Solons Gather In Raleigh For Opening Session

DISCUSS NEW TAX SOURCES

Contests For Leadership to be Settled by Party Caucuses To night

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Party caucuses tonight threw the spotlight of interest on the eve of the convening of the biennial session of the North Carolina General Assembly. Candidates for Speaker of the House and President pro tempore of the Senate made last-minute claims of victory as hotel lobbies reverberated with political talk and the lawmakers converged on the capital. Leading candidates for the speakership are Robert Grady Johnson, of Pender; W. L. Lumpkin, of Franklin; and Laurie McEachern, of Hoke. On the Senate side both Paul G. Grady, of Johnston, and Carl Bailey, of Washington, claimed sufficient support to elect them to the chairmanship of the upper branch. A new proposal for raising funds for State operations made its appearance amid conflicting claims of the sales tax and anti-sales tax factions. Although no one admitted authorship of the new plans, there was general discussion of graduated franchise taxes with rates increased on proportion to capital stock of the corporations. Under the plan with a view to recapturing the tax saved by businesses when the State eliminated levies on real property.

Dillinger Aid In Federal Net

MANY BUYING TICKETS FOR BIRTHDAY BALL

More Than Thirty Citizens Have Paid $5 Each For First Tickets Offered

Interest in the coming President's Birthday Ball here continued to increase today as a number of citizens were paying premiums for the first tickets sold would defray the entire expenses of the ball. R. C. Stokes and W. W. Lee, in charge of the advance ticket sale, yesterday sold ticket No. 1 to E. G. Flanagan of this city, for the sum of $25, and since that time they have disposed of more than thirty tickets to different citizens at $5.00 each. The offering of these advance tickets was still in progress at noon today and the list of the purchasers could not be obtained, but will be published tomorrow. The regular price of tickets is $1.50 per couple for dance tickets. Spectator tickets are 50 cents and a special price of 25 cents to students of the college and high school for spectator tickets.

While the ticket committee was busy today making advance sales, Mayor R. C. Flanagan, with a committee composed of J. G. Clark, K. W. Cobb and D. H. Conley was making a tour of the county inviting the people of the various towns and communities in the county to join with Greenville in staging this President's Birthday Ball January 30.

This is the second such event to be held here in honor of the birthday of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and on the same night more than five thousand similar balls will be held in various parts of the country.

Last year Greenville's contribution to the Warm Springs Foundation from the proceeds of the Birthday Ball was outstanding among those from cities of the nation of about the same size of Greenville and in view of the prosperity that has come to this section as a result of the New Deal, sponsors of the ball this year are making every effort to make it far surpass last year's event.

The proceeds of this year's ball will be divided 70 per cent remaining in the local community for work in the way of aid to sufferers of infantile paralysis and the other 30 per cent will go to a national organization to do research work with a view to preventing infantile paralysis in this country.

Not only will those attending this year's ball be aiding a most worthy cause but they will at the same time receive a full evening of entertainment for plans are being made. (Continued on Page Four)

BOUND FOR LEGISLATURE ON MULE

"If elected, I'll ride to Montgomery on a mule," promised James R. Todd, a farmer residing near Trussville, Ala., in campaigning for election to the state legislature. He was elected at right but compromised on the pledge. He rode the 14 miles from Birmingham to Bessemer and then swapped his mule for an automobile to complete the 100-mile journey. BIG GAIN IN CONSTRUCTION WORK IN SOUTH

Year Just Closed Set New High Mark For Three Years Period

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The award of more than $500,000,000 in building, engineering and general construction contracts in sixteen Southern States last year set a new high total for the past three years. Although contract awards fell off in December, the total of $509,874,000 for the entire year was 34 per cent above the total of $308,511,000 reported for 1933 and 19 per cent greater than in 1932 mark of $425,237,000. December figures amounted to $32,292,000, which was a sharp decline from the new high monthly record of $55,625,000 set last November. All construction activities were topped by road paving and bridge construction that figure a total of $191,304,000.

Police of Versailles, Kentucky, report the number of persons convicted of drunkenness the first ten months of the past year was three times more than in 1933.

RYAN SPEAKS TO ROTARY CLUB HERE

Discusses Germany's Expulsion of Other Races From The Country

(By WYATT BROWN) "If groups of men like this would get together and discuss after serious study, all our problems could be solved in international affairs," said Reverend W. A. Ryan last night in a talk before the assembled Rotarians of Greenville. This statement came in the course of a series of remarks revealing one of the major problems which grow out of Hitler's rule of Germany. The speaker went into interesting detail in presenting the "problem which has arisen as the result of the Nazis' exclusion from Germany of all non-Aryans. He was especially careful to state that other races than Jews had suffered from the program.

