Italians And Ethiopians Fight Bitterly To Gain Territory Causing Crisis

European Repercussions to Peace Plan Threatening

HOARE RESIGNS OFFICIAL POST

On War Front Hundreds Dead as Italians Repulse Ethiopian Attack.

(By The Associated Press) Italian and Ethiopian troops fought bitterly today for the possession of land which in European resurrections to proposals of peace had precipitated a crisis in one government and a near crisis in another.

Hundreds were reported dead in sanguine engagements.

The most ambitious Ethiopia assault on East Africa's northern front since the start of the war was repulsed by the Italians, said dispatches from Asmara, Eritrea, and the fascists retaliated with vigorous counter movements.

Turnell marked the diplomatic aftermath of the attempts by Great Britain and France to end the war through a peace plan embodying partial dismemberment of Ethiopia.

In London the life of the Baldwin government, little more than a month old, apparently hung in the balance.

Two Ethiopian assaults on the northern sector, said dispatches from Italian forces, were followed by Italian counter thrusts which may increase the total of Ethiopia dead to 1,000 or more before battle lines are rearranged.

The Ethiopian bands in the Takar river sector were believed by the Italians to be hopelessly trapped in Dembe Guina pass.

Fascist flyers pursued the Ethiopian below Makale machine-gunning them as they retreated.

The mass attack on the Franco-British peace plan, meanwhile, by the public, the press and a majority of the nations represented in deliberations of the league of nations council in Geneva, put the government of British Premier Stanley Baldwin in grave danger.

The resignation of Sir Samuel Hoare last night failed to clear the trouble politically atmosphere. Even in Baldwin successfully weathered an anticipated vote of confidence in the Commons, he still had to overcome his government's approval of the peace plan.

In Paris lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies buzzed with reports that Premier Laval would offer his resignation to President Albert Lebrun. The latter was expected generally to urge Laval to remain as chief of the government.

Christmas Carol Service Planned For Next Sunday

Greenville, Goldsboro and Ayden Talent to Take Part in Service at Pitt Theatre

The Greenville Choral club, assisted by the best talent from additional towns, will present a Christmas Carol service Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Pitt theater.

Proceeds from the program will be divided between the various charitable organizations in the city. No admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken. The offering will include clothing and food, as well as money.

Immediately after the service, the officials of the various organizations will gather and divide the proceeds.

The Goldsboro Choral club male quartet will render several numbers, and a number of solo selections will be presented. Members of the Ayden club also will take part in the program.

Special Program Set for Kiwanis Meeting

A special Christmas program has been arranged for the regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club tomorrow night.

Mrs. Ray Tyson will be in charge of the program, features of which will be a Christmas reading and music by a trio of young women.

Each member of the club is asked to bring a toy, wrapped in Christmas paper. The toys will be turned over to the Kines Danethers to be distributed to needy children.

MURDER CASE JURY SEATED

Testimony Started in The Case of Marvin Batten

Smithfield, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Marvin Batten, charged with the killing last Friday of Mrs. Lyda Daughtry, told a friend that morning "death is stirring around me," and didn't like the idea of "Mrs. Daughtry living while I am dead," it was testified in Johnston county superior court today.

Jasper Bittman, a filling station operator at Mico, told the story.

A jury of 13 men was completed this morning.

Batten, Pittman testified, came to his filling station at 5 a. m. last Friday. He was quoted as saying "death is stirring" around him and Pittman testified he said he "felt like he was going like Dewey Stancil did."

Stancil was killed in a fight two weeks ago with his brother, Odell Stancil, after Odell had accused his brother of aiding his wife in running around with other men.

Pittman said he went to Selma Friday morning and warned Mrs. Daughtry. The woman was shot to death at Batten's home Friday evening after she had been to ride with Batten and he had forced her to go home with him. He told officers she forced her into the house, told her he was going to kill her; allowed her to pray, then shot her.

Dalmon Edwards, a neighbor of Batten, testified that he had heard Batten tell Odell Stancil, who is free under bond pending trial on charges in connection with his brother's death, that Batten was expected to be sent to the roads during the current term of court on charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of whiskey.

American Legion Membership Drive In Final Efforts

Post Commander Corey Says Nothing Less Than 100 Per Cent Enrollment Be Satisfactory

The Pitt county post No. 39 of the American Legion plans to put on a final drive to successfully end its membership campaign by the first of the New Year.

Hicks Corey, commander of the post, said that he would not be satisfied with a paid up membership roll of less than 100 per cent complete.

The latest tabulation showed that there 190 members who have said up their dues and are in good standing. One hundred per cent for the county would give a membership list of 253 members.

The post's sign on the corner of Evans and Fourth streets has been repainted and officers and paid-up members listed. Additional names are added as the veterans of the World War pay up their dues to the Legion.

Municipal League Honors Late Mayor

A resolution of respect to the late Mayor Roy C. Flanagan passed by the North Carolina League of Municipalities of which organization he was honorary vice president, was received here today.

