Government Ready To Grant Loans or Power Projects

NEW YORK OR OTHER CITIES ARE ELIGIBLE

President Roosevelt Says Funds May be Obtained for Building Municipal Power Plants; Navy Making Study of Difference of Rates For Electricity With View to Building Own Plant

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP) President Roosevelt is ready to loan Federal funds to New York or other cities for construction of municipal power plants if investigations prove they can be operated cheaper than by private companies.

This was made known today at the President's semi-weekly conference in giving his views on current topics.

The President took up the matter with President LaGuardia of New York and City Commissioner Davidson. They have refused bids of private companies to supply next year's power on the ground they were exorbitant.

It was disclosed also that the navy is making a study to determine whether power can be bought cheaper through construction of its own plant in its yards than through private purchase.

Suffers Broken Hip In Auto Mishap

Wilson, N. C., Dec. 19.—A woman living her name as Mrs. Percy White, from Fayetteville, received a broken hip in an automobile accident near the fair grounds here Monday night when the car in which she was riding with her husband and G. L. Sauls, turned over on the slippery concrete twice before it stopped.

Both Sauls and White are being held here charged with driving while drunk. Mrs. White is in a local hospital receiving treatment. On the same night two trucks of the Buchanan Motor Lines turned over in a ditch near Simms. A rainy road was the cause, according to State Patrolman Fiegle. No one was hurt.

TRIBUTE IS PAID HEAD OF E. C. T. C.

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 19.—Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, thinks Dr. Leon S. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville, N. C., is "an honest man."

When he arose to follow Dr. Meadows on the speaking program of the North Carolina Council in Emergency in Education here at the Sir Raleigh Hotel Monday night, Dr. Graham began by saying:

"I want you all to know Dr. Meadows is an honest man. Just about ten minutes ago he brought me this pair of socks which I forgot when I left his home in Greenville Sunday afternoon."

Dr. Graham displayed the socks as the audience applauded what the Greenville pedagogues had done.

Committee will pursue when Baruch appears before them as a witness.

Mr. Roosevelt chose Baruch for apparent reasons. The New York financier was head of the War Industries Board in '17-'18 and for over twelve years he has been perfecting a plan for mobilization of industry in case of future war. Recognized as an authority on the subject he delivers periodic addresses before the Army War College.

But while Baruch would eliminate profiteering in connection with our next call to arms, he would permit a "reasonable profit" for those manufacturing the implements of belligerency direct and indirect. What constitutes a "reasonable profit"? Why should one man make (Continued on page four)

Englishmen In Saar Clash With Natives

Violent friction has broken out between inhabitants of the Saar and Englishmen who have gone there to serve as international policemen in the January 13 plebiscite to determine whether the rich territory shall be returned to Germany, become a part of France or remain under jurisdiction of the League of Nations. Geoffrey C. Knox (above) chief commissioner has been placed in a delicate position by charges that his close friend Capt. Arthur C. Helmsley, British chief of the Saar civil police, was present when English officers insulted a German (Associated Press Photo).

WOMAN DIES ON GALLOWS

Mrs. Ethel Major Put To Death at Hull, England, After Appeal to Royalty

Hull, England, Dec. 19.—(AP)—After appeals to the king and queen had failed to save her, Mrs. Ethel Little Major, gaunt, 42-year-old mother of two children, was hanged today at Hull Prison.

A black flag was hoisted over the penitentiary when she went to her death, the first woman to be executed in England in eight years.

Until the end she manifested she was innocent of the charge of murdering her husband and son.

Three hundred curious persons idly milled inside the prison as she mounted the gallows. The trap was sprung at 9 a. m. (4 a. m. E. S. T.) Two grim-faced policemen paced backed and forth keeping the crowd on the move.

Final urgent appeals for clemency by the mayor of Hull, the last addressed to Buckingham Palace, were fruitless. The appeal to the King and Queen was turned over to the Home Secretary's office which tersely replied that the "decision of the Home Secretary is already known."

The jury that convicted Mrs. Major had recommended clemency.

Rat-Killers. Chicago—(AP)—Nearly 100 "Pied Pipers," substituting poison bait for the mythological pipe, are campaigning to rid Chicago of its estimated 6,000,000 rats. In seven months they killed approximately 500,000 of the rodents in a house-to-house campaign that covered one-third of the city.

LEGION POST LEADS DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Far Ahead of Other Two Towns Teamed With Greenville in State Contest

J. H. Rose, commander of Pitt County Post of the American Legion, last night informed post members assembled in regular monthly meeting at the Third Street School field house, that the local post is way ahead of the two other towns teamed with this post in the statewide membership contest to end January 1.

The commander said the Greenville quota had been placed at 146 and that already they had 101 more members than required. He placed the post membership at this time at 247 and expressed belief the total would reach 275 by expiration of the contest January 1. Other towns teamed with the local post are Elizabeth City and Washington.

A committee from the Legion Auxiliary, composed of Mrs. W. A. Darden, president, Mrs. Dave Clark, Mrs. Luther Bowling and Mrs. Hicks Corey, appeared before the post and told of the work of the auxiliary and what the organization is doing in behalf of those confined at Queen.

The Legionnaires were asked to use their influence in getting their wives to join the Auxiliary so that the organization may render a higher type of service than in recent years.

The post made a gift of $22.35 to aid the Auxiliary in its activities along with five new members.

He allegedly continued on his way without stopping, but was overhauled about a mile and a half further down the road and returned to the city.

Sheriff Whitehurst said information received at his office was that Jackson was taking up more room than allowed him under law when he ran his car into Stock's machine.

Hicks Corey won the prize awarded to the individual member securing the greatest number of members in the membership campaign. He obtained fifty-four new members to lead the post. Other group members winning prizes were A. B. Corey, who obtained forty members; J. H. Rose, who obtained 27; Ficklen Arthur, who showed 22, and Asa Moore, who chalked up 17.

TWO HELD IN WRECK CASE

Wilson Men to Face Trial January 1 on Liquor and Reckless Driving Charges

Two Wilson County men will face trial in County Court here January 1 on charges of possession and transporting liquor and reckless and careless driving.

