LEGISLATORS SEE NEW DEAL FOR THE STATE

Social Legislation Recommended by Governor Receives Hearby Approval

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 12.—"A New Deal for North Carolina" is the opinion of many members of the 1935 General Assembly voiced by the program for the State outlined by Governor Ehringhaus in his message Thursday night. Particularly is that of his social plans, which included old age and unemployment insurance, a text-book rental system, and approval of the Federal child labor amendment among other things.

"His program is splendid," said Billy Sullivan, House member from Buncombe, "and I endorse it unreservedly."

"A wonderful program," said Dr. Charles A. Peterson, Republican House member from Mitchell County, "and, in general, endorse it. I am, however, opposed to his proposal to raise the present tax rate of 6 per cent on incomes. The Federal Government already levies such a tax at a burdensome rate. Increase of the State rate would prove disastrous."

William Scholl, one of the members of the Lower House from Mecklenburg, endorsed "in general" the governor's plans. Especially was he pleased because the Governor advocates strict regulation or outright repeal of the absentee ballot law, long a bone of contention and a source of trouble in many counties. Scholl had introduced a bill to repeal the act a few hours before the Governor made his address. The entire Mecklenburg delegation said they would support Scholl's measure.

Dr. Ralph McDonald, one of the House members from Forsyth, was jubilant over the social features of the Governor's program. He endorsed it.

Electrocution Of Pitt County Negro Is Again Put Off

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 12.—A report on which a commutation for Jim Green, Pitt County negro, may be granted was delivered to Commissioner of Prisons Edwin Gill yesterday morning, he said last night. The contents of the report were not revealed, nor would Mr. Gill make any statement concerning the probability of a commutation.

Green, convicted of criminally assaulting a white woman, had been scheduled to die in the electric chair at the State's Prison yesterday morning, but a thirty-day reprieve was granted "without comment" by Governor Ehringhaus Thursday.

While he was non-committal yesterday, Mr. Gill has frequently indicated that it is unlikely that Green will ever die in the chair. He also has indicated that final action in the case will be taken before the expiration of Green's present reprieve, which sets the date for his electrocution on March 1.

RURAL SCOUT MEET HERE YESTERDAY

Move To Carry Scouting to Rural Communities Well Received

Interested citizens from every section of the county attended the Rural Institute of Greenville District Boy Scouts, held at the high school here yesterday. The meeting which began at four o'clock and concluded at seven o'clock with dinner served in the high school cafeteria was attended by fifty or more persons and there was much enthusiasm for the movement of carrying scouting into the rural areas. Those in attendance included the principals of the various county schools and ministers and other citizens from the various communities.

Addresses on the various phases of the scout movement were delivered by the following: D. H. Conley, J. Winslow, John J. Sigwald, Ben F. Eagles, B. B. Sugg, K. R. Curtis, Leon Keaton, Jr., Dr. G. R. Combs, J. H. Rose and K. T. Futrell. The story of the origin of scouting was presented in a skit by the following members of Troop 30 Scouts of this city: Kenneth Henderson, Lonnie Alfred, Wm. Henderson, O. P. Pollard, Jr. Earl Helen and John Anderson of troop 30 served as pages during the meeting.

LOOKING BACK AND AHEAD AT LEGISLATURE

Assembly is Strong Friend and Ally of Governor; Talk of Dry Law Changes

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 12.—Looking backward over the half week and forward to the remaining eight, a dozen, or fifteen more, Governor Ehringhaus appears to be in position to write as much of his ideas into law as any man who has ever held his great office.

Nearly all the observers of events concede to the Governor a hold on the General Assembly that no recent predecessor has had. The agricultural

Courts May Not Hear Last Of The Hauptmann Case For Many Months

By JACK STINNETT

Flemington, N. J.—(AP)—No matter what verdict is reached in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with murdering the Lindbergh baby, the German carpenter's case may be in the courts for many months to come.

George K. Large, deputy attorney general, outlines the legal processes which might attend every possible action of the jury now sitting in the little white Hunterdon County courthouse here.

When the eight men and four women complete their deliberations, he said, one of four things is likely: (1) acquittal, (2) conviction with a recommendation for mercy, (3) conviction without recommendation, or (4) failure to agree.

Should the jury find Hauptmann not guilty of murder in the first degree while committing an act of burglary, he still would be far from that point where he could walk out of the courtroom a free man.

In Bronx County, New York, where he was arrested, where he lived, and where, it is charged, he received $50,000 ransom money from Dr. John F. Condon in a cemetery, there still stands against him the indictment for extortion.

A detainer already is in the hands of the Hunterdon County sheriff and should Hauptmann be acquitted by the present case, he would be turned over to Bronx County officials for prosecution on that charge, which carries the penalty of imprisonment for not less than five nor more than twenty years.

In the event of acquittal there, the Federal Government might choose to prosecute Hauptmann on a charge of gold hoarding, the maximum sentence for which is two years with a maximum fine of $10,000. And, of course, immigration officials might decide to act on Hauptmann's alleged illegal entry into this country. If the allegations were proved true, he could be deported.

A New Trial? The possibility that a jury will

PUSH WORK ON PEANUT CONTRACTS

Committees For Various Sections Given Final Instructions Yesterday

The committeemen selected to handle peanut contracts met in the County Agent's office yesterday to receive instructions to enable them in assisting the farmers in preparing contracts. The following committeemen will handle the contracts for farmers in the north side of the river and will be at the following designated places:

Bethel Township, E. L. Mayo's Office—E. L. Mayo, J. V. Taylor and E. C. Martin, committeemen.

Belvoir Township, Bell's Cross-Roads—W. R. Tyson, T. E. Parker and C. J. Harris, committeemen.

Carolina Township, Woolard's Store—A. L. Woolard and J. S. Fleming, committeemen.

Pactolus Township, J. P. Davenport's Store—J. P. Davenport and C. R. Fleming, committee.

Farmers who desire to sign peanut contracts will be able to find the committeemen at the above places during the week. The time for signing contracts will close January 19.

Due to the fact that there are only a few peanut growers in each township on the south side of the river, farmers who desire to sign a contract will be requested to get in touch with the committeemen at their homes between now and the 19th and get their contracts signed.

Farmville Township, Arch Flanagan will assist the farmer and call on him in signing contracts.

Growers in Fountain and Falkland Township will see G. E. Treathan. Growers in Ayden, Winterville and Swift Creek Township will see F. M. Kilpatrick.