The resolution declares the entire state, as well as the city of Greenville, has lost a most valuable friend and official. The resolution follows:

"WHEREAS, the North Carolina League of Municipalities, the State of North Carolina, and the City of Greenville have lost a most valuable friend and public official by reason of the death of R. C. Flanagan, former mayor of Greenville, and

WHEREAS, the esteem in which the late R. C. Flanagan was held by his fellow municipal officials throughout the state was evidenced by their electing him honorary vice president of the North Carolina League of Municipalities in convention assembled at Sedgefield, October 3, 1935, now therefore be it

RESOLVED, by the Executive Committee of the North Carolina League of Municipalities assembled in Raleigh December 17, 1935, that the sincere regrets of this group for the loss of their former fellow member, R. C. Flanagan, be expressed to his family and to the public in behalf of the cities and towns of this state."

NEW ANGLES THELMA TODD DEATH CASE

Actress is Said Seen After Supposed Death

FOREIGN MAN ENTERS CASE

Estranged Wife Star's Business Partner Offers Evidence in Mystery

Los Angeles, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The eerie mystery of Thelma Todd driving with a "foreign looking man" in Hollywood hours after she was supposed to have died claimed attention of a grand jury today.

This angle of the strange case was given to police by Mrs. Carmen West, estranged wife of the screen star's business partner and owner of the garage where she was found dead Monday.

"I saw Thelma Todd with a man of dark complexion whom I did not recognize about 11 p. m. Sunday," Mrs. West related.

This was about 16 or 17 hours after the actress was supposed to have died in her garage near Santa Monica.

"I was returning from San Fernando valley and was travelling east on Sunset Boulevard when I saw a chocolate colored Phaeton which I immediately recognized as belonging to Miss Todd," Mrs. West said.

I hurried my own car and drew as close as possible. I saw the driver was Thelma Todd. I recognized her from a smart hat I knew she wore and also by her blond curls."

District Attorney Byron Pitts, declaring the chief question is "when did Thelma Todd die?" said today would question Mrs. West today concerning her story.

A coroner's jury returned a non-conclusive verdict of the star's death "apparently to have been accidental."

Pitts announced "there are some things that do not satisfy us, we intend to clear them up."

County chemist R. J. Abernathy made a complete chemical analysis of the actress' vital organs presumably to determine whether she possibly was drugged before the fumes of carbon monoxide caused her death. The analysis will require several days.

LEGION TALKS COUNTY FAIR

Pitt County Post Expects to Stage Exposition

Plans of the American Legion to put on a Pitt county fair next fall are going forward with much success, Hicks Corey, commander of the local post, announced today.

"We are going forward with the necessary work to promote a real county fair for the fall of 1936," the post commander said. He added that the fair of the last few years had not been a county fair in the true sense of the word.

Mr. Corey added that he believed the people of the county demanded and would support a fair of something more than a "carnival" and it was the intention of the American Legion post to furnish such an attraction.

Chief interest will be centered on exhibits of the various corners of the county, he said, and efforts will be made to display the products to their best advantage.

While efforts will be directed at providing a real agricultural exhibit, other phases of activities necessary to a fair will be arranged for. A midway, horse racing and other events will go to make up the county fair tentatively planned for next fall.

Mr. Corey said negotiations toward leasing the grounds were being carried on and added he felt there would be no hitch in this phase of the plans.

The proposed fair was the subject of much discussion at the post's meeting this week at the hut on Third street. The remaining part of the program was devoted chiefly to dinner and entertainment.

The entertainment was furnished under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Evans, pianist. Miss Helen Phelps sang and Little Miss Peggy Rose Smith recited. Legionnaire L. J. Smith handled the entertainment features.

The legionnaires decided to care for one of the needed families in the county and bring Christmas cheer to the group this year.

Memorial Service Late Mr. Flanagan

In tribute to the memory of the late Major Roy C. Flanagan, friends and relatives of the deceased city's most beloved citizen and executive will gather around a Christmas tree on the lawn tonight at 7:30 o'clock for a brief program.

The High School Glee Club will sing Christmas Carols and other appropriate events have been arranged.

The Woman's club is sponsoring the memorial service. All friends of the late Mr. Flanagan are invited to attend.

A large holly tree on the lawn of the home has been lighted through the courtesy of the Greenville Water and Light department.

Mayor at an early date a tree will be planted in the park near the swimming pool and each Christmas appropriate services will be held around the memorial.

MANY WATCH SANTA VISIT

Christmas Shopping Season Officially Begun

Santa Claus arrived on time last night to officially open the Christmas shopping season in Greenville.

After he had made his march through the business district and greeted the kiddies and distributed his toys and candy he had a few remarks to make concerning his visit to Greenville.

He stated that the crowd was larger than last year, the streets were decorated more beautiful than last season, and the improvement of the high school band under the direction of Prof. McDougal. He particularly noticed that more people were shopping in the stores after he had visited the business district.

