LEAF SALES NEAR FORTY FIVE MILLION

Today's Sales Here Bring Paid out Total To More Than $14,000,000

Passing the forty-four million pound mark yesterday, and with fairly heavy sales here today, the Greenville tobacco market will stand above the forty-five million pound mark for season's sales when the market shuts down this afternoon for the week-end holiday.

Official figures for the day, the week and the season together, with comparative reports for last season released today by K. W. Cobb, sales supervisor, are as follows:

Thursday's sales, 44,852 pounds for $146,071.93, averaging $33.06 per hundred pounds.

Sales for the week ending Thursday, 3,401,612 pounds, for $1,174,464.21, averaging $34.53.

Season's sales through Thursday are 44,125,208 pounds for $13,980,904.85, averaging $31.68 per hundred.

For the corresponding week last season sales were 6,419,126 pounds for $1,231,587.77, averaging $17.50 the growers receiving over $50,000 less last season despite the fact that 3,000,000 pounds more were sold during the week.

Last season to the corresponding date the market had sold 34,691,796 pounds for $4,897,828.14, an average of $14.12 per hundred, approximately 10,000,000 less pounds than this season for approximately $10,000,000 less money.

The lower poundage record for last season for the corresponding date was due to the marketing holiday during the early part of the season.

For the entire season last year the market sold approximately 72,000,000 pounds for which the growers received less than $12,000,000, while this season the market, due to the curtailed crop will sell but little more than 50,000,000 pounds, but the growers will receive more than $15,000,000 in addition to the benefits already received from the government for rental on idle acreage with still more funds to come from the government in the way of benefits on poundage sold this season.

HOOD BANK TO DISCONTINUE BUSINESS HERE

At a meeting last night directors of the Hood Industrial Bank here decided to pay off depositors at once and then to pay off depositors and close the institution.

The small demand here for the type of loans made by the bank caused the directors to take this action.

It was said that for more than a year the demand for loans had diminished as a result the bank had discouraged deposits because it did not desire to pay interest on money that would lie idle in the bank.

The institution has on hand more than sufficient money to pay off all depositors and a 40 per cent dividend to stockholders, and it is believed that the outstanding loans of the bank when called in will be more than sufficient to return their complete investment to each of the stockholders. The stockholders are asked to come in for their money now.

Joe Moyer, for several years cashier of the bank, has resigned his position to enter another field of work, and Miss Mary Forbes will have charge of the institution during the period of its liquidation. Stockholders this morning expressed the belief that the first of the year the liquidation would be practically completed and the stockholders would have their money.

The Department of Justice was all set a little while back to crack down on some die-hard opponents of New Deal legality. Now it develops that further checking is necessary before the recalcitrants are dragged into court.

Down at AAA Secretary Wallace says there is going to be a new crop-regulation program but it hasn't been decided yet just what form it will take. Relic Administrator Hopkins must be check-full of ideas for carrying the unemployed through the winter but they, too, are still nebulous so far as the public is concerned.

Just one untoward incident has developed to mar the otherwise deadly calm of Washington. That was when Floyd W. Reeves, Personal Director for the Tennessee Valley Authority, appeared before the current Communications Commission hearing with a plan for

ELLEN McADOO'S MARRIAGE BALKED DENIES REPORT SHE'S MARRIED

Says She is Not Married and Doesn't Know When She Will Wed

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Ellen McAdoo isn't married, she said; doesn't intend to obtain license today, and doesn't know when she will marry.

The 19-year-old granddaughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson returned home early today to deny that she had eloped with Rafael Lopez de Onate, Philippine-born film actor. She came back after leaving home at 11 a. m. yesterday without saying a word to anyone.

She explained her absence by saying that she and de Onate had been calling on friends.

The marriage plans of Ellen Wilson McAdoo (above), daughter of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, to Rafael Lopez de Onate, an actor, met opposition from several sources. A California county clerk said De Onate would have to prove he did not have Filipino blood; and Miss McAdoo's mother and father also opposed the marriage. (Associated Press Photo)

More Than 100 Cases Heard and Disposed Of During Four Days Session

Completing its calendar late yesterday, the term of civil court which began here Monday was adjourned.

Judge R. Hunt Parker, of Booneville, who presided over the civil term will open a criminal term here on Monday with several important cases set for hearing. Well over a hundred civil actions were disposed of during the four days of court this week.

Cases disposed of yesterday were as follows: W. A. Hudson was awarded judgment of $500 against R. T. Taylor and A. M. McLaurin as the result of an automobile accident between Wilson and Kenly some time ago in which Hudson's car was damaged and he suffered personal injury.

John T. Cox was awarded judgment for $25 against Alex Harris in suit for $450 over a pair of oxen and a log cart.

In the case of J. S. Bland against T. R. Stroud suit for damages growing out of an automobile wreck, it was announced to the court that the matter had been settled outside and the case was dismissed. The same action was taken in the case of Neta Bland against Stroud growing out of the same wreck.

Bill Smith and others vs. G. T. Stokes and others, a suit over a land division was non-suited.

Greenville Oil and Fertilizer Company vs. Alfred Worthington and others, was settled out of court and the action dismissed. The same action was taken in a suit by the same plaintiffs against G. C. Hardee and others.

B. G. Abeyounis and others vs. A. Richards, non-suited.

D. C. Cannon and others vs. B. T. Cannon, non-suited.

W. L. Mills vs. B. N. Worthington, non-suited.

GOOD TRADE BALANCE IN SEPTEMBER

Month Shows Balance Of $60,031,000 in Favor of This Country

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—America had a favorable trade balance during September of $60,031,000 with exports of $191,690,000 and imports of $131,659,000.