Growers in Greenville and Chitwood Township will see Frank Taylor. Mr. Taylor will be in the court-room at the courthouse during next week. All farmers in Chitwood and Greenville Township are urged to call on him at this place before the close of the sign-up on the 19th of January.

The farmers are being offered a very attractive contract, and are urged to get in touch with these committeemen at once.

disagree—resulting in what is known as a "hung jury"—always makes life miserable for prosecutors.

In cases of importance, it means almost invariably a new trial, additional expense to the State, and generally an elimination of all possibilities of surprise in the prosecution's presentation of evidence. In the Hauptmann case, observers are agreed that in the event of failure to return a verdict, a new trial would be set for early hearing, probably within a few weeks.

Conviction with a recommendation of mercy would result inevitably, it is thought, in a sentence of life imprisonment. If the defense did not appeal, that might mean an end to the case so far as the courts were concerned.

In the case of conviction with no recommendation of clemency, the sentence would be death in the electric chair, located in the "death house" at Trenton.

Appeal Might Follow In any instance where the conviction results from circumstantial evidence, lawyers point out, appeals usually are taken. The legal process of appeal is application for a stay of execution and service of notice of appeal at the time sentence is pronounced.

Appeal may be taken on legal grounds only, either on specific portions of the record or on the record as a whole. This would be argued before the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals. In a case of the importance of the Hauptmann case, the court probably would hear the appeal at a special sitting at most within a few weeks of the filing of the record, Large said.

This court has the privilege of reversing the verdict, remanding for new trial or sustaining the conviction.

And there are several instances in New Jersey records showing that the court of pardons, composed of the governor and six lay judges of the court or errors and appeals has commuted death sentences to life imprisonment.

LEADERS IN REVOLT AGAINST HUEY

While Senator Huey P. Long sojourns in New York and proclaims he's "not a damned bit interested" in their threats, members of the New Deal association in Louisiana are talking of "bloodshed" unless the state is released from his dictatorship. Among the leaders in the revolt are R. L. Tullis (top left), former dean of the Louisiana State university law school, who is shown addressing an anti-Long mass meeting in Baton Rouge; Matt G. Smith (top right), president of the East Baton Rouge parish police jury; Mrs. J. L. Roussel (lower left), Baton Rouge housewife shown addressing the mass meeting, and Sheriff Robert L. WARREN ASKS ATTY-GENERAL NEW HEARING RIVER PROJECT

Congressman Expresses Disappointment At Report of District Engineer

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Congressman Lindsay Warren has appealed from the unfavorable report of the U. S. District Engineer on the proposed improvement of the River and has asked for a hearing before the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors sometime after March 10, as it will require time to prepare the case on appeal. The Eastern North Carolina Association with headquarters in Greenville will gather the evidence to be presented. The report was unfavorable because of the excessive cost of the projects, and Mr. Warren, who has twice introduced the survey bill in Congress, expressed himself as being greatly disappointed.

QUIET DAY IN LEGISLATURE

Only Six Senators And 20 Representatives Attend Today's Sessions

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The General Assembly stayed in session a total of about eleven minutes today, the Senate meeting six minutes, the Senate meeting six minutes and about twenty House members attended the sessions. The Senate had a statement spread on its minutes by Senator Williams, Republican, of Yadkin, branding as "absolutely false and untrue" an article appearing in a newspaper stating that Republicans in the Legislature were attempting secretly and furtively to prevent Tam C. Bowles, being seated in the House, of Ashe, being seated in the House. Williams rose to a point of personal privilege. The statement the Republican referred to was not carried by The Associated Press.

Senator Weathers introduced a measure to put a fee of $15 on charters for benevolent, religious and charitable organizations which have no capital stock.

The House received and passed one bill by Representative Henry of Transylvania, proposing exemption of his county from provisions of the Public Laws on hunting restrictions.

Both divisions will meet for regular business Monday night. A substance having all the desirable properties of bakelite, an American product, has been produced from coal at a low cost by German scientists.

SAYS DRY LAW NOT BIG ISSUE THIS SESSION

Most Legislators Feel That People Have Already Expressed Wishes

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. By C. A. PAUL

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—Perhaps it's the salty tang in the air down along the coastal country of North Carolina, or maybe it's because the forthright manners of those who go down to the sea in ships is contagious but, anyway, it is apparent to most observers here that most of the sentiment against the state's prohibition law comes from that section. Prohibition will not be a major issue in the 1935 legislature now in session, but here and there will be made attempts to loosen the strong verbiage of the Turlington act.

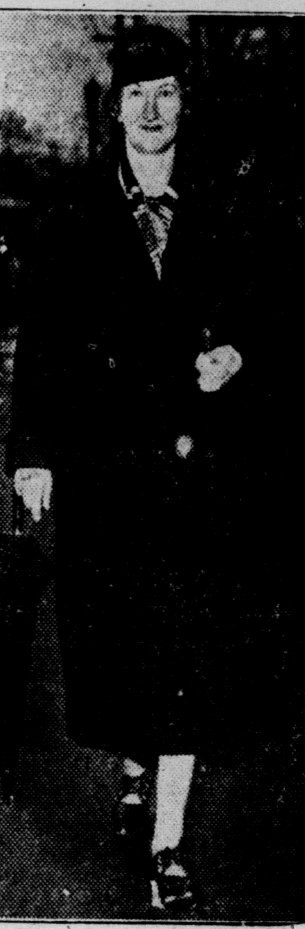

Would you buy a pint of Four Roses to help out that rather pretty girl who teaches the fourth grade? Well, you will have just that opportunity if John F. White, house member from Edenton, Chowan county, has his way about it. He will introduce a bill which would substitute for the Turlington Act a state-controlled system of liquor dispensing similar to the method now in use in Virginia. The revenue derived from this plan would be used to help pay school teachers as well as other state employees. An opportunity to wet your whistle, help foot the state bills, and a chance to brush up on your ABC's could thus be taken advantage of by simply crooking your elbow.

Then there's the proposition being advocated by Representative Tom Cooper, of Wilmington; he will introduce a bill to exempt Wilmington and New Hanover county from the stringent state-wide ban on Mr. Barleycorn. His measure provides for a referendum on the question in New Hanover, to be followed by exemption of the county from the dry law if the referendum is successful.

Doubtless there are other bills designed on the dry law now reposing in the pockets of legislators. Ben Cone, of Goldsboro, L. L. Stevens, of Camden, both house members, have said that they think something better than the Turlington Act can and ought to be devised, but if they have any bills they haven't shown them.