After he had made these nice remarks he paused and stated that there was some constructive criticism that he would like to offer. He remarked that the fire arms discharged in the business district last night was the biggest nuisance of any town that he had visited this year. Besides being dangerous it was very detrimental to the business houses because a large number of people will not bring their small children to shop with them with fire crackers busting and exploding all around them.

BALDWIN SAYS HE IS WRONG

Admits He Errored in Accepting the Peace Plan

London, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Prime Minister Baldwin admitted today he had made an error in accepting the new lifeless Franco-British plan for ending the Italian-Ethiopian war and promised a largely hostile Parliament that "such a position shall not be possible again."

Opposing members interpreted his explanation of why the cabinet had stood by the peace plans with shouts of "Stand by your country."

His version of the peace debacle was that the government had lost contact in Paris with Sir Samuel Hoare, the foreign secretary, who resigned last night.

In defense of Hoare, Baldwin said the peace plan represented the minimum to which it was possible to obtain the agreement of the French government, and "I attach vital importance to Anglo-French solidarity."

"None of us like the proposition. We thought they went too far."

"The chief responsibility is mine. I admit much harm has been done. It will take time to rectify it."

"I have determined to see that such a position shall not be possible again."

Sir Samuel told the crowded chamber that he did not entirely approve of the plan itself but that it seemed the best aid to Franco-British relations.

The resigned foreign secretary assured his audience that in any case Great Britain had not advocated the plan from fear of Italy.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER HAZED: The popular notion that Supreme Court justices are immune to human frailties is being destroyed by the spectacle of the justices themselves. Newspaper reporters had to tone down their stories of recent sessions for fear of indictment as Baron Munchausens.

Several members make no attempt to conceal their dislike of administration laws and lawyers Justice McReynolds, a Wilson appointee, barks out questions which disconcert government counsel Justice Sutherland interrupted so often to ask the number of the page from which a Cummings was reading that an annoyed justice finally shouted the answer from the other end of the long bench. Although usually impatient with old-school orators, the court permitted George Wharton Pepper to utter a prayer that the New Deal soon pass from this and other earths.

Sotto voce "brain trusters" characterize the court's behavior as "heckling." Though surprised at the exhibition, impartial observers offer excuses for the jurists. No administration has hazed the nine men so frequently and so severely as FDR's.

EXAMPLE: The Democrats are taking the Literary Digest more seriously than they have been. They don't like the "trend," although they can still explain it away satisfactorily.

Kidnaped Textile Scion Found In Roadside Ditch

SCION OF WEALTHY TEXTILE FAMILY IS FOUND

CALEB MILNE FOUND TODAY

Wealthy Family Reported to have Paid Ransom of $25,000, But Chief of G-Men Declare No Payment Made; Picked Detail of Agents Spring Into Search.

(Copyright By The Associated Press)

Doylstown, Penn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A picked detail of federal agents sprang today to a grim search for abductors of Caleb J. Milne, fourth, who was found dazed and trussed in a roadside ditch, his eyes and lips sealed with tape.

The Milne family was reported as having paid a $25,000 ransom at almost the very hour—midnight—that a motorist spotted the 35-year-old actor and mystery writer who vanished from his New York apartment Saturday.

"They ditched me," Milne moaned in reply to the motorist, who asked how he got in the road. Then he became unconscious.

On the way to a hospital the young man revived and cried: "Don't stick those needles in me. Milne wore no socks, he had on but one shoe. The bare foot was swollen, his wrists were bound to his knees. Several layers of adhesive tape were over his eyes and mouth. Hospital attaches said that his right upper arm showed apparent needle wounds and as though he had been subjected to narcotics."

Doors were locked soon after the youth arrived and none save relatives were permitted to see him. S. R. Gerhart, Philadelphia salesman, first saw the prostrate boy in the glare of his automobile headlights.

Warren Milne, uncle of the youth and a central figure in the entire investigation, arrived at the hospital a short time later and identified him.

J. EDGAR HOOVER SAYS NO RANSOM MONEY PAID

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, announced today no ransom was paid for the return of Caleb J. Milne, fourth.

The chief of the "G-Men" added to this terse statement on a question that his men are tracing "important clues" in what they have said "positively" was a kidnaping case. (Continued on Page Five)

Truck Load Toys Ready For Santa To Give Poor Kids

Discarded Toys Gathered by Scouts and Reconditioned by Firemen. Ready to Be Given Out

Approximately an average truck load of toys will be turned over to the Salvation Army today or tomorrow to be given to poor children in the city Christmas.

The firemen have completed reconditioning the toys and they are in first class condition and ready to be given to children who otherwise would not receive any this Christmas.

The toys were gathered by the Boy Scouts and taken to the fire department, where they were reconditioned. Every kind of toy is included in the group, dolls, automobiles, bicycles, etc.

A portion of the fire department was turned into a toy factory and old toys were made into practically new ones.

