Leader Of Strike Urges Unions To Show Patience

LOOKS TO NEW LABOR BOARD TO ACT SOON

Charges of Discrimination in The South Continue to Pile up At Strike Headquarters; Says Mill Owners Seeking to Punish Strikers by Not Reopening Their Mills; Waits For President's Board

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the textile strike committee, said today that sentiment for renewal of the strike was strong in Southern mill centers because of allegedly widespread discrimination against strikers in re-employment of workers.

Gorman said he was urging union members to be patient until the new Textile Labor Relations Board was appointed and had been given time to act.

"We know now with certainty," Gorman said, "that a number of mill operators, particularly in the cotton industry, are using methods of reprisal against members of the union. In the South the most vicious type of discrimination is prevalent.

"Yellow dog contracts, company union and absolute refusal to employ workers unless they repudiate the union and throw themselves on the mercy of mill owners are being used. The condition is one of the rank and file discrimination against union members and manifestly an effort to punish them not only for striking against the condition that had prevailed in the Southern mills but to punish them for union membership by denying them re-employment as well.

"We are waiting for the naming of the board by the President under the findings of the Winant report. We hope this board will be named without delay.

"We have some cases of discrimination in the North in the woolen and worsted and silk industries, but we hope to clear up these cases in the next few weeks."

MILL WORKERS BITTER IN N. C.

Discrimination Charged By Workers in Both States as Mills Fail to Open

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Bitterness that marked the textile strike in North and South Carolina continued to pervade the two States today as the industry sought to adjust itself.

Labor leaders charged there was discrimination against union workers in the reopening of the mills as mill owners did little and held their lines.

A few companies of National Guardsmen who numbered 4,000 in the Carolinas when the strike started, remained on duty in some textile centers, but there had not been no threat of violence since the strike was called off. Meanwhile, at Anderson, S. C., Coroner J. Roy McCoy continued his inquest into the death from gunfire of seven strike pickets at Honea Path, scene of the bloodiest outbreak during the strike.

TRADE BODY BEGINS DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Eastern Carolina Association Seeks to Put Program Over In a Big Way

With the beginning of its second year the Eastern North Carolina Association, Incorporated, with headquarters at Greenville, is a smooth working organization and is now ready to enter into an organized movement with a definite plan of procedure for the betterment of the section.

The association was organized last year by the officers and members of the Carolina Shippers' Association who were familiar with the many problems facing the section as well as its many undeveloped natural resources. It was well-known that these problems could only be solved and other things accomplished through one effective organization and with a great deal of time and hard work. Fortunately the association succeeded the Carolina Shippers' Association and has continued the work of that organization which has been confined strictly to transportation matters and these comprise one of the major problems now facing the section.

Effective September 15, the general program of the association will be under the direction of Ralph J. Blank, an experienced and well trained man in organization work. Mr. Blank comes to the association highly recommended from the Florida State Chamber of Commerce where he sent the last several years.

Starting immediately, the association will put on a general membership drive in order that it may carry out its program. The program and budget will be adopted within the next few days and the program will cover many important matters. It will include the continuation of the work and program of the Carolina Shippers' Association, which involve freight rate adjustments, development of port and inland waterways and other matter pertaining to transportation.

It will include a continuous campaign to advertise and publicize the section's many advantages, its natural resources, tourist possibilities, etc. It will encourage a co-operative attitude among the communities in the section and disseminate information concerning each. It will promote a general and continuous campaign to buy, manufacture and live at home, and this campaign will include live stock raising, diversified farming, patronizing home industries, etc. The association is a sectional organization and has only the betterment of the section generally in mind.

EVIDENCE IN KIDNAPING IS BEFORE JURY

Ransom Money Found At Hauptmann's Home Presented to Bronx Grand Jury

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The $13,750 in ransom money found in the garage at the home of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, alleged receiver of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom, the ransom note and other messages from the kidnapper were taken before the Bronx County grand jury today.

The evidence was presented in District Attorney Samuel Foley's effort to obtain an indictment charging extortion against Hauptmann, unemployed German carpenter illegally in the country.

The money and notes were taken into the grand jury room while Albert B. Osborn, handwriting expert, and his son, Albert G., were before the jury. The two men were there about an hour with the father who had said the handwriting on the ransom note and that of Hauptmann on application for an automobile license were similar. They were being questioned most of the time.

COLLEGE HERE BEGINS WORK

E. C. T. C. Commences Second Quarter Of a Century of Service

Today begins the second quarter of a century for East Carolina Teachers College, as the twenty-sixth year was ushered in today with "Freshman Week," beginning this afternoon.

The campus is swarming with new students, who under the guidance of representatives from upper classes and college organizations, are being introduced to the campus and various aspects of college life. Tomorrow is registration day for them. The upper classes will register on Thursday and classes begin on Friday morning.

