Search For Wealthy Louisville, Ky., Society Matron Still Fruitless

Believe This, Fifth Day, Marks Important Point in Kidnaping Case.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The fifth day, the most portentous, for Alice Steep Stoll since she was kidnaped, brought the belief today that the family had established contact with the abductor. Those in position to know agreed that the fifth day played an important part in the $50,000 ransom note. Fears had been expressed that the kidnaping matron if by that time he had not received the ransom and made his way to safety. With the case at this critical stage it was pointed out as significant that Sunday was the first day since the kidnaping to pass without an appeal over the radio to the kidnapers. The ransom money has been dispatched to Nashville apparently to be called for there or forwarded elsewhere. With all the law forces of the nation, State, county and city massed in search for the wealthy young victim, primary consideration was still for her safety—coming before making an arrest or even establishing a case.

The most promising clue run down by officers today seemed that suggested by the reported sighting of a woman who looked like Mrs. Stoll, in Warren County, half-way between Louisville and Nashville. It was in this direction that Stoll drove furiously last Friday. This section is honeycombed with caves, beneath every hill and in every valley, there are hundreds. The region is wild and sparsely settled.

LARGE SUMS GO FOR HOMES

Greenville District of Home Owners Loan Corp. Pays Out $1,555,951.64

A total of $1,555,951.64 has been paid out in the twenty-four counties comprising the Greenville district of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, it was announced last night by R. B. Davis, district manager of the Greenville district office here. Mr. Davis said mortgages had been taken on 735 homes where foreclosure was imminent and the owners were in financial distress and in addition to assuming the mortgages, the Corporation paid out taxes and street assessments and in many cases repaired the property.

The period covered by Mr. Davis' statement is from early in the summer of 1933 when the Corporation was organized by Act of Congress through October 5, 1934.

Discussing the work of the Corporation, Mr. Davis said that there were 925 cases still pending in the district of the 2,151 applications received since the Corporation began to function.

Mr. Davis' report showed that through October 5, 1934, the Corporation has taken up 7,271 mortgages on homes in North Carolina and has paid out $18,511,133.94 and there are still pending for final applications through the State 6,184 applications.

The Greenville district is comprised of the following counties: Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Northampton, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrell, and Washington.

Labor Unions Will Push Investigation of S. Clay Williams

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 15.—(AP)—An investigation into the labor attitude of S. Clay Williams, NRA board member, will be requested by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, upon his return to Washington, it was announced today. Green, who plans to leave tomorrow for the East, said the federation executive council had instructed him to present the request to President Roosevelt.

Investigation of Williams' attitude toward organized labor was demanded in a resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor convention here last week. It accused him of opposition to trade unions and collective bargaining with them.

Hauptmann Hearing.

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann sprang a surprise in Bronx Supreme Court today by informing Attorney General David Wilentz, of New Jersey, that he informed police when arrested that he had more of the Lindbergh ransom money in his possession. A short time before Hauptmann had testified he had told a lie when he informed police on the day of his arrest that the $20 gold note found in his possession was part of $300 worth of such notes he had saved.

Hauptmann was called to the stand in his own defense in his effort to forestall extradition to New Jersey to face a murder charge in (Continued On Page Six)

Only Two Cases In Mayor's Court

R. H. Coggins was bound over to County Court by Mayor R. C. Flaegan on a charge of reckless driving and Edward Gibbs, negro, was bound over on a charge of larceny this morning. The two cases comprised today's session of Mayor's Court.

The charge against Coggins was the result of an accident that occurred here Saturday at the intersection of Greene and Third Streets when Coggins made left hand turn from the highway into Third Street without signaling and collided with another car on the highway traveling north. Both cars were badly damaged, but the occupants escaped any serious injury.

Gibson was charged with having broken into the trunk of another negro and stolen shirts therefrom. At the time of his arrest he was wearing one of the stolen shirts.

WHERE HAUPTMANN FACES MURDER TRIAL

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Case: A man needs to be brave to forecast what manner of decision the United States Supreme Court was going to hand down in any case. To be held in contempt of that august body would be awesome thing.

Entirely apart, however, from the arguments which will be weighed by our highest tribunal in the suit which challenges Constitutionality of the New Deal's dollar devaluation program there are certain important aspects upon which it is permissible to comment.

Most important is that a decision adverse to the government would rock our business and financial institutions to their very foundations.

Norman C. Norman, a New York citizen who holds a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad gold bond, is demanding that the B & O give him $38.10 for an interest coupon normally holds a gold bond and since the value as $22.50. Norman argues that the government changed the value of gold in relation to dollars he is entitled to just that much more in paper money.

If the Supreme Court upholds this contention, corporations, business and banking institutions in (Continued On Page Four)

MAN ADMITS PUTTING CHILD INTO FURNACE

Says Little Girl Accidently Killed Before He Disposed of Body

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Police said today Lawrence Stone, husky young laborer, confessed to throwing five-year-old Nancy Jean Costigan into a huge apartment house furnace. A tiny gold ring, a child's wrist watch and a few blackened bones were removed from the furnace yesterday after the six-foot oil-fed flame had been turned off. They were all that remained. A trail of blood through the basement maze was interpreted by police as mute testimony to the brutal assault.

Stone, who confessed to Chief Michael Silverstein, said the girl was hurt in a fall. Stone, discharged handy man at the apartment house, was quoted as confessing that he had been playing with the child in the basement and had hit her with her rubber ball. She fell, he said, and struck her head on the concrete floor. Then she turned blue. Stone started to carry Nancy Jean upstairs, the confession continued, but became panic stricken and threw her into the flames.

