League of Nations Council Called To Discuss Mutual De- fenses by Nations

London, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The British government was stated by a reliable source today to be considering further precautionary measures against the possibility of a war like act on the part of Premier Mussolini of Italy because of Great Britain's determination to reinforce sanctions against Italy.

A meeting of the council of the league of nations to discuss the question of military mutual defenses against an act of desperation on the part of Italy was mentioned in government circles, but was not confirmed officially.

In government offices, however, it was authoritatively confirmed that steps have been taken to see what support by other nations could be mobilized in the event of a war-like movement.

It was said that the inquiries thus far had been encouraging.

So far the British government has confined its approach to Mediterranean powers.

A British official in Cairo informed an Associated Press correspondent that it would require a "bigger and more mobile force than the Italian army in Eritrea to penetrate Egypt from Libya."

For some time past, said the official, Great Britain has not made a large concentration of either men or equipment there.

The attack fears appear to be based on a belief in some quarters that Mussolini even will have to sue for peace on terms offered by the league of nations or else try some act of desperation.

Unusual Gains Shown in Nov. Export Figures

Attributed Chiefly to Larger Ship- ments of Unmanufactured Cot- ton, Automobiles, Petroleum

Washington, Dec. 21.—(AP)—United States exports to the rest of the world, including Italy, were shown by Commerce Department figures today to have increased in November over October this year, and November last year.

The general gain was contrary to the usual seasonal trend.

It was attributed by the department chiefly to larger shipments of unmanufactured cotton, automobiles and petroleum products.

Total exports in November were placed at $269,400,000 against imports of $168,955,000.

This resulted in a favorable trade balance of $100,445,000 for November. For the 11 months ending with November the favorable balance was reported to have been $197,433,000.

November exports to Italy were $9,054,915 compared with $8,418,608 in November, 1934, and $6,821,366 in October this year.

"One of the outstanding features of merchandising trade in November," the department said, "was the contrary to seasonal increase in the exports of unmanufactured cotton."

Exports to Italian Africa jumped from $17,971 in November, 1934, to $583,735 in November this year.

Exports to Ethiopia were $672 in November, 1934, and about $1,034 in November, 1935.

Control Act Ratified By S.C. Legislature

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A temporary highway control act was ratified by the general assembly and signed by Governor Johnston in concluding a true in South Carolina's highway war.

The act set a six-official supervisory board of state officials to direct the highway department through its chief engineer and secretary treasurer since the government Democratic troops who had been held for seven weeks.

Both branches of the legislature then adopted a concurrent resolution for a sine die adjournment of the extra session, received the Governor's final message and adjourned.

REFUTE PLAN OF REBELLION

Rebellion Scheduled to Start in Mexican City

Mexico City, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Mexican government announced today that it learned a rebellion was scheduled to start in Orizaba, industrial center of the state of Vera Cruz where the laborista party has its greatest strength.

The movement already has been frustrated the department of interior asserted in raids here on a house of Luis Morales, labor leader and a supporter of General Plutarco Elias Calles.

The announcement of the proposed rebellion followed denials of both Morales and former President Calles, who returned here last week from Los Angeles, California, that they planned any revolutionary movement.

Leaders of labor organizations completed plans for a monster anti-Calles demonstration here tomorrow and announced more than 50,000 persons would participate.

President Lazaro Cardenas, with whom the one time "mysteryman" Calles split over economic policies before going into the voluntary exile from which he has returned, ordered government employees not to join in the parade of protesting against Calles' arrival back in Mexico.

Unofficial reports circulated that a number of persons were being taken into custody.

Safety Division Report Made On Licenses Revoked

Total of 524 Revocations Made Since November 1; Most of Them of Drunk Drivers

Raleigh, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The state highway safety division since November 1 has revoked 524 drivers' licenses and 503 of the revocations followed court conviction of the owners for charges of drunken driving.

Arthur Fulk, director of the division expressed the opinion drunken driving, which is credited with causing the largest portion of fatal accidents on highways of the state may be broken up by the drivers' license law.

"I believe that when we get all our permits issued and all details cleared up we can do something to curb the drunken driving," Fulk commented. "When we get full enforcement of the statute we will come close to ridding the road of such drivers and people will stop to think before they will drive after taking a drink."

Joe Louis Reports He Is Still Alive

Chicago, Dec. 21.—(AP)—For the tenth time in three months, Joe Louis, sensational negro heavy-weight boxer, today denied reports he had been killed in an automobile accident.

