Western Europe Air Pact Considered By Three Powers

NEW MOVE FOR PEACE BEGINS IN ENGLAND

Draft of Pact Revealed After British Circles Find Germany Is Capable of Building 100 Planes a Month; Measure Seeks to Call Halt in Airplane Building in Europe

London, May 3.—(AP)—An authoritative source revealed today that the draft of plans for a Western European aviation pact has been drawn up and has been taken into consideration in Paris, Rome and London simultaneously with the receipt of information in British circles that Germany has facilities for building one hundred planes a month and replacements.

The British Air Ministry meeting in Rechfuehrer Hitler's challenge in the air understood a new program for substantially increasing British fighting planes, airmen, and royal air force personnel. This program will be presented to the Parliament in two weeks.

The air pact as now drafted is said to include an agreement to call a halt in airplane construction. Well informed sources stated that the draft thus far has not been submitted to Berlin, but that Germany's signature as well as Belgium's is contemplated.

In order to fulfill Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's pledge that Great Britain will keep peace with Germany in aviation it was estimated that at least 200 more British fighting planes must be built at once. The increase provided for less than thirty days ago would bring the home defense strength to 630 planes at the end of 1935.

The British government has admitted it does not know the approximate strength of the German air force, but Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, revealed that Hitler's recent claim to equality in the air meant Germany now has more than 800 war planes equal to Britain's first line home and overseas strength.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG STOCK BARN

Modern Structure at County Home Wiped Out by Flames; Corn and Hay Destroyed

The stock barn at the County Home, several miles south of Greenville, was destroyed by fire this morning about 7:30 o'clock with a considerable amount of corn and hay. The loss was estimated by County Auditor John Coward, who visited the scene of the fire shortly after it was reported, at $1,500. It was partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Mr. Coward said the fire was discovered on the second floor of the building which was used for hay storage, and had gained such headway that all effort to save the structure was futile.

Several cows on the first floor were driven from the building unhurt.

Several mules also quartered on the first floor had previously been driven to the fields for the day's work.

The building was considered one of the most modern stock barns in this immediate section. It had been remodelled about two years ago and was described as in excellent condition. The second story was used for storage of hay and the first for corn and livestock.

Mr. Coward said approximately 75 barrels of corn and several tons of hay were destroyed.

With the utmost composure, Frank Flynn, 39-year-old garage manager, confessed, according to police, that he drowned Margaret Parlatto, 6, in a bathtub in an apartment house on Long Island, N. Y. Flynn denied he had assaulted the girl and said he had been in a daze and could not recall all the details. (Associated Press Photo)

FORMER WAR LEADER DEAD

General Charles Desaussure Dies at Memphis; Former Head of Confederates

Memphis, Tenn., May 3.—(AP)—General Charles A. Desaussure, former commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, died here today.

Despite his age, General Desaussure continued as an executive of the passenger department of the Southern Railway until the last frequently working late hours. His death occurred at his home at 5 a. m.

General Desaussure had looked forward with eagerness to the Confederate Reunion at Amarillo, Tex., and had been active in securing the convention city after other places were unable to make necessary financial arrangements.

"The veterans will continue reunions as long as there is a commander, an adjutant and two men to hold the meeting," he often said and this was his sentiment after he served with the army of the South in the War Between the States.

General Desaussure was 88 years old at the time of his death.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN

SHREDS: New York insiders who have followed Father Coughlin's activities closely predict his political venture will gradually deflate his influence as a tack deflates a tire. They point out that everything has broken right for him on his familiar radio ground. His mettle under fire has not been tested. Now he's in a notice in complicated game against astute and experienced opposition. It remains to be seen whether he can "take it" as well as dish it out—and some observers who know him well have their doubts.

Coughlin's announcement that he will retire to the role of "teacher and interpreter" when the National Union is organized—plus his abstinence from Milo Reno's Iowa party are taken as evidence that he realizes he has plunged too deeply into unknown waters and is trying to get back to shore. ### Hill Seeks Revival Of Liquor Measure

Raleigh, N. C., May 3.—(AP)—Based on the necessity of mustering a two-thirds majority favorable vote to revive the measure, Senator Sprunt Hill, of Durham, served notice on the Senate today he reserved the right to move for reconsideration of the vote by which the amended Day liquor bill was killed yesterday.

Senator Hill told the Associated Press he had been asked to make the motion by Senators who voted against the liquor store bill yesterday but added: "I don't have much stomach for the fight."

