NAVAL TALKS POSTPONED IN GREAT BRITAIN

Conversations Called Off Until Hitler Announces His Foreign Policies

London, April 30.—(AP)—An authoritative source said today the proposed naval conversations between Great Britain and Germany have been "postponed" pending an expected announcement by Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Germany's foreign policy.

It was said the British government was complying with Hitler's desire for the postponement of the conversations and that it had agreed on the basis that until the atmosphere was further cleared with a more definite statement of policy on Hitler's part that it would be unsatisfactory to proceed with the conversations at this time.

Strong elements within the British government joined today in the popular clamor for immediate expansion of the nation's defense program as a reply in kind to Germany's rearmament.

The doubling of Great Britain's air armament program for the current year will have powerful backing tomorrow at the important cabinet sessions called to formulate the government's declaration of policy. This will be given in the house of commons Thursday.

Government supporters also have revived the long shelved scheme for a league of nation's air police force. Whether they took this step with the approval of their leaders will not become known until Thursday.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DURNO JOKER: When some amateur in politics talks about Huey Long fighting a duel with President Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination in next year's national convention the practical politicians in the New Deal emit roars of ribald laughter. It is no joke but a joker that causes their merriment. They intend to see to it that the Kingfish is not there to fight any duels or lance.

It was one thing for the redoubtable to lead a personally hand-picked delegation into the 1928 Democratic convention at Houston and have it seated—because he then was for Al Smith. It also was jake for the popeyed political prospector to make his own rules and regulations in selecting the Louisiana

Governor Green, Rhode Island, Democrat, told the committee that a serious condition existed in the industry. Thomas F. PARRISH OUT FOR ALDERMAN

Incumbent of Second Ward Announces he Will Seek Reelection On May 6th

Vernon Parrish, alderman from the Second ward, today announced his candidacy for re-election in the municipal election to be held on May 6th.

This is one of the two wards in which contest has developed. C. B. Rowlett, several days ago having announced his intention to seek the seat now held by Parrish.

Dr. M. B. Massey, who was elected by the Board of Aldermen to fill an unexpired term in the Fourth ward about two months ago, also announced his candidacy today for re-election. Dr. Massey is a dentist and has manifested much interest in work of the board since his entrance into the political field.

Elected to the board four months ago to succeed N. O. Warren, who resigned because of ill health, Mr. Parrish immediately forged to the front as an indefatigable worker, taking an active part in debate on many of the important questions which have become before the board during the intervening time.

Mr. Parrish is a broker by profession, having lived in Greenville a number of years, and has always taken an active interest in movements looking to community uplift.

In publicly announcing his candidacy today, he pledged his very best efforts to his constituents, declaring he would stand by the economy policy of the board which has resulted in the city holding one of the most enviable financial records of any other city of similar size in the state.

The opening salvo of the campaign was fired several days ago by Mayor R. C. Flanagan, who announced he would seek re-election for a third term. He is unopposed. Yesterday A. C. Tadlock announced he would seek the post now held by J. H. Boyd in the Fourth ward. H. H. Duncan and L. B. Fleming have also announced they will seek re-election to their posts.

Registration of voters will end Saturday, and persons who have changed wards since the last election have been urged to register again to be eligible to vote in the forthcoming contest.

WOULD DEFER REFORM MOVE BY ROOSEVELT

Henry Harriman Asks Administration to Seek Real Recovery At The Present

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—A call to the Roosevelt administration to postpone "reform measures" in the interest of a speedy recovery was advocated today by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

This was the keynote of Harriman's address opening the 23rd annual convention of the chamber.

Couched in moderate but firm language Harriman's speech disclosed vital differences from the views of the administration on several major Roosevelt plans.

Harriman who has been regarded by his associates as a councillor of friendly relations with the administration mixed praise with his criticisms.

"The new deal has attempted much that is good," he said. "But it has tried to do too much in too short a time."

C. B. Ames, chairman of the Texas Co., hit at what he called "the bungling" efforts of Washington bureaucracy to regiment American business.

Ames proposed that the new NRA provide only for purely voluntary codes.

PREPARE FOR OPENING POOL

Swimming Pool Committee Scheduled to Meet This Afternoon To Set Opening Date

The municipal swimming pool committee named by the Board of Aldermen sometime ago to set the date for the opening of the pool is scheduled to meet late this afternoon to decide upon this matter in addition to setting the rate for season's tickets.

The committee probably would have met considerably earlier had it not been for unfavorable weather conditions, but with the coming of warmer days, immediate steps will be taken to open the pool.

