from the south to a death-dealing fury.

The governor of Osaka reported that in Osaka City 67 schoolhouses had collapsed, killing 421 pupils and teachers and injuring 1,100.

Outside the schools of Osaka, 96 were killed and 617 injured. Four thousand buildings were destroyed, including 500 factories and warehouses.

The death toll in Kyoto was 103. There were 352 injured, and 523 buildings destroyed.

OFFER REBUTTAL IN ELECTION PROBE
Lumberton, Sept. 21.—Affidavits in rebuttal of those presented by the petitioning counsel last week were offered before the state board of elections here today as it resumed investigation of alleged primary irregularities in St. Pauls and Howells townships.

Witnesses, alleged by the petitioners to have been non-residents of St. Pauls or unregistered for the June primary testified to being qualified to vote, and several charged with voting in two precincts gave strong denials.

TAKE STEPS TO MAKE HOUSING LOANS IN PITT

R. L. Powell Named Temporary Chairman at Meeting of Group One Bankers

Tentative steps looking to the formation of a permanent organization for making loans for home improvements under the National Housing act were taken at a meeting of Group One bankers of the North Carolina Bankers Association at the court house here last night.

In addition to representatives from various banks of the group, officers of the State Bankers Association were present and explained the efforts of banks to aid the government in carrying out its plan for home improvements.

S. C. Ives, of Bethel, chairman of Group One bankers, presided over the meeting.

R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was selected as chairman of the local committee until a permanent organization is formed. Persons desiring to obtain loans for improvements of their homes have been asked to confer with Mr. Powell.

It was said today that all banks of the city, the Home Building and Loan Association and the Federal Home Loan Bank here were co-operating in the effort to place loans at the disposition of persons desiring to repair their homes and help further the government's plan to make improvements while providing employment for thousands of people throughout the nation.

Millard F. Jones, president of the North Carolina Bankers Association and W. H. Neal, vice-president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Winston-Salem, addressed the gathering, telling of the advantages to be derived by the public through the far-reaching efforts of the federal administration to improve conditions.

Paul Brown, North Carolina liaison officer of the Federal Housing Administration and also secretary of the North Carolina Bankers Association, explained the Housing act through the medium of a moving picture machine operated by Harrill Wood, of the Asheville office of the Housing Administration. The pictures were of an informative nature and vividly explained the various kinds of improvements which may be made under the plan.

The bankers exhibited much interest in the plan in view of the fact that their banks have qualified as mediums through which loans will be handled.

Governor Ehringhaus issued a proclamation this week, calling on the people of the state to take advantage of the administration's effort to improve trade and employment through home improvements and thereby contribute to the general movement to bring a return of prosperity to the entire country.

The State Banking officials will visit all sections of the state in the interest of the improvement program. They will appear in Enfield tonight and Goldsboro next.

WILL CONDEMN LAND FOR POSTOFFICE ANNEX
Fayetteville, Sept. 20.—Condemnation proceedings have been started to give the postoffice department title to the property on Maxwell street needed for the extension of the Fayetteville postoffice. The cost of the extension will be in excess of $100,000, according to Congressman J. Bayard Clark, who has been working diligently for a larger postoffice for this city.

An investigation revealed that it would be impracticable to put a second story on the present building and the plan to establish a federal building in which the local sessions of the United States court would be held is in abeyance at present. The structure will be enlarged in size without adding another story.

NASTURTIUM, FOREST GREEN IS STRIKING COMBINATION
Paris.—(AP)—Nasturtium and other green make a striking color combination in one smart costume which appeared in the 1934-35 fashion shows. Molyneux makes a frock of forest green wool designed on the slender streamline silhouette he favors this season and adds as its only accent a belt of nasturtium velvet tied in a soft bow at left front. He tops it with a hip-length coat of forest green wool.

Over 6 Million Dollars Paid Out For Leaf Here

The report gave the day's sales at 1,169,768 pounds which brought $362,222.26 at an average of $31.05. The highest average of the season, $31.23 was established the first of the week of nearly a million and half pounds of tobacco.

The same week last season the market was closed because of the marketing holiday called by the governor because of low prices prevailing at the time.

Up to the same date last year the market had sold 2,693,685 pounds for $273,751.46 at an average of $10.12 a hundred.

Mr. Cobb said there was over a million pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses today with indications that floors would be cleared during the late afternoon. Prices for good tobacco continued to soar today with demand for these grades the most pronounced of the season.

