German Army Is Operating Under Emergency Order

NEW TROUBLE IS EXPECTED IN HOMELAND

Drilling of Nazi Troops Intensified; Domestic Situation Believed Cause of Emergency Decree; Foreign Situation Minimized; Internal Strife Predicted

Berlin, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The German army and the nation's police forces are operating under a virtual declaration of emergency, reliable sources disclosed today. All Christmas furloughs for members of the Reichswehr army and national police has been suspended. Drilling of Nazi storm troops has been intensified, it was reported. The domestic situation apparently was the cause of the order, its possible significance to the foreign situation was minimized.

It is reported that a smoldering feud between the Reichswehr and the Schultz Scafell, picked guards, might burst into flames at any time, were held in some quarters as possibly responsible for the measure.

TWO MEN KILLED NEAR SHELBY IDENTIFIED
Shelby, N. C., Nov. 27.—Two men killed on Highway 20, three miles west of Shelby early Saturday evening, were identified yesterday by Shelby police as Vernon S. Webber, who lived on the Joe Wesson farm, near the scene of the accident, and Matt Marlow, formerly a coal miner in Lee County, Virginia.

They were struck by a pick-up truck operated by Frank Davis, employee of a Rutherford furniture company, and instantly killed. Davis said that he was blinded by the glare of an approaching car and did not see either man until after he had struck them. He went to a farmhouse for help, and returned to Shelby with the ambulance. Police, calling the accident unavoidable, released him upon his own recognizance.

SCRAP LEAF MARKS SALE

Tobacco Market to Suspend Operation Tomorrow for Thanksgiving

Following completion of tomorrow's sale, the Greenville tobacco market will suspend operation for the Thanksgiving holidays. Work will be resumed Monday morning.

The official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, gave yesterday's sale as 141,286 pounds of tobacco at an average of $19.15 per hundred pounds. The total amount of money paid out by the market was $2,705,522.

Total season sales were given at $9,983,408 for which growers were paid $16,040,645.94, or an average of $31.46 per hundred pounds. The general price average which has been falling off very slightly from day to day because of the increased offering of damaged tobacco, dropped to a new level yesterday when scrap tobacco predominated sales. The offerings of common grades and scrap is expected to continue during the remainder of the season as farmers have disposed of their good tobacco and are winding up their crop.

With suspension of sales tomorrow, scores of tobaccoists will go to their homes in other parts of the country to spend Thanksgiving holidays, returning in time for resumption of sales Monday. Many will remain in Greenville for hunting trips while some others probably will attend football games in various parts of the country.

SEEK TO HALT FIRECRACKER BLASTS HERE

Police Begin Campaign to Stop Shooting of Fireworks in City Limits

With the blast of firecrackers troubling residents in various parts of the city, police today turned their attention to halting the shooting of fireworks in the city limits.

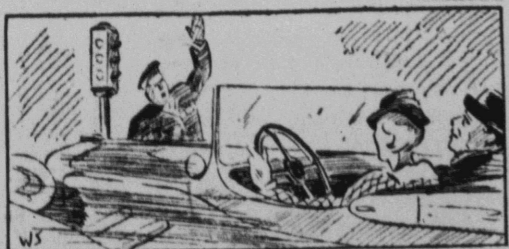

Chief of Police George Clark said this morning it is a direct violation of the law to shoot fireworks in city limits, and that all persons violating the law would be arrested and carried into court to answer to the charge.

Blasts of firecrackers have been heard here every night for the last two weeks as the populace prematurely celebrates the coming of Christmas, the police head said today, and the detonations are proving annoying to already fled complaints of whom have already filed complaints with the department.

Mr. Clark said that persons desiring to indulge in this form of celebration should go beyond the city limits and not violate the law and subject themselves to arrest by remaining in the city.

The department has considerable trouble with the shooting of firecrackers in the city last year. It was said restrictions would be greater this year as police attempt to put a stop to the practice.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

SLOW—DANGER!

A recent study of twenty-four thousand traffic violations in Massachusetts indicated one-fourth were "failing to slow down at intersections." If drivers would make a practice of slowing down and having their cars under control at intersections, there would not be the need for so many "nuisance" STOP and GO signals.

PITT GROWERS FAVOR COTTON CONTROL PLAN

Sentiment of Farmers For Continuing Bankhead Act in its Present Form

Pitt County farmers are in favor of continuing the Bankhead cotton control act in its present form, it was revealed following a meeting of five or six hundred cotton farmers at the courthouse here yesterday afternoon to discuss the cotton adjustment program.

Although no vote was taken on the question, it was said by those present that sentiment was very much in favor of the control plan in its present form. It was believed that a movement recently started to scrap the legislation or inject too many modifications would prove disastrous to the cause of the thousands of planters who took part in the program during the past year.

The meeting was one of the largest attended here since beginning of the cotton production program, and standing room was at a premium as growers crowded seats and stood all along aisles in an effort to hear this year's program explained.

The principal speaker of the occasion was J. T. Criswell, extension specialist of State College, who explained the Bankhead Act and the 1935 marketing program.

A referendum on the cotton legislation will be held December 14 and farmers all over the country will be given an opportunity to vote for or against the control program which has resulted in a tremendous increase in the price of the cotton crop.

While some modifications looking to strengthening the legislation would be favorable to Pitt County growers, they are against anything that would prevent the bill from proving as effective as it proved the past year, it was said.

Growers in Pitt County have over doubled their money this year over the past year as result of the Bankhead Act. It was said today by leaders of the program here. They received over $481,000 in 1932, whereas they are going to get around $838,000 for this year's crop. In addition they will also receive over $95,000 in rental payments, and one cent on 40 per cent of their production this year as against no rental at all the previous year.

E. F. Arnold, director of the local farm department, presided over the meeting, and presented Mr. Criswell, who conducted a round table discussion on the subject following his address.

Leaf Market To Close For Season Fri., Dec. 7

The Greenville tobacco market will close for the season on Friday, December 7.

This decision was reached at a special meeting of the Tobacco Board of Trade at the Greenville Tobacco Company this morning. No other matters were taken up.

In announcing the decision of the board, C. W. Howard, president, said the market would be held open a week longer after Thanksgiving to give farmers an opportunity to clean up the remainder of their tobacco.

With only a small amount of tobacco remaining, Mr. Howard said it was the unanimous opinion of board members that the entire crop would be cleaned up by the closing date.

Mr. Howard stated that members of board expressed appreciation of the fine spirit shown by growers in handling this year's crop. He said the rapid marketing had aided in speeding up sales to no little extent, and was largely responsible for the market being able to close by the date decided upon today.

The market will suspend work for the Thanksgiving holidays tomorrow, but will reopen Monday for resumption of sales.

