Betty: Just look at that wonderful stain-proof porcelain work-top! They say it will never wear out or discolor.

Jane: Isn't it a darling color combination? And the enamel is baked on. No wonder it's so smooth and satiny!

Betty: Oh, Jane! See how this base she'll extends when I open the base door—brings pots and pans to your fingertips. Think how that will save stooping!

Jane: Did you ever see anything slide more smoothly than these drawers? See—they're suspended from the top. That's why they'll never jam.

I sure like those drawer pulls, too—they'll not tarnish.

Betty: Look at this big metal flour bin—holds 30 pounds—and that sifter is certainly convenient.

Betty: Here are those famous Sellers ant-proof casters. Mrs. Jordan says they keep ants and all other insects out of her cabinet.

Betty: Have you noticed how fine the cabinetwork is? Just like the finest furniture... and they say there is not a stick of soft wood in it.

Jane: Look at this back, Betty—entirely closed. No mice can ever get in it.

Betty: Try this roll curtain... it extends clear across the front and yet it moves at a touch.

Jane: Oh, I like that... Look, Betty, it has a Klearfront—no swinging doors over the work-table.

Betty: That big glass sugar jar is certainly handy, isn't it?

Jane: Yes, and isn't this plush-lined silver tray clever! They thought of everything.

End of the Century Club Meets. At 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the members of the End of the Century Club and several invited guests arrived at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson to be the guests of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, the club president.

Due to the absence of Mrs. L. C. Arthur the program leader, Mrs. Spilman presented Miss Mamie Jenkins who in her usual attractive manner, talked on the Pulitzer Prize Novel "Lamb in His Bosom."

Miss Jenkins gave a brief survey of all awards for novels, calling attention to the changes in the conditions and giving the revised working for the future.

At first there was a tendency to "recrown the crowned" by selecting books of novelists of established reputation, but later some of the new writers were discovered.

Miss Jenkins explained that much and frequent criticism had been offered for selection of books not American—in reaction for the past two years novels of regionalism have been chosen.

"Lamb in His Bosom" was analyzed and reasons were given as to why it fulfilled requirements for the Pulitzer Prize. Miss Jenkins said she would not give a synopsis of the book as it was not a plot novel.

The club was delighted to have the following guests: Mrs. Judson Blount, Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Webb, Misses Davis, Rens and Jenkins, Mrs. B. B. Sugg and Mrs. Carey Warren.

At the close of the program Mrs. Ferguson served a delicious salad course.—Reported.

Attend Association in Wilson. The following members of Memorial Baptist Church were in attendance at the sessions of the Roanoke Baptist Association, meeting with the First Baptist Church, Wilson, N. C., Tuesday and Wednesday this week: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Jr., Mrs. Vernon Parrish, Mrs. A. W. Hodnett, Mrs. J. C. Duval, Miss Annie Lawrence, Mrs. L. Snuggs, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Fleischmann. Fine reports were rendered by the churches for the year's work, and a most excellent program of inspirational and informational addresses was presented. All delegates returned to their churches determined to do better work for another year.

Salvation Army Club Work. According to a report from Capt. Stratford this morning, the Boys' Club organized two weeks ago has already proved a success and many boys are enjoying themselves through the benefits of this work.

A Girls' Club has also been organized, for girls between the ages of 11 and 18 years, meeting every Thursday night at 7:30.

Two junior clubs are in operation for boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 11 years, meeting Monday and Thursday afternoons at four o'clock.

Owing to the lack of equipment for this special class of work, progress is being retarded to a certain extent but additional help in this line will be added to the club work in the next few days.

Club work at the present time is being held at the old Forrest Lumber Co. building on Dickinson avenue, but a club will be started next Wednesday night in a central location making it convenient for business men, business men's sons, and all others within the city limits to participate in this healthful form of exercise.

College Twins. There are four sets of identical twins in East Carolina Teachers College this year and they are causing a great deal of confusion and comment among the other students. As identical twins, they look exactly alike and each set will persist in dressing alike. They seem to enjoy confusing people as to who is who, so one has to know them pretty well in order to tell one from the other. These identical sets are Misses Hattie and Margaret Hilburn of Bladenboro, N. C.; Misses Ruth and Ruby Leonard, of Wood, N. C.; Misses Louise and Marjorie Groce, of Jonesboro, N. C., and Misses Isa Costen and Malene Grant of New Bern.

Besides these there are the Misses Worley who are fraternal twins, and Ray Haskill of Beaufort, who seems to want to be considered as an individual since he left his twin home.

Sheppard Memorial Library. "Wanted: Movies With a Kick" by Opal Gooden, an article in the Christian Century for October 17— which is in Sheppard Memorial Library.

"My thesis is that a system of public and school libraries—which will make books and competent guidance in the use of books easily accessible to every person in the United States—is a necessary part of the public equipment for civilized living under the New Deal." Carl H. Milan develops this thought in an article in "School and Society" for October 13, 1934.

Overstreet calls his book "A Guide to Civilized Living."

The book and the magazine are both at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Mrs. Hearne in New York. Red Springs, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Clegg Hearne has gone to New York to spend several weeks seeking fresh inspiration for her art work this winter. What with visiting various studios besides having lessons especially in portrait painting her stay in the metropolis promises to be not only delightful but filled with interest and profit.