BANDITS STAGE BOLD HOLDUP OF N. Y. BANK

$42,000 Obtained in Robbery of Corn Exchange Bank During The Morning

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Three robbers held up the Corn Exchange Bank and Trust Company branch at Avenue D and Tenth street today, slugged the porter into unconsciousness and escaped in an automobile with cash believed to have totaled about $42,000.

The three men walked into the bank, produced pistols and when John McKane, 35, porter, resisted, they slugged him with a blackjack. A few moments later Edward Renshaw, the branch manager entered. The robbers forced him at pistol point to hand over the bag of money. They then jumped into a car and sped away. Fifteen minutes later a car believed to have been abandoned at 18th street and 2nd Avenue.

Judge Wooten said today the visitors, who were shown over various parts of the county, were very much impressed with conditions prevailing in the agricultural realm and declared the outlook for a good year was the brightest in many years.

Judge Wooten said 300 loans involving approximately $300,000 had been made through the land bank to growers in this county in addition to money made available through other sources.

KIDNAPER IN LINDY CASE HELD IN N. Y.

Bruno Kauptmann Ordered Held Without Bail When Arraigned This Morning

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Kauptmann was ordered held without bail until Monday by Magistrate Richard McKimney in West Farms police court today, when he was arraigned on a charge of extortion of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom.

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A picture depicting Brun Richard Kauptmann as the man who played a lone hand was drawn today by Department of Justice agents.

Expressing confidence his arrest heralded complete solution of the crime of the century, officials put every ounce of energy into rounding off their investigation.

Early today Edgar Hoover, director of the Justice Department, telephoned the department from New York that he believed the solution of the Lindbergh case had assured the task remaining for his department through a net of evidence from which there could be no escape.

"Every last smudge of Hauptmann's record will be investigated," Attorney General Cummings said today.

"I imagine the investigation will take several weeks. We will try to find out what Hauptmann has been doing since he came to this country and before."

After explaining that much investigation must be done before the case is carried to trial, Attorney General Cummings said:

"New Jersey has a law enacted in 1931 that provides maximum life imprisonment for kidnaping.

"That state has a death penalty for first degree murder—murder that is premeditated. It also calls for life imprisonment for second degree murder."

He added that homicide committed in the commission of robbery or burglary is first degree murder. The long time required in reaching a break in the case, always regarded as of transcontinental importance, by Attorney General Cummings, found the department working smoothly.

Durham, Sept. 21.—Judge J. R. Patton in Recorder's Court today told Mrs. S. E. Munday, Lilac avenue resident, that she must quit chasing her neighbors with milk bottles and other household articles or spend 30 days in the County Home. She appeared in court today with her four children, one of them an infant in her arms, and said her neighbors continually "pestered" her until she could not stand it any longer. When the sentence was stricken out provided she changed her attitude toward her neighbors she said she was going to either turn her house around so as not to see her neighbors anymore or move out of the alley.

High Banking Men Visit City
Presidents of Federal Land Bank and Intermediate Credit Bank Here Yesterday

Two high banking officials of the nation were Greenville visitors yesterday, and after looking over the community went on to other sections in their county-to-county trip over this section of the state.

They were: D. Emmerson Scarborough, president of the Federal Land Bank, Columbia, S. C. and Mr. Graham, president of the Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia.

While here they conferred with Judge F. M. Wooten, local Land Bank commissioner and representative.

Judge Wooten said today the visitors, who were shown over various parts of the county, were very much impressed with conditions prevailing in the agricultural realm and declared the outlook for a good year was the brightest in many years.

Judge Wooten said 300 loans involving approximately $300,000 had been made through the land bank to growers in this county in addition to money made available through other sources.

HOOVER CARTS VANISH IN PITT

Old Mode of Transportation Now Used As Trailer Behind New Automobiles

Hoover carts, the mode of transportation named in honor of the Republican president during the days of the depression, have vanished completely in this section of the state and farmers today are riding in brand new automobiles which the Roosevelt "new deal" gave them in place of hard times and misery.

The Hoover carts have been converted into trailers which speed behind automobiles to the local tobacco market with millions of pounds of bright leaf tobacco for sale at prices described as the best since the high peak of 1919.

Farmers in the old Hoover cart days wore a frown caused by low prices and the lowly transportation plane to which they had drifted. Today their faces are wreathed in smiles as they ride to market in shining automobiles and look forward to the good prices which new deal has brought them.

