Terror Grips Spain As Rebels Make Stand Against Troops

Government Forces Concentrating For Attacks on Heavily Armed Rebel Stronghold

Madrid, Spain, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Terrorism gripped northern Spain today as government troops concentrated to attack revolutionists in the labor district of Asturias province. San Sebastian reported two persons killed and an undetermined number injured in brushes between striking workmen and soldiers. Military authorities were reported to have captured forty strikers in a single house where quantities of arms were also found.

Within the past few days more than 500 arrests have been made in San Sebastian area and twenty-four persons faced the death penalty.

There was sporadic shooting all night around Balboa and also along the entire northern coast. In the Evidio region General Lopez Ochoa rushed from successful stories against revolutionists in Truba and was expected to join other government forces today in their drive on the apparently well armed rebels. Ochoa's forces were argued by more than 3,000 volunteers of the Populist and other government parties who have performed gallantly in encounters to date.

As he left Azils after subjecting the rebels, General Ochoa reported that much of the city had been destroyed by fires which the revolutionists set when they cleared it.

Army officers said it was impossible to estimate accurately the deaths in Asturias province, but it may reach a "few thousand." The rebels are firmly entrenched there and a heavy bombardment may be necessary to cut through their stronghold.

NEGRO AT RAY PULLS DANGEROUS WEAPONS

New Bern, N. C., Oct. 10.—Pursued on a charge of breaking into the home of a negro, Tom Wright, at Askins early Sunday morning, Samuel Marshall Henry, negro, turned against county officers later Sunday with two of the most deadly looking weapons ever seen in this section. To protect themselves from his attack the officers shot him in the right side. He was not seriously wounded.

The weapons he carried were made by hand from a large saw. One was a mammoth knife, larger than a butcher's knife, and the other was a huge cleaver. He was captured, after having been shot, and was brought to the local jail.

Mr. Wells said this committee would include Mayor Charles McLean, City Manager W. M. Wiggins, Frederick Shumate, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Richard Pittman. The out-of-town fliers will begin to arrive Thursday night. They will find the air field has been newly conditioned for them and is in fine shape for the program of events.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN CHILD'S CONDITION

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 10.—Encouraging reports were made by doctors last night as to the condition of Eva May Peacock, the 11-year-old Methodist orphanage girl who was accidentally shot by a girl companion while dressing Sunday for an entertainment at Horne's Church here. It was at first thought the child would not survive, but she has shown great vitality and hospital physicians spoke optimistically last night.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

By GEORGE DURNO
Washington, Oct. 10.—Justice: As election day approaches the Democrats are getting hot and bothered about an honest count in certain heretofore Republican districts.

Federal agents have been requested for duty in at least three.

They are Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Ocean City, N. J.

Democratic headquarters says there is no reason why government sleuths shouldn't be assigned to such business because the laws of the land require that every citizen's vote be counted.

Some requests for this type of supervision have been made direct to the Department of Justice. Others have been sent in to the Democratic National Committee and forwarded to Attorney General Cummings for action.

Pennsylvania and New Jersey are two states that carry in the New Deal by-elections. You don't have to take President Roosevelt's political lieutenants into a dark closet to discover they are firmly convinced the won Pennsylvania in '32 but got counted out. There was a considerable disposition to demand a recount but Mr. Roosevelt's victory was so overwhelming the idea finally was vetoed.

Charles W. Ackley, Democratic candidate for the house seat now held by Rep. Isaac Bacharach, Republican, of N. J., has asked for ten federal men to look things over in Atlantic City on November 6. He has written the Justice Department that only government officers can keep the situation in order.

Bacharach's managers, of course, are giving this idea the big horse laugh. They point out that Atlantic

SLOT MACHINE CASE ENDED IN COUNTY COURT

Several Drunken Drivers Draw Fines and Revocation of Licenses

The slot machine issue in Pitt County in the form of a test case against L. B. McCormick received final disposition in county court yesterday when it was shown to the satisfaction of the court that the vending and slot machines declared illegal by the court had been removed as ordered by the court and as a result Judge Dink James suspended further action. The case was heard in court on September 20 and Judge James after declaring the machine illegal and banning their further operation in Pitt county gave the defendant a limited time to take up these machines from over the county. The defendant, appeared in court yesterday to show that the order had been carried out and thus the end of the slot machine so far as Pitt county is concerned.

Other cases heard in Judge James' court yesterday were as follows: Billie Ann Tyson, colored, guilty of the possession of liquor for sale, was taxed a total of $25 in costs and fine.

Eli Devon, colored, charged with reckless and careless driving was adjudged not guilty.

Henry Clay Edwards, was fined $50 and cost and ordered not to drive an automobile for a period of 90 days as the result of a charge of driving while drunk.

John Porter, colored, was sentenced to six months on the roads for larceny.

Arthur Hines, colored, was fined $25 and cost and ordered not to drive for 90 days, after being found guilty on a charge of reckless and careless driving.

Peter Jones, found guilty on a charge of driving while drunk, was fined $50 and cost and prohibited from driving for a period of six months.

James Dozier, colored, was fined $50 and costs for carrying concealed weapon.

City has voted like into office for the last 20 years.

Rap: In a downtown Washington office building there is a two-room suite upon the door of which is inscribed "Pennsylvania Headquarters."

