EIGHT PERISH FROM FLAMES AT FARM HOME

Eight Children Burn To Death in Gaston County Fire

ORIGIN OF BLAZE NOT DETERMINED

Children Ranged in Ages From One To 19 Years; Parents Escape Death

Alexis, N. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cunningham, farm couple, were burned to death here early today when flames swept the two-story dwelling they rented on the Stroup farm.

The ages of the children ranged from a few months to 19 years. The bodies were removed later in the morning, but most of them had been charred beyond recognition.

Alexis is a small community three miles from Stanley and about 15 miles from Gastonia.

Trapped and fatally burned in the blaze were Robert Cunningham, 19, Louise, 7, Nellie, 12, Thomas, 15, Grace, 10, Jack, 2, Juanita, 4, and Ruth one.

Clyde Burke of Gastonia, brother-in-law of Mrs. Jenny Cunningham, mother of the children, told an Associated Press reporter at the scene of the fire this morning that Mrs. Cunningham and her husband both suffered burns themselves but were not seriously hurt.

Burke said Mrs. Cunningham saw two of her children in the burning room where seven of them were sleeping together, but flames drove her back when she attempted to rescue them.

She and her husband escaped through a back door. The youngest child, Ruth, was sleeping with her but also perished. She was surrounded by a wall of flames, it was said.

Coroner Kincaid said he considered an inquest unnecessary. Origin of the blaze was undetermined. It was thought to have originated in the upper part of the house. The family was sleeping on the first floor.

Sick Leave Wanted For State Teachers Ill For Five Days

School Commission Says No Money For Leave With Pay Unless Salaries Are Reduced

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 13.—The present petition to compel the State Commission to grant five days sick leave with pay to all teachers who are sick for five days or less during the school year, may prove to be a boomerang, it is being pointed out here.

Those who know the facts say that the only reason the School Commission decided that this sick leave could not be granted this year was because there was no money available with which to pay it, unless it took it out of the salaries of all the teachers. The commission felt it would not be fair to reduce the salaries of all the teachers to provide sick leave for the small number of teachers who might be sick and eligible for the sick leave.

So it decided it would be better to let all the teachers get their full salaries, including the 20 per cent increase, and to continue to let the teachers who are sick pay their substitutes themselves.

But because of the furore which has been raised over the decision by the school commission not to allow sick leave this year because of the lack of funds, an intimation was heard today that the commission may decide to grant the sick leave by reducing the salaries of all the teachers enough to provide the money needed to grant this five-days-with-pay to teachers who may become sick.

Most circles here agree that the sick leave question is being used as a political smoke screen by Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin with which to stir up opposition among the school teachers against the school commission and thus ward off criticism for the failure of the school forces to get an appropriation of $22,000,000 during the 1935 general assembly instead of an appropriation of only $20,000,000 for this year. If the larger appropriation had been obtained the teachers could have had the sick leave in addition to a salary boost of 25 per cent instead of only 20 per cent. But since the general assembly failed to appropriate enough money for all these objects, the school commission contends it has no other course to follow, since it cannot spend money it does not have.

Reports Filed for Violators Of Drivers License Law

Names of Those Convicted To Be Forwarded To Highway Safety Division In Raleigh To Be Compiled For Use Of All Law Enforcement Officers

The first report of court cases of violation of the new North Carolina driver's license law was on file in the Eastern Division of the Highway Patrol here today and will be forwarded to the Division of Highway Safety at Raleigh.

The list was of persons convicted in County Court here yesterday, in which the licenses were revoked for a stated period of time.

The names of persons convicted of violation of the driver's license laws will be compiled in Raleigh and made public records. Serious consideration is being given the plan of publishing all names of violators.

All Highway Patrolmen and other officers throughout the state will be furnished with names of persons whose license have been revoked.

Lieut. Lester Jones, head of this division of the Patrol, said a much better check on persons who are driving cars in violation of sentences could be made under the new set up.

Anyone driving after having his license revoked would be guilty of contempt of court and subject to a fine up to $500, and imprisonment up to 12 months with the automatic revocation of his license for 12 months from the date of the violation of the sentence.

The driver's license law provides that whenever a person is convicted of any violation of the motor vehicle laws of this state, a notation of such violation shall be entered by the court upon the license of the person, the license to be surrendered and forwarded to the Patrol division. A record of the person convicted is also required to be forwarded to the Division.

The first report to be received by the Highway Division here bears the names of W. A. Thomas of Greenville, Mance Gorham of Fountain, Roger Owens of Fountain and Jesse Wainwright of Greenville.

With the exception of Owens, who was convicted of reckless driving, all of the violators were convicted of drunken driving.

A. AND N. C. ROAD APPEALS

State-owned Railroad Asks Permission to Resume Lines

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to resume operation of 96 miles of its line in North Carolina.

The lines traversed the counties of Carteret, Craven, Jones, Lenoir and Wayne and is owned by the State of North Carolina. The application said present conditions require continued operation of the railroad for the public welfare.

PRESIDENT ASKS LOW INTERESTS ON BANK RESERVE

Washington, Nov. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed hope today that interest rates would be lowered so as to make large bank reserves more useful in the drive for recovery.

Talking with newspapermen the President agreed that expanded bank portfolios would play a very essential part in recovery if properly used.

He added if this money were not used in a reasonable way the large deposits would slow up recovery.

The President said he did believe that the old "pirate rates" which revealed in the south and west for years had been largely eliminated.

Asked if bank examiners were complaining to bankers against real estate loans, he replied that he thought this was the only case where banks had excessive loans of this kind.

Jerry, 16 months old, rides in the family car, in elevators, eats steak and gravy and drinks ice tea, romps with the Barwick cats and dogs, and swims with the children in the pool.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker
SQUEEZE. "Quarterback" Roosevelt executed a slick lateral pass against the public utilities, with Premier King of Canada on the receiving end, at their White House powwow. The appointment list on the press bulletin board innocently announced "3 p. m.—Premier King for tea." Secretary Early broadcast that the executives would talk trade treaty.

But those in the know wondered why Frank P. Walsh was recalled to a Washington tea party from San Francisco, where he has been striving to pry Tom Mooney out of the New York Power Authority and the President's adviser on development of the St. Lawrence power project. What really happened in that the lawyer submitted a brand new scheme for ending the deadlock over a power-and-navigation treaty. Mr. Roosevelt asked his eminent house guest to think it over.

Mr. Roosevelt applied the squeeze to other people—though they may not know it yet—besides the Canadian visitor. Earlier on the same day he called in Gov. Bran of Maine, whose handling of the Passamaquoddy problem has secretly displeased Washington. It may have been only coincidence but it recalled frequent suggestions that there may not be sufficient market for power if both the New York and New England projects are completed.

