U. S. PROPOSES TO 'BOTTLE UP' ARMS TRADE

Move To Limit Power Holding Companies Bold Attempt Made Today At Geneva Confab

EXPERTS PLAN TO RECOMMEND ACTION SOON

Legislation to Probably be Sought of President Roosevelt For Holding Power Stock Companies Within Bounds; Sub-Committee Studying Subject

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—An authoritative source disclosed today that laws to limit the stature and might of giant holding companies in the power business probably will be recommended to President Roosevelt by his power experts.

Regulations of holding companies—corporations which hold the shares of operating utilities—is an objective of national power commission named by President Roosevelt to recommend a power policy to him.

A commission sub-committee studying this subject is headed by Robert Healey, who directed most of the Federal Trade Commission's six-year inquiry into utilities and who is not on the Securities Exchange Commission.

Although a legislative program has not been drafted and the President's attitude has not been disclosed, the sub-committee was authoritatively reported to be thinking along these lines.

No more than one holding company should be superimposed on a group of operating companies. At present some holding companies are in turn held by other holding companies. The experts believe this is an uneconomic.

The power resources which one holding company may control should be limited. Natural gas and electric companies should be divorced. In many instances holding companies control another kind of utility. This leads, in the opinion of the exchange, to reduce use of the great natural gas resources.

NOTORIOUS CONVICT CAUGHT, SHOT IN LEG

Charlotte, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Cecil Godfrey, 27, described by Chief of Police Ed Pittman as a notorious safecracker and escaped convict, was shot and captured by police here yesterday.

Patrolmen McHam and John White sighted Godfrey on a street here and gave chase. A shot fired by one of the officers wounded him in the leg.

Pittman said Godfrey was sentenced at Rockingham some time ago to ten years for robbery and safe-cracking. He escaped from a prison camp near Cary several weeks ago.

WILL FACE CHARGES OF SHOOTING TO KILL

Laurinburg, Nov. 20.—R. A. Baker 35, of south Scotland county jailed here last night charged with shooting at Oliver R. Brumble, 45, a mill worker, will face intent to kill charges in a hearing here tomorrow. Brumble said Baker fired at him through the automobile windshield twice. Brumble, unhurt, said he slumped in the seat to escape the second bullet.

The shooting, which Baker denies, is probably an aftermath, officers say, of a former shooting scrape when Brumble killed a man and wounded Baker after Baker had fired on Brumble. Brumble was sent to the State hospital for 18 months as outcome of his trial for the slaying.

HAVE STRENUOUS NIGHT AFTER RESTFUL SUNDAY

Farmville, Nov. 20.—After an unusually peaceful Sunday, local police experience simultaneous calls about 8:30 in the evening and spent a busy night searching for James Reeves, young negro, who shot his sweetheart, Della House, in the neck, and for Herman Eborn, 17, negro, who cut the throat of Joe Jefferson, another youth of his race. In an almost fatal slash, narrowly missing the jugular vein and cutting the windpipe, making eleven stitches necessary to close the wound. Neither of the assailants have as yet been taken into custody.

GROWERS SLOW FILING CARDS

Only About a Third of Marketing Cards Received at the Local Farm Office

Only about a third of the marketing cards held by Pitt County farmers who took part in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's production control campaign had been turned in to the farm department today, it was reported by E. E. Arnold, director of the department.

Mr. Arnold several days ago urged farmers to turn in their cards at his office as soon as they are completed, but he said today growers apparently were in no rush about filing their cards.

Mr. Arnold impressed upon holders of the cards that it would be impossible for them to receive their benefit payment from the government until the cards have been okayed by the local office and forwarded to Washington for final consideration.

As soon as 60 per cent of the cards are on file at the farm office, Mr. Arnold said he would forward them to Washington and that benefit payments would begin moving immediately afterward.

The Farm Director said growers who did not get their cards in the first batch will have to wait until the other 40 per cent are in before they will receive their benefit payments.

The majority of farmers have completed selling their crops, it was believed at the Farm Office, although the marketing season is not over, and it was for this reason growers were asked several days ago to file their cards as soon as they are filed.

Rep. Joe Byrns of Tenn., last session's Democratic floor leader, apparently commands the battle to succeed the late Henry T. Rainey as Speaker.

If you're betting in the winter books, don't overlook the possibility of a combination that will return Sam Rayburn, of Texas, as Speaker; John McCormack, of Mass., as new Majority Floor Leader, and Will Bankhead, of Ala., to continue in his present job as chairman of the powerful House Rules Committee.

NO DATE SET FOR CLOSING OF LEAF MART

Supervisor of Sales Says Local Market Will be Held Open Until Crop is Sold

It was said today that the Greenville tobacco market would remain open until the farmers of this great bright leaf tobacco section have completely disposed of their crop.

The statement was made today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, who said that no definite date had been set for closing of the market and that sales would continue until the entire crop had been sold.

Mr. Cobb urged growers to get their tobacco in shape and market it as rapidly as possible so that such operations will not be retarded by severe cold weather.