The reason most members refuse to be quoted on this business of prohibition is the large dry vote cast in the "general" election of 1933, called for the express purpose of voting on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Several members when questioned will say that they do not think it would be "ethical," that's their favorite term, to modify or change in any particular the famed Turlington Act. To most members of the present session the vote of the people in that 1933 election was "mandatory" to let alone the law which has brought attention from the nation as well as Kansas. One senator Zeb Morgan, of Richmond, did make a significant remark when told of Cooper's plan to exempt New Hanover county: "Sure," he said laughingly "I'll vote for it. I go" (Continued on page three)

'Woman In Green'

The crowd at the Hauptmann trial buzzed with excitement when the mysterious "woman in green" appeared as a prospective witness for the defense. But later she was identified as Mrs. Hermina Koren (above). Relatives of Dr. John F. Condon said she had no connection with the case except that she came to "Jafsie" home with another woman who volunteered to solve the kidnaping mystery. The offer was not accepted. FOUR NEGROES ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

One of Those to Escape Was Being Held For Trial on Murder Charge

Local officers today were searching for three of the four negroes who during last night effected their escape from Pitt County jail here by prizing the bars of their cell block and then walking out of the jail to their freedom. The four escapes included Perry German, held for the next term of criminal court on a charge of murder growing out of his slaying of another negro here a short time ago.

The sheriff and his officers were out on the search this morning, and the names of the other three negroes who made their escape could not be learned, but it was stated at the sheriff's office that with the exception of German, all were in jail for minor offenses. One of the negroes was recaptured early today.

REILLY SEEKS PLACE BLAME ON DEAD MAN

Will Contend Fisch Wrote Ransom Notes And Received Ransom Money

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The New York Post said today it had learned a man bearing a striking resemblance to Bruno Hauptmann will be a surprise witness for the defense in the Hauptmann trial.

The "double," the Post said, is Robert Scanlon, of Menlo Park, N. J., who at the time of the kidnaping was a real estate man, and was inspecting pieces of property near the Hopewell estate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

This witness, according to the Post, is prepared to testify that he was in the woods surrounding the Lindbergh home and drove over the roads in that vicinity about the time of the abduction. The Post said Scanlon had decided to offer his testimony after reading accounts of the trial at Flemington, and when he recognized many of the episodes described by the Sourland residents testifying to having seen Hauptmann near the Lindbergh home, had happened to him. These Sourland residents who are to be called as witnesses by the prosecution made their identification of Hauptmann at his extradition proceedings at New York.

(Copyright By The Associated Press) Flemington, N. J., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense put handwriting experts to work on the Lindbergh ransom notes today in an attempt to show they were written by the wrath-like Isidore Fisch. Taking advantage of the week-end recess in the Hauptmann trial for life, the defense authorities also sought flaws in evidence presented by the State that the notes were written by Hauptmann himself.

Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense for Hauptmann, who is on trial for the murder of the kidnaped Lindbergh infant, said: "We will prove that Fisch not only collected the ransom, but also wrote the ransom notes." Since his arrest the Bronx carpenter has insisted that the $14,000 ransom money found in his possession was given him by Fisch, his former business partner who died in Germany.

The State has produced evidence of extortion against Hauptmann, but so far no evidence of murder. The Surly attorney said the defense expected to prove Hauptmann's innocence of extortion as well as murder. He merely received unwillingly der. He merely received unwillingly der. He merely received unwillingly der.

Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., county prosecutor, said the State was ready to refute any charge that Fisch had anything to do with the case, and prepared to break down completely Hauptmann's alibi involving Fisch as the man from whom he obtained the ransom money.

MINISTER TO BE ORDAINED HERE SUNDAY

Presbyterians to Hold Ordination Service For New Pastor Sunday Night

At the First Presbyterian Church Sunday night there will be held the service of ordination to the ministry and installation as pastor over the local church of Rev. Robert C. Grady. A commission from Albemarle Presbytery will be in charge of the service which is open to the public. The Rev. R. E. McClure of New Bern, will officiate. The Rev. Chester Alexander of Tarboro, will preach the sermon for the occasion. The charge to the minister will be delivered by the Rev. Harold Dudley of Kinston, with the charge to the congregation being given by J. B. Sparrow of Washington, the ruling elder on the commission.

Mr. Grady, who began his work here December 1, was licensed to preach by Wilmington Presbytery in its October meeting, and last week passed the examinations for ordination given at the mid-winter meeting of Albemarle Presbytery, under whose jurisdiction the local church falls. Mr. Grady, a graduate of Davidson College and Princeton Theological Seminary, and holding the degree of Master of Arts from Princeton University, was engaged in psychiatric case-study under appointment of "The Council for the News Behind The News.

WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DURNO SURVIVOR

The day Huey Long came back to denounce the Roosevelt administration, the Lindbergh kidnap trial was having sensational developments. President Roosevelt's annual budget message had just been made public. The Supreme Court had ruled a portion of the Recovery Act unconstitutional. A coastwise passenger steamer was in distress.

IRRITANT

Original impressions of those living outside of Louisiana when Huey took over the State in its entirety were those of amazement that the voters would sit passively by.

Don't forget further that the senator from Louisiana was able to live down that Sands Point affair. Ninety-nine out of a hundred politicians would have been retired permanently to private life on the strength of that one.

INDICATOR

Long's national vote-getting ability being appraised from every angle by the powers-that-be. Few men in public life would care to refute his redistribution-of-wealth ideas, even if so minded. He has a dozen other issues that draw applause and approval from any average audience.

His colleagues on the Senate floor dare not debate with him. Long ignores the old rules and calls a spade a spade. He seldom makes a statement in the course of one of his hell-roaring speeches which he cannot follow up with sufficiently embarrassing observations to silence any would-be harasser. The Kingfish is ready at a moment's notice to shake a skeleton in most of his colleagues' closets.

His reason for finally breaking with the White House was obvious. He fully expects to be indicted for income tax evasions—so he stole a march on the prosecution and indicted his prosecutors first.

Yet roughly Long did the same thing in Louisiana that President Roosevelt did in Washington during the last session of Congress. Both extracted from the legislative bodies for their own discretionary use most of the power hitherto vested in the Congress and the State Legislature.

How those powers are being, or will be, exercised by the two men is something else again.

As the moment Long is busy rubbing salt into every sore wound he can find in the New Deal. He is constantly calling the attention of the Progressive Republican to the way in which administration politicians tried to beat Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, after that worthy went down the line for FDR in 1932. He harps on Bernie Baruch's influence with the White House because he knows it gets the

IT SHOULD BE DONE

Senator Arthur B. Corey, home from Raleigh for the week-end, declared this morning that he was going to try to do everything possible to get adoption of legislation that would cause the state to take over the bonds now held by many of the counties for highways that now belong to the state. This is one thing that the state should do and certainly we hope that Senator Corey will be successful in his efforts.