The custom of gathering the discarded toys, reconditioning them and delivering them to the homes of the needy is, an annual one in the city. The Boy Scouts, firemen and Salvation Army cooperate in the movement.

J. B. Spilman Suffers Stroke of Paralysis

J. B. Spilman, burar of East Carolina Teachers college, was in Pitt General hospital today critically ill after having suffered a stroke of paralysis early this morning while driving his car on Dickinson avenue.

Mr. Spilman lost control of his car and it struck a telephone pole, but he was not injured from the wreck.

An ambulance was called and he was rushed to the hospital. After he was described him as being in a critical condition.

SENATOR SAYS BONUS TO PASS

Senator Byrnes, Of South Carolina, to Offer Bill

Washington, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.) predicted today that the bill he and Senator Steiwer (R., Ore.) had introduced for cash payment of the bonus in 1938 would pass at the coming session of Congress even if it is vetoed by President Roosevelt.

His prediction was made shortly after Speaker Byrnes of the House, told reporters he believed both the House and Senate would dispose of the bonus issue by February 1. Byrnes made his statement at the White House after explaining the provisions of his bill to the President. He would not say whether he thought the measure might meet a presidential veto.

It would provide a 97 per cent cash payment immediately but that veterans holding their bonus certificates for two years would get the full face value.

"I am satisfied that the bill I have described can secure a two-thirds vote in the Senate," Byrnes said. "We have an agreement in the steering committee that the finance committee will be required to report a bill within two weeks after Congress meets."

Byrnes said he had discussed the measure with many veterans who were satisfied with it. It made no attempt to finance the cash payment and thereby avoided some of the controversies marking the attempts to legislate on bonus payments.

Winterville Team Wins And Loses in Basketball Games

Winterville, Dec. 18.—After splitting a double-header with Bethel high last week Winterville came back with more fighting determination and won three games in the first two days of the present week. Monday night the Winterville girls lost a close game to Tarboro High school by the score of 19 to 23. The same night the Winterville boys turned back the Tarboro boys by the close score of 16 to 18. In the girls' game with Tarboro, the Tarboro lassies were ahead at every moment in the game, but at several times they were only one or two points ahead. The closeness of the score from start to finish kept the spectators wild. For Tarboro, Miss Satterwhite and Miss Perritt played well. For Winterville Misses Twiddy and Cox featured with their excellent defensive play.

In the boys' games both teams looked like basketball teams instead of semi-basket and semi-football teams. Both teams played clean and smooth basketball and omitted the rough, "roll and tumble" game.

For Tarboro every member of the team turned in excellent play—four members of the team made an equal number of points. For Winterville the excellent floorwork of the try forward, Hogwood, was the one bright spot in the Winterville attack. It was his brainwork that repeatedly pulled the game out of the fire for Winterville. Winterville finally won 16 to 18.

Tuesday night in the Winterville-Tarboro game the teams and did not let them go until they had chalked up two more victories. The local girls had no trouble in winning from the visitors, who were a great deal smaller than the Winterville girls. Every combination that coach Mobley used scored with consistency. A very small girl, Miss Manning showed an unsanny acclit at finding the basket. She led her team's scoring with 12 points to her credit. Miss Barnes featured on the defense. For Farmville Miss Hardy was the mainstay on the defense. She held Winterville's favored forward to two field goals.

In the boys' game the frequent substitution of both teams kept anyone from featuring. Several combinations produced very little scoring. It looked more like a practice game than anything else. Winterville showed its supremacy, however, by scoring 35 points to Farmville's 10.

Tobacco Bowl Game Arrangements Made

Boone, Dec. 19.—The North State Board of Football today announced that headquarters were to be set up in Winston-Salem for the week preceding the Tobacco Bowl Game in order to entertain the special guests, and also to afford visiting newspaper men a place to get together on the day of the game.

High school coaches and players will also make headquarters with the North State Board, and already several sporting goods stores have asked to be allowed to display their line of equipment before the coaches.

Invitations are to be sent to the sports editor of every leading newspaper in the state, and a great many are expected to be in attendance. Jake Wade, of the Charlotte Observer, Edward W. Mitchell, Greensboro Daily News, Frank Spencer, Winston-Salem Journal and Anthony J. McKelvin, of the North State Board of Football, are all heading the large list of newspaper men that are backing the board to the utmost degree in its attempt to place high school football on a higher basis in North Carolina.

Pactolus Teams Win Two Games

Pactolus, Dec. 19.—Pactolus High school basketball teams won both games here, Tuesday, in their first meeting of the season with the teams of Arthur High school, Janie Grey, with 9 points, led Pactolus to a 28-12 victory over Arthur girls. H. Warren led Arthur girls with 8 points.

Norman Warren, with 10 points, paced Pactolus boys to win 24 to 14 over Arthur. Raspberry led Arthur boys with 7 points.

LIFE IN 1935

Third in a series of 12 daily articles.