Blood smears on his clothing led to the arrest of Stone who is 24 years old. He insisted under the first hour of questioning that he knew nothing of the slaying.

THIEVES TAKE PICTURES FROM LOCAL STUDIO

Thieves Saturday night robbed the outside glass show cases of Baker's Studio here, taking the photographs of Misses Mary Rachael Teel and Imogene Ricks, two of Greenville's popular young ladies. Just a short time ago thieves broke into the case one night and robbed it of ten photographs together with a number of frames used in the display. Following the first robbery it was believed that the thieves were mainly after the picture frames because of their material value, but the taking of the photographs alone last night left authorities wondering as to who it is that is using this method to make a collection of good looking photographs.

THIEVES TAKE PICTURES FROM LOCAL STUDIO

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jesse Tucker, negro, was slain today by Motor Patrolman W. B. Bond when the negro turned a gun on the officer.

The officer had intervened as Tucker chased another negro along a street with pistol. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

COUNTRYMEN PAY HOMAGE TO DEAD KING

Train Bearing Body of King Alexander Halted along Homeward Journey.

Zagreb, Yugoslavia, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Yugoslav subjects wept today before the coffin of their king, many of them had opposed in life. A royal train bearing the coffin made its way through the long lines of weeping peasants from Split to which place it had been brought from Marcella by the destroyer Eubrovnik.

Because thousands requested opportunity to pay last respects to King Alexander, it was decided to have the train halt at various towns between Zagreb and Belgrade, delaying its arrival in the capital until midnight. Belgrade is already thronged with foreign notables who will attend the funeral.

TWO HURT IN WRECK HERE

Two Raleigh Men Suffer Injuries When Car Overturns Last Night

Clive Clark, of Raleigh, was in the hospital here today suffering painful but no serious injuries and C. S. Jackson, also of Raleigh, was given first aid treatment and discharged from the hospital as the result of an accident that occurred on East Fourth Street here last night. According to reports of investigating officers the car was traveling at a rapid rate of speed and turned completely over when the driver undertook to turn the corner into Harding Street. The men from Raleigh stated they were en route to some point east of here for a fishing trip when the accident occurred.

SEVEN HURT IN AUTO WRECKS THIS COUNTY

Patrolmen Report Series of Wrecks in County Over Week-End

The local office of the State Highway Patrol today reported four wrecks investigated in this county over the week-end with seven persons injured.

The wreck in which six persons were injured occurred Saturday night about half a mile below Winterville when Leland Forlines, of the Winterville section, collided head-on with a car from Tarboro driven by J. H. Alford. Both cars were almost completely demolished, the patrolmen reported, and all occupants of the Tarboro car were injured, some of them seriously. Forlines was also painfully injured.

Forlines, Alford and W. W. Barrett are still in the hospital here and Dennis Rimmer was able to leave the hospital today. Forlines is suffering cuts and bruises, while both Alford and Barrett received broken legs. J. B. Everts and Miss Bettie Met Barrett, also occupants of the Alford car, received cuts and bruises but were not injured to the extent to require hospital attention.

Another accident in which the cars were damaged, but the occupants escaped serious injury, occurred last night about two miles from this city on the Winterville highway when C. C. Henderson, of Kingston, and G. S. McGowan, of this city, were in collision.

About 11 o'clock Saturday, F. A. Creech, Wilson tobaccocon, received minor injuries when his car was struck by an automobile loaded with negroes and apparently by a drunken driver. The accident occurred on the Vanceboro road about six miles from this city. Creech returned to this city and reported the accident to officers, stating that the car had approached him swerving from one side of the road to the other, making the accident on his part unavoidable. When officers returned to the scene with Creech the negroes had fled, leaving their damaged car behind. The officers took charge of the car to investigate the ownership of same.

Another wrecked car, but with no injuries to the occupant, occurred in the Winterville section when a negro stole the car of Less Anderson, negro, and wrecked it about 800 yards from Anderson's home. Anderson reported that when he followed the car and approached it, the other negro apparently drunk, took to the woods.

M. Poincare, Wartime President Of France Died This Morning

Was One of France's Greatest Figures During and Since the World War

A share of the $25,000 reward offered by the New Jersey legislature for information leading to the arrest of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping was claimed by William R. Strong (above), a New York bank teller who claimed he detected the $10 gold note that led to the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. (Associated Press Photo)

Paris, France, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Raymond Poincare, one of the last of France's great World War figures, died quietly early this morning. The war-time president and "savior of the franc" ten years later, was 74 years old. Shock of the Marseille assassination may have hurried the end. M. Poincare grieved over the disastrous event for he knew King Alexander well and Louis Barthou was his lifelong friend. Death came at his home here after a short illness which doctors thought was not serious.

The elderly statesman expected to leave shortly for his annual winter trip to the Riviera. Although he was virtually in political retirement since resigning as Premier in 1929, Poincare had just been re-elected to a department of council seat after a spectacular physical comeback. The doctors two years ago gave him up for lost. "Just worn out," they said today.

All last night his wife and friends watched him. He was conscious but an extension of his paralysis stilled his voice. He died in his silent room as a cold windy rainstorm rattled against the windows of his Paris home.

M. Poincare's last written word constituted a newspaper article he had dictated about Barthou. He worked almost until the end seeking to finish his memoirs.