Austrian Students Riot; Attack Czech Legation

Vienna, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Austrian students attacked the Czechoslovakian legation in reprisal for recent anti-German plots at the University at Praha, capital of Czechoslovakia, but were repulsed by police who battered them with stones and clubs.

Vienna was thrown into a tumult by the demonstration.

The students rained bricks and stones at Czech-controlled newspaper offices breaking every window in the plant, wrecking furniture in the offices and terrorizing the editorial personnel.

Then seven hundred strong the students marched to the Czech legation shouting "Down with Czechoslovakia, revenge for our fellow-students in Praha!" They found the legation encircled with police who charged them with arms, firing, battling off the marchers.

Chief of Police W. J. Everett said the fingerprints would be sent to Washington to the Department of Justice bureau of investigation with request that any information about them on file there would be telegraphed here.

The police chief said that for several weeks he had been receiving

MAN HELD FOR SLAYING WIFE AND MINISTER

Joseph Steinmetz Collapses in New York and Cannot be Placed in Police Line

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Joseph Leib Steinmetz, accused as the slayer of his 17-year-old bride, Ruth Armstrong Steinmetz, and the Rev. Joseph Leonard, Catholic priest, collapsed at police headquarters today and could not be placed in the police line-up.

Police said they found Steinmetz in the hotel room where five bullets had been fired into the bodies of the priest and Mrs. Steinmetz, Hollywood girl who had sought a career in the movies under the name of Ruth Armstrong.

Saul Price, assistant district attorney, who took charge of the case said Steinmetz admitted he shot the others after all three had been drinking and "the priest asked my wife down to his room to hear her confession."

Steinmetz was found lying near the body, an automatic pistol in his hand.

ERA DROPS UNEMPLOYED

Persons Who Should Be Responsibility of Local Government Placed on County

It was announced from Raleigh today that the North Carolina Emergency Relief Administration will not continue relief to unemployed persons who should be the responsibility of the local government and such persons will be turned over to local government commissioners after that date.

K. T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Emergency Relief Administration, announced today the receipt of a letter from Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, of Raleigh, State Relief Administrator, containing the announcement of the change in policy.

"After January 1, 1935, the North Carolina Emergency Relief Administration will not continue relief to those unemployable persons who should be the responsibility of the local government. You are, therefore, instructed to immediately notify the local government commissioners that these persons will be turned over to the county January 1.

"Exceptions to this ruling may be made to the counties that have made substantial appropriations to the local Emergency Relief Administrations for relief of the unemployed provided that the appropriation has been turned over to the Relief Administrator for this purpose.

AMERICA AND BRITAIN SEEK TO STALL STEP

Washington Regards Move as Diplomatic Gesture to Strengthen Japan's Position; Formal Notification Must be Filed by December 31 if it Becomes Effective

Tokyo, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Japan has proposed to France and Italy that they join her in abrogating the Washington naval treaty, it was learned today from authoritative sources.

Tokyo has decided to denounce the treaty before December 31. Koki Hirota, foreign minister, and Almer Delens, the French charge d'Affaires, will visit him today.

The Rengo Japanese News Agency said Hirota explained a decision to terminate the naval pact and suggested that France and Italy do likewise.

The envoys replied they would communicate the proposal to their governments.

A similar proposal, it was said, was also made to Great Britain and the United States at the current tri-power negotiations in London, but was received coldly by those two countries.

Since the Japanese delegation has communicated their denunciation intention to representatives at London and Washington, it was explained that it was necessary for Japan to notify the English and American ambassadors of her decision.

It was officially stated that responses from other powers cannot shake Japan's determination to deposit in Washington at the earliest possible moment her intention of abrogation.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Japan's overtures to France and Italy to join with the island empire in denouncing the Washington naval limitation treaty is considered unofficial circles here as a diplomatic gesture designed to strengthen Japan's position.

Under provisions of the treaty any one of the five contracting powers can have the treaty end in two years by serving formal notification of abrogation on next December 31.

MOREHEAD TO APPEAR HERE

The last game of the season will be played Wednesday afternoon with Morehead City, at the Third Street Stadium. The Greens are batting 50 per cent. They have defeated Ayden, Kinston and Tarboro, and have lost to West Edgewood, Edenton and Washington.

The team is very anxious to close the season with a win, thereby winning more games than they have lost. If comparative scores mean anything, we should have a slight edge on them. But as so many teams have learned, to their bitter sorrow, there is no dependence put in this past-time of comparing scores. If the team enters this game with the same determination that they entered their last contest, then they should win by a nice score. I think that the memory of the Washington game is still too fresh in their thoughts for them to feel over-confident. Over-confidence surely did play havoc with them in that game. Washington isn't, at the most, more than one touchdown better than our team; I thought seriously their defeating us here, were we to meet them Wednesday instead of Morehead.

Coach Woods has prescribed only light work for Tuesday. He is not taking any chances on crippling any of his players. The team should enter this game at top strength. Thus far, every man is in good playing condition.

The same line-up will start this game that started the game with Tarboro. In this game, Cox and Hutton started on the ends; Smith and Sizemore at tackles; Hutton and Clark at guard and J. J. Summerville at center. In the backfield, William E. Eilers was at quarter, Harold Forbes and Captain Carroll at half, and Brewer at full.

This should be the best game of the season; come out and support the team in its last game.

Reflecting Sports

By Wm. WATSON MORGAN

Andy Hewitt, coach of athletics in the local High School last year, and present coach at Morganton High School is continuing the good record established by that school. His team has rolled up 179 points to six for opponents in nine games played. Andy was very fortunate in stepping into a place that had plenty of well-trained material. Avery, star center on the Carolina freshman team this year is a good example of the material turned out at that school; he has been a star in every game that the Tar Babies have played this year. Andy had only fair success in Greenville last year. There is quite a contrast, however, between the material found at the two schools. Here, he found a bunch of boys willing to learn, but possessing very little knowledge of football; in Morganton, he found plenty of material. This material contained a group of large, fast and well-trained boys.