By HERBERT YAHRAES (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Dust storms early in the year blackened both the atmosphere and the outlook for Midwestern Farmer John Smith and, sweeping sun-darkestening clouds of powdered soil eastward, gave city dwellers some idea of the disaster to large agricultural areas.

Then came April, and rain, and the year wound up with crop income substantially better than in 1934. The agricultural adjustment administration put the total at $6,800,000,000, an increase of $33,000,000.

Farmers' Share. Noting this rise, urban John Smith might have wondered just how much he contributed to it. Late in the year there was one slight indication: the typical American family, said department of agriculture experts, paid $22.64 in October for 10 principal foods. Of this sum, the farmer received $10.12. Processing taxes (which go to pay the farmer "benefits" for controlling his production) amounting to 83 cents were said to be included in the difference between the two amounts. Also, the price of meat was generally higher, a fact dramatized in Detroit and some other cities, where housewives "struck" against the butchers.

Attacks on the AAA came from urban centers, from manufacturers and millers challenging constitutionality of processing taxes.

About the time the rumpus kicked up over these taxes was getting well under way, in the spring, farmers unofficially estimated to number 3,000 went to Washington, charged Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, President Roosevelt, jeered anti-administrationists Senator Long, Governor Talmadge.

Farm Picture Changes. Opponents suggested the farmers had been enticed to Washington to make a show of saying "thank you," headily the administration denied it.

Not so long ago the popular picture of a farmer showed a man working with the elements, battling them when necessary to raise a crop, sometimes making money, sometimes not, but always rising or falling on his own—a stark individualist.

That picture has been changing, with 1935 hurrying the process. The farmer no longer works entirely by himself. Evidence: the fall referendum on whether the control program should be continued (AAA announced the vote was 86.37 per cent favorable); the crop adjustment contracts (some 3,130, 000 were signed during the year, with more than 4,800 county or sectional committees acting for the farmers.)

Farmer John Smith's reward was a share in the rental and benefit payments, estimated to amount for $57,280,000 of the total income as compared with 1934's $396,425,000 (in 1934 the government also poured out $111,000,000 to buy drought-stricken livestock).

Life More Complex.

The change in the rural picture may be making life more profitable for Farmer John Smith, certainly has not made it simpler. Congress had decreed, in effect, that government stamps would be required in the handling of potatoes. While his city cousin joked about bootlegged spuds, the administration gave the act cold welcome, finally announced there would be limited sums to administer it until congress reconvened.

Perhaps Farmer John Smith's chief interest as the year drew to a close was whether the supreme court would declare processing taxes unconstitutional. The department of agriculture assured him benefit payments would not be affected, but he could see, and so could his city cousin, that money for these payments must come from somewhere, and if not from processing taxes, where?

Whatever the decision, the court cases helped assure Farmer Smith

Tomorrow—Politics. The year-end finds Farmer John Smith spending much time over account books. Despite catastrophes such as dust storms, it was not an unprofitable year, but one in which the business of farming became more complex.

James Dees, student at the University of North Carolina will arrive Friday to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dees.

Miss Jane Garrett arrived today from Raleigh to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett.

Mrs. J. G. Waldrop who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Stahon of Bethel, her daughter, Mrs. Frank Wilson, and her sons, J. C. and J. H. Waldrop in this city, has returned to her home in Hendersonville.

Mrs. C. M. Childs of Strausburg, Va., is a guest in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Spiggle, in Grimesland. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce King of Trenton, N. J., and Clifton King of Glydon, Md., are spending the holidays with Mrs. H. Bentley Harris. James Keel arrived last night from Long Beach, California, to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Keel.

Sans Souci Club

Truly interpreting the Christmas spirit was the meeting of the Sans Souci Book Club at the home of Mrs. J. B. James, with Mrs. James and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop joint hostesses.

The spacious home was lovely and festive with its Christmas decorations of holly, poinsettias and gleaming candles. In the living room a beautifully decorated tree not only served as a part of the decorations but held an appropriate gift for each guest. Featuring the dining room decorations was the Nativity scene which centered the dining table.

The warm welcome given by the hostesses was emphasized by the life-sized Santa Claus standing in the rear hall, beaming his Christmas greeting.

After routine business and discussion of the club's Christmas activities the meeting was turned over to the hostesses who also gave the program.

In introducing the program, Mrs. James read the following poem:

"It isn't far to Bethlehem town!
It's anywhere that Christ comes down.
And finds in people's friendly face
A welcome and abiding place;
The road to Bethlehem runs right
The homes of folks like me and you."

After singing "Under the Stars," Mrs. Waldrop gave a most inspirational reading "What Christmas Means To Me." As the mother, home-maker, friend and Christian thought of everything Christmas holds dear, the thoughts were portrayed by the lovely musical accompaniment of Mrs. James, using many of the Christmas carols and familiar songs to stir and challenge the hearts of the listeners.

With the singing of "Cantique Noel," Mrs. Waldrop closed the program which brought the happiness, peace and good will of the season.