The body lay today on a brass bed in his library among the books that had been his greatest friends and comfort. Besides him was Sister of Charity Mme. Marguerite, his nurse during his several grave illnesses, since his resignation five years ago.

Normally Poincare would be given a national funeral, but he may have left a request for simplicity. He had expressed preference to be buried at Nivecourt, close to his home, in Campigny. There, he said, he wished to lie with his parents and his brother in the province of Lorraine which he loved so much.

Marian Gordon by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: In spite of the selfish effort of Silver London to take Lon and Marion away from their...

NEW PLAN

Lon battered a few biscuits and set them aside in true Southern fashion, ate his berries, drank some coffee then looked up.

"I know, sometimes I sort of pinch myself wondering if... if all this is true or if I'm going to wake up and find I've been dreaming."

"I know," she nodded seriously, "and it's been only eight days."

"Listen Lon, isn't this rich? There's nothing like a country newspaper: 'Like a windswept garden of flowers the bride party moved down the aisle...'"

"Oh, Lon, I do." She turned to him, smiled at the old man beside him, "only I don't see how you can bear to give it up."

"It was fine till folks started movin' in, spoilin' things."

"But the view, nothing could spoil that."

"Houses down there," he said with distaste, "pointing to colorful dots, each surrounded by its square of trees, 'that low spot over there. Wait until I get my glasses on you'll see the red roofs... that's where the swells live.'"

He brought forth the binoculars, adjusted them and Marian saw reddled roofs and white stucco walls gleaming through the matted tops of old oak trees.

Lon and the owner discussed price, discussed soil, discussed the price of prunes and walnuts in which his acres were planted, while Marian swung the glasses to and fro, picking out spots she knew.

"Umhuh, and I won't have to buy a stitch of linen or bedding or dishes or silver. We even have some rare pieces of furniture."

"Silence a few moments, then Lon spoke—'Hey, Ian, listen to this, doesn't this sound like the place we're looking for: 'Twenty acre fruit ranch, more acreage available, ten minute drive from city, running water, electricity, priced reasonable. See Morblad at Lafayette. Where's Lafayette?'"

"In the San Ramon valley; it's beautiful there."

"Ian, let's," he hesitated.

"Let's," she said. "We're the rest of our life for a honeymoon. Let's start right away."

QUICKLY they washed the breakfast dishes, packed their bags, whistled to Hero and started for the valley of the San Ramon.

Noon found them swinging their heels from the high stools of a sandwich counter at Walnut Creek, and early afternoon in the office of Morblad, at Lafayette.

The owner of the land mentioned in the advertisement, Morblad explained, was an eccentric orchardist, who resented the city's encroachment on his land.

"I tried to get him to wait until the tunnel was finished, so he'd get a better price for his land, but he wouldn't. Seemed to think he'd be contaminated by city folk if he held out much longer."

He gave them directions, then stood outside his little office and watched them leave with the complacent air of a man who has performed his duty.

Lon drove while Marian repeated the directions, "first road to the left," she said, then, "wooden gate with a 'beware dangerous dog' sign... there it is Lon, No, Hero's all right. Morblad said there wasn't any dog."

Her eyes were wide with wonder as Lon left the car to open the gate. The orchard lay in a valley hemmed in on all sides by hills, low hills to the east and north, jagged mountains to the south and to the west the high barrier upon which the gaines had been made. A few years ago 3,000 spectators was an average crowd.

Marked improvement in the brand of football played by Washington U. teams during the two seasons Conzelman has directed practice has boosted crowds.

More than 62,000 fans watched his Bears perform in their home contests last fall. This year, at the opening of classes, 2,000 advance reservations for each of the 1934 home

"Dramatic Interludes" At College.
"Dramatic Interludes," a costume-drama by the noted English actor, V. L. Granville, will be given tomorrow night in the Austin Auditorium of East Carolina Teachers College, at eight o'clock. This is the first of the fall series of entertainments to be offered by East Carolina Teachers College.

Mr. Granville appeared at the college several years ago during the summer school and delighted his audience with his exceedingly clever and artistic presentations of familiar characters from plays and books of noted people.
The history of the drama is un-

The program will be in two parts with intermission. In the first part, after the introductory explanation, he gives a group of interludes from Job to a play of the Restoration. The second part is devoted to more modern plays and books.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, October 14.

The golden text was from Isaiah 33:22: "The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Oh that I were as in months past, as in the days when God preserved me; When his candle shined upon my head, and when by his light I walked through darkness; as I was in the days of my youth, when the secret of God was upon my tabernacle."—(Job 29:2-4).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We should hesitate to say that Jehovah sins or suffers; but if sin and suffering are realities of being, whence did they emanate? God made all that was made, and Mind can't sin—God—infinity, not finity. Not far removed from infidelity is the belief which unites such opposites as sickness and health, holiness and unhappiness, calls both the offspring of spirit, and at the same time admits that Spirit is God—virtually declaring Him good in one instance and evil in another."

Rev. J. A. Melver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, talked Sunday evening to the students of East Carolina Teachers College at the Y. W. C. A. services. He brought a very timely and applicable message to them from his travels through Europe this past summer. One could easily visualize the beauties of the European countries as he so vividly described them. Besides showing the physical beauties of the countries, some of the fine and beautiful qualities of the natives were pointed out. Mr. Melver cited an incident in which a native of Switzerland showed a marked confidence in him, even though he was a total stranger. "Confidence," he said, "is a quality that college students need to develop. One needs to have confidence in friends, teachers, parents and God."