Judging by the applications received ahead and the room assignments, the enrollment will run ahead of last year, but it is too soon to quote figures. The early arrival of students is noticeable. One freshman arrived a full week ahead of time, and a large number came in yesterday.

Members of the faculty have been arriving for days. Most of them were present for a nine o'clock faculty meeting this morning. The few absent are expected during the day. Two have received their doctor's degree since last year, both from Peabody College for Teachers. Dr. H. C. Haynes received his degree in June, and Dr. Beecher Flanagan in August.

There is one new member of the faculty. Miss Jessie Mack of Burlington, N. J., a graduate of the Montclair (N. J.) State Teachers College, who received her M. A. degree from Columbia University, takes the place in the Science department of Miss Catherine Cassidy who has a year's leave of absence. Miss Cassidy is working for her doctor's degree at Western Reserve University in Cleveland Ohio. Miss Mack has been an assistant in chemistry in Montclair Teachers College and comes very highly recommended.

Miss Mary Dirnberger, from the University of North Carolina, will have a class in drama and be director of dramatic activities for the community, under the FERA.

Dr. L. R. Meadows, acting president of the college, opened the program for Freshman Week at four o'clock this afternoon with a talk on the purpose of the special program arranged for freshmen. After the singing of some songs under the direction of Miss Kuykendall, the freshmen will break up into small groups and make a tour of the campus, with upper classmen as guides. A barbecue will be served to them on the back campus at 3:30 o'clock.

The "Relationship of the Students to the Office" will be presented. (Continued on Page Six)

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Percy A. Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, and prominent New York financier, died early today. He was a director of important banks and corporations.

Rockefeller, the son of William G. Rockefeller, brother of the founder of Standard Oil, had been operated on at a hospital Saturday for a stomach disorder and had been critically ill since. He died at 5 o'clock this morning.

Rockefeller was called by the committee in April, 1932, and queried concerning his huge market operations.

Fayetteville, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Percy Rockefeller, who died in New York this morning, owned a large country estate, Overhills, eighteen miles from here where he had spent much of his time in recent years.

Official Report of Sales Shows $528,962.68 Paid to Growers Here Yesterday For 1,483,778 Pounds of Leaf; Prices Highest Paid In This State; Offerings Continue Heavy Today

Prices continued to zoom upward on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday and today E. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, said the highest average of the season was registered along with the market setting a world's record for the huge amount of money paid out to growers.

The official report of sales revealed the fact that 1,483,778 pounds of tobacco was sold here yesterday for $528,962.68, at a general average of $35.85 a hundred pounds. The highest price average prior to yesterday was $31.25. It was established last Friday.

The market for weeks has been paying out in the neighborhood of a half million dollars daily, but yesterday was the first time over five hundred thousand dollars was paid out.

Commenting on the amount of money the farmers received, Mr. Cobb said he was confident the figure set a world's record for money received on a single day's sale.

The price average is not only the highest of the present season, but is the best on record since 1919 when the prices were at their peak and overshot everything on record.

The sale was also one of the heaviest. (Continued on page six)

MRS. WHITE WINS SUIT

Jury Rules in Favor of Ejectment Proceedings Against Charlie Saied Here

A jury in the civil term of Superior Court here yesterday ruled in favor of Mrs. J. B. White in her summary ejectment proceedings against Charlie Saied, operator of a store on Evans Street.

The case occupied practically the entire day, but it required only about fifteen minutes for the jury to decide that Mrs. White was in the right and ruled that the building belonging to the plaintiff and occupied by the defendant should have been vacated September 15, 1934.

The case occupied practically the entire day, but it required only about fifteen minutes for the jury to decide that Mrs. White was in the right and ruled that the building belonging to the plaintiff and occupied by the defendant should have been vacated September 15, 1934.

Saied immediately filed notice of appeal to the Supreme Court.

Mrs. White contended Saied's time was up September 1, but that she agreed to let him stay at a higher rent. Saied refused to agree to the payment of a higher price for the building, declaring a verbal agreement between Mrs. White and himself called for expiration of his time January 1.

In addition to the actual hearing of this case, it was said at the office of the Clerk of Court this morning that the major part of the day's calendar was compromised. The nature of the compromises, however, was not divulged.

The calendar for the week contains approximately forty cases and it was hoped the bulk would be finished by adjournment Friday afternoon.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

DRINKING AND DRIVING

If you want to drive, don't drink, if you want to drink, don't drive. Let only a completely sober member of your party do the driving. Remember that if you are arrested for an accident or a traffic law violation, and there is evidence that you have been drinking, the penalty is likely to be much more severe than it otherwise would be. Drinking and driving make a dangerous combination.

News OF THE Day IN Pictures

Nurse Betty Gow screamed in terror the blustery night of March 1, 1932. That scream told Charles and Anne Lindbergh their only child had been kidnaped, carried from his warm crib, silently, down a long ladder to the soft earth and then into the night.

