Army Engineers Further Study To Development of Tar River Here

Secretary S. F. Dickenson, secretary of Eastern North Carolina Association, will leave for Wilmington Tuesday afternoon in response to the request of Colonel Eugene Reybold.

L. G. Hogshire, president of the Norfolk, Baltimore & Carolina Line who has been asked to attend the conference with Colonel Reybold and Mr. Dickenson advised headquarters office here today that he will be present, bringing additional data on the proposed Tar River development.

The local Tar River committee includes:

Col. E. G. Flanagan, David J. Whitehead, Jr., James S. Ficklen, Ralph M. Garrett, Hon. Marvin K. Blount, Martin Swartz, Mayor R. C. Flanagan, C. W. Howard, John Mitchell, and W. E. Hooks.

It is expected that the recommendation of the United States District Engineer will be available at an early date.

According to R. J. Blank, executive vice-president, not only Pitt County but other towns in the area, are anxiously awaiting the Government Engineer's report.

At an expansion movement dinner given by the Wilson executive committee or Eastern North Carolina Association Wednesday night, Penn Watson of the R. P. Watson Tobacco Company, declared the people of Wilson County would benefit to the extent of many thousands of dollars of Eastern North Carolina Association's effort is successful and commended the association for the extensive work and effort to assure success of the project.

Local people realize that Greenville's future growth and expansion as an industrial and distribution center will be assured as well as tremendous savings in freight and are leading every possible support to the Eastern North Carolina Association movement as this is the critical period in the fight for the Tar River project.

Another Large Crowd Hears Evangelist Here

The largest week night crowd gathered at the big tent, corner of Third and Cotanche Streets, to hear Evangelist R. L. Erickson last night and from all indications, this revival will be one of the best Greenville has ever had.

Mr. Erickson quoted Mark 11:22 "And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God."

Subject: "Having the Faith That God Gives."

The evangelist told his hearers that every person knows when God saves them. . . . God is a God of Love, and when Love takes possession of a human being they know it. . . . Human love is quite different from God's love.

When born again of the Spirit of God, every recipient knows it. Salvation is the happiest news ever sounded. God will forgive and save a man from everything he is guilty of. . . . That's the grace of God. God will answer your prayer of faith if you believe God for the answer.

No service Saturday night. Very special message Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Great service and a big crowd expected Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Fire Destroys South Carolina Prison Building

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin early today gutted a building of the State Penitentiary here and menaced several nearby structures, but was soon brought under control after a desperate fight by firemen. The building was one of the units of the original penitentiary plant, and known as the old Federal building. It contained the automobile repair shop, carpenter shop and paint shop. No prisoners were quartered in the structure.

Fire Chief A. M. Marsh said he had not officially estimated the damage, but expressed belief that it would be $15,000 to $20,000.

Although prison guards reinforced by Columbia police force, there was no disorder among the prisoners, it was reported.

France Schools Sheep Herders Rambouillet, France.—(AP)—A school for shepherds, with examinations and al, is flourishing near here. Young men spend a year tending flocks under the eyes of veteran shepherds, but when they pass the final tests they command about $5 a month more than unschooled shepherds.

DUTCH AIRMEN LEADING RACE

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Apparently well in the lead, the Dutch team of K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, flying an American (Douglas) plane, were reported approaching Athens at 2 o'clock today after seven and a half hours after taking off from Mildenhall airbase, England, in the Australian air derby.

The twenty aircraft entered in the air derby got off to a perfect start at dawn, but some were later forced down by engine trouble or bad weather.

Sixteen nations will be passed over by the successful pilots. The terrain ranges from deserts and water holes to mountains areas with 15,000-foot peaks.

The first prize of $50,000 and a gold cup valued at not less than $2,500. American partisans were jolted by the withdrawal from the race of Miss Jacqueline Cochran and Wesley Smith of New York after they reached Bucharest after making the 1,300 mile hop in the good time of 9:14 hours. Col. Roscoe Palmer and Clyde Pangborn landed their American (Boeing) plane at 4:35 p. m. at Athens. The third American team John H. Wright and John Poland arrived at Rome at 4:40 p. m. Parmentier and Moll, Dutch flyers reported having passed over Athens at 2:15 p. m., returned to the Greek airport an hour and a quarter later. They remained 21 minutes soaring off again at 3:52 p. m.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The fugitive Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., and his wife and father were indicted by a special federal grand jury today on charges making possible in event of conviction the death penalty for all three, in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Stoll.

The same penalty under the law may be inflicted upon all three District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks said in reply to a question about the indictment. Asked if he intended to press for the extreme penalty for all three, he replied: "That depends upon the proof as to the two but as to Robinson, Jr., I say unhesitatingly that I will do so."

Mrs. Stoll herself went into the grand jury room during the deliberations to tell of her experience. She was accompanied by her husband Berry V. Stoll and her mother, Mrs. William S. Speed. Mrs. Stoll looked anxious as she went into the grand jury room. She came out more composed and smiling.

Louisville, N. C., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Federal government impaneled a special grand jury today to consider indictment of Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., his wife and his father in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Expectations were that the government would invoke the Lindbergh law. (Continued on page eight)

Two white men almost made their escape from the city jail last night—but not quite—and the result is that today the two men, together with two women, are confined in the jail awaiting hearings. The men are Levi Tyson, held on a forged charge, and C. A. Terrell, alias T. C. Andrews, and saved their way through the cell and were sawing their way through the outside window of the city jail, when Officer Page, making his rounds about 3:30 o'clock this morning, discovered the attempted jail break and immediately rushed the men back to their cells. A few minutes later an investigation revealed that two women who are traveling with Tyson and Terrell, were waiting at the corner a short distance from the jail when an automobile in which the escape was to be made had the men break successful in their attempt to break jail. The women were also locked up in jail to await hearing as they completed in the attempted jail break. The two men and two women were liberated and have been working in this city this week. ## MORE MONEY IN BANKS IN THIS COUNTY

Bank Deposits Show Increase of $5,000,000 Since Opening of Market

It's a different story in Pitt county with regard to the farmers and their money than has been reported in the State papers with regard to some of the other counties in which it was stated that not two out of every hundred farmers presented tobacco checks at the bank windows are leaving any of their money on hand.