No one was allowed to see the "Brown Bomber" but a negro policeman conferred with him and then announced that Joe had just eaten a hearty breakfast.

POLICE DROP QUESTION IN STAR'S DEATH

Adopt Theory The- ma Todd Victim of Accidental Death

GRAND JURY WILL CONTINUE PROBE

Many Film Celebri- ties Called to Ap- pear at First Hearing to Be Held Monday

Los Angeles, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Police dropped investigation of the bizarre death of Thelma Todd today on the theory the film beauty was a victim of an accidental death—not "a perfect crime or suicide."

However, the county grand jury gathered up the loose ends of the bizarre mystery with the foreman, George Rochester, expressing belief the actress was slain in a "murder by monoxide."

George Johnson, deputy district attorney, discounted the theory of murder also to that pointing to suicide.

"It seems to difficult to believe Miss Todd went to that garage and started the motor of her car to keep warm," he said.

More than 30 witnesses including filmland celebrities, were summoned for the grand jury's first hearing next Monday in an effort to check every known action of the actress from the moment she left the night club party until her body was found last Monday, some 30 hours later.

The grand jury foreman's cryptic statement he had found evidence indicative of murder was supported by the report of Tom Cavett, District Attorney investigator, who disclosed he found blood stains on the running board phaeton in which her body was found.

A dramatic midnight test by the district attorney's office to determine hazy circumstances in the case—whether the actress walked up 270 steps from her sidewalk cafe to the garage and her death—was disclosed.

A woman operative of Miss Todd's physical proportion and dressed similarly in furs evening gowns and daintily slippers climbed the steps. Her slippers were compared with Miss Todd's shoes and the latter were not "scuffed" enough to indicate the actress had walked the climb, it was reported.

"And if she did not walk to the garage how did she get there?" asked Cavett. "No one has come forward to prove she did walk there."

Successive invasions of India by Alexander the Great, Mahmud of Ghazni, Jenghis Khan, Baber, Nadir Shah and Ahmad Shah have passed through Kabul, capital of Afghanistan.

Work on the remaining number of the projects will be started as soon after it is begun on the first three as the contractor can get to it, Mr. Keller said.

The Winterville project is a new building to be erected on the west side of the present one. It will be a single story brick building consisting of nine classrooms and an auditorium.

The Grimesland building will be built between the present one and the highway. It will be one story and will have eight classrooms and an auditorium. It also will be of brick.

The Arthur project is the addition of an auditorium and heating plant.

The original contractor will erect all of the buildings, but the writing and painting work will be sublet, Mr. Keller said.

The constructions are expected to utilize practically all of the unemployed who wish work in the various vicinities. PWA regulations as to wages and hours will be observed on all of the projects.

The wage scale for the various types of work prevalent in the county will be paid the employees on the projects.

The contractor is given approximately a year to complete the 12 buildings and additions, but D. H. Conley, county school superintendent, has expressed a hope they would be completed by the time the school term starts in the fall of next year.

Daily Reflector's Holiday Schedule

The Daily Reflector will issue no edition on Christmas Day and the Christmas eve paper will be delivered early Tuesday morning, the management having decided to follow its custom of giving employees the usual holiday vacation.

All persons having news items to be published as well as business houses wishing to insert Christmas greetings will necessarily have to get them in The Reflector office, by Monday afternoon.

The Tuesday's paper will be the regular Christmas edition and will carry out the holiday spirit in its features and advertisements. Stores wishing to print a message to their customers are urged to get them ready Monday.

JAMES' HOME WINS HONORS

Selected Best in Holi- day Decoration Contest

First prize in the Greenville Christmas decoration contest was won by the original decorative creation on the balcony over the front porch of the home of J. B. James on East Fifth Street in front of the college campus the judges decided last night.

Second prize was won by the decorations in the premises of C. W. Howard on East Fifth Street in front of the college. Third prize was designated as recognition for the decoration of the porch and bay window of Dr. W. M. B. Brown on Dickinson Avenue near Five Points.

Special mention is requested by the judges for the decoration of the homes of W. E. Hooker, H. H. Duncan, D. D. Overton, S. T. White, and Jessie Smith. In each instance effective and successful decorations were found on the premises of those homes. The judges said they found the selection for prizes this year very difficult in view of the large number of those who are decorating for Christmas with an eye to having it so the public may enjoy from the street and the city be made more beautiful during the season.