He told of another incident in which a German woman showed her love for an American woman. He urged the students to have faith in and love for neighbors and to put away hate and selfishness; to strive to find a place in life and to be a brother to man both at home and abroad.

Miss Mary Frances Holland, a member of the Y. W. C. A., conducted the Friday evening vespers. Her subject was "Going the Second Mile." She said if one only goes the first mile, that which is required, college life won't mean much. In order to get the most out of campus life, one will have to be gracious and go the second mile, both in work and social activities. She closed with the idea that one should always aim toward a goal, but must go the second mile in order to attain its fullness and richness.

Miss Edith Marslander, chairman of the music committee, was in charge of the music at both meetings.

Miss Dickinson At College.

Miss Ethel Dickinson of Shreveport, Louisiana, will be superintendent of the infirmary at East Carolina Teachers College, for the year 1934-35. She is taking the place of Miss Annie Morris, who has a leave of absence for one year. After graduating from State Teachers College, at Natchitoches, La., Miss Dickinson taught two years in her home state. She then entered Tri-State Hospital at Shreveport from which she graduated at the end of three years. Since that time she has been doing private and institutional work. She comes to the college highly recommended, both as bacteriologist and nurse.

She arrived yesterday and entered into the work at once.

Meeting Of Garden Club.

The first fall meeting of the Garden Club held at the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon, had the appearance of a miniature flower show—members attending were asked to bring a display of some of their garden flowers, and the result was a colorful showing of roses, cosmos, dahlias, delphinium, snapdragons, and Mexican sunflowers.

The chairman, Mrs. T. E. Hooker, presided. The secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. N. Hart, read her reports. The club was gratified to know that their small funds had accomplished some good results, such as renting and showing lantern slides of beautiful gardens and keeping up the Fifth street plot, which has looked well all summer.

Committees were appointed, Mrs. W. H. Woolard, membership; Mrs. Leo Burks, plant exchange; Mrs. H. B. Moore, civics; Mrs. E. W. Harvey and Mrs. H. E. Austin, program. Mrs. Hooker called attention to the garden school to be conducted in Raleigh October 22-24. Several plans for the year's work were discussed and gossip of the summer gardens was indulged in. Many helpful ideas were exchanged about the culture and care of flowers.

Mrs. Hart read an interesting article on putting hyacinths and forcing them for house blooming in winter.

It was decided to have a flower exhibit at our yearly program in the Woman's Club November 1st, and invite the Home Demonstration women of the county to be present.—Reported.

College Chapel Program.

A clever introduction to the new series of the student chapel programs at East Carolina Teachers College was presented in dramatic form last Friday morning. Twice a month the students will have the Friday program.
On the stage, the new committee represented by Misses Margaret Zotic, Minnie Margaret Gorham and Roxie Smith were in session, discussing new ideas for the student chapel programs. Instead of explaining that they thought well-planned programs should be of various types, they had a series of scenes, presented by students in costume. The scenes illustrated bits of programs to be presented—dance, drama, current problems, fun, and music.

For the dance, Miss Katherine Crow introduced her two dancers, Misses Ruth Wood and Virginia Fryer, who came out on the stage in soft draperies, swinging and swerving gracefully in harmony with the music, then posed on the side.

Miss Jewel Cole, for the drama, presented her players, Miss Katherine Hines and Billy Tolson who gave the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet."

The suggestion for current problems was cleverly introduced by Miss Elizabeth Davies, in a costume of newspaper headlines. She gave a few items of present day happenings and then Miss Laura Roberts gave the students an inkling of some great problems of the past and Miss Marion Wood forecast the future events.

Fun was portrayed by Miss Mary Ella Bunn who cartwheeled out on the stage, demanding a part in the year's program.

Music came last, Jack Humphrey sang "At Dawning" accompanied on the piano by Miss Katy Lee Johnson.

The program ended with a tribute to President L. R. Meadows and the singing of the school song.

The costuming was done by Miss Mary Gorham and the incidental music was played by Miss Rachel Stone.

Miss Mary Dirnberger, teacher of the Drama, as director of the program, and Miss Mary Shaw Roberson, chairman of the chapel program committee, was stage manager.

The new chapel program committee consists of Misses Mary Shaw Roberson, chairman; Minnie Margaret Gorham, secretary, and Margaret Bostic, Mack Martin and Jack Humphrey.

Qualifies Better Housing Program.

C. L. Russ, local plumbing and heating contractor of 312 Evans street, announced today that he had qualified to do heating modernization work under the Federal Housing Administration and make all financing arrangements for the property owner.

Through an agreement made with the Heating and Plumbing Finance Corporation of New York, he is now prepared, he said, to handle all the details of a loan to cover payment for the work. A home owner does not have to obtain a special loan from a bank or other institution to pay for modernizing his heating.

The financing terms are the same as those provided for all loans under the government act, he explained. The home owner obtains an estimate of the work from the contractor and fills out a financial statement. When the work has been completed, the home owner will make regular payments to the Heating and Plumbing Finance Corporation.

Standard government rates apply. These are the lowest in the history of time payments for the building industry.
No down payment is required. The home owner can have improvements made costing from one hundred to two thousand dollars, with as long as three years in which to pay.
"In making this arrangement," Mr. Russ said, "we are seeking to offer the utmost cooperation to the Federal Government in the promotion of its home modernization campaign. It is our intention to simplify the details of financing modernization work in our field, so that no home owner need hesitate to undertake it."