Sales yesterday continued light, the report of the supervisor showing that only 226,908 pounds of leaf was sold for which growers received $60,349.07 at an average price of $26.60 per hundred pounds.

The sale yesterday carried the total market poundage to 50,177,268 for which growers were paid $15,864,722.12 at an average of $31.62 per hundred pounds.

The total amount of money paid out during the season was drawing near the huge sum released by the market during the peak year of 1929 and was expected to pass the figure with today's sales.

JURY THROWS NEW LIGHT ON FATAL CRASH

Evidence Reveals Truck Struck Train When Three Local Men Were Killed

The investigation of the Beaufort County coroner's jury today had thrown new light on the train-truck crash three miles east of Grimesland last Friday in which three Pitt County young men were burned to death.

The jury, under the direction of Coroner F. T. Paul, returned a verdict that David R. Ricks, 24, J. T. Dail, 18, both of Greenville and Wm. Bowers, 20, of the Bethel community, met death when the Ricks Transfer Company truck of Greenville in which they were riding crashed into the eastbound Norfolk and Southern passenger train. It had previously been supposed that the train hit the truck which was driven by young Ricks, nephew of R. H. Ricks, owner and operator of the machine on which the three young men were riding.

The verdict resulted from testimony of E. R. Jackson, who was at the throttle of the locomotive when the wreck occurred, and examination of the engine which revealed the fact that the large six wheel truck struck the engine just in front of the driving cylinder, between that and the cow-catcher. Jackson was the only eye-witness.

The jury was composed of citizens of the Chowociny community, a town only a short distance from the scene of the wreck and was empaneled from the crowd which gathered at the scene of the accident. On the jury were T. E. Adams, J. E. Taylor, G. W. Dixon, J. A. Barringer, George McRoy, and Bruce Boyd.

The railroad crosses the Pitt-Beaufort line at the crossing where the young men were killed, and although the truck was struck in Pitt it was thrown into Beaufort County by the force of the impact. This resulted in the Beaufort County coroner having charge of the investigation.

It was stated at the investigation that the impact broke the air hose on the engine and locked the train right at the scene of the fire, where the paint on the first two cars was blistered by the heat. Quick action by the train crew resulted in the train being moved from the scene before damage of any consequence was done.

The engine, however, suffered a bent cylinder and other troubles in the impact, and was exchanged for another locomotive at the Marsden yards.

Jackson suffered a burned hand which required medical treatment at the station. Other members of the train crew returned to Washington Saturday afternoon to testify in the case.

The engineer maintained the crash came so quickly he was unable to say exactly what happened. He related he was traveling about forty miles an hour, and that the truck was going as fast, if not faster. He said the young men made an effort to apply the brakes, but expressed belief the brakes would not hold.

Immediately after the impact, the gasoline tank on the truck exploded spraying the entire truck with fire. The occupants were trapped and are believed to have burned to death, if they were not killed outright by the impact.

Funerals for the youths were held Saturday, Ricks and Dail being buried in Greenville Cemetery and Bowers near Bethel.

DENSE FOG BLANKETS LONDON AND ENVIRONS

London, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The worst fog of the season settled down in a dense pall over London and southeastern England tonight.

The virtual blackout followed upon a day in which this area as well as districts farther north were blanketed in patches with a white and yellow fog which badly hampered rail traffic and vehicular movement.

Nearly a score of persons injured in traffic accidents were taken to hospitals.

All shipping in the Thames estuary was halted and air services from the continent were cancelled. Fog services were put in operation on all rail lines eastward and southward with suburban-tramways traveling in buses and trolleys, crawling laboriously and tardily to their destinations.

PREPARE FOR SEAL DRIVE

Reid Gaskins Named Treasurer of Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Campaign

It was announced today that Reid Gaskins, assistant cashier of the State Bank and Trust Company had been appointed treasurer of the Tuberculosis Christmas seal campaign which will swing open here after Thanksgiving.

The selection of Mr. Gaskins for this post was announced today by members of the executive committee who were named at an organization meeting held here the latter part of last week. R. M. Garrett is head of the executive committee.

The Women's clubs of Pitt county along with Rotary and Kiwanis organizations have been asked to take part in the campaign in an effort to sell as many of the seals as possible. Seventy-five per cent of the money derived from sales will remain in this county to carry on tuberculosis work and the other 25 per cent will be sent to the national organization.

Pitt county has always done her part by seal sales but it was expected the drive this year would be the most successful in years by reason of the improved financial situation prevailing here and in other parts of the great tobacco belt.

Members of the organization were optimistic over the outlook for success at the initial meeting last week, and expressed hope the entire community would rally behind the campaign and help put it over in a great way.

The fight on tuberculosis is one of the most extensive facing the nation at this time and with greater funds made possible through seal sales it is hoped to reduce the spread of tuberculosis to 'little extent.'

The need of money for this purpose in Pitt county has been very imperative the last few years because of the constant increase in the disease, especially among colored people. Several times warnings have been issued by the Department of Health, it being declared that the situation was really becoming serious and demanded the attention of people interested in saving human lives.