After a hasty glance at the empty second floor room where the child had slept, the colonel called police. It was then the world knew stark tragedy had struck the man called Lucky Lindy.

The baby's mother had named his "Charles." The colonel called him "It." Carefully he was nurtured. The colonel himself proudly took the first photographs of his son, photographs which soon were sent broadcast throughout the world to aid in his safe return.

Nurse Gow, a silent Scotswoman, loved the child, and it was her duty and pleasure to take him for his daily outing. While the parents were on a flying trip to China, she wheeled the infant daily in the sun. But now the child was gone.

Together, Lindy and Anne faced the cruel truth. Their once quiet home echoed to the scuffling of heavy boots of police, newspapermen and officials. Closely guarded from the general public was the one clue by which the colonel was to know he was dealing with the real kidnapers. It was a cryptic symbol, circles in red and blue, and tiny holes. It was his only point of contact with the criminals to whom he was than willing to pay the $50,000 ransom they demanded in a letter pinned to the windowsill of the baby's room.

The letter and envelope were photographed for fingerprints, examined and re-examined by countless officials, all in secret. Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of New Jersey state police, led the chase which was becoming world wide.

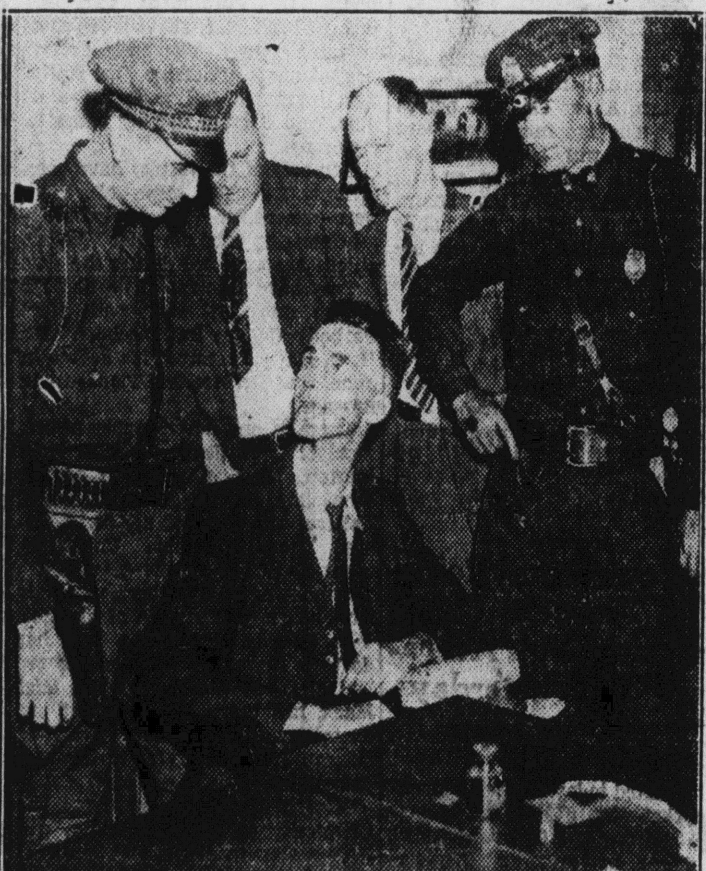

But the rank and file of police and volunteer searchers knew nothing of the import of the message. Day and night, ceaselessly, untrudgingly, they searched. To them the kidnapers were secondary. They wanted Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., returned to the arms of his grief-torn mother.

Proceeding the ceremony, Miss Pauline McBryde of Rockingham played the following organ selections: "Quebec" (Jesus Thou Joy of Loving), Baker; St. Margaret (Oh Love That Will Not Let Me Go), Peace; "Maryton" (O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee), Smith.

To the strains of Longrin's Wedding March the bridal couple entered the right aisle of the church and were met at the altar by Rev. Dr. Charles H. Durham, pastor of the church, who officiated. "Largo," by Handel was softly played by Miss McBryde during the ring ceremony and at the close of the prayer by Dr. Durham, Mrs. J. A. Mrs. Brooks eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Luther Hayes of Lumberton, was lovely in a very becoming brown crepe ensemble trimmed with matching moire. She wore a small brown felt hat with other accessories to match, and carried a small Bible showered with Clematis and tube roses.

The only decoration used was a silver basket of pink gladioli. Ushers were Mr. L. E. Hayes, brother of the bride, who is a student at Wake Forest college, and Mr. R. P. Blake.

Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes Honored. On last Friday at her home on East Fifth street, Mrs. James Burton James, as usual the gracious hostess, entertained twenty-five guests at a buffet luncheon complimenting her sister, Mrs. Montgomery Barnes, of Greenville, Tenn.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. British Long of Kinston.