Late News Flashes

Many Bills Before Assembly
Raleigh, N. C., May 3.—(AP)—All kinds of legislation occupied the attention of the General Assembly today as the legislature continued work at a fast clip in the House of Representatives since the adjournment early next week. Close to one hundred bills were passed or killed in the first two hours' session of the Assembly as local and non-controversial legislation received consideration.

The House this afternoon passed and sent to the Senate the Page bill proposing the creation of a State prohibition enforcement bureau in the Governor's office.

The vote was 52 to 21 and many House members who voted for the liquor store bill which the Senate killed yesterday joined in backing the dry measure with assertions that the State should control illegal sale of whiskey if legal sales would not be counteracted.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a measure to permit persons to secure divorces after one party to the marriage has been insane for five years.

THREE DIE AS TRUCKS WRECK

North Carolina Men Killed in Collision Near Fredericksburg, Va., Today

Fredericksburg, Va., May 3.—(AP)—Three North Carolina men were killed near here today in a head-on collision between two North Carolina produce trucks.

The dead are Edgar Ezell and R. M. Hewitt, of Wilmington, and E. P. Fulghum, of Wilson.

The only survivors of the crash was Will Morris, of Wilson, who escaped with slight cuts.

A truck loaded with vegetables en route North and said to have contained Morris and Fulghum, collided here with the southbound truck said to have contained Ezell and Hewitt. Ezell and Fulghum were instantly killed and Hewitt died shortly after his removal to the Mary Washington Hospital here.

One of the trucks was owned by Ray M. Beck, of Wilmington.

Expect House To Back NRA

Washington, D. C., May 3.—(AP)—Roosevelt forces are relying heavily on the House of Representatives to approve their plans for preventing NRA from being shattered in Congress.

This became clear today as tentative strategy was outlined in authoritative circles.

Should the Senate pass the resolution to extend the recovery unit only until next April—as contrasted with the original plan of the administration to prolong it two years—the House would be counted on to pass the measure more satisfactorily to the White House.

Probe Killing Of Girl by Automobile

Kinston, N. C., May 3.—Sergeant Arthur Moore, of the State Highway Patrol, is investigating the killing of Doris Marie Mills, 18 months of age, near Pleasant Hill.

William Clem Jenkins, Jr., twenty-one, of Jones County, driver of a truck which struck the baby, told Moore he did not see her because he was keeping an eye on two small boys playing at the side of the road, in the center of which she was seated, playing. The boys, it developed, were his brothers. Jenkins did not know for some time that the accident had occurred.

The truck was overtaken by a man in an automobile who informed Jenkins of the accident. The youth came here and reported to Moore.

The baby was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mills, residing near Pleasant Hill.

NEW HEARING PLANNED FOR TAR PROJECT

Conference on Deepening River Channel Set For Washington After May 27th

A further hearing, before the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the Tar River project, involving the development from Washington to Greenville, will be held at Washington, D. C., shortly after May 27, according to notice just received at the offices of the Eastern North Carolina Association. No further postponement will be made and the association is now preparing the tonnage and the data which must be presented.

The local Tar River Committee met Monday at the association's offices to consider the various phases of the proposition and to agree upon procedure. The suggestion was advanced that in addition to the regular procedure the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, special efforts should be used to get the development adopted as a Federal relief project for the section.

After giving this phase of the matter careful consideration, Mrs. J. B. Spillman was unanimously elected vice-chairman of the committee which she has accepted, and has agreed to spend the necessary time in carrying on this work. Colonel E. G. Flanagan is chairman of the committee.

From information received from the Division Engineer's office and other reliable sources, the project would employ approximately 750 men for the first year and 500 men for the second year. The labor would be necessary for the building of dams, locks, wharves and such.

Official information has also been received to the effect that the river can be restored to its six-foot depth without Congressional action, provided assurance is made that it will be used. The estimated total cost of restoration would run around $75,000. Oil tankers, light barges and boats need only six feet of water but of course a six-foot depth of water will mean an average of eight feet the greater part of the year.

There is one thing certain and that is, that nothing will be left undone in the association's efforts to get this development either through the regular channels or as a Federal relief project. The committee members are very optimistic and well pleased with the fact that Mrs. Spillman has agreed to serve as vice-chairman of the committee.