For sometime Mrs. Hearne has been devoting much time to portrait and miniature work and is eminent successful in both lines. She also does charming landscapes. For several years she has maintained two studios—one at the college and one at home.

A visit to her home studio is quite fascinating. There are many lovely pictures to be seen in various stages of completeness—from the first sketch to the finished product—oil portraits, landscapes and charming miniatures.

Red Springs is very fortunate to have such a clever and successful artist within her bounds.

Hallow'en Dance in Tarboro. Tarboro, Oct. 17.—The Edgecombe Cotillion Club of this city has issued invitations for their annual Hallow'en dance, which will take place in the high school gymnasium Wednesday night, October 24th, from 10 until 2:30 o'clock. A large number of these invitations were sent to Greenville young people, many of whom are expected to be in attendance for the occasion.

NURSE PUTS OUT EYE ENTERTAINING CHILD. Goldsboro, N. C., Oct. 18.—"Aunt Bettie" Williams, colored servant in the home of Judge and Mrs. Paul B. Edmundson, is in the Goldsboro Hospital having accidentally put out her own eye on Sunday while playing with Lela Ruth, little daughter of Judge and Mrs. Edmundson.

Aunt Bettie was trying to shoot a toy bow and arrow and she shot the arrow backwards into her left eye putting it out. She is a respected woman, and worked in the home of Mrs. Edmundson's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Edmundson, for many years, and nursed Judge Edmundson when he was a little boy.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—For tired Hollywood actors with jangled nerves and weary minds, Ralph Bellamy, recently returned from a trip to England, has a suggestion.

He and Mrs. Bellamy looked in at a British studio, to see how they do it over there. Their visit, as it turned out, was not comparable to the postman's holiday hike, for Hollywood was never like this.

On a Hollywood set the rule is a busy period of apparent confusion before each scene is shot. There is a bustling of prop-men, electricians, carpenters, and conferees, power-wires and hurls featuring director, assistant director, star, producer, writer, any or all of these concerned with the production. Usually the director says: "Everything ready? We'll take it. Let's go!" And they go.

A Bit Quiet, What? This set the Bellamy visited was something quaint from a Dickens story—the British studios are just in for Dickens, too. Anyway, the set was quiet and serene at mid-morning. Four or five players, in costume, sat about a table. Off to the side, two or three others were having a cup of tea and chatting. The cameraman placidly rocked in a rocking-chair. The director sat, reading his script. In the beams overhead a gay electrician, whistling softly, tinkered with a lamp.

Eventually the director arose: "Shall we proceed?" "Cheerio!" said the cameraman, and ceased his rocking. "Cheerio!" said the actors, and put away their tea. "Cheerio!" said the electrician, and stopped his whistling. "Very well," said the director. "Carry on, ladies and gentlemen!" And so they made the scene—casually and restfully.

Boxing Comment Polite, Too. Even the boxing matches, which in Hollywood afford even the sedate stars an opportunity to yell and roar, are fought to the accompaniment only of polite comment, the Bellamy's found.

At one match, dressed formally like other patrons, they distinctly heard this comment from a gentleman behind them: "Well boxed, sir, well boxed!"

A new angle on ghost-writing, which flourishes in Hollywood, crops up. There's a ghost-writer for a famous star who agreed to do the job for a set sum—and then the G. W. got all involved in the work, and hired a ghost-writer for himself!

ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN SUES FOR $400,000. New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Dr. William A. Wirt, who made the statement last spring that certain members of the brain trust were plotting to bring about social and economic revolution in the United States, is being sued for $400,000 by Rose Schneiderman, a member of the Labor Advisory Board, it was disclosed today.

One of the causes for action is the allegation that Dr. Wirt said that Miss Schneiderman was known affectionately as "The Rose of Anarchy."

Existence of the suit became known when Hugo Winter, counsel for Dr. Wirt, asked Judge Knox in U. S. District Court for a ratification of the complaint.

AMBITION'S WOODPECKER TACKLES STONE STATUE. Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—A woodpecker, long on perseverance and short on sense, drew crowds of the curious to the State Capitol grounds each day for a week or more.

Abort the same hour every day it perched on the granite statue of Zebulon Baird Vance, North Carolina's Civil War governor, and pecked industriously at his head.

After the seventh or eighth day the bird seemed to realize the futility of its task and shifted to a nearby tree.

RUSSIAN TEACHER, PUPIL UNITED AFTER 17 YEARS. PUEBLO, Colo.—(AP)—A former Russian professor and his pupil, who had not seen each other since the Bolshevik revolution, seventeen years ago, met accidentally in Pueblo.

Dr. Lvof Tregouboff, once a professor at the University of Kiev and now a Colorado Springs artist, came here to attend a Russian church service—and saw Roman Kappernadze.

Kappernadze was one of the university cadets assigned to guard Tregouboff and others during the attack on the Ukrainian sobor, Russian church council, and he university in 1917. He now lives in Cleveland and came here to visit friends.

RAMBLER CAPTAIN WAS SUBSTITUTE ON THE FROS SQUAD

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—When Don Vairo, captain of the Notre Dame football team, was a freshman he went out for every sport and didn't win a numeral in any.