Miss Lucy James, home for the holidays added another treat to the happy occasion with her singing "Under the Stars."
Guests were next invited into the dining room and seated at small decorated tables scattered throughout the house where the hostesses served a delicious turkey dinner and the meeting adjourned to meet January 7th with Mrs. Fred Forbes.
Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. James Ficklen, Mrs. Correll Waldrop, Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Mrs. Harvey Clayton and Mrs. M. K. Fort.—Reported.

Attention Christian Church.

The members of the Eighth Street Christian church, including members of Bible School and other organizations, are requested to bring to the church Sunday morning their donations of food, toys and clothing to be used for the relief of the needy people of Greenville. This will be the last opportunity to make donations to this most worthy and urgently needed cause. Receptacles will be placed in the vestibule of the church on Sunday and packages should be placed in these. There is much need among the poor of our town and our church must carry its share of this burden. Do not overlook this most important item in your preparations for the celebration of Christmas.

Hostess at Turkey Dinner

Grimesland, Dec. 19.—Mrs. C. H. Spiggle was hostess last Tuesday evening to her Bridge club and their husbands at a Turkey dinner, honoring her husband's birthday. Christmas greens, colored lights and candles gave a festive air to the beautiful lace covered table, with its gleaming silver. There was much merriment when Dr. Spiggle for once on time for dinner, came in tired. He was hailed with "Happy Birthday" much to his surprise.

ed, as he had forgotten it was his birthday.

Each guest found a nice gift beside their place card. After dinner bridge, games and contest were enjoyed. Prior to the departure of the guest, Dr. Spiggle was asked to display his skill with a knife, he was presented with a huge red Apple, and asked to cut several slices the same size, upon cutting the first slice, presents of all size and shape rolled out, much to his astonishment, conveying to him the good wishes and esteem of his friends. Those receiving prizes for bridge, etc. were Mrs. W. A. Hudson, table lamp, S. A. Porter, ash tray, Mrs. J. H. Clark, nut basket; George Buck, men's toilet set; Mrs. Norman Edwards, handkerchief; J. Federal Agencies Advised that They Must Show Results

Convocation if Not Coordination, Attendants Not Certain, at Conference Yesterday

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Dec. 19.—Whether the Virginia Dare room of the Sir Walter, in which the various federal agencies met yesterday, was really entertaining a convocation or simply a convocation, attendants were not certain, but the meeting was held and it was told that it must show results.

R. M. Ganitt, state director of the National Emergency Council program, called the meeting and the entire alphabetical outfit was here. Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, United States Senator J. W. Bailey, Congressman John H. Kerr, and other members of the delegation in Washington spoke. Mr. Ganitt welcomed the agencies to whom he gave his pledge of cooperation. Senator Bailey found them confusing in multiplication but one in purpose to attack the greatest disaster the nation has known. "These agencies mean that this attack, led by a great governor and by a magnificent president of a great people," he said. He asked can the government risk itself in this fight. That answer depends upon the administrators of this program, he said and 75 per cent of the success of all legislation depends upon administration. He made the people laugh when he said evidently the work done has been fundamentally and lastingly successful since Herbert Hoover is beginning to claim credit for it. Mr. Bailey reminded the visitor that there is great hostility to this program and everything is being done to defeat it.

Congressman Kerr thought the government ought to make it hot for the parader of isms, communism, atheism, infidelity, things that at the very essence and foundation of government. He would have no place in this country for them.

After the entire lot of agencies had been introduced, the morning addresses heard, then the visitors given lunch, they returned and finished the day. They left remembering that there is a campaign ahead in 1936.

NEVER MIND THE LADY by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett and Allaire West met first on the tropic, where Allaire succumbed to Terry's serious manner and Terry succumbed to Allaire's aura of beauty and delight in life.

Chapter 22 EXIT

"Oh! probably have three hundred and sixty-five experiences like that a year," Allaire said. "I don't well, where would you like to go?"

"You showed me your town. I can do no more than return the compliment. How about the Pillars Club?—cocktails, dress shirts, and subtle puppyish remarks?"

"I don't like it here," he said bluntly. "I don't like anything about this picture I didn't come here to be impressed by flunkies and chandeliers; I came here to see a swell girl."

"And what do I find?—somebody sitting on a throne surrounded by utrons and fog. Well, sometime when you have nothing else to do, drop over to Carteret, Virginia, and take a look at a new marker in the burghard it says: 'The storm is over now and so forth, but don't let that fool you.'"

"He was a man trying to beat a tough game, and he's through for ever now, but you had an entertaining evening, so that squares every thing."

"She was on her feet too, pale with the hoodless touch of anger."

"No one ever talked to me like this before," she said furiously. "And you can't talk to me like this now. You're ruining what's left of something that was once very fine. I dislike fools, but I can't stand roughnecks. I feel cheapened."

"Fool! Roughneck! Sure, he was a fool. But what did she know of roughnecks? Standing there lovely and cold telling him he was a— He suddenly took her arms and she felt the pressure of fingers like steel."