They are George Lafferty and Charlie Hayes. They were unable to give bond following preliminary hearing and were remanded to jail to await trial.

The charges grew out of wreck with A. J. Jones of the Bethel community several days ago. Witnesses said the automobile occupied by the two men contained several jars of whiskey, some of them being smashed when the wreck occurred.

Another man, Roney Boykin, was being sought by officers in connection with the case. He was reported to have escaped and was last reported in Virginia.

Lafferty gave appearance bond of $200 in Wilson, but when he was brought here for trial he was unable to furnish bail and was placed in jail.

Late News Flashes

Rescue Ship's Crew. Aboard the S. S. Europa At Sea, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sixteen men perishing near death on the storm crushed freighter Sisto owed their lives early today to the gallant lifeboat crew from the passenger liner New York.

Amidst storm lashed seas the Sisto's crew was taken from the sinking freighter last night while four vessels including the palatial Europa stood by playing their searchlights on the scene.

The rescue of the 16 men of the Sisto, a Norwegian boat, was accomplished none too soon, for the little vessel was in a helpless condition when the Europa reached the scene approximately 300 miles off the coast of Ireland.

The Sisto's rudder had been crushed by the giant waves, her life close to her home.

Police bloodhounds were brought from Lynn to Berkeley to Monterey during the night to join the hunt for the missing woman.

Her husband, Joseph Schaffner, a director of the Hart-Schaffner and Marx Company, was flying to Carmel from Chicago. The socially prominent couple divided their time between New York, Chicago, Carmel and San Francisco, 135 miles north of here.

Her sister, Mrs. Marion Todd, of San Francisco, early this morning, reached the Carmel home from which the search is being conducted.

Like attendants at the hospital where Mrs. Schaffner was recently confined, Mrs. Todd refused to discuss her sister's illness.

The local unit of North Carolina National Guards has ended its work for the year and drills will not be resumed until January 2, it was stated today by Captain J. H. Waldrop.

Captain Waldrop said the unit had made a fine record, closing the year with full strength and a long row of honors captured at annual encampment last summer.

The artillerymen have been sent new uniforms by the government and new motor equipment consisting of four new trucks, will be issued by the first of the year.

The new motor equipment, Captain Waldrop stated, will enable his men to go to camp each summer in trucks instead of by train as in the past years. It will also expedite general activities of the unit to no little extent, he said.

The captain also said the armory is being repaired throughout, enabling the unit to assemble all of its department under one roof. The armory has been purchased from L. W. Tucker by J. S. Ficklen, who immediately announced plans for the improvement program.

When completed, the armory will have a club room, stock room, moth room, and other rooms for tools, signals, and a large space for regular drill work and equipment.

Captain Waldrop said the outlook for the post was the brightest in years, and that his men were looking forward to future activities with more than general interest.

Says He Killed In Self-Defense

Wilson, Dec. 19.—After the prosecution had waived a first degree murder charge, offering witnesses to substantiate instead a manslaughter verdict, Walter R. Pittman, on trial in the Superior Court here for having shot Frank Rose to death last August in a sordid love triangle affair, took the stand this afternoon and claimed he had killed in self defense.

Numerous witnesses testified that the defendant, the slain man and the latter's wife, over whom the killing is alleged to have occurred, were all drunk at the time, but this Pittman denied as he did every allegation of the State other than that he had used a shotgun with fatal effect on Rose.

The slaying occurred in the heart of the tobacco warehouse section and was the outcome of numerous quarrels and differences between the two men over the reported love of Mrs. Rose and Pittman for each other. Pittman, whose lawyers are A. O. Dickens and M. S. Strickland insisted that Rose had drawn a knife on him. The case will go to the jury Wednesday morning.

PUSH SEARCH FOR MISSING SOCIETY LADY

Country Around Carmel, Cal., Scoured For Mrs. Elliott Schaffner Today

Carmel, Calif., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The ragged country and beaches around Carmel were searched today for Mrs. Elliott Boke Schaffner, 39-year-old member of the wealthy clothing family.

Apparently clad in a night-gown, and bedroom slippers, Mrs. Schaffner disappeared from the home on the southern tip of this Fritz Aris village.

Released only Monday from a Monterey hospital where she was taken ten days ago for rest, fears were felt that Mrs. Schaffner may have wandered into the ocean surf of Carmel bay or into the tidal mouth of the Carmel River, both close to her home.

Police bloodhounds were brought from Lynn to Berkeley to Monterey during the night to join the hunt for the missing woman.

Her husband, Joseph Schaffner, a director of the Hart-Schaffner and Marx Company, was flying to Carmel from Chicago. The socially prominent couple divided their time between New York, Chicago, Carmel and San Francisco, 135 miles north of here.

Her sister, Mrs. Marion Todd, of San Francisco, early this morning, reached the Carmel home from which the search is being conducted.

Like attendants at the hospital where Mrs. Schaffner was recently confined, Mrs. Todd refused to discuss her sister's illness.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSED TODAY

County System to Close Friday Following Exercises; College Closed Tuesday

Greenville school children threw aside their books today and turned their attention to the many pleasures which will mark the celebration of Christmas in this community.

The county system is a bit slower halting work than the city system, it being stated today by Donald Conley, director of public school education, that work would be discontinued in all schools Friday. Regular class work will be resumed on January 3.

The college closed yesterday and a thousand students, along with several members of the faculty, went to their homes in various parts of the country to see what Santa Claus brought them. The usual exercises enjoyed by the students were held last week and the first of this week, paving the way for celebration of the Yuletide.

Public school Christmas exercises have been in progress all the week, featured by musical programs displaying the talent of the youngsters. The celebration reached its climax last night with presentation of a cantata by the Third Street School and High School in the high school auditorium.

Appropriate exercises were held by the high school this morning at assembly hour, marked by an inspirational talk by Rev. Worth Wicker, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Shortly before school turned out for the holidays the students assembled in the auditorium where Willie Miller, janitor, was presented with his annual check along with numbers of gifts from faculty members and students.

