Jury Hears Evidence On Hauptmann Bank Account

BIG INCREASE SHOWN AFTER RANSOM PAID

William Frank, Intelligence Agent of Treasury Department, Testifies Hauptmann's Bank Account Was Swelled $44,886 After Payment of Ransom; Figure Exclusive of Cash Loans Made by Defendant

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense made its second unsuccessful move for a mistrial today after the state had shown that Hauptmann's assets swelled $44,886 after the $50,000 ransom was paid for the slain Lindbergh baby.

Justice Thomas Trenchard promptly denied the mistrial motion which was entered on the grounds that Attorney General David Wilentz had improperly brought in the name of Col. Lindbergh, father of the slain baby, in connection with the question of the purchase of aviation stock by Hauptmann.

"It was merely an attempt to get this famous man's name before the public," Defense Chief Edward Kelly declared.

The state brought today to a driveaway the court ready to show to the jury, if the court permits, the automobile in which Hauptmann was alleged to have been seen near the Lindbergh home the day of the kidnaping, March 1.

One witness has testified he saw a leader in the automobile. The state also announced itself ready to refute any further attempt on the part of the defense to implicate the dead German furrier Isadore Fisch in the kidnaping and murder and a portion of ransom.

Assistant Attorney Albert Kurtz, the prosecutor said, has a diary showing he and Fisch were together the day of the kidnaping.

Hauptmann claimed on his arrest that the $14,900 ransom money found in his garage had been given to him by Fisch for safe keeping.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—The State produced for the Hauptmann murder jury today testimony that $44,886 was added to the assets of Bruno Richard Hauptmann and his wife after April 2, 1932, the day on which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh paid $50,000 ransom in a futile effort to recover his little son.

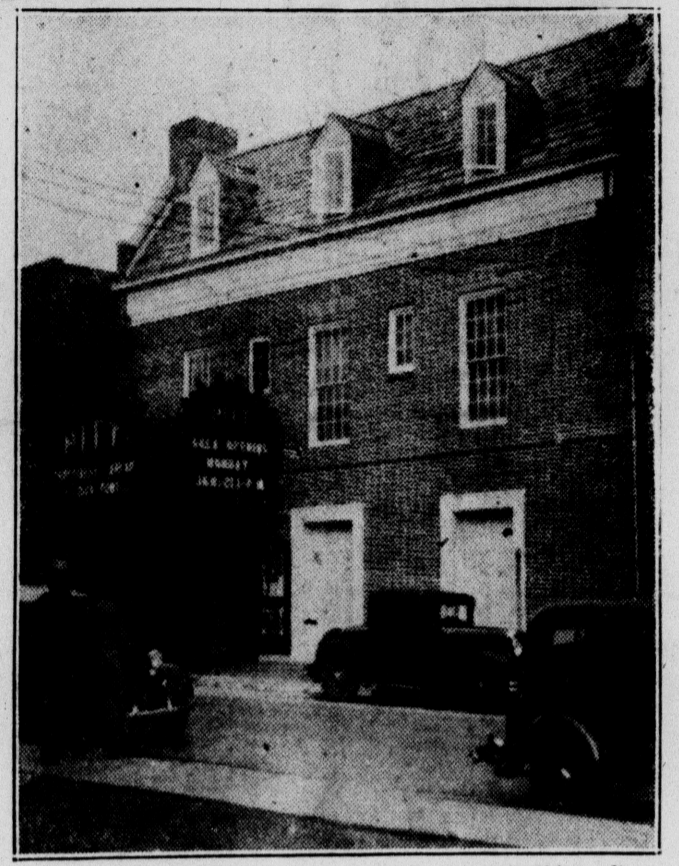

The figures, given from the witness stand by William Frank, an intelligence agent of the United States Treasury Department, included the $4,600 in ransom bill found in Hauptmann's garage the day after his arrest last September 19. It also included $120 in gold coins found in his home.

This may be of greater importance to me, "declared Justice Thomas Trenchard, presiding over the trial, as he asked the court reporter to report this part of the

Smaller Legislative Bodies Work Faster
The Reflector, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—Perhaps, after all, it might be a good idea to have a unicameral Legislature in North Carolina if speed is what is wanted. The only such Legislature now in existence is that of Nebraska, where there are only fifty members and all belong to the same House.