The Department of Commerce in announcing the preliminary figures for the month said the Cuban trade as a result of the Cuban reciprocal tariffs agreement that became effective September 4 showed a decided pick-up. Imports from that country were $7,439,396 in September as compared with $6,699,155 in August, 1934, and $6,762,373 in September, 1933.

Exports to Cuba were valued at $4,380,392 compared with $3,224,198 in August and $1,902,571 in September, 1933.

British Flier Attempting to Cut Time Made by Scott in Recent Flight

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 26.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Cathart Jones prepared himself for a dawn take-off today in an attempt to cut the time of C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black in their record flight from England to Australia.

As the British flier made ready for his hop toward London at 6 a. m. (approximately 3 p. m. M. E. S. T. time of the air derby) he was still en route to the finish line.

Colonel Roscoe Turner who had been mentioned as a possible rival for Jones on his projected flight, spiked the report and said when it was suggested that he take part in the possible 1936 race, "This race has cleaned me out. If I am to take part in any 1936 race, I'll have to find a backer."

Turner and Clyde Pangham came in third place in the race while Jones and his companion, Ken Walker, were fourth.

Special Service For Ministers At Tent Revival

Evangelist R. L. Erickson, speaking about "Salvation" at the tent revival, corner Third and Cotanche Streets, last night told those gathered what Paul said about speaking evil of no man. Some people have spoiled wonderful friendships by speaking against a neighbor.

When the love of God was manifested to man a change was brought about by the inward washing of regeneration. No man will speak evil of a friend if the love of God dominates that life. Human love, and human goodness, will not do the job God's way.

The experience of salvation is the washing regeneration. Salvation of God is real. Come to God and have a new heart, trust God, and change your circumstances. Believe God and He will take away your troubles and save your soul. No one else can do it. Salvation comes by prayer and faith.

Services tonight at 7:30 o'clock Special invitation to all the pastors of all the churches and their choirs, that this may be the revival God wants Greenville to have at this time.

Storm Alabama Jail, Seize Murderer of Florida Girl and Disappear

Brewton, Ala., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An armed mob estimated at one hundred men stormed the Escambia County jail here today between 2 and 3 a. m. and seized Claude Neal, 23-year-old negro, who allegedly confessed yesterday to attacking and murdering Miss Loyal Cannady, 23, at Greenwood, Fla., a week ago.

Sheriff G. S. Byrne said the men came to the jail in thirty automobiles bearing Florida license plates. "We are going to take him to Marianna (Florida) and turn him over to the girl's father and let him do what he wants to with him," the leader of the mob told Jailer Jake Shanholser.

At 9 a. m. today nothing had been heard from the mob or its captive, Sheriff Byrne said.

Shanholser, who was covered by pistols of the mob leaders, unlocked the cell door, said the sheriff.

"They assured Shanholser they were not going to harm him (Neal), and were going to turn him over to Miss Cannady's father at Marianna. Of course I know something already has happened to him."

Jail attaches said the negro was placed in the first of the thirty automobiles and that the others trailed behind. They said no attempt was made to follow.

"We'll tear up your jail and let all your prisoners out if you don't turn him over to us," the mob leader was said to have told the jailer. "He was covered with guns and it was about all we could do," said Sheriff Byrne, who added: "Neal left here alive."

The body of Miss Cannady was found beneath a mound of pine bows near her home in Florida last Friday. She had been beaten over the head and a hammer was found near the body. The negro was arrested after witnesses at a coroner's inquest testified that trails led from the scene to the house occupied by Neal where officers reported finding blood stained clothing.

Neal was taken from Chipley where he was hurried after his arrest, to Panama City and later to Pensacola after a mob went there in search for him. He was removed here early this week.

Funeral For Adrian Savage Held Yesterday

Funeral services for Adrian Savage, 76, were conducted at the home on East Eighth Street at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon followed by interment in Greenwood Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. G. R. Combs, of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, of which Mr. Savage was a member. The funeral was largely attended and a beautiful floral tribute bespoke the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mr. Savage, a native of this county, had spent his entire life in and near Greenville, and his operation of a business here for more than forty years brought him wide acquaintances and friendships in this and surrounding counties.

Palbearers for the funeral were as follows: Active: George A. Clark, J. C. Gaskins, S. T. White, W. E. Warren, George Gardner, and Ashley Blaud. Honorary: S. I. Dudley, W. H. Dail, James L. Evans, L. O. Causey, Ayden, Jim Brown, H. C. Edwards, C. H. Edwards, Carlos Harris, N. W. Jackson, Heber Gaskins, Henry Taylor, R. L. Smith, W. H. Smith, H. L. Hodges, Leon Smith, Linda Smith, R. L. Jordan, J. Washington, N. C., Oct. 26.—Charles Toler, aged 25, Blount's Creek farmer who shot himself through the left lung early Wednesday, died yesterday in Fowle Memorial Hospital where he was carried a short while after the shooting occurred.

He had told friends for several days that he intended killing himself and had stopped at a filling station Monday night and tried to cut his throat while there. He was prevented and tried again the next day. His third attempt proved successful.

He is survived by several sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were held today near Blount's Creek and interment was made in the Toler burying ground.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

By GEORGE DURNO

Washington, Oct. 26.—Serene: Perhaps you have noticed a dearth of important affirmative news from Washington in the last couple of weeks.

The reason is that the New Deal has gone into a state of suspended animation until after election day. Word has been passed to mark time until the November 6 results are definitely known.

Any New Dealer so brash in the interim as to start announcing new policies or taking controversial action in connection with those existing probably would wind up in left field without a glove. As they all know this, the team undoubtedly will remain intact.

It was about mid-October that the Democratic statisticians and magic crystal to announce that this struggle with tabulations and the magic crystal to announce that this year's Congressional election was overwhelmingly in the bag.

The inner council of strategists promptly decreed that nothing should be done or said in official Washington that would rock the boat in the remaining few days. The Republican enemy was to be given no new cause to cry out in protest.