The committee of judges found that whole sections of the city seem to have failed to enter into the spirit of the decorations for those passing by as well as for the home. Inevitably the judges found groups of houses had decorated and then long stretches of street bare of any signs of Christmas.

First prize is ten dollars, second prize five dollars, third prize two dollars and a half, all given by the merchants association.

Rome, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini showed his disdain for the discussions of the Franco-British proposal for peace between Italy and Ethiopia today by refusing even to reply to them after ordering the east African campaign to proceed.

An official spokesman said the declaration of the fascist grand council issued after a session last night constituted Italy's only answer to the peace proposal.

This declaration referred briefly to Britain's "reputation" of the proposals and said Italy would go on to reach the "goal" designated by Il Duce as the nation's destiny.

In directing congenitally that his armies press on for conquest of Ethiopia, Mussolini posed his "unshakably united" people against the "disorganization and contradiction" of sanctions nations.

He declared his conviction that fascists would triumph over both Ethiopia and League sanction.

Fascist sources asserted that the Anglo-French peace plan having failed and league sanctions failing Italy would even be able to conclude the war in Ethiopia—on its terms—after a decisive military triumph.

Raleigh also had a low of 14, the coldest of the winter by 10 degrees. Clouds laced the sky there during the early morning but the sun began to break through and warm up a bit.

Generally, skies cleared over the state and the sun began duty on time bringing a bit of warmth to the countryside and promised temperatures of a little milder during the day.

Chief of Police George Clark today advised citizens of Greenville not to be fooled by a man posing as needy and asking alms, although his appearance indicates he is in desperate want.

Chief Clark said he was going to put a stop to the practice and did he had instructed his men to pick up the man if they encountered him.

The make-believe dependent came in town yesterday dressed in only the barest clothes, overall torn off about the knee, no shoes and every piece he had on in tatters and canvassed the business section asking for help. Chief Clark said, and left with new shoes and clothes. Some time later he was seen back on the streets, dressed in the same old clothes and seeking aid.

The Police Chief said he believed the man would take the good clothes given him by some kind-hearted person and dispose of them at monetary gain.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett met Allaire West in the tropics, and Allaire saved Terry's life by shooting a notice. But there was a misunderstanding; when Terry looked Allaire up in Washington the meeting was not a success, and it was brief. Now George Fox, attached in the tropical city of the shooting, has returned to Washington on business. He tried to find Allaire, whom he loves, and has found a very tricky man named LaMarr at the West home. LaMarr demands a few words with Fox.

Chapter 24 BLACKMAIL

FOX regarded him keenly. LaMarr seemed very sure of himself. Knew all the tricks of manners could dance divinely, and talk vividly of far countries and big game hunts at early dawn—that must have intrigued Ne! West but Allaire had never had any use for him.

"Well, let's have it," he said. "What's on your mind, Mr. LaMarr?" The other waved a hand. "This is hardly the place—may I have the honor to call?"

"What's the matter with right now?" LaMarr shrugged. "Nothing. But let us go where we won't be disturbed."

He seemed to know his way around the house. He took Fox downstairs to the little reception room with the brassbound clock. They sat down and LaMarr took a cigarette out of a long silver case and then placed the case at Fox's elbow with a polite nod.

"Mr. Fox," he said, lighting up and leaning back in a cloud of smoke, "I have come across something that might cause some unpleasantness and notoriety if it should be published abroad."

"You do not know of what I speak perhaps?" LaMarr queried. "Not exactly," said Fox. "Begin at the beginning."

"Ah—yes," LaMarr nodded, and smoked for a minute in silence. Fox wondered what nationality he was. There was a lot of English in him and some French and Spanish too. Might have been somebody once—he'd been educated at an American or English university, that was a cinch.

"Mr. Fox," he said suddenly, "did you notice anything unusual the night of the Legation Club Polo Ball given under the auspices of your Embassy?"

The attaché was suddenly alert. "I don't think so," he said calmly. "Remarkable," mused LaMarr. "I would have thought you had. Well, Mr. Fox, I wouldn't have noticed anything either—except that I came out on the veranda late that evening to smoke, to look at the stars, to wait—for a friend—perhaps," he smiled lazily, "and I heard Noava's, your Embassy runner, chattering with the carriage drivers."

"What! Another clock?" she demanded quite exasperated when the elves flew in.

"But this one will always remain true to the right hour," explained the elves. "You must never touch it."