FIRE LOSS IN APRIL HEAVY

Fire loss in Greenville during April was the heaviest of any previous month in three years, it was made known last night in the monthly report of George Gardner, chief of the fire department.

In his report to the Board of Aldermen, Gardner indicated that a total of six fires resulted in a loss of $76,000, the largest since the old Co-op tobacco warehouse was destroyed about three years ago.

The major part of the loss was represented in the first which destroyed the Winslow Company stables and other buildings in the western part of the city several nights ago and which also damaged the Center Brick Warehouse, Imperial Tobacco Company and one or two other nearby buildings. The loss of this fire alone was between $70,000 and $75,000. The remainder of the fires, Gardner said, were of minor importance and resulted in only small loss.

The Greenville fire loss has been dropping gradually for the last three years, and last year it was only slightly above the $20,000 mark. Had it not been for the efficiency of the local department and aid from Washington and Farmville, it is believed the loss several nights ago would have been doubled or even tripled.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

There was almost a quorum of the House membership present in the Senate chamber as the Senate killed the liquor control bill. In fact, the Lower House had a difficult time trying to transact business because of the deserters who had gone across the rotunda to hear and watch the Senators as they debated and voted.

Best crack pulled during the debate was that by Senator Burrus, High Point, medicine: "There's a woman in my county who signed a Petrus testimonial in which she declared, 'I used to weigh 89 pounds but after taking Petrus I now weigh 120 pounds.'" Fellow-senators, that woman now has nerve enough to write to me and ask that I vote against the Day bill."

Aldermen Authorize $100,000 Bond Issue For Power Expansion

The Board of Aldermen meeting in regular monthly session at the city hall last night authorized the Water and Light Commission to issue $100,000 in bonds for the purpose of completing an expansion program started in 1927.

The board passed an ordinance to this effect and then clothed Mayor R. C. Flanagan with authority to affix his signature to a hundred bonds of $1,000 denomination.

The action of the board will now be submitted for approval to the Local Government, Commission at Raleigh, and the bonds probably will be offered for sale within thirty days.

Completion of the program at the $2,500,000 power plant located on Tar River has been under discussion between the aldermen and members of the commission for the last month or so; but last night was the first time any definite action was taken.

The proposal was first submitted through Martin Swartz, superintendent of the commission, who declared completion of the expansion program was absolutely imperative if the city continues to render the same high type of service to power consumers.

He pointed out that the commission planned to retire the bonds within the next fifteen years out of its own earnings. No increase in tax rate, it was explained, will be necessary under the plan.

Swartz told the board the improvement would consist of a turbine room and extensions for the electric light plant, and the erection (Continued on Page Two)

OPENING DATE OF POOL TO BE SET TOMORROW

Although the Board of Aldermen last night failed to set the date for the opening of the municipal swimming pool, the swimming pool committee agreed to meet Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the City Hall for the purpose of settling this matter.

The committee also will work out a schedule of rates for season tickets.

The committee was authorized at a previous session of the board to handle the matter, but weather conditions have been so unfavorable that action was delayed until the weather man decided to hand out something better for this form of recreation.

It was at first thought the pool might be thrown open by May 1, but it now looks as if it will be the middle of the month before such can be accomplished.

George Clark, who has been in charge of getting the pool in shape for the opening, told the board last night everything was in readiness awaiting the pleasure of the committee.

The pool was opened the latter part of last year and swimmers were able to enjoy it only for about a month before weather conditions became unfavorable for this form of recreation.

In addition to the pool, a public park and playground have been provided for the recreation of the citizenship during the hot summer months and supervised play will be open to kiddies of the city. The park is located on a hillside overlooking the pool and will provide a splendid vantage point for those seeking rest from the hot summer days in addition to watching swimmers in the pool below.

Registration Books For City Election to Close Tomorrow Evening

Registration books for the municipal election to be held here next Monday will close tomorrow afternoon at sundown and persons desiring to vote have been urged to see that they are properly registered.

Persons who did not vote in the last election and those who have moved into different wards since that time will be required to register.

Mrs. L. W. Gaylord, registrar, will be found at the City Hall today and tomorrow. She has been stationed in all sections of the city during the past month, giving citizens in all wards an opportunity to register. The purpose of the election is to select a mayor and six members to the Board of Aldermen. Two members of the board do not come up for election this time. They are Mrs. J. L. Hassell and Joseph M. Taft. There is no contest in the mayoralty field. Mayor R. C. Flanagan is seeking re-election for his third term.