So completely has the Hoover cart disappeared, that a prominent business man was heard to say yesterday that he planned to offer a reward for one of the carts to preserve as a relic of the depression and the days when Hoover spoke impressively of the "prosperity just around the corner" that never came while he was in office.

So completely has been the change in the financial standing of farmers the last year that they have almost forgotten the purgatorial blackness and darkness of the depression era, but frequently are reminded of it by the groaning trailer that used to be a Hoover cart speeding behind their shiny new cars to the various tobacco centers of the district. It is a grand feeling to ride in style again and a relief indeed to be able to convert the old Hoover cart to its new use, they say.

FINE REPORT MADE BY HIS COMMITTEE

Roosevelt Expresses Hope That Strikers And Manufacturers Will Reach Terms of Settlement at Once; Co-operation and Fair Play Urged on Both Sides

Hyde Park, Sept. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today issued a personal appeal to the textile strikers and manufacturers to end immediately the textile strike.

His statement backed up the same proposal, made last night by the special board of inquiry headed by Governor Winant of New Hampshire.

The President's declaration, made public today through Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre follows:

"In formally approving the reports submitted to me by the board of inquiry for the cotton textile industry, I want to express every sincere hope that all employees now on strike will return to work and that all textile manufacturers will take back employees without discrimination. At the same time I am confident that manufacturers will aid the government in carrying out the steps outlined.

"Settlement of the problems involved will be reached with the exercise of a spirit of cooperation, of fair play on both sides."

Mr. Roosevelt thoroughly read and discussed the report of the board in conference here yesterday with Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and Governor Winant.

Secretary Perkins enthusiastically endorsed the principles enunciated by the special inquiry board for settlement.

It is believed Mr. Roosevelt is ready to have the special board serve as a committee of arbitration should the strikers and manufacturers agree.

BLIND TIGER SEIZED HERE

Jack Atkinson Arrested After Police Find 10 Gallons of Booze In His Home

Jack Atkinson, colored, was arrested when police raided his home in the western part of the city this morning and seized approximately ten gallons of whiskey.

Chief of Police George Clark said the Negro admitted the whiskey belonged to him.

Atkinson will be given preliminary hearing in police court tomorrow morning and bound over to the next sitting of county court.

Atkinson was described as an old offender of the prohibition law, having been nabbed several times in past years and served terms on the county roads.

Other persons whose names were not revealed, were in the building, but Atkinson's confession, it was said, relieved them of any blame in the liquor case.

Inmates of San Quentin prison, California, were issued 235,895 library books this last fiscal year for a per capita average of 29 1/2 books a year.

SLAIN STRIKER IS LAID TO REST

Mt. Holly, N. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Under dreary skies, hundreds of striking textile workers today attended funeral services here for one of their number, Ernest K. Riley, who died from a bayonet wound inflicted by a National Guardsman, and heard speakers exhort them to stand firm that "his sacrifice might not be in vain."

A subdued crowd estimated at 2,000, many of them in shirt sleeves and blue overalls, gathered solemnly in a grassy lot at the edge of this cotton mill town as the ceremonies were delayed an hour by the late arrival of some of the speakers.

Mrs. Riley and the seven children orphaned by Riley's death in a Charlotte hospital yesterday, sat with other relatives under a green canopy. A few feet in front was the plain, gray casket around which were banked a mass of flowers. Wreaths came from locals of the United Textile Workers' Union in several nearby communities.

TIGER ISLAND
A New Serial by Gouverneur Morris

Chapter 33
"TIGER, TIGER!"

IT began to look as if even the barrage of fire would not much longer hold the tiger back and toward dusk, working with feverish haste, Bowers finished the deadfall for the last time.

He had simplified it somewhat and there remained a twelve-foot piece of coconut stem for which there was no logical place in the new design and no real need.

"Where are you going to put that piece?" Ivy asked.

The tiger just beyond the line of fire snarled at the sound of her voice, and Bowers answered:

"I am not going to put it anywhere."

As he spoke he gave the big stick a little push with his hand so that it would fall away from him and at the same moment, or almost the same moment, realized what an idiotic thing he had done and sprang for the falling timber in a vain effort to catch it and keep it from falling.

The further end of the timber grazed the nearest of the three triggers and the deadfall collapsed with a heavy crash. Bowers sprang back, to be out of danger, but not far enough. His head was merely grazed, but he fell as helplessly as one of his own logs and lay unconscious at Ivy's feet.

During the long siege Ivy had seemed calm and untroubled, but her nervous system had been slowly going to pieces. She perceived at once that Bowers was not dead.