PAY ROLL DATE NEARS IN S. C.

Financial Crisis Impends in Highway Affairs

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A new financial crisis impended in the state highway affairs today as Gov. Olin Johnson's militia-made road regime approached another pay roll date with most of its funds tied up by injunctions.

Approximately $25,000 in salaries of employees of the state offices here comes due Friday and between $40,000 and $45,000 more is due maintenance employees over the State a week later.

Nearly all cash on hand was dispersed to meet a semi-monthly pay roll beginning November 3, however, and licenses paid by checks and money orders, by a large volume lately have been held up.

Attorney General J. M. Daniel has prepared a petition for the court to release approximately $500,000 needed by state treasurer E. P. Miller to meet highway bond obligations.

Highway funds in banks were frozen by temporary injunction which counsel for the Johnston board sought to have dissolved at the outset of litigation over the highway coupe Monday. The court has not indicated its course.

Mrs. Kirkman Dies At Home in Ayden

Ayden, Nov. 13.—Mrs. J. W. Kirkman, 77, of Gardner's Cross Roads, who died at her home at 7:45 a. m. yesterday, was buried at 2:30 p. m. today in the Riverside Cemetery near Griffin.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Brunson, pastor of the Disciple Church, Ayden. She is survived by her husband, John W. Kirkman; 4 sons, Walter Kirkman of Hopewell, Va., Hugh, of Fort Barnwell, Alonzo, of Pollockville; and Owen Kirkman at the home place; 4 daughters; Mrs. Joe Garris of High Point; Mrs. Joe Rouse of Fort Barnwell; Mrs. Ashley Bachelor of Tarboro; Mrs. Alfonso Hart, Washington, N. C. 70 grand-children and 11 great-grandchildren.

For a number of years Mrs. Kirkman has been an active member of the Christian church.

Texas Officials Refuse to Condemn Lynchers of Two

County Attorney Says It Was "Will Of The People"

Columbus, Texas, Nov. 13.—(AP)—County Attorney O. P. Moore said today he believed the lynching of two youthful negroes by a mob of 700 persons including several women, on a farm near here last night was "an expression of the will of the people."

Two Negroes Alleged To Have Confessed To Criminal Attack and Murder

The mob seized Ernest Collins, 13, and Bennie Mitchell, 16, who assertedly had confessed the criminal attack and subsequent drowning of Miss Geraldine C. Koolmann, high school honor graduate, from officers and left them dangling from a live oak tree near the home.

"I cannot call the citizens who executed the negroes a mob," said Moore. "I consider their actions an expression of the will of the people."

County Judge H. P. Hahn said, however: "I am strongly opposed to mob violence and favor orderly process of the law. The fact that the negroes who so brutally murdered Miss Koolmann could not be adequately punished by law because of their ages prevent me from condemning those citizens who meted out justice to the ravishing murderers last night."

At Austin, James V. Allred said he did not know the facts, but he thought of lynching as "despicable" at any time.

Navin, Owner Of Detroit Baseball Club, Dies Today

Detroit, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Frank J. Navin, 64, owner of the world championship Detroit Tigers ball club, died today within an hour after he fell from a horse at the Detroit riding and hunting club. It was not determined immediately whether death was due to a heart attack or to injuries suffered in the fall from the horse.

The ninth rector of the 200-year-old St. Phillips parish, oldest Episcopal congregation in Charleston, S. C., is the Rev. Merritt F. Williams, until recently student chaplain at the University of Florida.

Alabama Delegates To Democratic Conv.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The State Democratic executive committee today elected Gov. Bibb Graves, United States Senators Hugo Black and John Bankhead, and John D. McQueen, its chairman, as delegates from the state at large to lead a delegation to the 1936 Democratic national convention "to give President Roosevelt four years additional term of office."

Tobacco Control Sign-Up Nears 100 Per Cent Here

Only 16 Of 2,785 Tobacco Growers in County Have Not Signed Agreements and Several of This Number Expected to Sign Later

E. F. Arnold, Pitt County Farm Agent, today reported that out of 2,785 tobacco control act contracts in the county, only 16 growers have failed to sign the agreements. This means that 99 per cent of the growers in the county have signed the contracts.

The county agent also explained that two of the non-signers in the county, the North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank and the Metropolitan Life Insurance company had promised to have their tenants sign the contracts as soon as they rented their farms about the first of the year. Counting these two land owners in the list of signers the percentage amounts to about 99 1-2 per cent.

He also added that some of the hold-outs were due to a desire on the part of the growers to secure an increase in the allotments and that other farmers were absent from the county at present.

In at least one case, also, that of the Standard Fertilizer company, it was understood the land had not been sold. This, however, had not been established and the name of the purported purchaser was not known. This tract will probably be included in the contracted land.

According to records in the county agent's office, the following growers, by townships, have not as yet signed contracts for 1936-39: Chicod: Mrs. Marshall J. Cox, W. Claude Smith, Luther F. Smith, Pictouls: I. W. Elks, H. C. Clemmons.

Belvoir: J. B. Bullock, Mrs. Rebecca H. Tyson, N. C. Joint Stock Land Bank, Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Greenville: J. I. Allen, Robert H. Tripp.

Bethel: Standard Fertilizer Company, D. S. Harper. Fountain: Lester E. Barrett. Swift Creek: Chris P. Moore. Winterville: D. J. Branch. Carrola, Beaver Dam, Falkland, Farmville and Ayden townships signed up 100 per cent.

Arnold explained that only a few of those who had not signed, had deliberately refused to do so, blaming procrastination or some other cause as resulting in the one per cent not having signed the agreements.

NO GAIN MADE LEAF AVERAGE BY M'DONALD LOW TUESDAY

Candidate Fails To Make Much Impression in East

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 13.—Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, the flashy quarterback for the anti-sales tax football team who has been making some good gains in the gubernatorial football game now in progress, ran into a stone wall and was unable to gain either through the line or around the line in his most recent effort to tear off some yardage in the north-eastern part of the state, according to reports reaching here today.

The result of McDonald's invasion of Gates and other eastern counties during the past few days is that he is distinctly weaker there than before he went there, according to those who have been checking up on the results of his visit.

Both Clyde R. Hoey and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham have also been in the same section within the last week or two and both made a very good impression, according to reports.

McDonald rubbed his hearers and those with whom he talked the wrong way by presuming too much upon their ignorance and by what they considered his supercilious and condescending manner, according to several here who have been up in that section since his recent speech in Sunbury, Gates county.