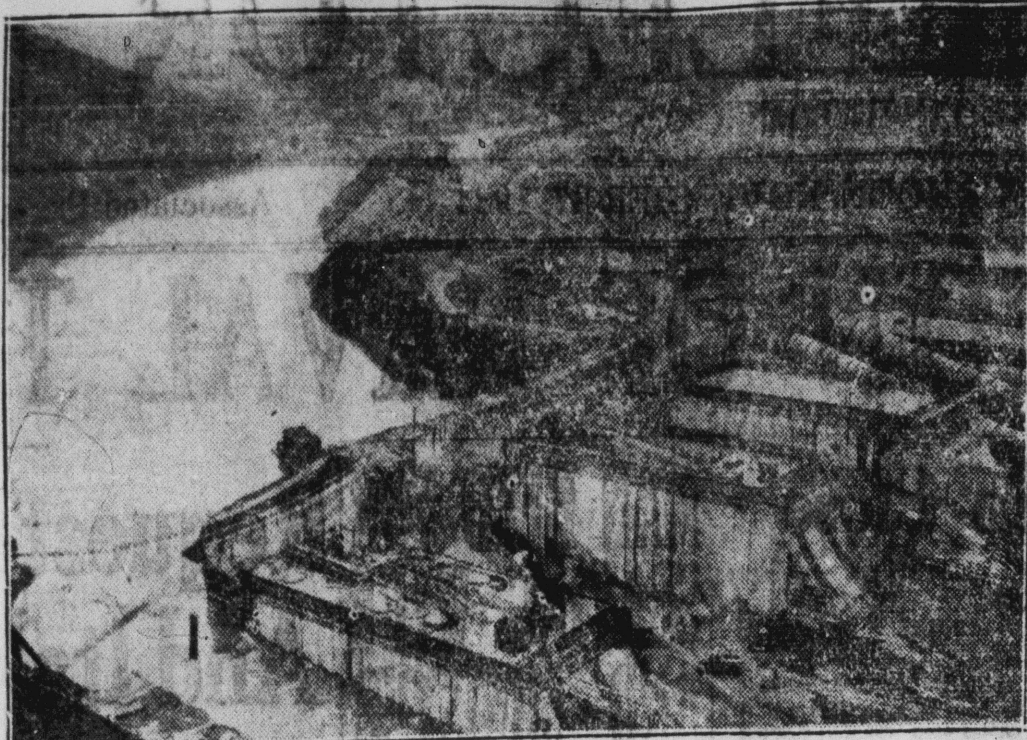

Andy's situation was something like Wallace Wade's year before he was to report at Duke. During DeHart's last year his Blue Devils were making a great record. From Alabama, Wade was quoted as saying: "It looks now like all I will have to do next year when I get to Duke is learn the team's signals. There is no question but that it is a very difficult task for any coach to take a bunch of star players and keep them winning. Andy, you have made a good record, so there is a hand."

The very popular "Soup" Porter has not made such a good record in football, but sports from Lenoir State that he is very popular with students and patrons. His influence with the students is always to be commended. Last year his team defeated Morganton for the first time in several years. Morganton has established an enviable record; they have lost very few games over a period of eight years.

"Red's big worry of Blue Devils" is a statement coming from Durham. Red may be a thorn in the side, but that husky line that Hunk Anderson will throw against Duke will prove a greater worry than any member of his backfield. State has had a powerful line all season, and it will be playing a bruising game again Thanksgiving. Isaacs, Redding, Sabol and Stanko have starred in every game they have played this season. Old-Timer sports writer for one of the Atlanta papers, stated that the above-mentioned men plus Stephens, showed him some of the best line play that he had seen all season.

What's wrong! The annual moan and cry from Wake Forest and State "scalers" has been conspicuous by its absence this fall. I for one am thankful that the followers of the two schools have decided to give the coaches a chance to see what they can do. Ever since Hank Garrity left Wake Forest, and even before his time for that matter, the coach that attempted to teach the Demon Deacons a few tricks lived a miserable life. The situation has been just about as disagreeable at State College. Gim Weaver has had tough luck since coming to Wake Forest. He started the season with a promising team, but sickness and injuries have handicapped the team's progress. Hunk Anderson had his offense built around Red McAdams. The loss of Red weakened the team.

GREAT NORRIS DAM AS ROOSEVELT SEES IT

If Hunk can muster a little offensive play the Blue Devils are right in looking forward to a tough time next Thursday.

In Wednesday's game with Morehead City seven of the Greens will be singing the swan song. Those members that will be playing their last game are: Scoville, Musselwhite, J. Sizemore, G. Sizemore, Hutton, Cox and Summerville. All of these have been playing in the line. Out of this number, four, John Sizemore, Edgar Hutton, Alton Cox and J. J. Summerville are first stringers. All of these players are going to be hard to replace. Just about the time that they learn enough to be of some help to a coach, then they are graduated and pass on for some other man to try and teach them something else.

CAROLINA TO SHIFT BARCLAY

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 27—George Barclay, Carolina's great guard and captain, will be seen at a new position when he leads the Tar Heels to Virginia for their annual Thanksgiving classic with the Cavaliers and his last game in the Blue and White.

The Tar Heels were to take their last heavy workout this afternoon. Coach Carl Shively has announced that he planned to take the whole squad. The team, band and cheerleaders will go up by special train Wednesday night.

Capt. Barclay was abruptly shifted from guard to tackle yesterday when accumulation of injuries crippled the Tar Heels at that key position and sent their hopes for a Southern Conference title downward.

John Trippie is definitely out with a sprained ankle, and Jim Tatum and Marvin Ray are suffering from an injured side and arm respectively, leaving Tom Ewins the only seasoned tackle in good shape.

Dick Buck, star end, and Charlie Shaffer, ace back, also remained on the doubtful list today, leaving the Tar Heels' strength for their battle with their traditional rivals problematical.

Fans were wondering today what effect the shifting of Captain Barclay to tackle for his last game would have on the brilliant guard's chances for All-American honors.

Barclay is the kind of player who would star in any position. He has played tackle from time to time in his splendid career at Kiski and Carolina, turning in some of his most outstanding work there. But it is a question whether he can match his admittedly superb play at guard.

Nevertheless, the big fellow, who is first, last and always a team player and a boss inspired leadership has been a great factor in his team's success as his brilliant individual play gladly made the shift when it appeared he could be of more value to the team at another post.

Coach Shively is hoping that either Tatum or Ray will come around in time to be of service Thursday. But he thought it practically certain today that Captain Barclay would have to be used at least a part of the Virginia game at tackle.

The re-vamped line-up with Carolina will likely start its all-important battle is Buck or Childers and McCann ends; Barclay and Ewins, tackles; Pendergraft and Kahn, guards; Daniel, center; Snyder, blocking back; Jackson and Montgomery, half and Hutchins, full.

SPORT SLANTS

Our reports from the All-American football front indicate a considerable number of sophomores already performing brilliantly enough to attract the attention of seasoned observers. Several teams, such as Pennsylvania and Harvard, have turned over a majority of the first-string assignments to second-year men. The process of getting right down to brass tacks with fresh material is conspicuous, elsewhere among leading colleges and universities which have an eye to the gridiron future.