Instinct told her immediately that unless he came to quickly and was able to help himself, there was nothing between him and death but herself and the clumsy one-shot gun. The barrier of fire which they had made against the tiger was burning low. The way to Bowers over the fallen timbers of the deadfall was simple and direct.

Her mental processes at the moment were quick and cool. If the tiger came to them it would be with a rush. Better, she thought, for her to go to him while the fire still burned and he still hesitated to attack.

If the gun failed her, as it probably would, the tiger, when he had killed her, would for some time pay no further attention to Bowers. Bowers would have a chance to come to and save himself.

"You great, cowardly, skulking beast," she said and she stepped from the last of the fallen logs to firm ground, separated from him by no more than a dozen feet. "Afraid of a little fire! I don't see what I am doing with this gun. I could drive a thing like you with a whip. I wish I had my whip. I'd cut your hide to ribbons!"

WORDS angrily spoken might, she conceived, serve a little to bewilder the tiger. She kept the gun pointed at him, and the hammer-stone ready to strike. It only wouldn't make a move until she was within a few feet of him!

In places the fire was almost out. She stepped across it, and the tensed muscles of the tiger began to quiver. He was going to spring.

She drew a long shivering breath and bit her lips. Then with death staring her in the face, she suddenly smiled and in a loud voice began to repeat:

"Tiger, tiger burning bright . . ."

She finished with a wild scream of rage and fear. The tiger sprang, and she struck the firing-pin of the gun with a hammer-stone. There was a terrific detonation. She saw ten thousand stars.

When Ivy came to, it was night and a heavy weight was being lifted from her. Her brain began to clear.

"What happened?" she asked.

But Bowers, who was kneeling beside her and feeling gingerly for broken bones, did not answer.

"Do you hurt much anywhere?" he asked.

"No . . . no . . ." she said, "not particularly. But I feel numb and prickly."

She had reason to feel that way. She had been lying under the body of a dead tiger for nearly two hours.

Bowers lighted a match. Ivy was all a mess of blood. But it was all tiger blood. She hadn't a scratch. She had only one bad bruise. This had been made by the recoil of the gun. Her right shoulder, hurt her for several days. She was weak and shaken, but the hurt had been to her nervous system and not to her body. She was even able, after resting awhile to climb the potholed pole to the cave.

They talked well into the night. Bowers was so proud of Ivy that he couldn't stop telling her so and he didn't.

Ivy herself was happier than she had ever been before. There is nothing in the world so sweet as praise that is well deserved.

Usually they waked at dawn. The next morning, however, they overslept.

WHEN Bowers yawned his way to the mouth of the cave to have a look at the weather the sun had already cleared the volcano. Having blinded himself somewhat in ascertaining the exact position of the sun he stood blinking and did not for some minutes perceive the gray hull of a gunboat at anchor in the lagoon.

When he did at last see the Lady-smith, he turned and rushed back into the cave laughing and shouting like a schoolboy. He got out the starred and striped flag of his country, hitched it to the waiting hal-yards and proudly hoisted it to the top of its flagpole, where it gayly flapped and rattled in the fresh breeze from the sea.

On the Lady-smith there were many pairs of sharp eyes, and a few minutes later the credit of being the first to see "Old Glory" went to the boatswain's mate. Two minutes later, and thereafter at intervals of a minute for twenty-one minutes, the Lady-smith fired a gun.

During those twenty-one minutes many other things happened.

While the flag was being saluted, the commander of the Lady-smith, gazing through his marine-glasses, had a lamentable lapse from his usual precise and correct English, and was heard to murmur: "It's them."

While the flag was still being saluted, a boat was lowered, and this put a thought in Ivy's head. She rushed back into the cave and returned with the dress which she had made on the Bolero in one hand, and a blue dress, also of a wash material, in the other, and in a great excitement asked which she should wear.

"The gold brocade," said Bowers joyously, "and don't forget your diamonds."

Other things happened. Bowers started off to greet and meet the landing party. As he started down the ladder, the remorseful Helen, unseen by him, was starting up.

Meeting in the middle, neither of them stopped, but there was a second of time during which Helen did not climb the ladder, but the somewhat startled Bowers himself.

He shouted to Ivy, "Look who's here! Helen!" and dropped the remaining six feet and hurried to the beach.

Willing hands helped with the packing, and transferred all of their belongings to the boat. But Helen, stylishly dressed for the occasion in her red coat with the gold braid, and her little green hat with the red feather, insisted on carrying her own suitcase.

