

Social Security Legislation Goes Before Congress

Plan Provides For Unemployment Insurance, Old Age Pensions and Aid For Needy

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Making the long heralded attack to promote "Social Security" the Roosevelt administration laid before Congress today a five point program designed as protection against what is termed the "hazards" of modern existence.

Provisions of the Wagner bill followed closely the recommendations of the economic cabinet commission headed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, as follows:

- 1. Compulsory unemployment insurance to be paid for by employers through a payroll tax. This starts at one per cent next January 1 and is increased to three per cent by January 1, 1938. However, if business picked up fast the three per cent level would be reached sooner.
2. Compulsory insurance against poverty stricken old age for wage earners and small salaried workers to be paid for by employers and employees on a 50-50 basis.
3. Old age pensions for needy aged not covered by compulsory insurance, to be paid for by the federal and state governments.
4. Voluntary federal annuity system for those who would not be included in the compulsory plan and who could afford to save for their old age out of incomes larger than those affected by the compulsory plans.
5. Larger Federal grants to the States for the needy and for ill mothers and children and for extension of the public health system.

The Wagner bill carries appropriations of nearly $100,000,000 for the program for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, and authorizations for spending more than $200,000,000 over afterward.

To finance the unemployment insurance, every employer having four or more employees on the payroll would be subject to the tax. Employers would receive up to 90 per cent credit for contributions made by him to State unemployment insurance. The unemployment insurance funds would be invested and handled by the Federal Government. The Federal Government would assist the State $49,000,000 a year to assist them in administering the law.

CAPTURE MAN WHO AIDED IN PRISON BREAK

Officers Capture Ex-Convict Who Smuggled Pistols Into San Quentin Prison

(Copyright By The Associated Press) San Quentin, Cal., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Police guns roared in the round-up early today of the desperado who smuggled the guns to the four convicts who made a desperate but futile break for freedom that cost the life of their leader, Clyde Stephens, paroled convict and San Francisco bank robber who surviving convicts said furnished the pistols used in the San Quentin prison break yesterday, was captured early this morning by a police posse on Sherman Island about 50 miles from here. Officers announced that three others were captured with him, two falling wounded under police fire.

Captain Charles Dullea, of San Francisco police, who led the 14 officers in the foray on the island identified the other three as Albert Kessel, companion of Stephens, Eugene Martini, and Stewart Lessee. Kessel and Martini were both wounded in the hand in the full-scale that accompanied the raid. Meanwhile physicians reported Warden James B. Halahan, veteran prison official had a good chance to recover from the merciless slugging given him by the convicts as they broke from the prison.

Three of the convicts are back in custody and their leader Rudolph Straight, 35, was fatally wounded in the gun battle that ended their spectacular two hours of freedom.

BAILEY SEEKS MORE MONEY FOR FARMERS

Would Pay Bounty on Cotton And Tobacco Sold in Foreign Markets

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Legislation to benefit farmers selling in world markets and investigation of income tax refunds had been started through law making channels today by Senator Bailey, of North Carolina.

A plan to use $500,000,000 either from the president's four billion dollar relief fund or direct from the treasury to pay bounties to farmers selling in the export market at world prices was proposed in a bill offered by the senior North Carolina Senator. The other measure called for investigation of all income tax refunds made since 1913 except those ordered by courts of board of tax appeals. Bailey said the statement had been made on the house floor that approximately four billion dollars income tax refunds had been made.

The North Carolina Senator also made known his intention to see that the state receive its fair share of the four billion dollar relief fund. "I consider it my primary duty to see that a sufficient portion of this sum goes to North Carolina to re-employ North Carolina's share of the unemployed."

Bailey's proposal for bounties to all farmers, selling their crop in the world market would provide allotment of production for foreign markets the same as allotments now made under the AAA for domestic consumption. The bounty would be the difference between the world prices and parity price in this country to enable the farmers to sell abroad in competition to foreign production and at the same time receive domestic parity prices. "One of the main objections to the AAA legislation was that it did not take into consideration our export crops," the senator declared.

Three Negroes Bound Over On Robbery Charge

Three negroes, James King, Stanley Haddock and T. Brown, were yesterday bound over to County Court by Mayor R. C. Flanagan on the charge of robbing the jewelry store of John Wilson on Dickinson Avenue about two weeks ago. A part of the jewelry was recovered here and more of it was found in Washington where it was being disposed of by the negroes. The negroes were arrested over the past week-end.

In addition to his part in the jewelry store robbery, Haddock was likewise charged with an attempt to rob Smith's clothing store on Dickinson Avenue.

START MOVE TO INCREASE SALARIES

Two Bills Seeking 20 Per Cent Pay Boost Already Presented In House

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, Jan. 17.—The first move to increase the salaries of teachers and other state employees was made in the house Wednesday when Representative Thompson of Wake, formerly a teacher in the Raleigh high school, and Representative Douglass, also of Wake, introduced bills to provide increased pay for all state employees.