Willie, who ranks high among his race as an orator, expressed appreciation of the gifts with a few remarks.

Impressive exercises are being held in the various county schools this week and will be concluded with entertainments Thursday.

200 OUT OF 285 ARE ILL WITH INFLUENZA

Lexington, N. C., Dec. 19.—Approximately 200 of the some 235 children at the Junior Order Orphan Home here were reported today to be ill with influenza, which became epidemic over the week-end. The outbreak first became noticeable last Thursday and by today had stricken most of the children. Supt. W. M. Shuford, two of the teachers in the Home school, several nurses and other members of the staff. Dr. J. R. Terry, physician for the Home, reported today that none of the victims appeared to be seriously ill.

This is the first serious outbreak of influenza reported in this section since the beginning of winter weather.

The annual loss from moth destruction in the United States is estimated to be about $100,000.

Heavy Gales Forecast For Coast Section

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning: "Advisory 9 a. m.: Northeast storm warning south of Nantucket to Norfolk and southwest storm warning south of Norfolk to Jacksonville. Secondary disturbance over Georgia will move northwest with increasing intensity and cause strong northeast winds and gales early tonight. Boston to Nantucket strong southeast winds and gales in the afternoon south of Norfolk to Norfolk, shifting to northeast later this afternoon or early tonight. South of Norfolk to Wilmington and strong southwest winds this afternoon and tonight between Wilmington and Jacksonville."

ORDER DEATH FOR DISEASED CATTLE HERE

Board of Health Also Requires Stamping Of Diseased Meat Offered For Sale

A far reaching step to prevent the sale of diseased meat in this community was taken by the Pitt County Board of Health here this week when it ordered that all diseased cattle and hogs be destroyed and provided a definite plan for protection of the public in case diseased meat is offered for sale.

The board also took several other steps looking to safeguard the health of the community after attending a cordial welcome to Dr. Ennet, new health officer, who took over duties here the first of the month.

After discussing reports of the sale of diseased cattle and hogs in the community the board ruled "that on account of the diseased condition of cattle and hogs and in the interest of public health all such cattle and hogs be destroyed."

It also ruled that in every case where diseased cattle and hogs are slaughtered and offered for sale by dealers for human consumption the dealer shall be required to stamp meat as diseased or place before it a placard stating "that this meat is diseased."

The Pitt county health officer was also instructed not to practice any "curative medicine" but confine his attention to "preventative" medicine. The instructions were issued after the board had determined that the health department had been giving attention to individual indigent cases and in view of the fact that the Board of County Commissioners has provided a way to take care of such cases without the aid of the health officer.

It was ruled that any pupil attending public schools of the county found to be infected by any form of venereal disease be excluded from school until after proper treatment and be required to present a certificate from a physician showing no danger of infecting others contacted in daily school life.

A committee composed of Dr. W. I. Wooten, Dr. M. T. Prizelle and Dr. Paul Fitzgerald was named to take up the venereal clinic question and to report back to the board at its next meeting with definite recommendations as to the best way to handle the clinics. The clinics are those held in the courthouse each week for colored people.

Gwaltney Death Charged Against One of 2 Negroes

New Bern, N. C., Dec. 19.—Deciding that Jeff D. Gwaltney, 80, of the Honolulu sections of this county, came to his death by blows inflicted December 8 with a heavy 2x4 stick at his filling station by either Monk Harris, a negro, or Caesar Miller, negro, a coroner's jury here Monday recommended that both negroes be held for the grand jury next month. In this decision Magistrate R. H. Kehoe, who presided jointly at the hearing, concurred; and both negroes are in jail here without privilege of bond.

The aged white man died Tuesday afternoon of last week in a local hospital, and the suspected assailants were captured after an intensive search. Each blames the other for the attack. Neither took the stand during the inquest.

Reward of $25 each for the capture went respectively to Kingston officers who arrested Miller, on a local tip, and to Constable R. L. Armstrong and Deputy Harris in the Greenville section. An extra $25.00 was donated for the local officers by C. W. Wetherington, of the Maple Cypress section, this to be divided among Armstrong, Cox, Constables J. S. Bryan and Leon Scales, all of whom were of valuable assistance to Sheriff R. E. Lane in the search.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

UNDER-INFLATION COSTLY

Speaking of controlled inflation and currency, don't you forget that controlled inflation of your tires will conserve your currency! Also, proper tire inflation is a good investment in comfort and safety. Under-inflation cracks the side walls of a tire. It makes the car harder to steer and increases fatigue in driving. It causes a dangerous "shimmy," makes your car "roll," places an extra burden on your engine, and consumes more gas.

Gift To Auxiliary. The regular monthly meeting of the Auxiliary of the American Legion was held on Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. A. Darden, on Jarvis Street, with Mrs. Charles O'H. Laughlin, house, Mrs. A. M. Moseley, Mrs. P. G. Dennis and Miss Mollie Manning assisting hostesses.

A number of business matters and plans for the Christmas gifts to Otten were discussed.

At the previous meeting J. H. Rose, commander of the local post of the American Legion, spoke to members of the Auxiliary and invited Mrs. Darden and a committee to meet with the Legion last evening to discuss plans to assist the Auxiliary in carrying on the work at Otten.

The committee, including Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. L. H. Bowling, Mrs. J. Hicks Corey and Mrs. W. L. Cherry, eager to accept the hospitality of the Legion attended the meeting last evening. As Mrs. Darden began speaking, Mr. Rose on behalf of the post presented her with a most generous donation to be used by the Auxiliary. This was a very clever idea on the part of the Legion and was gratefully accepted by the Auxiliary.

Christmas Festival Friday.

The Christmas Festival, on which the members of the Little Theatre Guild and the Greenville Choral Club have been so busily engaged will be presented this Friday evening at eight o'clock. There will be no chains at the gates, and as this is to be a community affair, and no admission will be charged, a large crowd is expected. Members of the Kiwanis Club are sponsoring this experiment in community drama which is a part of a local E. R. A. project.