"McDonald made his customary speech in which he charged that the sales tax was enacted for no other reason than to prevent the bondholders and bankers from losses on North Carolina bonds, and his other charges against the present administration," one man who has just returned from that section said today. "But the people in these counties are just about as intelligent as any in the state and know just about as much about the state government as any one, including Dr. McDonald. They also know Governor Ehringhaus, who used to practice law in that section."

As a result, McDonald's speech not only fell flat, but really had a negative effect as far as his campaign for Governor is concerned. It just did not go over."

Oklahoma Indians Visit Orient
Fairfax, Okla., (AP)—No Indian from the Osage country, blessed with oil incomes has ever before ventured on so long a journey as Paul Beartrack, globe-trotting Cheyenne, and his Osage wife, who have returned from a trip half way around the world. Some Indians of Oklahoma have been as far as France, but the Beartracks were said to be the first to visit the Orient.

Only 816,264 Pounds Sold On Greenville Market Yesterday

Tuesday was a poor day on the Greenville Tobacco market, in regard both to official average and the number of pounds sold.

The official average was only $18.30 for 816,264 pounds sold for a total of $149,384.56.

The day's average and offerings were the worst for the market in several weeks, but warehousemen described the tobacco as of unusually poor grades.

The year's official average remained beyond the $21 mark. At the close of business yesterday the average for the season was $21.32. A total of 56,340,888 pounds have been sold in the city this year and brought a total of $12,009,996.33.

HUEY'S DEATH HINDERS WEED CONTROL SIGN-UP

The death of Huey F. Long, Louisiana dictator who died from an assassin's bullet wound September 10, may keep Pitt county from securing a 100 per cent sign up in the 1936-39 tobacco control program.

E. F. Arnold, Pitt county Farm Agent, said today one tobacco grower in this county had refused to sign the agreement, saying he feared since Long was dead "everything will go all to pieces in this country and I do not wish to be obligated in any way to the government."

To date the Swift Creek township farmer has refused to sign the contract, contending that the death of the Louisiana Dictator would result in the ruination of the country.

Bird Is Identified As American Coot

J. A. Everett of Greenville, Route No. 2, today was the possessor of a bird common to the coast section of the country, but he had a difficult time in establishing the identity of his catch.

The bird was taken to Dr. R. J. Slay's science department at East Carolina Teachers College where an assistant immediately branded the bird a perfect specimen of the American Coot.

The bird became entangled in high grass in a corn field and was caught by Everett.

Before the bird was definitely identified at the college, a number of Greenville people speculated on the variety, but were unable to reach any satisfactory conclusion.

HARAR, JUJIGA FOCAL POINTS IN WAR ZONE

Invading Fascists Extend Northern Lines

ITALIANS POINT TO LAKE TANA

Methods of Relieving Tension Discussed By Mussolini And British Ambassador

Harar, Ethiopia, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports from the interior said today that a fast moving motorized Italian column was circling the Ethiopian plain west and was near Sasa Baneh, 155 miles to the southeast of here.

Another similar column was reported moving up the valley of the Webb Agebeli toward the Vale area, about 125 miles to the southwest of Harar.

(By Associated Press)
Invading Fascist forces extended their northern lines today and the cities of Harar and Jijiga, became the focal points of Ethiopian defense.

Position of Harar and Jijiga would constitute one of the steps necessary to extend the fascist line joining the two Italian colonies.

The movement of the northern forces westward along the Takkae river pointed toward the Lake Tana region, seat of British power interest.

An official communique from Addis Ababa said both sides suffered many casualties during an engagement yesterday near Anse, Ogdagna province, on the southern front. In another engagement the Ethiopians chased the Italians out of position, the report said.

In another northern engagement yesterday the Ethiopians took the offensive, attacked Italian columns, killed the commander and scattered the unit. Eight Ethiopians died in this last encounter, while the invasion proceeded Premier Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador, discussed methods of relieving European tension.

Authoritative British sources said Britain would deliver a new rebuff to Mussolini by withholding any indirect reply to Italy's note protesting the application of sanctions.

Prosperous Times Are Predicted By Fed'l Bank Chief

Comptroller of Currency Says Banks Enjoying Best Six Months In Four Years

New Orleans, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Declaring that national banks had made a profit of 3.93 per cent on capital in the first six months of 1935, J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, predicted today that the present six months would probably be the most prosperous the banks have enjoyed for more than four years.

The national bank chief spoke before the American Bankers Association in convention.

"It has always been my custom simply to present the facts and not make a prophecy," he said.

"These facts, however and my general knowledge of the banking situation impel me now to predict that the present six months period will be the best the banks of the nation have enjoyed for more than four years."

Election for the association provided charges that efforts are being made in the association to supplant state rights with new deal bureaucracy.

The question exploded during a meeting of the nominating committee and headed toward the floor of the convention.

The committee nominated E. G. Bennett of Ogden, Utah, for a second vice-president, a stepping-stone to the presidency in 1937, but not before backers of Orval V. Adams of Salt Lake City, Utah, withdrew his name from the committee and announced plans for a fight before the general convention.

Charles F. Zimmerman of Huntington, Penna., backer of Adams, said he considered the fight an "out and out fight on the question of state rights versus central control of banking under new deal bureaucracy."

The Trend of Industry A New Service Of The Associated Press

The Associated Press business statistics department again broadens its field of activity to bring to readers of The Reflector an up-to-the-minute record of the trend of industrial activity. Assembling the figures as soon as they are available, Associated Press business statisticians have prepared index charts on the general trend of industry, the production of steel mills, automobile factories, electric power plants and cotton mills, and on freight car loadings and residential building contracts. A comparison with industrial activity for the years 1919 to 1925 is obtained by using the Federal Reserve index for those years. Watch for these charts monthly. The first is carried today.

Business Activity Trend

Best October Since 1930 Recorded

(By The Associated Press)
Industrial activity during October was the best recorded for that month since 1930, according to the monthly statistical survey of The Associated Press. The improvement during the last five weeks has advanced The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity more than 13 per cent.

Automobile output, approximately two months ahead of its normal schedule, has increased five-fold since the last week in September. Steel mill activity, reflecting motor gains, to some extent has been steadily pressing upward. Cotton manufacturing activity was some 16 per cent above the September level, the result of a greatly stimulated domestic demand as well as a curtailed inventory position on the part of many retailers. With miscellaneous freight moving in better volume, total freight carloadings were somewhat above last month. Electric power output established a new all-time peak in the first week of October. This new peak was pierced in the second week and again last week.

is the most logical plan that has yet been advanced.
When the proper time comes for Graham to declare his independence of any allegiance to the present administration and when he begins to get actively in the campaign to take office about both the sales tax and liquor control, he will become a formidable candidate in the campaign, his supporters maintain. In the mean time they are not worrying at the various efforts by his opponents to squeeze him out of the race.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — With the overwhelming vote of corn-hog farmers for extension of their contracts encouraging "new dealers" that the farm vote may be reasonably certain for President Roosevelt in 1936, the coming months will see a determined drive on the part of the administration to placate the consumers.