The Thompson bill proposed an increase of 20 percent in all state salaries amounting to less than $1,800 a year and would make the increase effective immediately, or as soon as the bill is passed and ratified. The bill makes no provision for providing the additional revenue which would be necessary to make a 20 per cent salary increase effective.

The bill introduced by Representative Douglass is very similar to the Thompson bill, but would provide for a 20 per cent increase in salaries for all teachers and employees now making less than $1,500 a year. His bill would not go into effect until July 1, 1935, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

When asked how the would provide the new revenue necessary to grant the 20 per cent increase in salaries, Representative Douglass said that he had already introduced several bills which, if enacted, would produce more than enough revenue to grant the salary increase proposed.

"The bill I introduced last week levying a manufacturer's tax of 15 cents per thousand on cigarettes would yield more than $9,000,000 a year in new revenue, or enough to make it possible to repeal the sales tax and leave $3,000,000 over," Douglass said. "I also have introduced a bill to tax bucket shops and stock brokerage offices that will yield still more revenue. There are plenty of places to get the money if the legislature will only go after it."

RELIEF PLAN NO DIVERSION HIGHWAY FUND

Plan Merely Provides That Unemployed Must be Given Work On Roads

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 17.—The recommendation of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and the Budget Commission that $1,500,000 a year of the $10,000,000 a year recommended for highway maintenance be set aside for relief purposes, does not mean that they are asking the diversion of $1,500,000 a year from the highway maintenance work, even if it is set aside for relief work.

"If the General Assembly sees fit to carry out this recommendation, it will not mean the loss of a single highway dollar to highway work, for it is planned to expend every dollar of this $1,500,000 set aside for relief work in maintaining the roads and to expend it through the State Highway and Public Works Commission," Governor Ehringhaus said. "The only difference between the expenditure of this relief money and other highway maintenance money is that this $1,500,000 a year must go to the unemployed who are found to be eligible for this type of work while the other money can be expended, as at present, through maintenance channels. But there is not the slightest tinge of diversion about it, since every cent will be used for highway maintenance."

"Governor Ehringhaus again pointed out, as he did in his message to the General Assembly, that has always been opposed to diversion of any highway money to other than highway purposes, that he opposed even the diversion of $1,000,000 a year from the highway fund to the general fund in 1933, even though the General Assembly ordered it and that he is opposed to such diversion now."

He is convinced, however, that a great many people now employed can be given work on the highways if the General Assembly will authorize a maintenance fund of $10,000,000 with the provision that $1,500,000 a year of this sum be set aside to provide work for the unemployed on the roads.

AS FISCH'S KIN REACHED U. S.

Carefully guarded, four "mystery" witnesses, who proved to be the brother and sister of Isidor Fisch, the wife of the brother, and a nurse, arrived in the United States from Germany, where they had been rounded up as state witnesses for the trial of Bruno R. Hauptmann, accused kidnap-murderer of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr. The brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Fisch, the sister, Hannah Fisch, and the nurse, Minna Stenitz, were rushed from the boat to a Coney Island hotel and kept in seclusion until they testify regarding Isidor Fisch, whom Hauptmann says gave him the Lindbergh ransom money. The witnesses are shown as they left the boat. (Associated Press Photo)

WOULD AVOID AN EXCESSIVE TOBACCO CROP

Would Place Flue Cured Production at 600,000,000 Pounds For Year

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A movement to hold flue cured tobacco production to approximately six hundred million pounds this year is believed to be under way today as a result of a conference held here by J. B. Hutson, farm administration tobacco chief, with the flue cured tobacco advisory committee and congressmen from the states that grow the cigarette types of tobacco.

One representative who attended the meeting said the opinion prevailed that if every farmer who grew tobacco in 1931, 1932 and 1933 but did not in 1934, were allowed to plant up to three acres this year, the total production would be increased to 600,000,000 pounds. The farm administration recently proposed a 1935 production of 700,000,000 estimated to be equal to world consumption of flue cured tobacco, but the consensus of the conference was that this amount would be excessive and depress prices.

LITTLE GIRL BADLY HURT

Three Others Receive Minor Injuries When Cars Collide Near Here

Sadie May Katsomer, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Katsomer, of Raleigh, suffered probably a fractured skull and other injuries when the car driven by Katsomer collided with another car at a cross roads on the Bethel highway about three miles from this city yesterday afternoon. The little girl was brought to Pitt Community Hospital here immediately following the accident but her condition had sufficiently improved this morning for her to be removed to her home at Raleigh.

B. B. Wynne and Jesse Avers, occupants of the other car in the collision, suffered minor cuts and bruises. Katsomer suffered bruises while Mrs. Katsomer suffered injury. The little girl suffered a deep cut in her forehead and other cuts and bruises about her face and body.

According to the highway patrolman who investigated the accident the collision occurred when the Katsomer car entered the highway from the side road and was struck by the Avers car. Both machines were badly damaged.

Late News Flashes

Today's Legislature Raleigh, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Endorsement of the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus by the federal government rode through the House of Representatives under suspension of rules here today but the Senate voted 23 to 22 against immediate passage of the joint resolution and sent the measure to its committee on Military Affairs, headed by Senator Arthur Corey, of Pitt.