The various parts of the Festival, which deals with the history of an imaginary Greenville family, were written by local people. Miss Jane Hadley and Miss Alma Lee wrote the dialogue for the modern scene which depicts the family on Christmas Eve, 1934. The clock is turned backwards to the "gay nineties" for which Miss Jane Hall is largely responsible. In this sequence back-copies of the Reflector were used as source material, and the older folks in town will find many items mentioned with which they are familiar.

The next scene discloses the reception room of an East Carolina home on the day before Christmas. Preparations and festivities were most elaborate during these days of gracious living around 1845. Miss Margaret Sammon found many customs of interest which she incorporated into the writing of this scene including the Christmas deer hunt, bringing in the "back-log" for the slaves, and the visit of "John Coonahs."

The mistress of "Twin Oaks" manor is portrayed by Mrs. C. C. Hilton, her daughter Penelope, is played by Miss Agnes Wadlington, and her friend Elizabeth Morgan by Miss Helen McGinnis. Others appearing in the scene include Worth Wicker, Sam Underwood, Hugh Highsmith, Broodie Ginn, Kenneth Henderson, Billy Combs, Jane Scoville and Ione Hooker Bradsher.

Every effort is being made to make this scene as glamorous as possible. Reproductions of some American furniture of the Federal period are being lent by one local firm and a drum table by another. An "original" piece of the period is being supplied by an antique shop. The costumes are copies from old hunting prints and from the pages of "Godly Ladies Book."

The final scene deals with a still earlier Christmas and was founded on an incident of North Carolina history of 1740.

The Festival is under the direction of Miss Mary Dirnberger who is here in Greenville as head of the E. R. A. project in community drama. According to the director, the purpose of this project is to supply a number of people with an opportunity to take an active part in some phase of dramatic activity, and to supply the community at large with a better brand of home-made dramatic entertainment. Miss Dirnberger received training at the University under Professor Koch and has been a staff member of the Carolina Playmakers.

Presbyterian Sunday Services.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church will hold their worship services next Sunday in the church building. This announcement is made due to the fact that the congregation last Sunday worshipped at the Sheppard Memorial Library. The heating plant which necessitated this temporary change in place of services has now been fixed, enabling the members to return to the church. Both morning and evening services will be held Sunday, December 23.

Ballard's X Road

Mr. Chambers brought us a helpful and inspiring message Sunday afternoon.

The Sunday School was well attended and interesting as usual. If our people would only attend as they should! Can we not realize that the real business of life is to prepare for death?

Friends will be glad to know that Mr. M. M. Smith has returned home after a serious illness in the Duke Hospital.

We are glad to note also that Mr. T. J. Pilgreen is very much better.

Married: On Wednesday the 12th of December at the home of the Rev. Mr. Woodard of Winterville, Mr. Thurman Crawford to Miss Elizabeth Allen. Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed by Mr. Woodard, they left for a short trip north. They will make their home with Mr. Crawford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Crawford. The best wishes of the community attend them.

Lets make our windows gay with wreaths of holly and let us sing our Christmas carols with heavenly joy but oh, let us not forget the sick and the unfortunate.

Arthur P. T. A. Meets.

The Arthur Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday night in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. R. E. Willoughby, presiding.

In the business meeting a finance report was given. It was decided that the parents should have charge of the program in January.

The program, which was a Christmas pageant, was given by the third, fourth and fifth grades.

The attendance contest for the first semester was won by Mrs. Phillips in the lower grades, and Mr. Oglesby in the higher grades.

Ayden Choral Club.

Ayden, Dec. 18.—The Ayden Choral Club, which comprises the senior high school and junior groups, will give a Christmas Carol service at the Christian Church Thursday evening, Dec. 20, at 7:30 o'clock.

The chorus will be composed of 90 voices that have been in training for the past four months under the able leadership of Professor Frederick Allen. Besides the selections which will be given by the combined voices, each group comprising the unit will give three selections.

The public is invited and urged to attend. No offering will be taken.

This Choral Club is a unit of the North Carolina Music Festival Association which was organized in September by Pat Alderman of Dunn, who has labored so diligently to make North Carolina a singing state. The programs that are being put over by his directors show that his dreams are being realized. Already he is receiving national recognition.

"Peace Drive" Follows Suffrage Technique

By W. F. CALDWELL

Bogart, Ga. — (AP) — From her farm near here, Miss Jeannette Rankin plans vigorous use of the precinct method followed in the women's suffrage campaign to spread her ideas for peace in the sixth Georgia congressional district.

The district is represented by Chairman Carl Vinson of the House naval affairs committee.

Despite criticism from the Atlanta post of the American Legion, she says she plans to continue her lectures at Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga., in the interest of peace. The college recently announced the proposed creation of a chair of peace to be occupied by Miss Rankin.

"I have canvassed over half of the precincts in the district and visited 10 of the 16 counties," she said in telling of the program that has been followed since she came for a visit to her Georgia home last August.

A former member of Congress from Montana, Miss Rankin made it clear she does not intend to enter the race for Representative Vinson's seat in 1936. However, she indicated she and her associates would support a candidate against him if he continues to favor big appropriations for naval building.

She said she is an independent in politics and an official resident of Montana, her home being at Missoula in that state.

Explaining her method of reaching the sixth district voters, Miss Rankin said she is following the plan which proved so successful in the suffrage campaign. In Montana she and others made speeches to voters in the streets and then got their signatures to cards favoring their cause.

She campaigned also in New York. "I climbed many tenement stairs in New York City in 1911 in working for suffrage," she said, "and I know the effectiveness of reaching the individual voters."

Miss Rankin first gets a list of the justices of the peace in Georgia, of whom there are 2,500. Driving her own automobile, she looks them up. Usually, she says, they are among the leading citizens of their neighborhoods.

After meeting one, she says she asks him if he favors war and invariably, she says, the reply is "No." With that introduction she outlines her plans to prevent war and, if possible, gets his signature to a post card setting forth this belief.