More and more will be heard of a gray-haired, handsome professor by the name of Walton H. Hamilton, since July 30 the President's adviser on consumer problems and director of the consumers' division of NRA.

Described by the associates as a man of a practical rather than a theoretical mind who knows "recovery cannot be picked, like apples, from the academic orchard of school room formulas," Hamilton is the administration's contact with the millions of men and women who make up the vast army of consumers whose votes are so necessary for continuance of the "new deal." Production in this country has risen to about 90 per cent of normal, but employment is only 82 per cent and wages 74. The immediate need, therefore, is to restore employment and wages to some kind of a parity with production.

To Eliminate "Trouble Spots"
Methods to be employed are expected to follow these general outlines:

1. Inquire into price-determining structures of specific industries with a view to suggesting a means of eliminating "trouble spots" in productive-distribution systems which keep the product out of the consumers' reach.
2. To educate the public to encourage wider use of quality standards and grade labeling.
3. To study the consumers' cooperative movement with a view to making information concerning administration, organization and hazards available to American groups interested in cooperative purchasing.
4. To expand consumers' county councils on a nation-wide basis to gather data and distribute educational information.
5. To seek consumers' recognition in all matters involving production, price, and trade practices.
6. To review current legislation and public policy from the consumers' viewpoint.

Tugwell's 'Alliance'

Hamilton is emphatic in his stand that his job is neither punitive nor inquisitorial, but advisory. "We are not a pressure group," he says. "We are interested in bringing the price in conformity with the lowest necessary cost, in seeing that inefficiency and fruitless arbitrary restriction are not subsidized."

President Roosevelt already has revealed that he has had conferences with various industrial leaders for the purpose of arriving at some method to aid the consumer. The administration's chief brain-truster, Professor Tugwell, has warned that in 1936 "the most serious attack will be the attempt to separate the two great masses of the people helped most by our policies and from whom we draw our strength—the farmers and the workers." Tugwell wants to establish a farmer-worker alliance—a political alliance in 1936.

NO INDICATION OF WITHDRAWAL

Foes Trying to Hurt Graham Campaign By Branding Him Administrationist

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Nov. 12. — Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham is still very much in the running for the Democratic nomination for Governor in spite of an apparently studied effort to squeeze him out of the contest, according to both opponents and supporters.

While followers of both the other two leading candidates, Clyde R. Hoy of Shelby and Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem, are undoubtedly trying to work the same game on Graham that was worked on A. J. Maxwell in the 1932 campaign by trying to convince the public that Graham is the "administration candidate," many here believe this effort is doomed to failure. They believe that before the campaign is over a majority of the voters are going to realize that Graham is the only really sound liberal candidate, that Hoy will emerge as the conservative "administration candidate" while McDonald will continue to be the ultra-liberal, almost radical candidate.

At the present, many of Graham's friends are convinced that both the Hoy and McDonald supporters are trying to make Graham "the goal" by trying to convince the public that he is the hand-picked candidate of Governor J. C. B. Earingham and of the present administration, with the exception that the McDonalds form maintain that both Graham and Hoy are "administration" candidates. They point out, however, that Graham was the first candidate to announce that he was definitely in favor of removing the sales tax as soon as other revenue could be substituted and that he favored the immediate reduction of the rate of the tax. He is also the only candidate which has as yet openly advocated a state-wide liquor control and liquor stores system, with the revenue derived from these stores to be used to reduce the sales tax, it is pointed out. McDonald adopted virtually these same planks when he came out for Governor, except that he came out for the complete removal of the sales tax and for liquor control only after a state-wide referendum. So far Hoy has made no declaration either with regard to the sales tax or liquor control. But since most of his support is now admittedly coming from friends of the present administration and from the dregs, it is difficult for most observers to see how he can do otherwise than to favor the retention of the sales tax and to oppose any move towards liquor control and liquor stores.

While the political pendulum at present seems to be swinging over towards McDonald at the present, it is bound to swing back and forth several times yet in the intervening seven months before the primary, most observers agree. And with every swing, there is going to be an increasing trend back towards Graham, his supporters maintain. Many of those who have gone over into the McDonald camp at the present because of his promise to remove the sales tax are going to come back into the Graham camp after they realize that the fulfillment of the McDonald promises means either poorer schools and higher taxes, and probably both, if the sales tax is removed entirely. For most observers agree that some form of a state-wide property tax, even though it may be dressed up to like something else, will be necessary to support the schools if the sales tax is removed entirely.

Yet the feeling against the sales tax is such that some change must be made in it by the next general assembly, most observers agree either by reducing the rate to 2 per cent or by restoring the exemptions or both. The Graham supporters maintain that Sandy's program calling for a reduction in the sales tax rate and its eventual removal just as soon as other sources of revenue can be found promises the most logical solution of the sales tax problem. They also point out that his proposal for state-wide liquor stores in the counties that want them with the revenue earmarked to reduce the sales tax.

WEDNESDAY
8:30 p. m.—The Workers' Conference of Eighth Street Christian Church will meet in the church.

THURSDAY
7:30 p. m.—The Meredith College Alumnae will meet with Mrs. Townes Thomas.

Little-Dameron.
Mrs. Frank Marion Dameron of Clinton, North Carolina, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miriam, to Mr. Robert Gray Little of Greenville, North Carolina. The wedding will take place in the late fall.

Called To Norfolk.
Miss Hallett Williams left this afternoon for Norfolk, Va., where she was called on account of the critical illness of her brother.

In Local Hospital.
Friends of Mrs. S. E. Dilday will regret to learn that she is in Pitt Community Hospital where she underwent an appendix operation.

The Round Table
The ladies of the Round Table were at the home of Mrs. J. W. Higgs on Tuesday afternoon. The glory of the autumn sunshine, the lovely arrangement of autumn flowers, the friendship of like spirits, continued to make the meeting of the afternoon unusually enjoyable. Mesdames Combs, Hardee, Eldridge and Guley shared the pleasure of the afternoon as guests.

Much merriment was evidenced when each member responded to roll call by telling her favorite pastime. The Round Table accepted an invitation to attend a lecture by Prof. Hudson of Chapel Hill, given under the auspices of the local branch of the A. A. U. W.

The study of the afternoon "Historic Shrines of Tennessee," was presented by Mrs. Milton White. A detailed study of the early history of Tennessee, the third State to be admitted to the Union after the adoption of the Federal Constitution, awakened memories of James Monroe's visit to the celebrated Indian Mission.