Washington Man Dies Following Stroke Paralysis

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jones were called to Washington today on account of the death of Mrs. Jones' brother, D. M. Lewis, who died last night from a stroke of paralysis, the third he had suffered during the last several months.

Funeral services were conducted from the late home this afternoon and burial was made in the Washington cemetery.

Mr. Lewis was a native of Washington and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends who received news of his death with sorrow.

WAYNE SLAYER CONFESSES AT STATE PRISON

Rufus Satterfield Tells Goldsboro Officer He Killed Herbert Grice

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—L. O. Rhodes, Goldsboro detective, today said Rufus Satterfield, confessed to himself and two other officers in Raleigh last night that he fired the shot that killed Herbert Grice here October 22, 1933.

Grice, shot down at his home here allegedly from ambush, was an iron worker.

Satterfield had been condemned to the electric chair for the slaying, but was reprieved following a statement last month that Donald Sasser, brother of Mrs. Price, actually was the slayer, but that the shooting was accidental.

Rhodes said Satterfield wrote him he still had the case on his mind and wanted to talk it over. Rhodes went to Raleigh and said Satterfield made his statement before himself, H. B. Gardner, a deputy sheriff, and Bowen Dorsey, at State Prison.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Rufus Satterfield, facing death in the electric chair for the alleged murder of Herbert Grice at Goldsboro, sat in his cell on Death Row today and said: "I don't want to discuss it," upon being asked if he had made a confession in which he said he had fired the shot which killed Grice.

A month ago Satterfield gave Edwin Gill, Parole Commissioner, a statement, asserting that Donald Sasser, brother-in-law of Grice, had done the killing.

"I don't see any need for me to make any statement about it or to discuss it at all," Satterfield said this morning.

"It worried me a lot. I got the headache and don't want to say anything."

When asked if he thought any statement made by Detective Rhodes of Goldsboro would be correct, he replied:

"Whatever Mr. Rhodes of Mr. Gardner or Dorsey say will be all right. I don't doubt that any of them will tell it wrong."

H. B. Gardner, deputy sheriff, and Bowen Dorsey of the State Prison staff were with Rhodes when he interviewed Satterfield for several hours yesterday and last night. Dorsey was out of the city today.

CIVIL COURT DOWN AT WORK

Several Actions Disposed of in the Opening Day Session Here Yesterday

Several cases were disposed of in the one week term of civil Superior court which opened in this city yesterday morning with Judge G. V. Cowper of Kingston, presiding.

There are approximately forty cases on the calendar for the week and the majority are expected to be cleared away before adjournment the latter part of the week.

J. E. Winslow, of Greenville, was awarded judgments for approximately $850 in a note suit against C. W. Pool of Craven county. Four notes ranging from $150 to $300 each were involved in the case. The jury returned a verdict for the full amount involved in the action.

Henry Cooper obtained a divorce against his wife Nettie Cooper, on the grounds of two years' separation. They were divorced.

After considerable time had been taken up in the presentation of evidence, mistrial was ordered in the ejectment suit of P. L. Goodson against Arthur Blow. The action was taken by Judge Cowper for the purpose of bringing in other parties involved in the action so that all could be handled at one time.

A good part of the day was required in the hearing of the ejectment proceedings and note action and court was adjourned until this morning immediately following the order of mistrial in the ejectment case.

Salem Farmer Killed While Out Hunting

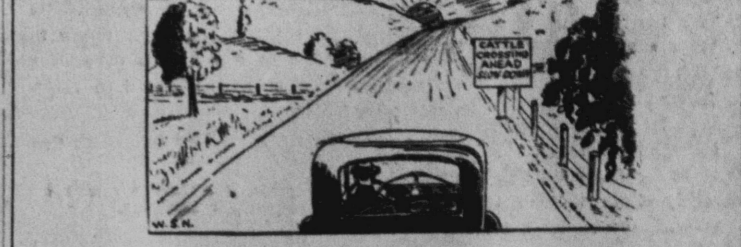

Clarence J. Breedlove, 52, prominent farmer of Salem, near Oxford, and brother-in-law of W. L. Rice of Greenville, was killed accidentally Monday afternoon when the gun he was carrying discharged, sending the entire load into his body. Mr. Breedlove was on a hunting trip with Harold Cottrell, also of the Salem community, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Rice was advised of the death by telegraph today and immediately left for Oxford to attend the funeral which will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Deceased is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Maggie Rice, and the following children: Mrs. Harold O'Brian, Miss Margaret Breedlove, Linwood Breedlove, Bailey Breedlove, Salem; Thomas Breedlove, U. S. Army, Honolulu; two brothers, Calvin H. Breedlove, Oscar B. Breedlove, Oxford, and two sisters, Mrs. R. I. Hart and Mrs. S. D. Holman, Salem.

A Brooklyn College editor attacked football as a commercial proposition, but the records show that only seven paid admissions were reported at the recent Brooklyn-Arnold game.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

BEWARE THE CROSSROAD

You speed along the rural highway—the road is clear, wide, apparently safe—you haven't a care. Look out then for those innocent looking little roads and lanes that feed in from adjoining farms. Be especially careful in the early morning and evening. It isn't altogether the danger of another car coming out upon the main highway. Cattle seem to delight in this practice and old Bossie knows absolutely nothing about traffic rules, right of way or self preservation.