It is the local office of Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman for Pennsylvania and candidate for the U. S. Senate against the incumbent David A. Reed.

Washington has never seen such an office before. This being a Democratic administration, however, and Pennsylvania being represented by two republican Senators, it behooves the Party in power to have representation here for patronage purposes.

Guffey is back home campaigning as busily as a Christmas shopper. Three employees are keeping open house in the Washington office. It is as full of job-hunters daily as the White House.

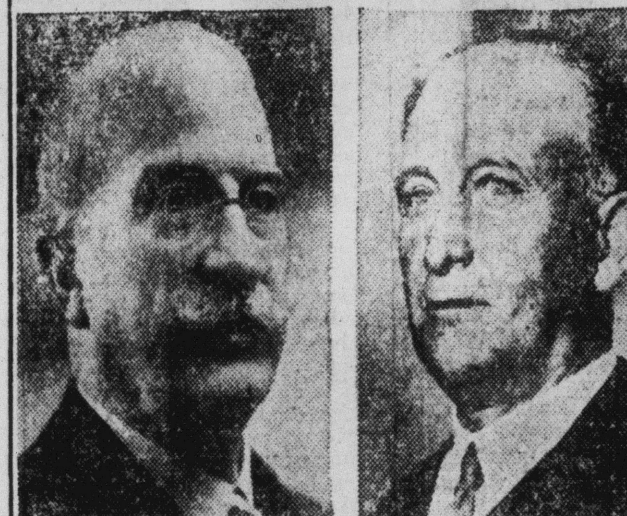

A check of the government personnel offices would show that Guffey has succeeded in placing over 500 Pennsylvanians in jobs of varying importance in Washington. Back in the old home state it is estimated he has put between 4,000 and 5,000 on the payroll.

Many of the government workers in the State are with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. Senator Reed suddenly has become aware of this situation and has demanded an investigation of the Pennsylvania HOLC.

Guffey is in an enviable position. Even if he loses next month—and Democratic headquarters here will lay you a bet he'll win—Guffey will continue to be chief patronage dis-

LEADERS IN SPANISH REVOLT

Although revolution broke out anew and appeared to be gaining ground in many parts of Spain just when the government thought it was under control, Catalonia province's attempt to secede from the republic apparently had come to naught. Leaders of the secession, including Catalonia's president, Luis Companya (upper left) were captured. Margarita Nelken (upper right) was the leader of the revolutionary forces in Badajoz under the general direction of Francisco Largo Caballero (lower right), chief of the radical forces. Premier Alejandro Lerroux (lower left) threw the full strength of the government against the rebels in a desperate effort to quell them. (Associated Press Photos)

Pension Act Before Court.

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The constitutionality of the railroad pension act described as the Roosevelt Administration's first major measure experiment in sociological legislation came up for review in District of Columbia Supreme Court today before Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat.

The act which compels railroads to set aside a fund to care for retired employees has been the subject of strenuous legal assault by 134 of the nation's carriers which contend that it violates the commerce clause of the constitution and deprives them of their property without due process of law.

Finds Plane Wreck.

High Point, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Winfred Miller of the forestry division soil erosion service here, today told of finding in a laurel thicket near the crest of Mount Mitchell the wreck of an airplane. He said it had apparently fallen several years ago and not since been visited.

The discovery was made while Miller was reconnoitering on his own during a week-end visit to friends in the western part of the state. He said that he made an effort to determine the identity and ownership of the plane but was unsuccessful. He is going back in a few days to take a party to the scene of the wreckage he found. Some bones were found a short distance. (Continued on page six)

LEAF PRICES STILL HIGH IN GREENVILLE

Over Million Pounds Sold Yesterday at Average Price of $35.40 Per Hundred

Tobacco prices continued to hold up on the Greenville market yesterday when little more than a million pounds brought the farmers $371,633.31.

Official figures released by K. W. Cobb today showed the day's sales as 1,049,824 pounds for $371,633.31, an average of $35.40 per hundred pounds.

The season's sales to date show 35,999,036 pounds for an average price of $30.75 per hundred for which $11,068,927.65 was paid. With probably fifteen million pounds yet to be sold on the Greenville market this season has already paid out approximately the same amount of money that was paid out for the entire season last year when nearly seventy-two million pounds were sold.

Sales on the market continued comparatively light today with indications that all houses would complete their sales shortly after the noon hour.

With large and prominent family connections, defendants will likely on trial before an immense crowd.

FIRE WRECKS PORTION OF STATE FAIR

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The east wing of the main exhibition building at State Fair grounds was in ashes today, but the annual exhibition continued as crowds made merry on the Midway and visited the other exhibitions and attractions. An early morning blaze disclosed shortly after midnight destroyed the east wing of the exhibition building housing most of the agriculture, forestry and other State exhibits. The fire was confined to the east wing. The origin of the fire had not been determined and there was no estimate of damage today. Firemen battled the fire until early dawn. They were handicapped by the lack of water facilities on the grounds.

FEELS PRICES SHOULD MOVE STILL HIGHER

President To Make no Effort Yet To Halt Rise in Commodity Prices

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt feels that commodity prices should go a little higher before any attempts to stabilize price levels.