"That's the end of everything," she said tensely. "I once thought the happiest moment of my life would come with the morning when I saw you again. And now—I don't want to see you ever—because you ran out on me when I needed you, wanted you—and you're rough and wild—I needed you!"

HE didn't know where the butler came from. The girl must have rung, or maybe the butler was sensitive to mental telepathy. "Mr. Willett is leaving," the girl said quietly. Willett picked up his hat. He looked at her again. "Good-bye," he said. "Sorry, but maybe it's just as well."

She inclined her head slightly. That was all. He followed the butler out into the hall, strode down that long parquet floor. An orchestra was playing in the drawing room and some dinner guests were just entering the front door. Eleanor West was entertaining, evidently. The world war full of entertaining evenings.

Outside, he stopped and looked back at the brightly-lighted mansion. A million miles between that girl's world and his a cap that could never be closed. How insane to think it ever could have been different! Lord, what a fool he'd been!

He crossed the courtyard went through a door and out on the street. He hailed a cruising taxi, and then stood irresolute as the cab waited.

George Fox re-enters the picture, tomorrow.

publicist at the AAA office in Washington (not Secretary Wallace's AAA) pointed out the dangers in that scheme.

It is doubtful if any move to handicap the industry will make much headway in superior circles. It is leading the way to recovery and gaining new friends at the capital every day.

HINT: Perhaps they didn't understand the meaning of the wig-wagging but President Roosevelt recently sent a pointed message to our delegates at the London conference. Decoded, it meant to come home after going through a few motions on behalf of naval disarmament.

Naval men are chucking over the show. They see a direct connection between Japan's unacceptable demand for parity with the American fleet and PDR's announcement

New York By JAMES McMULLIN START: The more the utilities look at the setup for tests of the holding company law the less they like it. The Securities Exchange Commission is doing some all-American blocking to keep their tacker-lers out of the play. Nor is it just a question of beating them to the draw in the courts. Here's another angle that will count.

The Commission's sweet reasonableness with the power companies is largely earn valuable legal dividends. It gave them every opportunity to hedge their registration almost on their own terms. It has issued no regulations for holding companies—not even the registered ones. It has publicly announced that it will not attempt punitive action towards companies that failed to register—nor their officers and directors. So what? So how is any group going to prove to a court's satisfaction that it has suffered damages because of the act?

The Commission's conduct emphasizes its contention that the utilities have been yelling murder for nothing—which puts them at a decided psychological disadvantage.

Moreover, even if utility lawyers surmount the hurdles the SEC has thrown in their path, chances are the Commission's own suit against Electric Bond and Share will get a head start and reach the Supreme Court long before its handicapped competitors—which would be just dandy with the Commission.

SORE: J. J. Pelley—head of the Association of American Railways—may still conceive it to be one of his primary duties to press for the ousting of Joe Eastman as railroad coordinator and for abolition of his office. His words and actions indicate as much. But a number of big time rail executives disagree with him sharply in private. They don't say so out loud because they don't want to give the public the impression of internal dissension, but behind the scenes they are urging Pelley to chance his tune.

The fact is that the same group of rail leaders who sponsored formation of the new Association and chose Pelley to run it were also largely responsible for Eastman's appointment. The main reason his job was created was because they asked it as an imperative measure of assistance to the railroads. They had no special fondness for Eastman—who they knew was predisposed in favor of government ownership—but they did feel he knew more about their problems than anyone else in the country and would give them fair-minded and intelligent cooperation. Their sentiments on that score are unchanged.

Of course Pelley has some support for his views within the Association.

tion. But his persistent anti-Eastman attitude is a very sore point in influential New York quarters.

SANTA and the IRON QUEEN

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE BEE FELT SORRY FOR HER

SYNOPSIS: Santa is in trouble because the Iron Queen, held prisoner in toyland, has made a clock which cuts the hours in half. But a magic bee and his friend, the beetle, plan to help Santa.

Chapter X THE IRON QUEEN RELENTS

While the beetle was puffing and panting across the snow to toyland a queer thing happened to the Iron Queen.

She had carved at least five hundred spoons and failed on every one. Her wrists ached, and she had refused to eat Santa's food so she was hungry. Her pride was hurting because she couldn't do so simple a thing as whittle.

For some time Santa's golden bee sat on a window ledge and watched her. Then he noticed a big tear form in the corner of one eye and trickle down her cheek. Now the Iron Queen was such a hard selfish woman that a tear from her was like a thunderclap on a sunny day. The bee felt sorry for her so he flew down and sat on a pile of wood in front of her.

"I'm sure I never cared for flowers," she was grumbling to herself. "Why, I never even looked at them. Such a silly waste of time."

"Is that so?" said the bee. "Well, if I didn't look at flowers I wouldn't eat." The queen stared at him surprised.

"That's a very sensible idea," she said slowly. "Come to think of it, I never looked at a bee before. Stand still!"