Mrs. White discussed the beauties of the capital city, Nashville, called "The Athens of the South." In this classic city of homes, schools, churches and parks has a picturesque background of refined social and artistic life of the old South. Here we find the capitol building completed in 1853, one of the rarest examples of Greek Ionic architecture on this continent.

In a faultless setting in a beautiful park there has very fittingly arisen a full-sized reproduction of the Parthenon—ancient masterpiece of Greek art. No plans or expense has been spared to recreate all the artistic and architectural lines of the temple as it stood on the Acropolis of Greece 2,000 years ago. The Parthenon is 228 feet in length. The columns of the Peristyle, 46 in number, are more than six feet in diameter. The huge bronze doors weigh fifteen tons. In the gables, or pediments, are 54 colossal statues. The sculptures are so true to nature, so lifelike in form, they seem almost ready to speak, while the refined lines, delicate curves, wonderful proportions blend with perfect union producing a rhythm and harmony in construction never surpassed in Nashville, the city of educational, aesthetic and spiritual values, is known also as the Iris city.

Cornelia Otis Skinner Here Tonight
Tonight at 8:30 o'clock, in the Campus Building of the College, Cornelia Otis Skinner will give her program of one act plays. The first part will be dramatic characters in present-day situations: "Nurse's Day Out," "Hotel Porch," "Being Presented," and "Times Square," in which she impersonates eight different people. In the second part, she presents each of the six "wives of Henry VIII."

Monthly Supper Club.
On Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock the Supper Club of the Eighth Street Christian Church held its monthly meeting. In the business matters of the evening it was decided to plan to send two youthful delegates, an adult advisor, and the pastor to the Interdenominational Youth Conference which will be held in Winston-Salem Nov. 29-Dec. 1. The topic of the evening was "Desire for Peace." Rev. Robert Grady of the Presbyterian Church, was guest speaker and chose as his subject "Youth in a Warless World." He affirmed that a warless world should be the prime object of the modern young person and that the most effective weapon against armed forces is brotherhood among men.—Reported.

Famous heroes live again: this time on the sound screen in RKO Radio's "The Three Musketeers," which comes to the Pitt Theatre on Thursday and Friday. The trio comprises Aramis, Porthos and Athos and these parts are played by Onslow Stevens, Moroni Olsen and Paul Lukas respectively. This photoplay is said to be the most perfect interpretation yet seen of Alexandre Dumas' brilliant novel.

When God conceived the plan he knew that the church was to be a costly structure. The church cost God the giving of His Son. The church was bought with infinite cost, not of stocks and bonds or lands. It cost heaven the Son of God torn from his heart and crucified on Calvary's cross. The pierced hands, the pierced feet, the crown of thorns and the pierced side speak the infinite cost. For a few dollars we can construct a house but when the storms come it will be swept away. Nations may rise and fall but the church will endure. The church was bought for a purpose and that was to worship God. The supreme mission of the church is to lift the cross of Christ high.

"One day you stood at the altar of your church and made your vow. What is your attitude to your church now? What would you think if I were flirting around with every girl in town? What does God think of you when you are flirting with the world? A few years ago my wife was seriously ill. Suppose I had left her the law would have gotten me. When your church was in distress you forsook her.

"One thing that will wreck a marriage and that is to be continually quarrelling. Many church members think they are right and the world is wrong. What is your attitude? If I did not provide for my wife you would say she should have me up for non-support. If I did not provide for her after telling her I would she would have no confidence in me. Does God have any confidence in you? If you fail to support the church you show that you do not love it. The longer I live with my wife the more I love her. The longer I live in the church

ANSWER THE CALL

The Red Cross roll call drive continues here and if you have not already enrolled do so now. The Red Cross is one of the world's most worthwhile organizations and deserves the support of everyone. The dollar you donate to the Red Cross might be the means of saving someone's life or at least bringing relief in the time of disaster or great suffering.

DRIVE RIGHT OR YOU DON'T DRIVE

If the state licenses you to operate an automobile on the highways then it will be up to you as to whether or not you retain that privilege. Already some have lost their licenses through reckless or drunken driving and once a driver's license is suspended that driver might as well make up his or her mind that he or she is off the highways for some time. In addition to the names of all suspended drivers being turned over to all highway patrolmen, the list will also likely be published in newspapers throughout the state and an intensive campaign is to be waged upon those who drive during the time of their suspension. The purpose of the driver's license law is to rid the highways of reckless and drunken drivers and an effort is going to be made to do just that. If you want to keep on driving an automobile it is up to you to so conduct yourself that you will not be deprived of your driver's license.

FATHER GABLE ANSWERS CAUSE OF THE WAR

With due courtesy toward our esteemed citizen, Hon. Fordy C. Hardin, as well as respect for Mr. William Brown who reported his discussion in the Italian-Ethiopian situation, we deem it necessary in the interest of the truth of history as well as justice to the Catholic Church to make some observations. Before any approach can be made on the subject it will be necessary to keep the distinction between the present Italian Government and the Catholic Church in mind. And what the differences between the two have been so acute on three occasions within the last few years that there was a danger of a rupture in their relations. That a greater part of the Italian people are Catholic does not mean that the Italian governmental policies are dictated by the Catholic Church. The recent suppression of the Catholic Boy Scouts in Italy will substantiate that. According to the speaker "the Caesar ideas were inculcated into the dominant religion of that day, the Roman Catholic Church." While it is true that the Church had its beginning when Rome was the mistress of the world the idea of its universality was not imbued from the contemporary civil power, but from her founder, Jesus Christ. "Go ye into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature." (Mark 16:16) was His command and commission to the Church and should include "all nations." The vestiges of Apostolic history clearly show how specifically they fulfilled this command.

That "The Roman Catholic Church has been trying to bring all races together under one ruling principle—its faith" may be true in regard to faith and morals—but as to principles of civil government the Church has never advocated any one form. Her experience with civil governments throughout the centuries has been ever the same: corruption whether it was a monarchy, fascism or democracy. Her place in history was clearly enunciated when Christ told Pilate "my kingdom is not of this world."

Evidently the speaker was not aware that the Italian Campaign in a serious embarrassment to the missionary activities of the Church in Ethiopia. It is only a matter of a few years that Ethiopia would admit Catholic missions agencies. How could the Church hope to even get the good will of a people if she were in league with a conspiracy to rob them of their freedom?