Speaking from facts culled from a published study of the German refugee situation as found by Dr. James G. McDonald, High Commissioner of the Commission appointed by the League of Nations to look into the matter, Reverend Mr. Ryan's remarks revealed a fair example of Germany's complete lack of realization of her moral responsibility in the summary expulsion of all people dwelling in Germany whom she considered not "pure" German.

Officers Recover Stolen Property. Chief of Police George Clark today was seeking the owner of a woolen automobile robe and two sofa pillows taken by the officers Saturday night from a negro who was believed to have stolen the property. According to information that the officers could obtain, the property was taken from someone's automobile on either Eighth or Ninth street. Chief Clark said if the owner of the robe and pillows will get in touch with his office he will be glad to have the property returned.

STATE BANK HERE MAKES FINE RECORD

Four Year Old Institution Shows 130 Per Cent Gain in Business

The annual meeting of the stockholders of State Bank and Trust Company was held in the City Hall this morning. The meeting was well attended, more than 700 shares being represented either in person or by proxy. President B. B. Sugg in making his annual report reviewed the progress of the bank since its organization, stating at the time that 1934 was the most prosperous year in the bank's history. In illustrating this statement he called attention to the bank's earnings each year since beginning business in 1931, giving the earnings for calendar years as follows: 1931, $4,658.65; 1932, $11,968.27; 1933, $15,024.36; 1934, $20,204.27.

President Sugg also called attention to the growth in deposits of State Bank illustrating by a comparison with the close of business at the end of each year: 1931, $796,272.70; 1932, $938,997.70; 1933, $1,146,354.83, and 1934, $1,789,024.67.

During the numerous talks at the meeting it developed that State Bank would not only meet its unconditional guaranty to pay depositors of the old National Bank of Greenville 75 per cent of their claims, but would probably be able to pay an additional dividend of from $5,000 to $10,000.

President Sugg and Cashier Mitchell in addressing the stockholders, called attention to the fact that the bank did not need the money arising from the sale of $25,000 preferred stock, and suggested the advisability of retiring same on account of the resulting saving to stockholders through eliminating the dividends on this class of stock. After full discussion, a motion was made and unanimously carried authorizing the directors within their discretion to retire the now outstanding issue of $25,000 preferred stock.

Before closing the meeting many of the stockholders present, in short speeches, expressed their confidence in the bank and appreciation of the present management, and thereupon unanimously elected the old board of directors, consisting of J. H. Blount, F. W. Brown, J. Key Brown, R. M. Garrett, C. W. Harvey, John Mitchell, W. S. Moye, B. B. Sugg, H. C. Sugg, and K. R. Wooten.

DR. JAMES C. REED DIES AT BLACKSTONE. Blackstone, Va., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Rev. James Claiborne Reed, D.D., 92, veteran Methodist minister, the last survivor of the War Between the States in the Virginia Methodist clergy, died at his home here early today after several years of failing health.

He was a brother of the celebrated Dr. Walter Reed. They were sons of the late Rev. Lemuel S. Reed, also a Methodist minister.

Dr. Reed was born in Pasquotank County, North Carolina, November 9, 1842.

In 1869 he married Miss Sallie Clark, of Fluvanna County, Virginia. They had ten children. In 1891 he married Miss Janie Vail, of Portsmouth, Va.

Henry (Bud) Allen Died This Morning. Henry Allen (Bud), 58, died at his home this morning following several days' illness. Mr. Allen was reared in Pitt County and is well-known. He resides on the Falkland highway a few miles from town. He married Miss Elsie Tyson and there are six children surviving: Mrs. J. H. Clark, Mrs. Jennie Manning, Mrs. Otho Taylor, Miss Reba Allen and one son, Lyman; also one brother, J. I. Allen.

The funeral services will be conducted from his late home at 2 o'clock Wednesday, burial following in the Tyson cemetery. He was a member of the Pine Grove Free Will Baptist Church. Rev. R. F. Pittman will be in charge of the services.

The following will be pall bearers: Louis Gabriel, Mr. Harrell, W. J. Parker, Frank Taylor, Mr. Holland and Long Rountree.

