BAD WEATHER KEEPS FLIER ON THE COAST

Amelia Earhart Putman Uncertain as To Flight to Washington

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart Putman held her air-minded public somewhat in the air today as far as her immediate flying plans are concerned. America's "first lady of the air," weary from her epochal flight across the Pacific on the lonely Honolulu-California stretch, and her leisurely jaunt down the coast line from Oakland to Los Angeles yesterday made this much known. She was "tired."

She wanted to take off for Washington, D. C. She directed her ocean spanning monoplane serviced. She wanted to sleep. That was the last heard from the tousel headed aviatrix late last night when she left the airport after bad weather had forced her to cancel her flight to Washington for the time being.

Election Law Changes Would Favor Democrats

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—Many Democrats here in the State's capital viewed Governor Ehringhaus' recommendations relative to reform in the State's election laws as an effort on the part of the administration to set the party's house in order. Political observers here believe that the bill is an attempt to avoid the appearance of "evil."

Observers of the political scene were frank in saying that they did not believe as much corruption existed in the execution of the act as is commonly believed, but that some evil does exist. They cited recent cases in Ashe, Robeson and other counties, and said that abolishment of the act would stop much of the gross corruption. Especially they pointed out, would it scotch the Republican charges frequently brought against Democratic organizations in local government units.

That opposition will develop to repeal of the war-time act no one will deny. "I shall vigorously oppose the repeal of the absentee ballot law," said Senator W. P. Horton, of Catham County. Although they would make no statements, it was clear to observe that many legislators who have large railroad worker constituencies would oppose repeal, because, they say, many rail employees find it impossible to be at their voting residence on election days.

Little doubt, however, is expressed here that the act is headed for drastic amendment or repeal, because the administration favors such action and, they point out, the administration is running the show.

School Bus Is In Collision

A call to the highway patrol office here this morning for investigation of a school bus-car collision near Stokes, led to fears that some of the children might have been injured but investigation by a patrolman revealed that there were no serious injuries.

The collision occurred at a railroad crossing near Stokes when the bus driven by Willie Bailey, 17, collided with a car driven by R. O. Congleton. Both vehicles were damaged to a small extent, but other than a shaking up, the occupants were not hurt.

It was stated by the investigating patrolman that the crowded condition of the school bus obscured the vision of the boy driving the bus and was responsible for the accident. There were forty-two children in the bus at the time of the accident.

NEGRO WALKS INTO TRUCK; DRIVER IS EXONERATED

Wadesboro, Jan. 14.—Charlie Bogan, middle-aged negro, died yesterday morning about 7 o'clock as a result of injuries received Saturday night about 10 o'clock when he walked into the front fender of a CCC truck belonging to Camp Recovery near Polkton.

The accident happened in the negro section of Wadesboro, corner in front of Bogan's home. Coroner W. B. Moore found that the driver of the truck, one of the CCC boys, was not at fault, and that Bogan walked into the side of the truck as it went by him. The truck was loaded with CCC boys who were returning to camp after attending the picture show here.

"Dude ranches" of Montana and Wyoming are estimated to have brought $13,800,000 into the two States last season.

Three of Escaped Prisons Again Lands of Law

One of the four negroes who escaped from Pitt County Jail Friday have been recaptured and are in the county jail here. The one remaining fugitive is Perry German who was in jail awaiting trial here next week on a charge of murder growing out of the slaying of another negro here a few weeks ago.

The other three negroes, all being held on minor charges, were recaptured by officers over the week-end. Eugene Forbes was captured immediately following the escape early Saturday morning, and yesterday Charles Sessoms and John Henry James were recaptured in the Farmville section of the county.

REYNOLDS FOR FULL PAYMENT TO VETERANS

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, today outlined part of his legislative program for this session of Congress.

Chief among his proposals will be a proration of alcoholic beverage taxes among the state for teaching temperance in the public schools and for expulsion of aliens illegally in America.

He also said he would support a hundred per cent payment of soldiers' bonus and an additional billion dollars in bonds for the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

"The payment of the bonus would circulate in this country $2,200,000,000 without costing the government one red cent," he said.

The Senator asserted there was necessary another billion in bonds for the HOLC.

SAAR VOTES FOR RETURN TO GERMANY

Saar Bruecken, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Saar plebiscite to watchers from the balcony of Wartburg hall today was running ten in favor of Germany to three for retention of its status quo on neutral tabulators began to count the more than 500,000 ballots. No vote for France was noticed.

Saar Bruecken, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Anti-Nazis were virtually conceded today to have been defeated in the long-awaited Saar plebiscite, the residents of this wealthy little territory voting to restore it to the Fatherland. With ballot boxes filled with the expressions of desire for official rule, were stored in Wartburg auditorium to await counting at 5 p. m.

Ninety-eight per cent of the eligible voters of the Basin cast their ballot yesterday in the plebiscite awaited fifteen years to determine whether the Saar would return to Germany, go to the French, or remain under the League of Nations control.

Anti-Nazis Conceded To Have Been Defeated in Yesterdays Balloting

While neither Lieutenant-Governor Graham nor Speaker Johnson has given any definite indication as to their forthcoming committee appointments, most observers here believe that the Saar will be returned to Germany.

Both Lieutenant-Governor A. H. Graham and Speaker of the House Robert Grady Johnson, this afternoon seemed rather glad to have a few more hours to work on their committees. For it is generally agreed that both of these presiding officers have not been having a very easy time in making up the personnel of their various committees. One reason for this, of course, is the unusually large number of new members in both Houses. Another is that Lieutenant-Governor Graham is already an avowed candidate for Governor in 1936 and that he is naturally interested in making committee appointments that will help his candidacy for Governor as much as possible. It is also agreed that most speakers usually have some further political ambitions, and that as a result, the speaker generally keeps an eye out to political considerations in making his committee assignments.

FIFTH OF CARS TESTED HERE DEFECTIVE

Of the 409 cars examined by highway patrolmen Saturday-afternoon, an average of one out of five cars was found to be defective and dangerous for highway travel. Most of the defects were that of bad brakes on the older models halted in the traffic test lane on East Fifth Street in front of the college.

The car tests Saturday afternoon, the climax of a safety campaign here, were staged by members of the State Highway Patrol, assisted by "Happy" Hunter, race and stunt driver who visited this city as part of the safety crusade being staged by Tildenham Motor Car Company of Raleigh and Harrell Motor Company of this city.