What attitude has the Pope taken in the matter? Has he been silent? In April of this year he referred to another war as "suicide, ruin and extermination" and declared if efforts for peace were fruitless he would pray God to "scatter those who desired war." Again when war seemed imminent he laid down the principles that "all war for mere conquest was unjust." "And where there was a question of securing more territory for expansion of population some other means than war is to be sought." What more can he do? As civil ruler of the Vatican State it does not oblige him either in justice or charity to intervene in the difference of nations. As the head of the Catholic Church he holds the office of Teacher. He can only interpret the moral law for those who recognize his authority. The question at issue was submitted to the proper tribunal, the League of Nations. And the decision has only been recently given that Italy is the aggressor. How could the Pope anticipate the decision. And even now what reason would we have to believe that Mussolini would be deterred by any spiritual sanctions any more than he is by the physical imposed by the other nations.

The Catholic viewpoint was summed up recently by the newspaper "The Catholic Daily Tribune." Imperialistic arguments have no basis in reason, and usually run the sentimental gamut; because some Ethiopians are raw meat eaters, or are supposed to have slaves, therefore they must be civilized with shrapnel and aerial bombs and the mutilation of thousands, and the impoverishment of two nations. The Catholic outlook, taken by the Holy Father, views the conflict in the light of reason and religion, as it affects not any one nation, but world relations among nations, present and future. The Pope's views have often been misunderstood in the past, or ignored, even as they are today. The result is that an ever more ruthless national imperialism.

The African conflict has reawakened dormant ambitions, intensified international distrust, stimulated the building up of larger armies and navies everywhere, increased tax burdens, and rendered world peace more insecure. Christian ideals of peace and reconciliation and international unity have little opportunity of taking root in this atmosphere of seething hatred.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

PREPARED: What the smart boys think the President really told his household of power experts is that he wants to push ahead with both schemes for generation of a vast supply of juice in the North-east. It is supposed to be his answer to the Baltimore decision that the holding company law is unconstitutional.

Though they won't admit it publicly, some New Deal lawyers suspect that the Supreme Court will uphold Judge Coleman in many details if not all. That would put the administration in a hole it must dig out of instantaneously—at least on paper. The only dignified implement in sight now is extension of the "yardstick theory" on a scale more grandiose than even the President has contemplated. That is, break up both operating and holding companies with a flood of federal hydroelectricity at low and possibly subsidized rates.

There are other straws on the highline. Rural Electrification: Cooke is figuring out how much it will cost for Uncle Sam to finance a national distribution system tying in with Quoady, the St. Lawrence, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, TVA's Alabama plant. Though the White House will contest the Coleman crackdown to the last judicial ditch, it is preparing to fall back on a Hindenberg line if necessary.

DIVISION: World War veterans still have a "last long mile" to march before they collect their bonus. Though 1935 is a reelection year, several moves not visible even to the Boy Scouts in Italy will substantiate that. According to the

HIGH COURAGE by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Although she has been cheated of her interest in the Farnsworth Fisheries by Tom Farley and his gang, Anne Farnsworth, now known as Nikki Nielsen, has gone to a secluded cove to prevent the fishermen from destroying company property. But Lee Farnsworth, lazy and easy going but still not Anne's enemy, is shot by someone in the crowd, and Anne's protectors, the Sorki boys, are accused. While John Newman, who loves Anne, tries to secure bail, Anne has gone to the jail to tell what she knows.

Chapter 34 BITTER SCENE

A KNOT of men standing outside opened to let her pass through their ranks, up the steps, and into the vestibule of the jail.

A deputy was sitting there, talking to two men. He arose and came to the railing.

"I've come to see about the Sorki brothers," Anne said. "I am Anne Farnsworth."

"Oh, yeah?" grinned the deputy, looking at the slicker, the rain soaked beret, and bedraggled slacks. "I know," she apologized for her appearance, then anxiously, "tell me, have you heard how Uncle Lee is?" "He—" she couldn't say the word. "Don't know yet; the hospital hasn't reported. He was still alive when they brought him in. You say uncle?" he mused.

"The Sorki boys didn't shoot Uncle Lee."

One of the men in plain clothes stepped up, straitlaced Anne. "She could be the Farnsworth girl," he told the deputy. "You know she disappeared after the will was filed; supposed to have gone to a sanitarium."

"I didn't," Anne explained with stoical patience. "I came down here to visit my old nurse. I've been living in Union Town ever since."

"Yeah, all right. Admitting you're the Farnsworth girl, which maybe you are and maybe you ain't, what have you got to do with the Sorki brothers?"

"They're my nurse's sons."

"Then it's just too bad for your nurse."

"But, you see, they didn't shoot Uncle Lee." Anne's voice was vibrant with intensity.

"How do you know?" asked the plain clothes man with interest.

"Because I was in the boat with them. They hadn't left the engine and the wheel when... when Uncle Lee crumpled up." Her face was chalk white and her voice faltered as she was forced to relive the scene.

"Better take her in to the sheriff," advised the plain clothes man. "Wait, I'll see him first. Now listen, sister, don't try to get away from here. Better come on inside the railing. Keep your eye on her, Harry; she's liable to bolt when she gets over this fit of honesty."

ANNE looked at him with calm contempt, but willingly she came into the enclosure. She was aching with fatigue and numb with an unseasonable chill.

"Come here," a voice ordered, as soon as she was settled. "He means you," prompted the deputy to Anne. She turned towards the door, where a stockily built man stood waiting. As Anne entered the inner office, she was aware of several men watching her. She paid little attention to any of them until the man who had summoned her, evidently the sheriff, spoke.

For a moment their gaze met, locked. Anne thought she detected in the dark eyes of the man, relief, condemnation and triumph. She was sure her eyes told nothing of what she felt.

"Are you ready to answer some questions, Miss Farnsworth?" the chief asked.

"Her name isn't Farnsworth," came in contemptuous tones from Farley.

"But—" "She was never legally adopted," Farley explained.

"Then, Miss, if you'll let us have your name as a matter of record."

"Anne was silent."

"Your name, Miss. What is your name?" The sheriff was patient, but Anne could tell from the dark circles under his eyes that he was more than merely weary. Lee Farnsworth was his friend.

"I don't know," she answered.

THE man looked at her and she saw pity in his eyes. "What name have you been using?" he asked kindly.

"Nikki, Nikki Nielsen," she answered.

"Any reason for that choice?" "I had to have something. My nurse had called me Annikki as a baby, so we dropped the Anne and Pan-American will fly mail and passengers from San Francisco to Canton in six days. KLM will carry people in a hurry into London in seven days. Pan-American or British interests may soon furnish service direct from London to New York or by way of the Azores and Bermuda. Dickerings with the governments involved—Great Britain and France—have slowed down only because of concentration on perfecting the trans-Pacific route.

Within three years—possibly less—it will require only 18 days to gird the globe from Newark airport. Aviation expert shy away from public promises but they predict that stratospheric flying—30,000 instead of 3,000 feet up—will cut the time to two days, perhaps less. New York By JAMES McMULLIN POWER: Astute utility leaders sound a note of quiet warning in the midst of the industry's jubilation about Judge Coleman's decision declaring the holding company act unconstitutional. They point to three reasons why the ruling isn't nearly as conclusive as right wing optimists seem to believe.

