SECOND NEW DEAL CONGRESS GETS UNDER WAY

Hauptmann Jury Finished; Mrs. Lindbergh Takes Stand

GERMAN FACES MURDER CASE WITH SILENCE

Stoically, Bruno Richard Hauptmann Goes on Trial For Kidnaping Baby in Flemington Court; Long List of Witnesses to be Examined During Eventful Court Session

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Ann Morrow Lindbergh whose 20-month-old curly-headed baby was taken from his crib and slain two years and ten months ago, went on the witness stand today to face Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 36-year old Bronx carpenter, accused of the crime.

The young mother was the second witness in the swift moving trial of Hauptmann in which New Jersey seeks to send him to the electric chair.

Taking of testimony began immediately after the state's statement of its case was read by Walter E. Roberts, Hunterdon engineer on the stand to explain charts of the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell, in line with the state's attempt to prove the crime was committed at the place charged.

The attorney general, David T. Wilentz, told the jury he would prove the man who kidnaped and murdered the baby sits in this courtroom. Then accusing Hauptmann he said:

"He went out that window and down that ladder of his. The ladder broke because he had more weight going down than he had coming up. And down he went with the child."

"In the commission of that burglary the child was instantly killed when it received that first blow. It received a horrible fracture, the dimensions of which when you hear about it will convince you that death was instantaneous."

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 3.—(AP)—The jury to try Bruno Hauptmann for the brutal slaying of Charles Lindbergh, Jr., was completed at 10:59 today.

SEEK BIG SUM FOR N.C. RIVERS

Chief Army Engineers Report $277,250 Can Be Spent on Waterway Development

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The chief army engineers reported today that $277,250 can be profitably spent for maintenance of rivers and harbors and inland waterways in North Carolina during the 1935-36 fiscal year.

In addition that recommended an expenditure of $875,000 for new works on the Intra-Coastal Waterway from Cape Fear river in North Carolina to Winyah Bay, S. C., bringing the total amount appropriated for the state to share in to a total of $1,655,250.

The proposed new works as outlined in the report called for completion of dredging on the three stretches of the Cape Fear river-Winyah bay links.

A total of $243,000 was recommended for maintenance of Cape Fear river in the vicinity of Wilmington, $225,000 being listed for expenditures below the city, $15,000 above, and $3,000 on the Northeast river a part of the Cape Fear.

The report proposed a maintenance expenditure of $98,000 for the Morehead City, N. C., harbor which is to be developed with $1,555,000 allotted last year in the public works funds.

MORE PUPILS ENTER SCHOOL

Enrollment in City System Boosted by 100 as Work is Resumed Here

Attendance was increased by one hundred when the city school system resumed work yesterday morning, it was reported today by J. H. Rose, superintendent.

Fifteen new pupils were enrolled in the various white schools and 85 in the colored institutions, the report revealed. The increase brought the total enrollment for all schools to 3,015, the largest in the history of the system.

Mr. Rose said 226 children were absent on account of influenza and other kinds of illness when school began work. "Flu" was reported as epidemic in many sections of the county and sharp reduction in attendance was expected as the various county units opening this morning.

Mr. Rose said he hoped the schools would be running with full attendance in the next week or so, providing the influenza spread does not become more serious. The illness was described as of a mild form and was expected to keep children away from school for only a few days.

Vanceboro Man Dies Following Stroke Paralysis

SLOGAN BODY TO BE NAMED HERE FRIDAY

Mayor Flanagan Says Highway Safety Slogan Campaign Will End January 5

Mayor R. C. Flanagan announced today that the committee to decide on the slogan being submitted in the "Safety First" campaign launched here about a month ago would be announced tomorrow.

The committee will decide upon the slogan to adorn banners to be used in the campaign in this community to reduce highway accidents and the grisly death toll. The person writing the best slogan will be awarded $10.

The mayor, who is director of the campaign, said he had received quite a number of slogans since the end of the Christmas holidays and expressed belief the total would grow rapidly between now and January 5 when the time limit expires.

Only one or two slogans had been received a day or so after Christmas. At that time the mayor announced extension of the time limit from January 1st to the 5th to give the community ample time to think over the slogans and present their best effort.