The President was described as feeling that considerable progress had been made in the last year and a half to bring the nation's assets and liabilities to a more even relation, but the assets column must go still higher. It was emphasized, however, that prices would be prevented from going through the roof, so to speak, and when a reasonable level was reached, attempts would be made to keep them there.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE SHOWS PROGRESS

The Eastern North Carolina Association Expansion Movement is making a most gratifying start in Greenville and vicinity, according to Judge Dink James. While much of the committee work has of necessity been done during spare hours, many new memberships are rolling into headquarters rapidly. A number of the committee and team workers have not yet completed their canvases but will do so during the next couple of days.

The people of Greenville realize that this organization is promotional only insofar as it will promote the public welfare of our section. Greenville is especially favored on the association's program as it is committed to push the Tar River project, and Greenville will have the backing of the remainder of the territory and the influence of directors and members from all over Eastern North Carolina.

"Whether one ships or receives freight by rail or water, with water competition established, this will be a deciding leverage in the procurement of lower rates," said S. F. Dickenson, secretary-traffic manager today, "and whether he is a shipper or receiver of freight makes no difference, he will enjoy a decided monetary saving with lower freight rates for the consumer pays the bill," he added.

R. J. Blank, executive vice-president of the association, is in Wilson this week directing the work preliminary to a similar membership expansion drive for the organization in that city.

HEARING FOR MURDER TO BE HOTLY FOUGHT

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 10.—In what is expected to be the hardest fought case to come up in Robeson Superior Court in many years, Albert and Lawrence Britt and Jetter Conner of the Long Branch section, near Lumberton, will go on trial here today for killing Bill Davis of the same community on November 22. The jury was selected yesterday afternoon. Several law firms will appear in the case.

Davis was found stabbed to death on the morning of November 23rd, near the church, following a fight the night before in which he and the defendants were involved. Three bloody knives were found about the scene, one identified as belonging to Lawrence Britt. A coroner's jury ordered the defendants held for second degree murder, and a true bill was returned at the December term. Each of the defendants has been under $5,000 bond.

With large and prominent family connections, defendants will likely on trial before an immense crowd.

Slain Monarch Begins Journey To Homeland Accompanied By Queen

Demands Open Court

Marseille, France, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Yugoslavia's queen widowed by a fanatic's pistol came today to Marseille to claim the body of her dead husband while all Europe waited tense to measure the effect of King Alexander's murder.

Even as Queen Marie arrived by special train and went to the place where her husband's body lay, another death from yesterday's tragedy occurred. Madame D. U. Brec, widow, who was wounded by a bullet from the same gun that killed King Alexander and France's Foreign Minister, Louis Barthou, died in a hospital. The others who were killed were a police officer and the assassin himself, Petrus Kalemán.

The conditions of the other fourteen persons who were wounded when the 35-year-old fanatic opened fire yesterday on the king's carriage, were improved. General Alfonso Joseph Georges, France's Superior War Councilman, was said last night to be near death, but was expected today to recover along with the others.

While the warship in which King Alexander arrived yesterday prepared to carry the dead king back to Yugoslavia, his 11-year-old son, Peter II, was starting from his English boarding school for Belgrade, no longer a prince but now a king.

Although the assassin was at first identified as a Yugoslavian, secret police learned that his passport was issued by the Czechoslovakian Consul at Zagreb. This indicated that he was a Czech. Earlier belief that King Alexander had been killed by one of his own countrymen had served to ease somewhat the various European chancelleries, otherwise perturbed by the possible consequences of the assassination.

Premier Albert Le Brun, Edouard Herriot and Andre Tardieu are en route here to offer France's sympathy to Queen Marie. Premier Gaston Doumergue has taken charge of foreign affairs.

The assassination was one of the bloodiest in history, although Kalemán intended to kill only King Alexander. He used a powerful automatic pistol that fired ten shots with one pressure of the trigger. When the first shots had died away King Alexander and Barthou were mortally wounded. The police tried to save the king and the assassin is himself dead. Kalemán had a bomb in his pocket, but had no chance to use it. Two men found near him were arrested, and reports were circulated that five suspicious appearing men were seen armed, but police insisted that Kalemán acted alone.

Marseille, France, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The body of King Alexander was placed aboard the destroyer Dubrovnik this afternoon to be returned to Yugoslavia.

GAME STEW DECLARED EXCEEDINGLY TASTY

Kinston, Oct. 10.—A game stew concocted by hunters in the lake country of Craven county at the weekend was "tasty beyond description," according to word had here today. Into it went venison fish taken from a creek, an opossum, two rabbits and several birds.

The party had had good luck. It was decided to stew the fish. Someone suggested a "Brunswick stew" of game. There was a shortage of vegetables, and no chicken, but the mess cooked up was as palatable as any conventional stew ever served it was claimed by those who partook of it. Cooks at hunting camps were given an idea, and there will probably be much experimenting with game stews during the next few weeks.

NEGRO FATALLY HURT AS TIRE BLOWS OUT

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 10.—In Robeson's third fatality in as many days, Luther Wilkerson, Maxton negro, was fatally injured last night between Pembroke and Lumberton when a tire on the car in which he was riding blew out, wrecking the machine. He died while being brought to a Lumberton hospital by Officer Carl Maynor and Ed. Martin of Pembroke.

BLAME POLICE FOR DEATH OF ALEXANDER I

Paris, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The French government was shaken today by possible consequences of the Marseille assassination and a storm was brewing over the responsibility for failure to protect King Alexander.