But it took more than that to discourage the massive-shouldered Vairo, current idol of the campus who hails from Calumet, Mich., the home town of the immortal George Gipp.

During his sophomore year Vairo went out for football again, undaunted by his lack of success the previous fall, and won a varsity numeral with ease. Last year he played left end on the first team and now is prepared to take over right end for Coach Elmer Layden.

However, captaining a football team isn't a new experience for Vairo. Back in Calumet he was captain of the high school eleven and held the same post on the basketball team. He tips the scales at 195 and is six feet, one inch tall.

SNAKE, CAT, IN TREE, STARE ALL NIGHT AT EACH OTHER. Tucson, Arizona.—(AP)—The story of a kitten and snake staring at each other all night was told here by S. W. Purcell, of Tucson.

Purcell said that children living near the Yellow Bird mine made a practice of taking their cats into the woods. One of the more ambitious kittens climbed a tree which already was occupied by a snake.

The two immediately fell to staring at each other, Purcell said, and both sat motionless while the children tried for several hours to dislodge them. Finally the children

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES. Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and keep you up for many months. Don't wait. As your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse. Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Because so many people know from having used it that Theoford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

Learn From Doctors How to Treat Colds. Four Points to Remember. As colds cause more loss of time and money than any other disease, every one should learn what modern medical science teaches as to their proper treatment. Your doctor has the following objectives:

First—To relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thus aborting or lightening the attack and relieving the symptoms caused by the congestion—Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablets, accomplish this by attracting the excess blood to the bowels.

Second—to help the kidneys wash out of the blood the cold-poisons which cause the chilly sensation, feverishness, aches, and mean feeling—Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, assisting them in ridding the blood of the poisons.

Third—To expel the germ-laden mucus and toxins from the bowels, thus preventing their absorption into the blood—Calotabs accomplish this thoroughly.

Fourth—To keep the bile of the liver flowing freely through and out of the intestines thus relieving the biliousness and constipation, which attend and aggravate a cold. As Calotabs contain castor oil, they promote the flow of bile.

Thus, Calotabs meet these four important objectives of medical treatment for colds. One or two Calotabs at bed time with a glass of sweet milk or water, is usually sufficient, but should be repeated the third or fifth night if needed. The milk tones down the action, making it milder, if desired.

Why risk doubtful or make-shift remedies? Get a family package of Calotabs containing full directions only twenty-five cents; trial package ten cents, at your dealer's. (Adv.)

Marian Gordon
by JEANNE ROWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Just as Marian's husband, Lon, was getting a good start on his plan to develop an oil shale area in a region of small houses for people with taste and little money—a secretary was busy with the weary back of the seat. Lon tries to get a job, and Mrs. Gordon says she'll persuade him to pay off his men with her savings.

Chapter 23
NEW NEIGHBOR

Lon returned home next day with no levity in his greeting. He had transferred Marian's savings to a joint checking account of their own. The next day was Saturday, they had agreed to let the men work out the week. He would pay them off and there would still be one hundred and eighteen dollars in the bank.

"Wealth, Lon," Marian insisted Saturday night, as he showed her the stub with his balance.

The next day, Sunday, a crowd from the Dispatch drove out for dinner. They'd formed a habit of that, sure of a hearty welcome. Marian was amazed at the quantity of food they consumed. A whole ham, two quart jars of jam, a pound of coffee—she checked herself. Did this mean that in the future she would entertain with one eye on the larder?

On the first of the month the maintenance bills rolled in. . . . staked in, Lon corrected her. As he bent over them his face looked as if it had been planed by one of his own tools, so thin was it becoming. The electricity bill was much too high, they decided. Perhaps they'd better turn off the refrigerator. They could keep things in the storage house, it was below ground, cool. Lon said there had been a wood cooking stove in the old farm shack; he could clean that up and they'd use that for cooking.

With the advance of summer the heat became intense. They took to going for long drives on Sundays, and after the gang had come, tarried and left unfed, they understood and came no more. And then the drives were stopped; even the price of gasoline must be considered and they walked.

"It would be fun any other time," Marian confided to Lon as they stretched under the coolness of giant redwoods in the Moraga valley.

Lon had said nothing in reply to her confidence but she was becoming accustomed to that. She was even learning to refrain from cheerful comments. His silent reception of them made her feel like a silly, piping bird, the kind they'd seen on the coast during their honeymoon, funny little things fussily waddling along the beach on oversized feet, piping, eternally piping. She must sound like that to him.

Sundown and they walked back through the heat of the hills to their home, Lonian Lodge, they had named it. Marian watered the garden while Lon tinkered with the car. He was driving into town in the morning. The Sunday morning papers, each folded to the "Men Wanted" column, lay on his chiffonier with black dashes opposite advertisements he felt qualified to answer.

THAT night Marian slipped a silver dollar she had been cherishing into Lon's vest pocket. He'd think he'd forgotten it, she thought, and luckily didn't see the flush of humiliation on his face as he took the suit into the patio to brush it and heard the dollar roll down on the stones.

That next morning in the patio, when he stooped for his farewell kiss, she clung to him as though she would never let him go. What did wives do to let their husbands know they were suffering with them . . . for them rather, because life never seemed as dark to them as to the men who were trying to protect them. This night she would try again.