Since the opening of the tobacco here the Greenville market has paid out some over $13,000,000, and better than $5,000,000 of this money has found its way into the banks in the way of deposits, the bank deposits of this county showing that much increase since the opening of the market.

"Not only are our deposits increasing," said J. H. Waldron, cashier of Greenville Banking and Trust Company of this city, in commenting today on the recently published newspaper articles from the other States "but there are more farmers depositing their money in the bank and in larger amounts than at any time during the thirty-three years of the existence of our bank."

"There is, of course, increased spending here on the part of the farmers and others to whom the higher tobacco prices has meant more money, but certainly this does not mean that the farmers will be without money by Christmas as stated in the newspapers," Mr. Waldron said. "The action of our farmers 'this fall has shown conclusively that they have complete confidence in the banking institutions of this county," he continued, "and I believe that we are on the threshold of a more lasting prosperity in this county and section than many of our people think."

Secretary Ickes has separated the cream of the skin-milk projects. He has stuck pretty closely to the rule that projects must meet a long felt want to deserve PWA funds.

Smokes: The bright leaf tobacco belt is getting prosperous. As a result President Roosevelt is being hailed as a true savior and anyone who pans the AAA is in for a fight. Prices paid the farmers—after many lean years—have reached incredibly high levels. Growers hadly can believe it's true. Down in North Carolina they're calling it the "Tobacco Renaissance."

Late reports from the two great bright leaf tobacco markets in the world—Greenville and Wilson, N. C. are worth noting by those who seek evidence that happy days are here again—somewhere.

The average price per 100 pounds paid at Greenville up to early October of the current year was $30.34. This compared with an average of $16.70 for 1933—which in turn was almost twice that of 1932. By selling 72,000,000 pounds at Greenville in 1933 the growers collected $11,733,050. They have sold 33,578,780 pounds so far this year but have been paid $10,187,344. It is estimated another $5,000,000 will be netted from the 15,000,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds of the crop remaining.

At Wilson the 193 price average was $12.34 in 1933 it was $16.82, and up to Oct. 6 the 34 average was $27.99—although the Oct. 5 daily average was $34.88. Pounds sold this year will be well below 1933 but the (Continued on Page Four)

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

By GEORGE DURNO
Washington, Oct. 20.—Projects: Harry Hopkins Relief Administrator has a plan for employment of unskilled men as a substitute for CWA, but he isn't ready to make it public.

In the darkest days of last winter about 4,000,000 men were kept eating through Civil Works. The work accomplished didn't amount to much because the Relief Administrator was forced to do something in a hurry. The Public Works Administration was a disappointment so far as relieving unemployment was concerned. It has not yet absorbed as much labor as was estimated.

Strong appeal has been made to Hopkins to turn his unskilled army loose on a mission of railroad grade crossings. It is suggested that the Relief Administration might pay half and the railroads half, on money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Two obstacles stand in the way. First, grade crossing elimination calls for too big a proposition of skilled labor. Second, railroads haven't enough security to offer to Jesse Jones for loans from RFC. Jesse doesn't lend much without a chance of getting it back. Grade crossing elimination is very costly and few railroads are in a position to make these improvements.

Public Works Administration has a huge pile of projects not acted upon but they are mostly unsuitable for Hopkins' unskilled labor army because they require time for engineering, title technicalities, etc.

FRUSTRATE JAIL BREAK HERE TODAY

Another Wreck Here Yesterday
Cloud Harrington of the Winterville section of the county suffered serious injuries shortly after the noon hour yesterday when his automobile was in collision with a truck of the J. A. Watson Company at the corner of Third and Greene Streets in this city.

Reports on the accident show that the truck was traveling north on Greene Street and Harrington was traveling east on Third Street. Harrington was reported to have failed to observe the stop signs at the corner before entering the highway which was the cause of the crash. Harrington's car was badly damaged and Harrington received slight cuts and bruises.

STATE IN BEST CONDITION IN MANY YEARS

Treasury Report Shows Cash Balance Of $12,985,654.67 September 30th

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The State of North Carolina had a cash balance to its treasury on September 30 of $12,985,654.67, and with its general fund showing a credit of $2,273,536.09, was in the best financial condition it had been in in months.

An overdraft of $93,998.13 which existed in the general fund on September 1, was wiped out when receipts for the month aggregated $3,680,261.18 compared with expenditures of only $1,312,225.96, the monthly combined statement of the auditors and treasurer showed today.

The general fund had shown an overdraft each month of the current fiscal year. When the 1934-1935 fiscal period opened July 1 an overdraft of $2,601,379.28 was inherited from the 1933-1934 period. General fund receipts for the three months of the 1934-1935 period aggregated $9,629,345.98 and disbursements ran $15,747,436.91, but the overdraft brought forward had to be taken care of.

In the highway fund September receipts were $4,415,129.21 compared with expenditures of $3,501,674.93 and with the previous balance pushed the highway balance up to $9,384,753.61 on the last day of the month.

On September 30 the State had a funded debt of $174,156,000.

HAUPTMANN JAILED IN NEW JERSEY

Taken To New Jersey Last Night After Losing Fight Against Extradition

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bruno Hauptmann is in prison in the State of New Jersey today and within a month he must face trial for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. He is lodged in a solitary cell in Hunterdon County close by the courthouse in which he will be tried.

Hauptmann was brought to the jail by New Jersey authorities last night a few hours after he had lost his fight to prevent extradition from New York. The appellate division of New York Supreme Court denied his appeal and his removal to New Jersey was effected forthwith.