Miss Rankin says that there is more peace sentiment in the south than in other parts of the country and that she and her associates believe this section and the west offer the best opportunities for spreading their views.

Famine has infested India more than any other country in all history.

$1,000,000 Village U. S. Answer To Stranded People

By LARRY ALLEN

Winfield, W. Va.—(AP)—A million dollar farm village built in the rich Kanawha river valley is the federal government's latest answer to the problem of "stranded populations."

It is the subsistence homestead project at Red House, in southern West Virginia, built by the West Virginia relief administration and financed wholly by federal funds, for the rehabilitation of the unemployed.

Nestled among the hills of Putnam county are 52 modern cottages, all equipped with new housekeeping devices, which will be ready for occupancy January 1.

Each house stands on an acre of land to be tilled by the occupants. In addition there is a community farm of about 500 acres to be worked by all the villagers, and 1,127 acres of hill lands for pastures and orchards.

Soon there will be shops on the grounds of the administration building where some of the villagers may work.

Privately owned factories also are hoped for—but the administration has said little about this angle.

"It's an experiment, of course," says William N. Beehler, state relief administrator in whose name as trustee the project is registered.

"We already have made careful investigations of more than 1,000 families who want to move in there, and we haven't accepted one of them definitely yet. We are going to pick only the best."

Most families selected as homesteaders by the relief administration will be those of destitute miners from southern West Virginia counties. Each will have a year's trial, during which it will pay "a nominal rent" and be required to earn a living by selling the soil.

Each family will have besides the acre of ground, a barn, a cow, two pigs and some chickens. Each barn is constructed so it can serve as a garage.

Families which prove worthy in the 12-month test period will be given a chance to buy their homes and land on notes payable over a period of 20 years.

Red House—it takes its name from the big red brick house which until several months ago was the sole building on the site—is the third subsistence homestead project in West Virginia. The other two are at Reedsville and in Tygart's Valley.

It is the first in the nation, however, to be built and operated by a state, although financed by the federal government.

Beehler says the interior department is planning or building about 50' other subsistence homestead projects.

The cinder-block houses at Red House, designed for a severe climate are costing an average of $2,150 each, including land and barn.

The first group built at Red House—152 houses—has brought the government's investment there to $620,000 and 102 others planned for the future will raise the cost to more than $1,000,000, officials say.

Construction work employs 450 men daily, taken from relief rolls and given jobs at from 45 cents to $1.31 an hour.

The homes are grouped around

Friend of Deacon In Poison Trial

the old colonial type brick, 14-room residence which is to be enlarged for administration offices, shops and other community needs of the villagers.

A parkway boulevard is under construction, and there is a road leading from the village down to the river, splitting the large community farm. The whole project covers 2,200 acres.

SEEKING TO IDENTIFY SANFORD'S FIRST CITIZEN

Sanford, N. C., Dec. 19.—Sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Sanford Herald is receiving the names of outstanding citizens, from whom will be selected the man who has contributed most to Lee County's growth, prosperity and welfare during the year 1934.

A trophy will be awarded to the man selected by the judges from the names submitted. Among names nominated thus far are: E. O. McMahan, county agent; Dr. J. F. Foster, County Commissioner; S. V. Stevens, of Broadway, and State Senator T. S. (Lux) Cross.

COMMITTED TO JAIL IN DEFAULT OF BOND

Selma, N. C., Dec. 19.—Thurman Johnson, Elevation Township youth, who is charged along with Mrs. Mary Langston with the murder of Zeb Lassiter, was committed to jail in default of a $10,000 bond. He had previously been free under a $2,000 bond, but the bond was raised last week. The Johnson-Langston murder case, which was scheduled to come up for trial in the present Johnston County Superior Court, has been continued until the March term.

MONEY TALKS

When the argument as to the biggest and best tobacco markets gets into full swing...

We have always heard that money talks and if this is so certainly the arguments should be in favor of the Greenville market.

IN FINE SHAPE

It is gratifying that Pitt County has been able to take care of its defaulted obligations out of tax collections without having to resort to borrowing or issuing new bonds to do so.

USE CARE IN DECORATING

Again we urge our people in decorating for Christmas to avoid as far as possible the use of inflammable materials in their decorations.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas French, Jerry Morvant and Molly O'Brien have banded together in an effort to recover a valuable formula, which has been stolen from Molly.

Chapter 30 ESCAPE

LEAVING Jimmy on guard I hurried to the staircase. I felt certain that Molly would be on one of the upper floors, probably in a back room, and on reaching the first landing, I made straight for the door facing me.

It was locked, but the key was on the outside. I wrenched it round, nearly breaking it in my haste, and then, as the light of my torch swept the room, an unprintable oath burst from my lips.

She was strapped down on a small truckle bed, her hands tied behind her—her ankles fastened to the rail at the end. The lower half of her face was almost hidden by a roughly twisted handkerchief, which had been stretched across her mouth and knotted tightly at the back.

Her voice was so weak that I could scarcely catch the words. "Those devils dragged you at the hotel and took you away in a car."

"I don't feel too well," she admitted faintly. "Never mind now; I'll explain later. I stuffed the knife back into my pocket and picked up the torch which was lying on the bed."

"I'm better now, Nick. I believe I could walk if you helped me." It was Molly's voice close to my ear.

Tornado: Men who know the President well are convinced he injected the administration into the situation, not to protect the manufacturers from further disclosures of their tremendous wartime and peacetime profits, but rather because he feared the Senate investigation might develop a public tornado of resentment that would interfere with long-developed plans for national defense.

And there you have some of the reasons Mr. Roosevelt's friends wish he had left the Nye Committee to its own machinations.

Praise: A prophet sometimes gets his honor if he waits long enough. This time the prophet is Herbert Hoover. His honor comes from President Roosevelt's National Resources Board, headed by Secretary of Interior Ickes and including Frederic A. Delano, the President's uncle, as one of its most active members.

The FEBS—if you will pardon alphabetizing another board—was conceived and set up by former President Hoover. When Ickes first tackled the job of spending $3,300,000 on public works in 1933 the data collected by this board was about all he had to go on.