The only contest that had developed when candidate's registration books closed the middle of the week was in the Second and Fourth Wards. In the Second, Vernon Parrish is opposed by C. B. Rowlett and in the Fourth, J. H. Boyd is faced by A. C. Tadlock. Parrish and Boyd are the present incumbents.

In the other three wards, H. H. Duncan, A. E. Hobcock, Dr. M. B. Massey and L. B. Fleming are sailing along without competition.

The balloting will be conducted at the courthouse and a force of five has been named by the Board of Aldermen to handle the election.

GORDON WILL OPEN REVIVAL HERE MAY 12

Noted Layman to Appear at Memorial Baptist Church Thru May 16th

S. D. Gordon, widely known Baptist layman, will begin a series of revival services at Memorial Baptist Church here May 12. The services will continue through May 16.

Dr. Gordon is known in many sections of the county as an author and speaker of great power and announcement of his coming here several weeks ago was received with interest by members of the congregation and the public generally.

Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of the local church, said today: "It is with a distinct sense of pleasure that Memorial Baptist Church presents to out-of-town and community S. D. Gordon. Mr. Gordon's stay in our community will be short, and therefore an opportunity that will quickly pass."

Mr. Gordon is best known as the author of the "Quiet Talks" series of little books on the personal Christian life, and on world conditions. There are some twenty-odd volumes in the series, entitled as follows:

Quiet Talks on the New Order of Things.
Quiet Talks on Difficult Questions.
Quiet Talks on the Bible Story.
Quiet Talks on How to Pray.
Quiet Talks About the Crisis and After.
Quiet Talks About Simple Essentials.
Quiet Talks About Life After Death.

Quiet Talks on John's Gospel.
Quiet Talks About the Crowned Christ of the Revelation.
Quiet Talks on "Following the Christ."
Quiet Talks About Our Lord's Return.

Quiet Talks About the Temple.
Quiet Talks With World Winners.
Quiet Talks on Personal Problems.

Quiet Talks About Jesus.
Quiet Talks on Home Ideals.
Quiet Talks on Service.
Quiet Talks on Prayer.
Quiet Talks on Power.

Of these volumes one writes: "They are really 'quiet talks' and yet with all their sweetness and gentleness, so clear, powerful and convincing that one rises from his reading with a feeling that he has drunk deeply of a draught that has strengthened his soul for the combat of life."

The latest volume from this author's pen is just issuing from the press, under the title "Quiet Talks With Eager Youth." There are some two million of these books in circulation in English and twenty foreign translations.

Mr. Gordon has recently returned from Geneva, where he sat in the press gallery of the League of Nations during its annual session. The impressions gotten there naturally color his talks on present world conditions.

Mr. Gordon has had two rather extended speaking journeys in the British Isles, continental countries, and Asia. During one of these journeys he spoke almost daily through interpretation for nearly three years.

While here in Greenville Mr. Gordon will present the following messages:
Sunday, May 12: "The Hungry Heart of God and 'How a Staid Community Was Gently Shaken Up.'"
At the morning services the general topic of "Prayer" will be discussed as follows:

"Does Prayer Ever Change Anything?"
"Why Prayer Doesn't Change Things Sometimes."
"How to Make Sure Prayer Will Change Things Everytime."
"Can We Pray for the Conversion of Loved Ones and Is It Fair to Them?"

In the evening hours Mr. Gordon's Messages will be:
"An Old Portrait of God Restored."
"The First Page of Genesis—the Earliest and Tenderest Portrait of God."
"Have You Ever Spent a Day With . . . God?"
"The Present Troubles Wound Outlook."

A most cordial invitation is extended to the churches and people of our community to share these blessings with us.

Glasgow.—(AP)—Defying a jinx of these, a new cargo vessel launched here has been christened "Marina." She is the fourth ship to bear the name, all the others having met with disaster.

The first of them, a Donaldson liner, was torpedoed in 1910 near Fastnet with a loss of eighteen seamen. The survivors, including several Americans, spent thirty hours in open boats in a turbulent sea before being picked up. The episode resulted in one of the strongest notes from Washington to Germany of that period of the war.