"Is that the right hour now?" asked the witch. "Yes, it is," said the elves. "How am I to know," said the witch. "Prove it."

"Well, it's almost midnight," said the elves. "You step to your doorway and when all the tree sprigs pop out of their trees at midnight, look back in here and you will see your owl clock marking 12 o'clock."

Football Players Are Expected Here To Train for Game

R. C. Deal, chairman of the East Carolina Teachers College athletic committee, today announced everything was in readiness to take care of high school football players who will train here for the Tobacco bowl football game in Winston-Salem New Year's day.

Players invited to play on the Eastern North Carolina team will start training here December 26 under the direction of Coach 'Doc' Mathis, of the college here. The local mentor will be assisted by several high school coaches from the Eastern section of the state.

The players will remain here until December 31, when they will go to Wake Forest college, where they will work out on the Deacon's gridiron. They will spend the night at the college and leave on the morning of January 1 for Winston-Salem for the contest between high schools of the East and West.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce through its cooperation with the East Carolina Training college provided for the football players to train here. During the five days the players and coaches, numbering about 30, are in Greenville they will stay at the college but they will eat at some place in the city. The Chamber of Commerce will provide the funds for feeding them.

range studies of all phases of industrial relations, including labor problems, hours and wages, fair practice codes, etc. The Walsh bill to require NRA wage and hour standards for all corporations which sell anything to the government will probably be enacted despite strenuous right wing opposition.

The organized labor influence will be strong at the forthcoming session. It will not be weakened by the Lewis row inside the A. F. of L. The O'Mahoney bill to require all corporations doing an interstate business to take out federal licenses is strongly urged by labor. It is unlikely to pass, but will attract a lot of attention and may be maneuvered into a strategic position for later enactment. The same applies, but less emphatically—to the Black-Connerly 30-hour bill. It looks like a nervous winter and spring for 'business.

LESSON: The utilities privately expect the government to win its application to have the suits now pending in the District of Columbia Supreme Court on the holding company act postponed. But they have no idea of letting it go at that. Appeal will promptly be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Admittedly this will be a matter of months. But no final decision is expected from the United States Supreme Court on any case—even if the SEC suit against Electric Bond and Share is expedited—before next winter.

Lawyers for companies which have filed suit outside the District of Columbia figure they have a good even chance to break down the government's claim of no jurisdiction. If they don't succeed they will transfer legal action at once to Washington and follow through from there. Until a final verdict is reached all unregistered holding companies and factions. Farleyites originally planned to fight him in the primary but their favorite suddenly ran out. Washington has apparently decided intercorporate strife would make a bad situation worse. Roosevelt carried it in 1932 by only 74,000. California—Democratic now. But if Dr. Townsend nominates a national ticket (nobody believes he will), he may weaken Roosevelt enough to give the state to GOP. Hiram Johnson reportedly scurrying on the administration. That's had shown a genius for antagonizing people and political of all parties for FDR, who will work on the Senator when he gets off the train at Washington.

New York By JAMES McMULLIN NERVOUS: Industrial and financial leaders have trusted scouts sounding out Congressional sentiment on the prospects for further business regulation at the next session. Their reports can be summarized as follows: There's no chance for any NRA substitute. But Congress is quite likely to authorize some sort of Economic Council to undertake long

Suggestion Move Some of Agencies Is Understandable

At Present Rate of Growth of Federal Government, Crowded Conditions are Inevitable

Washington, Dec. 21—The suggestion of Secretary Ickes that from sheer necessity parts of the federal government may be moved to the nearby city of Baltimore is not so difficult to understand.

At the rate government agencies are now growing, despite the fact federal buildings are being erected in Washington amazingly fast, over-crowded conditions are inevitable.

At the present, for example, four immense federal buildings are under construction — the new interior, general accounting office, treasury and government printing office.

It was hoped that completion of these buildings would make it possible for the government to give up privately rented space in various parts of the city.

Not Much Help
It's only necessary, however, to take a map of the capital, a pencil or two, and several reams of paper to reach the conclusions.

That completion of the interior building will open only one new block of space—that now occupied by the government in a privately-owned office building on Pennsylvania avenue.

That enlargement of the quarters of the general accounting office will result in the evacuation of another down-town private office building, the third floor of the civil service commission, and a half dozen or so other scattered offices.

The new treasury building will relieve crowded conditions even less. The government printing office will be able to move out of several ramshackle structures when its new building is ready for use, but the buildings to be vacated already have been condemned.