Depositors Get All Funds Due

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 26.—Depositors of the Bank of Lewiston have received 100 per cent of the money due them. Gurney B. Hood, State Commissioner of Banks, announced yesterday. Checks for a 10 per cent dividend, amounting to $2,336.97, payable to 231 depositors and other creditors, have been mailed to the liquidating agent.

The fourth and final dividend payment brought the total paid the depositors to $23,365.63, the amount due them, Mr. Hood said. In addition to the dividend payments, the bank has paid out $2,302.62 to preferred creditors and $15,545.82 to secured creditors since it was closed on February 21, 1933.

Marian Gordon

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: While Marian could not deny in response to a false telegram telling of her mother's illness, her house is searched for the evidence she has of McSwain's duplicity and her husband, Lon, stupidly allows himself to be tricked into getting the evidence for McSwain. Lon is foreman in McSwain's on the job that the court-ordered plans to scrap. Now Lon tells Marian that he believes Marian is acting against McSwain because of her father's prejudices.

Chapter 30 STUPID LON

"I DON'T suppose," said Marian, "that in your present state of mind it will do a bit of good to tell you that my father had retired from office and gone to the ranch before I graduated; or that I was given a place on the Dispatch, along with three other editors of college papers... something the Bay newspapers do every year." Marian's eyes were blazing, her tone brittle.

"A man doesn't give up his political influence simply because he retires to a ranch," returned Lon. "Do you want to hear the rest of this?"

"I do," she answered, curbing her temper.

"All right, then," Lon's voice matched her own. "McSwain told me he gave me this job because he wanted someone there he could trust; said he'd had me in mind several days as one of his friends had telephoned him and told him a chap by my name was looking for work, and knowing he was going to need a foreman soon (he was obliged to send the one he had to a new job in the islands) recommended me. By coincidence we met that night—"

"Coincidence—" Marian couldn't help it, the word flashed out—"So we now call Silver Miss Coincidence."

"That's another thing, he said you had always been insanely jealous of Silver."

"And you let him say a thing like that about your wife?" Marian was on her feet, cheeks blazing, eyes blazing, tamper reaching the zenith. "I let McSwain tell me you were jealous of Silver because I knew it to be true." Lon made the retort with spirit.

"You've never given her a decent break. I remembered when McSwain spoke of how you'd treated her in Nevada, wouldn't lift a hand to help her out of the mess she was in; made her repeat a story to me instead of being a sport and telling me yourself when you knew how it must be breaking her heart. She didn't have a friend up there until I, a stranger, happened in, you and that Hamlin guy were so crazy about—"

"Crazy about," blazed Marian. "I wish I'd had sense enough to be crazy about him. He at least had brains enough to read character, something you haven't. Oh I know I have this coming to me, but even at that... suppose I am jealous of a woman without honor, how does any of this affect what McSwain has just done?"

"I don't know that McSwain had anything to do with this letter stealing... providing there was a letter stolen," Lon said evenly. "He told me, when I said you had not fussed at my working for him, that I might expect some melodrama from you."

"DO YOU mean you think I have worked this up merely to... to cause a scene?" she asked in incredulous tones.

"No, I think you're merely the tool in the hands of some clever crooks who'll do anything to keep McSwain from building the East Brazos High school."

He rose as if to go—"I'm going to bed," he said.

For many moments Marian sat staring at the door which had closed behind him, trying to reconcile herself to this changed man. Not a trace of the old lovable Lon about him. Of course, all married people quarreled, but could the memories of such a quarrel as this ever be erased?

"Jealous of Silver," Marian hadn't been sporting in Nevada, had been crazy about Hamlin. She remembered how Hamlin had tried to warn her; how he'd given her the letter to use in her own defense and she'd been "too honorable" to use it.

Suppose she were to go to Hamlin now, ask him to talk to Lon, to tell him the truth of what had occurred in the cabin the night Cliff Hondon lay dying, would Lon believe?

She questioned it. However, if she could connect McSwain and Silver with the stealing of that letter and with sending the false wires, he would at least know the truth.

Now she would go in and make up with him. She went to the bedroom door, opened it. Lon was lying on the bed still dressed, sleeping sound.

Editor Turned Author Writes Newspaper Credo

By JOHN SELBY
New York.—(AP)—Stanley Walker is the boy from Lampasas, Tex., who has proved that a city editor can write.

From Lampasas Mr. Walker went to the University of Texas, and after a period spent on the lesser jobs of journalism arrived on the New York Herald Tribune as a re-write man. It was not long before he was city editor, and finally one of the best known city editors in the land.

He does on occasion sleep in his home in Great Neck, L. I. But he lives in the city room of the Herald Tribune.

Mr. Walker is a man of, to use one of the cliches Mr. Walker disapproves violently, "middle height." He walks rather slowly, softly, and because he carries his head somewhat forward, he gives the impres-

Hates 'Stuffed Shirts'
As ruler of one of the busiest city desks in the world he is deceptively calm. His reporters may fear him, but if so, they conceal the fear nobly. He speaks quietly, often in such a low voice he can only just be heard. He hates "stuffed shirts," professional reformers, and endures press agents because he can't think up a scheme to get rid of them.

A year ago this literary city editor wrote a book called "Night Club Era," which told the story of New York's now dimmed night life. Now he has written of something much closer to the Walker heart in "City Editor."

A Washington Day Book
By HUBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—That veteran of political campaigns—Senator Norris of Nebraska—will have a special interest in what happens on November 6 this year.

"Old George," as he is affectionately called on Capitol Hill, will be more interested on this general election day in an issue (his own, incidentally) than in candidates for office either in or out of Nebraska.

He is a man of great intellect. He is a man of great intellect. He is a man of great intellect.

He is a man of great intellect. He is a man of great intellect. He is a man of great intellect.