D. A. R. Meets. On Friday afternoon Mrs. Carrie Laughinghouse delightfully entertained the Colonel Alexander McAllister Chapter D. A. R., at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson. Mrs. Murphy, the regent, presided. The usual forms of flag salute and creed were gone through, the chaplain's service was rendered by Mrs. Isaac. The treasurer reported a very encouraging balance. The regent reported the opening of the Greene County Library at Snow Hill, the enthusiastic cooperation and support by the county and townships, also many interesting gifts received, notable among which was one from Joseph Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, and one from Struthers Burt. After naming of committees Mrs. Murphy in her gracious manner introduced Mrs. J. S. Manning of Chapel Hill, the state vice-regent. Mrs. Manning spoke of several phases of D. A. R. work, laying emphasis on the educational, and especially the Crossacre School, a mountain school endorsed and largely assisted by the D. A. R. Mrs. Murphy then presented Mrs. H. C. Beik of Charlotte, the state regent. Mrs. Beik's message was enlightening and inspiring. The chapter felt honored indeed to have these two distinguished guests with us. Other special guests adding pleasure to the meeting included Mrs. Davidson and Miss Parker of Bedford City, Va.; Mrs. J. S. Hardy and Mrs. Dan Quinley of Kinston, a former member, and Miss Herring of Snow Hill.

Miss Jesse Moye very beautifully sang two selections accompanied by Mrs. Gay Smith. An elaborate frozen salad course with hot coffee, made us forget it was cloudy outside, while wit and happy conversation enlivened things within. —Reported.

First Church of Christ, Scientist. "Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 23.

The golden text was from Psalms 114:7. "Tremble, thou earth, at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch. And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women). There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits; and they were healed every one." (Acts 5:12, 14, 16).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Discipline is not an intelligence to discipline the empire of Mind or to de-throne Mind and take the government into its own hands. Sickness is not a God-given, nor a self-constituted material power, which copes astutely with Mind and finally conquers it. God never endowed matter with power to disable Life or to chill harmony with a long cold night of discord."

Tea For Mrs. Clinard. High Point, Sept. 24.—Outstanding among the varied social affairs given here during the past week was the lovely tea on Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. John W. Clinard, Sr., entertained at her home, 430 South Main street, complimenting Mrs. John W. Clinard, Jr., a recent bride.

For the occasion the home was beautifully decorated and formed an appropriate setting for the attractive party. In the reception hall a profusion of rose-colored dahlias were used, while in the music room dahlias and other fall flowers carried out an effective color scheme of yellow and white. The library was arranged with a variety of garden flowers, in the dining room a green and white color note was emphasized and in the sun room quantities of marigolds formed a colorful background.

Miss Annabella King greeted the ladies at the front entrance to the home and presented them to the hostess, who, in turn, introduced them to the honoree and to Miss Ruth Clinard.

The hostess wore a black and white afternoon dress, and the honoree's gown was of ice blue satin with red velvet trim, while Miss Clinard wore a flowered chiffon dress.

Miss Clinard then invited the ladies into the library where they were received by Mrs. H. A. White and Mrs. C. F. Tomlinson. They then passed into the dining room, where Mrs. D. H. Parsons greeted them. Serving the delicious novelty sandwiches, individual cakes, mints, nuts and Russian tea were Misses Mildred Stewart and Mary Ellen Clinard; Mesdames Reuben Bundy, George McLarty and Boyd Stout; Mrs. F. R. Taylor and Mrs. J. D. Mann were seated at the perfectly appointed table and poured tea. The table was covered with a handsome cloth of mosaic cutwork and centered with a crystal bowl of mixed flowers, with cream-colored candles in crystal holders accentuating the beauty of the appointments.

Passing into the sun room the guests were met by Mrs. Mabel Davis, Mrs. David T. Yow and Mrs. Orville Hall, who said adieu.

During the afternoon a delightful musical program was rendered by Misses Dorothy Hoskins, Mae Kirkman and Alma Andrews.

Approximately one hundred guests called between the hours of four and six to enjoy the party and meet the popular honoree.

Mrs. Clinard was formerly Miss Lella Shore Thomas of this city.

Flying from New York, Lieutenant Girenas and Darius, of the Lithuanian air force, crashed to death in Pomerania, Germany, only 400 miles short of their goal.

When returning from Chicago a few weeks later, Lieutenant Nakrosis, who helped to organize the flight, dropped this message in a bottle in mid-Atlantic.

Marian Gordon
 by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Marian Gordon, Morning Dispatch reporter, is kept so long telling her editor the details of the Brown bribery trial that Lon Casad, her very good friend, has apparently tired of waiting and gone away. Brown has been accused of taking $10,000 to pass a defective high school building. He has been tracked down by Jenny Case, the girl he filled in favor of Jenny's roommate, Linda Carlton. The jury is still out and Marian is on her way to the courthouse. She is talking with Tony the flower seller.

Chapter Three
ABOUT HONOR
 "He says to you to sit here," Tony unfolded a canvas stool and placed it beside the stand.