The drive to reduce highway accidents will not be confined to this community alone. It was decided at the beginning of the campaign, but other communities of this immediate section of the state will be asked to take part. At the end of each month the various communities will compare figures, and the one making the best record in highway safety will be awarded $100.

Three whiskey distilling plants, four operators and a considerable amount of whiskey and beer were captured by county officers in a series of raids in Fountain and Belvoir Townships yesterday, it was made known today at the office of Sheriff Whitehurst.

The men captured, all negroes, are: Sam Purvis, of Fountain Township; Hill Hardy, Bud Little and Elijah Swinney, of Belvoir Township. The four men were brought to Greenville and placed in the county jail to await trial at the next sitting of County Court.

The capture of the steam plant in Fountain Township netted the raiders eight gallons of liquor and six hundred gallons of beer. The still was going at full blast when the officers arrived. Several men at the still not knowing whether the approaching raiders were officers or hunters, walked away from the still, but Purvis, bolder than the rest, returned and pointed a long stick at the officers as if it were a shotgun. The officers were not fooled, however, and immediately rushed the plant, taking the negro into custody before he had a chance to flee.

In addition to the two steam plants and three men captured in two separate and distinct raids in Belvoir, the officers seized twelve gallons of whiskey and 2,400 gallons of beer. The plant at which the three negroes were taken was running at full blast. The operators attempted to escape, but were overhauled by the officers after a short sprint.

The third still was not in operation, although four hundred gallons of beer had been prepared for early distilling operations.

The raid was one of the largest made by county officers in several months, although numbers of stills and members of the illicit traffic fell into the toils of the law during the Christmas holidays as thousands of gallons of whiskey were whisked over the highways of the territory to celebrants in various parts of the district.

Courts have been fairly crowded with such cases for the last two or three weeks, and numbers of traffic members have either found their way to the roads or obtained their freedom through the payment of fines.

FRANCE SEEKS PEACE PACT IN CEN. EUROPE

Laval to Confer With Premier Mussolini For a New Peace Agreement

Paris, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Pierre Laval, former premier, who stepped in as foreign minister when Louis Barthou was shot down at Marseille, leaves tonight for Rome with a tentative draft of a Franco-Italian agreement to keep central Europe at peace.

Problems purely between France and Italy are also expected to be settled when Laval meets Mussolini. Documents which the two are expected to sign, it is understood, provides first for an assurance of Austria's independence and a plan to guarantee the security of central Europe.

Rome, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The belief was expressed in diplomatic circles today that Adolph Hitler was to leave tonight for Rome to negotiate a pact securing Austrian independence and European peace.

Fear was growing, these sources said, that Hitler, confident of success in the forthcoming Saar plebiscite might give his attention to a union with Austria.

Finally, Vandenberg is no fool as a politician. He would be much more flattered if the unofficial nominators talked about him as Republican candidate in 1940. Unless something unforeseen happens it isn't going to be much running against President Roosevelt in 1936.

Southerners Head Important Posts Of Both Houses

HOUSE FLOOR LEADER

Rep. Bankhead of Alabama, defeated Rep. John O'Sullivan of New York for this important congressional post in secret balloting yesterday. Although in a hospital, he was not believed to be seriously ill.

Several precedents of the bill and were for cancellation of interest on loans secured by the certificates.

Near the top of the bill list was a proposal by Representative Lamm, Democrat of Texas, to accompany by several others for paying the $2,100,000.00 in adjusted compensation certificates.

Representative Celler, of Illinois, introduced a measure for unemployment and social insurance.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The second New Deal Congress, with Southerners chosen for its post of great power, and higher barriers against any "revolt," gathered today to shoulder the fast legislative program President Roosevelt is preparing.

Before the two gavels crashed, signal the former opening of the 74th Congress at noon, word came in authoritative circles on the "surprise" on the paramount item of relief unemployment.

PERSONNEL OF HOLC SHARPLY REDUCED HERE

About 12 Employees Of Federal Institution Released on December 31

It was announced today that the personnel of the local branch of the Home Owners Loan Corporation established here by the Federal Government about a year ago had been cut sharply. The order became effective December 31, and only about half of the personnel resumed work January 1 as result of the order.