First, the Coleman dictum—even if sustained by the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court—applies only to one small holding company in receivership. It is risky to deduce assurance of blanket exemption from that. Second, American State Power—the company in question—in no case transmits current across state lines, although its properties are scattered. The government will have a much stronger case where the interstate angle is directly involved and the Supreme Court might well take cognizance of the distinction.

Finally, keen utility men are not forgetting that the administration still has power to make them vastly uncomfortable in other directions—and will probably use it with gusto if ness, high taxes and a big cost of living beat Wilsonism—and that none of these "evils" had developed to nearly the extent they have under FDR. They also remark that they don't need a nominee yet—recalling that Harding was successfully built up between his nomination and election.

Shrewd impartial observers doubt that the comparison is valid. They comment that Wilson was at the end of his road, that the Cox-Roosevelt ticket offered weak opposition and that almost any Republican with enough money behind him could have won.

However, they admit there will be plenty of cash on deck this time also.

LIVELY: GOP backstage strategists count the Northeast—from Maine to Maryland—as in the bag for '36. They hope it that their life can be most profitably concentrated on the section between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi and the Pacific Coast—and that strong nominees from these sectors will be the most effective prescription.

Arthur Vandenberg has deliberately shunned the spotlight lately. He's perfectly eligible if a Senator is to be chosen. But New York sharp shooter Charles McNary of Oregon even more so. McNary has played his cards cleverly and off-ended nobody, including Mr. Hoover. He would probably be acceptable to both liberals and conservatives.

Astute observers are intrigued at the thought of a McNary - Ickes ticket—though they don't consider it probable. Ickes is, after all, a Republican and no longer happy in his New Deal setting. He's anathema to New York—but he might run strong in Illinois and he would be harmless in the vice presidency. It's figured that the GOP would at least be able to put up a lively argument with such a combination.

Wolfpack To Meet Richmond University In Virginia Saturday

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 12.—Hunk Anderson's North Carolina State Wolfpack meets another big and hard charging line when it goes to Richmond on Saturday for a game with the University of Richmond.

Last Saturday the Wolfpack bucked the V. P. I. line at Portsmouth and according to the State players, the Gobblers line, from tackle to tackle, was the best they had faced thus far this season.

The Richmond line, according to Ed Kosky, end coach of the Wolfpack and chief scout, is just as good. "Richmond has one of the fastest charging lines I've seen," Kosky said after he saw the Spiders defeat Hampden-Sydney last week.

Co-captain George Lacy, left end, is the star of the line. Kosky says he is as fine an all-round end as one would want to see. Against him State will pit its Mac Cara, and its latest find—Connie Mac Berry, pass catching sensation.

Lacy is just one of the many fine Richmond linemen. Two other ends are the Todd brothers—Tom and Dick—the regular tackles. They are big and fast and work fine on both offense and defense. Against them State will pit its brilliant Vince Farrar.

In the backfield, the Richmond eleven has one of the best fullbacks in these parts. He is Len Kielpinkski, 185 pound youngster who hits a line, runs the tackles and ends with the speed of the fastest backs. Opposing him on the State side will be "Jumping" Joe Ryneka, 180 pound fullback.

The Richmond team also has a line back in Co-captain Ed Schraif and a good threat ace in Bill Robertson. Competing against them will be State's star backs; Eddie Berlinski, Howard Bards, Charlie Gadd, Joe Schwardt, Editt Entwistle, and State fans hope, Cowboy Robinson. Robinson, on the injured list, may return to action against Richmond.

Kosky says Richmond has a good center, but that he can't compete with Steve Sabol, State's all-Southern whose fine play against V. P. I. Saturday was one of the principle reasons why the Gobblers gained but 50 yards on ground plays and 17 on 13 passes.

Brietz To Cover Duke-N. C. Battle Coming Saturday

Durham, Nov. 13.—Edwin A. Brietz, one of the top ranking sports writers of the Associated Press, will cover the Duke-North Carolina football game Saturday for that news-gathering agency.

Brietz is well known in North Carolina, having started his newspaper career in this state. For several years he was sports editor of the Charlotte Observer and went to the New York office of the AP after serving for some time as Carolinas manager of that organization with headquarters in Charlotte.

W. W. Wells of Grantland Rice's office in New York, is another well known sports authority who will attend the game. Every major paper in North Carolina and many papers in Virginia and South Carolina will send writers here to cover the contest.

Carolina Tackles Get Big Test In Duke Tilt

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 12.—A pair of 200-pounders will carry the big tackle assignment for the University of North Carolina in its all-important game with Duke University Saturday.

The behemoths who hold down the No. 1 tackle berths on the fast-stepping Carolina team are Tom Ewins and Pohn Trimpey. Both are lettermen, Ewins a senior and Trimpey a junior. They will get their biggest test of the season against the powerful running attack of Wallace Wade's strong Duke team.

Carolina's success depends largely on stopping this spectacular, effective running attack. And the big job in halting the onrush goes to Ewins and Trimpey.

Ewins holds down the right tackle post. This 200-pounder, who is co-captain of the 1936 track team and Southern Conference outdoor champion in the shot put tests, being Fin Esth Kap'a and vice-president of the student body, is rated the fastest lineman on the squad. In fact he is even speedier than all but a few of the best. He is rated a leading candidate for All-Southern.

Trimpey broke into the first string this season after playing regularly as No. 1 reserve to both Jim Tatum, an All-Southern, and Ewins last year. He has developed into a brilliant lineman on both offense and defense. He is fast despite his 223 pounds and 6 feet 3.

The first string tackle reserves are sophomores Henry Barrios, 205 pounds, and Ed Palmer, 197 pounds.

Indian Jewelry Found

SPORT SLANTS

Almost a full year before the Olympic Games in Berlin, the United States Army has its athletes in training for the events in which the soldiers will compete. Early this fall one group worked at Fort Riley, Kans., and another at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, both getting a jump on the American athletes planning to compete in other events.

The Army athletes will compete in the equestrian events and the pentathlon.
Capt. W. B. Bradford, a graduate of the French School of Equitation at Semur, who has shown throughout this country and Europe, heads the group of 10 officers drilled at Fort Riley for the three equestrian events on the Olympic program and now competing in important horse shows. Captain Bradford rode on the Prize of Nation jumping team in the 1932 Olympics.