Gaining, at least, the custody of the ban they formally charged, less than two weeks ago, with the kidnap-murder, the New Jersey authorities made plans to bring the stolid German carpenter to trial within a month.

LOCAL MART LEADS PRICE AND POUNDS

$13,106,874.13 Paid Out For Season To Date with Average $31.52

The Greenville tobacco market continued to hold its lead in pounds and prices for the entire bright leaf belt when final sales of the week were completed yesterday. Figures made public here today showed the market 157,910 pounds in the lead of Wilson, the next largest market while the money paid out of the Greenville market was $945,034.05 ahead of the Wilson market.

Official figures of yesterday's sales on the Greenville market were 350,864 pounds sold for $390,433.49, an average price of $34.91. While the average price was a bit lower than the previous day, it was pointed out that taking the quality into consideration, tobacco prices are just as high as they have been this season.

A large number of growers are now selling the last of their crop, including the floor sweepings from the pack-house, and this has a tendency to pull down the average price of the sales.

Official figures for the season through yesterday show 41,583 pounds sold for $13,106,874.13, an average price of $31.52.

The season is fast drawing to a close and warehousemen are urging to growers to grade and market the balance of their crop as speedily as possible. It is pointed out that with much lighter sales, the growers can get their tobacco sold on any sale any day and get back home early.

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—Leaders of organized labor still are a bit bewildered at the A. F. of L.'s decision at its San Francisco convention to organize mass production industries along industrial rather than craft lines.

"Vertical" vs. "horizontal" unions for years has been one of labor's most famous controversies. The decision in favor of "vertical" organization at San Francisco may result in sweeping changes in the future of labor in this country.

A "vertical" union is one in which an effort is made to sign up every employee in an industry. The most outstanding example is the United Mine Workers of America.

"Horizontal" unions comprise only workers in a particular trade—bricklayers, for example. This type of union is typical of those affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Previous Stand Reversed

The significance of the A. F. of L.'s decision lies in the fact that after years of controversy the country's largest labor organizations finally have swung away (with a proviso) from trade unionism to organization by industry.

The proviso is that A. F. of L. for the time being, but the authority to choose officers of such newly-formed unions.

Only last year the A. F. of L. convention smothered a similar proposal by vote of more than two to one. The reason advanced by labor leaders was that they feared such an open controversy would hamper the Federation's campaign for new members.

Oddly enough, labor leaders credit the reverse for the success of the proposal this year. Dissatisfaction among workers in the automobile industry, along with the open threat of the large withdrawals of these laborers from the Federation, is said by those on the inside to have been the reason why approval was given.

Pro and Con of It

Supporters of the industrial union idea—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is foremost—contend that such unions give the workers much more power. Lewis proudly points to his own union as the one generally conceded to have gotten the biggest "break" thus far under the "new deal."

It also is argued that unskilled labor fares better with industrial unions than with the present trade groups. Trade unions must look out for themselves. So-called "jurisdictional disputes" frequently arise to paralyze a whole industry.

On the other hand, trade union supporters contend that industrial unionism has been tried both in this country and Europe and proved a failure.

By QUINTON JAMES

A new king of Yugoslavia ultimately will mean a new set of stamps for this Mediterranean country. Yugoslavia, since its first general issue portrait of its reigning ruler on its postage stamps.

King Peter II will be the third monarch to be pictured on Yugoslavian stamps, his grandfather, King Peter I, and his father, King Alexander, naturally having preceded him.

But the eleven-year-old ruler is not altogether unfamiliar to stamp collectors. A drawing of him already has been used in two semi-postal issues, both put out in connection with an athletic event. The first time was in the rowing championship issue of 1932 when he appeared on the five plus one dinar duvet violet and black. The second time was last year in the Sokol commemorative issue. His portrait comprised the principal design for the two stamps, one a slate green and the other a deep red.

The portrait of Alexander has been used on every major postal issue to date since 1921 except for the illustration of Peter I on the five high values of that set. The same general basic design was employed for the various values of these stamps until the 1931-1932 and 1932-1933 issues when a new type appeared showing the full face of Alexander rather than a profile.

British Guiana

The 1931 set of British Guiana stamps commemorating its 100th anniversary has just been re-issued and augmented from five to twelve values.

The stamps have been completely redrawn, the similarity in the two sets extending only to the continued use of three of the pictorial designs of the earlier issue. In addition to the various illustrations King George's head has been placed in an oval as part of the border of seven values.