Marian sat. She sat because she felt her knees would no longer support her. She who had covered murders, who had covered the emergency hospital beat and assisted the attendants in rushed hours without even pausing, was suddenly weak because a mere man had literally walked out on her.

There on the canvas stool, the pedestrian traffic eddying about her, the street lights flaring down on her, she reviewed her weakness and was amazed. Heretofore, Lon had meant an intoxicating joy that defied the weariness of long days in a stuffy court room, long evenings on the dance floor. Now she realized there was another side to this love business, an unpleasant side bitter with fear of loss. She was being an utter fool.

"Tony," Marian said, "I must go on."

"Tony," she said arising, "I must go on. Please tell the gentleman I will be at the courthouse until the verdict on the Brown case is in."

Tony was still assuring her of his willingness to relay the message as she started her journey down through town. She stopped at Hamburger Joe's stand for a sandwich and a cup of coffee, but even the aroma of the frying onions could not stimulate the appetite which had been so ravenous before, and she left the sandwich with one small half moon bitten from its bun-brown side.

Listlessly she pushed through the crowded courthouse corridors where interested spectators were smoking and talking to pass the time away. She passed the balliff at the door and surveyed the interior. A dreary place. Pale lights overhead spreading a ghastly light over blue walls, plain oak bench and jury box. The long tables usually occupied by counsel and by the press were deserted as the men gathered in groups.

MARIAN went to the press table, slipped into a chair, drew out the wad of copy paper and added a wistful eyed Mickey Mouse to her collection.

Bowen had said, "Watch Jenny Case." Carefully careless, Marian looked beyond the fenced-in enclosure. Jenny was one of the few spectators who had remained in the room. She sat, leaning forward, thin chin resting in an angular cupped hand.

Jenny removed the hat which had been shading her face and Marian's sympathy cooled. Her hair was the lusterless black of a vulture's wing. Her face was flushed. Her dark eyes, set too closely together for any indication of generosity, were glancing here and there as though anticipating some pleasing event. Occasionally her small pink pointed tongue would dart out to wet thin, red lips.

"Like Tabby does when she watches me pour cream into a saucer," thought Marian. She added a wide mouthed cat to the collection of rodents.

And then into the gloom of the big room stepped Lon Casad. Marian wondered, hysterically, why everyone in the room didn't stop looking and stare, why the clock over the bench didn't stop ticking, why the flag didn't start waving. Had there ever been anyone finer in that old room?

He was talking to the balliff, dark head bent a little to one side, pleasing grin showing a row of square white teeth, strong shoulders held a little back, even as his head was bent. Marian noticed his amber-hazel eyes searching the room. They focused on her.

Lon was bending over Marian's chair, apologizing, explaining—"It happened this way," he said. "Tony's little Marietta has the measles. Tony's big Marietta had told him to be sure to send down some vaseline for Little Marietta's chest, and he had forgotten."

"And you went out, bought it and carried it down," declared Marian and added, "and what else did you buy and carry down?"

"Candy and a picture book," he admitted.

Roak Bradford (Harpers): another book of stories from a man who knows the south and the southern negro as few living writers do.
 "America's Tragedy" by James Trowlow Adams (Scribners): a cool and logical exposition of what the question of slavery did to these United States by the author of "The Epic of America."
 "The President Vanishes," Anonymous (Farrar and Rinehart): a ther what-might possibly happen book on the order of "Gabriel Over the White House," and perhaps by the same man; who knows?

 "The Son of Marie Antoinette," by Meade Minnerode (Farrar & Rinehart): the mystery of the Dauphin who disappeared after having been Louis XVII for a little while: the "human interest" of the story is consistently emphasized.
 "One's Company," by Peter Fleming (Scribners): the chap who wrote "Brazilian Adventure" goes to China and keeps in a good humor while there; here is a good picture of the red districts in the book.
 "Fontamara" by Ignazio Silone (Smith & Hazz): a novel, presumably based on fact showing the dire results in Italy, of opposing Mussolini: Silone has apparently exercised the author's prerogative of dramatic exaggeration fairly strenuously.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!
 Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.
 Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2-1/2 times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25 per cent more for your money.

It was his last dive and was said to have been the "deepest working dive" ever made.

WHAT ABOUT THE NEW REGISTRATION?

Some months ago it was announced by the County Board of Elections that the Greenville Township precinct was to be divided into our voting precincts and thence, the next largest township in the county, was to be divided into two or three voting precincts. At the time of the announcement it was stated that it was impossible to make the divisions and call for new registrations before the primaries but that same would be done before the election in fall. It is now just a little more than a month before the fall election, and so far we know nothing has been done toward calling for a new registration in the divided precincts. Whether or not the promised divisions will be made we do not know, but we do know that the voters of the county were made a similar promise two years ago and nothing ever came of it.

The idea of more voting precincts might not appeal to the politicians but we believe that the smaller precincts relieving present congestion and making for easier voting will appeal to the voters generally and certainly it is up to the Board of Elections to come through with the promised divisions.