In the Senate three bills proposed changes in the state election laws were introduced by Weathers, of Wake, and sent to the committee on Election Laws.

One of the proposals would abolish absentee voting except in time of war. Senator Silsbrook, of Halifax, sent up a measure relating to admissibility of evidence in suits for non-support and Senator Johnson, Buncombe, introduced a bill to change the law relating to the sale of estates held for contingencies. ASKS INCREASE OF PATROLMEN

Weathers Bill provides For 125 Patrolmen for Highway Patrol Duty Only

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 17.—The first move to increase the State Highway Patrol was made when Senator Carl Weathers, of Wake County, introduced a bill which would increase its personnel to 125 men. The provision was made in a driver's license bill, of which Weathers' bill is one of a series.

The measure, if adopted, would also require all school bus drivers to be at least 21 years old. This provision was added, said Senator Weathers, because of growing sentiment throughout the State for more stringent regulation of such drivers.

Weather's bill would create a division of Highway Safety within the Revenue Department, with the director appointed by the Commissioner of Revenue.

Significant also was the clause in the bill which would forbid highway patrolmen to do anything except to patrol the highways. "Patrolmen should be relieved of all other duties, such as the collection of revenue and checks, if we are to have an efficient patrol," said Weathers. In that respect he was seconded by Senator Harris Newman, of New Hanover, and Senator Dalton Warren, of Sparta.

The driver's license provisions of the Weathers bill differ little from those embodied in bills already introduced by Senators Corey, of Pitt; White, of Robeson, and others. An addition to other regulatory measures along that line, however, was included in a second bill, designated as a companion bill, and introduced by Weathers. It calls for inspection of all motor vehicles at least twice yearly. Administrative powers would be vested in the proposed Division of Highway Safety.

ARREST GROUP OF FURNITURE THIEVES HERE

Negroes Were Doing A Big Business in The Sale of Stolen Stoves

Seven negroes are in the toils of the law here as a result of the wholesale theft of stoves and other articles from the storage warehouse of Taft Furniture Company of this city.

Just how much has been stolen from the warehouse and disposed of cannot be learned until definite inventory is made of the warehouse stocks. Officers already have recovered a number of cook stoves and laundry stoves sold by the negroes and are continuing their search for more of the property.

B. A. Chadwick, Annie Hawkins and Thurman Matthews are charged by the officers with receiving stolen goods, while John Allen, Preston Hawkins, Alex Dupree and Layman Waddell are being held charged with the theft.

Just how long the systematic stealing from the warehouse has been going on, or just how much merchandise has been stolen, is unknown. Chief of Police George Clark stated this morning, but he said that the stealing had been going on over a period of two or three weeks, or longer.

When officers were informed that certain negroes were selling new stoves to other negroes at prices (Continued on Page Four)

CHILD DIES FROM BURNS

Clothing of Little Girl Ignited as She Was Playing With Matches

Madeline Haddock, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Haddock, of the Vanceboro section, died about 9 o'clock last night in Pitt Community Hospital here as a result of burns she received yesterday morning.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of her parents at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Elder W. H. Laughinghouse, followed by burial at the family burying ground. Pallbearers were: W. L. C. G. and Lesley Haddock, and Arlas Burroughs.

The little girl received her fatal burns at her home yesterday morning while playing with matches on the back porch of the home while the mother went about her household duties inside. The frantic screams of the child brought the mother to the porch to find the child's clothing in flames. In extinguishing the flames the mother suffered severe burns to her hands. The little girl was immediately rushed to the hospital here, but it was found that such a large area of the body had been burned that little hope was held for her recovery.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by the following brothers and sisters: George, Elmer, Odell, Otis, Bernie, W. A.; Ruth and Syble Gray.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DURNO GESTURES: Many folks—even some New Dealers—have wondered why the President should revive the World Court issue instead of concentrating strictly on his domestic economic knitting. Calloused old-timers say the answer is simple. Every administration strives to have some great peace gesture to which it may point with pride.

Mr. Harding had his Washington Arms Conference and first trotted out the World Court. This came just after the close of the World War when the people knew they wanted peace even if they didn't want the League of Nations to preserve it. Mr. Coolidge maintained his customary sphinx-like silence and let the Senate ratify the World Court with reservations which were promptly rejected by other world powers. Thereafter he confined himself to putting over the Kellogg-Briand pact to outlaw war as his contribution to international peace.