Lieutenant Lester Jones, head of this highway division, stated this morning that most of the tickets given to motorists Saturday afternoon had already been returned to the highway office here today, showing that the defects in their cars had been corrected as ordered. The tests, he said, covered brakes, lights, wind shield wipers and other safety devices on the cars. The test lane was operated between 1 and 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

MERGER: The Federal Communications Commission is all set to recommend to Congress that legislation be passed permitting the Western Union and Postal Telegraph to merge. Domestic transmission services of the same nature which belong to American Telephone and Telegraph and the radio companies also would be included.

Two stumbling blocks appear in the way of such a combine.

First, the Communications Commission plans to suggest that it have final say as to how the consolidation should be effected.

Secondly, Western Union isn't at all keen about the idea.

Last year a merger bill went through the House but was blocked in the Senate by former Dill of Washington. The measure was backed by International Telephone and Telegraph, which controls Postal.

Brummitt's Death Expected to Cause Delay in Committee Announcements

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—Postponement of the announcement of the personnel of many of the Senate and House committees as well as the transmittal of the Governor's budget message until the Tuesday morning legislative session is expected to result due to the death of Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt here Saturday. The funeral was held at his home in Oxford this afternoon. Out of respect to his memory, all State offices and departments were closed all day today by order of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Frank L. Dunlap, Assistant Director of the Budget.

Accordingly it is expected that when the Senate and House convene here tonight that a joint resolution expressing the sorrow and regret of the members at the passing of Attorney General Brummitt will be introduced and passed in each House and that they will then immediately adjourn until Tuesday morning, out of respect to the memory of Mr. Brummitt. Attorney General Brummitt had at one time served as Speaker of the House and had served several terms in the General Assembly before he was elected Attorney General and was known and loved by many members in both Houses.

A pall of sadness hung over the Capitol and all State officialdom today, as the death of Attorney General Brummitt recalled the heavy inroads which death and sickness have made among the State's officials during the past year. Within the past few months both Dr. A. T. Allen, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Dr. James H. Parrot, State Health Officer, have been taken by death.

Both Lieutenant-Governor A. H. Graham and Speaker of the House Robert Grady Johnson, this afternoon seemed rather glad to have a few more hours to work on their committees. For it is generally agreed that both of these presiding officers have not been having a very easy time in making up the personnel of their various committees. INCREASE OF STATE PATROL IS PROBABLE

Legislators Favor Increasing Number of Highway Patrolmen To 200

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—You'll meet many members of the North Carolina highway patrol much oftener in the near future if off-the-floor opinions of members of the 1935 General Assembly are to be taken seriously. In fact, there will be exactly 200 patrolmen, according to most legislators. Children in Avery County will perhaps take the opportunity to see a real live honest-to-gosh patrolman uniform and all, and, if they're real good, perhaps he will have a motor-cycle as well. For J. V. Bowers, Avery County member of the Lower House, says one never shows up in his neck of the North State.

Opinions as to the proper strength of the patrol range from 100 to 400, but most all the legislators seem to agree on the one number, 200, which would be an average of two for every county. Several of the Assemblymen pointed out that one could work while the other slept, which means, of course, no NRA hours for highway patrolmen and is reminiscent of the old saying that "no one loves a policeman."

That the Legislature will take cognizance of an already expressed need for an increased patrol no observers here doubt. The only question is, how many? And the legislators have answered that, off the floor, of course.

Such ready agreement is indicative that this will be a much shorter session than in either 1931 or 1935 might become a reality.

Japan's broadcasting stations, which are partly government controlled, made a profit of about $1,000,000 in the last year.

Late News Flashes

No Pay Checks
New Orleans, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Mayor T. Semmes Wlamsley and the commonwealth council announced shortly after they had placed the city financial affairs in the federal courts that the city would be unable to meet its semi-monthly payroll tomorrow.

The city officials stated was unable to borrow any money from the banks due to the Huey Long state suit which tied up the city's financial affairs and its stoppage by a federal court restraining order which took jurisdiction of the city affairs.

The mayor said arrangements may be worked out to pay a portion of the salaries to the thousands of employees some of whom have not been paid in full since December 23.

CIVIL COURT OPENED HERE THIS MORNING

This Week's Civil Term to be Followed By Criminal Term Next Week

A week's term of civil court got under way here this morning with Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, presiding. The calendar for the week is made up of the average run of civil actions, and no long drawn-out cases are looked for during the week.

When court was called today it was learned that most of the cases set for hearing today had been settled outside of court, and Judge Barnhill permitted the jury to return home to report for duty again tomorrow morning. Most of today was consumed in the preparation and signing of more than a dozen cases settled outside of court.

Next week Judge Barnhill will preside over a criminal term that will include at least one or more murder cases, together with liquor and larceny cases appealed from the County Court.

WOULD GRANT EQUAL ARMS TO GERMANY

London, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The British cabinet today was understood to be discussing a tentative proposal that Germany be given equality in armaments in return for re-entry into the League of Nations.

It was authoritatively stated that the cabinet was unanimously of the opinion that the time was right provided the Saar basin territory has voted to return to Germany—and it is believed such is the case—to press for Germany's league membership on the basis of treaty for armament limitations is also an essential consideration of equality for Germany.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, returned from Geneva just before the cabinet session. Before the conference he had a private conference with Ramsey MacDonald, in Geneva Sir John talked with Foreign Minister Laval, of France.

The move to induce Germany to return to the League is understood to be included in the cabinet discussion regarding development of a European security pact.

Would Give Germany Equality of Armaments For Return to League

Capital city gossips have been busy naming chairmen for the various committees. Of course, it isn't probable that either Johnson or Graham will be guided by their opinion in making their ultimate selection but observers think it likely that Senator U. L. Spence, of Moore county, is slated for an important assignment. Gossips say he will head finance or appropriations. Other Senators not to be overlooked in speculation along this line are Carl Bailey, of Plymouth, who is mentioned for judiciary number one and roads; John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, who is prominent in senate council and who will doubtless back the administration's social progress; Harris Newman, wealthy Wilmington senator, who knows something about finance; and J. A. Bell of Charlotte, who says they know, will head the senate agriculture committee despite the fact that this is their first term.

In the lower house it is generally conceded that the administration will lean heavily upon F. E. Thomas, of Anson county, and who heads the rules committee. Thomas was formerly a member of the senate. Billy Sullivan, of Buncombe, who sat in the last two sessions, is an administration backer and may receive, as a result, a chairmanship. Ben Cone, though a first term member will command respect because of his business record. There are plenty of others, but rumor is not so rampant in the matter of house committee chairmanships as it is regarding the senate.

There will be a delay in getting down to hard work because of the non-appearance of the governor's budget message, which was slated to be delivered tonight, but which has been postponed. Consequently, there will be no revenue bills presented until that report is made.

But, with the completion of committee appointments the two houses will have completed their task of organization and will be ready to dig into the vital issues when the budget recommendations are made.