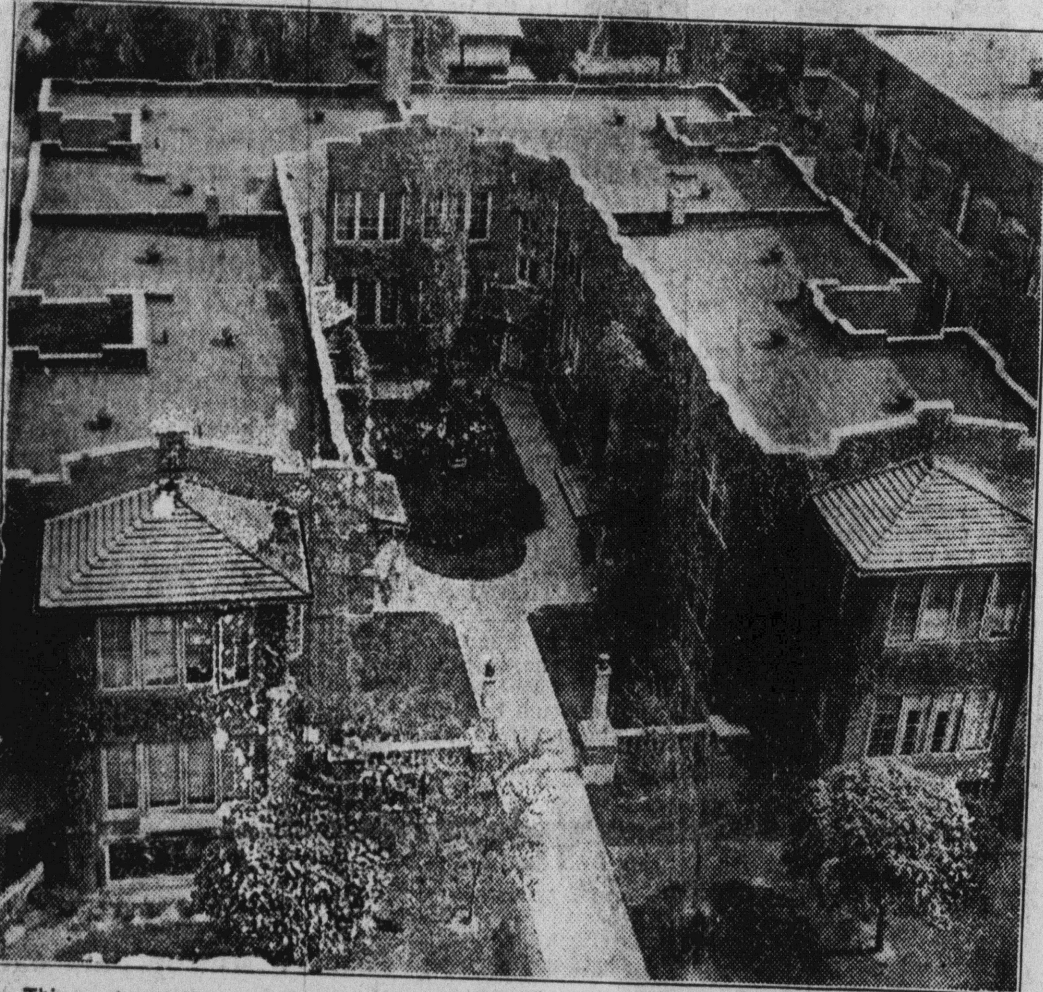

The stamps are described as 1-cent green, ploughing a rice field; 2-cent brown, Indian shooting fish; 3-cent carmine rose gold mining; 4-cent dark violet and 50-cent green, Kaeteur falls; 6-cent ultramarine shooting timber over falls; 12-cent orange, Strabock market, Georgetown; 48-cent black, forest road; 60-cent brown, Victoria Regia lilies; 72-cent lilac, Mount Roraima; 96-cent black, Sir Walter Raleigh and son; $1 violet, Botanic gardens, Georgetown.

MRS. ROBINSON JAILED UNDER $50,000 BOND

Charged with complicity in the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll in Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Frances Robinson was imprisoned there in default of $50,000 bail. She is shown at the left as she appeared before United States Commissioner Eugene M. Dailey who fixed her bond. At the right she is shown on the way to jail in custody of United States Marshall L. E. Trapp. Meanwhile authorities are combing the country for her husband, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., named as the actual kidnaping, after having arrested his father as an accomplice in Nashville, Tenn. The trail of the fugitive led to Springfield, Ohio, where license plates issued to him were found on an abandoned automobile. (Associated Press Photos)

WHERE MRS. STOLL WAS HELD BY KIDNAPERS

This apartment house in Indianapolis, Ind., was the prison of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, wealthy society leader of Louisville, Ky., during the six days she was held captive by kidnapers. Location of the hide-away was revealed after federal agents overtook her and her captor, Mrs. Frances Robinson, in Scottsburg, Ind., as they traveled toward Louisville following the payment of $50,000 ransom. Authorities trailed Mrs. Robinson to Indianapolis after the ransom money was delivered in Nashville, Tenn., home of the woman and her husband, Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., sought as the actual kidnaping. The illusion of three planes with only one set of wheels over Miami, Fla., was created by pilots of these ships as they went through some of the fancy figures they will cut for entertainment of the American Legion convention visitors in that city. The pilots are in the United States naval reserve corps. (Associated Press Photo)

GOVERNOR CALLS FOR AID TO RED CROSS. Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 20.—(Governor Ehringhaus yesterday urged the citizens of North Carolina to support generously the work of the American Red Cross in its annual roll call drive, which will begin Armistice Day, November 11, and continue through Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

The Governor issued a statement in which he said: "It is my understanding that the American Red Cross will, on November 11, begin its annual roll call drive for membership to continue until Thanksgiving Day, and recognize the peculiar worthiness of this appeal by an organization which has rendered such signal and humanitarian services to the State and nation in both war and peace. I earnestly hope that our citizens will heed this call and make adequate response to the appeal which it makes. The opportunity for participation in such an enterprise comes but once a year; let it not go unheeded; let our response be generous."

Hollywood Sites. Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—In this unreal parade: This is the way pictures are made there's no consistent reason for it. Five years ago a tall, good-looking boy came West with a contract. He'd had state training, including a lead with Ethel Barrymore. But no parts of consequence came his way in pictures and he was released. He free-lanced, then got another contract, and spent another year or two—on pay—without parts. That contract expired, too. The other day he was on the set of "Sweet Adeline" wearing tails like many another tall, good-looking young man for the big ballroom scene. After the usual "How-are-you-and-where-ve-you-beens" he answered the obvious questions: "Oh, a bit—JUST a bit!" and added laughing: "I go in and ask the girl to dance—that's all."

A Bit of Luck. With David Newell—that's his name, in case you're interested—it's been a question these many months, to stay in Hollywood and hope or to go back to Broadway—and hope.

But he's been lucky, at that. Those contracts allowed him to save money and tide him over, he'll tell you. And working "like this" you get a different slant on things—if you ever do "arrive," you'll remember it. And John Stahl, directing Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life," had spotted him on the set and

In The Papers By MARY GRAHAM BONNER Now everyone had left Puddle Muddle and the place looked more in a muddle than ever, but the people had all been very kind to Willy Nilly and the Puddle Muddlers.