Identifies Hauptmann As Man With Ladder On Night Of Kidnapping

THERE HE IS, WITNESS SAYS

Old Man Points Shaky Finger at Prisoner as he Tells His Story

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx carpenter, accused of the kidnaping and murder of bay Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was twice identified in court today by witnesses. Amundus Hochmuth, aged former neighbor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh identified him as the man with a ladder in a dirty green car near the Lindbergh home on the day of the crime and John Perrone, Bronx taxi driver pointed him out as the man who gave him a dollar to deliver a note to Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon in March 1932.

Perrone taking the witness stand shortly after the opening of the afternoon session, walked to Hauptmann, slapped his hand on his shoulder and declared, "That's the man." For a second time in the day's proceedings the crowded courtroom became hushed. Earlier in the day the spectators had been startled at the unexpected testimony of Hochmuth who pointed a shivering finger at Hauptmann and said he was the man who on March 1, 1932, had "glared at me as if he saw a ghost."

(Copyright by The Associated Press) Flemington, N. J., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Bruno Hauptmann was identified in court today as a man seen at Hopewell on the night of March 1, 1932, when the baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen from the crib and slain.

Amundus Hochmuth, a nervous old man with a Van Dyke beard, said he saw Hauptmann in an automobile in which he carried a ladder. The old man pointed to the Bronx carpenter with a shaky finger.

"There he is," he said. This testimony followed that of police experts that the Lindbergh nursery and the ladder on which the baby is alleged to have been carried to his death held no trace of fingerprints. Frank A. Kelly, State police officer, said he processed the nursery and ladder and declared that fingerprints were found of nobody at all.

His expertness was immediately attacked by Edward J. Reilly, chief of Hauptmann's defense staff in cross-examination. Reilly drew out of Kelly that his education about fingerprints came from a book written by a man named Henry in England.

"Don't you know the system used in the United States is a system devised by Inspector Faurst, of the police department of New York?" he asked.

"No," said Kelly. "I didn't." Reilly pursued his efforts to embarrass the witness with: "Now as to the ladder. Do you know it has been reported that one man took over 800 finger-prints from this ladder?"

"I object to the question," interposed Prosecutor Lenta. "If your honor please, I think—"

"All right," said Reilly. "I go ahead of myself. I will withdraw it."

Reilly's quarrel with the witness on his method of taking fingerprints drew from him the statement of the process he used, and then Kelly charged that his method destroyed fingerprints that could have been preserved.

MORE DEATHS ON HIGHWAYS IN DECEMBER

Twenty Two Persons Killed in This Section in November

Highway deaths in this section of the State in December showed an increase of seven over the previous month, according to the monthly report of the division highway patrol office issued here this morning. The highway deaths for the month were 22 as compared with 15 in November and nine in October.

The number of drunken drivers arrested during December was 41, or one less than that of November.

The report shows that 119 accidents were investigated by the patrol, 1,085 warnings were issued during the period, 236 arrests were made, 222 being found guilty, and 16 not guilty; 872 vehicles inspected and equipment tickets issued to one.

In addition to the 22 persons killed in highway accidents in this division during the month, 96 others suffered injuries.

OUTLAW SHOT BY TROOPER

Wade Blackburn in Hospital While Officers Seek His Companion

Hickory, N. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Wade Blackburn, 21-year-old Wilkes County outlaw, lay near death from pistol wounds in a Welch, W. Va., hospital today while Western North Carolina officers searched the region for his companion for questioning in connection with a half dozen criminal escapades since last Thursday.

Blackburn, a native of North Wilkesboro, was shot in the chest by Crit Hall, West Virginia trooper, and his companion, Helen Beard, of Malden, North Carolina, is being held pending investigation. The trooper said Blackburn snapped a pistol at him as he prepared to investigate Blackburn's automobile license. Hall said other companions fled before the automobile halted.

Blackburn and Talmadge Parsons, 22, were declared outlaws here late yesterday by two Hickory magistrates at the request of the sheriff as a climax of abduction, hold-ups and robberies.

MORRISVILLE MAN HURT WHEN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Durham, Jan. 8.—The condition of Dewey Jenkins, 35, deaf Morrisville resident, who received a broken arm when he was struck by a west-bound passenger train here late yesterday, was reported as comfortable today by Watts hospital attendants.

Jenkins was rushed to the hospital following the accident. He apparently did not hear the warning of the locomotive's whistle, resulting in his being stricken and knocked down from the tracks. The engineer is said to have checked the speed of his train when the accident occurred.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—By GEORGE DURNO G. O. P.: Now that Congress is springing around lap you will hear a lot of talk about liberalizing the Republican party.

Veteran clockers predict that long after the boys settle down to the slow grind you will still find the G. O. P. running on the same old legs.