Some observers do not regard the great number of new members as a serious handicap toward an early adjournment. As they point out, the small compact number of veterans presents an opportunity for them to seize every opportunity to expedite matters, which would not be true were they more numerous and, therefore, less wily.

Before the end of the week there will be measures of great importance introduced in both houses, is the consensus of opinion. Those revenue bills will begin to drop into the legislative hopper once the governor delivers his budget speech. And the future of most legislation enacted by this, or any other, general assembly depends greatly upon revenue measures.

EXPECT ACTION THIS WEEK IN LEGISLATURE

Will Get Down to Real Work as Soon As Organization is Complete

Raleigh, Jan. 14.—The 1935 session of the North Carolina general assembly will get down to work in earnest some time this week. Most of the four-day meeting last week was taken up with the details preliminary to organization. Committee assignments, which ordinarily would have been made last week, will not be made until tonight or tomorrow. The reason back of the delay in committee reports is, of course, the unprecedented number of new members in both houses.

Of the lower house's 120 members 82 representatives are now serving their first term. In the senate only 22 of the 50 members have had previous legislative experience. Speaker-of-the-house Johnson is apparently having some difficulty in getting acquainted with all the members of that sizable body. He kept deferring announcement of his committee assignments throughout the week and, finally, definitely said that the roster would not be ready until tonight. Lieutenant-Governor "Sandy" Graham is having like trouble, although his task is simplified by reason of the senate's much smaller membership.

OSBORN AFTER FURTHER STUDY, AGAIN DECLARES HAUPTMANN WROTE RANSOM NOTES

(Copyright By The Associated Press)
Flemington, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A Bronx dress model today identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man she saw shadowing Dr. John F. "Jastie" Condon before he paid the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom. A handwriting expert declared the handwriting evidence against the German carpenter as irresistible, unanswerable and overwhelming, and a second expert added the weight of his own opinion to this testimony.

Miss Hildegrade Olga Alexander, the dress model, said she saw Dr. Condon a night in March, 1932, in a telegraph station and another man behind him, obviously watching him. "I say the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she said.

The girl was the second witness today in the Hauptmann trial in which he is charged with the kidnaping and murder of the baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. The testimony was offered in support of Dr. John F. Condon's own story in which he said Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" to whom he paid the futile ransom for the baby.

The defense sought to break down her identity of Hauptmann, Edward J. Reilly charging, "I want to prove that she was never there." Nevertheless she left the stand still insisting that Hauptmann was the man she saw. She said she also saw him on the street a few days after the incident in the telegraph station. Hauptmann turned red when she spoke his name. Mrs. Hauptmann, wife of the accused man, paled.

Eldridge W. Stein, second of the state's battery of handwriting experts had sufficient time before the noon recess to declare it is his opinion that Hauptmann wrote everyone of the 14 ransom notes received by Colonel Lindbergh after his baby was stolen March 1, 1932. The first expert, Albert S. Osborn, Sr., on the stand earlier in today's session reiterated that Hauptmann wrote the notes.

"Based upon your examination and comparison," Assistant Attorney-General Lanigan inquired: "Can you say who wrote the ransom notes?"

"Yes."

"Who wrote them?"

"In my opinion, Bruno Richard Hauptmann wrote them," was the reply.

"Why do you say so?"

"Because," he answered, "in my opinion the evidence is irresistible, unanswerable and overwhelming."

SAYS ASSEMBLY SHOULD MEET IN DECEMBER

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—The General Assembly ought to meet in December," said Senator J. A. Bell, of Mecklenburg County, here today. "Of course, I know it could not do it under the present Constitution, but it would be a move to expedite matters."

Senator Bell said he thought that organization of the Legislature ought to be completed in December at a session for that express purpose. He would have the session to last one week. That, he said, would enable the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant-Governor to appoint their committees, allow the Governor to make his budget address, and then leave ample time for the committees to get fully organized before reconvening of the Legislature for the passage of bills and actual work.

"The Legislature would thereby have its own organization for research," continued Senator Bell, "and would be ready to transact business when it again convened. The date for reconvening might well be delayed until the first or the fifth of February. Under present conditions the Legislature is greatly retarded unnecessarily delayed by the long-drawn-out process of organization."

The Senator said he didn't contemplate the introduction of legislation leading toward ultimate adoption of the plan, but re-affirmed his opinion that it would be a good thing.

Ben Cone, though a first term member will command respect because of his business record. There are plenty of others, but rumor is not so rampant in the matter of house committee chairmanships as it is regarding the senate.

There will be a delay in getting down to hard work because of the non-appearance of the governor's budget message, which was slated to be delivered tonight, but which has been postponed. Consequently, there will be no revenue bills presented until that report is made.

But, with the completion of committee appointments the two houses will have completed their task of organization and will be ready to dig into the vital issues when the budget recommendations are made.

Some observers do not regard the great number of new members as a serious handicap toward an early adjournment. As they point out, the small compact number of veterans presents an opportunity for them to seize every opportunity to expedite matters, which would not be true were they more numerous and, therefore, less wily.

Before the end of the week there will be measures of great importance introduced in both houses, is the consensus of opinion. Those revenue bills will begin to drop into the legislative hopper once the governor delivers his budget speech. And the future of most legislation enacted by this, or any other, general assembly depends greatly upon revenue measures.

OSBORN AFTER FURTHER STUDY, AGAIN DECLARES HAUPTMANN WROTE RANSOM NOTES

(Copyright By The Associated Press)
Flemington, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A Bronx dress model today identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man she saw shadowing Dr. John F. "Jastie" Condon before he paid the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom. A handwriting expert declared the handwriting evidence against the German carpenter as irresistible, unanswerable and overwhelming, and a second expert added the weight of his own opinion to this testimony.

Miss Hildegrade Olga Alexander, the dress model, said she saw Dr. Condon a night in March, 1932, in a telegraph station and another man behind him, obviously watching him. "I say the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she said.

The girl was the second witness today in the Hauptmann trial in which he is charged with the kidnaping and murder of the baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. The testimony was offered in support of Dr. John F. Condon's own story in which he said Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" to whom he paid the futile ransom for the baby.

The defense sought to break down her identity of Hauptmann, Edward J. Reilly charging, "I want to prove that she was never there." Nevertheless she left the stand still insisting that Hauptmann was the man she saw. She said she also saw him on the street a few days after the incident in the telegraph station. Hauptmann turned red when she spoke his name. Mrs. Hauptmann, wife of the accused man, paled.