It's rare, however, when a sophomore can show enough stuff in his first varsity season to gain All-American rating. Nowadays, with so much fine talent available, it has become virtually an established policy among the pickers to give the preference to a junior, particularly, of course, providing, of course, that there's little to distinguish them otherwise. There is also a feeling that a sophomore may turn out to be a "morning glory," fear of which causes the all-star picker to play safe by reserving judgment.

It's only once in a decade, at least, that a Red Grange comes galloping into the spotlight at the outset of a varsity career to claim All-American recognition. Not a few critics believe that Grange was greater in his sophomore year than during the last two seasons he led the Illinois attack, although he was on the All-American for three successive seasons. The Galloping Ghost was the last to gain that distinction, although Army's Red Cagle came close to duplicating it among subsequent stars.

In the old days, when Walter Camp was the arbiter and the last word in all gridiron pronouncements, it was not unprecedented for a freshman to make his first All-American team and stay there.

Albie Never Got Credit
Albie Booth, Yale's little boy blue, was the greatest sophomore back I have seen in upwards of fifteen years of scanning the gridiron premises in the East. In fact, Albie's best year was his first varsity competition, but he didn't "make" the All-American then or later, for several reasons, including injuries, bad luck and a belief among those who never saw him perform at his best that a little guy, weighing less than 145, simply couldn't be that good. Yet a lot of these same fellows are now going around agreeing with what a number of others felt was a fact five years ago: that Albert J. Booth Jr., for double his size and inches, was the greatest football player of the last ten years.

Sophomore All-Americans
So we were talking about current sophomores. I don't know whether the human tank, Stanislaus Kostka, is traveling in sophomore company in the class-rooms at Minnesota, but this is his first varsity year with the Gophers and he probably will crown it by being the majority choice for All-American fullback, which is pretty fair for a "beginner" but it happens that Stanislaus has had considerable experience elsewhere, and unless somebody changes the Big Ten rules this will also be his last year, for dear old Minnesota.

Pop Warner has a sensation in Dove Snukler, sophomore fullback. Fred Ware of the Omaha World Herald and Dick Cullum of the Minneapolis Journal tell me that Nebraska's Lloyd Cardwell, big fast and rugged, is going to be one of the greatest ball-carriers in the country. Ed Widsch, sophomore guard at Minnesota, is another player being tabbed for future greatness, and it's likely more will be heard from Roy Buivid, triple threat, sophomore back at Marquette.

Bridge Shower for Miss McGowan.

Miss Janice McGowan who will be married next week, was paid a lovely compliment on last Friday afternoon, when Miss Anne Lee Hooker entertained at her home on East Fifth street.

Sharing honors with Miss McGowan were Miss Mary Frier Rouse of Farmville, house guest of the hostess, and Mrs. Iverson Skinner of Williamston, a recent bride.

Bronze and red chrysanthemums were artistically used in the rooms where the seven tables were placed for the game. After cards were laid aside, ice cream silhouetted in yellow hearts and cupid, with decorated cakes and yellow mints, were served on green glass plates.

Miss Helen Burnette, winner of high score, was given a double deck of bridge cards; Miss Doris Garris, for low score, was given a similar prize; Miss McGowan was presented Madeira linen napkins; Miss Rouse a flower print, and Mrs. Skinner an ivory vase. Guests were then invited into the dining room where they were told to try their art at cutting the bride's cake.

A yellow and green color note was emphasized in this room. On one corner of the lace covered table was a wedding cake decorated in yellow roses drawn diagonally to the opposite corner of the table were green swans, harnessed with yellow ribbons and filled with yellow mints. On the opposite corners were placed green holders with yellow candles.

After several attempts to cut the cake, Miss McGowan was requested to lift it, thus revealing that it was not a cake but plates in her selected pattern of china, a gift of the hostess.

On the plate was the following verse: "We know you're not a pirate, but you may have a pirate's mind. So follow these instructions, and see what you can find: Look in the fern stand not far away— And be sure all orders you obey." At the fern stand Miss McGowan found a second verse: "No fire was made in the hall today 'Cause a pretty package held full sway."

On opening the package it was found to hold beautiful gifts of line from the guests. Here also was another verse: "Play for us please—if not but one chord, Do it obligingly—you'll have your reward," directing her to the piano where she found more gifts.

As the fourth verse: "If this has made you as happy as us it has made, Say not a word, for we are repaid," was read Mrs. W. E. Hooker, mother of the hostess, entered with a tray laden with yellow and white cups.

Returns From Hospital.

Accepts Position In Greensboro.
Greensboro, Nov. 19.—William H. Hearne, for the past two seasons night manager of the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach, Va., has accepted a position as room clerk with the King Cotton Hotel here, it was announced yesterday by Earl H. Spence, manager. Mr. Hearne, who has already assumed his new duties, is taking over a part of the work of Clyde Roberts, who has been made assistant manager, in addition to other activities. Mr. Hearne is a native of Greenville, N. C.

Attention! People of Greenville!
There is an unusual opportunity right now for Greenville to have a fine Choral Club—unless you cooperate with us, we shall fall behind our neighboring towns. We have an excellent director in Frederick Allen and as good material as can be found. We urge you to come tonight at 7:30 and let's put this thing over!

There were over 150 children present last Tuesday afternoon. Unless we raise our quota, this opportunity to get this training free of charge will be lost to them.

MRS. C. M. THOMAS.

Many Radios Sold.
The upward spurt in the sales of Philco radios was marked this week by the arrival of another big shipment of these popular sets in Greenville. It was received by Carolina Kelvinator Co., the local Philco distributor and the radios were quickly distributed to various dealers here who have been clamoring for more sets to fill the ever increasing demand.

"The brisk activity in Philco sales during the past few weeks reminds us of the boom days of a few years back," said E. E. Rawl of the distributing company. "The steadily mounting demand for 1935 models is a welcome sign to the Philco dealers of this territory who are bent upon setting a new fall and winter sales record."

"At present, even though Philco is building and shipping more sets a day than ever before, there is an actual shortage of models. Orders are being filled as fast as possible. A carload of radios does not remain in our shipping rooms long before the entire lot has been apportioned to dealers who are literally crying for more merchandise."

Mr. Rawl said that Philco, by giving the public what it wanted at the price it wanted to pay, has held first place in sales volume for five consecutive years.

MARRIAGES PICKUP HERE

Annual Pilgrimage to The Altar Beginning To Hit Stride in Pitt County

The trek of lovers to the altar continued with renewed vigor in Pitt county over the week-end, and indications today were that the number would be greatly increased during the Thanksgiving holidays. Records in the office of the registrar of deeds this morning revealed that thirteen couples applied for licenses to wed from Saturday to Monday, three being white and the remainder colored.