Three Big Events
The equestrian program has three events, with a different team to be entered in each event. They are:

1. The all-around championship. Riders must show the schooling of the horse in response to the rider's aids in about 40 intricate movements on the first day. An endurance phase comes on the second day when the horse must cover 22 1/2 miles in less than two hours. Part of this distance is on roads and paths, part over a 2 1/2 mile steepchase at 24 miles per hour and six miles across country over 35 jumps at 20 miles per hour. The third day the same horses show in the stadium over a jumping course to prove that they have withstood the grueling test of the previous days.
2. The dressage. The horse must execute the most advanced form of equestrian maneuvers. While giving the impression of executing all movements of his own accord, he actually is under the absolute control of the rider.
3. The Prize of Nations. This calls for jumping heights up to 5 feet 3 inches and a breadth of 18 feet.

Lt. Earl F. Thompson, on the 1932 winning 3-day team and Capt. H. E. Tuttle and Capt. I. L. Kitts, on the third-place dressage team of 1932, are among the stars on Captain Bradford's squad for this year.

More Training Ahead
Army Olympic leaders believe they have developed better horses than ever before. The American team was first in the all-around performances in 1932, second in the Prize of Nations and third in the dressage, competing against the best of 30 other countries.

The pentathlon contenders, after training in Virginia, will go to West Point to practice phases of their competition and finally to cavalry school for riding work.

The pentathlon judges a competitor in pistol shooting, swimming, fencing, riding, and cross-country running. Lt. Richard Mayo, who won third place in 1932, will captain the Army team of 1936. Among his associates will be two stars of the last Olympic meeting, Lt. C. J. Mansfield and Lt. B. W. Brady.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Veteran politicians and observers in the capital were a bit surprised when they heard that Joe Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate, had selected Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania to be chairman of the party's senatorial campaign committee for '36.

Positions of such responsibility usually go to senators of senior rank. The plump, jovial, gray-haired Pennsylvania has served less than a year in the senate.

The subsequent announcement by Robinson, however, that Ed Halsey, secretary of the senate, would be "Freshman" Guffey's aide-de-camp, did much to reassure old-timers. The "Colonel," as Halsey is called by his friends, knows politics as few do.

Theodore Roosevelt was president when Halsey came up from Virginia to serve as a senate page.

Halsey's Duties
The highest unofficial officer of the senate, privileged to sit on the floor directly beneath the vice president, Halsey has been a senate employe continuously since the time he was a page.

In the lean days of his party the "Colonel" was carried on the rolls of the senate as an assistant door-keeper. Actually he was secretary to the Democratic minority—a sort of mental guard.

It was his duty to know the whereabouts of all Democratic senators when congress was in session. Routine such as piloting Democratic senators to see that no party vote is lost, sending out notices of party conferences and caucuses, and keeping minutes of such meetings now is entrusted to an aide.

Thinking The Record
In the campaign of '36 his official title as Senator Guffey's aide will be "secretary of the Democratic senatorial elections committee." All of which means he will do most of the work in the effort to elect new Democratic senators and re-elect old ones.

Already he is thumbing his way through the dreary pages of the Congressional Record, jotting down how this senator voted on a particular piece of legislation, what that senator said about work-relief appropriations or any other subject—compiling anything that can be of use in the various state campaigns.

There are No Safer Brakes Made than the Super-Safety Brakes on the 1936 Ford V-8

No other car in America has the same basic design as the Ford V-8. And because of its unique design—the Ford car could use any type of braking system now in common use.

BUT, with the whole field to choose from, Ford stands by mechanically-operated Super-Safety brakes as safest for the Ford V-8.

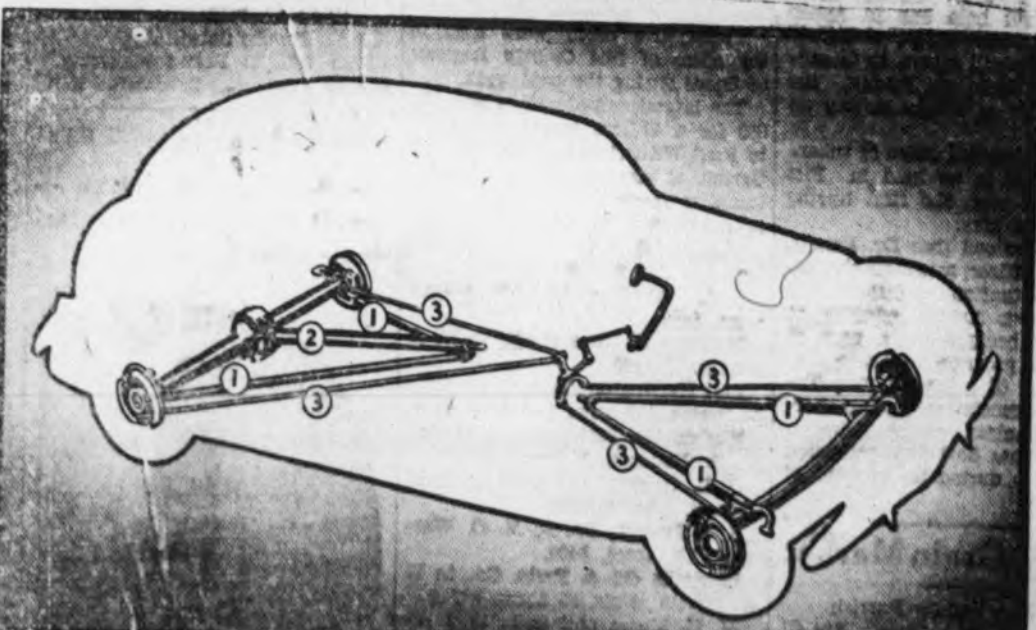

This is the type braking system on many of America's costliest cars and most racing cars. And with its unique chassis design, Ford can use this system to better effect than any other automobile built today.

Then, Ford has more effective braking surface (186 square inches) than is found in any other low-priced car. And big, 12" alloy-iron drums with special cooling fins to give you maximum braking power under all road conditions.

All in all, no safer brakes are made

FORD PERMANENT WHEELBASE
Radius rods [1] brace the front axle—like a pair of giant arms... Radius rods and Torque-tube [2] give triple bracing to the rear axle. This construction means that the front and rear axles of a Ford car are held always equidistant—always in perfect alignment. On this permanent wheelbase any braking system now in common use could be used. And only with this Ford-type wheelbase can mechanical, Super-Safety brakes be used to the fullest advantage.

FOUR INDEPENDENT BRAKE RODS
Note the four brake rods [3] of strong, tempered steel. These rods link the pressure of your foot on the pedal with the four big brake-drums on the wheels. They do this job positively, surely, under all road conditions. Note especially that no one Ford brake has to depend on the other three. Failure of one (practically impossible) would leave three perfectly-operating brakes. Tear out this chart and check with the car you are driving now.