Practical: recently Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana was in Washington and called on President Roosevelt and other members of the New Deal. Out in the 2nd Indiana District Fred Landis, a Republican, was elected to Congress by 11,000 votes and then died.

McNutt explained that when Landis beat Durgan the corn-hog cheeks had not yet arrived in the district from Washington. Charles A. Halleck prosecuting attorney of Jasper County, has been named by the Republicans to run in the special election but the Governor makes no bones of his intention of waiting until those corn-hog cheeks start flowing in before setting the date.

REALTY STILL MOVES LIVLEY

Approximately Forty Deeds of Transfer Filed Here During The Past Week

Real estate continued to change hands in Pitt county during the last week and records in the office of the register of deeds today revealed that approximately forty such transactions were made here during the period.

The batch was the second largest filed here during the month, over sixty transfers having been reported last week.

The largest of the transactions filed here this week was that of F. C. Harding, Commissioner to L. E. Sugg and wife, for a consideration of $4,410.

The next most important deal was that from Land and Investment Corporation to J. M. Tripp, $2,600.

There were a number of transactions ranging all the way from $1.00 to $2,500. Several went above the $1,000 mark.

The list follows:
W. H. Bradsher, Tr., to Greenville Bldg. & Loan Assn., $1,000.
J. T. Keel and wife to R. O. Lang, $500.

Charles Hopkins to H. A. Rollins, $450.
Wachovia Bank & Tr. Co., to O. C. Stroud, $300.

R. D. Harrington and wife to Jno. L. Windham, $1,600.
Land & Inv. Corp., to J. M. Tripp, $2,600.

E. G. Flanagan and wife to C. J. Cannon and wife, $250.

BETHEL GRABS 20 TO 19 TILT FROM GREENIES

By WM. WATSON MORGAN

The Greenies of the Greenville High School opened the basketball season last night in Bethel by losing a close, hard-fought game to the Bethel High School, 20 to 19.

Greenie's opened the scoring when Ed. Wells made a crisp shot under the basket and the ball had been worked to that point by some nice passing by the entire Greenville team. Greenville continued to lead throughout most of the first half, but at intermission both teams were tied at seven-all.

During the third quarter Bethel made a spurt, and at one time during this quarter they were leading the Greenies by the score of 18 to 3.

A time out stopped this rally and Greenville engineered a scoring spree of their own which came very close to netting them victory. The final whistle found both teams fighting a nip and tuck battle, with a free-for-all scramble most of the last quarter.

Ed. Wells and Carroll were the leaders for Greenville, each scoring six points. They were closely followed by Pearce. Highsmith, with 11 points, was the big noise for Bethel.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, said to Judge Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves, "No Dogs Allowed," and Judge Fuchs said, "Okay, Judge!"

Fuchs wanted to turn his ball park into a dog racing track at night, but Commissioner Landis, who got this $50,000 a year job because gamblers had almost ruined the game of baseball in the 1919 scandal, is tawing no chance of losing his job because of them.

This seems to be a good decision. Exactly what made Judge Fuchs think he could get permission from Landis to mix the two sports is not quite clear.

But the decision does serve as a reminder that the game of professional baseball is one of the most admirable industries in America today. If all the industries of the nation were conducted with the honesty of "the National game," the government would not need to apply the whip.

It's On the Square
The last National League campaign illustrates the game's honesty. The Giants held a long lead going into the last month of the campaign, but started sliding in the second week of the month. The Cardinals were coming strong, and in the last series of the season, with the pennant still at stake, they were scheduled against the Cincinnati Reds while the Giants met the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Playing for the Reds this year were several former members of the Cardinals, Jim Bottomley at first, Gordon Slade at short, Sparky Adams at third, Chick Hafey in the field, and Paul Derringer and Allyn Sout on the pitching staff. The tendency of the Reds and Cards to do business with each other had often caused the scribes to wonder if there was not some connection between the two clubs. Still, when the Cards swept the four-game series from the Reds, there was never a hint that everything was not upstairs. In fact, everyone who knows anything about the National League is acquainted with the fact that the Reds would rather win a ball game from the Cardinals than from any other club in the league.

Rough But Honest
And in the other series between the Dodgers and the Giants, everyone knew that Casey Stengel's gang would come into the Polo Grounds and give everything they had to knock the Giants out of the lead. The fans knew Stengel would pitch Van Mungo in the first game against Terry's men, and they flocked out by the thousands to watch this.

That Stengel did pitch Van Mungo and that he defeated the Giants two straight is no longer conversation except in Flatbush where they will never forget it, but it still remains to the credit of the game that in perhaps the greatest gambling center of the country the game got past a perfect gambling set-up without a single suggestion that it wasn't on the level.

The fact that the National League decided to allow the clubs to toy with night baseball right after refusing to listen to Judge Fuchs' story is evidence that the league is willing to keep changing to meet new situations!

Washington, D. C. Backstage gossip here has it that the White House deliberately inspired Vice President Garner to declare recently that the administration off in the Speaker's chair fight.

"Cactus Jack's" assertion was to the effect that he had seen no evidence the executive end of the government intended to interfere with the legislative, and added his own opinion: "That is as it should be." There's more to it than that, however, Washington politicians believe. Here's their explanation:

As the situation looks now, the administration probably will encounter trouble in the coming Congress, particularly in the House. There are several possible sources of embarrassment looming on the legislative horizon.

That Veterans' Bonus
Immediate cash payment of the veterans' bonus is one. The issue may be side-tracked in the Senate, but no one will predict with any degree of assurance what will happen in the House.

Such questions as permanent NRA legislation, relief, the St. Lawrence waterway and perhaps the currency issue, may provoke any amount of trouble for the administration.

Politicians believe President Roosevelt has kept this thought uppermost in his mind during all his reflections on the leadership of the House in the next Congress. That he is desirous of having as strong an organization as possible no one denies, but whether he could afford to do anything personally to bring about such a desired result is another question. And it is thought for this reason:

Were the administration to throw its support to any one candidate, or even so much as make a gesture in that direction, and later in the session the House were to turn its back on the President on a major legislative proposal, the result might prove embarrassing.