In the afternoon Christopher Columbus Crow thought he had better stretch his wings a bit and take a short flight. But in no time at all he was back saying:

"I flew over to the town and what do you suppose I saw?" "What?" cried the Puddle Muddlers.

"On every stand out in the streets, I saw newspapers and there were pictures of all of us! And I heard boys shouting about the speed flyer landing in Puddle Muddle."

"Read all about Puddle Muddle the boys shouted. 'Here's a paper, get the latest papers with pictures and stories of Willy Nilly and the crew of the rooster, the bears, the fire horse, the ducks, the dog, Speed Byers and in Puddle Muddle. Here, get your paper!'"

Christopher was almost out of breath now, but every one in Puddle Muddle wanted the papers.

So Mrs. Quacko Duck got out her one-and-a-half yard duck couple and she and Willy Nilly rode over to get them.

It seemed to other Puddle Muddlers that they'd never get back, but at last they came and Willy Nilly's arms were so full of papers that he could hardly be seen.

They all looked at their pictures and Willy Nilly read aloud the accounts of everything. And then when they had quite finished they went all over the papers—not only once more but again and again and again.

Monday—"Willy Nilly's Ears"

there still were complaints. A small price change meant the loss of thousands of dollars to those holding large amounts of tobacco.

Various "protections" were thrown about the market. The most colorful, perhaps, were the night rider. Bands of tobacco farmers, raging because of low prices, rode on fast horses through the night to destroy standing crops or fire warehouses to reduce the supply and boost the price.

'Hedging' Permitted. Mitigation of all these ills was sought through the TEX ring, and for years leaders in the industry have been converting farmers, bankers' manufacturers and a host of others to their plan.

The new tobacco exchange is the result. The TEX ring is limited to 250 members who pay $1,000 for their exchange seat, or rather for standing room around the little ring. All transactions must be made through them.

The most important purpose, perhaps, of the futures market is to permit hedging. Stripped of details, hedging consists in placing a selling order in futures against a present buying order, or a buying order in futures against a present selling order.

'Price Risk Insurance' Traders term hedging "price risk insurance," and loans can be obtained more readily on a stock of tobacco that is hedged because the value of the stock is "insured."

Traders say the new exchange: (1) Establishes the market as a factor. (2) Establishes the market as a price barometer. (3) Offers an opportunity to hedge. (4) Assures an orderly market. (5) Establishes an adherence to grades. (6) Reduces the cost of marketing. (7) Forms a central point for dissemination of crop information.

Chapter 25
MARIAN'S OFFER

"I DIDN'T need to see the man, Mr. McSwain," said Marian. "I heard what he said, and I understood."

"Your father's daughter," he sneered. "You wouldn't need to see; you know everything, always."

"I know you gave ten thousand dollars to William Brown as a bribe, buying protection for the rotten material you intend to use in a school building."

"You're out of your senses. Let's talk this over reasonably; you're too bright a girl to think you know more than the courts of the law."

He was becoming conciliatory.

"In this instance I do know more than the courts," she returned calmly. "I was more fortunate than our District Attorney, I found proof."

"You what... what proof?"

A NUISANCE

Along with higher tobacco prices and a fair and carnival thrown in for good measure, it seems that Greenville right at this time is getting more of its share of the beggars and fakers (mostly the latter). All over the city you will find itinerant peddlers offering their wares, and it is certainly becoming a great nuisance. We do not know just how much taxes or licenses the city is getting out of all these peddlers but surely it should be a sizeable amount if it is to be in keeping with the nuisance they are to our people.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD

The statement issued by J. H. Waldrop with reference to the banking situation in this county certainly shows that the majority of our farmers are using good judgment in leaving a part of the money received for their tobacco crop in the banks. While we do not blame anyone for spending their money wisely to take care of their needs and luxuries, too, that they can afford, we believe that those farmers who are at the same time looking forward to another year are using wide judgment. In addition to leaving their money in the banks the great majority are paying up their debts, some of which were long past due, and certainly this will mean much to the business life of the community. We agree with Mr. Waldrop that it looks like our section is entering upon an era of sound prosperity.

RIVER PROJECT PROGRESSES

The project for the deepening of Tar River to this city making commercial water transportation available continues to look favorable and Secretary Dickenson of the Eastern North Carolina Association has been called together with L. G. Hogshire president of Norfolk, Baltimore and Carolina Lines to appear in Wilmington Wednesday for further conferences with army engineers on the project. The deepening of Tar River to this point will mean great savings to the people of this entire section of the state in the way of lower freight rates and if the project is carried to a successful completion the Eastern North Carolina Association will be due a large portion of the credit for having been successful in getting the matter re-opened after it was apparently a dead issue and then using its resources to get together and properly present the information needed by the army engineers investigating the feasibility of the project. It is most encouraging that the matter has progressed to its present stage and with each hearing those in close touch with the project are more hopeful that their efforts will be successful.

The scene in a Marseille street after an assassin had poured out his fatal fusillade into the bodies of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Foreign Minister Barthou of France is recorded in this radio picture sent to New York from London. rs will split up around $1,250,000 in bonuses from the government.

Growers in eastern North Carolina signed up about 99 per cent in the production limitation agreements. Next year it is predicted they will all be in the fold.

Those who didn't sign this time are getting a 25 per cent tax deducted from their warehouse check and their more fortunate brothers don't hesitate to give them the Bronx cheer.

Choice: Political scouts returning from tours of the country are warning headquarters that President Roosevelt is going to have quite a few wild men on his hands after next month's Congressional elections.

"The people in many sections" reports one, "are far wilder than even the opposition cracks up the administration to be. The boys who are going before the voters are politicians. It is their job to get elected and then re-elected. If they have to promise a house and lot and a new suite of clothes many are ready and willing to do it."

Messrs. Harling, Coolidge and Hoover had experience along this general line. Within their own party was an ever present group of insurgents that upset many an administration plan of procedure.