Plays With Matches, Sets House on Fire

New Bern, N. C., May 3.—Playing with matches Wednesday, Tommy Robinson, seven-year-old son of Mrs. M. L. Nickels, set fire accidentally to an upholstered chair in his apartment of the Henry house here, but prompt action from the fire department limited the damage to only one corner of the living-room. The little boy suffered a burn on one leg, but this was no serious. He had been sick and was remaining home for the day with a servant. The burned chair was ruined, and a radio was scorched. Smoke and chemical damage was reported for the one corner in the room. No water had to be used to extinguish the blaze. Insurance was carried on the house by Thomas Henry, of Chapel Hill, the owner, and on the furnishing by Mrs. Mary B. Shenk, owner, of Kingston.

Robbers Take Safe And $100 in Cash

New Bern, N. C., May 3.—Unidentified robbers broke into the store of B. C. Peterson at Vanceboro early this morning, carrying away by truck a 600-pound safe containing around $100 in cash and a number of valuable papers and records. The theft is thought to have occurred between 4 o'clock when the night watchman left the streets and 5 o'clock when Mr. Peterson arrived to open his store. He found the back door open, an investigation showed that the robbers had forced up a window an then unbarred the rear door from the inside. No clue of the identity of the robbers was left behind, but officers were making every effort to try to trace them. No merchandise was missed from the store and no other establishment in Vanceboro was robbed.

(Continued From Page One) of a half million gallon storage reservoir and main and fire hydrant extensions for the water department. He said $75,000 would be required for the improvements to the electric light plant and $25,000 for the water department.

The improvement program was started at the municipally-owned plant in 1927 and had to be abandoned later because of the depression and the unusual situation confronting the financial field.

It was understood that work has already been started and will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible. It will give Greenville one of the finest plants in this immediate section of the State and enable the commission to keep pace with the rapid growth of the community and accompanying demands made upon the plant.

All members of the board were present and voted in favor of the proposal with J. H. Boyd, Jr., alderman from the Fourth Ward, casting the only dissenting vote. He declared the improvement should be financed some other way than through the sale of bonds. He preferred that the improvement be made gradually as funds become available and that the tax rate be increased, if necessary, to accomplish this purpose.

In addition to discussion of this matter, the board also dealt with several other questions in connection with operation of the city government. Mayor R. C. Flanagan, who has been recuperating from illness in a Moore County hospital the last few weeks, presided over the session last night. While not completely recovered, he was considerably improved, and was greeted with hearty handshakes and words of encouragement from members of the board.

A committee from the Chamber of Commerce, headed by R. L. Powell, secretary, called the board's attention to need of additional fire hose, and the fire committee was authorized to buy 1,000 feet of hose and other equipment regarded as absolutely necessary to the efficiency of the department. Other members of the Chamber committee were C. Heber Forbes, Zack Vandyke and L. B. Garriss.

George Gardner, chief of the fire department, explained the department previously had had 3,000 feet of hose, but that several links gave way in the fire which threatened a section of tobacco town several nights ago, leaving only about 2,500 feet on hand at this time. A. E. Hobgood, chairman of the fire committee, said he found additional hose was needed and recommended the purchase of 1,000 feet now and another 1,000 feet around the first of the year.

John Warner, operator of a colored movie house here, asked for permission to conduct a Sunday show, but was flatly refused.

After receiving three petitions for paving in the western part of the city, Mayor Flanagan was authorized to name a committee to investigate the chance of obtaining a government grant for the purpose. Recommendations by L. B. Fleming, chairman of the cemetery committee, regarding improvements at Greenwood Cemetery, were accepted by the board.

Mrs. Alex Viola, who sometime ago was named a pollholder for the municipal election to be held here Monday, informed the board she would not be able to serve, and J. C. Tyson was named in her place. Mrs. Butner was also selected as an additional helper, bringing the total election force to five. George Clark, who has had charge of improvements at the new municipal and recreational center, explained the college had requested that a fence be built between the college property and the playground, and the board authorized the park committee to obtain a suitable fence.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vim

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... an old prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Science Club Holds Open House

The mazes of science in its many aspects, from the tiny germs and beginnings of life as seen through the microscope and the planets in the vast heavens viewed through the telescope, were revealed in a most impressive way last night through exhibits and demonstrations by the young scientists belonging to the Science Club of East Carolina Teachers College who held Open House for the public.

The first two floors of the Science Building were thronged between the hours of seven and ten. By request the time was extended through today so groups from the schools could view the exhibits. All the science classes from the high school, many of the grades from the public schools in the town, and some groups from schools in the county, have kept the guides and demonstrators busy all day.