There are at this time in the state a number of counties whose citizens are paying county TAXES ON ROAD bonds while other counties are enjoying just as many or more miles of good roads built at state expense out of gasoline money by the people from all parts of the state. Certainly it is not right for part of the counties to have to pay for their roads twice and that is just what the present situation amounts to.

If the state is not willing to take over the bonds from the various counties then certainly some provision should be made to turn back to the counties that have road bonds, a certain proportion of the gasoline tax receipts to aid in the payment of these bonds.

If Senator Corey is able to put this legislation through he will have rendered a great service to many counties in the state by removing the injustice that now exists.

IT SEEMS SO

There is a lot of talk about the possibilities of some action on the prohibition question in Raleigh, but don't let us get all excited over the prospects of legalized "hooch" in this state. Naturally in view of past history in this state the only action that would be taken would be to refer the matter to the vote of the people and it must be remembered that "Those Tar Heels will vote dry just as long as they can stagger to the polls."

CHARLOTTE MAN HURT AS CAR STRIKES BRIDGE

Sanford, Jan. 12.—T. H. Colcott, 42, of Charlotte, is in Lee county hospital with two broken ribs and lacerations on the face as a result of an accident about 10:30 o'clock today when his automobile struck a bridge on Highway 1, near Lakeview.

It is understood that a marker placed on the highway to denote a freshly painted center line, was the cause of the accident.

Physicians found it necessary to take 70 stitches in the wounds on Mr. Colcott's face. While his injuries are painful they are not considered serious.

Brother Pascual

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: Brother Pascual has arrived at the door of Mateo Rubric, a Mexican bandit who preys only on the rich. Rubric offers Pascual money for his poor, but Pascual wants only food. The bandit, who has great admiration for the friar, declares that some day he will reform and do a great penance. But right now he wants more wine.

Chapter Two PEACEMAKER

AS PASCUAL ate, Mateo Rubric strode up and down with his jeweled wine cup in one hand and in the other a fat sword joint from which he tore long strands with those powerful teeth of his.

"Now is the time to speak, Lucio," said Rubric. "You have been sitting there with fire in your eyes, devouring José with glances. Tell me what was wrong."

Lucio stood up. He lacked the rounded, blubbery face of a peon; his features were more the type of the aristocrat and his cheeks were so hollow that they pulled at the corners of his mouth and kept him with the semblance of a sneering smile. He said, "José, stand up!"

"Ay, to you or to any man!" said a youth with very wide shoulders and very bowed legs. He was the true peon type. He swaggered out and stood well forward on the floor.

"When they came chasing after us," said Lucio, "my horse went down under me. I ran as well as my legs would carry me. I heard hoot-beats. I looked back and saw that a friend was riding up. It was José, I held out my hand to let him help me up, but, by St. Christopher! he galloped right past me! He even tried to look the other way! And the Rurales and the soldiers were sure to get me, except that I found a crack among the rocks and ran and fell into it like a lizard. Mateo Rubric, give me a judgment! Is that fellowship? A lame dog would be better treated by its fellows!"

The huge grip of Pascual closed suddenly on José.

A little murmur came out of the throats of the crowd. It was not loud, but it was high-pitched, and therefore the friar knew the strain of anger from which it proceeded.

"Now speak, José," said Rubric. "This!" said José, loudly. "I saw Lucio running, of course, I wanted to help him. But I had a whole sack of the gold in the saddle bag. To throw away myself and my horse—that was nothing, though the Rurales were sure to catch us both if I tried to make the pinto carry double. But there was the gold. So I rode on. Speak up with a big voice, Lucio. Are you worth thirty pounds of gold?"

Lucio said nothing. He looked ready to leap at José, but he could not bring up words from his throat. The whole room was hushed. Men leaned from their places, their eyes intent on the leader, who still walked calmly up and down. But now he paused and pointed the ragged joint of roast meat at José.

"Silver is a good thing and gold is better, but silver and gold and emeralds and diamonds are not worth one drop of blood. Blood is better than money, José, you have not been with me long. You have not learned. Otherwise, by San Juan of Capistrano! I would hang you from that rafter with my own hands! Ride by and the financier being close friends. In the adroitest way he is appealing in support of ever element in the country which feels itself downtrodden and discontented.

It is the measured opinion of many observers here that if President Roosevelt should ever stumble the Louisiana Kingfish would grow overnight to large proportions.

CLASH: Madame Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is reported to be getting a bit fed up because Chairman Francis Biddle, of the National Labor Relations Board, wants to report direct to the White House instead of through her office.

The Labor Board was created by executive order to function "in connection with" the Labor Department rather than "under" it. A further proviso, however, indicated that the Board should report through the Secretary of Labor. Those stationed at official listening posts says Biddle tried several times to carry his troubles personally to the President but was blocked each time by Miss Perkins.

The funny angle to this squabble is that NLRB's decision so far have been about 99 44-100 per cent pro-labor. Madame Secretary likewise has the interest of the working man at heart. As the State Department lads would say, it's just a matter of protocol.

HASH: It's too early to size up the probable strength of bonus-inflation silver bloc combinations. Members of these blocs are moving cautiously, sounding out the possibilities of combinations that might put over the bonus, free issuance of paper money, boost silver purchases and increase cash benefits to farmers.

One fact is suggestive—all inflationists are delighted with the prospect of a big increase in the public debt and lavish expenditures for new reform experiments.

No one block can do much to change the situation, but a combination of them can make hash of the budget estimates.

DEFENSE: Little opposition will be made to the increase of the Navy. It is scheduled to receive $490,000,000. This will provide new destroyers and submarines and carry on construction of warships, besides Pearl Harbor, and an increase of officers and enlisted men. By June 30, 1936, under this program the Navy will be up to treaty strength.

Army estimates also meet general approval. The $315,000,000 asked for will add 547 airplanes and complete mechanization of some cavalry regiments.

Sentiment in Congress is practically unanimous in supporting the administration for improvement of national defense. Nothing is said of Japan, but estimates when analyzed reveal that Pacific Ocean defenses are best looked after.