The pilgrimage to the altar which subsided alarmingly during the depression, picked up renewed impetus last year and again this year with indications the new record set in 1933 would be completely shattered.

Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins made known the later part of last week that over six hundred licenses to marry had been issued this year as compared with something over seven hundred for the previous year. He predicted that last year's record would be completely eclipsed this year.

The rush, which started about a month ago, is expected to reach its climax about two weeks before Christmas when from a hundred to two hundred couples are expected to take the leap into double harness.

Those applying for licenses to wed over the week-end were: Buck Williams, Snow Hill, to Miss Annie Lee Tripp of Farmville. William Nethercutt to Miss Ruby Taylor, both of Green county. Charlie Smith to Miss Chester Brickhouse of Greenville.

Colored
Leroy Tyson to Treavis Evans, Greenville.
Cornelius Brown to Eula May Holland, Bethel.
Paul Smith to Cherry Grimes, Greenville.
James Moore to Sudie Ward, Greenville.
Roosevelt Whitfield to Bell Nobles, Pitt County.
Joe Battle to Hattie Williams, Farmville.
Matthew Crandall to Theresa Ward, Pactolus.
Hubert Whichard to Bernice Wooten, Greenville.
Leon Peterson to Bettie Davis, Green County.
Ken Smith to Lena May Wooten Greenville.

Good-Night Bears

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
The music was very gay and Top Notch, the rooster, twirled his stick magnificently as he acted the part of drum major. Then came Rip, the dog, with his drum, the ducks with their reed pipes, Christopher with his comb and Willy Nilly with his little violin.

Jelly Bear and the cub Jupiter walked on one side of the marchers, with Honey Bear and Blacky on the other side.

After they had played the tune of "Good-Night Ladies" for a number of times they all began to sing: "Good-night Bears, Good-night Bears, Good-night Bears, You're going to leave us now. We hope you will sleep so well, Sleep so well, sleep so well, We hope you will sleep so well, In your co-sy cave!"

"Good-night Bears, Good-night Bears, Good-night Bears, We think a lot of you. We'll be glad when you get up, You get up, you get up, We'll be glad when you get up—Our bears fine and brave!"

The bears swung their heads to the tune of the music, and now they had all reached the cave.

"Of course," said Willy Nilly, "as you sleep several months we should say 'Good-winter' instead of 'Good-night.'" And at once all the Puddle Muddlers shouted: "Good-winter!"

PREHISTORIC KODIAK INDIANS BUSY WITH KNIFE AND AXE

Washington — (AP) — Life was grim on Kodiak Island, Alaska, when prehistoric ancestors of the Indian lived there.

Some of their less cheerful customs, as reconstructed from ancient remains by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution, were: Killing an infant if its mother died, and burying the two together; or simply burying the baby alive with the dead mother.

Killing a wife when her husband died, and burying them together. Sacrificing slaves or captured enemies by burning them to death. Hazards of war and hunting also were severe. Dr. Hrdlicka found: Bones of a hunter apparently killed by a bear, with most of the vertebrae in his back broken, several ribs crushed and one arm entirely missing.

Remains of a massacre, including a woman's skeleton with a bone dagger through the heart, a warrior's skull with a stone club head still imbedded in it, and another skull with a stone arrow point at the base of the brain.

Debris of a conflagration that destroyed an entire village, containing bones of several who were trapped and killed in one fire.

A larger highway patrol and more concentrated efforts toward rigid enforcement of the traffic laws would, we believe, go a long way toward cutting down the present high death rate on our highways in this state.

Christmas is not even a month off and already shoppers are turning their attention to their Christmas shopping. Indications are that this Christmas season will be one of the largest, from the standpoint of business in years and the early shopper will be one who will get the pick of the merchandise.

There are still about 100,000 world war veterans who have never made application to the government for their adjusted service certificates and the time limit for applying for same expires the second day of next January.

As the tobacco season draws to a close the annual barrage of claims and counter claims between Greenville and Wilson as to which market has sold the most tobacco is under way, but regardless of who has sold the most tobacco the figures show that the Greenville market this season has paid out more money to the growers than ever before in the history of the market and close to a million dollars more than any other market has paid out this year.

Idid not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench returns home after being acquitted of the charge of murdering his former school friend Osborne to find a mysterious letter from Sir William Avon asking for an appointment. Then two strangers arrive and threaten him with death if he does not deliver to them a paper they say he has stolen from Osborne. But as they threaten him a young woman's voice is heard phoning the police, and the men leave. Nicholas remembers the young woman as a spectator at his trial; she also has come for the mysterious paper, she tells him.

Chapter 10 CURIOS STORY

"Do you know who I am?" the girl asked.

I shook my head. "I haven't the slightest idea."

"I saw you in court, sitting in the gallery. I wondered then why you were so interested in the case."

"My name," she said "is O'Brien—Molly O'Brien. Does that suggest anything to you?"

I reflected. "Only a faint idea that you might possibly be Irish."

"I am Desmond O'Brien's daughter."

There was another pause. "I'm sorry," I said, "but I'm still completely in the dark."

Her blue eyes were fastened upon mine with a passionate intensity. "You are telling me the truth? You swear it?"

"I should like to know where you came from."

"I give you my word of honor that I've never heard of either of you."

An almost inaudible sigh escaped my visitor, and for the first time the ghost of a smile flickered round the corner of her lips.

"It seems funny that I should be questioning you; it ought to be the other way about."

"Oh, there's no hurry," I protested. "Won't you sit down and have a cigarette? At the present moment that's the only hospitality I can run to."

She seated herself in the chair which I had pulled forward, and leaning back against the arm of the sofa I produced my case.

"I'm not inquisitive, as a rule," I continued, "but I should rather like to know where you came from, and how you managed to get into my bedroom."

She hesitated. "Mr. Trench," she said almost desperately, "will you—will you listen to the whole truth? I can't explain why I am here unless I tell you everything."

"I shall be most interested," I assured her.

SHE accepted one of my cigarettes, and having lit it, sat for a moment looking down at the little curling trail of smoke.

"The paper," she said slowly, "which those two men wanted to steal from you belonged to my father. He wrote it out the night before he died. It's the complete formula for a new metal, and there are people in the world—people interested in that kind of thing—who would give you almost any sum of money you liked to ask for it."

Sir William Avon's letter, which was still lying on the desk, flashed back suddenly into my mind, and I whistled softly.

"My saluted aunt!" I muttered. "Why that...?" I checked myself. "Go on," I said encouragingly. "Tell me all about your father. What was he, and did he invent this metal himself?"

"Father was an engineer in Dublin to start with. He went out to America about twenty years ago, and at first, after he married mother, he used to work for a big firm in Chicago. Then when he had saved a little money, he gave that up and we moved down south to New Orleans."