GREENVILLE'S NEW THEATRE

The new Pitt Theatre, in this city, formerly opened this afternoon. The theatre constructed at a cost of more than $50,000 is considered one of East Carolina's finest and most modern playhouses.

NEW THEATRE OPENED THIS AFTERNOON

Pitt Theatre, Greenville's new playhouse, formally opened its doors to the theatre-goers of this community this afternoon with a good bill of entertainment and an enthusiastic crowd for the opening. Manager T. Y. Walker and representatives of the North Carolina Theaters, Inc., operators of the new house, were on hand to welcome the visitors, and were well pleased with the numerous compliments they received on their efforts in the way of this community with the best entertainment to be had.

The new theater, which cost above $50,000, was built by C. H. Edwards of this city and leased to the operators. The building is colonial in design, and the beauty of the interior is not surpassed by any theater in this section. The building was constructed to give the best possible results in the reproduction of sound pictures and the very latest improved sound production equipment has been installed. The lobby, spacious foyer and interior, together with the special lighting effects, present a most pleasing appearance to the theatergoer. The building will seat 500 persons.

The North Carolina Theaters, Inc. in addition to operating the new playhouse, will continue operation of State Theatre. Local Manager T. Y. Walker stated this morning that R. E. Carbett, for a number of years connected with State Theatre, would be house manager there, with the opening of the new theater. The State will become a popular price house, but Mr. Walker stated that despite the lowering of prices the State would continue to show a line of first-class pictures. The program at the new house will be changed three times a week, and Mr. Walker stated that already the newest and best pictures to be had have been booked for early showing here.

Among those from out of the city here for the opening today were: H. F. Kinney, Charlotte; R. B. Will, Atlanta, Ga.; and M. S. Hill, Greensboro, officials of the theater corporation; C. C. Benton, architect, and Sherwood Brockwell, of Raleigh.

Showdown On McNinch Expected During Week

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A showdown on the confirmation of Frank McNinch of Charlotte, as chairman of the Federal Power Commission, may come this week in the Senate.

Confirmation of McNinch is considered a certainty as Bailey has intimated he will not raise the point that the Charlotte man is personally "innocuous to him."

Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, is against McNinch, his opposition being on one of his campaign pledges, but he said that if President Roosevelt wants McNinch he will not stand in the way.

tor Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, who is opposing McNinch's confirmation, said he will give his views on the floor of the Senate.

From an authoritative source it was learned that Chairman Wheeler of the Interstate Commerce Committee, may call that group to meet Tuesday to consider McNinch's name.

It is expected to make a favorable report without ado, as Senator Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, who is opposing McNinch's confirmation, said he will give his views on the floor of the Senate.

POLICE SEEK BODY OF WEISS
Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A machine gun guarded caravan was ready to speed Robert Mace and three alleged members of his gang to Philadelphia today as police sought the body of William Weiss, slain kidnap figure.

The arrest of Mace, Walter Legencia and two other men and women last week "entirely clears up" the Weiss kidnaping which has puzzled police and federal agents, the Philadelphia police superintendent, A. LeStrange, announced early today in New York.

"The Philadelphia police will recover the body of Weiss before midnight," the police chief's statement followed closely a report in the Philadelphia Record that Mace and Legencia had confessed the abduction and slaying of Weiss.

C. K. BURGESS SPEAKS HERE

Raleigh Man Delivers Temperance Address at Local Methodist Church

Cale K. Burgess of Raleigh, vice-president of the United Dry Forces of North Carolina, delivered a temperance address at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church last night.

The message was heard by members of other churches of the city which had abandoned their usual Sunday evening services to give their memberships an opportunity to hear Mr. Burgess.

Although representing one of the leading dry organizations of the country, the speaker did not deliver a strictly dry message, but confined himself to temperance, elaborating considerably on the danger resulting from strong drink.

He quoted noted medical authorities who declared that three out of every ten persons that drink whiskey eventually become addicts. He declared it is absolutely impossible for mankind to handle whiskey, and that hundreds of institutions treating nervous disorders resulting from strong drink are just proof of this fact.

The church was well filled with representatives of the various denominations in spite of the rainy weather, and the message, one of many to be delivered in this state with a view to improving the temperance situation, was timely and in keeping with the fight of the organization represented by the speaker.