She would wear the plum colored silk Lon had never seen, an old dress, but becoming. It was the color of Diablo at sunset. There was grape juice in the cooler, her mother had canned it last year. She would serve that . . . canned tomatoes could be made into a salad if properly drained . . . oh, any food would be good if served in the patio and she would be calm, and as near like Diablo as she could.

She dressed and with a book in her hand, curled up on the divan. She heard Lon drive in, but didn't stir. He must be tired of her eternal dashing out to meet him. She heard him call and whistled in return, and then she heard voices.

She stood up and peered out of the windows. Lon was laughing gaily. . . . she hadn't seen him laugh increasing left-wing sentiment will result in these demands in 1936:

- Creation of a central bank with country wide branches and abolition of private banking.
- Collection of all taxes by the government and apportionment of taxes to the states for their needs.
- Establishment of one system of courts under federal jurisdiction.
- Creation of a federal constabulary to supersede to a large degree the state and local police forces.
- This is thinking ahead with a vengeance but present tendencies that way for weeks . . . he must have found work, nothing else could cheer him . . . or had Lansing been found and had he returned the money? That would bring the sunshine back to his face.

She lay the book on the divan and went to the patio door and there stooped short, Lon, with a wide sweep of his hand was showing to Silver Hondon, Lonian Lodge.

Marian backed into the room. What was it Silver had said to her just before they parted? "I'm going to have that man if it's the last thing I do." And she had told Lon she would see him again "when he had come to his senses." In other words, after the uncertainty of capturing the woman of his choice was over.

Marian's next thought was one of anxious horror . . . imagine giving Silver Hondon the kind of dinner she had prepared. Silver would see through the pretenses immediately. Marian couldn't do that to Lon. She'd pretend to faint . . . do anything.

"Jan," called Lon, "come on honey and see whom I found down in Walnut Creek."

"Why Silver," Marian's surprise passed muster with Lon, but brought a crooked curve to the lips of Mrs. Hondon, "what brings you to this part of the country?"

"I live here," Silver answered nonchalantly, "the place my big hearted 'ex' gave me is just over the hills there."

"See, Jan," Lon was pointing downhill to the group of red-tiled roofs just visible through the mass of oak branches. "You know, the old fellow who sold us the place informed us that that was where the 'swells' lived."

Silver laughed. "We're all going down to my place to dinner," she announced to Marian, "go put on your best bib and tucker, we're having a couple of guests in tonight."

Marian waited a moment; surely she was to be asked rather than ordered. She looked at Lon.

"Hurry," he said impatiently.

"MY BEST bib and tucker,"

Marian repeated, running her hand along the frocks hung in her cedar-lined wardrobe . . . the ivory and gold, but no that was too formal to wear with her hair in the fluffy condition her outdoor life had left it. . . . the orange orgeandy . . . it was cool . . . "thank goodness," thought Marian, "I spent some thought and money on my trousseau."

She chose a dinner frock of apricot lace, stiffened with hidden wires, and trimmed with half-revealed bowknots of turquoise ribbon. A band of turquoise ribbon held the flame of her hair back from her face, beige powder covered the freckles.

"Look like you stepped out of a valentine," said Lon coming in, trim in a smart mess jacket.

Small satisfaction in that, thought Marian, even Silver's narrowed eyes, showing she considered her a formidable rival, brought little peace.

They drove out into the glow of the sunset, Silver chatting to the guests they would meet. "There'll be mother and father, of course, they're living with me, a Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wylie we met in the Islands, and Blaine Kelly, a man father would love to have enter the folds of the McSwain family, he has that much money."

Fireworks: When Theodore Bilbo comes to town to take the oath of office as junior Senator from Mississippi next January the whole town is going to know about it.

Bilbo adherents already have made arrangements to charter a long special train for the occasion. They plan to parade Pennsylvania Avenue and otherwise whoop it up to let everyone know a man has arrived on the political horizon who can stage as good a show as Huey Long.

You can paste it in your hat that the new toza will be in the spotlight from then on.

By JAMES McMULLIN
New York, Oct. 18.—Inflation: You hear caustic comment in financial quarters about the sudden revival of inflation talk last week. The President's remarks about the need for higher prices, Senator Dulley's intimations of devaluation below 50 cents and Prof. Ross Warren's White House visit—all at virtually the same moment—don't particularly alarm conservatives but do irritate them plenty.

The timing is the point. On Monday October 8 there was a strong hint from responsible Washington quarters that price-raising experiments had been abandoned. On Wednesday, October 10, this attitude was apparently completely reversed. Wall Street sharps ask if it was pure coincidence that inflationary sentiment was given a boost at the precise moment when the Treasury's books had been closed on its operation of converting 4th Liberties—before the ink was dry.

Anti-New Dealers complain that such opportunism was a trifle too flagrant and ask how they can believe any statement of policy that comes out of Washington. Actually they do not take the inflation threat seriously—believing it will again be mostly taken out in psychology.