When the question came up before the aldermen, it was suggested that the pool be thrown open around May 1. But the aldermen couldn't foresee what the weather man had up his sleeve at the time and the committee has delayed its deliberations awaiting improved offerings from the weather department.

Chief of Police George Clark, who has been in charge of improvements at the pool, said this morning he planned to call the committee together this afternoon, and hoped to be able to say definitely when the pool is to be thrown open.

The huge bowl has been cleaned out and other improvements have been made to take care of the demands of thousands of people who will throng the recreational center during the hot summer months. In fact, the public park which has been provided near the pool will afford a splendid place for recreation for those who desire to rest from arduous labors of the hot summer days while at the same time watching activities in the pool.

In addition to the pool and park a public playground has been provided for children of the community. This is expected to be a very popular place during the summer, in view of the fact that supervised play will be offered.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

The only old-age pension bill introduced in the Legislature was offered by Representative Dowtin, of Warren County, the oldest man in the General Assembly. He was born in 1861. An intriguing name is borne by Moore County's Senator, Union Lee Spence. Senator George Bascom Mason, of Gaston County, weighed but two pounds when he was born. Which is why he wasn't named after his father. Instead, the Mason's second son, Oscar, received the honor. Both Representative Nere E. Day, of Onslow, and Senator John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, fathers of the liquor control bills bearing their names, are teetotalers. Each declares he has never tasted whiskey. Which, after all, is still another and better method of control.

Has anybody here seen Kelly? Sure, and he's here in the person of Representative Walter D. Kelly of Sampson. And, shades of Tammany Hall! he's a Republican. Business of wondering what he's doing with that Irish name.

LEGISLATURE GIVEN PRAISE BY DANIELS

Joint Session Hears Ambassador to Mexico in Address at the Noon Hour Today

Raleigh, April 30.—(AP)—The senate today temporarily sidetracked the controversial public school fund allotment in the biennial appropriations bill but adopted all other sections of the measure before joining the house in a joint session to hear an address by Joseph Daniels, U. S. ambassador to Mexico. Daniels praised the national leadership of President Roosevelt and though he made no mention of legislation approved by the house and pending in the senate to legalize liquor in the state cited to the attention of the legislators the 184,000 majority the state gave against national repeal in 1933 as he cautioned them to be representatives of the people and expressed the will of the majority and not of themselves.

The senators placed on their calendar for later consideration the conference reports on the biennial revenue bill. It will come up after the money spending bill is completed either later today or tomorrow probably. The house passed the compromise on final reading yesterday. The senate this afternoon began debate on the school allotment. It has before it an amendment offered by six senators, to set the figure at $22,000,000 annually instead of the $20,031,000 recommended for the first year and $20,900,000 for the second year by the joint appropriations committee. The house approved the committee recommendations.

The senate passed the amended omnibus school board bill and returned it to the house for concurrence in amendments.

The house did not start its regular work until mid afternoon but received favorable report on the biennial school machinery bill which proposed to make the state superintendent of public instruction executive secretary of the school commission.

Sensors who fought for a continuation of the present exemption of nine basic food items from the three per cent sales tax when the revenue bill was before them are prepared to resume the battle when the conference report is reached.

Mr. Daniels also told the senators: "When I left Raleigh two years ago to take up my duties as Ambassador to the Republic of Mexico, our country, and more particularly our State, was not only desperately poor, banks breaking, business paralyzed, and hope almost dead, I return to find that, by reason of Roosevelt's policies, the income of North Carolina farmers, which was only $86,000,000 in 1932, increased to $216,000,000 in 1934, and the old pessimism has given place to confidence. If any one should ask me: 'Do you believe in miracles?' my answer would be: 'Look at Eastern North Carolina today and compare it with two years ago. Nothing short of a miracle could have made that transformation.'

"Franklin Roosevelt inherited the evils Woodrow Wilson prophesied after the war, accentuated by a decade of gambling and the destruction of foreign markets. Nothing short of a miracle should undo all the inherited distress of 1929-'33 in a few short years, but we are on the way, well advanced. The only essential to make the recovery complete is co-operation of those who voted for Roosevelt and the many others who wish they had done so."

"I would be violating the amenities of the occasion if, following a journalistic habit of a life-time, I (Continued on Page Four.)

Veteran Congressman Says He Will Seek His Old Seat For 14th Term

Raleigh, April 30.—(AP)—The political outlook in North Carolina was measurably clarified today with a definite announcement by Rep. Robert L. Doughton that he would not be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in next year's primary.