The State office at Salisbury and district offices at Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro and Asheville were also affected by the reduction order, it was stated.

The local office had a personnel of about twenty-four when the order was received, and only twelve employees were retained.

The reduction in personnel was occasioned by the fact that the Corporation has already made loans and has sufficient applications in the Legal Departments of the various districts throughout the United States to absorb the total amount of bonds, namely three billion dollars, authorized by Congress.

The North Carolina delegation in the House at Washington has gone on record as unanimously favoring the resumption of activities by the HOLC, and Senator Wagner, of New York, and Representative Haddock, from North Carolina, will immediately introduce bills permitting the issuing of an additional one billion dollars in bonds by the Corporation.

President Expected to Go Before Lawmakers Tomorrow on Relief of Unemployment; Long Range Effort to be Made to Put Millions of Jobless Back to Work

The measure by Senator Patman, Democrat of Texas, was accompanied by several others for paying the $2,100,000.00 in adjusted compensation certificates.

THE SOLDIER BONUS

Apparently President Roosevelt is still dead set against paying the soldiers' adjusted compensation at this time but it seems that he is going to have a hard time getting Congress and the country at large to see the matter his way this time.

The government has spent billions of dollars trying to extend relief to needy persons and bring back buying power and in view of the fact that the payment of the soldiers' certificates at this time would place money in the hands of approximately four million families scattered throughout the country the President is going to have a hard time making the people believe that the payment of this money now would not do a great deal toward relieving suffering and aiding in bringing back recovery.

So far as the certificates not being due that depends upon the viewpoint you take of it. If you consider the obligation as of 1925 when the government admitted it owed the soldiers a debt for services rendered then the certificates probably are not due, but if the government ever owed this money it owed it back in 1917-18 when the soldiers performed their services for the government and figured on this basis of, compound interest as the government is charging the veterans against their loans then the full amount is now due and has been due for two years.

Whether the President will still be strong enough to make Congress see it his way or whether Congress will override the veto that has been promised in case the measure is passed is yet to be seen, but at any rate the fight promises to be the hardest one that the President has been up against so far in having Congress to carry out his wishes.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Officials deprecated its significance. Merely a question of protecting government money, it was explained. The so-called Moffat Line is a relatively insignificant property.

It is understood the distilling industry has taken cognizance of this newest shell game and is planning steps of its own to mop up the racket.

Resources: Federal Reserve banks hold nearly $2,000,000,000 more in government bonds than they possessed last year at this time.

Shell, sharpshooters who used to turn a easy penny selling blue-sky stock to suckers are reported to be concentrating now on bonded-whiskey warehouse receipts.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Peter Orloff has tried to blow up the factory in which Molly O'Brien and Nick Treach were locked up, and Jimmy Fox has released them just in time.

Chapter 42
A CLUE

"This is something anyhow," said Jerry. "I expected to find you scattered all over the landscape."

"We should be, if it wasn't for Jimmy," I answered.

"How did it happen? Were you monkeying around with the powder or what?"

"I took him by the arm and drew him toward the bushes. 'Better sit down for a minute and get your wind,' I said. 'You keep a look out, Molly, while I do the explaining.'"

"Cut it as short as you can," he said curtly. "We've a job ahead of us that won't wait."

"His voice had a grim note of urgency, which made me wonder what fresh revelations were in store."

"Something of interest had evidently been happening in other places besides the factory, but since one of the two stories had to be told first, the sooner I got mine over the better."

"Such being the case, I plumped myself down beside him and set about the business. With the exception of what had passed between Molly and myself I told him everything."

"I described the way we'd been trapped; I repeated, as well as I could remember it, every word that Orloff had said to us, and finally I gave him a brief, but vivid account of how Jimmy had come to our rescue, and the amazing escape we had all had from being killed by the flying masonry."

"We got down under the bank and crawled along here," I finished, "because it seemed to be the safest thing to do. There was just the off chance that Jimmy had got ashore without being seen, and that if we could lie up somewhere until you came back, Orloff would take it for granted that he'd wiped us off his list."