In one respect the New Dealers are converting this impending situation to their own purpose as a blessing in disguise.

One argument is being worked on disgruntled business men more and more as election approaches.

"Stick to FRD," it runs. "Only he is standing between you and the very radical left-wingers. If you don't take the New Deal you get something that will cause you infinitely more and with care."

Notes: The G. O. P. Senatorial Congressional committee called Owen Harry Nicp, Republican candidate for Governor of Maryland, for being "too nice to FRD." He keeps right on handing out complaints. Election sharps now figure that the G. O. P. will gain not over 25 seats in the House and will lose five Senators. Tennessee Republicans called on Chairman Hastings of the G. O. P. Senatorial committee to tell him how to beat Kenneth McKellar. McKellar's resignation was due at a self home and they went away demoralized. Senator Egan of Washington says the movement for nationalization of munitions industries has just begun and will win. Plenty of money has rolled in on the American Liberty League, mostly in small sums.

By JAMES McMILLIN
New York Oct. 20.—Banks: It looks as if the American Bankers Association Washington convention will turn into a veritable low-cost between the administration and the bankers. Two significant developments point to unprecedented harmony.

One is the exceptional interest which New York Bankers are taking in the convention. In the past they've been inclined to regard the Association as small town stuff—something to be encouraged on principle but not worthy of their personal attention. Now they see it as a vital instrument to restore banking to the good grace of government and public. You can paste it in your hat that the impressive New York delegation will not be there to throw monkey-wrenches. They've even withdrawn their former heated opposition to Rudolph Eicht of New Orleans as the incoming president.

The second key development is a fifty piece of inside politics. Tom K. Smith of St. Louis—former aide of Secretary Morgenthau—will be made second vice-president of the organization.

W. R. Morehouse—a Los Angeles savings banker—has been designated for the office but was persuaded to withdraw. This means that Smith will become president of the ABA in the crucial year 1936. He has a sympathetic understanding of the administration's attitude on banking and currency matters. In effect the bankers are making a subtle but effective gesture to convince FRD that they sincerely want to work with him.

Smith has also been chosen head of an important sub-committee on the revision of banking laws. Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase—original New Dealer among New York bankers—is another member. This is further striking evidence of the ABA's desire to cooperate with Washington in planning additional alterations of the banking structure.

Hot: New York insiders don't care for French political situation at all. They get word that the changes necessitated by Barthou's death and Sarraut's resignation have weakened Premier Doumergue's already precarious position.

A banker who knows his France acutely remarks that Pierre Laval—the new Foreign Minister—can't fill Barthou's shoes in that capacity any more than a midget could fill Camerons. Laval is rated purely a politician—and a rather undependable one at that.

A shift in French policy toward Germany is indicated. Barthou's major aim was to encircle Germany with a ring of steel. This is no longer feasible with Poland already disaffected and Yugoslavia's future uncertain. Moreover Laval is friendlier toward Germany than his predecessor. If the results of the Saar plebiscite are not too alarming to French munitions makers you may see gestures of conciliation.

Sarraut's resignation is full of the powerful political dynamite. He represented the powerful Radical Socialists party in the Cabinet. Now that he's out he'll be free to mobilize his followers in an embarrassing opposition to the government.

His successor—Paul Marchand—is a political nonentity.

These facts—plus the loss of Barthou's harmonizing and stabilizing influence—leaves our garbage walking on red-hot bricks.

Election: The old rift between Tammany and the Farley wing of the Democratic party may be reopened by the election. Experts agree that the high last-minute registration in New York City spells bad news for Frank Taylor—Tammany's candidate for Comptroller. It's a safe bet that many a vote for Governor Lehman will be coupled with a vote for Fusionist McGoldrick.

If Lehman carries the city by a large majority and Taylor loses out the streams from the Wigwag will be audible in China. The boys all ready feel that Farley—as State death

LOCALS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO EDGECOMBE

Those fans that like plenty of action in their football games certainly saw a natural yesterday afternoon when Greenville's speedy team stacked up against Bob Eason's heavies.

Both teams packed a scoring punch, with W. Edgcombe strong on ground plays and Greenville doing some beautiful passing. It has been many a moon since local fans have been treated to such beautiful passes as this boy Carroll, for Greenville, heaved yesterday.

W. Edgcombe received the kickoff, and after trying a few plays at the line, punted. On the second play Carroll went through a big hole opened for him on the left side of his line, cut to his left into the open and was headed for the goal with Hatem leading the interference, when he stumbled and fell.

W. Edgcombe held for downs and punted out. After an exchange of punts the visitors scored on a long pass Privette to Winters. On third down Grimes carried the ball over, but failed on his attempt at the extra point.

On the second half, W. Edgcombe received the kickoff and marched right down the field on off-tackle smashes for their second touchdown. J. Brake carrying it over and R. Killebrew making the extra point.

The visitors made their final score on some beautiful runs by Grimes. He finally carried the ball over. The home team chalked up their final marker when Carroll opened up with more of those passes to Hatem.

For Greenville, Hatem on end, was outstanding both on offense and defense. The entire Greenville line played nice ball. In the backfield Carroll was hard-pressed by Brewer.

Clark Center R. Brake

Summerrill Right Guard Taylor

Forrest Right Tackle Calhoun

Size Right Ends Flye

Cox Quarterback Winters

Carroll Right Halfback Privette

J. Forbes Fullback R. Killebrew

Brewer Greenville's Grimes

Greenville substitutes: Line, Parrish, Muehlewhite and Hatton; backfield, R. Forbes and Harris; center, W. Edgcombe; substitutes, Vivrette, Bradley, G. Killebrew and Ar-

Officials: Easuty (N. C. State, referee); Hicks (N. C. State, umpire); Hedges (Greenville), headlineman.

GIVES ONE HIT IN GAME; LOSES IN EXTRA INNING

Boston, Mass.—(AP)—Here's one to add to your collection of strange things the 1934 major league baseball season produced.