"Well, whoever bashed his head in has my thorough sympathy," I observed. "If anyone did me a dirty trick like that I'd search the world until I ran the swine to earth."

"That," she said in her soft voice, "is exactly what I made up my mind to do."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Cigar Makers' Union have been functioning together as "The Tobacco Council." Ira N. Ornburn, head of the Cigar Makers, and a shrewd, aggressive organizer, is the guiding genius.

Quietly but effectively Ornburn has been forming a rough working alliance with jobbers, retailers, independents and farmers—none of

"He had always been delicate and the doctors thought that the warm climate would suit him better. He was very clever at everything to do with engineering, and he brought out quite a lot of small patents which he sold to different companies. But all the time, though no one knew anything about it, he was working secretly at this invention.

"He was trying to find a metal which would be lighter and stronger than anything known now. It took him nearly twelve years, but at last, one evening this spring, he came back from the laboratory and told me that he had done it. He was very excited and he looked dreadfully tired.

"He sat up talking to me about it till nearly midnight, and next morning when I went into his room to see how he was, I found that he had died in his sleep." Her voice faltered. "The doctor said that his heart had just stopped beating."

"It must have been a dreadful shock," I said sympathetically. "Were you all alone? Wasn't your mother with you?"

SHE shook her head. "My mother had been dead for three or four years. We were quite by ourselves, except for two old colored servants. Father didn't seem to have man-friends; he hated strangers and the only person he ever asked to the house was his assistant at the laboratory.

"He was a young Englishman, Mr. Trench, just about your own age, and his name..." she drew in a quick breath—"his name was John Osborne."

There was a pause. "Really!" I said. "This is becoming distinctly thrilling."

"He didn't call himself Osborne out there. He went under the name of John Oliver."

"How on earth did you father run across him?" I asked.

"They met in the train one day, coming down from New York. Father was taken ill and Osborne helped him and looked after him. He said that he was trying to find work, and as he seemed to know something about chemistry and engineering father offered him a job in the laboratory. He turned out to be very useful, and before long he became a sort of confidential assistant. He was the only man in the place who knew anything definite about father's secret."

"And it was he," I said quietly, "who stole the formula?"

She nodded. "Father had written it out and locked it up in the safe at his office. When I went to look for it two days later it had disappeared. Osborne had gone too. I don't know how he got away—in a car by night, I suppose—anyhow, nobody had seen him leave, and although inquiries were made all over the country the police were never able to find the smallest trace of him. He had just vanished and the formula with him."

"Well, whoever bashed his head in has my thorough sympathy," I observed. "If anyone did me a dirty trick like that I'd search the world until I ran the swine to earth."

"That," she said in her soft voice, "is exactly what I made up my mind to do."

whom have grown much love for the Big Four.

When Congress convenes he hopes to have an impressive lobby at work on the floor, for reduction of the present cigarette tax—along with a differential in favor of manufacturers putting out packs for 10 cents or less.

Ornburn's argument is hydra-headed. He is pointing out to the farmer that the present tax is $3 per 1,000, but that the farmer gets only 69 cents for the tobacco produced in $3 federal tax. Lower taxes would bring a decrease in retail price, which would bring about

Washington, D. C.—No agency of the "new deal" is cloaked in more secrecy, or its future more uncertain at present, than the once all-important NRA.

The national industrial recovery act creating NRA will expire next June 16 unless renewed by Congress, but no one seems to know what the future holds for the Blue Eagle.

Members of NIRA which succeeded General Hugh Johnson as administrator have been at work for something like two months supposedly engaged in the job of salvaging, but no one knows what has been done.

They meet daily in secret, have conferred with the President several times, but that is all the public knows of their operations. The famous "gold fish bowl" of the Johnson era at NRA has disappeared completely.

Studying the Blue Eagle This official silence of the part of the administrators has given rise to all sorts of rumors as to what the future has in store for NRA.

One day rumor will have it that NIRA is all set to scrap NRA. Another day the report gets around that all the price-fixing and production-control provisions of the codes are to be discarded. Again it is heard that plans are being laid to step-up in industrial guaranteeing against loss.

The most plausible explanation of what actually is happening behind the scenes at NRA is that members of the recovery board are doing some intense studying of NRA and the Blue Eagle. The growth of the two has been enormous, so much so, in fact, that the result some say is a hodge-podge of contradictions and problems.

Codes were thrown together hastily and without careful study of their effect. NIRA is now going about the task of attempting to restore order and is saving nothing until the job is completed.

They Want It To Stay There are few, however, who believe that NRA is to be scrapped entirely. They are convinced enough good has been found in NRA to insure its continuance in some form after June 16, 1935, when the act expires.

Several things appear to make this certain. For one thing, labor will demand of the next Congress that Section 7A of the recovery act be made permanent or retained in some slightly modified form. And labor is confident it has the necessary number of votes.

Then, too, industry itself in general important instances has no desire to return to the old order.

New York By JAMES McMULLIN Gold: Those rumors you hear that we are cooperating to help France and her monetary allies stay on gold are strictly untrue. Much has been made of the Federal Reserve's $25,000,000 "loan" to Belgium as evidence to this effect. Actually it was a purely routine transaction. We merely did Belgium the favor—by no means uncommon—of paying her for a gold shipment before the metal was received here.

The relaxation of foreign exchange restrictions is also cited as proof that we're giving the gold bloc a helping hand. The move is supposed to have "eased the tension." What it really did was to facilitate the flight of capital from European countries whose monetary situation is precarious. French, Dutch and Belgian capitalists have an added incentive to send funds to the United States in the knowledge that they can get them out again at will without going through a lot of red tape. Observers remark that this factor helps the gold bloc's avowed aim the game way a lobster dinner helps a case of dyspepsia.

New York experts believe our strategy in the event that France abandons gold will be to renew an embargo on the metal ourselves. Financial sources with good Washington contacts are advocating this course as the best way to maintain a free hand for stabilization negotiations with England—which would then become a matter of urgent importance.

In brief, the Republicans will be physically unable to upset the Democratic Senatorial majority until 1938 when 27 Democrats (only 8 of whom are from the Solid South) must risk their seats against 5 Republicans. RFPS figures show between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 is available all over the country to liquidate accounts in closed banks but the depositors haven't shown up to get it. In Detroit alone there is $17,000,000 in begging while Cleveland is holding $4,000,000.

Over 100,000 World War veterans have never gone to the trouble of applying for an adjusted service certificate—bonus to you—payable in 1945 unless Congress gets big-hearted at the coming session and makes it immediate. After Jan. 2, for Social Justice—had New York conservatives badly worried on three counts.