Talks to Parents

LOOKING BACKWARD AND AHEAD AT LEGISLATURE

How Well I Remember

By BROOKE PETERS BURCH

The average person looking back over his life will be surprised to find how much more distinctly he remembers places, rather than people, from his childhood. People change, pass in and out of one's daily life, are eternally variable. Even one's parents and brothers and sisters are as they now seem, not as they used to be. One has watched them grow up and forgotten the past in the present.

Places have more permanence, and give one a sense of possession, and children become attached or averse to them and remember them with pleasure or distaste ever after.

If parents considered this they would probably be more careful of the kind of picture gallery they build up in their children's minds. By means of pleasant associations they could build up a permanent foundation of happy memories to be looked back upon in after life.

The adult whose roots are laid in a host of delightful associations with this place or that, feels at home in the world. It has become a part of his life, and no matter where his later years are spent, he knows that somewhere there is a part of the world which belongs to him and with which he feels kinship.

It is the background of little children which counts most—and which gives them that feeling of security, of "belonging," which colors all their after life. Even if the actuality is destroyed, the memory and the train of associations it arouses remain.

The shifting, nomadic life of today may be what the future holds for mankind. If so, he will have to find some means of attaching himself to the world if he is to survive. Perhaps his childhood memories will be kaleidoscopic and varied, but as far as is humanly possible they should be of pleasant places where he feels at home.

Experts doubt that the maneuver will succeed. They claim the pressure of the cheaper dollar and pound can't possibly be offset by halfway measures.

Premier Flaminio is officially committed to maintain the gold standard—but he has made a subtle move to weaken the peasant resistance to devaluation.

French farmers were protected against the effects of a high franc by a direct subsidy on wheat exports and a guaranteed price on wheat consumed at home.

Now the guarantee has been dropped by about 40 per cent and the farmers don't like it. But observe that 40 per cent devaluation—to a virtual new parity with the dollar—would put prices back where they were before in terms of francs. The French peasant is a stubborn soul, but his pocketbook nerve is sensitive. Observers remark that Flaminio's strategy is worth of Machiavelli.

ACCORD: The Franco-Italian accord should promote recovery—here as well as abroad. Restored confidence will free capital for bolder investment. The armament question is more clearly defined and both countries should be able to decrease their military budgets. This will release funds also. Astute New Yorkers expect some of that money to seek American trade and investment channels.

CITY: The elaborate new road system proposed for New York City fits nicely into FRD's public works plan—but it pre-conditions further growth of the city and the informed doubters' opinion holds that the city is as good as bankrupt and is more likely to shrink than expand from now on. Manufacturing plants are gradually moving away to escape high rentals, taxes and labor costs. In 1930 leading bankers were predicting New York's uninterrupted growth at least until 1935—but the present status of real estate and mortgages indicates a slight error in the forecast.

The New Deal trend toward generalizing population will affect all urban centers to some extent. New York must cope with the added factor of having lost its attractions for industry.

UNGRATEFUL: Old Doc Farley has another first-aid job on his hands. The New York State Democratic Club has broken out in a new rash of bad feeling. Tammany is hogging the chairmanship of legislative committees and the upstate Democrats—led by the O'Connell of Albany—are sore as sunburn.

The O'Connells are especially annoyed because it was their move which kept John F. Hyland off last November's ballot—and thereby helped elec. Tammany Comptroller Taylor in the city. Such ingratitude!

SAYS DRY LAW NOT BIG ISSUE THIS SESSION

Even the most optimistic observers here see but little chance for modification of the Thurlington Act. It is their contention that the only bills which have even a chance to get by are those which would again refer the matter to the people. Several members have expressed their willingness to again do that. There is always the chance to explain to dry constituents that such a move was made because legislators realized that this is a democracy and that the people themselves shall say what the people shall have.

Competent observers, men who have seen a lot of water run over the dam and a lot of hooded liquor that didn't even get close to the dam, say that prohibition will not be a major issue. If they say, simply does not fit in with the plan of political expediency.

Angry Mrs. Quacko

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE other Puddle Muddlers rather enjoyed it when Mrs. Quacko and Mrs. Nilly thought he would not interrupt them unless they became too angry.

"You think only of yourself!" Mrs. Quacko said. "Rip was out in that stom, alone and lost. But did he think of himself? No, a Puddle Muddler isn't all wrapped up in self as someone from Quackerville, whose name I won't mention, always is.

"Rip heard me and he found a man who was lost and hurt. He did what he could for him and then ran for help, little caring that he was exhausted and in danger, too."

"In Quackerville one can find conceit, but in Puddle Muddle one can find a hero."

Mrs. Quacko turned to Willy Nilly, shaking with rage.

"Kindly open that door for me," she quacked. "Let it never be said that Mrs. Quacker of Quackerville remained in a house where she was insulted."

Willy Nilly opened the door and Mrs. Quacko waddled out, but as she was leaving all the Puddle Muddlers started to yell:

"Who puts on airs? MRS. QUACKER."

"Who thinks only of herself? MRS. QUACKER."

"Hush, hush," said Willy Nilly as he closed the door. "Let's have some peace. We've had enough worry and trouble lately." The Puddle Muddlers laughed; and soon they were resting.

"I'll get at my ears next week," thought Willy Nilly. "I had completely forgotten about them in the worry over Rip."

SPORT SLANTS

IN TRAINING—By PAP

Paul Pilgrim, manager of athletics in New York Athletic Club, was not at all surprised when Bill Bonthron appeared at the Winged Foot Club and resumed working out on the track, despite the former Princeton retiree's announcement that he would retire from foot-racing when his college days were over.

Pilgrim, a great middle distance runner in his day and winner of the 440 and 880 in the Olympics, knew better than to take the retirement talk seriously and expected Bonthron to run again after a little rest.

"I knew how he felt after that long hard running campaign," commented Pilgrim. "You get so tired of the training grind you never want to see a spiked shoe again, but after a long rest you are keen to get going again."

Bonthron was tired of running—and he might have been. In the final month of his campaign he won the Intercollegiate A. A. A. 800 and 1500 meters, the National Collegiate mile and the National A. A. U. 1500 meter championships in a schedule which came back to the West Coast and back again.

Doesn't Like To Run

All things considered, the never-realized run and did so only because some sort of athletic activity was expected of him.

He claims his feeling toward foot-racing is still ungrounded, that he is resuming his training only because he deems it unwise to drop all athletic activity suddenly after years of high school prep school and college racing. His plan is to taper off gradually over a period of three years until he can safely hang up his spiked shoes.

Bonthron's methods of training for foot-racing may be considered unorthodox, yet it is perfectly suited to his needs, judged in the light of his accomplishment. He spends at least as much time at the weight pulling machines in the gymnasium as he does on the running track.