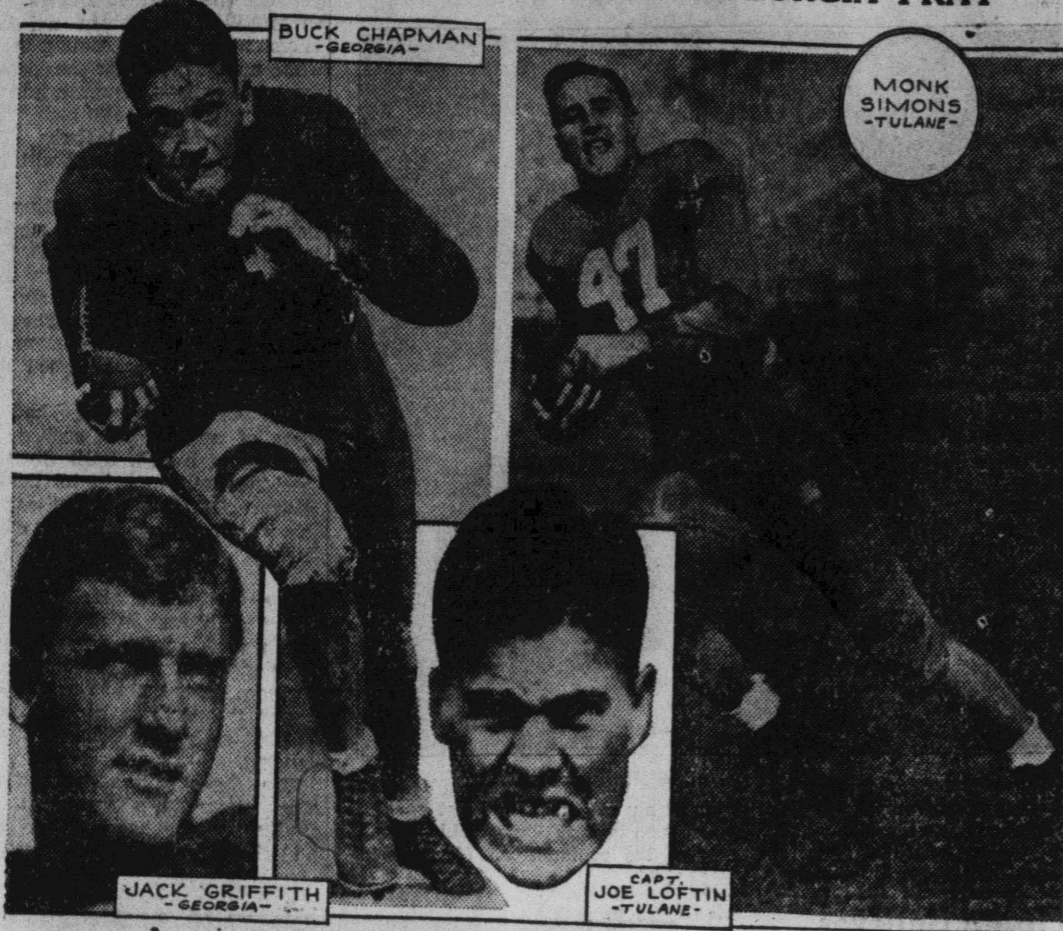

On Tuesday, September 18, Buck Newcom, pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, held the Boston Red Sox to one hit in ten innings and yet lost the game, 1 to 0, though his team mates got ten hits off Faerrell and Walberg of Boston. The only hit followed two passes in the tenth inning.

Safe Drivers Honored

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(AP)—Four hundred bus and truck drivers who had been involved in no accidents in from one to sixteen years of driving were honored here.

DIXIE STARS CLASH IN TULANE-GEORGIA FRAY

Several of the Southeastern Conference's outstanding backfield performers will be found in action Saturday when Tulane and Georgia clash at New Orleans in one of the featured gridiron battles of the south. The brunt of the Green Wave's offensive will be borne by Capt. Joe Loftin, fullback, and Monk Simons, fleet-footed halfback. Much of the Bulldogs' aggressiveness rests on the shoulders of Buck Chapman, a bounding fullback, and Jack Griffith, veteran quarterback. (Associated Press Photos)

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Cal.—(AP)—Fay Wray can travel now, anywhere, and never be a "girl" without a country.

Born in Canada but reared in the United States since she was three, Fay didn't learn she was a British subject until she and her husband, John Monk Saunders, applied for passports to go wandering abroad sometime ago.

Fay learned, too, that in some countries if they travel, her status would be so doubtful she would be virtually a "girl without a country."

It was all very involved, but she lost no time in applying for American citizenship papers.

When she got them recently, she was as excited as a school-girl out for the declaration prize. Which is worthy of mention only because Fay Wray's friends say she seldom gets excited.

An Upward Turn

The Wray career, while its mistress was staying at home working, has kept on traveling. It is now, after a period of running along at the same even pace which characterizes Fay Wray, taking an upward turn.

For a while, perhaps, it was threatened by her popularity with producers, who sought Fay Wray for every leading woman's role for which she was available.

That will be changed now, but Fay doesn't regret the long series of roles, which ranged from screaming heroines of horror-thrillers to less harrowing, more character-filled leading ladies. Weighing her career as it might have been, she is glad, she says, it worked out this way.

By all the rules of silent pictures, Fay Wray should have been a "glamorous" star. "Discovered" by Erich von Stroheim for "The Wedding March," she had a contract providing for direction exclusively by that storm petrel of the megaphone. It might have developed into something like today's Dietrich-von Stroheim combination. But von Stroheim had one of his disagreements with the studio, and Fay was left to work out her destinies alone. She became Fay Wray, leading lady and student of acting.

Hopes To Improve

"The other way," she says, "if I had succeeded at all I might have enjoyed a vogue for a time. But on the stage women don't become real stars until they are older, and I think it should be the same on the screen. I hope to keep on working until I am old, and to improve in acting as I go along."