Eldridge W. Stein, second of the state's battery of handwriting experts had sufficient time before the noon recess to declare it is his opinion that Hauptmann wrote everyone of the 14 ransom notes received by Colonel Lindbergh after his baby was stolen March 1, 1932. The first expert, Albert S. Osborn, Sr., on the stand earlier in today's session reiterated that Hauptmann wrote the notes.

CIVIL COURT OPENED HERE THIS MORNING

This Week's Civil Term to be Followed By Criminal Term Next Week

A week's term of civil court got under way here this morning with Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, presiding. The calendar for the week is made up of the average run of civil actions, and no long drawn-out cases are looked for during the week.

When court was called today it was learned that most of the cases set for hearing today had been settled outside of court, and Judge Barnhill permitted the jury to return home to report for duty again tomorrow morning. Most of today was consumed in the preparation and signing of more than a dozen cases settled outside of court.

Next week Judge Barnhill will preside over a criminal term that will include at least one or more murder cases, together with liquor and larceny cases appealed from the County Court.

NEGRO WALKS INTO TRUCK; DRIVER IS EXONERATED

Wadesboro, Jan. 14.—Charlie Bogan, middle-aged negro, died yesterday morning about 7 o'clock as a result of injuries received Saturday night about 10 o'clock when he walked into the front fender of a CCC truck belonging to Camp Recovery near Polkton.

The accident happened in the negro section of Wadesboro, corner in front of Bogan's home. Coroner W. B. Moore found that the driver of the truck, one of the CCC boys, was not at fault, and that Bogan walked into the side of the truck as it went by him. The truck was loaded with CCC boys who were returning to camp after attending the picture show here.

Montana Hides Away

SYNOPSIS: Brother Pascual arrives at the camp of the bandit Mateo Rubiz just as that worthy, who only steals from the rich, divides the plunder from his latest escapade. Pascual forces Mateo to abandon a band of desperadoes to abandon a duel to the death, and then tells Mateo that he has not made his long, daily journey for pleasure. Mateo drives out his band, and prepares to listen to Pascual.

Chapter Three STOLEN CROWN. THEY faced one another across the long table. "Tell me about your tumble, first," suggested Rubiz. "Well, even the mountain sheep break their necks now and again. If something hit you near the eye, thank your God that you are not blinded."

"The gun butt hit the bone over my eye; that was all," said the friar. "Gun butt?" said Rubiz, suddenly scowling. Then he pointed. "Gun butt, eh? And what hit the other side of your face?"

"The point of a knife," answered Brother Pascual. "But it was nothing." The bandit began to steal around the table as though he hoped to surprise news in the very mind of his big friend.

"And your head? The bandage, there?" he demanded. "That is not very bad, either. The bullet glanced; I have a hard skull." "The butt of a gun—a knife—a bullet. Splendor of God! what fools have forgotten that you are the friend of Mateo Rubiz?" "The governor of Duraya and his soldiers."

"General Ignacio Estrada? Where did he dare to beat you?" "In the Church of Our Lady of Guadalupe."

"The governor—beats you—in the church? Am I going mad? What were you doing?" "Fighting a little, Mateo, to keep the governor and the rest of the masked men from stealing the emerald crown of Our Lady."

"How was he known, if his face was masked?" "The holy bishop recognized the voice of the principal robber."

"But Our Lady had softened the blow or made it glance. The bishop lives, and the governor sits in his fort with the crown of Our Lady and the ten emeralds in it."

Christopher's Discovery BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER. "Now," said the little man, Willy Nilly, "Puddle Muddle is quiet and everything is peaceful and happy. I am sure all of you, my friends want to help me in the work I want to do toward making my sticking out, pointed ears look like regular ears."

"How can we help you, oh tell us, quack, quack," said the ducks. "I want to do all I can, bow-wow-wow," barked Rip.

"So do I, cock-a-doodle-do," crowed Top Notch, the rooster. "If I can discover any magic cures I'll certainly tell you about my discoveries," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"I think the best way you can all help me," said Willy Nilly, "is to play and amuse yourselves while I go to the nearest village and get some adhesive tape."

"Couldn't I go for you?" asked Christopher. "That's a good idea," barked and quacked the others.

So he wrapped up the money for Christopher in a piece of paper, on which he wrote: "Kindly give my crow, the bearer of this message, as much adhesive tape as this money will buy. Yours truly, Willy Nilly."

Christopher tucked the note under his left wing and flew off—but on the way to the village he made a discovery.

amounts to, here's the inside diagram. The membership of the Communist Party in the United States is about 26,000. Two-thirds of them are native-born American citizens. In addition, the best estimates indicate about 300,000 non-member sympathizers. Many of these don't join up actively because membership in a group which advocates overthrow of the government by force is a legal bar to naturalization.

Then there are about 50,000 parlor pinks—many of them with money—who think communistic ideals are just too lovely (as long as they aren't called upon to do any dirty work). They supply moral support—and cash. Frequently they put up dough to bail out comrades who get in a jam with the law—and authentic communists see to it that they lose nothing on defaulted bail bond.

The communists have made more progress through affiliates than with their direct party organization. For instance, there's the League Against War and Fascism. There's no overt connection between this outfit and the reds and its sponsors certainly do not come out openly for soviet principles. But the underground relationship is close and effective. The League has been quite successful in circulating members—especially among women—because its name is an attractive rallying-cry.

OPEN: The most painstaking research has failed to prove that Russia has contributed money or propaganda material to further the cause in the U. S. The American party is chronically broke. The only direct link that can be found is the fact that the American party has adopted resolutions identical with those of the Third International.

Red participation in industrial disputes has been played up more than the facts warrant. Very few strikes can actually be traced to communist inspiration. What does happen is this. Once a strike starts the reds rush in to raise all the Cain they can. They try to prolong the dispute and provoke rough-house tactics with the object of gaining publicity first—use the reds as a convenient excuse to be anti-Semite or anti-labor or both.

These organizations—and law enforcement agencies—have planted thousands of spies in Communist ranks. A competent authority estimates the American party would lose a third of its members if all the spies were kicked out.

Authentic reds know the spies are in their midst and who they are. They reluctantly refuse to evict them because they figure they would only be replaced by a fresh crop whose identity and affiliations they would have to go to the trouble of tracing.

Few of these "patriotic" troupes have done anything constructive to help the constipated authorities. Mostly they issue a few pamphlets and let it go at that. Informed sources characterize them frankly as rackets—whose promoters make a living by preying on the fears of the wealthy.

NAZIS: The American Nazi movement is even more of a joke. There have never been more than 5000 active participants—a mighty slim percentage of the millions of German-Americans. This group focuses, entirely on anti-Semitism—chiefly as a reprisal for the Jewish boycott of Germany. Those who should know say the movement would automatically disappear if the boycott were ended.