In a brief formal statement at Washington the veteran congressman put an end to speculation that he has prevailed for months and he it is known that he expected to seek renomination to congress for a 14th term.

ENEMY'S KISS by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede has returned from school in Switzerland to meet her father at a house he is supposed to have taken outside London. But the house is dark and deserted; while waiting up after her father, Alison is hurried to see a nervous face peering at her. She opens the door, and the intruder slithers away. But her electric torch is going dead. She decides to make a break for the outside door.

Chapter Two NEW DANGER

COMING in, exploring this empty house for any sign of her father, Alison had passed two pairs of stairs. One leading off the long passage which ran straight from the front hall, was evidently the front stairs to the bedrooms; the other, cut off by a balze door, came down outside the pantry door and ran directly outside the bathroom.

An open balze door with a spring to it cut this part of the house off from the front part, too. Those last three faint creaks had seemed to come from the front passage. Could she creep down these backstairs unseen and gain the window and the road? Safer, perhaps, to slip down the ivy—unless, guessing her intention, he had gone to wait down there in the dark road?

Snatching at her courage, Alison released the door. Cautiously, trembling, she opening it a little way and peered out. The faint glow of the torch showed her an empty passage, a white bedroom door, a tiny square of window with the rain pouring down it and the far balze door, shut. The way was clear!

For no more than a second she listened, breathless, but now it seemed as if the whole house held its breath. There was no sound at all, even the mice were still. And there was the stairway, close at hand, dark but empty.

Alison ran.

She had reached the turn of the stairs when the torch went out. . . . The black dark seemed to hit her, knocking out her breath; it was like going blind. But her hand tightened on the stair-rail and she went on, running, two steps at a time.

She suffered, in those few seconds, the most primitive of all emotions—a fear fine-drawn to the point of battle, in which every nerve and muscle is strained to the utmost, ready to fight. Her foot found the lower passage level with a jerk that hurt.

CREAK! Pit-a-pat. . . .

A thin spear of light cut the darkness ahead, showing her the half-glass pantry door on her right, the lower balze door ahead—a beam of light split by the banisters above.

It was coming—running along the bathroom passage, chasing her down the stairs!

Alison made a dart. The pantry door was not quite shut, it gave; a loose board creaked as she sprang through and the beam of light overhead went off abruptly.

She slammed the door violently, throwing herself against it, she felt for a key and found none; she stretched up her right arm towards the wall to brace herself to take the strain.

She reached up her hand with all four fingers and the thumb spread and found them pressing flat against a man's face!

Her nerve broke.

In the recoil she screamed a hideous, shrill, bubbling shriek which rose and echoed wildly through the essary, meanwhile consolidating a bargain quietly.

This balance against the Democrats of the past who had had rows and made them most obvious.

Again look out for that quiet New York City meeting in the next couple of months which will get behind a Republican presidential candidate for 1936 without any fatality premature blasts of publicity.

REVALUATION: Don't gird yourself for any new mine rush, but Montana, heart of the silver belt, is said to be about to reopen mines that have been closed since 1893. The government's recent additional boost in the price of domestically-mined silver is the incentive—or so says Senator Murray, new Democratic upper house man from Montana.

"We have silver mines right in the Butte district that have been closed because of the low price of silver for many years," says Murray. "Present advancing prices of silver will have a tendency to reopen those properties that have been shut down for many years."

This proposition doesn't coincide altogether with inflationary silver plans. One danger is that mandatory purchase price of silver will force the Treasury eventually to revalue the lesser monetary metal—thus possibly giving to existing government stocks a price of $2.1875, which would increase paper holdings of Uncle Sam by nearly two billion dollars. On this basis the Treasury would not have to go much farther before it had enough silver to match 75 per cent against gold 75 per cent.

Legislative Rambling

"Jack" Graham is allowing no cobwebs to grow across his path to the 1937 Speakership.

Several legislators have their eyes on Congressional seats, nor are all the envious-eyed veterans of the General Assembly. There's Senator Dalton Warren, of Alleghany, who is only waiting for Congressman Doughton to toss his hat in the gubernatorial ring before he tosses his in the Ninth District race for Doughton's seat. And didn't Graham Barden, a legislative freshman from the shores of the Atlantic, leap in one grand jump from a North Carolina House seat to a Congressional House seat? Then there's Surry County's Senator Fred Folger and Stanly County's Senator Erskine Smith. Both think they'd make perfectly swell Congressmen. Nor should one overlook Senator Gravely, Nash County's anti-sales taxer. He has eyes on Senator J. W. Bailey's seat.