HIGHWAYS IN BAD CONDITION

With the surplus in the highway department treasury very much the subject of conversation and all kinds of plans being made for diverting it to other departments, we suggest that first some attention be given to the deplorable condition that our highways are getting into. Many of the strictly rural roads are getting into the worse shape than they have been in in sometime and with the winter season and bad weather just ahead some of the roads will no doubt become impassable unless given attention. And not only are the dirt roads getting in bad shape, for along most of our main highways the shoulders are full of ruts and holes and dangerous to travel. It has been stated that the reason these roads are not receiving the proper attention is because the legislature limited the amount that the highway commission could spend for upkeep and the amount was not sufficient to properly care for the highways. If this is why the highways are in their present bad condition it is to be hoped that the next legislature will see to it that the limits of expenditures are so increased as to assure adequate upkeep and then see to it that the money is spent in such a way that the people of our state will get the most value for their money in the way of better roads.

It seems to us that keeping up the roads we already have is the first duty of the highway body and this should come first. The next step should be to refund to those counties that financed highways, now a part of the state system, a certain portion of the department's surplus to aid these counties to pay the outstanding bonds on these highways. Under no circumstances should money collected for highways be used other than to build, keep up and pay for highways already built, nor should automobile and gasoline taxes be reduced until all these roads are paid for.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench has been acquitted of the murder of his old schoolmate Osborne. Somewhat shaken, he returns to a tea room near the prison to read a letter from his cousin, Sir Seymour; he does not feel that the letter compensates for his cousin's silence throughout the trial. A man and woman enter the room, and begin discussing the Trench trial, which the man has attended.

Chapter Four
NICHOLAS' PROTEST

FOR a moment the conversation was interrupted by the return of the waitress. I sat in grim silence while plates clinked and teacups rattled; then, with the sound of retreating footsteps came my male neighbor's Cockney accents.

"Looked a simple enough business to start with. There wasn't a doubt that the night of the murder Trench had been round at the house. Osborne must have let him in himself, because the servant was out."

"What happened no one rightly knows, but the next morning Osborne was found lying on the carpet with his head hammered to a pulp. The safe in which he kept his papers was open and empty. He'd drawn five hundred pounds in notes from the bank the day before, and that was gone along with the rest."

"Keep him off, Perce," she gasped.

girl. "Trench—I mean. An artist, isn't he—or something of the sort?"

"He's a sculptor—did that funny lookin' statue outside Victoria Station. Great big hefty chap—make two of me. Gosh, he's a lucky devil if ever there was one."

"Why did they let him off?"

"Ask me another! I'd have taken my oath he hadn't an earthly. Why, when they arrested him there he was with the notes in his pocket. Bunked off down to some little place in Essex and trying to get hold of a yacht so as he could slip across to the Continent."

"How did he explain that?"

"Said he was acting as Osborne's agent. Pretty thin sort of a yarn, wasn't it?"

"Well, the jury must have believed him, anyhow."

"The jury! I tell you they were hypnotized by that fellow Barrett. He didn't half make a fine speech—fairly knocked 'em off their perch. If it wasn't for him, Mr. blooming Trench would be swinging in a rope, and between ourselves, that's just about where the blighter ought to be."

A S U D D E N unreasoning anger swept through me. Who was this dirty little skunk, and what right had he got to call me a murderer? I jumped to my feet, upsetting my tea-cup in the process, and almost before I realized what I was doing I had thrust aside the screen.

Two people spun round and two startled faces stared up into mine. One belonged to a weedy looking youth in a blue suit, the other to an anemic damsel with bare arms and heavily rouged lips.

I took a step nearer. "You know a lot about my private affairs, don't you?" I said.

The young man shrank back. His jaw had fallen and he gaped at me in a kind of petrified terror. "It's him!" he whispered.

With a squeal like a frightened rabbit, the girl flung up her arm. "Keep him off, Perce," she gasped. "Don't let him come near me."

collecting my belongings, I retraced my way to the desk.

It was obvious that the honey-haired cashier must have overheard everything, for she took my bill with a shaking hand, and pushed across the change as though I were suffering from the plague. By this time, however, I had more or less recovered my sanity. I picked up the odd coppers without even a second glance at her, and walking quietly to the door began to descend the staircase.

To tell the truth I was already disgusted at my own foolishness. If there was one thing I wished to avoid it was any further public notoriety, and yet here I was, like a complete idiot, thrusting myself into it at the first possible opportunity.

Why on earth had I paid any attention to that garrulous little woman? Why couldn't I have sat tight and finished my tea, instead of making a ridiculous scene, which would doubtless be discussed and exaggerated all over London?

T H E more I reflected upon it the more fatuous my conduct appeared: indeed I was so annoyed with myself that it was not until I reached the pavement that the most disturbing and significant aspect of the whole affair suddenly presented itself.