Bankers fear he is going to concentrate on a government central bank as his main objective. Such a political pressure group as he contemplates would be a dangerously powerful ally for the forces of the Committee for the Nation and Senator Owen's Sound Money League. The Radio Priest's renewed friendliness with Senator Thomas also breeds a grim about the future of the dollar. Insiders understand he will lose all his thunders on behalf of far more drastic inflation.

Industrial leaders are mightily disturbed by some of the labor planks in his platform. From their angle his advocacy of an annual wage—and even worse his demand that labor must have a voice in management—convert these hitherto academic theories into active threats.

New York isn't disposed to underestimate Father Coughlin as a potential disturber of the peace between government and business. Conservative leaders who aren't given to alarmist fancies figure he will probably be able to recruit at least a million militant followers. That much additional weight on the radical side of the scales might easily disrupt the political balance they are working so hard to achieve.

D. J. WHICHARD CLUB SPEAKER

Publisher Urges Preparation for Relief Work During the Winter Months

By WYATT BROWN

"Winter will find a need for local relief and we who have participated in the recent wave of prosperity should be mindful of our blessings we have received and be willing to pass some of it on to those in need," said D. J. Whichard, editor of The Daily Reflector, yesterday night in his brief address to the Rotary Club. "The banks of this county have ten million dollars on deposit. There are only six banks now, but this is more money than when we had fourteen banks in the county a few years ago.

With apologies for rambling, Mr. Whichard proceeded to the subject of highway fatalities which set a new high for the ten months' period recently tabulated. "To meet this problem," he said, "there will have to be more willingness on the part of each of us to obey the laws; also there must be stricter enforcement of the laws we already have. Most of us are guilty of breaking the speed limit law for the highways.

"We must become more safety-conscious. We do not have enough highway patrolmen. Those that we now have are used mostly for other purposes than seeing to the laws governing the highways that would see greater safety along the routes. There should be a larger number of patrolmen and that would cut down on the fatalities. We would be more careful in our driving if we felt we would be arrested; we would not be so ready to break the laws.

"The coming Legislature will have a drivers' license law to consider when it meets. If one is passed, it should not be merely a law to collect the fee, but a law for the purpose of eliminating the bad drivers from among the operators of vehicles on our highways."

Mr. Whichard suggested the adoption of a plan of compulsory liability insurance for all automobile owners. Adding the expense of the insurance to the charge made for license tag was his recommendation. The great need for it, is evident. "If people do not have enough money to afford this additional cost, they surely have not enough to operate a car which constantly stands the chance of damaging some one else's person or property."

Next the speaker touched on the matter of sales tax and expenditures of the State. There is a sales tax and it will more than likely continue in the opinion of Mr. Whichard. In fact, he foresees the possibility of an increase in the sales tax.

"I object to the sales tax," he said, "because we in Pitt County paid in between fifteen and twenty-five thousand more in taxes this way than we did under the old law. Centers of the greatest concentration of wealth in our State have effected an economy in taxes paid, under the sales tax. We need methods of collection and recording the sales tax. Maybe it will have to be done at the source."

North Carolina schools was the next topic the editor touched on. Mr. Whichard challenged his listeners with the declaration that in this era of prosperity the schools must be rehabilitated if the state wishes to progress along educational lines.

"North Carolina has good schools. The teachers have remained loyal in spite of their condition the past two years. But they may not be if the cut continues that has been made. The teachers' salaries must be brought in line with other professions of like training and ability."

Necessarily rushing along and being only sketchy in his treatment of the various subjects due to the shortness of the time for his remarks, Mr. Whichard next discussed the movement to decrease the cost of license tags and gasoline tax in the state. The present rate he holds is justifiable, he believes, and should be retained but the money from this source should not be diverted to other uses than for those specified.

"North Carolina does not own her roads yet. There are ten million dollars in our treasury already collected. The legislature should allocate these funds. On the one hand sufficient should be provided to maintain highways adequately. The remainder could be prorated among counties that are shouldering the debt for the highways constructed before they were turned over to the state.

"The state now has the roads. She collects the tax and license tag fees now and is using the money to build roads in counties that did not assume any debt to build roads previously. This is unfair," he said in closing.

Following Mr. Whichard's remarks Leon Powell, acting chairman of the Community Service Committee of the club, presented Manly Sellers who had brought three of the county's colored convicts to entertain the club. One of the entertainers is one who became notorious locally for stealing a turkey, selling it, stealing it back and selling it again, stealing it back again and selling it to another, and so on three times collecting twenty-seven dollars on the same turkey.

But he sure could make his feet shuffle to the tune of the Turkey and the Straw. One fellow tap danced and as he danced he announced the movements as the progressions in a saga in his real or imaginative life. Then another through his tap dancing pantomim ed certain bits of conventional behavior. Next with the enthusiasm characteristic of the race two of the fellows danced—very danced—at a lively but very rhythmic rate with much slapping in time of things and each other's backs in turn, all of which highly entertained the club.

Besides Mr. Sellers and Mr. Whichard the guests of the evening were Allan J. Berres, Leon Keaton the new Scout Executive, and Rev. J. A. McIver. The attendance prize was successfully won by Hayward Dail.

Prior to the address and entertainment of the evening the more serious matter of inducing Bryant Herring as a member of the club was effectively done by Gus Fleischmann. Carl Adams, vice-president of the club presided.

It's Farmer Roosevelt When He Visits Georgia Acres

Warm Springs, Ga.—(AP)—President Franklin R. Roosevelt is going to be just plain Farmer Roosevelt for an hour or so each day during his Thanksgiving vacation here.

In that hour the President will drive to his 1,750-acre farm three miles from the Georgia Warm Springs foundation, inspect his herd of cattle, look over his reforestation project and check up with his farm manager, Otis Moore, on the crops his broad acres have produced the past season.

Some Roosevelt Items

Some other things Farmer Roosevelt will find that—

Forty calves were born this year.

Two young bulls were added to his herd.

More than 2,000 bushels of corn were raised on one hundred acres of land.

Forty acres of o-too-tan soy beans were raised, some of them yielding as high as two tons to the acre.

Five hundred bushels of sweet potatoes were raised on five acres.

The oats and grape crops didn't turn out so well because of bad weather and rot.

And his tenant, negro farm families did well, at least one of them clearing a tidy sum.

To 'Carry Itself'

Subsistence farming—that is the thing that President Roosevelt is trying to instill in the minds of his Georgia farm neighbors.

"His aim," says Manager Moore, "is to make his place carry itself, and to show his neighbors that one can successfully operate a farm without an expensive outlay." He uses no equipment that his neighbors can't have.