A GOOD PLAN

It is news when farmers pay their debts ten and twenty years before they are due, and that is just what is happening here in a few cases and we call attention to it believing that it is a good plan for other farmers who can to follow this fall. Reports made to us from the local government lending agencies are to the effect that some farmers who made loans early this year to cover a period of thirteen and twenty-three years were now coming in and paying up the full amount of the loan and getting their mortgages cancelled. Of course we want the farmers to buy everything they need for themselves and their families and likewise have all the luxuries possible but at the same time it is a mighty good plan for them to take care of their debts first if possible and the farmers who pay their mortgages on their land while conditions are good will find that they are borrowing power and in position to go ahead for 21 other lean years like those recently experienced here about.

New Books

By JOHN SELBY
 The annual September rush on the part of publishers to get as many books before the public as is humanly possible, so they may establish themselves in time for the holiday demand has swamped this unoffending desk here are literally dozens of books this week. Not the least of them is Irwin H.

(Ike) Hoover's "42 Years in the White House" (Houghton, Mifflin) in which the personal side of our national executives, their wives and families and guests is displayed very astutely. The book is made from the late Mr. Hoover's copious notes; much of the information in it could have come from another source. Who, for example, but the redoubtable head usher would have thought to mention that the Hoovers set the best table in 42 years at the White House?

Members Attempt to Bay Like Coon Hunting Dogs But Fail Miserably

By WYATT BROWN

All in the spirit of fun and contest for amusement, Roy Campbell had Alfred Schultz, Wesley Harvey, John Winstead, Phil Goodson and B. D. Johnson to bay like dogs on a coon hunt; the result was poor. Herbert Waldrop summed up the situation when he said the crux of the matter was that times are so good that no one could howl now. This was all a part of the impromptu program last night at the Rotary Club.

With this coon hunt for honors were a series of speeches rendered under the aegis of Steve Wilkerson. Impresario Wilkerson presented Fordy Harding and Hayward Daff to speechifying on how this tobacco money was going to be spent that is flowing into the hands of our citizens. Fordy "lowed as how Kinchen Cobb was going to spend his Kinchen's. In building a naval basin on Tar River as a haven for the warships of the United States—all for the purpose of attracting attention to Greenville from Morehead City and Wilson.

The judges for the contest in foot-try—Jasper Winslow, Yo Walker and Sam White met in solemn conclave and awarded the honors to Steve Wilkerson's cast over the feeble braying of a dog yellers.

Visiting Rotarian Wilbur Ormond, of Arden, was a guest of the club last night and David Dodd and Mr. Flank, the latter an executive of Eastern Carolina, Incorporated. Miss Eva Hodges was also a guest and contributed piano accompaniment to the group singing. The attendance prize was won by Sam White, seeming to have broken the charm of Lawrence Stroud and Herbert Waldrop who for awhile got it every time.

The club was pleased to have its president, Herbert ReBarker, back to preside over their meetings. The Rotary Club plans to meet with the Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club Friday night in a joint session to discuss and co-operate with the movement for group electric power lines in this section.

The Request

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Yes, I'm Willy Nilly. But I'm sure you must have made a mistake. I am not expecting any letters. In fact I never get any at all—never have and never expect them."

The little gnome-like man who had so much trouble with his sticking-out, pointed ears had thought and thought about it.

"This letter is for you," the boy with the bicyclist repeated. "You said you were Willy Nilly, and I was told in the next village that this place here was Fuddle Muddle. The letter is addressed to 'Willy Nilly, Puddle Muddle.'"

"There must be some mistake," said Willy Nilly. He couldn't imagine any one writing to him. The people he knew would all come over to speak to him if they had anything to say. They would not write.

Yet he was nervous. Had one of his animal friends been getting into trouble? And even so, he wouldn't receive a letter, but a spoken complaint.

To be sure, Christopher Columbus Crow flew far away from home. Perhaps the letter was about some of Christopher's mischief. Yet Christopher had not been away lately.

"Open the letter," said the boy. "It must be for you."

With trembling fingers, Willy Nilly opened the envelope and looked at the letter.

At first it frightened him even more because it was written on such very important looking paper with a printed name at the top and an address and some decorations.

He tried to take in the whole letter at once. But this he couldn't do. Then he recalled it contained—not a complaint, but a request!

REALTY SALES PUSH AHEAD

Quite a Number of Transfers Recorded In This County The Past Week

Real estate continued to change hands rapidly in Pitt County the last several days and records of the Register of Deeds today showed twenty-eight transfers were recorded here for the period.

It was the largest movement of realty in the last several weeks and affected quite a number of sections of the county.

The sale of lots in and around Greenville predominated the activity although there were quite a number of farm transactions involved.

The exchange of property has been decidedly active in Pitt County for the last year, and is reminiscent of the old days before the depression.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED AT STATE GAME

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 25.—A capacity crowd of 12,000 people is expected to view State College's opening football game with Davidson at Greensboro Saturday night, officials of the game at Greensboro report.