BONUS: New York insiders learn that a compromise is being framed on the bonus which will probably pass without much argument. It will provide for additional loans on outstanding certificates up to existing cash-redemption values. It's understood this arrangement would satisfy the controlling element in the American Legion.

This substitute for the bonus would cost a few hundred million dollars at most instead of a couple of billion—which is nothing to worry about. Conservatives are greatly relieved at the news.

COURTESY: Jim Farley came to Albany when the New York Legislature opened its session to give the boys a few suggestions. He wandered into the Assembly (which was his right as a member from Rockland County years ago) and parked himself—of all places—in the majority leader's seat.

Whereupon Laurens Hamilton—present member from Rockland and a Republican—arose and shouted: "I move we grant the courtesy of the floor to my distinguished predecessor." Reports are that Mr. Farley got the point—unruffled. (Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

McClees-Fleming. Mrs. Lydia Thigpen Fleming announces the marriage of her daughter Nina to Mr. Roy Willis McClees on Saturday January the twelfth nineteen hundred and thirty-five Kinston, North Carolina At Home Greenville, North Carolina Beautiful, in its simplicity was the wedding of Miss Nina Thigpen Fleming and Roy Willis McClees, both of Greenville, which took place at 10:30 Saturday morning in a private ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church of Kinston, Rev. Harold J. Dudley, pastor of the church, officiated using the impressive ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with palms, Bermuda lilies, hyacinths, and yellow tapers. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. George B. Greene sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," accompanied by Mrs. Blaeck. The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March and during the service, "To A Wild Rose," by MacDowell, was played. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as a recessional.

Miss Marjorie Fleming, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore green crepe with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was yellow Joanna Hill roses.

The bride and groom entered together. She was attired in a suit of honey-tan, fur trimmed, with matching brown accessories. Her corsage was of Tallman roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was her great-grandmother's brooch of woven hair, mounted with gold.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party and out-of-town guests were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cherry. Mr. Cherry is a cousin of the bride. Assisting the hostess in the dining room were Miss Martha Cherry of Raleigh; Mrs. Wray Guthrie and Mrs. Sam Flippin of Kinston.

Mrs. McClees is the attractive daughter of Mrs. Lydia Thigpen Fleming and the late Julius Perkins Fleming. She was educated at Salem College. Mr. McClees is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McClees of Ayden. He received his education at Mars Hill and is now employed with Swift and Company.

After a wedding trip they will be at home at 400 Summit street, Greenville.

Among the out-of-town wedding guests were the following: Mrs. Lydia Fleming of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McClees of Ayden; Mrs. Alice Peacock, grandmother of the groom, and Mrs. Jack Quinerly of Ayden; J. A. Thigpen, Florence, S. C.; Mrs. Julius Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Cherry, Jr., of Greenville; Miss Martha Cherry, and Miss Dorothy Wray of Raleigh; Charles McClees of Columbia, and Miss Frances Thigpen.

Bridge Shower for Miss White. Outstanding among the many attractive parties honoring Miss Dorothy White, popular bride-elect of this week, was Saturday when Mrs. J. J. White entertained at a bridge shower.

Tables were placed for bridge in a lovely setting of snapdragons, potted hyacinths and other colorful cut flowers.

After a number of games, cards were laid aside and prizes awarded. Mrs. T. A. Smoot was winner of linen tea napkins for high score, and Mrs. Charles Woodward a second high. Miss White was presented a Madeira bridge cloth and napkins. Mrs. Howard Moyer and Mrs. Richard W. Gorman, recent brides, evening handkerchiefs, and Miss Mary Pitt Turley of Henderson, a bridge score pad.

The hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee. During the refreshment hour only the soft light from numerous burning tapers was used.

Joining other guests for the refreshment hour were Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mrs. J. H. Rose and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop.

An attractive feature of the afternoon was the shower of beautiful linen gifts. Little Miss Josie Barnes White, representing a colored laundress, and Master Julian White Jr., as a little colored boy, presented the shower to Miss White in a huge laundry basket. Miss White, in her usual charming manner, accepted the gifts.

Mrs. Spilman Hostess at Dinner. Mrs. J. B. Spilman was a gracious hostess at dinner on Saturday evening at six o'clock in the Science building at the college, complimenting Miss Dorothy White, who will be married Wednesday morning.

The beautifully appointed table was centered with a wedding party in miniature, with white candies in silver holders placed at either end. Places were laid for twelve and were marked with cards suggestive of the approaching wedding and corsages of white hyacinths.

Mrs. Neeldam Ward and Mrs. Leon Bradham, were extended a most cordial welcome into the club. The program was a most enjoyable one. Misses Laura Foley and Agnes Fullivoie sang "Juanita," and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Mrs. C. C. Hilton, chairman of the program for the afternoon, introduced Dr. G. R. Combs, who gave a delightful entertainment on "Folk Songs and Ballads." He gave a vivid description of the Kentucky mountaineer life—the small log cabin at the foot of the mountain where a little stream came down the mountain and through one of the narrow mountain valleys. Within the cabin in front of a large fireplace sat the old mountaineer mother, singing sweetly one of the favorite ballads, as she rocked her little ones to sleep. With such a mental picture the ballads chosen by Dr. Combs were most appreciated by the club members. The ballads selected from his collection were full of romance, adventure and beauty that were particularly expressive of the environment and nature of the mountaineer.

The lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Ask, and ye shall be given unto you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: For every one that asked receiveth; and he that knocketh it shall be opened."—Matt. 7:7-8. The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example is our proper duty to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me, keep my commandments.' Long prayers, supplications, and creeds clip the string plinths of love, and clothe religion in human forms. Whatever materializes worship hinders man's spiritual growth and keeps him from demonstrating his power over error."

Following this program, the hostesses, Mrs. C. C. Hilton and Mrs. W. R. Minslow, served delicious sandwiches, cakes, stuffed dates and Coca Colas.

The business meeting proved to be most interesting also. Mrs. Walter Harrington encouraged the members to sell tickets to the President's Ball and many members volunteered to do so. Plans to join with the Seniors in securing a beautiful playground for Greenville children were discussed. The Junior club voted to donate the playground equipment.

The members also voted to have a "Tacky Dance" for the high school children at the Woman's Club Saturday night, January 19. Prizes will be given to the tackiest boy and tackiest girl, and also to the best dancing couple. The club voted to help the Senior club every Tuesday night with the square dances. A letter in regard to the child labor amendment was read by Mrs. Hilton and endorsed by the club.

The meeting adjourned to meet January 25th and at that time Mrs. Campbell, district president, and Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, state director, will be guests. Every member is asked to come and give Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Hobgood a cordial reception.—Reported.