Was this incident in any way typical of the sort of atmosphere I must be prepared to face—did it represent the general impression which my trial and acquittal had produced upon the ordinary man in the street? Mr. Cresswell had assured me that public agreement with the verdict would be practically unanimous, but it was quite possible that in expressing this opinion he had merely been attempting to cheer me up. After all that pasty-faced youth had sat through the case, and there was no reason for supposing that he was any more stupid or malicious than others of his kind.

If he had come away in the conviction that I was guilty, and that I had only escaped being hanged through the eloquence of my counsel, what grounds had I for expecting a more charitable attitude from the majority of my fellow men?

With this disquieting question in my mind I emerged into the crowded traffic of Ludgate Hill. A neighboring clock showed me that it was twenty minutes past five, and, after hesitating for a second, I decided that as I could hardly avoid an interview with Seymour, I might as well go down to his flat now and get it over.

He had told me in his letter that he would be at home until seven-thirty, and since there was nothing of any particular hurry, it struck me that the outside of a bus would be the most agreeable method of traveling.

To catch one for St. James's street, however, it was necessary to cross the road, and I had just done so and arrived safely on the opposite side, when a raucous-voiced newspaper boy came bawling along the gutter, "Ere'nin' Standard—Murder Trial Re-sult—all the winners!" I caught sight of my own name in large letters, and hastily producing a coin, I stepped forward to intercept him.

or Leader, O'Connor would become Chairman of Rules. The questionable "if" here is whether O'Connor can swing a sizable bloc in his own state delegation.

Jim Farley figures to have a yentle voice in the way, the New York boys run and vote.

Combine: McCormick of Mass., is still in his 40's. He has been in the House since the 70th Congress, before which he served 3 years in the Massachusetts Assembly and 4 years in the state Senate. During the last two years in the Bay State Senate he was Democratic Floor Leader.

There is growing evidence that a deal is on whereby Rayburn and McCormick will run the next House. It is possible to add up a combination of votes whereby they would need to pick up only 40 or 50 additional to be assured of election.

An this combination could be a buster for Joe Byrns to overcome.

Licks: The toughest job President Roosevelt's coordinators are having is keeping peace under the surface among such New Dealers as Public Works Administrator Ickes, Relief Administrator Hopkins, RFC Chairman Jesse Jones and Federal Housing Administrator Moffett.

So far as the public eye is concerned, all is serene among these gentlemen. Those on the inside say they don't stroke an altogether even ear once the grandstand has been passed.

New and more permanent legislation involving public works, relief and federal financing must be made by Congress in January. Each of the four men mentioned is concerned over the particular role he will play under the new spotlight. Personally they have nothing but kind words to say about each other. It's their eager subordinates who manage to get in a few fast licks every time the referee isn't looking.

Bird: Momentous decisions are in the making at Warm Springs, Ga. Before President Roosevelt returns to Washington he will have the essentials of his new legislative program well in mind. The seclusion of the "little White House" is affording him, as usual, an opportunity to concentrate on major problems affecting all of us.

Take it with a grain of salt when you read that various public officials dropped in nervously to "pay respects." A very large turkey is on the fire down at Gawain.

Pill: During that anxious period when Senator Bronson Cutting, Progressive Republican, and Rep. Denn's Chavez, Democrat were running neck and neck in New Mexico for the 1934 S-national seat, National Democratic headquarters here kept insisting Chavez would win on the strength of blatantly counted absentee ballots. Jim Farley's men insisted there were 3,000 valid votes that would turn the tide. Then came the final count and Cutting won by slightly under 1,300 votes.

"It just goes to show how a guy will double-cross you once he gets a job," moaned one of the Democrats apropos of the New Mexicans who had been given federal jobs in Washington and elsewhere through the state.

Medicine is being mixed for a contest before a Senate Election Committee. If the recount will show Cutting a winner.

Notes: Demand will be made for passage of an act to penalize circulation of literature intended to incite disloyalty in the Army and Navy. Other anti-Communist moves are being considered.

Sun Down Stories

The Puzzled Farmer

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"To be sure this was an old car when I bought it," said the farmer to his wife, "but it seemed to be in very good condition. Now there is that strange noise. I don't understand it."

"We often had squeaks in our other old car," said the farmer's wife. "I don't believe it's anything."

"But this squeak is different from anything I've heard before," said the farmer, and he looked under the car but could find nothing wrong with it.

Poor Top Notch was so exhausted calling for help that when the car stopped he thought they were going to open up the rumble at once and let him out, and he did not know how He waited to be set free.

But to his horror they started off again, and now Top Notch cackled and crowed to be noticed.

"You see," continued the farmer, "that squeak is louder than what it is before. I must find out what it is."

So he stopped the car again. This time Top Notch did not stop crying for help when the car was brought to a standstill.

"Well," exclaimed the farmer, "if that isn't the strangest thing I've ever known. The squeak keeps up even after I've stopped driving and have shut off the engine."

"You know, I believe I'll go over to Willy Nilly's. He used to do a lot of repair work and is a smart little man."

To Top Notch's disappointment the automobile started off once more. He didn't believe he could breathe another moment. He was all worn out. He was not able to hear what the farmer said. Top Notch felt there was no hope for him now.