Meanwhile the Committee for the Nation and other inflationary groups are preparing for a strenuous siege of Congress on this issue as well as on the central bank. They haven't been exactly idle while Congress was out of session and are set to cut loose with a continuous and devastating barrage. Astute New Yorkers predict that inflationists of one sort and another will be the President's special hair shirt early next year.

Taking Pictures

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"We never sent word at all, and here they all are," thought Willy Nilly, but now every one was talking at once. The planes were landing every possible place they could find around Puddle Muddle, and men with cameras were taking pictures of Jerry and Freddy and of all the Puddle Muddlers.

"Let me have my picture taken!" cried Top Notch, the rooster who took a quick look into his little mirror to see that he was at his best before posing.

They couldn't under Top Notch's crowing words, but they were only too ready to take his picture.

They took pictures of Willy Nilly's house, of the two flyers standing with Honey and Jelly Bear and the cubs. They took a photograph of the ducks' pond, and the ducks waddled hurriedly into it so they'd be in the picture.

"Why all the excitement?" asked Willy Nilly of one photographer. "Don't you know about Jerry and Freddy? They've been making speed records and they were about to make the greatest record of all when the fog made them lose their way and they had to slow down."

"We're taking their pictures for the newspapers, and we want to know all about this place, and about you and these animals."

"How did you ever find them here?" asked Willy Nilly. "As soon as the fog lifted their plane was sighted. Don't you know the news always gets in the papers quickly?"

"Simply wonderful!" said Willy Nilly admiringly.

CAROLINA - KY. PRAY TO MATCH NUMBER STARS

Chapel Hill, Oct. 18.—The Carolina-Kentucky Homecoming game here Saturday will match a long line of brilliant stars in a series of individual duels which promise to be almost as interesting as the battle for team supremacy between the Tar Heel and Wildcat eleven.

Chief among them will be that between Bert "Man O'War" Johnson, 185-pound triathlete whom Kentuckians are liking to the great Bo McMillan and touting for All-American honors, and on Jackson, Carolina's star passer and broken field runner who also does some quick kicking for the Tar Heels.

The ticket sale continued heavy today, giving indications that a near capacity crowd would turn out for the Tar Heel-Wildcat Homecoming celebration it will climax.

Carolina's scouts have expressed the opinion that the two teams will stack up on even terms with victory likely to go to the eleven exerting the superior effort and fight.

Season records of the two teams would seem to bear out their opinion. After dropping his first major game to Washington and Lee Kentucky has come along with a rush blanking strong Cincinnati and Clemson eleven 27-0 and 7-0. Cincinnati was 1933 Buckeye Conference champ.

Carolina surprised Wake Forest 21-0 and, bowing to Tennessee's superior reserve strength 19-7, staged the biggest upset in its history this season by bowling over Georgia's Bulldogs one of the favorites in the Southeastern Conference 14-0.

An interesting sight is that both teams have new coaches and systems. Chet Wynne at Kentucky is a leading exponent of the Notre Dame and Carl Snavely at Carolina is the Warner style of play. Wynne made an enviable record at Auburn and Snavely at Bucknell.

Among the Kentucky stars in addition to Johnson are Captain Joe Ruppert, All-Southern Conference end; "Honus" Wagner, who was credited by many with outplaying Freddie Crawford last year; Bob Eritchard, dashing fullback; and "Big Bill" Jobs, 227-pound tackle, who is the fastest lineman on the squad.

Against this array of stars Carolina will offer such fine performers as Captain George Barclay, the "one-man" eleven and a leading candidate for All-American guard; Charlie Shaffer, who scored both touchdowns and averaged 43 yards for his kicks in the 4-0 upset of Georgia; and Don Jackson, Herman Snyder, Jim Tatum Eddie Kahn, and other heroes of that Georgia battle.

Homecoming program will get under way with a great torchlight parade and pep meeting Friday night. Prizes are being offered for the best decorated fraternity and store window. The University and town are putting on a special Homecoming program Saturday morning. The band and cheerleaders have promised a "surprise" program at half. After the game the Grill will give a dance in honor of the Monogram club.

DUKE-DAVIDSON BOYS TO RENEW ACQUAINTANCE

Durham, N. C., Oct. 18.—Many old acquaintances will be renewed when Duke and Davidson meet at Davidson Saturday since many members of the two teams either played together or against each other on North Carolina high school teams.

John Seivers of the Wildcats has three former Winston-Salem high school teammates on the Duke team this year—Corky Cornelius, Jim Johnston and O. C. Britton. The three Twin-City-Duke stars played against Henry Cathey, of Charlotte; Dewey Hutchens, of Lexington; and Charles Forte, J. B. Lee, Paul Pittman, A. J. Porter, all of Barium Springs.

When Jack Alexander, Dus Durner, and Ed. West, of Duke, were playing for Asheville high school, they went up against Cathey and Seivers, two of the Wildcats stars. Paul Whitner of Duke, Johnny Mackorell and W. W. Burns of Davidson were teammates on the Hickory high school team of a few years ago.