"I laughed a trifle mirthlessly and pulling out a crumpled packet of cigarettes, stuck one between my lips. 'We can rule out now,' I added."

"For a moment or two Jerry sat nursing his knees and staring broodingly in front of him. 'So it was their boat after all! I'd gone along yesterday as I meant to...'"

"You probably wouldn't be here now," I interrupted. "Those devils have been watching us the whole time—just waiting for their chance. They've bungled the business pretty badly, thanks to Jimmy, but we're not likely to get the same luck twice running."

"I glanced across the narrow strip of water to where the Seagull was lying. 'We must clear out while we've got the chance,' I continued. 'Orloff...'"

"But we can't. I haven't told you yet." He jumped up abruptly. "That woman—Mrs. Gowland—she knows the truth."

"WITH a little startled cry Molly swung round towards us. 'Jerry,' she gasped, 'what do you mean?'"

"I found her in the garden in front of the farm. She was kneeling beside Gowland's body. You remember that shot we heard just after we'd landed? Well, you were wrong about it being a rabbit. He'd gone outside with his gun and blown half his head off."

"There was a dead silence, broken by a sudden exclamation from Jimmy. 'Cries!' he whispered."

"I had an idea at first that she'd done herself. She was so queer—nervous or anything of that sort—just helpless and half dazed like someone who'd had a knock on the head. It wasn't until I'd carried him inside and put him on the sofa that I could get any sense out of her."

"What did she say?" Molly was leaning forward with clenched hands, her eyes fixed on Jerry's face.

"Just a jumble of words to start with—a lot of incoherent stuff about Gowland being drunk and threatening to take his life. He'd something, on his mind, she kept on repeating, something that was driving him mad. It was while I was trying to quiet her down that I heard the explosion."

"And you guessed...?"

"Not for a minute or so. I thought it was one of the Chatham cruisers blowing up a mine or something; they often practise off here, especially at this time of year."

"Then, I don't know why, but quite suddenly I remembered what Avon had told Nick about the powder. It put the wig flip with a crash."

"I didn't stop to question her any further. I told her to wait where she was until I came back, and I was out of that door and half-way across the yard almost before I knew what I was doing."

the State Department that the reciprocity treaty concluded last September is working handshakes on account of the restricted sugar quota Cuba wants permission to send in 2,500,000 tons instead of 1,900,000 tons.

Secretary Wallace, whose influence is potent in the making of reciprocity agreements, is supposed to be agreeable to enlarging the sugar quota. He has told Congress that he regards the domestic sugar industry as superfluous and un-economic.

Pick-up: Heavy industry is going forward a little. This mightily encourages the segment that banks upon recovery through private enterprise as against public works spending.

In Congress as to Public Works Boss Loken is able to get several million men into public works employment in a hurry.

In the RFC Home Loan and Housing organizations the opinion is general that mortgage reform will break the log-jam ad start nationwide building. The argument is that 10,000,000 families could acquire homes if loans were liberal and based on long-time low-interest mortgages.

Government insurance of mortgages is expected to coax capital back into real estate investment.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
Odd: A couple of angles to the deal whereby the RFC took control of the Denver & Salt Lake Railroad have aroused New York's curiosity.

Part of the $10,000,000 plus loan which the RFC made to the Denver & Rio Grande was to enable that road to buy in the minority stock interests of the Denver & Salt Lake at a price of $155 a share. These funds were advanced only within the past two months—when it must have been apparent to those who knew the situation that Uncle Sam would soon have to take over.

Denver & Salt Lake's earnings peak—reached in 1929—was $1220 a share. It hasn't come within telegraphing distance of that amount since and is currently running a deficit. That makes the price of $155 a share seem just a trifle high. Those whose stock was purchased at that figure have reason to feel pretty chippy. But it's a little difficult to understand why Denver & Rio Grande was willing to pay the price—or the RFC to advance money for the purpose when repayment was obviously at least extremely remote.

The informed suggest the New Deal opposition in Congress might find it worth while to do a little shuffling along these lines.

Rails: Opponents of government ownership of railroads are working up arguments to present to the country when the issue becomes more acute. They don't expect any immediate move in that direction but figure it's just as well to be prepared.