JUDGE ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Roscoe Luke, city court judge at Thomasville, Ga., and former member of the Georgia court of appeals, is shown as he went on trial at Thomasville, charged with the murder of Oscar Groover, a business associate. Judge Luke was president of a Building and Loan association of which Groover was secretary-treasurer, and following the shooting of Groover on a downtown street, Luke said he "accidentally killed his best friend." The voters of Nebraska will have the opportunity on November 6 of either accepting or rejecting a "Norris" more far-reaching than any he yet has proposed.

Norris has induced the Nebraska electorate to decide whether it wants to retain its present bicameral system of government or make it unicameral.

One-House Legislature
Stated another way, Norris wants legislation. It's been a dream of his almost from the time he entered public life.

What Nebraska voters do on November 6th interests the nation because Norris has intimated that if his plan is adopted there he may ask Congress to re-organize its Senate and House into a single body.

It would take a constitutional amendment, approved by two-thirds of the States, to do it, but "Old George" is accustomed to such procedure.

His "lame duck" amendment to the constitution was side-tracked time and again, but finally adopted. And his fight to abolish the electoral college has been endorsed by the White House.

Aside from the fact that it is his pet theory of government, Norris would extend the idea nationally be-

FRIDAY

6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will entertain the teachers of the city schools, at the Woman's Club.

SATURDAY

3:30 p. m.—The Alumnae of East Carolina Teachers College will meet in the music room in the Austin building at the college.

3:30 to 5:30 p. m.—Mrs. J. H. Rose and Mrs. J. Key Brown will entertain at tea in the Woman's Club.

Auditorium will be reserved for the town people of Greenville. The students are admitted on their student ticket.

These plays are being produced under the direction of Miss Mary Dirnberger, who is supervisor of a FERA project in the community drama and is teacher of a class in dramatics in the college.

Barbre-McGowan. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hugh McGowan announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice Elizabeth, to Mr. William Davis Barbre, of Kingston, the wedding to take place in December.

At Presbyterian Church Sunday. Rev. Robert C. Grady of Wilmington, will preach at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, October 28th, at the eleven o'clock service.

Frank Potato. The latest addition to our freak potato collection is an Irish potato with the head as features of a baby. The potato was raised at the County Home by Superintendent Joe Harris.

Dr. Meadows on Program. President L. R. Meadows spoke to the Federated Clubs, of Washington County which met in Roper High School yesterday afternoon. The theme of his talk was the pressing educational needs of Eastern North Carolina. His speech was the principal one on the program. Several talks were made concerning the needs of the community. During the afternoon the past year's work of the clubs was summarized and the coming year's work outlined.

One-Act Plays At College. Fifteen students at East Carolina Teachers College have been rehearsing and busy at work preparing for the production of three one-act plays which are to be given through the cooperation of the FERA and the Student Entertainment Committee. They will be presented on Friday evening, Nov. 2, at eight o'clock.

"Counsel Attained," a play of the 18th century, by Constance and D'Arcy Mackaye, appears first on the bill. The part of Peg Woffington, a favorite of the London stage, will be played by Rebecca Noell. Jack Humphries is cast as Edmund Burke, a struggling young lawyer. Ray Hassell appears as Dick Greville. Billy Nesbit, a designer for Blount-Harvey Co., has charge of the staging, and Miss Flora Teague is looking after the costumes.

The second play "Cloey," was written by Mrs. Loretta Carrol Bailey of Chapel Hill. The sense of impending tragedy which pervades "Joe's Kinfolks" and "Strike Song" is present in this work dealing with the Winston-Salem of 20 years ago. Mrs. Molsinger will be played by Miss Rowena Dickinson. Billy Tolson of Greenville, appears as Joseph. Hazel Britt will play the title role. Onie Cochran, a student in Miss Dirnberger's class in play production, is acting as assistant director. The setting and costumes are in charge of Helen Lassiter.

"Third Verse," a sparkling comedy written around a small town newspaper, will complete the evening's entertainment. Phyllis is being interpreted by Miss Sue Elizabeth Smith, of Fountain. Miss Mary Carson McGee is cast in the part of Aunt Flo Afton. Mrs. Holmes, self-appointed society leader of Godwin's four hundred, is being played by Miss Frances Watson. For this play Miss Linelle Clarke has been selected as assistant director. Miss Minnie Malloy will design the scenery and supervise the costuming.

A section of seats in the Austin and lots of new ones also. Just a word—what has become of our teachers, just stop for at least a moment and think, how we are handicapped and where to take hold of. Although the girls class is fully determined not to let their die out and are going to do their best to see it come to the front once more. We members are saying once more, do be on time and come regular. All who did not come Sunday did indeed miss something worthy of great consideration and deep thought. We had as our teacher Professor Leon Couch and good wife (formerly Miss Ruth Worthington of our class). She is greatly missed in our church work, especially at the piano and entire Sunday School. They pay us a visit once in a while and sure they are welcome in our midst. They are very busy with school work up at Eureka and owing to the distance can't make the trip too often. But not only the classes extend them a hearty welcome, but speaking for the entire Sunday School as a whole, come as often as you both can, and indeed a hearty welcome.

Prof. Couch began Sunday by explaining the word prayer. It was a beautiful subject, it should appeal to every individual and be given much thought. His first through was, when will everyone see the need of prayer? Some pray when they see no other way out. Mostly the man on the street, in plain words, the man that knows he is not a Christian. The Christian quite differently looks at life from an entirely different point. He not only feels it his duty but wants to keep his wires always open, and the pain we should ever keep in mind—are we living right for God an answer our prayer, does He hear us or not? If the heart directs us our wire did not go through, then where is the trouble on the wire? He also gave a beautiful talk to the whole Sunday School that was worth much to us all.