Late News Flashes

Court Postpones Gold Decision
Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Nine Supreme court justices gave the government and the world today at least two weeks more of expectant waiting for its ruling on the constitutionality of President Roosevelt's money policies.

Without a syllable hinting its views on the validity of its halting gold payments the court recessed until February 4. First, however, it refused a second time to review the case of Thomas J. Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin for complicity in the 1917 San Francisco preparedness day bombings.

In another case it agreed to pass on the constitutionality of the industrial recovery act.

Congress got down to work on the Roosevelt social security program. The house ways and means committee opened hearings on the big bill covering old age pensions, unemployment insurance and other social aids.

Simultaneously, the appropriations committee approved the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund asked by the President Roosevelt and

DRUNKS MARK POLICE COURT

Several White Defendants Sentenced to Roads in Monday Morning Session

Police court had one of the busiest sessions in sometime this morning and work was not completed until well after 10 o'clock. Contrary to the usual order of things, the docket was comprised almost entirely of white defendants with five or six charges of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and violation of traffic laws holding the limelight.

Ben Frank Gwaltney, young white man of this community, who faces a charge of murder in criminal court, was found guilty on three separate charges and sentenced to 90 days on the roads. He was charged with vagrancy, disorderly conduct and drunkenness.

The double-barreled charge against Willie Gray Sutton, local white man, probably held the greatest part of the spotlight in view of the fact that both cases grew out of a raid of the defendant's home over the week-end in which police said they broke up a disorderly house in which a number of drunks allegedly participated.

Sutton was sentenced to 30 days on the roads for being drunk and bound over to county court under bond of $200 for running a disorderly house.

Park Case was bound over to county court under bond of $200 for driving an automobile while under the influence of whiskey. He was unable to provide bond and was remanded to jail.

Robert Case, appearing in two cases of drunkenness, was sentenced to sixty days on the roads.

W. B. Cannon, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to thirty days on the roads.

It was probably the first session of court in months that all of the defendants found their way to the roads, and it is a strong indication that Mayor R. C. Flanagan is attempting to throw a "crimp" into some of the drunkenness and disorderly house business which police say has existed in the city for some time.

Sutton was described by police as "a bad actor" and his arrest and conviction is expected to form at least a temporary setback to that element which officers said had been patronizing his Washington street home.

Gwaltney faces a charge in criminal court at this time for the slaying of Casey Dade, another white man, in an altercation taking place at the home of a friend north of Greenville about a year ago.

ADOPTION OF SAFETY LAW NOW CERTAIN

Present Assembly Will Enact Laws for Greater Safety on Highways

Sir Walter Hotel, The Reflector, Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—Drastic highway safety legislation and an increase in the highway patrol to 150 perhaps 200, men is certain to be the result of laws to be enacted during this session of the General Assembly.

Already there have been introduced in both Houses measures which would license drivers, provide severe penalties for violation of highway regulations, increase the patrol, set up a separate division of Highway Safety, and make mandatory the imposition of minimum sentences on violators of the highway code. Most numerous of all are the drivers' license bills most of which provide no increase in the strength of the patrol, but nevertheless imply an increase because they vest the power of administration with the highway patrol.

There is strong reason that the laws finally enacted will be declared effective immediately instead of on July 1 as is the custom by virtue of it being the first day in the fiscal year.

"I see no reason for continuing the slaughter on our highway another six months or more," says Senator Sprunt Hill, of Durham, in behalf of the move to make effective at once such legislation. In this opinion he is backed by many members of the Legislature.

Most members apparently favor a drivers' license as the best method of coping with the important question of highway safety, and most of the number of patrolmen necessary to enforce such a law.

If the Highway Department's recommendations to the joint appropriation committee is any yardstick for measuring the probable future strength of patrol it will be 200. The department now has actually on the highways about fifty patrolmen. The patrol is maintained at a cost of about $50,000, although it must be remembered that the patrol collects on an average about $25,000 monthly.

The proposed appropriations bill asks almost $100,000 more for the patrol, which means that that amount would probably be used to employ an additional 100 men, bringing the patrol to 150 men.

Capt. Charles Farmer, who heads the patrol, has said that with 200 men at his command he could collect $2,000,000 in motor revenue alone. In that case the patrol would, of course, be highly valuable to the department and to the State.