Naturally, the mechanical man with the circulatory system and a tank supplying the fluid, was a center of interest all the evening. This was made entirely by Jack Humphrey from Beaver bog and glass tubing. The human skeleton was put together by John Blanchard, from parts donated to the Biology Department. Vital life processes which are the same in plants as in animals, were shown by charts, drawings and experiments by Oscar Speed.

Plants, flowers, and leaf skeletons were shown in plaster plaques, ink prints, blue prints, soot prints, and leaf prints. Numerous bird houses displayed by Sherman Smith, and means of attracting birds to the home gave practical suggestions. A table on which there was an attractive lay-out of a model house and grounds, with the equipment fitted in properly, had a system for sanitary sewage disposal in country homes, with or without electricity.

Soap-making, by Ruby Lee Peacock, Frasch processes of obtaining sulphur, by Miss Elizabeth D. Johnson, and the synthesis of water, by Charles Cobb, were among the demonstrations in the Chemistry laboratory.

In the Physics laboratory, experiments in heat and light, vacuum, telegraphy, and electricity were made by groups of students.

Nature study was presented in one room by plants and flowers in attractive arrangements and groupings by seasons, and by cases of insects.

In Bacteriology, the disease producing bacteria were shown in clay models made by the Grant twins, and the vaccines and serums were given. It was also seen that many bacteria are of value to industry such as dairying and making of cheese.

The three money crops of Eastern Carolina, tobacco, corn and cotton, with their by-products were graphically shown.

In plant life, among other interesting exhibits were those of wild flowers of Eastern Carolina and flower booklets; samples of the evolution of plants, products of plant life; modified plants and their organs; various parts of plants, and fungus plants.

In physiology, were shown the evolution of the processes of reproduction; maps and charts showing the elements composing the human body, the actual value of these elements revealing the cost as $69.49; the processes of digestion and respiration from the lower animals up to man; and exhibits of actual food classified according to vitamins. Of value to housewives were the methods of food preservation.

Cases of minerals found in this state, maps and charts showing soil erosion and methods of prevention, and the uses of the silicates, including glass-making were demonstrated by students.

Balanced aquariums, terrariums, snaileries and anthouses gave suggestions for practical use.

A number of commercial displays, such as pine tree products, patent medicines, corn products, ceramics, and the commercial uses of the elements were assembled by students. The girls hovered over the display of the history of cosmetics.

The amazing amount of work and excellent quality done by the students of the Science Department of the College was shown by the splendid demonstrations and graphic exhibits displayed at their Open House meeting. The entire exhibit presents projects made by individual students or groups of students in connection with their work in science supplementing the general class work. The Science club will perhaps hereafter make this an annual feature on their program.

The board of aldermen last night ordered the immediate purchase of a thousand feet of new fire hose for this city and indicated that at a later date more hose would be added to the firefighting equipment here. The fire here early last week that for a time threatened a whole block in the tobacco section clearly emphasized the need for more hose and it is gratifying that the city board is losing no time in adding this necessary equipment. We have a good fire company but certainly it cannot do its job like it should be done if handicapped by lack of firefighting apparatus.

RIVER PROJECT NOT DEAD

Despite the fact that resident engineers gave an unfavorable report on the movement here to have the government provide a ten foot channel on Tar River up to Greenville the project is not yet a dead issue and even if we do not get the full ten feet desired there is great probability that ere long Greenville will have water transportation facilities if we are of a mind to take advantage of them. A hearing on the movement for the ten foot channel is scheduled before the full board of army engineers in Washington the latter part of this month or early in June but interested parties here have been informed that even if this hearing results in another unfavorable report, a six foot channel is already provided for Greenville under a former war department ruling and that the government would make this depth immediately available if we could show that we wanted to use the river for commerce. Tobacco shipments out of this city alone are enough to justify even the ten foot channel so we see no reason why the movement should not be a success.

Even Coughlin's supporters agree a large proportion of the disappointingly small audience was what T. R. Senior used to call a "two-headed calf crowd"—curiosity seekers. The informed say the real purpose behind the National Union is not the launching of an authentic political party—but the waging of a club with which to compel President and Congress to follow Coughlin's path. No one knows better than the Radio Priest that a third party would squarely into the hands of those who hate the most—conservative Republicans. There are signs that the bludgeon

ENEMY'S KISS

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede goes to a country house outside London to meet her father, ostensibly at his request. But the house is deserted, and Alison is suddenly confronted by a horrible creature with a head like a skull. She runs from him, and is stopped by a personable young man with whom she has some acquaintance. They have a talk, and Alison cannot understand who there are not, at least, servants in the house of her father intended to meet her there.