Everybody has an invitation to be with us next Sunday. We never know when unexpected speakers will be present, so see for yourselves who it might be. The watch is to be given away and see who the winner is. It was wound up last Sunday and surely it has run down by now.

Mrs. Jesse R. Tripp is visiting her parents in Clinton this week. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fletcher and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Braxton and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Will Tripp Sunday.

Mrs. W. J. Braxton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sallie Avery, who has been feeble for some time, but is very gradually improving.

Friends of Mr. Luke Mills will be glad to know that she is getting along nicely.

Among the sick list are Miss Sadie May, Mrs. Cora Little and Mrs. Callie Tripp.

Mr. Jesse R. Tripp returned from Clinton Monday.

Mrs. Nannie Little has returned home after spending last week with her son near Ayden.

Mrs. Lou Johnson of near Kingston and Mr. Floyd Johnson spent Sunday afternoon visiting in the home of Mrs. Nannie Little. We are glad to say Mr. Charlie Little who has been sick for quite a while, is improving very fast. Mr. Arthur Davenport was recently married. It seems as if they are intending to keep on ringing wedding bells in our little vicinity. Our vicinity was indeed saddened by the death of Mr. Ad Waters last Friday morning. Surely we have lost a good man and will be greatly missed not only by his people but the entire neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Ola Rae Waters and children visited his mother, Mrs. Ad Waters Sunday.

Woolard Retrns From Bankers Meet

W. H. Woolard, executive vice-president of Greenville Bank and Trust Company, who has just returned from the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association held in Washington, D. C., stated today that while there were some few flare-ups, on the whole, the convention was one of the best in years and there was no doubt that the bankers were on the whole determined to co-operate fully with the government in the efforts to bring about better conditions throughout the country. While there was a feeling of optimism for all sections of the country, Mr. Woolard said this immediate section of North Carolina stands out as one of the nation's most prosperous spots at this time. Recent articles published in this and other papers regarding the large gains in bank deposits in this county since the opening of the tobacco markets, Mr. Woolard said, were called to his attention by bankers from various sections of the country. The theme of the whole convention, Mr. Woolard said, revolved around a better understanding and closer co-operation for the common good.

STEERING WHEEL JAMS, DRIVER SERIOUSLY HURT

Belhaven, Oct. 26.—Louis Sullivan of Princeton, is in a serious condition due to injuries received on Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock when the lumber truck which he was driving left the road at the intersection of highway 91 and the old Hasl Inroad about two miles east of this place, jumped the ditch causing the lumber to jam, through the front seat, crushing him against the windshield and cutting him badly about the face, injuring an eye.

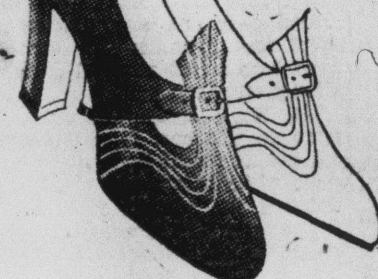

He was brought here by Hilton Carawan of Pantego, who happened along the highway at the time of the accident. Sullivan stated that about the time he began to take the curve at this point, the steering wheel of the truck refused to work and the truck went heading across the ditch.

IT MAKES US TIRED

Already the forces opposed to payment of the veterans' adjusted service certificates are organized to fight the movement with the ultimate result that Congress will have to override a Presidential veto if the ex-service men are to get their money, but even in the face of these obstacles it is to be hoped that the American Legion and others veterans' organizations will carry their fight to a successful completion.

We feel that the Legion is right in its contention that the payment at this time will do much toward recovery, for certainly the money will reach every section of the country in the way of distribution and will give the needed buying power that the country so much lacks at this time.

Then too we do not see why there should be continued organized opposition to the payment of money justly due the service men when everyone else who had a part in the war was paid and paid well during and immediately after the war while it took the country seven years to admit by congress-sional action that it was indebted to the soldiers, and then all the soldiers got was a promise to pay 20 years later.

When the war was over there seemed to be little opposition to the country's paying over to the railroads two billion dollars in the way of adjusted compensation despite the fact that the government during the war had operated the railroads and paid high wages and salaries, even including those of the railroad executives.

There was likewise no howl when the government paid over to the steel companies and munition manufacturers another two billion dollars in adjusted compensation despite the fact that those companies had cleaned up millions upon millions of dollars out of the war. There was likewise no howl when the government gave France and other allies ten billion dollars adjusted compensation in the way of scaling down their indebtedness to this country. Was there any howl when a special bill was put through Congress raising the pay of conscientious objectors who refused to do military duty to a scale of civilian pay of around $8 per day in building work, while the soldiers served for $1 per day? These are just some of the actions taken by our government in the way of adjusted compensation right after the war and everybody evidently thought it was a fine plan for there was no organized movement against it, but finally when the time came for the men, who had served on the battle fields while the others got rich out of the war, asked for adjusted compensation then immediately there went up a howl that the soldiers were unpatriotic, mercenary and wanted the government to give them something. And since that day there has been an organized fight against paying the soldiers, not a bonus, as it is usually termed, but a sum that is due them to help in a small way to equalize their position with those who waxed rich out of the war while a great number of the men faced a literal Hell on Earth for the protection of those who remained behind.

There are many ex-service men who are in actual need of this money now and certainly it would do much good toward aiding in recovery of the country as a whole, but whether or not the ex-service men get their money now or ever, we are certainly tired of hearing people who stayed at home and got rich out of the war referring to the efforts of the ex-service men to collect what is by rights theirs as if they were a bunch of beggars looking a handout from a charitable government.

The United States produces more than half the electrical goods of the world and Europe—about 43 per cent.

Living bacteria can be found in bituminous coal at a depth of more

government operation of radio broadcasting.

An inference was established somewhere the Reeves was speaking for TVA. Republican quarters rared back and started snorting about the iniquities of turning radio into an all-powerful government propaganda mill.