Definite plans of the Highway Department, including the patrol, will be made known when the department appears before the joint appropriations committee to tell why it needs increased allotments. Many members of the General Assembly have indicated a willingness to be guided very largely by the recommendations of the department itself rather than by introduced legislation along that line. It is, however, clearly apparent that drastic legislation is in the offing. North Carolina's high rate of highway fatalities has brought to the front of the people and the legislator's mind the immediate need of action to halt the death march.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DURNO
SECURITY: The 74th Congress is getting set to carve itself a niche in history by tacking the Warner Security bill, designed to provide old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

Passage of legislation along these lines—and there is every reason to expect it will be passed—will put the United States another large step along the road to what Bismark would have called state socialism.

Senator Wagner's 63 page bill was drafted only after long and earnest conference with President Roosevelt and his advisers. It is an administration measure, and as such will commend the support of the Democratic majority, at least. The Republicans also are on record as favoring legislation headed in the same general direction.

Robbers Slay Two In Holdup At Chevy Chase

Chevy Chase, Md., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Robbers invaded a car barn of the Capital Transit Company early today, shot and killed a depot clerk and carried off a mechanic who was found beaten to death. They escaped with over $2,500.

The clerk, K. M. Mitchell, 58, was found dead in the barn with several bullets in his body. The mechanic, Emory Smith, was found beaten to death an hour later in Rock Creek, several miles from the scene of the robbery.

Police were summoned when trainmen reported for duty and found Mitchell's body in the surroundings which indicated a terrific struggle had taken place. It was said the holdup took place about 4:30.

DR. TURNER TO HOLD REVIVAL

Prominent Baptist Minister to Conduct Revival Here From March 27, April 5

Dr. J. Clyde Turner of Greensboro, for years one of the leaders in the North Carolina Baptist Convention, has accepted an invitation to conduct a series of revival services at Immanuel Baptist Church here from March 27 to April 5. It was made known today by representatives of the local congregation.

The revival committee of the local church, it was understood had been conferring with Dr. Turner for some time regarding the holding of a series of services here, and it was announced from the pulpit yesterday by Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of the church, that Dr. Turner said the mentioned date was the only one he had open for quite awhile.

The congregation immediately authorized Mr. McIver to confer with Dr. Turner, informing him the date was acceptable and that due arrangements would be made for the revival.

Dr. Turner will be remembered with favor by Greenville people, having presided over the Baptist State Convention which met here about three years ago in celebration of its 100th anniversary.

Second Group Stars Survey Parkway Route

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—A second survey party is starting work today on the extreme western end of the park-to-park highway route at Cherokee and will work eastward from that point towards Soco Gap. It was announced by Chief Locating Engineer R. Getty Browning. The present survey party is composed of about ten men, but will soon be increased to twenty-five or more men Browning said.

The survey party that has been at work on the northeastern end of the parkway route from Virginia line towards Blowing Rock has already completed running its survey lines as far as Mulberry Gap, about 32 miles northeast of Blowing Rock. It is expected that this survey party should be able to complete its survey all the way to Blowing Rock within the next sixty days, unless weather conditions materially slow up the work.

Several members of both committees, however, although they asked not to be quoted directly at this time, expressed the opinion that the joint committee was not inclined to boost the total figures "between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000" above those recommended in the Budget Bill so as to provide an increase of at least 20 per cent in the salaries of teachers and other State employees and to make other increases in allotments for the operation of various State institutions and departments.

If the committee does increase the total appropriations from the general fund to $32,500,000, which seems to be accepted as the maximum beyond which it is not likely to go, many believe that the appropriations for schools will be fixed at approximately $20,000,000 instead of the $18,500,000 recommended in the Budget bill. This amount, it is pointed out, would permit an increase of 20 per cent in teachers' salaries and still leave $1,000,000 more to be used for increasing the allotment for school transportation, supervision, administration and so forth.

If $20,000,000 of the total $32,500,000 is set aside for the support of the schools, if it is found that school revenue can be obtained, approximately $12,500,000 will be left from which to pay the general fund debt service requirements of approximately $4,500,000 a year, and the balance of operating all other State departments and institutions. After deducting the debt service requirements, including the University of North Carolina and all other State institutions, State hospitals and other institutions would thus be only about $8,000,000 a year, regarded by many as the very maximum amount needed for those institutions the next two years.