W. H. Sullivan, chairman of the advance ticket sale, says reserved seat sections are being sold rapidly at Greensboro. "We are very much gratified with the way they are moving and we are expecting the largest crowd in Greensboro for the game that we have ever had."

To aid the game, the Guilford Chapter of the State College Alumni Association is holding its fall meeting Friday night at Greensboro. The meeting is in honor of Col. John W. Harrison, administrative head of State College who will be the principal speaker.

According to Mr. Sullivan, the meeting is also designed to stimulate and create interest throughout the Alumni for the game, and all State College men in the state have been invited to attend the meeting.

Deeds of State and Davidson will arrive Saturday afternoon and will parade together through the business section of Greensboro, beginning at 5 o'clock. The combined bands will number approximately 100 pieces.

To keep order and to see that fans attending the game get their seats and with as little delay as possible Greensboro officials have arranged to have on hand something like 50 special deputies, in addition to the City Police Force, who will help keep the crowd moving and in order.

The game is being handled by a group of interested State and Davidson alumni living in Greensboro. Elbert F. Lewis and Max Hendrix head the Stadium Games Committee. Hendrix is also chairman of the advertising committee and Lewis heads a special stadium committee. Sullivan has charge of advance ticket sales and the parade is being handled by T. A. Grant and Paul Casey. The auditing will be done by C. G. Harrison and Dr. Frank Sharps.

Assisting these committees is the Greensboro Merchants Association.

J. C. Holton, Mississippi's commissioner of agriculture, estimates that State's agricultural crops will be valued at $150,000,000 this season, 50 per cent more than last year.

WHEN YOU'RE TOO TIRED TO GO ON...

Get a LIFT with a Camel!

MISS GEORGIA ENGELHARD has scaled 90 major peaks, 58 in one season. Slender, but a marvel of endurance and energy, she says: "When people tell me of being tired out, or lacking 'pep,' I don't know of better advice to give than you'll find in the suggestion 'Get a lift with a Camel.'"

YOU'LL ENJOY this thrilling response in your flow of energy!

ANY TOBACCO MAN WILL TELL YOU:

"Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

In light of the recent scientific confirmation of the "energizing effect" in Camels, note what Miss Engelhard, champion woman mountain climber, says:

"Mountain climbing is great sport, but don't try it unless you have plenty of energy. Many times up there above the timber line, within a short climb of the goal, I have thought 'I can't go another step.' Then I call a halt and smoke a Camel. A Camel lifts me up in just a few minutes and gives me the energy to push on to the mountain top!"

People in every walk of life have found that Camels increase their energy. Perhaps you have observed this among your own circle of friends.

You'll like Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Mild—but never flat or "sweetish"—never tiresome in taste. You'll feel like smoking more, so go ahead! For with Camels, you will find that steady smoking does not jangle the nerves.

SALESMAN, E. W. Davis says: "I'll say this for Camel's costlier tobaccos—they taste better! And when I'm tired a Camel revives my energy!"

MOTOR-BOAT RACER, Florence Burnham says: "For a long time I have been a Camel fan. . . . Camels, being so much milder, never disturb my nerves. I smoke them all I want."

Plans For Get-Together Meeting of Three Organizations to be Finished Today

Final plans for the get-together meeting of Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce here Friday night were being worked out today, and it was hoped the complete program would be ready tomorrow, it was stated today by R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who was to meet with representatives of the two clubs today to arrange the program.

It was understood today that mayors and members of the Board of Aldermen from seven cities in this immediate part of the State had been invited to attend the gathering and the mayors will probably be called on for brief talks concerning the progress made by the communities under the impetus of the new deal.

There was also to be a meeting of the mayors and aldermen after the general meeting to discuss a matter of importance to the territory. The meeting was called several days ago by Mayor R. C. Flanagan of Greenville.

The general meeting is the first of the kind held here since the "booster gathering" about a month ago when all organizations of the city assembled to hear J. C. Lanier, tobacco code administrator, discuss the code. The object of the gathering is to bring about a spirit of co-operation for the community. Virtually every business interest of the city is represented in the organizations and sentiment from all these sources is expected to be sounded out.

The meeting will be held with the Kiwanis Club at the Woman's Club building, and a delightful supper will be served by ladies of the club.

COLLEGE HERE BEGINS WORK

(Continued From Page One) ed by Mrs. J. B. Spilman, assistant treasurer, and Dr. H. J. McGinnis, registrar, at 7:30 tonight. After college yells, student officers will be introduced. Wednesday night, Miss Morton will open the program with a discussion of College Customs and Traditions. Miss Frances Newsom, student government president, will explain the rules and regulations. The dormitory directors will have charge of dormitory meetings on Thursday morning and freshmen will be given physical examinations during the day. The closing event will be the moving picture Thursday night.