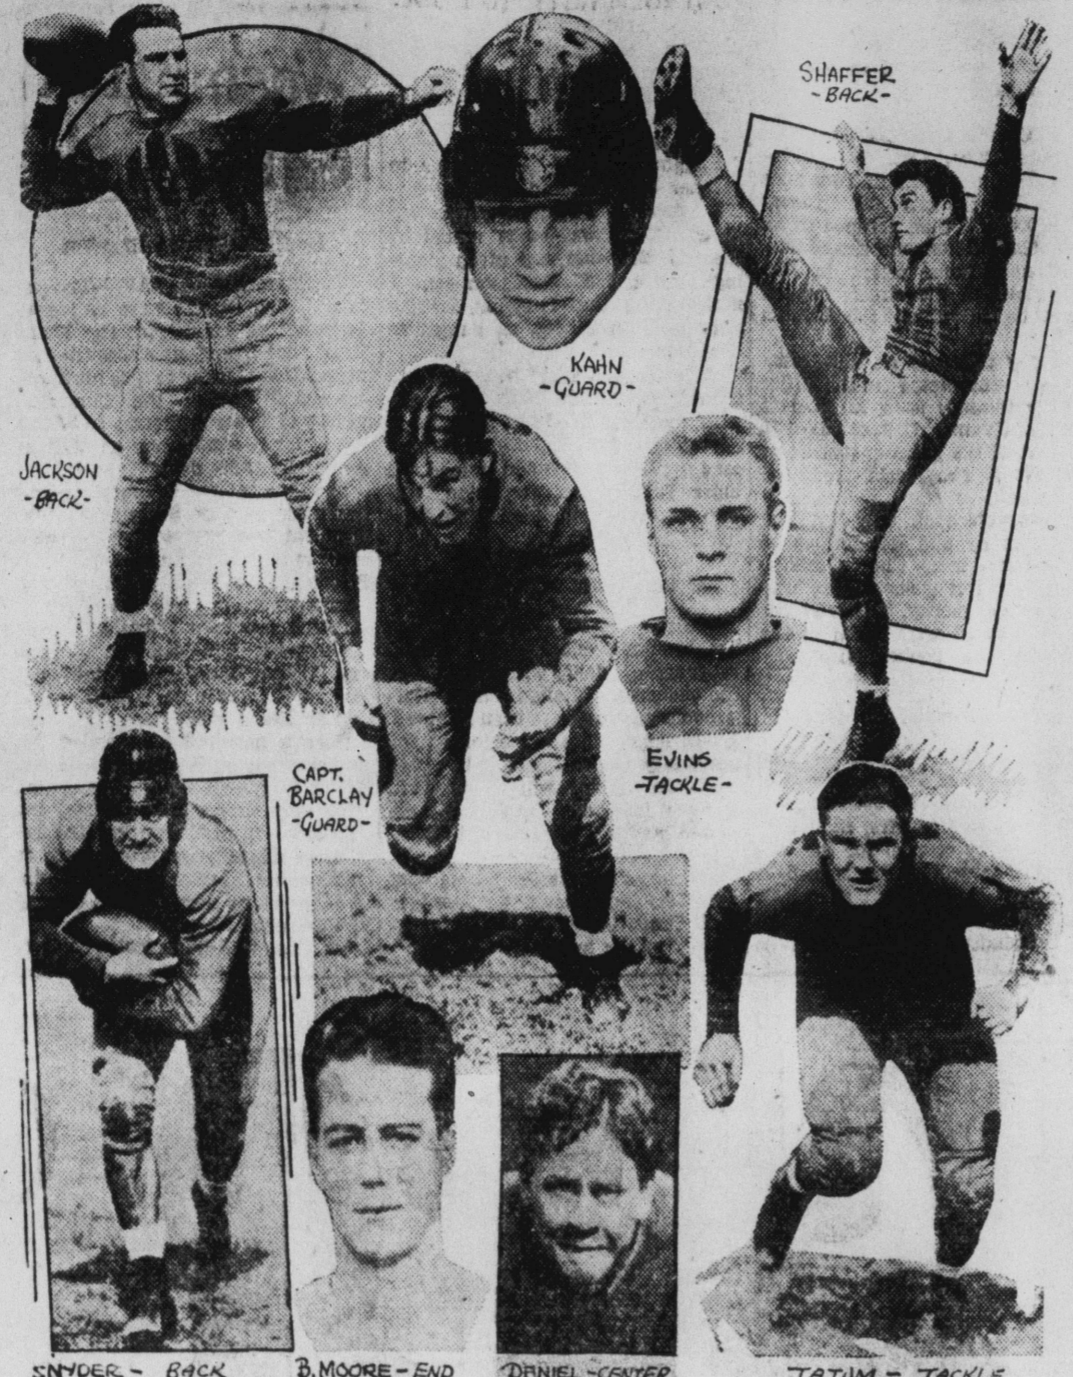

The 1934 edition of Blue Devils is truly an All-North Carolina-Virginia outfit. Of the twenty-three players who saw action in the Blue Devils' game with Georgia Tech Saturday, twelve are from either North Carolina or Virginia.

The first team is equally divided between Tar Heels and Cavaliers—four from each State. The Virginians are Earle Wentz, of Danville, and Elmer Tarrall, of Norfolk, Va. former Oak Ridge star, ends; Julie Ward, of Galax, and Clarence Parker, of Portsmouth, Va., backs.