This big problem will be whether the Finance Committees will be able to find enough revenue to provide for a budget of $32,500,000 a year.

MAY PROVIDE FUNDS ABOVE BUDGET TOTAL

Appropriations Committee May Boost Recommendations By $3,000,000

The Reflector, Sir Walter Hotel, By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—The appropriation of the general fund will probably be increased about $3,000,000 above the amount recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission, before the joint House and Senate appropriations committees finish working on it and report it back to the House, according to the opinion of members of both Houses questioned here today. Thus it is expected that the appropriations bill will call for a total expenditure of about $32,500,000 for the general fund instead of the approximately $29,500,000 a year proposed in the Budget appropriations bill.

Whether the joint finance committees and the General Assembly itself will be able to devise a revenue bill that will produce this amount of revenue is, of course, another story. If this amount of revenue cannot be found the General Assembly will have to revise the appropriations and scale them down. Most of the members of both finance and appropriations committees, however, are hopeful that more new revenue can be found than is now apparent.

"Judging from the sentiment expressed so far by members of the House appropriations committee, I do not think there is any doubt but that the appropriations bill is finally written by the joint committee of the total called for in the Budget appropriations bill," Representative Victor S. Bryant of the House appropriations committee said here today. "There is a possibility, of course, after we have heard all the various departments and institutions that the committee will decide that the budget figures are about correct. But there is a very definite sentiment at present in favoring of increasing a good many of the proposed items."

Chairman Bryant would not predict, however, how much he thought the joint committee was likely to boost the total general fund appropriations above the amount recommended in the Budget bill. He would not even make an estimate.

Nor would Senator Lee L. Gravelly, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, make any prediction or estimate as to how much the committee would boost the appropriations.

Several members of both committees, however, although they asked not to be quoted directly at this time, expressed the opinion that the joint committee was not inclined to boost the total figures "between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000" above those recommended in the Budget Bill so as to provide an increase of at least 20 per cent in the salaries of teachers and other State employees and to make other increases in allotments for the operation of various State institutions and departments.

CROP INCREASE DANGEROUS
Congressmen Warren and Kerr are right in their protests of the flue cured crop to 700,000,000 pounds or more. Any increase of the crop above consumption will certainly reflect itself in lower prices for the growers and after they lived up to their contracts the way they did last season, certainly they don't want to destroy all their benefits by producing a larger crop this year. Yet every grower feels that if his neighbor takes advantage of the increase offered by the government, in self defense, he must do likewise and in the end is going to work bad for everyone. If it is felt by the government that there should be any increase whatever over last year's crop the increase should be limited to 50,000,000 pounds, bringing the year's total production not to exceed 600,000,000 pounds, and this increase should go to the little growers. This is all that can be consumed and certainly any surplus means lower prices for the growers.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT
It is noted that already some of the local organizations have endorsed the Child Labor Amendment and are adding their influence to that of other organizations in seeking ratification of the amendment by our legislature. What we are wondering is if these local organizations have been handed a sob story about protecting the children of our state from exploitation and as a result have endorsed the amendment, or if they have really studied the amendment to see just what it really provides.

North Carolina already has its child labor laws which prohibit the exploitation of child labor in this state and according to our way of thinking, our State Department of Labor is doing a good job of enforcing it. In view of this, why is it necessary for North Carolina to ratify a so-called national child labor amendment that would transfer from the hands of the state to those of Congress all the authority and control over the children of our state?

Here are the first sections of the child labor amendment that our state is requested to ratify:

SECTION 1. The Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.

SECTION 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the Congress.

If you would like to delegate this authority to Congress then you need have no fears in urging the legislators to vote for ratification. For your information, however, North Carolina has already once rejected this amendment, as have 25 other states. Is the measure any less dangerous now than it was in 1924 when it received only 11 favorable votes in our General Assembly?

This correspondent has been deluged with mail personally, presumably from folks who have passed the 90th milestone, berating him for dis closing that in 1933 it would have taken a 42 per cent sales tax to finance the $200 a-month pension instead of the 2 per cent originally proposed by Dr. Townsend.

NERVOUS: Treasury officials were quick to deny the government might go back to the old gold standard if the Supreme Court rules adversely in the gold clause case. Yet the story indicating a possibility of return to the full gold dollar was inspired by an official who is very high in the administration and who usually speaks the language of the so-called Brain Trust.