'Not My Baby'
It might then be charged by opposing forces that men "hand-picked" by the administration to be its House leaders are unable to maintain control.

On the other hand, with the President playing hands-off in the matter, there will be no such reaction. If the House chooses to oppose his wishes in any given legislative proposal, he can make use of one of his favorite phrases—"That's not my baby."

There's another advantage to the administration also in keeping aloof

POLITICS AT RANDOM

By BRYON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The problem of war profits, about which little has been heard for years, now is promised a front seat at the forthcoming legislative fracas on Capitol Hill.

For a time it appeared that, in spite of the Senate munitions investigation, this subject might be lost in the shuffle. The investigators were pegging away but they were attracting diminishing attention and there was no evidence that Senators and Representatives in general were deeply interested.

President Roosevelt's announcement that he would propose legislation of his own to "take the profit out of war" changed all that.

Committee members protested loudly that the White House was trying to sidetrack their inquiry. This promptly was denied, yet the incident served to convince almost everyone that continuation of the hearing for weeks to come and much floor debate thereafter, at last had been assured.

It is not generally known, even in Washington, that the resolution under which the committee is acting is not confined to the munitions question. A second part of it, drafted originally by the American Legion, calls for a recommendation on this very subject of work profits generally.

Some committeemen are so irritated by the turn of events that this second part of the inquiry is sure to receive special attention.

The Speakership Fight
The campaign for the House Speakership has involved far more bitterness than ever appeared on the surface. The fighting was particularly severe.

For some years the senior Democratic members—and they are the ones who really settle organization matters—have been divided into two camps.

One group was composed of the particular friends of John N. Garner; the other included a number of leaders of somewhat lesser rank.

Court Asks Questions

The Supreme Court usually is thought of as settling disputes rather than starting them. It started a real one, however, when it asked certain questions about the oil code case.

It wanted to know several things which the government attorneys couldn't tell it off-hand: What had become of the records? Had they ever been given to the public, and if not, why not? On what facts had the President acted when he promulgated the oil code?

Government counsel seemed much surprised. There had been a feeling of confidence in administration circles that all would be well when these "new deal" test suits came up. Much scurrying about followed when the court became inquisitive.

One possibility foreseen by lawyers is that a real test of the legality of code procedure may be still further delayed.

If, instead of deciding whether code making is constitutional, the highest tribunal disposes of the case on the technical ground of a faulty record, it may be weeks before the issue can be fought out again.

My Beauty Hint

An extra-fastidious touch is seeing that the toe-nails are just as beautiful as fingernails. After the bath, push back the cuticle. Some women even add a touch of polish.

I think that frequent washing of the hair adds much to its beauty, especially if the hair is blonde. If weather permits, dry the hair in the sun. Otherwise brush it dry.

In shampooing, use a soap rich in oil—it provides nourishment for the hair besides loosening the scalp for thorough cleansing.

Letters To Santa Claus

Santa Claus Is Coming.
I stood at the shop window
And gazed at the toys inside:
Drums, trucks, dolls and houses;
Tricycles on which to ride.
I watched an electric train
Whistling around a long track,
I thought of all the goodies
There'd be put in Santa's pack.
By me stood a little boy
His nose pressed against the pane,
His clothes were patched and worn,
He too, was watching the train.
"And what will Santa bring you?"
I asked of him. "Nothin' cause—"
He looked at me wistfully,
"Ain't no poor folks Santa Claus.
They're toys for the rich folks—"
He knows where each of 'em stay;
But us," he looked sadly down,
"He don't never come our way."
He turned back to the window
And I stood in silent thought,
Santa Claus belongs to all
The right things in life have sought
I touched his arm, and he turned.
"Where do you live?" I asked him.
"I want to remind Santa to Fill your stocking to the brim."
"Oh—would you, honest lady?"
The dull eyes brightened and shone,
The thin hand grasped my own hands,
In the crowd we seemed alone.
"I've been a good boy," he said,
"Most anything'll be all right."
And I know that Santa will Visit him Christmas Eve night.
—GLADYS BEST, Ayden, N. C.

My address is 1108 West 4th St.,

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little girl 12 years old. I live at 1108 W. 4th St. This is what I want for Christmas. I want a coat and a basketball, and nuts and fruit and candy.
Santa I have a white bull dog.
He is kinda bad but don't you worry about him because he has a long chain.
I do not know what store mother and daddy is going to get our things from but I will try to let you know where it is coming from.
Santa I am in the 7th grade in school. My name is Evelyn Louise Jones. My mother and father's name is Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones.
Don't forget to go to see all the unfortunate children.
Santa I will see that our front door is not locked the 24th.
I have made a dollar this fall and winter because daddy pays me a dime for every 100 I get. I give my love to your Brownie and Mrs.
Santa. Love you,
—Evelyn Louise Jones.

Greenville, Sunday, Dec. 16

Dear Santa:
I hope you are well. Please be good to me and bring me something.
Please bring me a colored doll and a white doll. I am a good girl. I am 4 years old. Come to my home to see me. I want to tell you something, bring me a wash board, a pair bedroom slipper, size 10.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—In their quest for the reason why President Roosevelt embarked so suddenly on his crusade "to the profit out of war," observers have run into all sorts of explanations.
Intimations by Senator Nye, of North Dakota, and Vandenberg, of Michigan, that Mr. Roosevelt is attempting to steal the "thunder" of the Senate Munitions Investigation Committee has been met with the retort that this committee has had the support of the White House from the start. In his message to Congress on May 17 of this year, the President declared:
"I am gratified to learn that . . .
(such) a committee has been appointed . . . I earnestly recommend that it receive the generous support of the Senate. . . ."

Some see General Hugh Johnson's presence on the President's special committee as evidence that Mr. Roosevelt has had such a move in mind for some time.

Right In His Line
They recall that when General Johnson stepped out as NRA administrator in September the President said at the time that he would be able to "help me further in the new duties and new tasks for public service."