With his exceptionally long stride it is natural that he should need unusual strength to carry him along at a record-breaking clip. Hence his rigid program of body-building.

Lacking firm in his running depending almost entirely on a finishing kick to bring him home in front, Bonthron has substituted unusual strength and power. All attempts to alter his running style were fruitless as the had to return to his natural methods.

Back For Olympics

He plans to begin his indeed competitive campaign by running distance races and training down to the shorter and faster races as the season wears on.

If Bonthron and Cunningham are brought together again to resume the rivalry which started last winter and continued through the outdoor season, track followers can look forward to another indoor season.

Bonthron's three-year plan will carry him over the Olympic Games in Berlin. In spite of his announced feelings about running it is doubtful if he can resist the lure competition in the international classic will offer. Look for him on the 1936 team!

Returns From Buying Trip. Miss Bess Low has returned to the city after a visit to relatives in Baltimore. From there she went to New York to purchase early spring merchandise.

Seven Fall Term Graduates. There were seven graduates at the close of the fall term of the college, three receiving the Bachelor of Arts degree, and four completing the two-year normal course.

The A. B. graduates were Miss Constance Ballance, who majored in Home Economics and Science; Miss Selma Gurganus, majoring in English and French; and Miss Doris Whitehurst, majoring in grammar grade work.

All the two-year normal school graduates were primary teachers: Miss Anna Virginia Credle, Miss Lena Keel Jenkins, Miss Elizabeth McCormick and Miss Nancy Viola Ward.

A. A. U. W. To Meet. The A. A. U. W. invites all lovers of modern drama to hear Mrs. J. H. Rose read "Craig's Wife," by George Kelly. This has been called a great play about a little theme, certainly it is a thoughtful comedy about a wife's selfishness, its effect upon her husband and friends and its almost tragic result. Several years ago when it was new, a man on leaving the theatre remarked: "This play is going to be a great source of comfort to all the flickers of cigarette ash on rugs, and to all those who leave socks and collars lying on the floor and in odd corners."

The reading will be in Ragsdale Hall Monday evening at 7:30.

Bridge Luncheon For Miss White. Mrs. W. L. Harrington was a charming hostess at a bridge luncheon yesterday honoring Miss Dorothy White who will be married next Wednesday.

Four tables were placed for bridge in a setting of calceolarias. For high score, Mrs. J. S. Ficklen was awarded sick hose. Miss White's gift was a Sunday night platter and Miss Mary Pitt Turley of Henderson, was remembered with a dainty handkerchief.

Guests were invited into the dining room which was lovely. The table was in white, centered with a crystal bowl of white carnations and hyacinths with white candles in crystal holders placed at either end. Mrs. Lee Hannah and Mrs. Rosamond Nicholson, seated at the table, served a tempting turkey luncheon. They were assisted in serving by Miss Mary Jerkins. Coffee was poured by Mrs. James Patterson.

Mrs. James Entertains. Yesterday afternoon at her home on East Tenth street, Mrs. Larry James was hostess at a lovely party complimenting Miss Dorothy White who will be married next week. Tables for bridge were placed in a beautiful setting of white japonicas and poinsettias. At the conclusion of the game Miss Helen White was presented an attractive gift for high score. Miss White's gift was a hors-d'oeuvre dish. The hostess remembered Miss Mary Pitt Turley of Henderson, and Mrs. Howard Moye, a recent bride, with pretty gifts.

A delectable salad course with tea was served.

Miss James had as guests, Miss White, Mrs. W. Lee, Miss Ada James, Mrs. Will James, Mrs. J. J. White, Miss Margaret Hassell, Miss Eloise Garrett, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. Miss Helen White, Mrs. Howard Moye, Mrs. Staunton Harvey, Miss Annie Lee Hooker, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee, Miss Mary Pitt Turley of Henderson, and Mrs. W. I. Skinner, Jr., of Williamston. Mrs. Dink James joined the other guests for the refreshment hour.

Four Essentials to Civilization. The following suggestions are from an extract by Hugh MacRae, president of the Southeastern Council. Read them—cut them out—and study them from time to time. You will find them worth much to you as you plan your 1935 activities.

Four essentials to civilization. For the South to rebuild and maintain its civilization, there are four essentials:

1. The Southern people must "Buy Southern" until the flow of money in the South equals the outflow. At the present time there is an excess of outflow of more than one thousand million dollars a year. For this we share the responsibility as we share the distress.

2. It will be necessary to change in large part to farm ownership from the present devastating tenant system. This is necessary to the rebuilding and vitalizing of rural life—the foundation of our economic structure.

3. The present system of growing one or two crops for money must be in part replaced by self-sustained farming, where crops, orchards and gardens supply first, home and then local needs, so that Southern people can live abundantly from Southern fields.

4. An awakening. There must be a motive force, organized interest, and concerted action. Somewhere, somehow, somebody must get into action—must make a breach through the wall then everybody, as a matter of self-preservation, must follow through to success.

Of what interest to the reader is this situation—of what importance the final outcome?

"WOMAN'S BLOC" IN CONGRESS SEEN AIDING SOCIAL SECURITY LEGISLATION

The new congress has seven women with records in social service fields who constitute a "woman's bloc" from which sponsorship of social aid legislation is expected. From left to right, starting at top they are: Representative Caroline O'Day of New York, friend of Mrs. Roosevelt; Representative Virginia E. Jenckes of Indiana; Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas; Representative Isabella Greenway of Arizona; Representative Mary T. Norton of New Jersey; Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts; and Representative Florence Kahn of California.

By BESS FURMAN. Washington, Jan. 2.—(AP)—In the new congress, widely heralded as one of "woman interest," seven women seasoned in social welfare will press their views on "social security" legislation.

Never before has there been a national program so in line with the old suffrage arguments of why women should take part in politics. With old-age insurance, unemployment insurance, and child welfare uppermost, close cooperation is expected of the feminine contingent.

Seldom has a subject met such unanimity among feminine members, the "woman's bloc" for once seems certain to function as such.

Small, soft-voiced Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, who veils firm opinions behind a modest manner, is a champion of humanitarian measures and old-age pensions.