Secretary Morgenthau's men probably were speaking by the book. But it just goes to show that official Washington is not free of jitters.

PREDECESSORS: Many lawyers say that if the Supreme Court upholds the government it will, in effect, reverse every contract decision handed down by the high tribunal dating back to the Dartmouth College case in the early 1800. In other words, our present nine men in black are in a huddle with the weight of the opinions of 200 predecessors heavy on them.

On the other hand, former Chief Justice White once stated that the rule of reason must apply in any case where the welfare of the nation is involved.

STRIKES: Both sides are cautiously maneuvering for position in the impending scrap between industry and labor over the labor section of the new NRA. Donald Richberg tells industry that labor must be kept satisfied, "or else." Judging by private expressions this makes little impression on industry's field marshals. They are out to block the attempt to establish majority monopoly of bargaining.

Senator Wagner pegs away at his revised labor bill. His colleagues find much in passing events to engross their attention. Few men in Congress seem willing to grapple with the problem.

In some quarters it's assumed that improving conditions will sound the signal for strikes timed to have an effect on Congress.

VETERANS: H. Johnson and William E. Borah have been turning the hands of time back fifteen years recently with their attacks on American adhesion to the World Court. Old familiar arguments against ratifying the League of Nations by the back door or the trap door have been ringing through the Senate just as they did many moons ago.

The passing years, however, have left their mark on both of these doughty campaigners. Neither today possesses the fire and vigor of voice that was theirs in 1920 when Alice Roosevelt and Ruth Hanna McCormick were making coffee and sandwiches in a room adjoining the Senate chamber to help keep the League fess going.

On the Republican side there isn't enough opposition to keep debate warm. Democratic cries of protest won't last long. An early vote of ratification is expected.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
GOLD: New York is no longer hot and bothered about the nature of the Supreme Court decision in the gold cases. Insiders are firmly convinced that the government has the situation well in hand no matter what the ruling. But financial circles frequently hope the Court doesn't take too long to make up its mind.

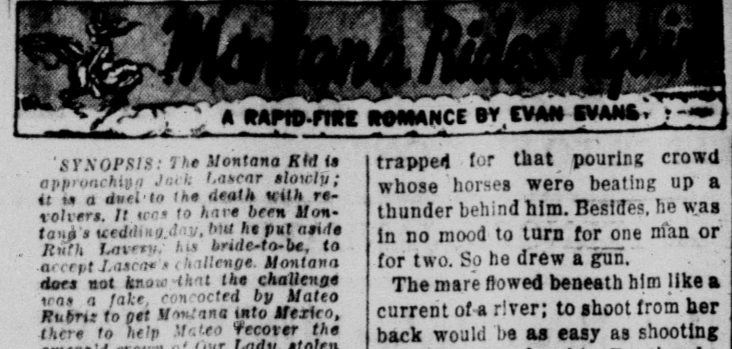

There are unmistakable signs that uncertainty has slowed up the business tempo all over the country. Nobody wants to make future contracts. It's a bad time for this to happen with a seasonal upswing in progress. No real harm has been done yet but prolonged suspense might seriously jam the recovery machine.

Last week's one-day panic in foreign exchange was a small scale sample of the confusion that would result if devaluation were actually nullified. The fact that the Treasury and its agent—the New York Federal Reserve Bank—made no effort to rectify the situation until late in the day caused a lot of comment. When it did swing into action by buying francs the panic was nipped at once. Keen observers remark that the delay must have been for the purpose of impressing the object lesson. "After all, Supreme Court Justices read the newspapers."

New York lawyers say the Department of justice overlooked one of its best bets. The plaintiffs claim to have suffered loss by reason of not being paid in the equivalent of gold. It would not have been difficult to show that there was no such loss in terms of purchasing power—but Mr. Cummings and his aids passed up that argument.

ODDS: What the smart boys really think is indicated by the collapse of the boom for "gold clause" bonds. If a speculator sells dollar bonds short and buys gold bonds the most he can lose is half a point—though

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS.

Chapter Nine
FLIGHT
A WOMAN screamed through the thick silence that covered the town: "It's gotta be stopped! It's murder! Two of God's creatures out there to murder!"