The White House was quick to jump on this one. It was pointed out that President Roosevelt only a short while before had specifically endorsed the present radio setup and commercial broadcasting—the first time an Executive had ever done so publicly. Reeves, it was stated emphatically, was speaking for himself as an individual. Reporters got an impression the TVA Personnel Chief may not be long in the New Deal world.

Otherwise all quiet along the Po-tomic. The hum of activity right after election probably will sound like an aerial armada flying at 500 feet.

Mooney: As a result of the findings of the McCormack-Dickstein Committee which has been probing evidence of anti-American activities, insiders predict the next Congress will be asked to adopt a bill making it a felony to advocate either orally or in writing, overthrow of the government by force.

Those who have been following the investigation from coast to coast expect the Committee to make such a recommendation an outstanding feature of its report.
The proposed law would be patterned after a New York State statute known as the Gitlow law which was upheld some years back by the U.
S. Supreme Court.

In this connection it is an interesting commentary that Volney Mooney, Jr., National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans, served as counsel for the McCormack-Dickstein Committee while it was looking into Communism and Nazism on the West Coast. The annual convention of the DVA endorsed such a bill and instructed Mooney to work through all possible channels to have it enacted next session. He seems to have got off to a fair start.

Cooperation: One bit of irony has just come to light in connection with Hitler's Jewish attitude. The State Department hears there is no German boycott of the Semites when it comes to parking secret stores of munitions—a Jewish firm in Hamburg being the keepers of a considerable stock of rifles, machine guns and light artillery in violation of the Versailles Treaty.

Our diplomatic sources are probing the report of a secret five-year alliance between Germany and Japan involving east-west cooperation.

yarn but the able men who run Ja-tions for any near future.

By JAMES McMULLIN
New York, Oct. 25—Hole: New Deal's prestige is seriously at stake in the oil crisis. Unless Administrator Ickes acts P. D. Q. to check the flow from East Texas federal oil control is headed for a most inelo-gous flop. The gasoline price war now raging in a number of states traces directly to the futility of government efforts to clamp down on the hot oil boys. No business group in the country has thumbed its nose at Washington so consistently and with such complete impunity.

Everybody in the oil game knows this and leaders in other industries are beginning to notice it. You hear it said: "One little word from Ickes about what to do—and the oil men do as they damn please." New Deal critics wonder openly whether any of the administration's gestures toward industrial regulation amount to more than imposing ball-cents—to be punctured at will by individualists bold enough to try.

Informed New Yorkers believe that FDR is in for more grief than Job ever knew if the rebels against regimentation really sell themselves this idea. They insist that Mr.
Ickes has plenty of power he hasn't even tried to use and say he better get busy with the whip before he puts his boss in too deep a hole.

Hercules: The odd part of it is that the large oil companies have been more willing to play along with the government than big corporations in any other industry. Production restrictions and price stability were OK with them from the start. But for the past few months

Clean-up: New York conservatives were greatly pleased with the appointment of Edward S. Settinus as a sort of personal officer for the revised NRA. His previous service under General Johnson gives him a valuable background and he will be a key man in reshaping the administrative authority to fit industry's ideas.

Note that Settinus is regularly employed by U. S. Steel—which loaned him for this particular job.
That gives a clue to where he stands on self-government for industry. Big Steel isn't encouraging any development that smack even remotely of more rigid control. Insiders rate it significant that the choice of Settinus for the post was evidently approved by the administration.
Informed New Yorkers understand that Clay Williams—chairman of NRA administrative board—and Settinus are in full accord about what to be done. A thorough housecleaning is in prospect. It's even possible that the entire NRA staff may be fired en masse—and then those members rehired whose outlook and abilities fit the new picture. No "radicals" need apply.
Keen observers interpret this as one more indication that FDR is going to give business its head for a while but they also believe that business will have to express its appreciation in terms of greater activity and increased employment if it doesn't want the next Congress on its neck like a ton of bricks.
Collapse: The pathetic futility of the gold bloc conference at Brussels was due to a freezing fear of positive action—especially in the monetary line—which haunts the participating nations. Each is confronted by rising internal tension and any kind of spark might set off the powder barrel. Therefore the governments are trying to avoid all sparks.

The French desire to win England's favor by remaining on gold as long as possible was also a factor.
Financial insiders learn that Belgium seize the occasion to ask big brother France for another loan—which was refused. Belgium's financial condition is desperate and the cabinet may fall at any time. If it does it will probably take the gold standard with it.

Agitation for devaluation is also making headway in Holland. The secession of either Holland or Belgium from the gold bloc would mean the collapse of France's monetary and political house of cards.

Poser: A New Yorker endowed with a large waist line was named not long ago to an important government post. He found that the services of a physician were among the prerequisites of his new office.

His friends tell the story that he summoned the doctor and asked him if he wanted to keep his job.
The doctor said yes. "All right," said the official, "then it's up to you to take off this excess weight. But I won't diet and I haven't got time to exercise." The doctor is thinking of taking up another profession.

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—Political observers here have felt all along that if Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, decided to take the stump this fall in support of "new deal" candidates, Indiana would be one of his first ports of call.

The Senate's other Robinson—the Republican Arthur—is waging the fight of his life in the Hoosier State for re-election. Joe's first choice of States was Arkansas.

The two Robinson's were among the Senate's best headlines in the last Congress. Even Huey Long was forced to take a back seat on several occasions when those two locked horns in debate.

Indiana's Robinson let no opportunity of attacking the "new deal" and the Roosevelt administration go by. And invariably, Arkansas' Robinson was there to reply.

Both Good Shouters
At times their exchanges were so heated it looked as though they might come to blows. Both are forceful speakers and good shouters.

The Democratic leader is a stickler for Senatorial dignity and at times it seemed as if this worked to his disadvantage. On the stump, however, it is different.