One point they will stress is the loss of taxes to states and municipalities. Few of these units are in such a happy financial position that they could shrug off the loss of the revenue the railroads provide. Mobilized local sentiment can be quite a critical factor.

Another is the high cost of government railroad—with Canadian National as Exhibit A. This road operates at an annual deficit of about $5,000 a mile. On this basis the 250,000 miles of railroad in the United States would lose money for Uncle Sam to the tune of a billion and a quarter dollars a year—which would be no blessing to the taxpayer. The Canadian Pacific figures are something else again, and another story.

Coerced: automobile leaders have contended all along that most of their workers are contented with company union arrangements and have no desire to tie up with the Federation of Labor. Now they are after evidence to prove that the Federation has used strong-arm recruiting methods where persuasion failed to bring results.

It's reliably reported that one of the large motor companies has affidavits from 80 per cent of its men who signed an A. P. of L. agreement calling for absolute acceptance of all decisions—including violence—to the effect that their signatures were secured by coercion.

Ammunition of this sort is being held in reserve until the closed shop battle gets hot in Congress. The hope is that effective timing of the explosion will blast the daylight out of prospective closed shop legislation.

Homes: An immense amount of grade work is necessary to get the new mortgage insurance system under way. New York learns that the legal department of Administrator McFadden's organization is working overtime.

The main object is to foster organization of national mortgage associations. This means injection of confidence in real estate—a job that will not be so difficult when financial circles discover that investment will be as safe as buying government bonds and much more profitable.

If the new system works American homes will once more rest on a solid foundation and home owners will be enabled to work off mortgages on long and easy terms. It's also in the cards that another billion dollars will be lent to home owners to ward off foreclosures.

Coordination of detail in the government's various moves to help real estate is extremely complicated. If the snarls can be untangled the depression will be over so far as home owning is concerned.

Cotton: There's plenty of evidence that traders are getting nervous about cotton. Nearly every bale not eligible for a government loan is being pressed on the market. Speculators who made heavy commitments some months back are trying hard to get out from under. Moreover mill buying has been out-

COUNTY COURT ENDS SITTING

Score of More Cases Completed in Two Day Sitting Here This Week

Lula Hill, Greenville negro, arrested here several nights ago when officers raided her home during a Christmas dance and allegedly found a considerable amount of whiskey, was released on payment of cost and a four months suspended sentence hanging over her head for two years. In County Court here yesterday.

This case and a half-dozen others were disposed of in the second day session of the tribunal which started Tuesday morning with a docket of forty-odd cases. Nearly a score of cases were disposed of during the opening day session and a similar number were due to go the same route yesterday, but several had to be postponed on account of the inability of witnesses and defendants to appear.

The docket was one of the largest in several weeks because of the one week which the court took off for the celebration of Christmas holidays.

The majority of cases given hearing during the two days consisted mainly of violations of prohibition and traffic laws with several charges of assault with deadly weapons being thrown in for good measure.

Other cases given hearing yesterday were: Coy Rogers, driving drunk, $50 fine and license revoked for six months.

Bruce Hill, colored, reckless driving, $25 and cost and his drivers' license revoked for eight months. The revocation of license, however, was reduced to 60 days upon condition that the defendant pay for damage to the automobile of Gilbert Turner. The charge grew out of an automobile wreck.

Prayer for judgment was continued in the case of Henry Porter, colored, charged with possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Southport, N. C., Jan. 3.—Those who drive cars under the influence of intoxicating liquor and careless drivers in general, have a discouraging outlook upon the future since Judge Peter Rourk in Recorder's Court this morning handed out 18 months on the roads without the privilege of a fine to Wyman Joye, young white man whose car collided with another machine last Friday night. Two of the four occupants of the car Joye collided with were slightly cut and bruised by flying glass.

Lawyer Tried For Embezzlement
Nashville, Jan. 3.—A case against L. T. Vaughan, prominent lawyer, today. He is charged with embezzling $598 said to have belonged to Mrs. Florence Bisette. He says she loaned him the money and introduced notes he gave for it.