Birthday Party.
Little Miss Lila Mae Allen entertained a number of her little friends at a birthday party in honor of her twelfth birthday on last Thursday evening.

Chrysanthemums and rosebuds were used throughout the home as decorations.

Music, games and contests were enjoyed by the large number present. At eight o'clock delicious fruits were served. The birthday cake, with its decorations of green ribbons and pink rosebuds and twelve burning candles was beautiful. Miss Allen was the recipient of several pretty and useful gifts.

Those present were Ruth Virginia Glynn, Audrey James, Fenner, Kirby, Joe, Frances, Wilma, Vivian Allen, Bettie Sue, Joy, Jane, John Wyatt, Tyson, Claude, Berny, Charles, Mabel Glynn Manning, K. B. and Myrtle Ruth Dickerson, Clara Bell Cannon, Minnie Ella Smith, Louise and George Buck, Denny Robert Jackson and Mrs. James Allen.

A. A. U. W. Meets.
The A. A. U. W. had a delightful supper meeting last night at the parish house instead of the usual type of meeting. A number of guests, most of them eligible for membership, were entertained and the occasion was largely social, as the usual program was omitted.

A number of important matters were presented by different committees and were acted upon. The topic for the November program was the Youth Movement, and Rev. W. A. Ryan was selected as the speaker.

Mrs. Rose, who is in charge of the program, announced that there were no many requests from other organizations to attend that it would be well to have an open meeting in a public place. It was decided to adopt this suggestion and Friday, December 7, was chosen as the time for this. Further announcements will be made in the paper.

The A. A. U. W. is joining with the Woman's Club and the Junior Woman's Club in organizing a study group in "Contemporary Problems in Relation with other Countries."

The group to meet six times, with Miss Laura Rose as leader. Further announcements pertaining to this project will appear in the daily paper. Mrs. Fickeln Arthur, chairman of the international relationship committee, is one of the joint committee handling this.

Dr. Lucille Turner announced that the Drama Group will meet December 3 at 7:30 in Ragsdale Hall. Mr. Mulholland will read "Hell-Bent for Heaven," by Hatcher Hughes.

On account of the examination schedule in the high school and college, the next meeting of the A. A. U. W. will be held on Monday evening, December 10, instead of on December 17.

At the conclusion of the business, Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, president, gave a brief, interesting account of the executive meeting at Salem College several weeks ago.—Reporled.

Talks To Drama Group.
Professor Koch in his talk yesterday afternoon to Miss Dirmberger's group in drama, stressed the need for the teachers who were capable of awakening something within their pupils. He believes that a new day is coming in education when the capacities of the whole student will be recognized and trained. He deplored the fact that when budgets had to be cut it was just such real essentials as music, domestic science, manual training and drama, which were cut out while mathematics and Latin were retained. In his travels about the country he has sensed a reaction to this, not only upon the part of the students, but on the part of the parents and teachers as well. He believes that there is, and will be, more actual need for the teacher who is trained to give here students an understanding of life as it is expressed through the arts. In the new day of a more substantial economic security for the common man the instinct for age old group expression in music and drama will find itself reasserted and fostered by those who will be the teachers of tomorrow.

His audience was composed of the members of the drama class of the college, a group of high school students, and visitors from the town and faculty.

Playmakers Please Audience.
The Carolina Playmakers scored another triumph with the Greenville and college audience last night with their well balanced bill of three one-act plays. The large audience was proof that the old favorites from their repertory and plays with Carolina setting appealed to the people of this section, and they showed their keen appreciation of the excellent performances. Their feeling that they have a part in the work of the Playmakers gives proof that Prof. Koch is right in his theory that the best drama and that which people like come from the people themselves.

President Meadows in his introduction referred to Prof. Koch as the man who discovered and brought to life the material that has remained dormant here for generations.

Prof. Koch in his first intermission gave his theories of drama saying all great drama is folk drama. He cited Shakespeare, Ibsen, Moliere, as essentially folk dramatists who wrote their plays to be played in a theatre.

The little plays, written by his students, that come out of their own background, and which they interpret to each other and the public, represent the interest-ness of life, he said.

He reviewed briefly the 17 years of their work, and touched on their far-reaching influence. He referred to the success of Paul Green as an example of what has grown out of their work, showing how it has reached Broadway and Hollywood.

The three plays made a well-balanced bill of entertainment and all were well staged and acted. They are all staged against a cyclorama in partial sets which suggest rather than reveal the whole room. All three were interiors. The complete elimination of all but the essential details tends to throw emphasis on the actors. The Playmakers bring their own lighting equipment, such as a portable switchboard.

The actors were well chosen and all showed sympathetic understanding of their parts. Carl Thompson showing his versatility and the effect of training, was able to play three parts on the bill, bringing a unique quality to each characterization.

"The Loyal Venture" brought to the stage a strong gust of wind blown from the 18th century. The cast admirably caught the flavor of earlier days on the North Carolina coast.

Thompson as Marpent, the merchant, McFadden as Durant, the pirate, Lewis the sea captain, perhaps did the best jobs of acting during the evening.