A compromise parole board bill containing features of both the bill introduced by Representative Thos. E. Cooper, of New Hanover, and the bill favored by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and the State Highway and Public Works Commission, is now on the House calendar, having been brought in with a favorable report by Representative Sentelle, of Brunswick County, chairman of the House Committee on Penal Institutions.

Some of the main provisions of the compromise bill are as follows:

(1) It would authorize the Governor to name an advisory board of paroles of six members, composed of the Attorney-General, Chairman of the Highway Commission and State Director of Public Welfare and three others not to be connected with the State Highway Commission, to meet once a month to consider applications for parole. But only the Governor will have the power to issue paroles.

(2) It authorizes the Governor to appoint a Commissioner of Paroles with one or more assistants and an adequate staff of investigation to investigate all prisoners designated by the Governor as eligible for consideration for parole. It also authorizes the Governor to appoint a sufficient number of parole supervisors to exercise supervision over prisoners after they have been paroled.

(3) It provides that the salaries and expenses of the personnel of parole board and of the commissioner shall be fixed by the Governor with the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, and that the Governor may set up rules and regulations in accordance with applications for paroles may be made and heard.

(4) Prisoners will be eligible for a hearing on application for parole after serving one-fourth of their terms, except that life-termers will not be eligible until after they have served ten years.

(5) Clerks of the various courts will be required to send a complete transcript of the criminal record of each prisoner along with commitment papers.

The bill also sets out the procedure for the grading and classification of prisoners and detailed directions for the operation of the law.

ably be affected soon between the house and senate on the matter of reduced license tags for automobiles.

Named by Lieutenant-Governor Graham as senate conferee were Senators Spence, Summersill and Johnson of Duplin. Representatives Jones, Paylor and Howard were named as house members of the committee by Speaker Johnson.

The conference was made necessary because the senate refused to concur with the house's amendments to the senate committee's bill which had previously passed the house, but only after it had been amended as well. As reported by the senate roads committee, headed by Senator Spence, tags would have been reduced to a $9 minimum, the per hundredweight tax reduced from 55 to 50 cents. After an argument, the senate reduced the levy to 45 cents, the minimum charge to $8, which would mean that owners of small cars would save about $2.50 on an annual registration basis.

The house further reduced the per hundredweight fee to 40 cents, fixing the minimum levy at $7, which would save the small car owners about $2.75. Important too was the house amendment which included trucks. The reduction voted by the house would cost the state treasury about $1,500,000 annually for private cars alone. Adding the trucks to the reduced list would reduce revenue by an additional $1,100,000. A reduction in the per hundredweight levy of each five cents results in a reduction in revenue of $500,000 from private car registrations.

It is thought here that the senate's opinion will prevail. Highly likely to be reported from the conference is a recommendation that the per hundredweight charge be fixed at 45 cents, the minimum tag cost at $8, and no reduction in the tag costs for trucks. Such a plan would cost the state only $1,000,000 in reduced revenues and would save owners of small cars $2.50 each.

SLOT MACHINES STILL RUNNING

Several days ago we called attention to a report of a marble slot machine that paid off in nickels that was being operated in a public place in this county. Instead of a stop being put to the operation of this machine it is now reported that business proved so good on the one machine that another has been added at the same place to take care of the crowds that want to play the machine. These machines are reported to be taking in a considerable amount of cash each week and of course paying out very little. Just why Pitt County cannot get rid of these machines is beyond us for it is plainly against the law to operate them and yet they are being operated in the most public places. It is our opinion that it is about time that our people who want law enforcement demand that our laws be enforced.

It is the same performance that has been going on for months and the Democrats are hoping the big squabble will continue.

First Church of Christ, Scientist
"Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 28, 1935. The Golden Text was from Psalms 49:15. "God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave; for He shall receive me."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." (I Cor. 15: 50, 53, 54.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them. Heaven is not a locality, but a divine state of Mind in which all the manifestations of Mind are harmonious and immortal, because sin is not there and man is found having no righteousness of his own, but in possession of 'the mind of the Lord,' as the Scripture says." (page 291.)

ONE-THIRD OF HOOSIERS MAY DRIVE MOTORCARS

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—Approximately one-third of Indiana's 3,238,503 inhabitants will be driving automobiles by the end of 1935, predicts Frank Finney, chief of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Drivers' licenses have been issued to 852,339 persons so far this year, according to Finney, and he believes there is every reason to believe the million mark will be passed.

Last year at this time, 749,747 drivers' license had been issued.