So the bee stood very still with his golden wings spread carefully. The queen looked long and carefully at him, and then began to carve a tiny wooden bee with slow, easy strokes. She worked very hard and silently. Then she stopped and stared at her work. She looked at the bee, and guess what she did. She winked at him!

He flew over and lit on her hand, and there on the spool she held he saw a dainty picture of himself as good as a Santa could make.

"I must say that's excellent," the bee said.

"Thank you," said the Queen. "You've been a great help. I begin to see what Santa is after. Beautiful things are quite pleasant, and you know, you are beautiful, my little fellow."

"Thank you," said the bee bending all his knees in a row.

"Now don't tell anyone," said the queen. "I want to surprise Santa. Could you suggest to Mrs. Santa that I'd like some food. I feel quite hungry."

Shortly, two little elves carried her a tray and she had her dinner quite happily, smiling alone in a room filled with wood shavings.

Japan Insistent In Equal Navy Demand

London, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Japan's stubborn determination to have a navy equal to any, regardless of world opinion, emerged clearly as sea power delegates debated the merits of a British compromise proposal.

Experts of the bureau identification division studied three ransom notes. The latest, sent to Milne's grandfather in Philadelphia, was wrapped carefully to preserve fingerprints and rushed directly to the Washington office.

HOLMES WARNS TREE SEEKERS

State Law Prohibits Destroying Road Beauty

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 19.—Destroyers of roadside beauty through the gathering or injury of flowers, shrubs, and Christmas greens were warned today against such practices by State Forester J. S. Holmes who called attention to a North Carolina law which prohibits this form of vandalism.

"Any persons, not being on his own lands," Mr. Holmes quoted the law as reading, "or without the consent of the owner thereof, who shall, within one hundred yards of any State highway or North Carolina or within a like distance of any other public roads or highway, willfully commit any damage, injury, or spoliation to or upon any tree, wood, underwood, timber, garden, crops, vegetables, plants, lands springs or any other matter or thing growing or being thereon, or who cuts, breaks, injures, or removes any tree, plant, or flower within such limits—shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The penalty for the violation of this statute, is a fine of up to $50 or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days.

Mr. Holmes pointed out that some automobilists have followed the practice of making excursions off the highways for the gathering of Christmas decorations, often returning with cars laden and draped with such beautiful greens as holly, mistletoe, pines, and others.

Numerous protests against such destruction of natural beauty along the roadsides and wasteful cutting of all types of Christmas decorations have been received by the State Forester.

By stripping the roadsides of plants, flowers, and decorative trees, Mr. Holmes explained that a double offense is committed—damage to private property and the elimination of one of the greatest attractions to the "show windows" of the state, and public highways. Every resident of North Carolina, he declared, should have a direct interest in preserving features that add to the esthetic enjoyment of life and which appeal to visitors.

Former Representative W. W. Neal, who is to try a wet race in dry North Carolina will give the public another thing to contemplate—an oldtimer running on an ancient platform.

(Continued from Page One) repeatedly as he examined the first seven witnesses if they had heard Batten say he did not want to leave Mrs. Daughtry, possibly, to run around with other men while he was in jail.

Mrs. Thelma Worrell, a sister of Mrs. Daughtry, testified as to relations between her sister and Batten, Raymond Atkinson and other men.

Batten's court appointed attorney entered a plea of not guilty and indicated they would plead insanity.

THE ROYAL FAMILY OF THE KINGDOM OF GOOD TASTE

"Seagram Rules the Kingdom of Good Taste"—and here is its Royal Family! These fine whiskies all belong to the aristocratic line established by The House of Seagram more than three-quarters of a century ago. Each, supreme in its own realm, possesses the Seagram heritage of finer taste.

Seagram's vast treasure—millions of gallons of rare whiskies—is truly a Royal Reserve that guards the Seagram tradition of finer whiskies today, tomorrow and for years to come.

Seagram's 5 Crown
A rich blend—full 90 proof, yet with the mild taste that makes Seagram's America's favorite.

Seagram's 7 Crown
Matchlessly blended the Seagram way. Full 90 proof, rich—yet mild in taste.

Seagram's "83"
An historic Canadian whisky with unusual delicacy of flavor and excellent mixing qualities... because it's "SOFT-STILLED" 90 proof.

Seagram's King Arthur Gin
A Distilled London Dry Gin of rare delicacy of flavor and excellent mixing qualities... because it's "SOFT-STILLED" 90 proof.

"Here's the one I've anchored to!" "Here's the smoothest anchorage in the whole sea of whiskies —Four Roses! Compare it with any whiskey of any age or price and you'll say Four Roses is satin-smooth . . . mellow-rich in flavor. Because it is real old-fashioned whiskey made the old-fashioned way." FOUR ROSES A blend of straight whiskies—and that means all whiskies! The price of Four Roses in full pints is $1.50 Frankfort Distillers, Louisville & Baltimore, makers of Four Roses, Paul Jones, Old Oscar Pepper, Mattingly & Moore—all blends of straight whiskies.