Robinson's decision to take the stump, following a conference with President Roosevelt, is regarded here as highly significant. He is the first of the Democratic big guns to go into action on a purely political mission. It has been the strategy of the Democratic high command thus far to treat with "new deal" issues rather than personalities.

Robinson frankly announced as he departed for Indiana, New Mexico and Wyoming, that "I am a Democrat and my speeches will be in the interest of Democrats.

Significant Tour
His decision to go to New Mexico where Senator Bronson Cutting, who supported President Roosevelt and much of his program in the last Congress, is running for re-election, is considered important by politicians here.

For a while many believed Senator Cutting, like that other progressive Republican supporter of the "new deal" Hiram Johnson of California, would receive the blessing of the Democrats in his bid for re-election. Robinson's announcement that his efforts in New Mexico will be in behalf of Representative Chavez, a Democrat, is taken here to mean that the administration is determined to elect Democrats wherever possible.

As for Wyoming, his decision to go there is because of Senator O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general under Farley. There has been no hint that O'Mahoney is in difficulty, but for as big a gun as Robinson to go that far may be of real significance.

Milady's Brow Goes In For Fringes

By RITA FERRIS

(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
Paris.—(AP)—Coiffures are creeping over foreheads.

That broad expanse of noble brow which used to be "the thing" looks a bit nude now and fashionables are hastening to cover theirs with a fringe.

That fringe is seen everywhere. It falls over the foreheads of mannequins parading through the big designers' salons, curls across the Rue de la Paix and is swirled to the smart heads which sit under dryers at leading coiffeurs.

Frivol of Curly
Sometimes it's a frivol of curls, sometimes a rather straight bang, but more often just a feathery fringe curled at the tip.

It is the vogue for femininity and elegance and the numerous 1900 touches in the mode which has turned the trick, coiffeurs say. Besides that women were growing a bit weary of dressing their hair in that smooth backward-swept fashion and glad to turn to something different.

Napes Are Bare Even those who do not care for the fringe effect or who find it unbecoming are dressing their hair to fall in soft waves across their foreheads instead of being swept back from it.

If foreheads are often partially covered these days, napes of the neck are bare. Leading coiffeurs here are dressing smart heads with the hair swept upward in the back and curled close to the head or arranged in a series of close little curls at the nape of the neck. The smartest women are no longer wearing soft curls falling down on the nape of their necks. This is partially because of the large hats which demand a trim hairline.

DUKE RISKS ITS RECORD TOMORROW

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 26.—With the arrival of Duke's Blue Devils here this morning and the final workout of the two teams on Shields-Walkins field this afternoon, the stage was set for the feature game of the South this week-end, the annual engagement between Wallace Wade's Duke Blue Devils and Bob Neyland's Tennessee Vols. The kick-off will be at 2 o'clock (Central Time).

The Vols were in the best of physical condition for the battle. Phil Dickens, triple-threat halfback, who received a broken nose in the game with Alabama, is expected to see action. He will wear a helmet designed to protect his injury.

Coach Wade did not know today whether his star captain and guard, Jack Dunlap, would be able to start. Dunlap, one of the finest guards in the South, sustained a leg injury in the Duke- Davidson game last week and has been unable to practice this week.

The game promises to be another of those great Duke-Tennessee gridiron contests. For the past two years the games have been thrillingly close—Tennessee winning in 1932, 1933, and Duke last year, 1934.

Flying Aces To Put On Show At Kinston Sunday

Featuring many acts never before shown here, the Flying Aces, consisting of fifteen nationally known women and men pilots and stunt performers, will stage their famous air circus at the Kinston airport Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the American Legion.

The Flying Aces who are on their ninth transcontinental tour have shown in all the leading cities of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Fifteen acts in all are listed on the two-hour program that is scheduled to start promptly at 3 p. m. with the outstanding act a 10,000-foot delayed parachute drop by Herb Bassett, who releases a stream of flour as he leaves the two-mile high plane to enable spectators to follow his downward plunge back to earth. Bassett claims to be one of two living men ever to attempt this kind of a jump.

In another feature act Miss Martin will stand on the top wing while the pilot puts the plane through a series of loops and barrel-rolls.

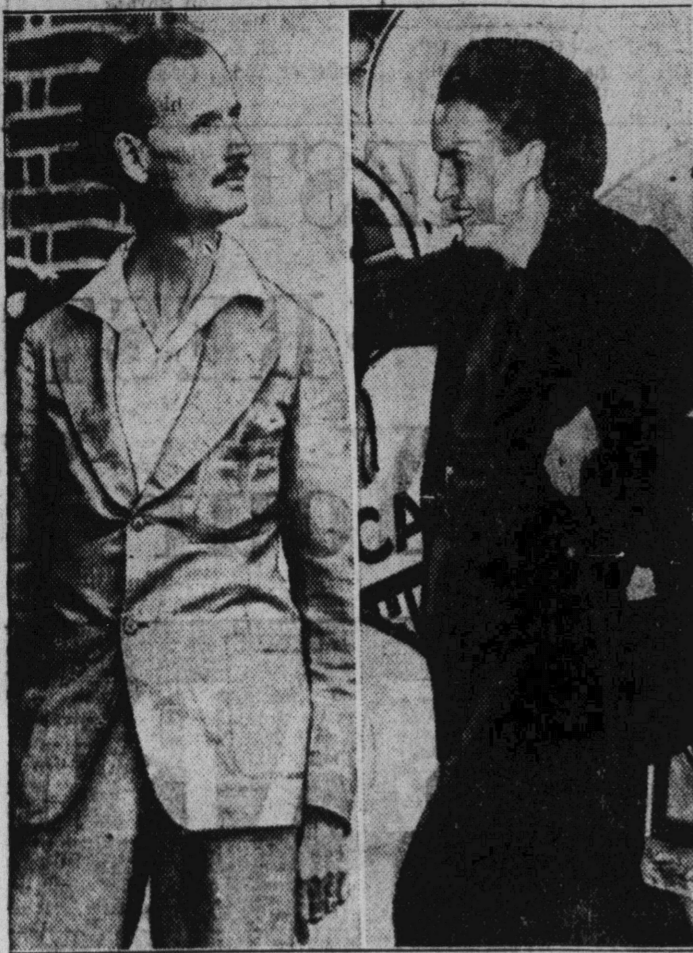

Other pilots and performers will thrill with stunting exhibitions, the bombing of an automobile from the air, races, upside down flying, stunting and landing planes with motors completely shut off, and many other thrills.