Senator Borah and others are demanding a Republican new deal but there is a lot of sober thought behind the decision of those who are intent on keeping party management in present hands.

In the first place, Herbert Hoover is still titular head of the Party. He has told friends he does not care who takes over the reins—so long as they aren't enemies of the Hoover principles. This counts for something because after all Mr. Hoover polled 15,000,000 votes in the course of being re-elected.

Ogden Mills whose influence should not be underestimated has what many regard as an excellent reason for avoiding an immediate shake-up. Prospects aren't too rosy for the Q. O. P. in 1936. If there is a reorganization this year and the Republicans take another beating next year, the reorganizing will have to be done all over again.

Senator Charles McNary of Oregon—minority floor leader of the upper house—has similar views. He adopted a watchful waiting attitude during the last session and through the recent Congressional campaign. He was criticized by many of his party associates before last November's votes were counted—but he's still Republican floor leader.

If present counselors have their way, Republican Senators and Congressmen will vote for necessary emergency measures and be satisfied with putting themselves on record as opposed to everything with a left-wingsish flavor. Meanwhile there will be guerrilla warfare in the hustings. Ex-Senator Henry Allen of Kansas, for instance, is just back from England. He plans to take the stump and tell the common people how poorly recovery is being promoted here as compared with Britain. His public utterances are expected to dwell heavily on waste of federal funds. Other speakers will be doing the same. There are plenty of ex-s available for jobs since the last two elections.

SEE CRIME IN INVERSE RATIO TO RECREATION

High Point, Jan. 8.—An increase in recreational activity and a resultant decrease in juvenile delinquency is evidenced in the semi-annual report of the Juvenile and Parks Commission, just made public here.

For the first six months of the current fiscal year, the report reveals there are only 96 cases of juvenile delinquency reported as compared with 153 cases for the corresponding period in 1933. During the first half of the current fiscal year a total of 122,025 persons participated in activities sponsored by the recreation department, as compared to 110,086 for the corresponding period in the preceding year.

Department officials feel that the decrease in delinquencies is due largely to the consolidation of the recreational and juvenile departments.

JAIL TWO ON CHARGE OF RAMSACKING HOUSE

Washington, N. C., Jan. 8.—Benton Hall, 26, of Market Street extension, and Elwood Jackson, 23, who lives beyond the extension are being held in the Beaufort County jail under a $1,000 bond for grand jury action, charged with looting the house of Crawford Burroughs, of Washington Township, well-known farmer.

The robbery occurred Sunday night while the Burroughs family was away. Everything of value in the house was removed, including 660 pounds of meat and 125 pounds of lard.

Hales Funeral Held On Sunday

Harvey Hales, of near Grimesland, died Saturday morning at his home following a few days' illness from pneumonia. Mr. Hales was reared in the community in which he died and spent most of his life there. He was a member of the Senior Lodge of Red Men of Grimesland. The funeral services were in charge of the Lodge.

The funeral was held on Sunday at 2 o'clock by Rev. I. J. Strawbridge, of Grimesland M. E. Church. Burial was in the Wilson graveyard near the home.

He is survived by his wife and four daughters: Eva, Mary E., Evelyn and Mamie Gray; also by four brothers, Joe, of Craven County; Gum, W. B., and R. L., all of Grimesland; one sister, Mrs. George Ellidge, of Macon, Ill.

CONGRESS WILL ACT QUICKLY ON RELIEF BILL

Leaders Predict Early Passage of Four Billion Dollars Work Program

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Congress went back to work today on the $3,520,000,000 budget President Roosevelt had submitted, and Democrats leaders believed his $4,000,000,000 plan to swing from the dole to jobs would go through quickly despite stirrings of criticism in two sectors. There was still some talk today among some Democrats as well as Republicans that Congress should choose the specific projects on which the money is to be spent instead of giving it to the President in a lump sum to be allotted as he sees fit.

There were also expressions of relief by Western Progressives that the four billion dollars will not be enough, and that wages prevailing in industry should be paid relief workers instead of the President's plan to pay less. But many Democrats expressed approval of the plan, and with that party's majority so huge, even the bitterest opposition to the lump sum idea agreed that it would go through without any major change.

Leaders are seeking to get the relief work proposal out of the way before the pressure starts. Already some legislators are receiving protests about the plan to return 1,500,000 unemployables to the care of the States.

Regulators: The fissure between NRA and the Federal Trade Commission is assuming the proportions of the Grand Canyon.