Mr. Hoover took a whirl at the World Court with the Root-Hearst formula as a basis for adherence. Out foreign neighbors turned a thumb down on portions of it before a final vote. So Mr. Hoover turned ed to affairs at home, which were getting pretty hot, managing during that period to put over the German debt moratorium as his big international gesture. GONE: There will be talk aplenty before this Senate finally votes over whether to join up with the World Court but the opponents lack organization. Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California will be two of the outstanding speakers against American entry, just as they always were. Yet neither is an organizer who cares to devote the time and energy to lining up a militant minority so closely knit it could wear the majority down and even swing public opinion around. Back in the days of the League of Nations fight the real spade work for the Senate Irreconcilables was done by Lodge of Mass., Moses of N. H., Watson of Ind., and Brandegee of Conn. All are now gone. CONVENIENT: It is interesting to note that Joe Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, and NOT Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, are both now gone. MAKE EFFORT SPEED WORK ON REVENUE BILL

Committee Would Begin Public Hearings On Measure at Early Date

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 17.—A real effort to speed up consideration of the revenue bill is being made by Chairman Harris Newman of Senate Finance Committee and by Chairman Gregg Cherry of the House Finance Committee, they indicated at the first joint meeting of the two committees. Both Chairmen Newman and Cherry announced they would seek to complete public hearings on the revenue bill within the next fifteen days at the most and that they would do everything in their power to expedite the bill.

The chairman of the two committees are going to work out a schedule for the public hearings by the joint committees, and it will be announced within the next day or two. "In my opinion, there are not more than eight or ten controversial sections in the entire revenue bill, and I see no reason why all of the public hearings on it cannot be completed within ten or fifteen days at the most," Chairman Newman said.

Neither chairman would attempt to predict how much time would be required by the joint committees for consideration of the bill after the public hearings are completed. But both are hopeful that the committees will be able to agree on a bill and report one out at least by the middle of February. It is the task of the two finance committees to write a revenue bill that will yield enough revenue to balance with the appropriations. Within four years 1,240 new stores have been opened in Moscow.

TELLS STORY OF FINDING BABY'S BODY

Negro Tells Hauptmann Jury of Finding Body of Murdered Lindbergh Baby

(Copyright The Associated Press) Flemington, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The man who caused Bruno Richard Hauptmann's arrest identified him as the man passing the ransom bill and a physician told the murder jury that the baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., died of a skull fracture caused by external violence.

John J. Lyons, filling station attendant said Hauptmann on September 19 gave another attendant at the station Walter Lyles a $10 gold certificate. The certificate was produced in court and Lyons identified it. He said Lyle said to Hauptmann, "You don't see many more of these now," and the Hauptmann replied, "I've only got a hundred more left." Lyons said Lyle wrote the license number of Hauptmann's car on the gold certificate and that he (Lyons) subsequently took it to the bank. It was this incident that caused the seizure of Hauptmann and the discovery of $14,600 of the $50,000 ransom money in his garage in the Bronx and the charge of murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Dr. Charles Mitchell, Mercer county physician, who performed the autopsy over the body of the baby, testified the skull was fractured while it was alive and that death was instantaneous or within a few minutes. Just after he the State put on the stand a string of witnesses to complete its tracing of the ransom money from the counting counters of J. P. Morgan Company, branch bank in the Bronx to a closet in the home of Morgan's partner in the care of a butler, to Al Reich, Dr. John F. "Jaffie" Condon, and then to Bruno Richard Hauptmann. The remainder of the tracing had to do with ransom money that had appeared here and there piecemeal after the ransom payment, the largest block being found in Hauptmann's garage.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP)—The state moved toward completion of its murder case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann today with the presentation of the story of the finding of the mutilated body of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. William Allen, negro laborer, related his story to the jury in the Hauptmann trial. It was he who found the baby lying face down in a shallow grave in a thicket by a roadside a few miles from the Lindbergh home. His discovery ended the two months futile search of the frantic father who paid $50,000 ransom and hurried over land sea and through the air in a vain effort to get back the baby he hoped was still alive.

In his address on Sunday night he will deal with the new approach that must be made to this important and ever-present liquor problem. He does not rant nor deal in outmoded temperance platitudes in his presentations of this important issue. He faces the problem frankly and honestly in the light of this new day and discusses its issues from the standpoint of a Christian citizen.

"The citizens of Greenville, irrespective of their personal attitudes upon this problem, are invited to hear this address by Mr. Burgess. It is hard to believe, but some folks here are mean enough to say that Senator Robinson is paying another installment on his hoped-for seat on the United States Supreme Court.

Now Huey is well down towards the bottom of the Democratic membership. Unless he strong-arms his way in there is little chance he would be made chairman of a subcommittee dealing with anything so important as radio.

Nevertheless, the microphone boys are seeing visions. They can't help recalling that all European dictators grabbed the radio first thing.

Take the latest case on record—that of Rep. Joe Lee of Oklahoma. He promised his constituents he would be the noisiest freshman in the House.

It's the same old story. Jeff Davis of Ark. (not to be confused with the President of the Confederacy) vowed as how he would "walk down the aisle in my stocking feet".

The Open Window

CHRISTOPHER waited. "Ah," he said to himself, "this is turning out beautifully. It is just as I thought it would be. I was sure such people would sleep with an open window when I saw they had the window open a bit even in the daytime. It showed they were not against having fresh air."

Christopher perched on a branch which overlooked the second story of the house, and to his delight he could see right into the bedroom.

Now Christopher heard some snores and he flew over to the window ledge.

Carefully, very quietly, with hardly the rustle of a wing, Christopher stepped inside. Oh, this was dangerous, this was thrilling!