New Agencies Growing
The social security board—one of the federal agencies Secretary Ickes mentioned specifically as probably being moved to Baltimore—is expected to grow from its present personnel of 80 to around 4,000.

In addition, the motor carried division of the interstate commerce commission, a new federal agency, will be greatly enlarged and several other more or less "permanent" agencies of the "new deal" will follow suit.

It is true that many emergency units of the present administration now are engaged either in reducing their staffs or decentralizing. Yet, even if this shrinkage were carried to a point beyond present expectations, Uncle Sam would not be able to draw back entirely into the buildings he owns.

Washington, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Farm prices in North Carolina were lower this year than in 1934 but continued to remain considerably higher than in 1932.

The agricultural department in a report on 1935 averages said, however, that most crops had been increased to the extent that the 1935 farm value was greater than in 1934.

The average price of cotton was estimated at 11.40 cents a pound in North Carolina.

A 30 per cent reduction in the average prices of tobacco was reported for North Carolina with the 1935 average preliminarily placed at 28.5 cents a pound compared to 28.5 in 1934.

Potatoes fared better with a 1935 average price of 70 cents a bushel, compared with 61 cents in 1934.

LIFE IN 1935

Early in the fall, 1935's long-threatening rumble along the borders between Eritrea and Ethiopia became an ominous roar. Italy's legions were on the march. And fear of a war involving other nations spread through Europe and the world.

Fifth in a series of 12 daily articles. By HERBERT YAHRAES (Associated Press Staff Writer) A story glamorous as a tale from the Arabian Nights and grim as a diary from Flanders' trenches climbed to a commanding place in 1935's headlines.

So far as John Smith was concerned at the moment, the big news of October 2 came from Detroit, detailing the opening battle of that great American epic, the world series.

But he would not dispute that for posterity the day was marked by news that thundered from the distant borderland between Italy's Eritrea and independent Ethiopia—the war had started—Il Duce's legions were on the march.

The curtain had been long in going up on the African drama. All through the year had run that ominous refrain—"War . . . in Ethiopia . . . when the rainy season ends."

Much Geography. Troopships sail for Africa, Ethiopia appeals to the league, another Italian class called to the colors, league conciliation commission meets. Great Britain backs the league, Italy seeks delay at Geneva, Ethiopian forces move toward the front, France offers peace proposal, Mussolini says Italy won't be stopped—so ran the headlines.

Yet only that long "build up" made John Smith view the war as less incredible than a chronicle of Haroun al Raschid.

How could he even have imagined that 1935 would find the military forces of a great modern nation arrayed against a heterogeneous collection of black-skinned warriors, clad in white shimmies, armed with everything from spears to machine guns, headed, headed by a sad-faced emperor who traced his ancestry to Solomon, walked under an elaborate umbrella, slept in a silk tent, guarded a decades-old "war chest," and, incongruous, made midnight excursions to test the alertness of the palace guards?

John Smith found himself absorbing more geography than he ever had learned from the Chaco war (which ended this year without marked benefits to either Paraguay or Bolivia).

Deadly Serious. If he wondered why the fantastic material was not worked into a comic ballad or a popular song, he had only to look at the news from Europe.

British warships patrolling the Mediterranean, Italian troops massing in Libya (bordering Egypt), Egyptian nationalists rioting in protest against "British domination" of their country, Romans demonstrating against the Emislimen—these caught John Smith's eye because of the physical action.

Economic Pressure. The action of minds, as diplomats were themselves weary attempting to swing world opinion against Italy and at the same time safeguard their own countries' interests, was not superficially so interesting, but it did result for the first time in history in 53 nations "cracking down" on another as an aggressor.

Remembering his own meatless, wheelless, sugarless days in 1917-18, John Smith wondered how long Italy could withstand the economic pressure.

Questions. At the year-end, John Smith saw possibilities for infinite trouble. Would the Italians heed any demand that they give up conquered Ethiopian territory?

Would China stand idle if five of her northern provinces carried out plans to form a separate state, under Japan's sponsorship?

Would Greek republicans quietly accept George's return to the throne?

If Austria restored the monarchy, what would its neighbors do? Would Germany, which had gained tacit permission to rearm despite the Versailles treaty and had re-won the Saar in a plebiscite take advantage of the world situation to demand, like Italy, an even larger place in the sun?

As John Smith pondered these questions, he found entirely reasonable the Nobel committee's decision to award no peace prize for 1935.