FTC—if you will pardon alphabetical allusions—was set up to prescribe fair trade practices for industry generally. NRA has copied this function to a marked degree in the last year and a half.

A week or so before Congress convened President Roosevelt had the full membership of the Trade Commission in for an unpublicized White House conference. What went on in the Presidential study remains a secret among those present but the Commissioners have been happy ever since.

Industry would give three rousing cheers if the FTC reclaimed its jurisdiction over fair trade practices. When the Commission decides a firm is taking undue advantage of a competitor it cites the firm for a hearing. If found guilty the company is ordered to cease and desist. No financial damage is done unless the desist order is ignored.

With NRA it has been different. The crack-downs have been few but the threats have been many. That sort of regulation gives business men the jumps.

Ignored: NRA and FTC came to grips last in connection with the Commission's report on what's wrong with the chain store business. FTC spent between three and four years and nearly a million dollars investigating. It put the findings into 33 volumes.

During the course of the investigation NRA came into existence. Codes were framed which dealt with such matters as price-fixing, loss-leaders, prize contests, etc.

But NRA wasn't mentioned in the 33 volumes. The Trade Commission decided to diagnose the case and prescribe remedies without a single consultation with the other doctor.

Navy: More money for warships—24 new big ones—is planned. It isn't because Japan has denounced the naval treaty. It's in spite of the expected charge that the U. S. is starting on a naval race.

The new ships will be within treaty limits. They represent building that should have been done during Hoover's administration—when nobody could have suggested a naval race.

Construction of warships gives work in a thousand directions and produces something worthwhile—better national defense. This expenditure of public works money finds favor in Congress and will be approved, notwithstanding mistaken inferences that may be drawn in Japan.

Don't forget that a naval race can't begin while the treaty is in force, and it won't expire until December, 1936.

New York

By JAMES McMILLIN
Indiana: Close inspection of Floyd Carlin's offer to apply the Washington plan to the electric companies of the Consolidated Gas group reveals a couple of subtle and significant quirks.

He has an out for not addressing the proposal to the municipal administration. The plan includes a company in Westchester County, which is outside New York City's jurisdiction. But legally it should have been submitted to the State Public Service Commission. The Commission was ignored. The people who were asked to handle the matter on behalf of the public were Chairman Dunningan and Counsel Mack of the Joint Legislative Committee to Investigate Public Utilities.

This Committee was supposed to ferret out the relations between utility companies and politicians. Research along this line—which might have been mutually embarrassing—has been neatly sidestepped. Instead Mr. Mack talks proudly of the lower rates he's going to get for consumers.

Observers comment that surrender to a group which has such solicitude for utility susceptibilities, enables Mr. Carlin to present the committee with a jaunty feather for its cap. Presumably the committee will be grateful in turn and use its

Chapter 46
RACE'S END

WITH both hands gripping the tiller, Jerry drove straight for the gap. A deluge of surf swept over us, half filling the well, but shaking herself like a drenched dog, the stout little ship struggled gallantly on.

Twice she bumped heavily, pitching me against the rail. Then another blinding torrent poured in over our bows, and with a final convulsive shudder we slithered forward into deep water.

"They've found it—look at 'em!"

Jerry's voice rang out clear above the roar of the breakers, and opening my eyes I stared back over the dripping counter. I was just in time to witness the end.

Fifty yards behind us, in the very center of the fairway, the big cutter was slewing drunkenly round. I saw Orloff spring to his feet, and at the same instant the heavy boom swung over with a crash.

It caught him full on the side of the head, knocking him backwards into the sea. Then a huge wave broke against the stranded vessel, burying her from my sight beneath a cloud of spray.

"YOU'RE a brick, Molly," I said, stroking her hair. "I wish all beautiful women were as kind as you are."

"She's teared, over and kissed me. 'Don't be so foolish, Nick. There's nothing kind about helping Mrs. Gowlland—why, I just feel I can't do too much for her, if she hadn't told us the truth, we'd never have found the formula.'"

"Talking of that," I said, "I won-are bound to come right in the long run. I expect they can't quite make up their minds what to do about Mrs. Gowlland."

"How is she?" I asked. "You went to see her last night, didn't you?"

Molly nodded. "She's still at the same house in charge of that policeman. They've been quite nice and all that sort of thing, but even now she doesn't know whether they're going to prosecute her."

"I wish they'd settle it one way or the other. I've taken a couple of furnished rooms for her at Bourne-mouth under another name, and if they'll only let her out she can go down there and get well. After that I mean to give her some money and send her to New Zealand. She's got an unmarried brother out there, who's devoted to her. She's going to live on his farm and look after him."