Hollywood Sites

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif.—Pola Negri, the foreign star who paved the way to Hollywood for all foreign stars, is back in a Hollywood very much swayed by the Garbo-Dietrich-Sten trio.

Whether Pola, who in 1918 made the film "Passion" which resulted in her being brought to Hollywood, is conscious of the active competition she has in the matter of glamor nowadays she does not reveal.

"Oh, yes," quoth Pola, who does not lose her accent. "I was here first, before any of them. Perhaps it is possible they have profited by the example of my good unfortunate experiences in Hollywood—in the matter of stories."

"I am convinced that it is the all-important thing, the story. The star may be the great artist—she would not be the star—but alone she cannot make the success of the picture."

Perfume—But No Cats

She is still the same Pola Negri, lover of perfume and hater of cats—in her suite there were no cats, but the air was heavy with scent, forewarning that the raven-haired lady soon to make her entrance. (Pola always makes an entrance, even if the interviewer is late) would not have abandoned the prerogatives of the foreign star concerning glamor.

But the scented Negro, today ebullient with plans, was more concerned with finding a Chopin for her George Sand—one of the screen possibilities she is considering. Warner Brothers will make "Nocturne," and Pola is reading the script. But she could think of no worthy Chopin—and she was not certain, although she would like the role of Sand.

"But it may be," she speculated, "it is not the season for biography." Francis Lederer as Chopin, perhaps? Yes, Pola had thought of him—but two accents in one picture, that would not do!

Meanwhile, Pola is to do a Russian heroine for United Artists next spring, and there is a concert tour of South America to be made, and Ernst Lubitsch, her director in "Passion," is interested in directing her again.

Rejected Several Offers

Negri's last Hollywood appearance was in "A Woman Commands" nearly three years ago. She was a personal success, especially with her singing of "Paradise," but the film was not popular as a whole. Since then, she has appeared on stage and screen abroad, and has rejected Hollywood offers to play in such pictures as "Freaks," the sensational film about th sideshows, and "Supernatural," the one about seers and senses.

She would consider none of them—not Negri, who wants a story badly enough to declare: "If I never make another picture, I would rather that it be so than that I should play in a picture with a poor story!"

$900 STOLEN FROM

WILSON COUNTY MAN

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 15.—New Deal wealth is becoming so great and common in this section that farmers think nothing of leaving big bundles of it while they go out to their pack barns to grade tobacco. At least Mac Page reported to Sheriff Weatherberry's office Saturday that he hung up his pants with $900 in them in a closet in his house and then left the residence vacant while he and other members of his family fussed with their tobacco all day. When the household returned Friday evening Mr. Page said he got into his pants once more but the $900 wasn't there. Officers report the thief left no clues.

The county relief board reported 40 per cent of the population of Eagle Pass, Texas, living on funds supplied by State relief this summer.

From 636 whales two companies operating off the coast of Alaska derived more than 28,000 barrels of oil and 2,000 tons of by-products this season.

The annual manufactured merchandise of New York City is worth more than four billion dollars.

stantly would be obligated to pay out literally billions of dollars to investors and creditors. The federal treasury would have to let go of its two billions in "profit" derived from devaluation.

The plaintiff adds an interesting angle to the litigation by bringing up the question of sanctity of contracts. He contends the government has no right to alter in any way the terms of a contract between the B & O and him as a bondholder.

Liberal: When the Aluminum Company was forced by the U. S. Supreme Court to stand retrial in the lower courts in the $9,000,000 damage suit brought by the independent Baugh interests a short notation appeared on the docket bearing which is some interesting background.

"The Chief Justice did NOT participate in the consideration of this case," it read.

Senate liberals who opposed the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice back in the Hoover administration long since have changed their minds and rued their premature antagonism. The above-quoted sentence from the Aluminum Trust docket is just another reason why.

Chief Justice Hughes refrained from sitting while the aluminum case was argued because at one time he had been attorney for the Aluminum Company in a successful phase of this litigation, which has been dragging through the courts for years. In the appellant's brief he was mentioned as having drawn a contract which figures incidentally in the present case.

When Mr. Hoover sent Mr. Hughes' name to the Senate in 1930 a savage, though intellectual, fight Senator George Norris, of Neb., then Senator George Norris, of Neb., then chairman of the Judiciary Committee, cited over 50 cases in which Mr. Hughes had appeared before the U. S. Supreme Court as attorney for big business interests in the five years previous. It was charged that, if confirmed, he would only be a "part-time Justice" because of earlier legal connections.

Chief Justice Hughes never appeared before the highest tribunal for the Aluminum Company but absented himself because of the earlier connection. It was one of the few times he has ever felt impelled to take such action. Political liberals are quite content he was put on the bench despite their opposition.

War: Twenty years ago when Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated at Sarajevo, the story was a two-day sensation in American papers. But after twenty-four hours our domestic interest went back to the manner in which Woodrow Wilson was handling the then simmering Mexican situation. Americans actually were startled a month after Ferdinand was murdered to wake up and find Europe at war.