The President's pride and joy, Moore says, is his herd of cattle. Now numbering 140, the herd has been developed from 25 scrub cattle bought off Georgia farms five years ago.

Goal is 200 Herefords

Gradually the scrubs have been discarded and today the herd contains 75 half-breed and three-quarter-breed brood cows. Before the first of the year Manager Moore expects to sell about forty calves.

A herd of 200 pure-bred Herefords is the ultimate goal of President Roosevelt, and is the herd continues to develop, the goal should be reached in three or four years.

Three negro tenant families live on the President's farm. Their compensation is one-third in crops and two-thirds in money.

Knows Farm-Like 'Book'

"Mr. Roosevelt knows his farm like a book," Manager Moore says. "Why, he even knows who formerly owned the various sections of his land, and he calls them by their former names."

And the President takes a real progress carefully," according to Moore. A system of books is kept by the manager and once a year he makes out a detailed report on the income and outgo and submits it to Mr. Roosevelt.

Not so long ago a farm wagon was needed. Moore wrote the President. Go ahead and buy it, came back the reply from the Chief Executive of the United States.

London Registers Spruced Up

London.—(AP)—Civil marriages are becoming so popular that the once dreary and ill-lighted registry offices are being made bright with paint and flowers. At Caxton Hall, the most fashionable registry, a color scheme of light blue, biscuit and white, picked out in silver, has been chosen.

Mix Gas and Alcohol

Stockholm.—(AP)—Gasoline sold in Sweden must be mixed with alcohol, in the ratio of one-fourth alcohol and three-fourths gasoline, according to a new law. The new ruling is designed to help the cellulose mills, the "liquor" by-product of which will be used in the mixing.

For locating forest fires a combination of panorama camera and surveyor's transit that can make photographs rapidly has been developed by the United States Forest Service.

REALTY STILL MOVES LIVELY

Over Twenty Transfers of Property Reported in Last Several Days

Pitt County real estate continued to hold the limelight during the last several days and records in the office of the Register of Deeds today showed that over twenty transfers of property in several sections of the county have been filed for registration here.

Although the batch of deeds was not as large as previously reported, it was sufficiently bulky to indicate that interest in property is holding its own.

The largest of the transactions was that of W. R. Wilson and wife to Leo F. Buck, Sr., one lot, for a consideration of $3,000.

The next most important transaction was that of H. G. Cramer to N. R. Edwards, sixteen acres of land, for $1,500.

The remainder of the transactions ranged all the way from $10 to $1,000, and involved property in virtually every part of the county.

March contracts after selling up to 12.62 at the opening eased off to 12.60 with the general market ruling about two to three points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

The market was less active in the morning with prices sagging.

December sold off from the early high of 12.51 to 12.44, while March declined from 12.64 to 12.56, of back to about yesterday's closing. Then the market at midday was quiet and within two or three points of the lowest.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 27.—(A)—Stocks dipped under profit-taking today, but the trading volume dwindled appreciably on the moderate decline. In view of the fact that the equities list had advanced for four consecutive sessions and irregular setback was not unexpected, and was interpreted by most market analysts as a "healthy correction" of a position that had become a little top-heavy.

The utilities which yesterday performed with some of their old-time vigor bore the brunt of selling in the early hours.

Grains were somewhat improved, but cotton and most other commodities did virtually nothing. Bonds were fairly firm. Foreign exchanges held to a restricted range.

The late tone was irregular. U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, and American Can were down about a point, while Santa Fe, DuPont, and Done showed small net gains. Homestead Mining gained 15 points. Trading was quieter on the reaction.

Transfers were 950,000 shares.

Scores Asheville In Arrests.
 Raleigh, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Miss Pearl Weaver, state director of transient relief, said this afternoon that if the city of Asheville failed to support the stand she is taking for the federal government in demanding release of 54 transients arrested in Asheville today it will imperil relief aid for the city.

"The transient bureau was organized by the federal government for the protection of homeless and wandering men and boys," Miss Weaver said.

"It pays rent on its own shelter and gives the people who stay there courteous treatment. No city or county authority has any right to go into our shelter and arrest men or boys and put them in jail or hold them for fingerprinting on mere suspicion. No more right than to enter our best hotels and subject traveling strangers to the same indecent treatment."

Cologne Students Protest Riot.

PRIZE WINNING BULL MEANS COLLEGE EDUCATION FOR A NEBRASKAN

Omaha.—(AP)—Twenty-year-old Mervin Aegerter, of Seward, Neb., is going away to college and the bull is being paid by Don Laurel, a Hereford that thrived in the drought.

All last summer when the drought made feed scarce, Aegerter saw to it that Don Laurel was nourished, but he little thought the Hereford would win for him the grand championship of the 4-H Club baby beef division at the recent Ak-Sar-Ben Exposition.

Later when Don Laurel went on the auction block it brought $1.65 a pound for a gross profit of $1,113 to its proud owner. With that money get a Lift with a Camel!

TIRED OUT?...

TOBACCO EXPERTS ALL SAY:
 "Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

● Camel smokers notice a positive energy-refreshing effect from smoking Camels when they are tired or "out of sorts." Above is Ray Baker, star newspaper man of the International News Service. He says: "The man on the INS desk has a high-pressure job. A big story breaks and I am on the desk for ten hours...twelve hours...working at top speed! Whenever I feel 'all in' Camels bring back my 'pep.' For over ten years I've preferred Camels—I can smoke them continually without jangled nerves."
 Science confirms the experience of smokers regarding Camel's "energizing effect." Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos never upsets the nerves. And you never tire of their finer flavor!

BUSINESS GIRL. Eve L. Miller says: "I started to smoke Camels because I appreciate mildness and delicacy of flavor. Camels give me a 'lift' when my energy is low. They never upset my nerves."

HOCKEY STAR. "Bill" Cook, New York Rangers' star, says: "I smoke only Camels. They have taste that sure hits the spot! I smoke all I want and find that Camels never get on my nerves or tire my taste."

GIRL EXPLORER. Mrs. William LaVarre says: "Any time I'm tired I just stop and smoke a Camel. It wakes up my energy in no time. And smoking Camels steadily, I find, does not affect one's nerves."

CARTOONIST. Chon Day says: "I often work 10-11-12 hours at a stretch and am smoking Camels all the time. They help to increase my 'pep' when I feel tired or glum, and Camels never upset my nerves."

Diversion leads to dissipation!

Not talking of morals—but of gas taxes!

Diversion, under the name "highway holiday", has dissipated the money car owners paid for better roads.

It has damaged roads more than $3,000,000.00 by lack of upkeep.

If the legislature doesn't act we can't accept the millions the federal government is ready to spend on our roads each year.

Tell your legislators to end the "highway holiday."