The Tar Heels are Gus Durner and Jack Alexander, of Asheville, and Corky Cornelius and Jim Johnston, of Winston-Salem. The Dunlap brothers, Jack and E. B., hail from Oklahoma, while Tom Power, sophomore right tackle, is from Pennsylvania.

Another outstanding Virginian on the Duke squad who in high school days played against several members of the Davidson team, is John Johnston, of Roanoke, Virginia also holds a claim on Dick McAninch, Duke back, who hails from Marion, Ohio. He played prep school football at Staunton.

Tar Heels Set For Homecoming Game

Picture above are the tried and proven veterans of the University of North Carolina football team, which knocked the dope into a cocked hat with its 14-0 upset of Georgia, and which will be determined in its Homecoming clash with Kentucky at Chapel Hill Saturday to show the grid world that the Georgia performance was not a matter of luck.

Captain George Barclay, who led the Tar Heels' brilliant fight against the Bulldogs' got a big hand from Harry Mehre the Georgia coach. Coming from such a source, the praise was quite a boost for Barclay's chance of landing on All-Americans. The week before Coach Bob Neyland of the Tennessee Vols described Barclay as one of the greatest guards he had ever seen.

Barclay runs interference, backs up and at backing up the line. The line calls the plays and does various other things in expert style for the Tar Heels.

Other standouts were Tatum and Kahn, who played a whale of a game in the line; Jackson and Shaffer, who led the running attack, and Snyder, who gave another fine performance at running interference.

Suspend sentences on rioting charges

Concord, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—After entering pleas of nolo contendere, seven men charged with inciting to riot at the Gibson Mill here September 14 during the national textile strike received suspended sentences in Superior Court today.

One of the men, Steve Murray, was given the alternative of banishment from the State or a two-year road sentence. Jack Bullard's twelve-months' sentence was suspended on condition he pay court costs and does not violate the State law for five years.

Arthur Fortner, W. H. Combs, Bobbie Dixon and D. Leonard Hopkins, drew four months each on the roads, and judgment was suspended on the same conditions. Clarence Coley was sentenced to six months, but judgment was suspended on the same condition.

The human heart varies in weight from eight to twelve ounces.

LOCALS PLAY W. EDGEcombe HERE FRIDAY

The local high school team will be working hard Friday to chalk up another victory. They did a very good job last week in defeating Ayden's high-scoring team. There were several rough spots that the team has been trying to smooth out. The defensive playing was very weak, especially against passes, and the tackling at times was very ragged. They have shown improvement during the practice period this week.

There will be added interest in this week's game as the West Edgecombe team is being coached by Bob Eason, local boy. Bob is a former Greenville High School and E. C. T. C. athlete. He is very anxious for his team to make a splendid showing, and has his boys primed for a victory.

The game will be played at the Third Street stadium and the kick-off will be at 3:15 o'clock.

BETHEL GETS FIRST PRIZE AT THE FAIR

Large Crowd Saw New Deal Pageant Presented at Fair Last Night

Bethel took first prize last night at the Greater Greenville Fair for having the best episode in the New Deal Pageant, presented on the platform in front of the Grand Stand at a packed house. Fountain took second prize and Southwood School in Lanier county won third or honorable mention. The Pageant was the first of its kind ever staged in Greenville portraying the effects of the depression and depicting the effects of the New Deal. Guy Smith of Greenville took the part of President Roosevelt. Mrs. Selma Carson Moore was director. The stage decorations were very appropriate for the occasion and clear skies greeted the performance.

Today Greenville Merchants Day Greenville Merchants and business houses will have full sway today and tonight, a popularity contest will be staged and the young lady receiving the largest number of votes will be given $10.00; second $5. and third, $2.50. About a score of Greenville's most popular young ladies will take part. Tomorrow will be Merchants Day outside of Greenville and a similar contest will be put on tomorrow night with Farmville, Ayden, Winterville and Bethel furnishing the talent.

School Children Free Saturday Saturday will be children's day again and the management will be hosts to all the white school children in Pitt county, up to five o'clock. They will be admitted free at the gate. Jack Steel the Dare Devil artist will give a special demonstration for the children Saturday afternoon. Colored school children and teachers will be admitted free to the grounds tomorrow, Friday, up to five o'clock. Judging was completed in all departments Wednesday and more ribbons were placed than have been placed in a long time, Secretary Bartlett said.

The Poultry show is unusually interesting. More than five-hundred birds are on exhibition. Jack Boyd's fine herd of Durock hogs is on exhibition in the live stock building. The Fair will come to a close Saturday and from all indications now will be a success from every view point. Secretary Bartlett stated this morning. The Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, Inc. is the sponsor of the Fair and whatever profits there may be will be used to further Eastern Carolina's interest.

HATED SPEECHES —LANDS IN JAIL

Ridgecourt, France (AP)—Louis Landragin hates political speeches. For sixteen years he listened to Mayor Bourgoin orate on every possible occasion, summer and winter, fall and spring. After each one he told his neighbors he couldn't sit through another.

After the latest speech, Mayor Bourgoin was pedaling his bicycle back to the town hall, when an automobile hit him from behind and threw him thirty feet. He will be in the hospital two months.

Louis Landragin, driver of the car, is being held for trial. Police say he did it on purpose.