A blow-up in Yugoslavia is believed here to be possible as the result of King Alexander's assassination. He managed to hold down the Croats by force and finesse, but always faced a revolt. They will quickly test the mettle of the interim government. The internal scrap bears directly upon that country's relations with Italy. Foreign Minister Barthou of France was trying to patch up peace between Yugoslavia and Italy. Serbs and Croats agree in only one particular—passionate hatred of the Italians. If extremists get the upper hand at Belgrade they will seek the war with Italy which Alexander was wise enough to avoid.

France must hold a tight rein over its ally, Yugoslavia, in this emergency. The French cannot afford to support Yugoslavia in a war with Italy—and yet Mussolini's ironical reference to "improved relations" with France was received with a burst of laughter by a huge crowd at Milan. Upon the skill of French diplomacy and the forbearance of Mussolini will depend the preservation of peace if Yugoslavia invites war. Mussolini has seen trouble coming and may not be able to ward it off. Italians bitterly recall the savage fighting of Croats them in the World War and are smarting under Yugoslav taunts of cowardice at Caporetto.

New York, Oct. 15—Remedy: New York insiders learn that the Treasury's private brain trust is concocting a bank reform bill to be offered to the next Congress with the administration's blessings. Its keynote will be centralization of the Federal Reserve System by strengthening the Federal Reserve Board.

One of the chief complaints against the present set-up arises from the almost complete autonomy of the regional Reserve Banks. The Reserve Board itself has very limited power. This arrangement has enabled the New York Reserve Bank to assume a dominant position in the nation's financial affairs—which hasn't been exactly healthy from the viewpoint of the rest of the country. Each of the twelve regional banks prides much on its own—there's been very little effective teamwork among the financial institutions of various sections. Several times in the last few years the rivalry between the New York and Chicago banks has led them to work at cross-purposes with harmful effects on the credit system as a whole.

It's understood the proposed remedy for these defects will be to clip the wings of the regional banks by transferring most of their authority to the Reserve Board in Washington. The Board would also be linked more closely by the Treasury.

Authority: There will probably be a notable change in the methods of selecting governors for the regional banks. At present they are chosen by a directorate representing private member banks in their respective territories. Naturally they are inclined to be more responsive to the wishes of the bankers who named them than to a remote Board which is almost powerless to enforce its ideas.

The chances are this condition will be corrected either by giving the Reserve Board authority to veto regional selections or by having the Board itself designate regional governors from lists of candidates to be nominated locally. There's precedent for the latter device in the Farm Credit Administration set-up. Either system would improve coordination.

Similar precautions are due to be taken in the naming of the Federal Reserve open market committee. This influential body is also chosen at present by private bankers in the various districts. Its powers are such that it can just about nullify reasury credit policy by its control over Federal Reserve market operations if it feels that brash.

That contingency is eliminated if its membership is responsible to Washington.

Substitute: One of the most important motives behind this Federal Reserve reform plan is to sidetrack the growing demand for a central bank. Well-posted New Yorkers are firmly convinced that the administration does not favor such a radical change in the system and realizes that some constructive alternative is necessary if Congress is to be kept in hand. It's hoped this one will turn the trick.

The proposed tightening of Reserve Board control would also hasten unification of the banking system and elimination of non-member State banks. The administration can't talk about this for obvious reason—but insiders insist it is one objective on which the government is in perfect agreement with leading financial men.

New York bankers are suspicious of anything that emanates from the Treasury, but most of them would gladly sacrifice a large measure of their influence in the Federal lineup if that's the price of blocking a central bank. They will probably object for the record when the bill is introduced but their objections will mask a deep relief. One banker says:

"If we have any sense we'll kick like steers. I don't know any better way to persuade Congress that the prospective legislation must be all right."

The principal worry in financial circles is that Robert Owen's Sound Money League, the Committee for the Nation and other central bank proponents won't swallow the substitute. That might lead to a strenuous tug-of-war with the outcome uncertain. Then you'd see the crowning irony of Wall Street's bankers rooting fervently, if silently, for the administration.

Loss: Informed New Yorkers regard Barthou's death as a far more serious loss to the cause of European stability than that of King Alexander.

Sources who know their Europe rated Barthou a grade A diplomat and statesman. There was nothing synthetic about his reputation. He is credited with having been a far greater factor in preserving peace than the world knows. You hear it said that no other man's death could have scrambled the European eggs more thoroughly.

This applies to French internal conditions as well as to the international situation. He was Premier Doumergue's strongest prop. He was the great conciliator of the cabinet and did more than anyone else to keep the prima donnas of the national government on speaking terms with each other. Doumergue is going to find the road much rougher—and perhaps impassable—without him.

The only sphere of policy in which he did not exert a major influence was that of finance. The French government leans chiefly on the judgment of the Bank of France in monetary matters.

STILL AHEAD

If you don't believe Greenville is The Best Tobacco Market just take a look at the figures. While the market is only a few thousand pounds ahead from the standpoint of sales it is nearly a million dollars ahead in the amount of money paid. What the growers and the community as a whole is interested in is the amount of money the growers get for their crop and certainly a lead of a million dollars in this respect indicates higher prices here and places Greenville far out in the lead.

KEEP THE HOME FIRES "FRIENDLY"

A "friendly" fire stays inside the stove or furnace where it belongs and serves to keep man comfortable. When fire escapes from confinement it becomes decidedly unfriendly!

How often fires do become unfriendly is emphasized in a recent report. "In 1932," it states, "fires caused by stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes, resulted in a property loss of $17,916,783. Another cause of fire, which is closely allied with stoves, is defective chimneys and flues. In 1932 fires originating in this way caused a loss of $24,702,210. A third contributing cause is hot ashes, coals and open fires, which accounted for a loss of $5,002,572. These three alone, with a total of $47,621,556, resulted in 11 per cent of the nation's entire fire waste that year."