The voice was muffled. A man could be heard to say, distinctly: "Now, Mama, don't you go bein' a fool. The boys have gotta have their fun, don't they?"

The hoofbeats from the rear must have rounded a corner. They seemed suddenly nearer. It seemed to be a signal for Jack Lascar. The man seemed hungry for the battle as he jerked out a gun.

The Kid made his draw in midstep. He fired as his foot struck the ground. Jack Lascar fired one bullet into the air as he spun around. He fell neither forward nor back, but in a heap, and the dust washed up around him as though the earth were anxious to claim its own at once.

With the fall of Jack Lascar there came out of the watchers a deep, quick, animal sound. The lips of men and women and children grinned back suddenly as though there were something in the sight that filled them with a food of satisfaction, or of horror.

The Kid went up to the body of Lascar and put his foot brutally on the shoulder of the man, and pushed him back so that he sprawled face up. Then Montana could see that a trickle of blood was still running down the side of Lascar's head—sure proof that the fellow was not dead as yet. Well, if that bullet had glanced, it meant that there would be more trouble, great trouble, ahead of Montana.

There was something more to be considered, just now. That was the persistent beating of hoofs down the street and now rounding the last corner. So the Kid jumped Sally, looking back as he jammed his feet into the stirrups. And he saw the sheriff come grandly around the next bend of the street with his mustang a-slant, the dust spilling out sidewise from the slashing hoofs, and the wind of the gallop furling back the brim of the sheriff's hat.

And as the sheriff saw the picture before him, the dust still rising above the place where Jack Lascar lay, the man of the law shouted. His cry was like the hoarse bark of a sea lion as he went for his gun. Montana did not try to get away down the street. Neither did he open fire on the sheriff, because it was not his habit to shoot at the law-abiding. Instead, he sent the mare swinging over a four-foot fence and then crashing through tall shrubbery that closed over man and horse like water.

The sheriff's bullets crackled through the brush; other bullets sang a smaller and a higher note around the ears of Montana. But now he had to swerve the mare onto a back lane, and sent her scotting. There was going to be plenty of trouble. He could hear the voice of it growl and howl through Bentonville.

THE lions had finished fighting, and now the spectators would take part in a lion-hunt. Horses began to snort and squeal under the spur as men mounted and drove away in the pursuit. Men yelled orders in voices that squeaked with excitement.

The Kid smiled a little. His eyes filled with reminiscent pleasure. From his position, the south trail was the best trail. He went straight for it, taking note how the mare carried her head high, moving it in observation, keeping her ears pricked. She was iron-hard. The run from the ranch had not weighted her hoofs with the least weariness.

The last house, the last barn, whirled away behind him. He was heading towards the beginning of the south trail with the tumult of Bentonville drawing to a single head behind him, when he saw a man on a black horse riding furiously down the northern slope to head him off.

There was still time to turn to the left down a broken ravine, but though he might avoid one enemy in this manner, he would leave himself he's practically certain to be out that much if devaluation stands. On the other hand he has a chance for a 69-point profit.

This amounts to odds of 140 to 1. You'd think this was a long enough shot to attract Wall Street money players. The fact that so few of them have nibbled is significant.

STABILIZATION: Prospects for an international monetary agreement hinge largely on the Supreme Court's action.

A favorable decision clears the road for substantial progress. Insiders say the European feeling that the dollar's status is not finally determined has been an obstacle. Discussions can become more practical once this point is settled. Conversely an adverse ruling would push negotiations off the deep end.

The guards played a nice game with the exception of the last three minutes of the first half, when Wingate forwards got loose and scored seven points before the half, which gave them the lead that the Ramblers were unable to gain on. Brooks of Wingate played a very nice floor game, while A. Stewart was high scorer with 8 points. Burk and Fulton tied with four points each for high scores for the Ramblers. Askew scored the other three points.

PREPARE FOR SCOUT COURSE

Elementary Course in Scout Leadership to Be Held Here Monday January 28

Prof. E. L. Henderson of the training committee of the Greenville District, Boy Scouts, announces that one week from tonight (Monday, January 27) the opening session of the elementary course in Scout leadership will be held in Room 209 of the Austin Building at the East Carolina Teachers College, beginning promptly at 7 p. m. Professor Henderson is particularly anxious that The Reflector invite all men who are engaged in community boy leadership, whether as Scoutmasters, assistant Scoutmasters, troop committee men, Merit Badge counsellors, members of the Greenville District, school and Sunday school teachers, the ministers of Greenville and Pitt County, dads, Eagle Scouts, the personnel of boys' work committees of Greenville and civic clubs of Pitt County and college students.