Polish Population Growth Slow Warsaw (AP)—The natural increase in Polish population declined from 18.5 per cent to 12.3 per cent in the last eight years, but nevertheless Poland is growing as rapidly as any European country. In 1933 the increase totaled 402,000. The birth rate was 26.5 a thousand and the death rate 14.2.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady, three to six points lower, under Southern selling and on disappointing Liverpool cables. Trading continued quiet after the call with price changes narrow. December contracts fluctuated between 12.31 and 12.33 during the first half hour with the market ruling about four to six points net lower. Trading continued quiet later in the morning.

Prices held generally steady, December selling to 12.34 and May 12.49 at midday when active months generally showed net losses of three to five points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Financial markets generally plodded along toward no particular destination today and trading enthusiasm was lacking in most departments. Stocks and bonds were dull weak and firm spots appeared in both categories due to individual circumstances but there seemed little incentive to buy or sell in volume and the majority of prices held to an extremely narrow groove. There was little news that might have whetted the speculative appetite. The tone was steady. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

Bandits Get $150,000
Havana, Cuba, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Four men armed with machine guns today rifled the city hall treasury of $150,000 and then escaped in an automobile. Soldiers and sailors were called out to assist police in the search through the streets for the automobile in which the bandits fled.

The city treasurer and his assistants were unprotected in the office. The city treasury is in an ancient building of Spanish Colonial days in the heart of the business district of Old Havana two blocks from the water front.

The bandits took only United States currency and left untouched in the vaults more than a million dollars in silver coins. Cuba uses United States money. The treasurer and his servant were locked in the safe while the robbers fled.

Defends Kidnapper's Wife

Louisville, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Claim that Mrs. Frances Robinson worked with Department of Justice agents in an effort to free Mrs. Stoll were made today by counsel for the wife of the discharged lunatic named as the actual kidnapper. Clem W. Huggins, representing her, said she had befriended Mrs. Stoll and he believed Mrs. Stoll would help her. The woman was arraigned yesterday and held in default of $50,000 bond on a charge of kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap. Her husband and his father, Thomas Henry Robinson, Sr., of Nashville, Tenn., were named in the same warrant.

Huggins said he would move to get her bond reduced to about $5,000. After a restless night in jail in which she was twice visited by the jail physician and given sleeping tablets, Mrs. Robinson sent a note asking that Huggins, leading criminal lawyer here, be named as her counsel.

Huggins, who said he went to school in Nashville many years ago with the elder Robinson, announced he would defend her. For old times sake, he added, he would defend the elder Robinson if requested, but said he would not defend the fugitive if he was caught.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The political "dog days" were enlivened somewhat by word from the White House that President Roosevelt had invited Jack Garner to quit his hunting and fishing in the Chaparral country of Texas and come to Washington for a conference on the future of the "new deal."

The time set for the meeting was the latter part of September. The President was represented as being eager to take advantage of the Vice-President's political judgment and experience in charting the administration's future policies.

September has come and gone and "Cactus Jack" is still taking it easy at his home in Uvalde. And therein lies a story.

Garner personally cancelled his proposed trip to Washington. A few days prior to his scheduled meeting with Mr. Roosevelt he wrote the President from Texas that the affairs of State were progressing so satisfactorily under his direction that he saw no need for him coming to Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt didn't insist, so Garner will stay at home.

Among First To Leave
Garner always has had an aversion to Washington when Congress is not in session. In his more than thirty years' experience around the capital almost invariably he is among the first to get out of town when Congress adjourns and the last to return for a new session.

He has been known to reach Washington as late as 8 o'clock the morning of the day he called the House to order as Speaker at noon. Usually nothing short of a national emergency has been able to persuade him to leave his home in Texas and return to Washington.

Garner's failure to keep his date with the President, however, does not mean in any sense, say those on the inside here, that his place in the esteem and affection of Mr. Roosevelt has lessened. He still occupies a vital position in the "New Deal."

Had Important Role

His part in the future course of the administration is expected to be just as conspicuous, if not more so, than it was in the last Congress.

It was apparent to everyone, long before the last session came to a close, that Garner as Vice-President played a more vital role in the administration than had any other occupant of that office in years.

No one perhaps except the President and Garner himself knew what he contributed to the success of the administrator's program in the last session. He was the White House's contact man with Congress, the man who composed divergent views and, if necessary, the one who "laid down the law."

He'll continue as such in the future perhaps to an even greater degree than in the past, many believe.

Near Bear Coaches

Berkeley, Calif.—(AP)—In line with Coach Ingram's policy of making use of ex-varsity men as assistant coaches for California football team three former players have been added to the staff this fall. George Relles, regular right half for two years, is helping Jimmy Toie with the Ramblers, and Art Carlson, guard for three seasons, and Chuck Stewart, 1933, quarter, are assisting the freshman coach, Clint Evans.

New Bern, N. C., Oct. 13.—Evidently army engineers have no doubt of the final success of the PWA loan for construction of port terminals at Morehead City, for they are reported to be continuing their dredging operations in the channel there. Preliminary surveys were completed some time ago. One channel has already been deepened to twenty feet, it is reported, with the work still continuing.

A summary showed 17,292 predatory animals killed in Webb County, Texas, alone during the past three years.