A Golden "egg," swinging from the wrist on a guided leather strap, is a touch which distinguishes this evening fashion. It is a new type of vanity case, worn here with a gown of heavy brown lace. The designs are by Schiaparelli.

NEW BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY

A book which, at last wakes the English horse mania credible to Americans and others with only a normal amount of interest in the hoid manumans, has arrived from abroad. It is called "National Velvet" (Morrow) and it is by End Bagnold.

End Bagnold is, in her non-literary moments, the wife of Sir Roderrick Jones, chairman of the board and general manager of Reuters the British news service. She is also considered one of the most independent of English women and a rewarding conversationalist.

Her book is the story of a little girl, daughter of a butcher (but on the sensitive side) who loves horses to the verge of madness. Finally she wins a ribald pony in a raffle, and falls heir to a string of horses in addition. And in the end she breaks all the rules and wins the Grand National and wins the Grand National with her beloved and one of the best books ever produced by the hard-boiled schools the pity, the squalor, and the futility of the South Chicago life made real.

A better appetite often is one of the first results of taking Cardui, and as nourishment is improved, many disagreeable symptoms of a run-down condition go away. But of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—Adv.

Congressional leaders to extend the present recovery law to march with price-fixing an intra-state business eliminated.

He would press the proposal to a vote and predicted it would be overwhelmingly approved by congress.

The temporary extension plan was advocated at the White House conference by Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee.

A short while before this conference the president wrote a strongly worded letter to the house military committee repudiating testimony by army officials that the United States in an "emergency must be prepared to seize British and French islands near this continent."

The senate still was deadlocked over the anti-lynching bill being filibustered by southern senators.

There was no indication when a break would come.

As well as was possible, three thousand miles from home, I have followed your deliberations with as much interest as any other citizen.

I share fully with you and all our fellow-countrymen the hope that your deliberations will measure up to the expectation and needs of our old commonwealth reborn in faith and courage.

By courage I include the daring to travel on roads of progress as new as our concrete highways, in new vehicles when they shall demonstrate superiority over the old, holding fast always to the faith of the fathers that no country can be free without universal education and no government just what admits a scintilla of favoritism.

In recent years, there are instances indicating the spirit of North Carolina's preferring to stand almost alone rather than surrender its convictions.

When nearly all the other States hastened to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, the sovereign people of North Carolina, by the thundering majority of 184,572 declared that it did not believe in legalizing the manufacture or sale of intoxicants.

They were told that such resistance to the overwhelming majority of the States would be ineffective and that it should go along with the majority.

The answer was: "We believe legalizing the liquor traffic in any form is evil and only evil. We cannot surrender our convictions."

They declared with Martin Luther, "I cannot do other wise, God help me." The result was that men everywhere, in agreement or disagreement with their position, took off their hats in respect to a commonwealth which stood by its convictions even if it had to stand alone.

Sweet Face's Question By MARY GRAHAM BONNER CAN YOU throw your quills—of Capines—if you're angry? Sweet Face asked.

"Oh no, oh no," answered the porcupine. "That's an old story, and there is no truth in it—like a lot of old stories. It's gossip that has been handed on from one to the other."

"I'll just tell Mrs. Quacker what harm there is in gossip," thought Mrs. Quacker.

"But they do come out easily and so when any enemy has got me I've been able to stab them so quickly that they've almost believed I've thrown my spines.

"The slightest touch and they'll come out—that's the truth."

"I know that," nodded Willy Nilly. "Those creatures I mentioned don't seem to mind my pointed spears," said the porcupine, "but most others do."

"Well," said Willy Nilly, "what about my answer? I don't mean to hurry you, but I thought if you were on your way soon to the deep woods I might fix up a little lunch for you to take along with you."

"That is most kind of you, most kind of you," said the porcupine. "All right, come now, my good Puddle Muddler, let's all get busy and gather some things for Porcupine's lunch. He has quite a distance to go and we want him to remember Puddle Muddler happily."

So all of them started to gather bark, twigs, vegetables for the porcupine and they all wandered off except Rip. He was hungry and he had neglected a buried bone too long. The others did not need his help. Most of them were glad to get far away from the porcupine! It was Rip's mistake.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Alderman in the Fourth Ward for one year. I shall appreciate your support and vote.

M. B. MASSEY

To The Voters Of The FOURTH WARD

I wish to announce that I am a Candidate for election as a member of the Board of Aldermen of the Fourth Ward for the two year term and, if elected, I promise my whole-hearted support to the Mayor and the different Departments of the Town in an effort to make the Administration a successful and economical one.