I stared back over the dripping counter.

It was Jerry who was the first to speak.

"Which of the swine was it, Nick?" he asked. "Not by any chance your pal Peter?"

I spat out a large mouthful of the North Sea.

"I'm afraid so," I replied. "It's very annoying, because there were quite a lot of things I wanted to say to him."

"DON'T get up, Nick darling. I'll light it for you."

Molly struck a match and held it to the cigarette which I had just placed between my lips.

"What did the doctor think about you this morning?" she asked.

"He was most encouraging. Said that I'd mended up in great style, and that as far as he could see the shoulder would be as good as ever."

I settled myself back gingerly against the cushions. "I'll have these bandages off in another week," I added, "and then we can get married."

Molly gave a little contented laugh. "Better say a fortnight. You might hurt it again if you started hugging me too soon."

"All the best games," I objected, "have a certain element of danger. It's supposed to add to their attraction."

The door opened and Dawson advanced towards the sofa, carrying a tray.

"Your beef tea, sir."

I eyed him with some disfavor. "I'm sick of beef tea," I said. "Couldn't I have something else just for a change?"

"Not until lunch time, sir. The doctor was particularly firm on that point."

Molly patted my arm. "Be a good boy and drink it up, Nick. Jerry and Mr. Cresswell will be here in a few minutes, and they're sure to have some news for us."

"I hope so," I said, taking a reluctant sip. "I don't know exactly what the Home Office are playing at, but it's quite time they got a move on of some sort."

"They've been horribly slow," agreed Molly. "All the same, things influence to keep the discussion on a 'reasonable' basis. How much better than approaching a Commission that might prove unsympathetic!"

Note also that Con Gas has made no move to withdraw the injunction which is holding up a 6 per cent rate cut already ordered—nor to abandon its attempt to pass along the new city taxes to the consumer. The concessions that have been made are so far entirely hypothetical.

City authorities will go right ahead with their plans for municipal electricity. They are taking no chances that Mr. Carlin might turn out to be an Indian giver.

Succession: There's a prospect of sensational developments in Edison Institute circles. An important utility group is seriously thinking of resigning its membership.

The secession would be a protest against the Institute's obstructive attitude toward the New Deal. A high official of the group in question is privately quoted as equally fed up with McCarter's belligerency and Carlin's stalling tactics. His company has had no trouble with the government and he feels it would be better off paddling its own canoe. His views have not yet been accepted by his directors but they probably will be.

individualist's paradise American conservatives like to picture. The trend there is toward the limitation of private utilities. Here's a sample.

An electric company's franchise recently expired in a British city. It was renewed for 24 years with a definite agreement that the city will take the plant over as a going concern at the end of the period. Meanwhile the company is supposed to retire bonds and preferred stock out of earnings. The city will pay for the property on the basis of an asset valuation when the franchise runs out and the common stockholders will divvy the proceeds. It's estimated they have a good chance of getting par.

Utility circles which know of this development wonder apprehensively if the idea will catch on over here.

The British Board of Trade (comparable to our Department of Commerce) regulates industry far beyond anything Hugh Johnson ever tried. Price control is extremely effective. Yet nobody kicks—because the government encourages corporations to make money.

The Rescue
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Caw, caw, caw," cried Christopher Columbus Crow.
"Rip! Rip! Rip!" shouted Willy Nilly.

"Bark! Bark! Bark!" Rip's voice sounded nearer. With the greatest speed Christopher could put into his strong wings he flew in the direction of Rip's barking voice, while Willy Nilly hurried along.

At last Christopher's good eyes made out Rip in the distance.

"Rip! Rip! Rip!" he cawed.

"Oh, Christopher!" cried Rip.

"We thought you were lost. We've been so worried," Christopher said as he swooped down by Rip. "Willy Nilly is coming right along."

"We have no time to waste," barked Rip as Willy Nilly reached them, quite out of breath but as happy a little man as could be found anywhere in the whole world.

"That's so," agreed Willy Nilly.

"You must be cold and hungry and miserable. You feel all right, don't you? Just tell me that, and then we'll start for home where you'll be given a welcome I can assure you."

"Never mind about me," said Rip. "What do you mean by that?" asked Willy Nilly.

"There's a man—we must rescue him—" said Rip, but as he spoke he fell down on the snow, worn out.

"Oh," cawed Christopher miserably. "What has happened to him?"