LOBBY Somebody tried to give the Securities and Exchange Commission a runaround. The Budget Bureau bit a large slice out of the amount it asked for 1935 operations—and the House Appropriations Committee tried to slice off enough more to make the actual funds available about 45 per cent of the original request.

That slash would have hampered Chairman Joe Kennedy's plans no end. He wants to set up branches around the country to check abuses in unlisted securities—but he couldn't do it on the chicken-feed allotment proposed. It's understood that he called on FDR for aid in cutting the cut in half.

You may wonder why Congress apparently wanted to trip up one of its own pet offspring. Insiders say there were two reasons. Many legislators are reported suspicious of Kennedy as an ex-big time trader. Then he's been showing too much initiative to suit them and some old timers were inclined to clip his wings by way of proving who's boss.

The other reason is the inconspicuous but effective lobbying done by dealers in unlisted securities. The over-the-counter boys are scattered all around the country instead of being concentrated in large cities and have made it a point to cultivate Congressmen.

BEWARE New York experts insist the over-the-counter markets need regulation far more than the organized exchanges. Dealers in this field do not act as agents for their customers. They merely buy and sell securities for their own account and their profit is not made on commissions but by purchasing cheap and selling high.

Under present conditions both the buyer and the seller of unlisted securities must beware. The problem is first to get the numerous gyps out of the business and second to establish some sort of uniformity in the practice of legitimate dealers.

SOLUTION: Contractors who expect to bid on relief projects want this wage business clarified. The unions are likely to put up a stiff fight against allowing their unemployed members to accept jobs at less than the union scale of pay.

RUSSIA: Insiders have it that the growing internal opposition to Stalin is coming from the extreme left. Loyal Marxists claim that the Soviet boss has compromised communists' principles and that the present set-up is merely a mild form of and the shrewdest trader makes the most money. Here's a sample of how the system sometimes works. A New Yorker wanted to sell a mortgage certificate. The first dealer he took it to offered him $15. The second bid only $12. That was discouraging—but he kept trying and finally sold it to a third for $42. Bear in mind that the later wouldn't have bought it if he hadn't expected to resell at a still higher price.

They probably couldn't get away with it unless they were able to engineer an effective alliance with inflationists of other breeds. But comment runs that a few million ounces of silver would be a cheap price to pay for peace and harmony.

applied socialism. They want the straight suit—not a blend. It's further reported that Stalin is trying to link these leftist rebels with counter-revolutionaries in the minds of his followers. No such link exists—but he can't afford to have it get around that he's false to the ideals of Marx and Lenin.

HUCKUS: Anti-New Dealers seize with joy on FDR's hint that he's responsible for Baker's move to drive Robert Moses out of his Triborough Bridge job. They feel that at least they've found the weak spot in his political armor. Moses isn't personally popular in New York but he's become a sort of symbol of administrative efficiency. Liberals admire him for it as well as conservatives.

Moses and his publicity advisers are not at all averse to a show-down. You'll hear a lot about the thousands of people who will be deprived of jobs because of a political feud.

Mayor LaGuardia has been criticized for not defending his subordinate more staunchly. His friends point out that he's in a ticklish spot. He wants lots more federal money for city projects—and one way not to get it is to cry defiance at Washington. But the ruckus cuts too deep to be healed by a show of pacifism.

ALL UNITED STATES TOWNS IN NETWORK OF HIGHWAYS
New York.—(AP)—The shining net-work of highways that has been spreading itself across the United States for the past quarter of a century brought all the towns in the country within the reach of its filaments with the close of 1934.

In viewing the end of the building program of last year, the Automobile Manufacturers' Association stated that: "There is no longer any town in the United States without at least one improved highway." The association reported further that within the past twelve months 40,000 miles of roads have been built or improved by the State Highway Departments operating in conjunction with Federal agencies.

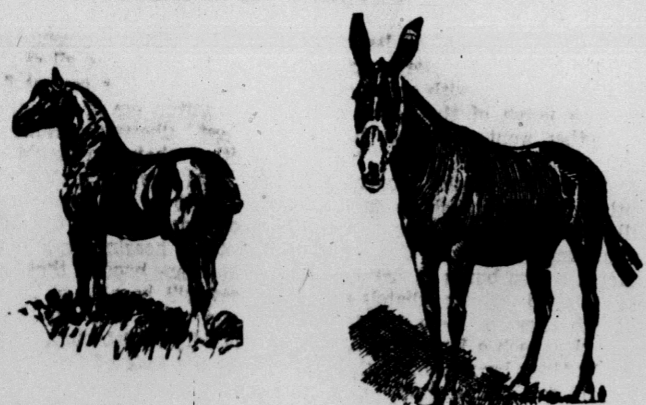

Five members of the W. G. Brandtetter family, all graduates of South west Texas Teachers' College, direct musical organizations in schools of the State.