The "improvement" apparently has been accelerated of late. Her work in "The Affairs of Cellini," even in competition with Frederic March, Frank Morgan and Constance Bennett, was outstanding enough to win a contract.

Disciple Here To Talk Of Her 'Adopted' India

(By The Associated Press)

Her English society friends knew her as Madeline Slade; to India she is Shrimati Mira Behn, and to Gandhi, whose disciple she is, her name is Mirabai.

Madeline Slade, the daughter of Sir Edmund Slade, British admiral, who went in for fox-hunting and sports, dancing and pretty clothes, "died," she says, November 7, 1925, and in her place was born Mirabai.

"I shall speak all over the states about my master Gandhi and my beloved adopted county of India," she said just before sailing from London. "I want to speak to the American public about conditions in India as I know them myself." She was invited to make the trip by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, New York pastor who is president of the Alher own first-hand observations.

Miss Slade, who has been twice imprisoned by the British authorities, is now 41. She is six feet tall, after a year's probationary period, she was accepted as a full-fledged member of Gandhi's Ashram, or college at Ahmedabad. She presents a striking contrast to the little man who is seeking to make India independent of the yoke of Great Britain.

She accompanied the Mahatma to the round table conference in London in 1931, at a time when his spiritual movement, with its boycott of foreign textiles, had affected the great mill centers of Lancashire.

She wears a Hindu shawl which shields her head. Her hair is close cropped in token of her vow of celibacy. White drapery covers her body, and her feet are shod with sandals.

New Books

By JOHN SELBY

Queen Marie, of Rumania, being rather a canny soul however royal, does not tell all her life in one volume. Her "The Story of My Life" (Scrivener's) stops short at Sarajevo, and shortly there surely will be another volume.

Not that Volume I contains too little. The good queen is astonishingly frank, and capable of a certain amount of self-analysis. There was real pathos in her situation in Rumania, a foreigner in a half-eastern land, and the process by which she made herself one with her new people, and persona grata with her relatives, is an interesting one.

Historians, too, may find some valuable matter imbedded in Marie's often rather lush prose. But the value to the perhaps mythical general reader is none of these things, but rather her highly colored account of certain excited personages. Marie can even tell the truth about her own children.

"Mignon," now Marie of Yugoslavia, always reminded her to fa peasant girl, declares her mother. Carol she discusses almost impersonally at times; youthful tenderness, always reminded her of a certain tutor who proved (according to Marie) a bad influence, these and many other details help explain the present Rumanian King to the outsider. And help explain history, too.

Thumbnail Reviews

"The Man on the White Horse," by Warwick Deeping (Knopf); the inveterate explorer of the romantic aspects of England and the English goes back into the past.

"The Daughters of Richard Heaton," by Romilly Cavan (Dutton); the daughter of a famous novelist, writing under a pseudonym, tells fictionally the experiences of the daughters of a famous novelist.

"Brinkley Manor," by P. G. Wodehouse (Little Brown); another novel about that Jeeves person; all anyone need know.

"Hero and Leander," by Christopher Marlowe (Covici-Friede); a new illustrated and very handsome edition of this famous classic, but it seems somewhat odd not to see George Chapman's name anywhere in the book, considering that he wrote the last four of this six-part love poem. Marlowe died before he could finish the work he had under way.

"The White Monk of Timbuctoo," by William Seabrook (Harcourt, Brace); the adventurous Mr. Seabrook writes the biography of Pere Yakouba, once a priest, now the somewhat violent patriarch of the Sudan.

"The Foolscap Rose," by Joseph Hergeshimer (Knopf); how the machine and modernity gradually conquered a sturdy Pennsylvania paper-making family, the Wigtons, and how the Wigtons were renewed from an unexpected source.

"Drury Randall," by Mary Johnston (Little, Brown); the career of a gentle Virginian from 1850 to 1900, a philosopher in a state which saw as a chivalric gesture; much charm and the real Virginia.

"The Magic Mirror," by Elsie Singmaster (Houghton Mifflin); Pennsylvania Dutch to the life; the Hummers of Allentown, and others, at the turn of the century.

"The Foghorn," by Gertrude Atherton (Houghton Mifflin); two novelettes and two short stories by this eminent practitioner; the title story is perhaps the best of the four.

Dixie-Fattened Cattle Keep Fed. Canneries Busy; Many Shipped

By EDWIN HOLMAN

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—A cow in the can is worth two on the hoof!

That, in effect, is the view of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

And so it has set up canneries throughout Southern States to preserve the meat of Western cattle saved from drought-parched ranges and fattened on Dixie's green pastures.

There will be many hungry mouths to feed in the homes of the State's destitute this winter. This the administration knew when it started rounding up thousands of starving cattle in the West last summer.

And now after three months of grazing, the cows, for the most part, are sleek and ready for dinner tables. Pasture lands, which the government rented on a basis of 50 cents a month or more per cow, have there they become stev beef or hamburger just about as expeditidone their duty well. But now frost is in the air and soon the verdant meadows and hillsides will afford but meager grazing.

And so with the first tinge of fall a great round-up, the likes of which the Southeast had never see, was started in States extending from Virginia to Louisiana.

As the cattle are driven in from these grass lands, they are concentrated at central points, slaughtered in municipal abattoirs and shipped to the relief canneries.

Experts employed by the Relief Administration have supervision over the canning, but the actual work is done by persons from the ranks of the unemployed. Thus the administrators feel they have served the dual purpose of giving work to idle hands and preparing winter food for the needy.

Georgia, typical of other Southern States in the relief canning projects, has nine plants which employ about six thousand people. An average plant has the capacity for canning about 150 head of cattle daily. All told, Georgia has 103,000 relief cows—which means the canneries are running full blast to finish processing them by cold weather.

The products of canneries in each State will be distributed exclusively to the destitute in that particular State.