He put on ten character witnesses including Dr. J. W. Kincheol, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Rocky Mount. All gave him a good name. The case will probably reach the jury today.

down to a hand-to-mouth affair. The mills saw no point in piling up inventories with lower prices in the offing. It is a safe bet that cotton interests will be prominent among those who demand aggressive monetary inflation. Some of them see it as the only out.

This column recently reported that only 1 per cent of Texas cotton was exported this year as against a normal of 90 per cent. A further check-up reveals that these figures apply only to crops from certain parts of the state. Total exports from Texas are down 65 per cent from normal—which is quite a striking figure itself.

When Change of Life Comes. "I have used Cardui during the change of life and found it just right in my case," writes Mrs. Debbe Epperson, of Flat Lick, Ky. "I was very nervous. I could not rest at night. My friends recommended Cardui, and I started taking it. I obtained splendid results. Kept taking Cardui and am in good health."

To improve nourishment, thereby helping to overcome nervousness and painful symptoms during change of life, try Cardui. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

Down Stories

Puddle Muddle Resolutions BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER THE Puddle Muddlers had ushered in the new year with shouts of quacks, barks, whistles, and blowing of horns, and now they were ready to eat a fine meal.

As they sat around in Willy Nilly's house, Willy Nilly said: "I am certainly going to make a new year's resolution."

"We all know what it is," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Yes," barked Rip, "you're going to attend to your sticking-out, pointed ears at once."

"That's what you're going to do, quack, quack," quacked the ducks.

"And it's high time that you should," cawed Top Notch.

"You've guessed it correctly," smiled Willy Nilly, as he stroked his side whiskers. "I've let one thing after the other interfere with the attention I should show my ears, and I'm not going to do that any longer."

"That's right. You must get at them tomorrow," they all agreed.

"We'll see that we do," cawed Christopher. "In fact we'll make a resolution to help you. That would be even better than for us to make resolutions for ourselves which we might break."

"You're not planning any mischief, are you, Christopher?" asked Willy Nilly.

"Oh, no," said Christopher. "I'm going to tidy up this place and then I'm going to walk to the village beyond and get some adhesive tape to start training my sticking-out ears to stick back."

Then I'm going to call on a musician of whom I have heard who lives in a little yellow house at the outskirts of the woods that lie beyond ours. He will be able to tell me how to treat my ears so that they will lose their pointed appearance."

"I heard of him not long ago but hadn't the time to see him. But if I don't attend to my ears soon I haven't the backbone of a snowflake."

"It's beginning to snow quite heavily now," barked Rip. "I think I'll go for a scamper."

"That's a good idea," agreed Willy Nilly. "And while this little snow storm is with us I'll finish up my chores so that I'll be all ready to give plenty of time to my ears."

Willy Nilly was so happy over the prospect of giving his ears all the time and attention they needed that he worked quickly and well. He did not notice that the snow storm was becoming heavier and heavier.

It was almost dark when he stopped working and at his door he heard the Puddle Muddlers. They came in covered with snow which soon melted over his nice clean floor so that he had to get rags to wipe up the puddles.

"Where is Rip?" Willy Nilly asked. "He should be home from his scamper by now." The wind began to howl, the snow swirled about furiously, and the night wore on, but no Rip appeared.

First Church of Christ Scientist. "Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec. 30.

The golden text was from Isaiah 52:10: "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." (Mark 16:17, 18).

The lesson sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Some individuals assimilate truth more readily than others, but any student who adheres to the divine rules of Christian Science and imbibes the spirit of Christ, can demonstrate Christian Science, cast our error, heal the sick, and add continually to his store of spiritual understanding, potency, enlightenment and success. There is nothing difficult nor toilsome in this task, when the way is pointed out; but self-denial, sincerity, Christianity, and persistence alone win the prize, as they

ALDERMEN TO MEET TONIGHT

Achievements of the Past Year Probably To Receive Attention of Solons

The Board of Aldermen will meet at the city hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the first meeting of the New Year.

The city fathers are expected to do quite a bit of back-slapping and congratulating during the meeting by reason of the fact they were able to finish the first half of the fiscal year all "in black" and no red on the ledger.