Stockholders' Meeting. The annual stockholders' meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Association will be held in the City Hall in Greenville, on Thursday morning, January 17, at eleven o'clock.

Improvement in the Greenville High School Library

Gradually the library of the Greenville High School is being transformed into one of the finest libraries in the state. The annex to the library has been in use since September, and the additional space afforded by this addition enables the library to accommodate around 125 pupils each period.

The walls are of oak panels, and they alone make the room beautiful. During the Christmas holidays the floor of the library was completely covered with brown battleship linoleum. Already twenty-five feet of new shelves and others are expected to take care of the 1500 volumes. The librarian, Mrs. Luther Herrington, received her first shipment of new books for the year. They include "All Kneeling," "Ambrose Holt and Family," "Her Son's Wife," "Maid in Waiting," "Mother and Four," "The Coming of a Deer," "The Father's God," "Wrong Side of the Track," "Years of Grace," "Daughter of Samaria," "Boys' Life of the Wright Brothers," "In Search of Scott," "Shakespeare's Theatre," "How Music Grew From Prehistoric Times to the Present," "Curie, Mme. Marie, Pierre Curie," "Bob, Son of Battle," "Thom Jones," "Napoleon," "Freckles Come Home." D. T. Beaman, Jr., '33

Band and Orchestra Making Rapid Progress

The band so far has made very much progress. Prior to the Christmas holidays the band played for football games and different community occasions. But directly after the holidays the band started work on the music to be played at the music contest at Greensboro on April 24-25.

There were four pieces from which to choose the contest number. They were: "Don Quixote Suite," "Son and Stranger Overture," "Prelude from L'Arlesienne" and "Morning Noon and Night Overture." From these Mr. McDougall, the band and orchestra director, has chosen "Prelude from L'Arlesienne". All band members are working hard on this number and they expect good results when they go to Greensboro.

The piece selected for the orchestra is the "Festival Overture" taken from the following group: "Festival Overture," "Land of Romance," "Brahms' Waltzes" and "Nocturne". Although the orchestra work has not yet started, it will get underway soon and a good orchestra will represent the high school at Greensboro in April.

The firemen quickly extinguished the blaze. Speaks to Y. W. C. A. Rev. J. A. McIver conducted the Y. W. C. A. vesper services at the college last night. He read to the students an extract of a chapel program which was held at Baylor University by its president, Pat M. Neff. It was Mr. McIver's opinion that the chapel service he read was of great and practical value to college students in general. The theme of the service was "Fear God and Keep His Commandments." "Fear God" was explained as meaning reverencing God in such a way as not to do anything that is displeasing to Him. Scholars must be built on character and character must be rated higher than curriculum. It is during one's school experience that the greatest opportunities for living to the fullest are open. The Senior Normal class of the college led the Y. W. C. A. vesper service, Friday evening Jan. 11. Miss Louise King, president of the class, was in charge. The program consisted of the devotional; a violin solo, "Sereuse," by Miss Irene Renfrow; a piano solo, "Barcarolle," by Miss Polly McVinn; and a duet, "Day is Dying in the West," by Misses Martha Teal and Virginia Akers. An exact giant model of the moon as seen through huge telescopes is nearing completion in Griffith Park Observatory at Los Angeles. England has 334 deer parks. The oldest, Bridge Park, near Tunbridge Wells, is mentioned in Tombeday Book.

GIL DECISION HEARTENS ANTI-NEW DEALERS

Decision Will Cause Closer Scrutiny in Redrafting The NRA

By BRYON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Probably there never will be complete agreement as to the full significance of the Supreme Court's "hot oil" decision, but no one disputes that two practical results already are becoming apparent.

The language of the court has given new hope and new enthusiasm to those who contend that the basic concepts of the "new deal" are unconstitutional, unworkable, and futile, and—

Delivery of the opinion just at this time forecasts far greater care and deliberation in revamping the national industrial recovery act than were expended in its original enactment.

These are considerations of fact and not of opinion. Whether there is ground for the new courage infused into the anti-"new dealers" is beside the point. Nor is it necessary to establish whether a more cautious administration course actually is compelled by the court's action.

The hard practicality is that the new courage has been infused on the one side, and the new caution on the other, and both of these facts already are having their effect on Capitol Hill and elsewhere.

It should be understood that in holding certain features of the oil code unconstitutional, the Supreme Court was dealing with a rather narrow field of litigation.

Oil was considered so much a special case when the recovery act was drawn that a special section was devoted to it. This section went somewhat further than the general sections authorizing code-making in general. The court felt it went too far. The question now is whether, in later decisions, it will have the same feeling about the other and more general clauses of the law.

The renewed activity and enthusiasm of the anti-"new dealers" is based on implications they read into the court's word; implications denied by the "new dealers."

Almost immediately the effect has been seen in congress. The republican minority stiffened its lines over night. It began an organized opposition to the "top up" plan for public works. It began to make preparations to examine more carefully the other proposals expected soon from the White House.

Whatever the justification for its hopes, the opposition to Mr. Roosevelt did take new hope and that always means new effort and new problems for the administration.

That alone would mean, in turn a greater deliberation on the part of the administration—a greater care in its redrafting of the recovery act, which is to expire next June.

There is, however, this further element: The court put great emphasis on the point that when congress delegates authority to the President, that delegation must be specific, and must have limitations.

Much of the "new deal" legislation was rushed through congress—was even described at the time by administration adherents as hastily drawn and designed to meet an emergency. Much of it delegated power in the most sweeping terms.

Since the court spoke there is no disposition among administration lawyers to continue that practice. They may, in the end, ask congress to authorize the President to continue to do everything he has been doing, and more; but they will see to it that the grants are more specific—that they say more exactly just what the executive can do and cannot do.

To that degree, then, and in those two directions, the court has made itself a real factor in the practical conduct of the new order at Washington. Many more decisions still are to come.