Premier Gaston Doumergue had temporarily taken over the Foreign Affairs portfolio of the late Louis Barthou and was determined that the latter's work for peace and security should not be wasted.

King Alexander's old tutor, M. De Voinovitch, who said good-bye to the King at Belgrade and then came to Paris, was outspoken in what he called police failure to safeguard King Alexander. He said the King mixed freely with his own people and traveled often, and that only recently he went to Sofia. Yet in Marseille, known to be a hornet's nest full of gangsters, it is only by failure of the police that he could have been assassinated.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

BAD MIXTURE

Several proposals have been made to substitute alcohol for gasoline as a motor fuel. Tests which have been made seem to indicate alcohol for this purpose is considerably less efficient than gasoline. One thing we do know without exhaustive research is that gasoline and alcohol do not mix—i.e., when gasoline is in the tank and the alcohol in the driver. It is a bad combination. Driving an automobile is a business which demands the full possession of all of the operator's faculties.

Marian Gordon by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Marian Gordon, in her capacity as reporter for the Morning Dispatch, has forced Silver Hodon to send an encouraging message to her husband, whom she just has divorced, and who has shot himself. But Silver is not really content; she at once makes a plan for her escape, however, on the long drive back to Oakland from Reno.

Chapter 15 ACCEPTED

ION had parked the car on the summit in the lee of the rock that held a small white rangers' station on its flat top. Eight thousand feet, and yet other mountains towered above them.

Marian looked up at them. She had been waiting for days for just such a question from Lon, and now she found herself hesitating.

"It isn't a question of being what you call poor, Lon," she began, "it's women like Silver. You say she would be a luxury. But don't men appreciate luxuries more than necessities?"

"Some men might, Ian, I don't believe I would. I want the things in my life to be fundamentally sound."

The irony of the situation struck Marian.

"But Lon, how do you know I'm the kind of a person you want?"

"I've observed. Folks have told me things about you, Tony Gazetti for instance."

"Oh, but Tony's prejudiced and you know Italians, you do them one good turn and they are true for life."

"They're loyal, of course, but not without reason."

"And Lon, I have a terrible temper. It's always getting me into trouble."

"I've heard of that too, Anne calls it justified indignation. Besides, Ian, I'm not altogether blind, deaf and dumb. I love you just as you are. The question before the house is not you, but me. Do you think you could learn to love a fellow like me well enough to marry him?"

driving on snow glazed mountain roads is difficult, they drove on until dawn overtook them below the snow line, and lighted the road before them with a soft, gray light.

It was probably the beauty of the highway between the Sierras and San Francisco Bay that caused them to spend so many hours in reaching their destination. There was a dogwood tree in full bloom to be appreciated.

They left the car to look at it, found some fishermen frying trout over coals, and didn't refuse the fish, bacon and coffee offered them. They parked on high spots and watched the Bear River roaring along beneath them and promised to camp on its banks some day.

They parked on the banks of the Sacramento River, for no particular reason, parked there several times on the dikes to look down on the foam of blossoms in the orchards, and they stopped on the Antioch bridge to look at the dusky purple of Mount Diablo in the distance.

Eventually, however, they reached home and Marian went to her apartment to find Anne just awakening from her day's sleep.

"My word," she said, stifling a yawn, "did you find a gold mine in Reno?"

"When they had finished and Quick-Dick had told them another story of his days and nights as a fire hound, he said, quickly:

"You know, all this is almost too much for me. Smelling that smoke as we were on our way here, and all this talk about fires, has made me so homesick for a good fire."

"I've got a scheme. Why not start a fire and then I'll show you how quick Quick-Dick can be? Oh yes, I'll tell you what to do. I've so often heard how fires started!"

"You know, all this is almost too much for me. Smelling that smoke as we were on our way here, and all this talk about fires, has made me so homesick for a good fire."

Quick-Dick's Scheme

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "Now," thought Willy Nilly, "I won't ask Quick-Dick to help me until he has been here for a little while. It wouldn't be quite fair to get him to begin working at once."

So Willy Nilly started to tidy up his place, which was in great confusion. The Puddle Muddlers were all talking to Quick-Dick, and he was telling them of many of his experiences.

What an exciting life he had led, filled with hurry and danger and thrills. But the Puddle Muddlers had had their excitement, too, and Quick-Dick was interested in hearing about them.

But when they told him about the fire and how Rip had rescued the children in the next village, and how they had stamped out the sparks and how Honey Bear had fought the fire around the cave to protect her cubs, then Quick-Dick's ears stood up quiveringly.

"Tell me, more tell me more," he begged. "Were the flames high? Did they leap and curl? Was the smoke thick? Could you hardly breathe?"

"Oh tell it all to me again, not leaving out a single thing." When they had finished and Quick-Dick had told them another story of his days and nights as a fire hound, he said, quickly:

"You know, all this is almost too much for me. Smelling that smoke as we were on our way here, and all this talk about fires, has made me so homesick for a good fire."

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Unrealty" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 7.