Chapter Five ABOUT MR. REDE

BUT then the whole thing was so good?
When her father had first written to say that he meant to leave London and look for a house in the country, he had sketched an outline of the kind of place he wanted, and mentioned Oxfordshire as a likely spot, since his fiancée, Mrs. Sumers, wanted to hunt.

A golf course not more than a few miles off, some rough shooting, a good tennis court, gardens, nothing too large but room enough to put up Alison's friends—she had read that part of the letter with a smile, for it was like her father to want "very thing and want it just so!

In the very first few moments in side this house, she had thought it lonely being like himself, he was longing to meet Alison, who would be sure to love her—ten pages of his neat, sloping hand bubbling over with his new found love.

Alison had felt rather ashamed of not sharing his delight. She had genuinely tried to feel pleased but it was too difficult. They had been so happy together; she and her father, in the holidays, had had such fun! The thought of this third person made her afraid.

What would Mrs. Sumers be like? Would she understand their small jokes, their hobbies, the deep love between them—or would she try to cut in?

A widow might mean anything—forty—fifty—perhaps twenty! Her father gave her no inkling Alison telling herself that she was being selfish, had tried to write back warmly, and had failed. They had planned so much together for this year when she left school and now? She had ended by sending a telegram of congratulation.

A serious and thoughtful girl, older than her age although a retroussé nose and round, child-like face made her look younger, she had spent thirty-six apprehensive hours travelling from Switzerland to Dover, determined that whatever strange that he should take anything quite so small, so dingy and shabbily furnished, for Robert Rede, if not rich in the sense of millions, was comfortably wealthy and Alison's home in London was ble. well furnished and well-run.

Travel, good hotels, a good cook and a good school for his only child—her father had never stunted himself in any of these ways and Alison had wondered as she flashed her torch into room after room whether this lonely little old house up on the Sussex Downs had been chosen for him by the stepmother-to-be whom she had never met.

If so, she thought, her father would be terribly disappointed! He had always been fussy about details and by no stretch of imagination could the girl conceive his liking this house or coming here to picnic in it all alone.

Very odd; yet the telegram—that she had received only a few minutes before leaving her school in Lausanne had been perfectly clear.

"CANNOT meet you as arranged. Come direct the Croft House, Warley, Sussex, not later than eleven. If I am late, wait there for me. Father."

Allison wished now that she had kept the wire instead of tearing it up. Her boat did not get into Dover until eight; by catching the very next train, she reached Warley by 10:35.

The chauffeur of the car which she hired at the station did not know her father's name but seemed to know the house quite well, and spoke of it as having been sold recently; but the man had made rather a fuss over the six-mile drive so late at night and had dumped Alison's luggage in the porch sullenly, without waiting to see her inside the house before he started up and drove away.

All very strange and very disturbing. But then she had been disturbed too by the news contained in her father's long letter, which had come two days before that cryptic telegram.

Engaged to a widow whom he had met out in the south of France, the most charming, the most sympathetic person he had ever met! A she herself felt, she would not let it show or cloud her father's happiness.

After all, if she did not like her stepmother, it would be easy to get a job, with the allowance which her father gave her she could afford to do unpaid work for charity. She had worked herself up to a point when her love for her father had swallowed every other feeling when, dismounting in the darkness and the rain, she had stood in the porch of this house, ringing the bell.

And now. "It's funny." In those two words she framed all her doubts of the telegram, his letter and this queer arrival. Her father, who had always been so careful, even fussy, for her safety!

The man beside her had been watching her face anxiously and now he said quickly, "By the way, I looked up in the attic while you were in the bath. If your friend the beauty champion's up there he must be hiding in the water tank and laying up enough pneumonia to keep him quiet for months."

"I don't understand it," Alison was frowning. "He must be hiding somewhere in the house. . . ."

"Assuming that you really saw him."

"Oh, I did! He kept shoving against the door, trying to get in! Besides I couldn't have imagined anything so—so beastly!"

The young man frowned.

"Hm. Well, he's not in this house now. We've been over every inch of it, haven't we?"