Three Held On Robbery Charge

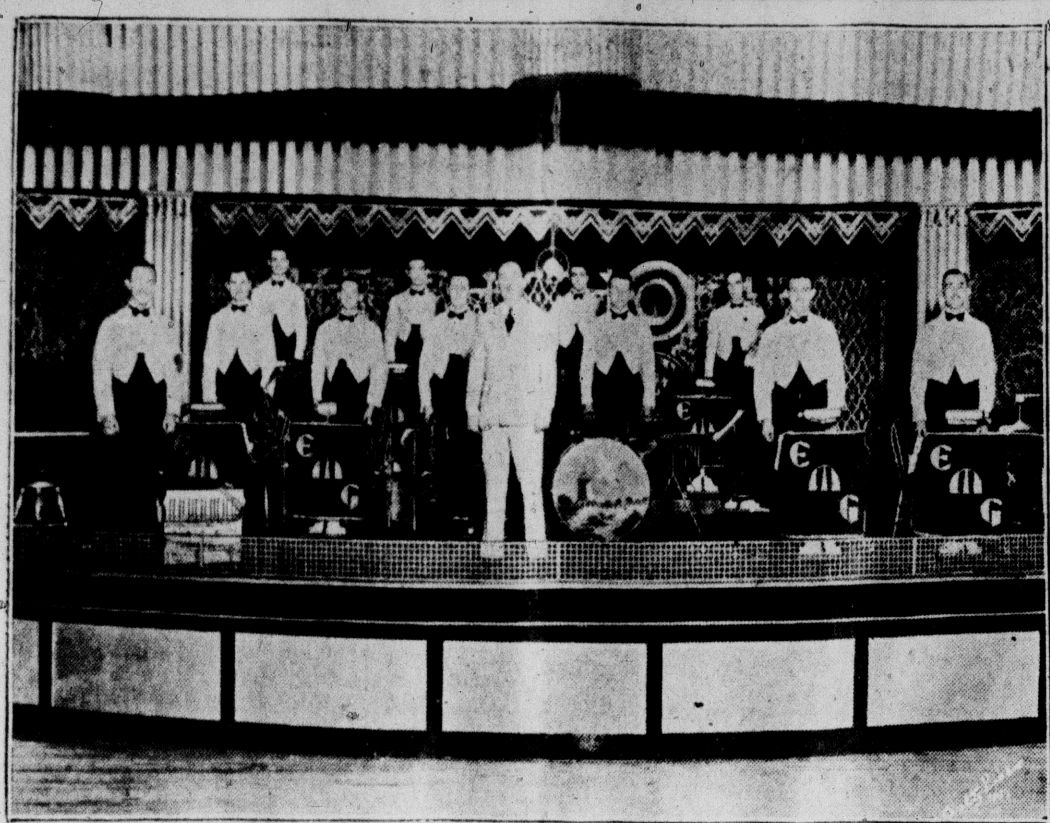

Three negroes James King, Stanley Haddock and To Brown were being held here today charged with the robbery about two weeks ago of Wilson's Jewelry Store on Dickinson Avenue. King was arrested here Saturday and the other two were arrested in Washington yesterday.

The negroes were attempting to dispose of some of the stolen jewelry in both the towns, and it was this that led to their arrests. A part of the stolen jewelry was recovered by the officers, and they expressed belief that more will be recovered.

Negroes Bound Over To Court

Peck Brown, colored, was bound over to County Court by Mayor R. C. Flanagan today on a charge of violating the dry laws.

Will Cherry and Archie Ruffin, negroes, who faced Mayor Flanagan on charges of robbery, were also bound over. Cherry and Ruffin were charged with robbing Frank Johnson, white, while he was in a drunken condition on the street Saturday night. The robbery was said to have taken place in the vicinity of one of the depots, and the arrests were made shortly afterward in the same neighborhood.

Above is pictured Hoj Williams orchestra which will furnish the music for the Second Annual President's Birthday Ball to be held in the Campus building at East Carolina Teachers College here on the night of January 30. The orchestra is one of the best in the state and those of this section who have had occasion to hear it express pleasure that it had been secured for the ball here. The ticket sales for this year's President's Ball will far surpass that of the similar event held last year. The ball which will be an informal affair, will include an elaborate floor show and a radio address by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Reflecting Sports

By Wm. WATSON MORGAN

When the trustees of the Cross Creek graded school district denied the Roosevelt Birthday Ball Committee the use of the High School auditorium they gave as their reason evidence of drinking at other entertainments. One wonders whether that is the real reason. So many communities feel that it is wrong to allow dances of any kind in their High Schools. They don't realize that this should be the community center and the very place for proper supervision.

Speaking of drinking, reminds me of a little poem appearing in one of the leading newspapers under the by-line:

"Judged by the company one keeps. One evening in October
When I was far from sober,
And dragging home a load with manly pride,
My feet began to stutter,
So I laid down in the gutter,
And a pig came up and parked right by my side.
Then I warbled: 'It's fair weather
When good fellows get together.'
Till a lady passing by was heard to say:
'You can tell a man who boozes
By the playmates that he chooses.'
Then the pig got up and slowly walked away."

Speaking of being "groggy," the experts on the West Coast still can muster up a pair when they think of the football game between Alabama and Stanford. Will Rogers says: "There is not a soul in the world that don't think that the Alabamians showed not only us, but themselves, some football that they didn't know they had in 'em." One will have to admit that the work of Howell to Hutton bordered on the snuper-man and the story-book type of play, but the late Bill Roper of Princeton once said: "The team that won't be beat, can't be beat."

I wonder how Bing Crosby is progressing with his large debt that he found himself facing after Howell's flushed passing. He was indebted to the various college students over the country a sum total of eighteen ping-pong tables, to some other person, and lot and many other things. Had Stanford remained on the ground instead of trying the air there might have been a different story. Quoting from Will Rogers again: "They could march down the field through the line and could have till yet, but they wanted to pass, and they did, right out of the picture." There is no doubt that Stanford was plenty "air-minded" before that game was over. It does seem that Will was partly right. It did seem that the Indians could gain on the ground any time that they really tried. The following suggestions might well apply to the above game: "The winner never outs, the quitter never wins. Many failures can be traced to quitting just before the finish."

Still the giant killer does not get the dues that should come to him. "Bugs" Grant continues to bump off the big shots, as he is ranked national no. ten has not even had an offer to compete for the Davis Cup trophy. It is true, that he is very small and doesn't appear to have the physical build for a big-time tennis player, but he certainly could not do much worse than some of the slingers players that we have sent over to lift the trophy. It is a known fact that Grant can cover more ground than any player of today. Opposing players say that it is almost impossible to hit one by him.

Soon after it was announced that Alabama had received an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl I offered the suggestion in this column that this far the "Crimson Tide" had merely missed the services of Wallace Wade, but that they might before that game was over. It has been suggested that this was the greatest game ever played since the Tournament of Roses started. Evidently they did not need the services of any one but Coach Thomas. So long as the big, fast boys continue to register at Balma, most any coach capable of handling a group of college players, would have great success.

Perkins To Close Out Business Here

Announcement was made here today that J. Vance Perkins, recently appointed Pitt County Treasurer, would close out his business here, the Quality Clothes Shop in view of the fact that his duties of treasurer will require his full time.