The golden text was from 1 John 2:16, 17: "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven." (Prov. 23:5)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Selfishness and sensualism are educated in mortal mind by the thoughts ever recurring to one's self by conversation about the body, and by the expectation of perpetual pleasure or pain from it; and this education is at the expense of spiritual growth. If we array thought in mortal vestures, it must lose its immortal nature. If we look to the body for pleasure, we find pain; for life, we find death; for truth, we find error; for spirit, we find its opposite, matter. Now reverse this action. Look away from the body into Truth and Love, the Principle of all happiness, harmony, and immortality. Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionately to their occupancy of your thoughts."

SUMMONS SERVED ON MAN ATOP POLE
Red Wing, Minn.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Earl Carlson has a resourcefulness all his own when it comes to serving legal papers.

Carlson, called upon to serve papers on a workman, found him busy at his labors atop a tall pole. Unable to climb to such dizzy heights, Carlson nevertheless was unperturbed.

The workman, pulling up a bucket of materials, found the papers neatly on top of them.

ROBOT NEWS GATHER TO AID LONDON WIRELESS
London.—(AP)—The highly sensitized recording tape of an all-metal robot reporter is soon to be pitted against the brains of Fleet Street newspapermen.

As a member of the staff of Professor John Coatsman—recently appointed news editor of the British broadcasting corporation—the robot will attend political meetings, file football matches, first nights and public dinners, and the raw news will be used in the wireless news recorded by its mechanical mind service.

The machine is said to be sensitive enough to record the slightest sound.

Enthusiasm in Dramatics

The College students in East Carolina Teachers College electing the courses in Drama, which are taught by Miss Mary Dirnberger, who is also in charge of the community dramatics, are enthusiastic over the propitious start they have made and the ambitious program they have outlined for the fall term. A bill of three one-act plays, the cast of which is not confined to the members of the class, but is open to the entire student body, is on the program to be presented next month. The members of the class will stage the production.

The course is affiliated with the English Department and is offered as a free elective in English, carrying three points of credit. It includes production, acting, voice-training, stage craft history and background of the theatre, and the coaching of plays by student teachers, as well as the study of plays. The students are expected to find the raw material of the drama in the life around them, and translate it into plays. Miss Dirnberger believes that the material in this section is especially rich for amateurs.

Miss Dirnberger has charge not only of this work in the college, but of all the dramatic community activities in this section, under the FERA.

The little theatre movement for Greenville started this week under her direction. In Nashville and Farmville dramatic organizations have been formed and are prospering. "Arms and the Man," by George Bernard Shaw, is the production Nashville is planning to give both of these are under Miss Dirnberger's direction.

Trained by Dr. Koch, as she was a member of his Carolina Playmakers group, Miss Dirnberger comes to this work exceedingly well-trained. She was connected with the Carolina Playmakers, both in the acting and the writing of plays as well as in the production. She taught in the Summer School of Repertory Playhouse Associates in Putney, Vermont. She has worked in New York City, demonstrating recreational dramatic work in social settlements, judging from interest shown. Miss Dirnberger believes the results in this section will be of true significance.

All interested in the Greenville little theatre movement are invited to meet, with Miss Dirnberger at the Sheppard Memorial Library tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Tent Revival Continues Here

Speaking to another large audience Evangelist Erickson who is holding a revival here in a tent located at Third and Cotanche streets delivered a sermon on "Witnessing For God."

The text was taken from First John 5:10: "He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself; he that believeth not, God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his son."

The evangelist said in part: "A witness within—get right with God, and know it. The Christian knows he is saved when he has salvation."

A Christian will tell all he knows about a personal experience with God, for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

No twice born experience, no testimony, no witness, lost. Eternally lost.

Some mothers and fathers of this city eat three meals a day with children sitting across the table from them who are lost and never say a word to them about their soul's salvation.

"He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself." This meeting is non-denominational and is old-fashioned Gospel preaching. Services are held each night at 7:30.

Hollywood Sites

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—This too is Hollywood: A Spanish singer chanting negro spirituals in a Russian restaurant.

Jackie Cooper's twelfth birthday declaration of independence from the opposite sex apparently has a sympathizer in 14-year-old Jimmie Butler. Jimmie plays Ginger Rogers' young brother in her new movie, and one of the scenes has Ginger bestowing affectionate kisses on the youngster. Jimmie hemmed and hawed as rehearsals approached, but the director insisted that the kissing was as necessary in rehearsals as in the actual scene.

Waitresses in studio restaurants can wait forever for some director to discover them for pictures, but with the "hostesses" it's different.

Hestess Into Actress
Sonny Ingram, who hosted at Fox's geographically decorated "Cafe de Paris," studied acting in the studio school after working hours, and with a part in "The White Parade" behind her, now is enrolled as a stock player.

The girl who took her hosting job, Marceline Virginia Moore, pretty and blonde, is studying voice—she's a lyric soprano—and is aiming at concert and radio—"or," she admits, "the screen—pictures are always a help."

Slow in getting under way, the career of Francis Lederer is taking a spurt forward. The romantic Czech-Slovakian actor, once he emerged from the Eskimo trappings of his first film, "Man of Two Worlds," scored in "The Pursuit of Happiness," and now if he makes all the pictures mentioned for him or definitely assigned he'll be busy months, even years, from now.

May Be 'Anthony Adverse'
Latest probability is his assignment to the starring role in "Adios, Argentina!" Lou Brock's musical. Another likelihood is that he will be "Anthony Adverse," although consideration is being given Fredric March, Leslie Howard, and George Brent. Favoring Howard or Brent is the fact that both have contracts with Warner Bros., while Lederer and March are bound elsewhere.