The Corey bill that would require the vaccination of all dogs in the state against rabies is a safety measure that should get approval of the legislature. Already many cities and towns including Greenville have city ordinances to this effect but so long as these laws do not cover the territory outside the towns no one is safe from mad dogs as on several occasions rabid dogs from the outside have come into the town and inflicted serious and, in two instances here, fatal injury to children. The only way to play safe is to vaccinate all dogs, and certainly every dog owner thinks enough of his or her dog to want to protect them from rabies, as well as to help protect the citizens of the state.

Judging from expressions of different legislators one thing is apparent so far as the highway patrol is concerned. Regardless of the increase in the personnel of the department the duties of the patrolmen will be restricted to patrolling the highways of our state in an effort to cut down the number of highway accidents. In the past the patrolmen have been compelled to spend more time inspecting gasoline, collecting taxes and bad checks for the revenue department than in patrolling the highways, and it is well that the legislature appears determined to correct this situation.

In planning for the coming flue cured tobacco crop it is to be hoped that the government will not let production be increased above the six hundred million pounds mark. That figure is all that can be consumed and certainly any overproduction will result in correspondingly lower prices to the growers. Of course when the tobacco contracts were originally drawn there were bound to be inequalities that must be ironed out but the only grower who has really been hurt at all is the little fellow who cultivates less than three acres. If the government will amend its contracts so as to make the minimum crop three acres then this will give all the increase in production necessary and will help the person who really needs the help. Beyond this the government should make no change in the way of increased production of flue cured tobacco.

Announce Dates For County Fair

The week of October 21 has been set as the date for the Greater Greenville Fair, according to a statement made today by N. G. Bartlett, secretary of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring organization of the fair.

"We expect to let nothing go undone to make the 1935 Greater Greenville Fair one of the best fairs Greenville has ever had," Secretary Bartlett said. The usual amount of premiums will be offered in the various departments, and a special effort will be made to have a large display of Boys and Girls' Club work products.

Miss Mary Lou White's assistant secretary for the 1935 Fair, Miss White held this position for the last fair and made a very creditable showing. The fair will be held on the Fair Grounds.

The veteran, George Norris, of Nebraska, was represented as believing that young Mr. Holt could take his seat regardless of his Senatorial minority.

When the present Congress opened, however, Senator-elect Holt merely presented his credentials as "duly elected," sat in the rear of the Senate Chamber while other "duly elected" Senators were sworn in, then caught a train for Charleston, W. Va., where the State legislature was meeting in biennial session.

Reports drifting back to Washington are to the effect that while Holt was deprived of exercising his talents as a legislator in the United States Senate, he is keeping in practice back home.

He has no official connection with the West Virginia State Legislature, but he has made one.

As a member of that body he left it to run for the Senate. Holt was chairman of a committee to investigate the public utilities in the State. He credits that assignment as being a major factor in his successful contest for a seat in the Senate.

He now is engaged in assimilating the information his committee gathered and whipping it into shape for presentation to the Legislature.

There's no hurry.

As a matter of fact, he has until June 3, 1935—the date when he will have reached the age of 30 and the Constitutional age requirement for taking his oath as a member of the United States Senate.

Birthdays Gifts Certain. When June 19 does roll around for Mr. Holt he will find that although absent, the Senate hasn't forgotten him.

His official residence on Capitol Hill at the present is a one-room affair on the second floor of the Senate office building.

But for a birthday present he'll get:

(1) The suite of offices now occupied by the senior Senator from Pennsylvania, James J. Davis ("Pud" Jim), as he is known on Capitol Hill, a Cabinet member under three Presidents; and

(2) A check drawn on the United States Treasury for back pay from January 3.

OLD AGE PENSION FUND COVERS ADULT SWEDES. Stockholm (AP)—Old age pensions now are guaranteed to nearly 4,000,000 persons in Sweden and since the total population is only a little over 6,000,000 this means virtually all adults.

Payments vary according to the individual contributions and only small amounts are paid to those who have contributed nothing, so that the government has to provide only 15 per cent of the total.

The general pension fund amounts to 675,000,000 kronor (about $168,750,000). Its average yield last year was 4.65 per cent.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—West Virginia's Senator-elect — 29-year-old Rush D. Holt—had all sorts of advice as to what he should do until he reached his Senatorial majority of 30.

Senator "Jim Ham" Lewis, of Illinois, for example, suggested that he act as "commissioner" for the State of West Virginia until he was of Senatorial age.

The veteran, George Norris, of Nebraska, was represented as believing that young Mr. Holt could take his seat regardless of his Senatorial minority.

When the present Congress opened, however, Senator-elect Holt merely presented his credentials as "duly elected," sat in the rear of the Senate Chamber while other "duly elected" Senators were sworn in, then caught a train for Charleston, W. MINISTER GOLF CHAMPION AT WASHINGTON GOLF CLUB

Washington (AP)—Dr. Calvert E. Buck, an Episcopal clergyman, celebrated his election as president of the Washington Golf and Country Club by winning the club title.

Not content with being the titular head of the club, Buck defeated Jimmy Drain, one of the capital's best golfers, 7 and 6 to win the club title.

And Drain was good enough to qualify for the last national amateur tournament and give the Oklahoma sensation, Zell Eaton, a tough battle before he was eliminated.