Mr. Perkins opened the Quality Shop, dealing in men's clothing and furnishing here early last fall, but since that time, has been appointed to the county post. The stock is new and complete, he says, but he must place it on the market to liquidate his business.

Announcement of the opening date of the liquidating sale will be made at an early date.

OLDSMOBILE OFFERS MANY NEW FEATURES

Offering many new comfort, safety, performance and economy features, the 1935 Oldsmobiles are being shown here today at the Automobile Show.

The new Oldsmobile Six and Eight are built to conform to Oldsmobile's belief that the motorist is entitled to all that is new and better, according to C. L. McCuen, president and general manager of the company.

Stressing the importance of safety, Oldsmobile introduces in both lines of cars what has been called by engineers the greatest contribution to motorists' safety in a decade, the solid steel "turret top" body.

Paralleling the solid steel "turret top" body approval is the streamline design of the new cars.

All of the advantages of wind reduction have been incorporated into the new cars and the beauty of symmetrical line retained.

Other new features listed in the announcement by Mr. McCuen include:

A complete system of sound-proofing of body, chassis and motor.

Longer wheelbase and roomier interiors.

Increased economy of operation by means of improved manufacturing and carburetion systems.

Increased power because of high compression ratios, achieved through an entirely new design cylinder head which still permits the use of standard fuel.

Redistribution of weight to give an even smoother ride by placing seat location between the axles.

As important to the motoring public as the new features, Mr. McCuen said, is the retention by Oldsmobile of the advancements of 1934 led by knee-action wheels and silver-hydraulic brakes.

HANDWRITING EXPERT STILL ON THE STAND

expert over to the defense for cross-examination.

Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel who returned for the third week of the trial with a bad cold, indicated immediately with his first question that he intended to challenge Osborn's dictum that the evidence was "unanswerable." He mentioned a number of letters used in the ransom notes which were not included in the expert's charge and introduced what purported to be the handwriting of Isador Fisch. Hapmann claimed it was Fisch who gave him for safekeeping the ransom money found in his Bronx garage.

Reilly contended in answer to the State's objection, that it was his right to question the witness with the handwriting of anybody living or dead.

Under the attorney's questioning, Osborn found a general resemblance between a "y" purported to have been used by Fisch and the "y" used in the ransom notes.

"The writing is very different," he said; "they are not sufficiently alike that I would say they are by the same writer."

England's cutlery, carpet and furniture industries found work for 400,000 men and women in the last year.

State Unemployment Insurance Hinges On Action By Congress

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Jan. 4.—Enactment of unemployment insurance by the North Carolina legislature into law hinges almost entirely upon action taken by the national congress, according to opinions expressed here.

In fact, the governor said as much in his address to the general assembly when he outlined his social program for the state. "I am convinced," he said, "that this general assembly should take definite action to provide in North Carolina such insurance and that its action should be in line with the federal proposals and congressional enactments on this subject. We have not as yet full information as to what congressional action will be, but our state must put itself in line to provide for, as well as to escape from, the penalties of such legislation."

It is the opinion of informed persons in Washington that the federal government's unemployment law, to which enactment it is pledged, will demand cooperation on the part of the states. Such thought is in line with recent action taken by the national administration to force the states to aid it in taking care of the relief problem. It has been suggested that those states not enacting unemployment legislation in line with that ultimately passed by congress will be penalized to the extent that its people will pay their proportionate share of taxes necessary to the maintenance of such a law, but would receive none of the benefits accruing therefrom. It was to that possibility that the governor referred when he spoke of "penalties."

Two years ago Governor Ehringhaus appointed a commission to study the unemployment insurance problem. As its head he named former Senator Burgin and obtained funds from the federal government to help finance the commission's investigations. Its work is done, a report of its findings will be given to each legislator, and a model bill has been prepared for submission to the assembly. The Ehringhaus administration has pledged itself to the enactment of the bill, with some few changes.

Ultimately the state expects to present a bill for old age pensions as well. But, said the governor, information along that line is not as yet sufficient for the assembly to consider its enactment into law. He will ask the legislature to appropriate funds so that a further study of the problem can be made. Any old age pension legislation, like unemployment laws, which will be passed by the North Carolina legislature is likely to be a follow-up of action by congress.

COMMITTEES MAY BE NAMED ON TUESDAY

That in the Senate, Senator Newman of New Hampshire, is slated for chairman of the Committee on Finance; Senator Gravelly, of Nash., as chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Senator Griffin, of Chapman, as chairman of the Committee on Education; Senator Spense, of Moore, for the chairmanship of the Committee on Roads; Senator Johnson, of Duplin, for chairman of Judiciary No. 1, and Senator Ball, of Mecklenburg, for chairman of the Committee on Agriculture.

In the House, R. Gregg Cherry, of Gaston, is slated to become chairman of the Finance Committee; Victory S. Bryant, of Durham, chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Reg. L. Harris, of Person, chairman of the Education Committee; Willie Lee Lomkin, of Franklin, chairman of Judiciary No. 1, and Laurie McChesin, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture.

No one is attempting, of course, to predict the personnel of any of these or of the other many committees.

Much interest is, of course, being shown in the Governor's message and the Budget report, together with the Appropriations and Revenue Bill which will also be transmitted to the General Assembly at the same time. It is expected that in his budget message the Governor will recommend the retention of the sales tax unless some other means of raising an equivalent amount of revenue can be found. The prevailing belief in most circles here is that the report of the Advisory Budget Commission will recommend a general fund budget of about $30,000,000

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Gold conscious financial markets displayed a cautious but optimistic tone today but most of the chastened bulls found their seats on the sidelines quite comfortable. With the fate of the gold clause litigation in the hands of the Supreme Court and the conclusion anybody's guess, speculative enthusiasm was at an extremely low ebb.

Stocks recovered fractions of their previous losses, although the activity was the lightest in a number of weeks. Hard-pressed industrials of the past week-end made the best showing.

Grains sagged, but cotton improved and the dollar gained against leading foreign currencies.

Transfers approximated 550,000 shares.

tive issues, world court and social security.

Between the two legislative chambers the Supreme Court with judicial calm again held the major interesting attraction as when it ruled the federal oil regulations invalid and intensified arguments against the constitutionality of the administration's monetary policies.

The court recessed without acting on the effort of Thomas J. Mooney to obtain review of his conviction for complicity in the 1916 San Francisco preparation day bombing.

But speculation continued throughout Washington on high the new black-robed justices would view the government's action in stopping gold payments.

Both the Senate and House gave themselves to routine business prior to receiving later this week President Roosevelt's message on social security legislation for providing aid for the aged and unemployed.

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, telegraphed a request to hold up action on Frank McIninch, of that State, for chairman of the Power Commission until he arrived in Washington.