Sixteen years of social welfare campaigns in New York state politics lie behind the one woman newcomer, Mrs. Caroline O'Day. That was one reason Mrs. Roosevelt campaigned for her. She and the President's wife have the same philosophy of making actual contact with the poor and their problems in order to lend practical aid. Florence P. Kahn, California's republican, has a vigorous, warm-hearted way of helping put across welfare measures. Capitol Hill well remembers how humanitarian she was as war-time helper of her late husband, Julius Kahn, head of the house military affairs committee. He pushed the program of democrat Woodrow Wilson, and his widow has said she will back the social security and home protection measures of democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Child welfare has a place in the heart of dark-eyed, red-checked Mary T. Norton of New Jersey. In fact, that was what took her into politics. To obtain better life for Jersey City babies she first went to the city hall. Later, she caused the construction of a maternity hospital there. As chairman of the house committee concerned with capital city government, she sponsored an old-age insurance bill.

Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts is an exponent of the idea that the whole relief program of the federal government must be put on a permanent basis. She's also a friend of the unemployment insurance plan. Helps Sick Veterans. Isabella Greenway of Arizona, brown-eyed, curly-haired, life-long chum of Mrs. Roosevelt, made it possible for the impoverished health-seeking veterans who came to her home state to turn the cactus plants and other woody products of the desert into useful hand-made articles. Of her personal knowledge of veterans' cases she based her vote for the bonus.

As owner of coal mines which had to be closed, and as representative of an Indiana bituminous district, enterprising Virginia E. Jenckes came to close grips with the unemployment problem. She has gone personally into the mining towns to aid in welfare work, and has made a strong effort to place unemployed miners in other suitable jobs.

When Mrs. Jenckes wired Mrs. O'Day congratulating her on her election, she expressed the hope that the entire group of women might work together to advance "President Roosevelt's great plans for the social rehabilitation of stricken people."

The measurements were taken and the order sent off Wednesday afternoon. About fifty people have signed for rings.

The rings are being ordered through Best's Jewelry Store, and it will be several weeks before the rings will arrive. The class has made a good choice and will have a fine remembrance of the Greenville High School.

Miss Lucile Turner Presents Gift To High School. Miss Lucile Turner of the English Department of East Carolina Teachers College recently presented a gift to each of the classes in the high school. To the Freshman Class Miss Turner presented a copy of Melville's delightful sea story, "Moby Dick." To the Sophomore Class she presented the interesting play, "Cyrano de Bergerac" by Rostand. A check of five dollars was given to the Junior and Senior Classes to be used in purchasing a picture to be placed in the English class room.

The students of the high school feel very much indebted to Miss Turner for her kindness and generosity, and expect to enjoy thoroughly her gifts.

Three One-Act Plays Given By Upper-Classmen. The Junior and Senior Classes of the Greenville High School presented three one-act plays on December 13 and 18 before the students and faculty. The plays were practiced for quite a while and showed good work on the part of the actors as well as their student director.

The title of the Senior play was "This Youner Generation." It afforded much humor and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

The players were: Anna Belle Teele, Frances Rock, Marian Wilson, Carl Langley, Martha Lois Youngblood, Mary Council Horne, Billy Whitehurst, and Matt Phillips. Helen McGinnis and D. T. Beaman directed the play.

The first play given by the Junior Class was "The Mayor and the Manufacturer," by George Ade.

The cast included Morris Bland, as Walter; William Brooks, as Mr. Milford; Geraldine Harris, as Genevieve; McClair, and Marjiam Tyson as the secretary. Honorable mention goes to Helen Flanagan and Edith Forest for costuming, to Jane Garret for assistant director, and to Richard Harris and Earle Dunn for their stage setting, and also to the practice teacher, Miss Elizabeth Carswell, for her splendid piece of work as director.

The second play given by the Junior Class was "In Dixon's Kitchen," by Wilbur Stout. The play was based on an accident which occurred in the author's life.

The cast consisted of Charles Gaskins, Phoebe Nesbit, Virginia Har-

Colleg Girls Win 27 to 8

East Carolina Teachers College girls defeated the Rocky Mount Y. W. C. A. here Friday night in a game featuring fine pass work and close guarding. The score was 27 to 8.

Sinclair, Ramblers forward, with 12 points, was high scorer for both teams and she was ably assisted by Askew, who scored six points. For the Y team Lancaster played the outstanding game, scoring seven of the total team's eight points.

The scoring was started by a field goal by Lancaster for the Y. Sinclair soon netted two long shots and added four points to give the Ramblers a comfortable lead that was held throughout the game.

After the first quarter, E. C. T. C. made numerous substitutions, using a total of nineteen players in the game. Captain Briley of E. C. T. C. was the outstanding guard in a game marked by fine guarding on both teams.

Raleigh Quiet During Assembly Week-End Recus

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, Jan. 12.—Raleigh today was a peaceful city. Calm literally hung from every corner, citizens went about somewhat stupefied by the quiet and walked on downtown streets with the air of pallbearers. The legislators had gone home for the week-end.

Hardly had the legislature adjourned before members were dashing pell-mell for their hotels, where they hurriedly packed bag and baggage so that they could go home, some to tell the folks how it feels to be a member of North Carolina's General Assembly, others to get a clean shirt, and some simply went home.

Goldsmith, had he delayed his time and place of birth, might have done an even better job on his masterpiece, "The Deserted Village." But those who must stay in Raleigh will find their joy short-lived. For on Monday the town will again be filled with a rousing hullabaloo. Both houses meet again that night at eight. Raleighites who contemplate getting forty winks will do well to hit the hay on Sunday. There'll be no sleep after then. Not, at any rate, until next week-end.

Some species of deer are such stay-at-homes that they will feed meagerly on the scant pasture of their own habitat rather than migrate to nearby sections with abundant forage.

High School News

Greenville Defeats Bethel. Wednesday morning the students of the Greenville High School were excused from their home rooms to observe the struggle between the Greenville and Bethel basketball teams. The game was a very fast and interesting one; both teams driving hard and running neck-and-neck. In the outcome, Greenville was victorious, the score being 19 to 21.

In a former game with Bethel in Bethel, on December 11, Greenville was defeated, 19 to 18. The basketball schedule for the future is as follows:

January 11—Kinston in Kinston. January 15—Washington in Greenville. January 18—West Edgecombe in Greenville. January 25—Kinston in Greenville. January 29—Washington in Washington. February 1—Tarboro in Greenville. February 5—Winterville in Winterville. February 8—Winterville in Greenville. February 15—New Bern in New Bern. February 19—Tarboro in Tarboro. February 22—Williamston in Williamston. February 25—Williamston in Greenville.

Seniors Ask For Privileges. Friday morning, January 4 the members of the senior class met in the high school auditorium for the purpose of drawing up a list of privileges they wish granted. After much discussion the class decided to ask for the following privileges: First, That if a student makes an average of three, he be excused from activity period; also from library period. Second, If a student makes an average of two, he be exempted from examination. Third, That seniors have their examinations on the first two days.