FATAL ERROR FOR DUCKS: HIGHWAY LAKE A MIRAGE. LaGrange, Texas (AP)—The strange method by which one hundred ducks committed suicide is a matter of record in the Texas highway department.

A section crew had applied an oil surfacing to a highway west of LaGrange, causing it to glisten like water in the slanting rays of dawn.

Flocks of ducks thought they slipped water below them and came down on the gummy surface. They bogged down and couldn't get off. After a few days they died.

Strange as it may seem, your own children and your own crops aren't so different. WOULD DO AWAY WITH COMMISSION

Expect Introduction Of Bill to Abolish State School Commission

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, Jan. 17.—A bill to abolish the State School Commission and give its powers to the State Department of Public Instruction and to set up in its stead a purely "advisory" school commission with no actual power, is expected to be introduced before long by Representative N. E. Day of Onslow county. It is expected that this bill will have the wholehearted support of the textbook publishers and their lobbyists as well as most of the school forces.

It is no secret that the State School Commission is still a thorn in the side of the school forces and the textbook companies, because of its strict regulation of allotments for school expenditures. For the School Commission is to the schools very much what the Budget Bureau is to the state government, since it makes the allotments of teachers to the various counties, city and town school systems, also the allotments from the school appropriation for fuel, janitor service, maintenance of plant, offices or superintendents, and so forth and the various superintendents cannot spend more than their allotments and cannot transfer cash allotted for one item to another.

What the superintendents would like, of course, would be a return to the old system under which all school funds would be under their control and without any state supervision. But ever since 1929, when the state started to greatly increase its participation in the support of the schools, the general assembly has held that it also should exercise more control over these funds. So it set up the State Board of Equalization in 1929. When it set up the state-supported eight months school term in 1933, it also created the State School Commission to supervise the apportionment of state school funds and supervise their expenditure and to see that school expenses were held within the $16,000,000 a year appropriated.

The school and textbook lobbyists made a determined effort in the 1933 session to change the school law to end the present "dual control" system over the schools, but without avail. In fact, the school law finally enacted by the 1933 general assembly gave the State School Commission tighter control over school expenditures than had ever been exercised by the old Board of Equalization.

It is expected that the bill Representative Day is reported to be preparing would transfer all control of the state school fund from the School Commission to the Superintendent of Public Instruction. For it is no secret that the school and textbook forces would much prefer to have the school fund administered by the Department of Public Instruction than by the School Commission, in the belief that the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who is a former county superintendent, would deal more generously with them. It is understood that the bill will propose a dummy "advisory" school commission composed of three members appointed by the house, three members by the senate three members by the Governor and three members by the State Board of Education, but with "advisory" power only. That would mean, according to most observers here, that this commission would have no real authority.

Indications are that this bill, when introduced, will have some tough sledding since virtually all the older members of the house and senate seem to regard the State School Commission as one of the state's most essential agencies.

Talks to parents

Popular Fallacy

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Sam's intelligence quotient was very low, and his parents were both distressed and shocked when they received the psychologist's report. Being themselves intelligent parents, they changed Sam to another school where, whatever his I. Q. (intelligence quotient) was, he did very well, and soon proved himself all that the most exacting parents could wish.

I. Q.'s are not necessarily the final word on a child's intelligence or ability. In some cases, especially the cases of children definitely approaching the feeble-minded class, they are of value, and they may also be indicative of special aptitude. But their reliability depends upon a number of factors, which in the superficial testing necessary when there are a large number of children to be gone over in a limited time, are not always taken into consideration.

The temperament of the examiner, the temper toward one another the method of approach, the physical condition of the child, all have their effect on the test.

Undue importance is often attached to the intelligence quotient of the child by both parents and teachers. It is, or should be, only one of the factors considered in judging of intelligence or ability. Often, as the child grows older, and increases the content of his experience, his responses to the tests improve beyond expectation. And quite as often the child who tests abnormally high at six, becomes average by eight or 10.

To blame a child for a poor I. Q. or to judge him on the results of the tests alone is short-sighted and shows utter ignorance of their purpose. They are guides for the parents, not good or bad marks for the child.

MONTANA RIDES

TO THE men who watched, close up, the similarity was even greater. They saw the devouring hunger in the eyes of Montana. They saw him crouching, gripping the top rail of the fence with both hands.

The next moment he was plunging through the dust that smoked across the face of the corral. They saw him dodging through it while the wild mare tried to flee from him—as though she feared tooth and claw.

He caught her like that, too. As she swerved out of a corner he leaped at her with hands and feet. She soared. He appeared gripping the pommel with one hand, the rest of him streaming upwards. But a moment later he was in the saddle.

The watchers were frozen in place because it was not a riding contest. There was death in the air. Tombstone Joe leaned on the fence with his face dripping blood and black, clotted dust.

The yelling had ended. Each cowboy retained his past position. One was on one knee. Another, on tiptoe, gripped the top of a post and seemed to be yelling, though no sound came. Another held his hat rigidly above his head, but forgot to wave it.