The coming of the Lady-smith to Tiger Island was not an accident. The great smoke rising from the conflagration in the back valley had been seen and reported by a passing ship. The Admiralty had decided that it would be worth while to investigate. The Lady-smith had received orders, and here she was.

Yes, Wong Bo had been captured, and had taken his own life. Bowers' guns had been recovered and were in apple condition. What, he no longer had any use for them? He was going to give up big-game hunting!

Ivy said that he didn't have to unless he wanted to, but he insisted that he was going to trade in his guns for a lot of cameras and do that kind of big-game hunting.

That night at dinner the commander and the second in command wanted to know all about the economies and routines of life on a desert island, but Bowers was much too gay and joyous to be serious.

"I did all the cave-keeping," he said, "cooking, washing, ironing, shelling peas, peeling potatoes and working the vacuum cleaner. I wore a cap and an apron. The woman did all the hunting."

"Caw, caw, caw, caw, caw-w-w-w-w-w-w-w-w-w-w," cried Christopher from the pond.

The two men were there. Willy Nilly rushed down to the pond.

"What is it?" he asked excitedly. "We just came down here to wash our hands and faces," one of the men answered. "It would be fun, we thought, if we camped out for a night, and so we did not go on with our journey."

"Besides we thought we'd wait around another day and ask you once more if you wouldn't agree to our plan. If not, we have another one."

Willy Nilly's heart sank. Without a doubt the other plan would be that they'd take the cubs without his permission, and then let him try to get them back.

"What is the other plan?" Willy Nilly asked in such a frightened tone of voice that even its sound made him nervous.

"We wondered if you wouldn't let us have the cubs just for one picture and we'll bring them back in a few months or less. They are the very cubs we need—tame, intelligent—everything."

Willy Nilly felt relieved. So they were merely going to ask for the cubs for a shorter time. They had no idea of taking them away. But no wonder he had felt nervous after all that had happened, and the ups and downs they had had.

"I'm very, very sorry, you've both been very patient and pleasant, and I regret that my ducks didn't make you more welcome at their pond. But we can never let the cubs go—not for so much as a month!"

Duke Will Have Excellent End In Earle Wentz

Durham, Sept. 21.—(AP)—While Coach Wallace Wade is having plenty of trouble with one end position in preparing his 1934 Duke team for its opening game, the other flank job is being capably and brilliantly filled by Earl Wentz, all-conference end last season from whom a lot is expected this fall.

"Wimpy", as his teammates call him (the reason for this nickname is a mystery for Wentz in no way resembles Popeye's hamburger-eating buddy), is showing lots of fight and hustle, as well as his usual ability, in fall training sessions.

There have been few things to cheer Coach Wade but the work of Wentz is one of them. He appears to be set for his best season. He is in excellent shape, is catching passes with the ability of an All-American and is performing his work excellently both on defense and offense.

With Wentz and Tom Rogers, who is now assistant freshman coach at Duke, Duke had two of the finest ends in the country last fall and their consistently fine work was no little reason for the success of the 1933 outfit.

Wentz is tall and rangy, strong, active and fast. He has most important duties on offense in addition to the assignment of pass-snagging.

While Wentz is settled in that post, work goes forward slowly in filling the other flank position. Ed West and Ab Jones, subs last year, Dick Talaferro and Frank Liana, sophomores, are waging a hard battle for the post.

Outside of the five berths occupied by last year's regulars—Cornelius, Wentz, Durner and the Dunlap brothers—no positions are settled in the Duke grid camp yet.

Virginia Ewing Gates, heiress and daughter of the president of the University of Pennsylvania, is safe, and it was romance and not kidnapping that explained her disappearance from a western dude ranch. Tourist Pennies Repair Tumbling French Chateaux

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
Paris—(AP)—Tourist pennies are helping to keep the wolf from the door of some of France's most magnificent chateaux.

Hard times have hit prince and marquis just as heavily as everyone else and some of France's most famous country homes are falling into ruin because their owners can't afford to keep them up.

Now an association of chateau owners has been formed whereby tourists may visit these private dwellings at certain times on payment of a light fee. The money goes toward keeping plumbing in order and walls from tumbling down.

British Follow Suit
It has worked so successfully that a similar association may be formed in England to help the lordly owners of some of Britain's stately houses.