These petitions will be presented to the members of the faculty at the next faculty meeting for their approval or disapproval. For the past few years every senior class has been granted a few privileges.

Junior Class Rings Ordered. A committee composed of Jean Blount, Ethel Gaston Lon Nobles, and Harding Sugg, have selected the Junior Class ring, with the approval of the class. The stone is a white onyx set in a yellow gold with the seal, G. H. S., set in the center, and the year 1936, divided half on each doe, George Lautares, Shelbourn Paul, and Roy Barker. The director, Miss Kathryn Hines, was assisted by Lon Nobles, Quinton Lassiter, and Jamie Merritt. —Martha Lois Youngblood, 35.

RENTAL OF TEXTBOOKS IS LIKELY

Governor's Recommendation Toward Free School Books Favorably Received

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—A state-owned rental system for school textbooks appears likely to be incorporated in the legislation enacted by the 1935 legislature, if opinion of observers here is of any value.

Several members of the General Assembly are outspoken in their approval of such a step. Others, and they are many, say they want free textbooks. The governor himself said the same thing Thursday night in his message to the legislature. He suggested that steps be taken toward the establishment of a rental system which would essentially lead to a free system. He pointed out that twenty-five per cent of the state's elementary school pupils were without books for the first six weeks of the school term, and that that represents a very severe loss, not only to the pupils themselves, but to the taxpayers as well, because that much schooling is thereby lost.

Dr. Ralph McDonald, of Winston-Salem, house member, said, "It suits me just fine. I have long been an advocate of just such a step."

"It is an excellent move," said John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, who long ago endorsed the rental system. "We have such a system in my own county and I fully realize how valuable and necessary just such a system is. We ought to make it a state-wide plan."

R. T. Pickens, of High Point, said he approved "in principle" the governor's plan for a rental system, but added, "I haven't had time to fully look into the governor's proposal, but we have such a plan in High Point and I am informed that it is highly successful."

Senator White, of Robeson county expressed a similar attitude. William Scholl, of Mecklenburg, said he favored any plan looking toward eventual free textbooks and, as a result, approved the governor's idea "in theory."

J. V. Bowers, of Avery county, and Dr. Charles A. Peterson, of Mitchell county, both Republicans, approved heartily of the proposal. "But," added Bowers, "what we really want is a free textbook system."

Dr. R. L. Carr, of Duplin, and P. W. Meekins, of Caldwell, added their approval of the plan, "in principle."

Most legislators say they want to follow the opinion expressed by the governor that the state should not borrow the money necessary to set up a rental system.

The move to lift from parents the tremendous annual outlay for textbooks was regarded here as a smart maneuver for the administration for popularity, as well as being a step in its social program.

Negro Takes His Own Life

A seventeen-year-old negro, whose last name was Murphy, took his own life at the Evans farm about three miles south of this city by firing two loads from a shotgun through his body and arm. Coroner A. E. Amlinger was immediately called to the scene, but as it was a clear case of suicide, no inquest was deemed necessary.

The negro was reported to have recently returned from the State Hospital where he had been a patient. This morning he was said to have suffered derangement, during which he threw some gun shells into the open fire in the room in which he and another negro were sitting, and then grabbed the shotgun and fired the fatal loads into his body.

Tear Drop Car Visits Here

The above unusual looking automobile known as the "tear drop" made its appearance here yesterday and has attracted considerable attention on the streets.

The car is one of a fleet of six such test cars owned by McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Company of St. Louis and touring different sections of the country. The car is literally a laboratory on wheels for testing the efficiency of the working parts of an automobile. While the body is especially built and patented has been applied for by the St. Louis concern, the chassis is that of a standard make of car. The name "Tear Drop" comes from the drop of water passing through air, from which the car was designed to cut wind resistance to a minimum.

Glenn O. Moore, has brought the car to Greenville in the interest of Standard Motor Parts Company, jobbers of the McQuay-Norris products.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to three points decline with lower Liverpool cables and foreign selling partly offset by trade buying. Prices eased under pressure with March selling down to 12.47 and July to 12.51 at the end of the first half hour, or six to nine points net lower and approximately 30 to 36 points below the high prices of early last week.

Futures closed steady four to eight points lower. Spot quiet. Middling 12.65.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The stock market continued to labor under the influence of the gold clause controversy today but sentiment was somewhat improved and prices stiffened after sharp declines in the first hour. Rails were heavy throughout.

The close was easy. Transfers approximated 670,000 shares.

Truck Load of Clothing Gathered By Boy Scouts

The Boy Scout bundle day staged here this morning netted a truckload of clothing and shoes to be used for needy families to this community.

About twenty-five of the Scouts, under direction of K. T. Futrelle, chairman of the Boy Scout Civic Service Committee, visited the homes in the city to take up the bundles prepared by the housewives.

The clothing will be taken to the County Home for cleaning and repairing, after which it will be distributed to the needy families through the County Welfare Department. K. T. Futrelle, head of the Welfare Department, said this clothing would be given to needy families that are not getting relief from either county or State sources.

--THANKS TO MRS. ROOSEVELT!

But for the big heart of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Walter Fox, 8, probably would be back home in Philadelphia without immediate hope that he would be treated for the after-effects of infantile paralysis. But as matters stand, he is at the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia—all because of the wife of the President won the $1,000 Gimbel award as America's most outstanding woman of the year and gave the money for the boy's treatment. He and his mother, Mrs. Thomas Fox, are shown arriving at the Foundation. (Associated Press Photo) morning designed to repeal that law.

John Sprunt Hill, of Durham; P. W. Meekins, of Lenoir, and Dr. R. L. Carr, of Duplin County, added their approval of the Governor's plan for the State's future.

Many saw in the Governor's message a determination on the part of the administration to follow the lead of the Roosevelt regime. Governor Ehringhaus referred to the progress and rehabilitation made under both State and Federal administrations, and endorsed the abolition of child labor under NRA and recommended to the Legislature that it ratify the child labor amendment.

Not many members are willing to be quoted as to their probation stand on the latter. Many of them come from highly industrialized communities and, say, industrialists in their communities.

Tan Bowle, the fiery, expressed his dislike of the Governor's recommendations concerning the State compensation act. He will, later in the session, introduce a bill to repeal the present reaction of the Republican members to the Governor's program, most of them endorsing it for the most part. Here and there were complaints against this or that, but approval generally was the verdict.