Necessary precautions are simple: Make certain that the stove, furnace and smoke

POLITICS at random

By BRYON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

A determined effort is under way to enlist openly in the political campaign. No promises have been made, but neither has the proposal encountered, thus far, a definite veto.

It is against precedent for chief executives to ask the voters directly, in off-year campaigns, to support administration candidates. Woodrow Wilson went contrary to this precedent in 1913, and the country's reply was a Republican Congress.

Those who want Mr. Roosevelt to keep quiet present the argument that, like Mr. Wilson, he has appealed for non-partisan co-operation and cannot now become a partisan without risking a serious reaction.

Diplomatic Suggestion

On the other side is the suggestion that such embarrassment might be avoided if the thing were done diplomatically.

It is argued, for instance, that when the President goes home to vote at Hyde Park he might, as a citizen of New York State, say a word on election-day for Governor Lehman's re-election.

Naturally, his words would be carried everywhere, together with the inevitable implications involved. Making election-day speeches is an old Roosevelt custom. Whether he can break away from it this time remains to be seen.

A Little of Both

Governor Gifford Pinchot's decision to support the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania caused less astonishment in Washington than the outburst of indignant "new deal" statements indicated.

Negotiation for Pinchot's complete enlistment in the Roosevelt camp had been going on underneath for weeks. They encountered repeated obstacles, and their collapse was foreseen by some politicians almost from the start.

At one time there were reports that the Pennsylvania insurgent might receive an important Federal appointment. That fell through.

Pinchot's public statement, condemning the Pennsylvania Democratic candidates, indicated that the really determining factor was a failure to see eye-to-eye with the local rather than the national Democratic leaders. Possibly it was a little of both.

A Quiet Bilbo?

It may mean nothing, but grapevine intimations are issuing from Mississippi that the celebrated Theodore Bilbo will spring a prime political surprise by keeping very quiet

ROCKEFELLER ARRIVES IN FLORIDA

In good spirits and feeling fine, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., arrived in Florida for his annual winter sojourn, seeking sunshine and peaceful quiet. He is shown upon his arrival at Ormond Beach. "Indeed, I am glad to be back," he said as he stood on the station platform and posed for cameramen. (Associated Press Photo)

when he enters the Senate next January.

Reading his record for disrupting the political scene in his home State, Washington has been expecting that he will be at least as vocal as Huey Long and possibly even harder for the Democratic organization to handle.

The contrary reports now coming in picture the Senator-designate (he has the Democratic nomination and no one running against him), as content to dominate Mississippi, and devoid of any ambition to spread his political influence into other States, as Long has done.

'Not a Coincidence'

Word comes from the Mid-West that some Republican candidates for Congress are growing far more friendly to the AAA than they were month or so ago.

The reason is easy to see. The corn-hog allotment checks are pouring into that territory at a fast rate just now, and first returns from the poll of farmers as to continuance of the farm program are overwhelmingly in favor of it.

Washington officials indignantly deny that this is anything more than a coincidence.

U. N. C. Meets Kentucky Soon

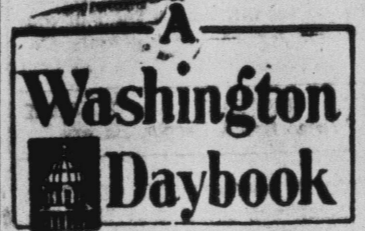

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 13.—The Carolina - Kentucky Homecoming feature here next Saturday will find both team offering new coaches and systems as they clash on the gridiron for the first time since 1904.

Kentucky switched to the Notre Dame and Carolina to the Warner system with the advent of Chet Wynne and Carl Snavely, respectively, as their head coaches this year.

Wynne made a brilliant record at Auburn and Snavely likewise at Bucknell.

Alumni, students and townspeople are making elaborate preparations for a big, colorful Homecoming program, and the volume of advance tickets sales indicates that a near-record throng of old grads will come back for the game and festivities.

Judging from season records and statistics, the two squads will stack up on close to even terms. Kentucky defeated Cincinnati, 1933 Buckeye Conference champs, 27-0, in its last start. Carolina surprised Wake Forest 21-0 and gave Tennessee's mightiest a good scrap before bowing 19-7. Kentucky was battling the Clemson Tigers and Carolina the Georgia Bulldog this afternoon. The Wildcats have an unusually powerful team physically, according to report of Carolina scouts. "B'g Bill" Jobe and "Little Ernie" Nevers are said to be the biggest pair of tackles in the country. Other stars are Captain Rupert, end, and Bert Johnson, Bob Pritchard, and Jack Jean, backs.

Washington, D. C.—There is a seeming contrast in the present attitude of President Roosevelt toward the Bureau of the Budget and that which he displayed at the outset of his administration.

One of his first appointments was Lewis Douglas as director of the budget. Douglas was named more than a week before Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated and his selection was announced before even some of the members of the cabinet.

The President went still further. He took occasion at the time to emphasize that he considered the budget office one of the most important in the government and almost on a rank with the cabinet.

Douglas resigned, presumably because he did not see eye to eye with the President on budgetary policies, and an "acting director" is carrying on in his place.