Called the "most aristocratic trade union in the world", the French association was founded by the owners of chateaux to defend their own interests and to preserve for France a tourist asset that was being threatened with oblivion.

The chief qualification is to own a chateau, preferably with historic interest, and to be ready to throw it open to the public. In return, the owner is supplied with funds for upkeep of the place and sometimes even gets tax advantages and the right to keep his estate intact for himself and his heir.

Guard Coffee Hours
Funds are raised by subscriptions and by the collection of 50 centimes (about three and a half cents) from each visitor. Some of the proceeds pay expenses of the organization.

Naturally chateau owners have no desire to have their coffee on the terraces interrupted by visitors, so definite times have been assigned to sightseers.

There are more than 60 chateaux in the neighborhood of Paris which now can be visited. Many of them never have been open to the public.

Ship Named For Poem

Paris—(AP)—The boy who stood on the burning deck has a ship named for him in the French navy. The boy about whom the poem was written was Giacomo Jacante Casabianca. The burning deck on which he disappeared beneath the sea was part of the French warship Orient, sunk during the Battle of the Nile, and of which his father was captain.

Now the Ministry of Marine has named a new submarine "Casabianca."

Farmers Kill Storks.
Budapest—(AP)—Storks, usually welcomed by peasants, are being killed by farmers in the Nagykoros district because they have been eating young poultry. The drying up of brooks and swamps caused a shortage of the usual stork diet, young frogs and snakes.

The natural amphitheater in which President Roosevelt addressed thousands at the Conlee Dam, Washington, site, a waste space then, will soon become a town, according to real estate dealers who have had pipe lines laid and plan to erect a "Maffi Street."

One out of every eight students enrolled in accredited colleges and universities in Texas this winter will receive student-aid relief, the Texas relief administration announced.

Very Much Improved

"After Taking Cardui"
"I have suffered a great deal from cramp," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Sr., of Waco, Texas. "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui. Thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

You ride better..you drive better..you feel better in a
Knee Action CHEVROLET

THE Ownership Test is simplicity itself. Chevrolet, through any of its dealers, will gladly lend you a new car. You then drive it over the same routes and in the same way you drive every day. Judge the car by what it does—take the family along and get their comments. When the ride is over you will know the truth about Chevrolet's fine riding qualities, about its remarkable handling ease, about its speed and dash, and great economy, because the car itself can give you nothing but the facts. Chevrolet invites you to make this test because Chevrolet is confident that you will like the 1934 car—the freedom from jolts that Knee-Action brings—the restfulness of shock-proof steering—the deep-cushioned comfort and luxurious appointments of the big Fisher body—the power and getaway of an 80-horsepower engine—the smooth, sure action of weatherproof, cable-controlled brakes—the wonderfully refreshed feeling you enjoy when you are through. In fact, Chevrolet believes that the Ownership Test will prove to your complete satisfaction that the low-priced Chevrolet is the car for you and yours.

Hold Kaupmann in Kidnaping. New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A stolid, mild-mannered German who fidgeted during extensive questioning in police lineup displayed no emotion today when a magistrate held him without bail on charges of receiving $50,000 paid by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh two years ago in a futile attempt to ransom the return of his son.

The German, Richard Kaupmann, 35, looked at the floor of the Bronx courtroom during his arraignment on a formal charge of extortion. He had nothing to say except to give his consent to detention until Monday. His consent was necessary because the legal limit for holding a prisoner under affidavit is 48 hours.

Meanwhile, in New Jersey, where the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped and slain, that state moved to obtain custody of Kaupmann on a charge of homicide. An executive order warrant charging the crime was signed by Governor Harry Moore as the first step in the attempt to have Kaupmann taken there. This move gave impetus to a statement made by Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan in the police lineup when he told the assembled detectives that "we have a real extortion case," and said there was no doubt in his mind that the man would have to answer more serious charges.

STOX 4. New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A little better brand of business and labor news gave today's securities market a much brighter if not a buoyant tone. Merchandising wares reflected reports of increasing sales led the forward movement in stocks. Indications that the textile walkout may end quickly caused other equities and bonds to become more active than the previous session.

The dollar continued to exhibit strength, again leading foreign exchanges. Grains generally were a bit lower. Cotton got up. President Roosevelt's appeal to the textile workers to return to work following approval of the board of inquiry's report was helpful to sentiment in the financial district which has been rather concerned as to what might happen in other branches of industry if the controversy continued for any length of time. DuPont gained three points while U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Sears were up one to two points. Transfers were 700,000 shares.