Meanwhile Steffi Duna, whose name is frequently linked romantically with Lederer's, has a unique position—she's the only girl in the tropical romance, "Girl of the Islands."

Junior Durkin, who was "Huckleberry Finn" in the talkies, has become Trent Durkin in obedience to his more advanced years. Charles Rogers tried to drop the "Buddy" when the boys grew older, but without much success, and Jackie Coogan is still Jackie. But what will they be calling Baby LeRoy ten years from now?

NEBRASKA PATCH YIELDS HUGE TOBACCO HARVEST
Grand Island, Neb.—(AP)—The drought didn't prevent Charles Starr harvesting so much tobacco from a small patch here that he doesn't know what to do with it all.

Tobacco experts in Tennessee told him the crop couldn't be raised in Nebraska, but his plants grew seven feet high and leaves measured more than twenty inches in length. The patch was irrigated.

He has leaves stored in his basement, in his garage and in another building on his property and still has some plants left from which to cut leaves. He can't find enough space in which to dry the leaves properly.

Relieves Headache Due To Constipation
"Theodor's Black-Draught has been used in my family for years," writes Mrs. J. A. Hightower, of Carthage, Texas. "I take it for sick headache that comes from constipation. When I feel a headache coming on, I take a dose of Black-Draught. It acts and my head gets easy. Before I knew of Black-Draught, I would suffer two or three days—but not any more since I have used Black-Draught."

'Royal' Affair Laid To Mrs. Vanderbilt

Sensational testimony that Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt had been intimate with a "Prince Hohenzollern" was given by Emma Sullivan Keislich, nurse to Mrs. Vanderbilt's 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, in trial for custody of the child. Tips on CONTRACEPTION

By TOM O'NEIL

When Not To Finesse
Elimination plays are stock in trade with the better players. Use of them avoids a finesse which in many cases will fail. When adverse bidding shows the great probability that a certain finesse will not succeed the elimination is the declarer's great reliance and at times is earmarked.

It involves elimination of two side suits from the cards of declarer and dummy with trumps remaining in both hands after those of the adversaries have been exhausted. Then an adversary is put into the lead with a losing card and is compelled to lead into a tenace or to give the declarer a ruff and discard.

South started by bidding a diamond and West doubled. North passed for developments. East offered two clubs necessarily and South re-bid diamonds. West raised the clubs and North assisted the diamonds. East passed and South went to a game contract in diamonds. West made an ill-advised double.

West led the king and ace of clubs. South ruffing the ace. After exhausting trumps the declarer put himself in the North hand and took a losing heart finesse. Having no possibilities of discards he eventually lost another heart, being set one.

Mrs. Mary Louise Peavey, North, chided her partner upon being set and accepted a challenge to tell how the contract could have been made.

"After trumping the ace of clubs, draw the adverse diamonds. Then play the ace, king and queen of spades. Then lead the jack of clubs from the North hand, discarding the club."

Mrs. Peavey said she would have done as follows: "After trumping the ace of clubs, draw the adverse diamonds. Then play the ace, king and queen of spades. Then lead the jack of clubs from the North hand, discarding the club."

Fishermen Strike Oil In Lowley Swordfish Liver

Washington.—(AP)—Just a few years ago American fisheries were dumping a potential million dollars a year into the sea in the form of swordfish livers. It was believed there was no use for them.

Now they are about to go on the market in the form of an oil said to have proved one hundred times as efficient in vitamins as cod liver oil.

This follows a few years intensive laboratory experimenting started by the bureau of fisheries' technical division headed by John Ruel Manning, and collateral work in commercial laboratories.

Chemists Eyed Local Fish
Until recently there was an assumption that cod liver oil was in a class by itself. Madding points out that the United States imports 90 per cent of the three to four million gallons of cod liver oil it consumes every year. That seemed like a lot of money going out of the country.

Chemists cast an appraising eye on the fish caught along American shores.

They said they discovered other fish livers were not only as good as cod livers in their vitamin content, but better, and some oils could be produced less expensively.

Halibut liver oil has been the last flurry in the pharmaceutical market as a result of the experiments. Now comes swordfish liver oil for which are claimed even more vitamins.

Based on the price of cod liver oil, swordfish liver oil has a potential retail value of $400 a gallon. Manning estimates. And American fishermen can scoop enough swordfish from the New England, Middle Atlantic and Pacific shore waters to produce 2,500 gallons of liver oil a year.

Fishermen now get 30 cents a pound for the livers they once threw away.

Human infants are not the only babies that have to take their dose of liver oil. It seems baby chicks taken an even larger quantity each year to make them grow and eventually produce bigger and better eggs.

Sardine Oil Cheaper
Fish liver oil is almost a necessity in a small child's diet, but many mothers never have been able to afford it. Farmers paid $1.50 to $2 a gallon for cod liver oil just to give their chicks the right start in the world.

Then the chemists found California sardine oil carried as many vitamins as cod liver oil and could be used for chicks. The sardine oil retails at 50 to 75 cents a gallon.

In all, chemists say they have found enough fish and fish liver oils from the American catch to keep the huge annual tonic business at home.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—There is at least one special committee of the United States Senate that will have little if any work at all to do in the coming months.