In "Fixin'" the characters of Ed and Lily, as played by Lawrence Cheek and Mildred Howard, showed a contrast that made clear the essential conflict of the play. Lily, imaginative and sensitive to immediate surroundings, and Ed, practical, not as articulate, but just as quick tempered.

"Quare Medicine" was the most even performance of the evening. The opening scene between old man Jernigan and Henry his son, played by Kenneth Bartlett and Carl Thompson, was excellent. Their comments and the singing off stage completely characterized the shrew-ish Mattie, played by Ora Mae Davis before she stepped on the stage. At the climax of the play Henry change was as complete as it was thoroughly convincing. Davis caught the rhythms of the poetic quality of his lines as written by Paul Green and brought to his portrayal of the quack doctor something of the mystery surrounding a tribal medicine man or a medieval alchemist.

This was the first engagement of the fall of the Playmakers, which will end at Thanksgiving. They play tonight in Nashville, where Miss Dirmberger is supervising a drama center. Later in the week they play in Kingston and in Oxford, then to Frederick, Maryland, and Clifton Forge, Virginia and close the tour at Red Springs and Buie's Creek.

SON OF PRESIDENT FACES LEGAL SUIT
Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—James Allen, clerk of the United States District Court today issued a writ of attachment for $25,000 against Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President and a sophomore at Harvard University.

Arthur P. Digan, counsel for the plaintiff, Mrs. Daniel P. O'Leary, 60, of East Boston, said the writ was obtained in connection with an automobile accident on March 24 in the Jamaica Plain section of the city in which Mrs. O'Leary was struck by a car operated by young Roosevelt.

Digan explained that the writ was a preliminary step prior to a declaration asking $25,000 on behalf of Mrs. O'Leary. She attorney said he probably would give the writ to a U. S. Deputy Marshal tomorrow for service on the Harvard sophomore or her service as his dormitory.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 21-2 times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25 per cent more for your money.

Stop Chills and Fever!
Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Standard Oil Men Meet Here

A district meeting of Standard Oil representatives was held at the Episcopal parish house today at the main address was made by J. L. Angle, assistant division manager of Charlotte.

Representatives of twenty-two Esso stations in fourteen towns and cities of the district attended and enjoyed the program marked by a delightful luncheon at the noon hour.

The representatives expressed themselves as highly pleased with conditions prevailing in this section at this time and prepared for continued improvement in the business field.

BASEBALL INJURY LEADS TO DEATH OF LAD
Washington, N. C., Nov. 20.—Archie Kelly, Jr., age 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kelly of Bonner street, died Sunday night at ten o'clock at Duke Hospital.

Death was caused from a pus formation on his hip the result of a baseball injury. From this blood poisoning and pneumonia developed. He was given eight blood transfusions in an effort to save his life.

He was a junior in the local high school and was a member of the Senior Hi Y Club. He was one of two Eagle Scouts in Washington.

Young Kelly was one of the outstanding members of the high school second string grid squad, the only man to be substituted in the opening game. He figured prominently in plans for a reorganization of the team under way at the time he was forced to quit practice. He was playing his second season this year.

AUTHORITIES PROBE NEGRO'S CONFESSION
New Bern, Nov. 20.—County authorities are trying to locate the two negroes alleged to be implicated in the murder of W. H. Whitford of this city, by confession of Johnny Johnson, 26, negro, electrocuted Friday at State's prison, who admitted not only firing the shot that killed Howard Jernigan, filling station operator in Sampson county for which he went to his death, but also being with the two negroes that killed Mr. Whitford.

Johnson called the two alleged murderers by name, but officials have not felt at liberty to make these names public. Just before his execution, Johnson asked that they not be prosecuted.

Three negroes telephoned late one night for Mr. Whitford to come for them in his taxi and drive them to Washington, N. C. He failed to return home, and after a long search his body was found in the woods off the side of the road. His car was afterwards located, but the murderers could not be apprehended.

STATE HOPES TO TAKE DUKE FOR JOY RIDE

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 20.—The Wolves of North Carolina State took it on the chin Saturday, 27-0, at the hands of Georgia, but showed such a spirit of determination in their play the fans believe Duke will have a tough time beating them in Duke stadium, Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 29.

Newspaper accounts of the State-Georgia game indicated this State only played football for one quarter. Such is not the case. The Wolves fought every second of the way. According to Coach Hunk Anderson the Wolves could have played defensive ball and held the score down but instead they elected to fill the air with passes in hopes of a score.

State tried 22 passes, completing six for 82 yards. Five were intercepted, one being run back for 40 yards for a touchdown. Another set the stage for a score. Georgia's first touchdown was the result of a State fumble near its own goal. State's big line battled on even terms with the fine Georgia forwards. On three occasions Georgia backs broke loose for long runs, one for 64 yards and a touchdown. Howard Barnes crashed the Georgia line once for 34 yards, but at the end of the run fumbled and Georgia recovered.