The quota of students on FERA this fall will probably be 108, but the exact number is not yet certain. One-half of the number must be those not in college last year; that is, those just out of high school, and the other half old students. The work must be actual work that will be of real value and can be any kind of work needed in the college except teaching, but it must not supplant the work of self-help students given regularly by the college. This work is given on an hourly basis with the maximum number of hours definitely stated.

HIGHEST AVERAGE OF SEASON MADE ON YESTERDAY'S SALE

(Continued From Page One) test, if not the heaviest, of the season, and shows to what extent the farmers are rushing their tobacco to market to take advantage of the skyrocketing prices, the highest on record in the State.

While the market was virtually cleared yesterday afternoon, sales continued heavy today, and the price situation was still highly pleasing to the hundreds of growers who market their tobacco here from day to day.

Sales from now on are expected with the market of their crop in an effort to take advantage of the best prices in many a year.

Expressions of satisfaction have been heard on all sides throughout the season, and comments from growers were still more satisfactory yesterday as they noted the rapid upward movement of prices on virtually all grades, especially the improved qualities.

REPAY LOANS AHEAD OF TIME

Farmers of This County Pay Debts Instead Of Waiting Years to Do It

Only a short time ago people who borrowed money in this part of the country were unable to pay it back and lost their homes, farms and other property through foreclosures.

Today the situation has taken on an entirely different aspect, and the same people not only have money but are meeting their obligations several years ahead of time.

Judge F. M. Wooten, Pitt County representative of the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, S. C., reported today that two farmers who borrowed money from his agency the first of the year had already repaid it, although they had been granted several years in meeting the obligations.

Oscar Hardee, farmer, borrowed $5,000 from the Land Bank January 5, 1934. The loan was made over a period of twenty-three years. Hardee recently sold some of his tobacco and instead of waiting for twenty-three years to expire, went to the office of Judge Wooten and told him he was ready to repay the loan.

Winford Boyd, another grower, borrowed $500 February 14, 1934, and had thirteen years in which to pay. He also went to Judge Wooten yesterday and said he was ready to settle.

Settlement of loans with other agencies was also reported in progress in all sections of the county today, and indicates to some extent what the new deal of the Federal Administration is doing for the people of this part of the country.

Back in the days of the depression borrowers listened to former President Herbert Hoover talk of prosperity being "just around the corner." Today, under the impetus of the Roosevelt recovery program, prosperity not only has rounded the corner but is spreading over all the land carrying happiness to thousands of households where only a year ago despair and tragedy bared their teeth and snatched some of the people's most precious possessions from their grip.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened three to nine points higher in response to lower Liverpool cables and against October notices. Prices recovered parity on support, but turned easier in the wheat market.

December rallied from 12.60 to 12.67 and then eased to 12.62 while May advanced from 12.79 to 12.89 and reacted to 12.80. The general list at the end of the first hour was two to seven points lower.

After December had sold off to 12.55 and May to 12.75, or to net losses of seven to fourteen points, the market rallied partly on some reactionary buying and covering. December sold up to 12.64 with the general market at midday showing losses of one to seven points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The financial market was hesitant today and prices in most categories were irregularly lower.

While only meager support appeared for the majority of stocks there was at the same time no great pressure on any particularly group. Trading was extremely dull.

Some of the utilities and merchandising equities were in favor. The list as a whole yielded fractions to more than a point in the first hour, but many of these losses were cancelled and replaced by small gains. Commodities were heavy.

Dheat led a substantial reaction in grains following a break in the market. The resistance shown by stocks were pleasing to market students who view the present action of equities generally largely as "technical corrections."

Complete Ransom Probe

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—District Attorney Samuel Foley announced today after three and a half-hour grand jury session that the case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann as recoverer of the Lindbergh ransom had been completed. Foley said it had been disclosed before the jury that two closet panels had been found in the Hauptmann home which bore the address and telephone number of Dr. John Condon, the "Jafsie," who paid the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom to a supposed representative of the kidnappers.

The two panels, Foley said, were loose and placed in the closet in such a manner they could be removed. And one, the district attorney disclosed, bore the home address of Dr. Condon and telephone number which Foley said was Dr. Condon's at the time of the kidnapping. On the other, according to Foley, were several numbers, one of which had been found to be the number of one of the ransom bills.

Foley said that the boards were proof to him that Hauptmann was in communication with "Jafsie" regarding negotiations and Hauptmann is undoubtedly the man who received the $50,000 ransom from Dr. Condon.

Foley said the board constituted a "clever bit of carpentry" and that it was recalled at the time of his arrest last week, that Hauptmann described himself as a carpenter now out of work but followed his craft in Germany and this country.

This prosecutor said that when the panel bearing Dr. Condon's address was shown to the prisoners he acknowledged he had written it and the telephone number because he was interested in the case. However, Foley did not state whether he explained the nature of his interest.