Johnson As 'Democrat' If there had been any doubt as to how Miss Democracy looks upon one of her former bitterest enemies but to her a favored son it has been removed by an official document issued by the Democratic senatorial election committee.

Some Past 'Services' It seems a little unfeeling on the part of Senator Lewis to ignore so utterly in Johnson's biography the services he has rendered—admittedly unwillingly—to the Democratic party in the past.

It was in 1912 that he deserted the Republican party to run with another Roosevelt on the Bull Moose ticket for the vice-presidency. That more virtually handed the control of the national government to the Democrats.

Again in 1916 it was "Hi" Johnson's aloofness in the presidential campaign that brought Woodrow Wilson his second term as president. Had he been less cool to the Republican candidate, Charles Evans Hughes, California in all probability would have remained in the G. O. P. column instead of going Democratic and thus making possible Wilson's re-election.

Not a word of this, however, has Senator Lewis seen fit to set down in his campaign biography of the Democratic party's illustrious recruit.

Here is Continental's answer: In the demonstration pictured below, the film strength and oiliness of every well known motor oil in America have been shown to be increased by the addition of a drop of Germ Essence. Demonstrations before at least two hundred thousand motor-minded men have proved that "Any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed!" But there is only one oil made by the patented Germ Process—New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! Use this oil of proved strength in your car! It saves you money by giving greater motor protection and lower oil consumption. It gives you the comfortable feeling that you know your car is protected by the safest, finest motor oil made!

- Assembled instrument. Split bearings and shaft, lubricated with competitive oil, are clamped between "jaws" of instrument. With set-screw, extreme pressure is applied.
- Crank is now used to turn shaft. Oil film ruptures and bearings "seize." Shaft extremely hard to turn. You can even hear the metal-to-metal contact!
- Drop of Germ Essence is added to oil in bearing. Same pressure applied. Shaft can now be turned easily. Smooth, quiet movement—no seizing—no sound. Proof that Germ Processing increases oiliness and film strength of any oil!

TO CAR OWNERS OF GREENVILLE Continental backs claims with facts. To prove that New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil gives you lower oil consumption as well as greater motor protection, we drove six brand new cars to destruction, testing this oil against five other nationally known oils. Any Conoco station will give you a booklet that tells the story of this convincing test. It will pay you in money saved to read it. Drive in and ask for a copy—or try this oil!

TECH PASSING RATED BETTER THAN DUKE

Durham, N. C., Oct. 10—Equipped with probably the best passing attack in the south and with what Clemson officials said was a better running attack than Duke's, Georgia Tech will be the most dangerous foe the Blue Devils will face on the gridiron this season.

With Jack Phillips, rated the best passer in the south, and several others to do the flipping, the Yellow Jacket aerial game is brilliantly executed. Probably no team in the country completed more passes than Tech did last year with Phillips throwing them.

It was this overhead game that led directly to Duke's defeat in Atlanta last year, the lone smirch on the Blue Devils' perfect record for the season. Three times stopped in the line on their touchdown march Phillips tossed a series for gains that netted first downs and pushed on toward the Duke goal line.

Phillips was out of the Jackets' first game with Clemson but he returned to action against Vanderbilt and, although not in the best of shape, was one of the big stars of the game. He will be at his top speed against Duke Saturday.

And another thing that does not cause the Blue Devils to view the Tech game with any amount of security is that Clemson officials who saw the Jackets in action against their team the Saturday before the Duke-Clemson game, said after the game last week that Tech had a better running attack than the Blue Devils.

And the Clemson folks said this even though Phillips, a line-buster as well as a passer, was out of the game. Shorty Roberts, Sundial Martin, Bill McKay, Bill Street, Lawrence Hayes, Pug Boyd and others have been used in the Tech backfield this season. The midgrid but dynamic Robert is recognized as one of the finest quarterbacks in the south, and Martin as one of the best halfbacks.

COLLEGE GRID SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY

With its football squad whipped into fine form, E. C. T. C. is ready for its first encounter of the season Saturday afternoon when it meets the Wingate College squad on the gridiron here. Doc Mathis, coach declared this morning. "While the squad contains only three of last year's men, Eason, Johnson and Jolly, we have some good new material out of the twenty-five who turned out for practice," Mathis said.

According to the coach the squad is lacking in weight this season, but what it lacks in weight the coach hopes will be made up in the speed of the team, and a close contest is looked for here Saturday afternoon.

The probable line-up for Saturday's contest will be:
Center—Jolly.
Right Guard—Sinclair.
Right Tackle—Nobles or Bowen.
Right End—Madrin or Eason.
Quarterback—Epstein.
Fullback—Ferebee.

SPORT SLANTS

Imagination, which lifts men to success in most endeavor, defeats them in sports. In other words, a little stupidity is a marvelous thing to most of the men who makes their living playing games.

There have been many famous men whose minds and records disprove this theory. But as a general rule, you will find that it holds true. This was brought obviously to the fore in the first game of the world series when the Detroit Tigers' infield, which has been the best in the American League all year, cracked wide open, and gave the Cardinals a physical and mental advantage they never lost.

In the case of the Tigers, inexperienced probably was to blame. On third base was youthful Marvin Owen, who was clearly the most improved ball player in the American League this year. But in the series his imagination got the better of him, and he worked himself up to such a pitch, that he no longer saw a harmless little white ball bounding toward him in the early innings.