Leading State's line play was Raymond Redding and Kenneth Stephens, ends; Carl Isaacs, left tackle, and Steve Sabol, center. Daugherty, the right tackle, played the last half with a deep gash in his chin. The wound required three stitches, taken during the half. Barnes Worth, State's fine right guard, did not play the last three quarters because of an injury. John Stanko, left guard, was the only State lineman not injured in some way.

State's forwards, among the best in the conference this year, will take things slowly this week in hopes of recovering from their injuries in time for the Duke battle.

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Two hundred cotton futures opened steady, one to three points higher on trade and foreign buying and better Liverpool cables. Buying tapered off shortly after the call, but there appeared to be comparatively little cotton for sale and the market at the end of the half hour was two to three points net higher with December selling at 12.29 and March 12.40. The buying tapered off further in the morning under continued near month liquidation and December sold off to 12.25 and March to 12.36 with the general market showing a decline of two to four at midday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Financial markets were inclined to drop today without special pressure being exerted in any particular category. At midday activity was considerably drabber under that of the preceding session. Bonds were dull and mixed.

As in the equity division various issues attracted a following at higher levels but the list on the whole showed little inclination to resume the upward movement. United States government bonds were easier. Wheat and rye yielded a cent or so a bushel. Cotton was barely steady. Foreign exchange continued to hold to a restricted range.

The general run of stocks declined fractions to around a point. Trading was quieter than in recent sessions. American Telephone and other issues held firm. Transfers were 750,000 shares.

until the latter part of this week a special session will not likely be called until early next week.

Collins said he was not satisfied with the confession alleged to have been made by Charlie Jones, negro, held today at Richmond, after being rushed from Clifton Forge yesterday after discovery of the bodies. He said he would go to Richmond to conduct further probes.

France Increases Budget

Paris, Nov. 20.—(AP)—France increased its budget today by 800,000,000 francs, approximately $33,000,000, after hearing warning of the danger of unpreparedness while Germany allegedly is arming to the teeth.

This sum will be added to further aviation expenses. In addition more conscripts than usual will be called to military training to give the country an augmented military force.

To Assist in Prosecution

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Frank Wilson and Arthur Madden, ace investigators of the Internal Revenue Bureau's intelligence unit, have been ordered to New York to assist state authorities in the prosecution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Entry of Madden and Wilson into the kidnapping case under direction of Chief Elmer Irey follows within a few weeks withdrawal of the Department of Justice from the proceedings.

Irey and his two agents, of Capone income tax fame, probed the Lindbergh kidnapping for nearly two years.

Wilson and Madden, it was said at the treasury, were ordered back on the case by Secretary Morgenthau at the request of New Jersey authorities. Both are in New York.

Nobel Given New Office

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Home Owners Corporation today announced the promotion of C. Scott Noble to the position of regional manager of the Memphis regional office of the corporation reorganization which is now in progress.

T. C. Abernethy of Cherryville, N. C., had been appointed state manager of North Carolina to succeed Noble and will assume his new duties immediately.

He had been acting assistant state manager for several months. Paul N. Herrill of Charlotte, formerly district appraiser at Charlotte has been named state appraiser succeeding F. C. Clark.

Nobel formerly served as special representative in the wholesale dealing department and more recently has been state manager in North Carolina, and has a background of nearly 20 years of experience in the field and real estate business.

OFFICERS IDENTIFY MANGLED REMAINS

Durham, Nov. 20.—Sheriff officers today identified the mangled remains of a white man found last night on the Southern Railway tracks near the West Durham Lumber Company plant as those of Wallace Hester, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hester of 2009 West Pettigrew Street, Durham.

A Negro reported the find to police at 10 o'clock last night. Sheriff E. G. Belvin and Coroner A. S. Campbell were unable until today to find any clue to the identity of the youth.

Young Hester is survived by his parents, two brothers, Hubert and Sidney; three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Carden, Mrs. Annie Hayes and Mrs. Bettie Dabbs, all of Durham. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon with burial in Citadel Hill.

HOLD THAT ZIP TAYLOR DIED FROM CLUBBING

Wilson, Nov. 20.—An autopsy performed Sunday on the body of Zip Taylor, local town character and chief of the Jungletown section, showed that death had resulted from a clubbing. Coroner Martin will lodge a charge of murder against the one found responsible, but so far police have locked up only Lula Ellis and her 16-year-old son, Jimmie, both of whom disavow any knowledge of the case. Taylor was well beaten ten days ago but refused all surgical attention. Friday he went into a coma and Saturday he died. Funeral services were held Sunday, Rev. W. C. McRae of the First Methodist Church officiating. A widow, a brother and two daughters survive.

NO MORE ENERGY?... GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

Whether their daily tasks carry them through crowded city streets, or deep impenetrable jungles, Camel smokers in all walks of life agree on the delightful "lift" they get from smoking a Camel. Mrs. William LaVarre, famous explorer, whose treks through dangerous South American jungles have taught her the vital necessity of keeping up her energy reserve, has this to say about Camels: "We took 30,000 Camels with us on our last expedition. Any time I'm tired, I just stop and smoke a Camel. It wakes up my energy in no time. And smoking Camels steadily, I find, does not affect one's nerves."

LEAF-TOBACCO EXPERTS AGREE: "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."