On the ground P. H. Cunningham will ride a speeding motorcycle through a solid inch blazing board wall.

The Kinston Legion is making preparations to handle what is expected to be one of the largest crowds ever to witness an event of its kind in this section of the State.

Patrol wagons are now being built with cooling systems installed in them. This will make it possible to see the boys in the cooler even before they are in jail.

CAROLINA AND STATE ALL SET FOR BATTLE

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 26.—With the two teams stacking up on approximately even terms and pointing everything to a victory, and with the new coaches, Carl Snavely and Hunk Anderson, expected to pen wide their bag of tricks in their first meeting on the gridiron, the dope today was for another dogged and brilliantly contested game when Carolina and State eleven clash in their annually classic brotherly battle here tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

The two ends, Bill Moore of Carolina and Dominic Cara of State, were the only players on the injured list, and capable substitutes were ready in Odell Childers and co-captain Ken Stephens, as the two eleven made ready to take their light drills, topping an intensive week of preparation.

With a pretty day, indications were for the largest crowd of the home season to date. The brotherly battle has always drawn well in the past, and this year's game is attracting double the usual interest due to the fact that it will bring the two famous coaches together for the first time and will determine which team is to fight it out with Duke for the Big Five title.

The crowd will include a large delegation of fair rooters from Woman's College and another from St. Mary's in Raleigh. A good representation is also expected from one of the other Big Five schools, as Duke, Davidson and Wake Forest all are playing out of the State this week-end. The game will match a long line of stars in a series of feature duels which may go a long way toward stalling who's who when the time rolls around to pick the All-States. The outstanding candidates include veteran linemen as Barclay, Kohn, and Tatum of Carolina, and Sabol, Redding, and Dougherty of State and such brilliant backs as Shaffer, Jackson, and Snyder for the Tar Heels and Rex, Farrar and Hayden for the Wolfpack.

Captain Barclay, Carolina's jack-of-all-trades, is making a great bid for All-American. Shaffer's running and punting have been another brilliant feature of Carolina's recent games. Charlie averaged 45 yards a boot last week. Rex of State is almost a team in himself. The 215-pound fullback, who steps the 100 in ten seconds, gained almost all State's ground against Carolina last year single-handed. Farrar does the State kicking and, with Hayden, the passing.

Carolina's margin of victory last year was 6-0 for the varsity and 9-7 for the Freshman game, showing how closely the two teams should be matched. For both teams have most of their veterans back from 1933, including seven of the boys who started the game on each side, plus a coterie of new lights.

The dope is that the Wolfpack has been playing in hard luck and under form, but will be at its fighting peak for Carolina.

Probable line-ups:

State, co-captains Stephens and Redding, ends; Isaacs and Daugherty, tackles; Stanko and Worth, guards; Sabol, center; McCulley, quarter; Farrar and R. Roy or Bardes, halfbacks, and Rex, full. Carolina—Buck and Childers, ends; Tatum and Evans, tackles; Captain Barclay and Kahn, guards; Daniel, center; Snyder, blocking back; Dashiell and Chaffer, halfback, and Hutchins, full.

The Banished Bears

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
When the gipsies, and the other Puddle Muddlers awoke and saw what the bears had eaten, the gipsies were in a rage, Willy Nilly was alarmed.

The gipsies got sticks and started going after the bears but the bears were too quick for them.

"You'll never eat another mouthful that you'll be able to swallow!" cried the old gipsy woman as she discovered she couldn't catch the bears any more than could the others. In spite of her age, she had gone after them harder than the rest of the gipsies, and had just missed them with a knotted old stick she had found. But she would see that they were followed by the bad luck she would wish them.

"You'll grow thin and waste away because you cannot eat!" she cried. "I, old gipsy woman, say so!" Willy Nilly was very much worried. He whispered to Rip to go back to Puddle Muddle and bring a basket of food to the gipsies and then he thought he might persuade the old gipsy woman to remove the bad luck she had wished on the bears. He began telling her what he would do for her.

But in the meantime the bears were back in Puddle Muddle. They thought they had had enough to eat so they could go to sleep, and by springtime the bad luck might, possibly, escape them.

They tried to sleep, but they still needed more food. "I'll just take these few nuts and see what happens," said Jelly Bear.

The other bears decided they would do the same. Hunger was a stronger feeling than fear with them now. But they were very nervous as they began eating the nuts.

British Population Drop Forecast In Medical Journal

London.—(AP)—There will be 11,000,000 fewer people in Great Britain in 1976, according to "The Lancet," a leading British medical journal. A steady fall in the birth-rate during the last sixty years, together with the prolongation of the span of average life, has resulted in fewer young and more old people in the country than formerly, it is declared.

"The old people will begin to die in increasing numbers in the near future," The Lancet says. "When this happens, the death rate will rise above the birth rate, and the population will, apart from the effects of migration, begin to decline.

When the population has fallen to 28,656,600, the journal predicts frantic efforts to arrest the decline. The methods adopted, it says, will embrace free medical services for children, maternity leave for married wage-earning women, and a striking