The Plague of Golfers
Curiously, it even gets the veterans. Even Charley Gehring, the experienced, carefree second baseman of the Tigers, contributed a bobble in those disastrous three innings.

A keen imagination is even a greater handicap in golf. There is so much to plague you in golf, the natural hazards your opponent, the position of your hands and feet, and the gallery. But the natural hazards, the hazards which make the game what it is, are nothing compared to the hazards that can be conjured by an active mind.

This, for example, is one of the main reasons for teaching the short backswing in golf—especially on the putt. Given time to think about the bunkers on the left, or the creek or the out of bounds on the right, the average golfer will lose his concentration on the ball, and usually drive it where he is thinking. On the green he pulls or pushes the ball off line.

Hence, the golf professionals who have made a study of the human nature and the golf swing, recommend the shortest backswing as a means of cutting down motion and thinking.

This is not to say that a man must be a dullard to be successful at these games. Still, no baseball veteran will dispute the fact that many of the smartest men on the diamond were pretty thick elsewhere.

In Football Too!
It is not unlikely that the development of the imagination is responsible for the failure of many college football players to live up to the reputations they made in their sophomore year. As they continue their work in school, if they are really serious about getting an education, their imagination naturally develops, and they begin to wonder about the value of football, and the theories of the game, instead of playing almost by habit.

There is nothing to break up a good theory like a 200 pound tackle!

Meet Joe Humphries
The champions of the world from the hundred pounders to the heavyweight champions swing up to the "meatloaf" and disappear, but Joe Humphries goes on forever.

Joe, you must know, is old "toothless Joe," who is invaluable to any important New York fight as the ring itself.

He takes up that incomparable moment between the time the fighters climb into the ring and the start of the battle. For one minute then, Joe has the stage, and he occupies it and dominates it with all the art of a George A. Liss, as he introduces the fighters to the crowd.

He is introduced by the clanging bell, and he takes the center of the ring with all the dignity and assurance of a college professor. The routine never changes. He takes off the dilapidated grey hat, revealing a head now bald and shining—then he waits for quiet.

He's An Actor
Then with one hand high above his head and the other holding a card on which are the fighters' names he bellows into the microphone—"In this corner . . ." They left hand stays up, and the card indicates his man, and when he has finished he shuffles to the corner and is helped form the ring.

But not until the finish of the fight does Joe really come into his own. Then he is peerless, as he takes the spotlight again and fills the hall with his inimitable, querulous voice: "The judges have agreed," he shouts, and when this is greeted by the crowd's roar, the hands go up above again. He is not surprised at this clamor. Rather, he looks as if he would be disappointed if the howl did not come. Before he makes his final announcement, then, he glances at the cards giving the decision of the judges and the referee, before screaming "Referee . . . Decides . . . that better . . . ring . . . generalship gives the decision to . . ."

He's Seen Better Days
Joe, like the Garden, has seen better days. Perhaps this is not exactly fair to Joe, who really is in much better shape than the Garden. But he remains optimistic. "It will come back, and long before I'm ready to quit, too."

But Joe would like to climb into the ring more often. He likes this setting, this great circle of faces staring and yelling at him. No man in the prize-fighting racket is more interesting than Announcer Joe Humphries.

LEHMANN SIGNS EXTRADITION OF HAUPTMAN

der extraditing Hauptmann to New Jersey late today, but that Hauptmann would fight the extradition to the end in the court.

Fawcett made the announcement after a conference with the governor and his counsel, Charles Polletti. He said he would apply tomorrow morning to the Bronx County of Bronx Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus which, if granted, will in effect stay the extradition order temporarily. He said he did not ask the governor for a hearing for his client who was indicted last week for murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

"Governor Lehman told me," he said, "that he was ready to grant the request of New Jersey that Hauptmann be sent there from New York City to face trial for the abduction-murder. I did not ask for a hearing because I preferred to carry the case direct to the courts," Fawcett said.

A Washington Day Book

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's sixth "fireside talk" to the American people, just as the preceding ones, can be set down as mirroring another phase of his administration.

As such the Democrats probably will lose little time in getting it into print for use as a campaign document.

In what many of those who heard him believe to be the most forceful speech he yet has made, Mr. Roosevelt left no doubt as to how he felt about the "new deal." He has no thought of abandoning any part of it.

He did, however, admit that some changes might be considered. He mentioned that modifications of NRA relating to control of production and price-fixing might receive the attention of his administration and that the scope of the codes might be materially limited.

This might be construed as an effort on his part to allay some of the alleged "fears" of business.

More Disappoint Some
In business, however, expected him to give definite assurances such as those requested by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in its six -point questionnaire, the speech must have been disappointing.

He had nothing to say about whether or not the government's budget would be balanced. Nor did he give any intimation of what he intended to do about the currency.

The nearest he came to this sort of thing was when he spoke encouragingly of what the government already has done to rid business. He spoke again of "fair" profits and of how he counted in the future on the driving power of individual initiative, as he has from the start, to bring about recovery.

After Industrial Peace
The highlight of the President's speech was his announced determination to attempt to bring peace in industry by trying to persuade capital and labor to declare a truce.

Through conferences and agreements between employers and employees he expressed the hope of terminating industrial strife which has caused so much suffering and loss during the past year.