DEMPEY NO MATCH FOR JEFF, EVAN AT BEST, SAYS SHARKEY

San Francisco, Calif.—(AP)—Max Baer's looping right-handers, the ring generalship of Gene Tunney and the ferocity that belonged to Jack Dempsey wouldn't combine to equal the fighting qualifications of James J. Jeffries in his prime, in the opinion of Tom Sharkey, the old-time sailor man who fought in the gay nineties.

In 1899 at Coney Island, Jeffries whipped Sharkey in a 25-round title match.

"The Jeffries of that night would have beaten Baer, Tunney and Dempsey one after the other without a halt," says Sharkey with grim earnestness. "Jeff could do everything: punch, box and 'take it.' He was trained to go one hundred rounds if necessary.

"I think I was the best trained athlete in the world for my two fights with Jeffries. He beat me in 20 rounds in 1898 at San Francisco and the next year at Coney."

"In the second fight, I hit him so hard with a left I knocked my left shoulder out of its socket. Two punches to the jaw which I swear would have dropped a horse didn't even make him blink his eyes. While I was reaching his chin he barged me with a right that broke three of my ribs. There was a bump the size of an apple on my side to remind me of the punch."

"Jeff weighed 220 pounds and stood 6 feet 1-2 inches. He was like a cat on his feet. I've seen them all from Jim Corbett to Baer and I wouldn't put any of them in Jeff's class."

The odd thing is that the Board of Trade has no legal authority to compel obedience to its orders. The fact that business considers the regulations rational and in its own interest appears to be enough. A New Deal sympathizer suggests that the Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers' association send envoys to London to learn what real regimentation is like.

Patience: New York legal lights who have examined Attorney-General Cummings' brief defending abrogation of the gold clause in public and private contracts say his case is technically very weak.

They insist that if the Supreme Court decides the matter strictly on its legal merit it will surely rule against the government. Not that

Sign Two-Year Pact
Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—The growing Loyola University football game will play intercollegiate games for the next two years. Tom Lieb, ex-Notre Dame player and coach of Loyola's line, has announced his arduous charges will entertain Michigan State here this year and journey to East Lansing, Mich., in 1936 for a return engagement.

Concrete guard rails will be replaced with wood along Kansas highways in the interest of safety.

to buy with my head, this year

A very useful New Year's resolution, and one that isn't hard to keep. You'll find buying tips and hints on every hand. Watch for them and you'll be able to buy more things at better prices.

There's a pretty complete buying guide in the advertising columns of this newspaper. Here you find out what is new, what is proved, what is accepted, what is right. You find tips on where to buy as well as what to buy. You read about the growing success of a certain merchant. (If his name stays in the advertisements, year after year—then his goods must be good.)

Look in the advertisements for the latest news—about things that make life more pleasant. You'll learn where to get what you want, how much to pay, and what you can expect from your purchase. You'll learn how to live better—at a saving.

Assembly Hour at College. At the first regular assembly hour of the new term at the college, Miss Louise Nagle, new music teacher, played two selections. Rev. William Hall Preston, introduced by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, spoke on fellowship, leadership and marksmanship.

Mr. Preston stated that the greatest thing in life that one can do is to become a great Christian, and that until one follows Jesus, he cannot fulfill fellowship. In order to be a good leader in every phase of life one must have an everlasting love for other people. He stated that the best leader was the most unselfish. For marksmanship, he said that one must have high ideals and strive to attain them.

First Church of Christ, Scientist. "God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 6, 1935.

The golden text was from 1 Tim. 1:17: "Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now know I that the Lord saveth his appointed; he will hear him from his holy heaven with the saving strength of his right hand. Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord our God." (Ps. 20:6-7).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "By interpreting God as a corporeal Saviour but not as the saving Principle, or divine Love, we shall continue to seek salvation through pardon and not through reform, and resort to matter instead of Spirit for the cure of the sick. As mortals reach, through knowledge of Christian Science, a higher sense, they will seek to learn, not from matter, but from the divine Principle, God, how to demonstrate the Christ, Truth, as the healing and saving power."

N. C. BAR IS INVITED TO SAIL FROM WILMINGTON

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 8.—An invitation to use the port of Wilmington as a starting and ending point for a proposed voyage to Nassau, Bahamas Islands, by the North Carolina Bar Association at its annual meeting next summer, has been extended by Louis T. Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to Henry M. London, of Raleigh, secretary of the association.

Plans are under way to hold the convention on a liner leaving either Wilmington, North Carolina's deep water port, or from Norfolk, Va., about July 14. Mr. Moore points out that since the organization is a North Carolina group, it would follow that the members of the association would prefer embarking and disembarking at a State port, rather than from one in an adjoining State and not quite as accessible from every point in this State.