Did Mr. Roosevelt mean by "new duties and new tasks for the General" membership on his special committee to find ways and means of de-profiting war? There are many who believe it possible.
Such a job is right in Johnson's line. As the protégé of Bernard Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board during the World War and admittedly one of the foremost students of the problem, the General seems particularly equipped for such a job.
Johnson accompanied Baruch when he appeared before the war politics commission during the Hoover administration and read most of the elaborate brief prepared by Baruch outlining the manner in which the profit might be taken out of war.

Bonus Issue 'Balance'
The explanation also is offered that the President probably was motivated by the pressing demand for cash bonus. In the American Leg-ion's program the question of the bonus closely parallels that organization's other legislative proposal of conscription of capital as well as man-power in time of war. With the bonus issue to be met in the next Congress, concentration on the leg-ion's other proposal might be good policy, it is pointed out.
It is believed in some quarters that the trend which the Senate's munitions investigation has taken might have had some weight with the White House.
At any rate, the President's special committee is expected to approach the problem from a strictly domestic viewpoint. The Nye munitions committee's investigation has been concerned largely with the international phases of the question.

The Seattle, Wash., city council has passed an ordinance giving blind persons free rides on city street cars.

NEGRO HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(A Parody of Gettysburg Address by Samuel Hemy and Joseph Tucker, senior, class 1935, to Professor C. M. Epps).

One score and eleven years ago
Professor C. M. Epps brought forth upon this hill the origin of our present G. H. S. He had but one purpose, and was determined to see that all Negroes in Greenville would get an equal right to gain an education.

Now we are pondering over the proposition whether Negroes that have attended this school, those who are attending now, and the citizens of our beloved Greenville, have taken the advice that Professor Epps has so gallantly, in the face of so many hardships and gossips, bestowed upon them. Upon this hill he has engaged in many battles, and endured many hardships; therefore we ought to commemorate him on his great victory.
He has provided so that the boys and girls of our race, through education, might have a bigger and better Greenville.

To the brave men who helped him on his way, in the persons of Governor Jarvis, Mr. Hardine, Mr. Rose, Mayor Flanagan, the School Board and scores of other citizens, may God bless them. The people of Greenville may soon forget what he has said in the many pleasant speeches that he has delivered, for the benefit of the Negroes of Greenville, but they will always remember what he has accomplished in racial good-will. Long after his brave and dauntless soul has gone to rest in the great beyond, his works will be remembered.

It is our duty to carry on the work which he so bravely started.
We say in behalf of the children of G. H. S. that his coming to Greenville has been a great blessing, and his work has not been in vain. He has made our town stand out as one of the greatest in Eastern Carolina in the field of education; and we feel as if Epps is doing all that is within his power to further the education of the Negro in Greenville.

We hope that the coming boys and girls of Greenville will have a new kind of education through the leadership of our beloved principal, and that the works of Epps for the benefit of Negro children shall never flee from the minds and souls of those that will attend old G. H.
S. in the time to come.

Colored Nursery School.
The colored people in Greenville are being aided very much by the ERA nursery school, which is located in the basement of the Colored Methodist Church. The state supervisor says that the school is doing splendid work, and the school promises to be a still greater success after Christmas when it is moved into the colored school building.
The staff of the school will be pleased to have the white citizens of Greenville visit the school at any time. They will also appreciate the moral support of every organization in the city.

THE PLUMBER PROTECTS THE HEALTH OF THE NATION

Down the street...often away from shopping centers...sometimes almost obscured by the flashing fronts of other merchants...frequently, identified only by a modest sign, you'll find the guardian of health—your Master Plumber.

Without the Master Plumber there would be no modern civilization... no large thriving cities...no modern homes...no skyscrapers...for modern civilization depends upon modern sanitation. And, sanitation is the life-work of the Master Plumber.
His skill has brought the cleanliness, comfort and protection which have made American homes and American health the wonder of the rest of the world. His craftsmanship has made possible modern apartments, modern skyscrapers, modern homes.
Unheralded, sometimes unnoticed, the Master Plumber has done his work so well that the world actually has beaten a pathway to his door. His work is so important that states and cities have laws not only regulating the installation of plumbing, but setting a standard for the plumber himself. No other profession is more strictly regulated than the Master Plumbers. And these laws to protect public health and insure the highest standard of professional skill have been passed largely through the insistence of the Master Plumbers themselves.

So get acquainted with your Master Plumber! You will find him ready and eager to serve you. He will be glad to show you the most modern Plumbing Fixtures and help you select the designs most suitable to your purpose and purpose. His practical knowledge, his long experience, his familiarity with local sanitary laws will be of inestimable value in assuring you the utmost service at the lowest cost. He will be glad to explain the National Housing Act—arrange convenient payments without red tape—without down payments. See your Master Plumber first for new Plumbing Fixtures.

The following Master Plumbers of Greenville, N. C., have agreed to close their respective places of business Monday, Dec. 24, and Tuesday,

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, three points lower to one point higher, owing to near-month liquidation and trade buying of late positions.
Prices turned easier toward the end of the first half hour. January sold off from 12.47 to 12.44, and March from 12.57 to 12.55, with active months showing net declines of two or three points around 10:30 o'clock.
The market continued very quiet later in the day except for some further liquidation in new months and a switch into deliveries. At midday January was ruling around 12.45 and May 12.56, with the general list net unchanged to five points lower,
December being relatively easy.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A selling flurry the first hour of trading gave the stock market a setback today from which it showed little disposition to recover in the day wore on.
The selling started in the public utility shares with Consolidated working to a new low coincident with a discussion in Washington of providing funds for a new municipal plant to provide a yardstick to bring down New York rates.
Selling spread to other parts of the list, but soon subsided, and by early afternoon the list was quiet a trifle above low.
In bonds U. S. Government were again firm. Leading commodities were narrowly changed.
Selling in utility shares ruled the general stock list lower.
Activity was moderate. Late prices were around the low levels for the day.
Transfers were 850,000 shares.