Mayor R. C. Flanagan announced several days ago that the city had paid all of its bills for 1934 and would go into the new year with a clean slate.

The Mayor said today another thing he would be able to tell the aldermen tonight was that each department of government had lived well within its budget which indicates the end of the fiscal year would see the same condition prevailing.

The board has cut and slashed expenses for a number of years and this was largely responsible for the fact that the city was able to meet all of its obligations the last half of the old year with hundreds of other towns and cities throughout the country.

Tax payments have been unusually good the last three months, and this also played an important part in the Aldermen being able to meet their obligations the first of the year. In fact, the collections, it was made known at the office of the city clerk yesterday, were the best in years, amounting to over $61,000 during the three month period.

Mrs. Quinerly Dies At Ayden; Funeral Friday

Ayden, N. C., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Lena Quinerly, 68, who died at her home here at 1 o'clock this morning after a lingering illness, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in the Ayden cemetery at 3 o'clock.

The funeral service will be conducted from St. James' Episcopal Church by her rector, Rev. A. C. D. Noe, assisted by a former rector, Dr. B. F. Huske, of Kinston.

Mrs. Quinerly was one of the most beloved residents of Ayden, and spent a good part of her life in the service of her community and church. She was one of the founders of St. James' Church, and through the years has been one of its most ardent workers and supporters.

SLOGAN BODY TO BE NAMED HERE FRIDAY

will receive some kind of recognition to be decided by the committee after the slogan question has been definitely settled.

Mayor Flanagan said the awful death toll of the last two years should provide quite a stimulus for a drive of this kind, and called on the people in both cities and rural communities to do their bit toward making the general public safety-minded. Banners forever keeping the matter before the public mind will be erected across highways in Greenville and other sections in an effort to more fully impress drivers with the importance of the work undertaken by the committee.

PITT SCHOOLS RESUME WORK

Attendance Figures Swelled as Institutions go Back to Work Today

Happy after receiving the liberal consideration of Santa Claus during the Christmas holidays, school children throughout the county trekked back to school today on the last lap of the current school year.

Although attendance figures had not been compiled, Donald Conley, director of public instruction, said today he was confident the student total at each school would be swelled considerably.

With schools and buses crowded almost hopelessly when work was suspended for the holidays, the school head said they expected to find considerable difficulty, caring for the increased attendance, but were making every effort to do so.

The condition was the same in both towns, and the most remote rural communities, and teachers in some instances found their classes boosted to such extent they felt like the "old woman in the shoe" having more children than they knew what to do with.

Mr. Conley said it might be several days before attendance reports reach his office, but he has asked all principals to prepare their figures and send to his office at the earliest convenience.

The county schools took about a week and a half off for observance of the holidays, and during the time both faculty and students enjoyed the great number of attractions provided for celebration of the occasion.

Town And County Pay 1934 Debts

Tarboro, N. C., Jan. 3.—The county of Edgecombe and the town of Tarboro each met January 1 obligations today.

The county sent $40,000 for bond retirement and bond interest to New York several days ago to meet obligations due today and the city yesterday paid $12,228.75 in bonds bond interest and a local note.

In addition to the $40,000 paid by the county in New York $30,000 was paid by the county to the State of North Carolina on December 15 for school bonds maturing on that date.

Of the total paid by the town $5,000 went to the Security National Bank as the last of three payments on a $15,000 note. The money was borrowed around October 1 to meet obligations due then and was repaid in three monthly installments. The remainder of the $12,228.75 was sent to New York for bond and bond interest payment.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Financial markets, stepping eagerly today as Congress opened and the majority of traders admitted their inability to forecast nearby legislative developments.

Sentiment was still optimistic but selective and the list as a whole backed and filled in an extremely narrow range. The activity was a little more pronounced than that of yesterday.

A few issues showed firm undertone and soft spots also occasionally made their appearance. Committees offered no special incentive in the equities division.

Grains were slightly improved while cotton was inclined to sag. Bonds were without any definite turn, although most of the U. S. Government Securities were improved. At the same time gold currencies again pointed sharply upward in the foreign exchange dealings.

Transfers were 1,000,000 shares.