Mr. Moore points out also that Wilmington is served excellently by two railroads is the converging point of a number of State highways and also has facilities to take care of those who might come here by air.

The owners of the Champion Compress and Warehouse Company terminals have offered the use of their piers without charge. Mr. Moore said. A similar voyage was operated from this port several years ago.

Who Said Quit?

Golden City, Mo.—(AP)—Golden City High School griders are champions of southwest Missouri because they refused to quit when the board of education wanted to drop football as an interscholastic sport.

Early in the fall the board announced its decision to abandon the sport, in which Golden City apparently was consistently outclassed by its conference rivals. Confirmed cellar dwellers, the lads had never won a title.

Twenty small, inexperienced but "never say die" candidates showed up for practice after they had succeeded in getting the board to reverse its stand. Doped to lose practically every game, but one, scoring 147 points to 25 for its opposition.

Cardul for Better Appetite

"I was so nervous and depressed. I felt like I wanted to tear my hair," writes Mrs. R. W. Kilpatrick, of Houston, Texas. "I would get ashamed of being so easily upset. I took Cardul at this time and after the third bottle, my strength began to mend. The pain was less. I quit having the depressed feeling."

A better appetite often is one of the first results of taking Cardul, and as nourishment is improved, many disagreeable symptoms of a run-down condition go away. But of course, if Cardul does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—Adv.

Girls Basket Ball Season Opens Friday

The girls' varsity team of East Carolina Teachers College will open the season Friday night at eight o'clock when they meet the girls from Rocky Mount Y. W. C. A. in the Campus building.

Louise Briley has been elected captain of the team. She played on the Greenville High School team for three years. She was one of the best guards in this section of the state. She was a star on her college freshman class team and made a varsity letter last year.

Supporting Briley are "Bibber" Overton, Mae Hearne, Annie Laurie Askew and Mary Shaw Robeson who played together to win the North-eastern high school championship in 1930-31.

Mary Ella Bunn, Florence Sinclair, Margaret Fulton, Margaret Martin and Vick Mazingo are letter men of last year and are back on the job doing fine work.

The squad has Ruth Parker, Callie Charlton, LaVera Roberts, Helen Wilson, Hateline Coley, Marjorie Smithson, Zula Barbee and Geraldine Tyson as new members. Several of these have shown fine form.

With such a strong group of players the college should have a strong team this year. It was probably as strong as any college team in North Carolina. The outlook is just as good as it was at this time last year.

Rocky Mount Y. W. C. A. has a fine team. The locals played them twice last year, winning each game after a hard struggle. According to reports, the Rocky Mount squad is much stronger this year. Thus a very hard fought game may be expected Friday night.

SOCIALISTS ANNOUNCE OFFICIAL NEWS ORGAN

High Point, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A program of reorganization of the Socialist party in North Carolina and the establishment of an official news organ for the party was announced here today from headquarters of the State executive committee.

Alton Lawrence, State secretary of the party since 1932, has resigned from that office to serve as chairman of the editorial board and promoter of the new publication; and E. A. Ruddock of this city, has been selected to fill the vacancy created by Lawrence's resignation from the secretaryship.

The position of State organizer also has been created and C. L. Slate chairman of the State executive committee, of Thomasville, has been chosen to fill it. The newspaper, whose first issue will appear soon, will be called "The Southern Socialist."

The oldest member of the House of the 1935 Oklahoma Legislature is Henry Clay King, 74, and the oldest member of the Senate, former Governor Henry S. Johnson, 69.

Congress Opening Reveals Strength Of Majority Party

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—It required no wide stretch of imagination, even among those no so familiar with political divisions on Capitol Hill, to realize what a powerhouse the Democrats have in the 74th Congress.

2,400 New Bills
It was equally clear that the Democratic leadership on the Hill, particularly that of the House of Representatives, will take no chances with the juggernaut which is theirs.

Washington Daybook

Washington, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Gossip backstage has it there is more behind the democratic threat to reduce republican strength on important house committees in the next congress than reasons given by the leaders.

Will of the Caucus

There are four democratic vacancies to be filled on this committee and three republican. Under the present set-up ways and means consists of 25 members, 15 of whom are democrats and 10 republicans.

Committee Assignments

There's nothing new or novel in the idea of the democrats threatening to whittle down republican strength in committees. The republicans themselves, it is pointed out, did it back in the 67th congress when they enjoyed superior strength.