An 'Advisory' Official

The President has given no indication of plans to fill Douglas' post. The budget is in process of preparation for submission to the next Congress. All inquiries as to whether a new director is to be appointed are answered simply by the White House with:

"The Bureau of the Budget is functioning in normal fashion."

This is just another way of saying that it makes little difference whether a new director is appointed or not. The President directs the preparation of the budget.

Under the law the bureau has the authority "to assemble, correlate, revise, reduce or increase the estimates of the several departments and establishments" of the government. All this is done, however, under the immediate direction of the President. The director of the budget is nothing

From The Sky

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Owing to the fog Willy Nilly and his animal friends stayed close together in Puddle Muddle. The little man did not want any one to risk danger by getting lost in such a heavy, heavy mist.

But now the fog was lifting and the ruts and bumps of Ruddle Muddle could be seen.

And the animals could see each other, too, and Willy Nilly was glad that it was all over and that they were safe. What a fortunate thing that they had all been at home when the fog had spread its great blanket everywhere. He had not worried when he knew they were all close to him.

Now they began to move around and the fog was becoming only a light mist. Soon the sun appeared and drove the last of it away.

The Puddle Muddlers thought it was high time to eat a good breakfast and Willy Nilly thought, as he saw them eat, that he certainly didn't have to worry about their appetites.

"What was that noise?" exclaimed Christopher Columbus Crow. "Ah, I'm always discovering things. Yes, that noise means something. It's coming from the sky!"

Now all the Puddle Muddlers could hear a great whirring, buzzing noise.

"Maybe an army of bees is coming to Puddle Muddle, and we can have their honey," growled Honey Bear.

"No, no, no, cow, cow, cow," cried Christopher. "Even an army of bees couldn't make so much noise—and do you think they'd just hand over the honey to you, anyway? I see what it is! I see, cow, cow!"

TOMORROW—"The Plane"

more than an official serving the administration in an advisory capacity.

Estimates Federal Finances

There is a budget officer appointed by the head of each government department and establishment who prepares the estimates of appropriations and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as may be required. These officials are liaison officers between the department and the Bureau of the Budget. The bureau in turn prepares for the President the annual budget, which is submitted to Congress.

The director of the budget confers with the President every week during the year, laying before him statements on the condition of Federal finances and estimates of future expenditures and receipts.

Douglas' appointment as director attracted wide attention because of President Roosevelt's pledge to effect economy in government. The young Arizonian initiated the economy drive when he was a member of the House and was author of the resolution creating a special economy committee.

Late News Flashes

(Continued from page one) the Lindbergh kidnaping case. Hauptmann testified before Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer that he was at his East 222nd Street home in the Bronx the night of March 1, 1932, the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped. Asked by counsel whether he recalled the first day of March, 1932, Hauptmann testified without hesitation that he remembered taking his wife, Anna, who preceded him on the stand, home from a Bronx lunch room, where she worked that night. He remembered clearly also taking her to work that morning. The prisoner said he called at the bakery between six and seven o'clock the night of the kidnaping and had supper there and went home with his wife, remaining home that night. James M. Faucette, defense counsel, completed direct examination shortly before one o'clock and recess was taken until 2 p. m. Recess was taken at the request of David T. Willentz, attorney general for New Jersey, so that the cross-examination would not be interrupted.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The stock market settled down today to wait for something to give it another lift and prices generally milled about relatively dull and in a mildly irregular vein. News of interest in the equities division was a little flimsy and traders again appeared to don their coats of caution. Grains rallied briskly after an early hesitation, but cotton was without much pulling power. Metal shares were fairly steady. Gains of a point or more were shown in U. S. Smelting, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco. Auburn Motors got up a point or more and Hudson was nearly as firm. The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

Government Wins. Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The government succeeded today in Supreme Court in turning back attacks on the constitutionality of cancellation of air mail contracts last February. The court refused to review the case brought by Transcontinental-Western Air Lines, Inc. The lower court had held it must be dismissed because the government could not be sued without its consent. Their decision stands. In addition the court refused to admit Alfonso Capone, Chicago gangster, recently moved to Alcatraz federal penitentiary, in his effort to obtain freedom. It declined to review the refusal of the lower court to release him.

Crop Price Rise Aid to Purchasing Parity

By CARL CRAMMER. Washington, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Department of Agriculture figures show that disparity of purchasing power between farm and city, which farm leaders have contended was a major cause of the depression, is being corrected rapidly. "Parity pak" where farm products would have the same exchange value as they did in 1909-1914 when farm and city purchasing power were near an equilibrium and the goal toward which the agricultural adjustment administration started, at first seemed an elusive mirage. As farm prices moved up, the prices of things the farmer bought also moved away due to other parts of the recovery program. But adjustments in production of some basic commodities and the effects of drought upon these and many other things have brought the parity goal within reach, at least temporarily, government figures show.

Basic Commodities Rise. On September 15, the last date for which complete data have been prepared, average farm prices for cotton, wheat, butterfat, hogs and corn, five of the basic commodities, had advanced far beyond their levels of March 1933. Prices for tobacco, another basic commodity, also have shown a like advance. When benefit payments to co-operating growers are included, the total price for those portions of cotton and wheat consumed domestically is above parity. Corn prices, plus benefit payments, too, are above parity. Farm prices rose rapidly this summer. In the month ending September 15, the Agriculture Department index from farm products in general showed an advance of six points to 102 (100 equalling the prices for 1909-1914). This is the highest point reached since December, 1930, and compares with an index point of 80 on September fifteen years ago.