The chairman of the Scout leadership Training Committee clearly states that there will be no expense with this training course and that those who take the twelve sessions of an hour and a half each Monday night (7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.) will not obligate themselves in any way to take definite leadership in the Scouting program, although this is the hope of John J. Sigwald, Scout executive, and Leon Keaton, Jr., assistant Scout executive of the East Carolina Council.

It is announced that outstanding speakers have been secured, but that this leadership training course is in no way a lecture program, but gives through the "learning by doing" method of Scouting a general knowledge of the program of Scouting, stressing the method of administering a troop and how to train boys in Scout Craft and Patrol Leadership. It gives the history, problems, as well as the methods of administration as attempted by the Boy Scouts of America. Each session will include a period of activity and a period of pep with various projects to be worked out by the patrol. The twelfth session will close on April 15, at which time the approved certificates of the Boy Scouts of America will be awarded those completing the course.

Only men 18 years of age or over are invited to take this Scout leadership course. It is hoped, as stated above, not only to men of Greenville, but to boy-minded men of Pitt County, and specially representatives from those communities who were represented on January 11 when over sixty-one boy-minded men met for a three-hour rural institute Scouting session.

Gill Would Keep Dangerous Insane In State Prison
The Reflector. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—Prisoners who are commuted from death to life imprisonment should be kept in safe-keeping within the State Prison here and not sent to the criminal insane wards of the various State Hospitals for the insane. Commissioner of Paroles Edwin Gill recommends in his report to Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus. Commissioner Gill does not recommend the transfer of all those now classified as "the criminal insane" from the various State Hospitals back to the Central Prison here. But he does make it very clear that he thinks all of the more dangerous criminal insane, especially those who have been convicted of first degree murder and then commuted to life imprisonment, because of their mental condition, should continue to be housed in the prison rather than in the criminal insane divisions of the various State Hospitals.

"In the future I recommend that men commuted by the Governor on account of mental deficiency be confined in safe keeping at the State penitentiary," Gill says in his report. "The public safety demands their incarceration there until the State can provide an equally safe and more humane place for their permanent detention."

During the past two years several dangerous prisoners, several of them "killers," have escaped from the criminal insane divisions of several of the State Hospitals. Less than two months ago four dangerous prisoners escaped from the criminal insane building at the State Hospital here. Three of these four are still at large.

NO MONEY FOR IMPROVEMENTS THIS SESSION

Assembly to Make no Appropriations for Permanent Improvements

The Reflector. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 21.—As badly as many of the State institutions desire new buildings and improvements—and many of them actually need them—present indications are that this General Assembly will follow the recommendations of the Governor and Advisory Budget Commission and refuse to make any appropriations for these improvements. The reason for this is that if the requests for permanent improvements are granted for any of the for all of them and to grant all of the requests would require $2,141,700.

It is out of the question to attempt to provide this much money for permanent appropriations out of current revenue, it is agreed. So the only way this money could be provided would be through the sale of some more State bonds. But most of those familiar with the condition of the bond market doubt if the State could sell $2,000,000 worth of new bonds at this time, or between now and July 1, except at a fairly high rate of interest. In addition to this, it is pointed out that the State still has $2,732,208 of its old 1933 deficit still unfunded. There is also strong sentiment both in the present administration and in the General Assembly against issuing any more State bonds for any purpose whatever.

The permanent improvements requested by the State Hospitals for the insane and by several of the other charitable institutions are probably needed more than any others. The State Hospitals here in Raleigh has asked for permanent improvements amounting to $204,670, which includes a new building for incurables, a new building to house fifty women patients, additions to the epileptic colony buildings to provide space for forty more men and forty more women and four new cottages for employees. The Morganton hospital has asked for $160,000 for a new building to house 100 men patients and the Goldsboro Hospital, for the negro insane, has asked $25,000 for a building for tubercular patients.

But indications are that a lack of State funds is going to compel most, if not all, of these institutions to wait a while longer for their requested permanent improvements.