And from the veranda it could be seen that the head of Montana, at every impact, wavered crazily up and down. His chin was beating on his breast. At every lurch of the mare he seemed about to shoot from the saddle, but something stuck him in place. Luck, men might have called it. But it was not luck.

The man or the mare would fall dead, surely.

Then she staggered and stood still, her legs braced wide apart.

After a time, Montana got slowly from the saddle. He slid down. His face was crimson. Blood from his mouth, his ears, his nose had covered his face with a red mask. He felt his way to the head of the mare. He put his arm around her neck. He began to stroke her face.

And she, with half-closed eyes of exhaustion, leaned slowly against him. He pulled out his bandana. Instead of drying his own frightful face, he began to wipe the slobber and the froth from the muzzle of Sally.

It was only a few days after this that Mateo Rubriz sat in a cantina in "Greaser Town," the Mexican adjunct of Bentonville, near the Lavery ranch. Good Brother Pasqual had left the table as soon as he had finished his dish of hot frijoles. There remained only Mateo Rubriz and a sallow-faced man with high, squared shoulders such as one expects to see only in a soldier.

MESSAGE IS REGARDED AS ULTIMATUM

It's a Matter of 'Put Up or Shut Up' For Administration Critics

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Jan. 17.—The budget message of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and the budget revenue and appropriations bills are being regarded here today as a "put up or shut up" ultimatum to the critics of the administration and especially those who have been critical of the retention of the sales tax.

After two years of study and investigation, the Governor and members of the Advisory Budget Commission have prepared and submitted a budget calling for expenditures of $3,500,000 more a year than the present general fund budget calls for, enough to provide for a general 15 per cent increase in the salaries of teachers and all other state employees. They have also prepared a revenue bill which in their estimation will yield enough money to meet all the proposed appropriations and thus keep the budget in balance. No new taxes were recommended, on the grounds that most of the taxes are already high enough and that the people of the state are not yet able to bear increased taxes.

The Governor's budget recommendations are already being vigorously assailed by those wanting to remove the sales tax and also by those wanting much larger appropriations, especially for schools, than those recommended. The Raleigh News and Observer characterized it as "A program for standing still" in a two column editorial spread Wednesday morning, largely because it provided for an increase of only 15 per cent in teachers' salaries.

There is nothing, however, to prevent the anti-sales tax forces, the school forces or any others from drawing up a plan for a larger budget and for a revenue bill that will yield more than the one proposed by the Governor. It is pointed out here. There is nothing sacred about the budget bills submitted or even the recommendations of the Budget Commission. Any one of the 170 members of the general assembly has the right to prepare and introduce revenue bills or appropriations bills at variance with the budget bills. There is just one thing the budget law is specific about—and that is that the general assembly must keep its appropriations and revenues in balance in order to preserve a balanced budget. In fact, the Governor invited the general assembly to make any changes in either the appropriations or revenue bills it might desire, when he said:

"The choice of methods is yours, of course. If your wisdom suggests a better or more equitable and dependable way to provide for our needs, we shall be delighted. If you can find ways to avoid the sales tax or any other tax and provide for these needs, we shall not be offended. There is just one point upon which I am insistent and that is that for every dollar you appropriate you should levy a dollar of dependable taxes."

So the Governor has left the door wide open to Jonathan Daniels, Dr. Ralph McDonald, Willard Dowell, John Paul Leonard and those who are most dissatisfied with the budget recommendations to devise any plan or plans they may see fit to provide more revenue or to eliminate the sales tax.

But if the sales tax is eliminated, it will be necessary to immediately find $3,750,000 in new revenue from some other source without increasing salaries or appropriations above their present low level. If the appropriation for the schools is increased from $16,000,000 a year to $22,000,000 a year, the minimum being asked by the school forces, another $6,000,000 in new revenue must be found. In addition it is agreed that at least $3,000,000 more must be found with which to increase other state salaries and appropriations. This means a total of $17,750,000 in new revenue that must be found if the sales tax is to be removed and appropriations increased to the point advocated by the school forces and others. If this much new money can be found, well and good. But few of the old timers think it can be located at this time.

ranging from $1 to $3 each, they started an investigation into the source of their supply of stoves. After a tip that the stoves were coming from the Taft warehouse, an investigation of the premises revealed that the robbers had been entering the building by means of some loose boards in the floor, unbarring the door to remove the desired merchandise and then rebaring the door and making their exit through the hole in the floor, carefully replacing the loose boards. Naturally with the storage warehouse full of furniture and stoves, it was hard for the removal of a few pieces at a time to have been noticed by employees of the furniture company who had occasion to visit the warehouse, and it was not until the numerous sales by the negroes were reported that the robberies were revealed.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady four to six higher on trade and foreign buying for over the pending Bankhead allotment announcement. Prices eased off a few points and at the end of the first half hour March was ruling around 12.44 or four off from the opening and the general market was holding within two or three points of yesterday's closing.

Prices advanced rapidly in the face of rather heavy profit taking and selling on the limit with old crop positions showing net gains of 7 to 9 points at midday while new crop positions were mostly around 23 points net higher.