"Yes—yes. . . ."

"Well then, obviously, he's gone. You'll admit that."

He was arguing with her fears gently, as one reasons with a child.

"Yes. But I saw him."

The young man's eyes twinkled.

"You passed out, you know, for about two minutes and I was pretty busy bringing you round. You also let out a yell that was enough to scare the dead. Sorry, but you know what I mean. Don't you think your friend may've taken the hint and cleared?"

Allison doubts, tomorrow, her rescuer.

New Deal chief.

Bankers also found grounds for hope that Federal Reserve reform legislation will be softened. The President said that the Federal Reserve system must be brought up to date—but he wasn't at all specific on details. He left a distinct impression here that he is willing to listen to reason.

COMPLICATIONS: Foreign repercussions to our silver policy are likely to give the administration several new headaches before the end of the chapter. Mexico, for instance, stands to collect about 15 per cent of her total budget from taxes on silver produced within her borders and sold for more than 65 cents an ounce. That's fine—but this business of having to revamp the country's entire currency system in a hurry to stop ruinous hoarding may cause serious trouble.

Mexico will probably call in all silver pesos and go on a paper standard with the theoretical redemption. That isn't so simple when you're dealing with a largely uneducated population naive enough to think that moolay should be left alone. It's swell ammunition for the Catholics in their fight on the present government—especially in the rural sections.

Mexico's grief is no skin off our ears now—but resulting Mexican resentment at the Yankee collusion for necessitating this readjustment is likely to return to plague us later if Mexico can find a chance to give it practical expression.

Legislative Rambling

Continued from Page One) State stores system. As the Senate debated the Day bill, a telegram arrived from Durham for "Senator R. L. Coleman." It was intended, of course, for Sen. B. L. Coburn, of Martin County. There is no Coleman in either branch of the General Assembly.

Senator Thomas H. Steele, of Iredell, author of several bone-dry articles, prohibition lecturer and whom the North Carolina Manual describes as self-educated, had a terrible time trying to make a speech against the Day bill. Almost before he could complete a sentence after being once interrupted, he was interrupted all over again.

In the Senate lobby as the bill was debated and killed stood Cale Burgess, United Dry generalissimo for North Carolina. He was plainly irritated at the repeated interruptions of Senator Steele. But that the liberals weren't bent on heckling every dry Senator was plain. Mecklenburg's Senator Bell, who has the respect of his colleagues, was permitted to make his speech against the bill without being interrupted even once. After the balloting Burgess was jubilant.

The liquor control bills are definitely dead so far as this General Assembly is concerned. After the Senate had beaten the Day bill Senator Horton, of Chatham, successfully moved considerable maneuvering for a consideration of the vote carried. Under Senate rules when such action is taken no similar bill or any bill which contains any provisions of the bill thus killed may be considered during the session. Only by a two-thirds vote could the measure be reconsidered. And the liberals can't muster a two-thirds majority—they could not even muster a majority.

Popular fancy doesn't run to appropriations bill, one of the two most important bills to be enacted by a General Assembly, the other being a revenue act. As proof of it the Senate's huge gallery deserted it immediately after the Day liquor bill was beaten, although the very next thing to be done by the Senate was to accept the conference report on the $65,000,000 appropriations bill. And they deserted in spite of the fact that each spectator will be re-

It Has Helped Thousands

Men and women who are occasionally upset by constipation in one way or another, such as sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, poor appetite, gas pains, will obtain refreshing relief by taking Theodor's Black-Draught.

"I found I had to have something for constipation for it was making me feel dull and tired," writes Mr. J. L. Brittan, of McAdenville, N. C. "I had heard so much about Black-Draught, I began taking it, and after a dose or two of Black-Draught I feel fine."

quired to pay some part of that $65,000,000 in taxes of one form or another. Earlier in the day the Senate had passed the revenue bill on its third reading, thus making it the law of the commonwealth for the next two years beginning July 1. Not a gallery eyelid flickered as it was O. K'd. Only when liquor came before the Senate did the spectators live up.

More and more talk is being circulated about a special session of the Legislature this fall. Every session the same talk is circulated, but no special session has been called since 1924. The gabbers are saying that a special session will be called to enact social legislation, raise more revenue, do this and that. The truth of the matter is, that many of the talkers would enjoy another stay in Raleigh next autumn. Chances of a special session are, however, slight.
