GOVERNOR HOFFMAN SEEKS ARREST OF "JAFSIE"

Soil Conservation Plan Hinted As A Successor To The Deceased AAA

Hurry Call Sent To Howard R. Tolley to Attend Parley

GROUP NAMED TO DRAFT PROGRAM

Farmers Meeting Apparently Centers Attention on Speed in Finding Substitute

Washington, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Actual framing of broad policies to guide a new farm program began today in a meeting of New Deal and farm leaders.

Secretary Wallace, Chester Davis, who administered the AAA, Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) of the Senate agriculture committee, and Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the House agriculture committee, drew chairs up to a conference table with a committee of 13 representing the approximately 100 farm leaders summoned to advise the New Deal on AAA substitute.

The conference lasted an hour. Upon leaving Smith told newsmen "The next farm legislation, in my opinion, will be permanent and not of an emergency type." Smith and others attending declined to elaborate on the discussion.

The farmers committee was expected to report to the full conference of 100 farm leaders after today.

It was reported that the farmers' committee had reached an agreement on a program involving the principles of soil conservation, production control and a cash payment of some form to the farmers.

Washington, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A hurry call to a soil conservation "wizard" to speed across the continent and sit in at a big farm parley here gave a new hit today of what AAA's successor may be like.

It was learned that Howard R. Tolley, described by administration officials as the "foremost agricultural economist" in the United States, had been called from the west coast to attend the farm conference summoned by Secretary Wallace to discuss new plans in the light of AAA's death.

The invitation to him was considered especially significant. Though nothing is considered settled, word from the farm meeting indicated delegates were centering on a soil conservation plan to be complemented with cash from the government.

In the view of several farmers attending the session soil conservation might result in control of production. For instance, they said, a farmer might retire a per cent of his land from commercial crops and plant it to soil building legumes, receiving government money for so doing. The result, advocates say, would be controlled production of commerce and sustained prices for them.

TWO ARE HURT IN BAD WRECK

Pitt Farmer and Wife Injured As Car Strikes Cart

Wiley Phelps, Pitt County farmer who lives near Bethel, and his wife were injured, Mrs. Phelps seriously, when a car driven by A. Hofberg, traveling salesman from St. Louis, struck the farmer's mule cart three miles from Bethel on the Greenville highway shortly after 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning.

Two automobiles and two carts figured in events which led to the accident. Hofberg charged that he was forced off the highway by W. J. Mayo, prominent Edgemore county farmer, whose car had just swung around another cart and allegedly was in the middle of the road.

Hofberg told officers he went on the shoulder, meanwhile throwing on his brakes, and his automobile skidded around, the rear end striking the mule cart on which Mr. Phelps, his wife, and Early Gurganus, 16, farm boy, were riding toward Bethel.

Hofberg likewise was going toward Bethel, while Mr. Mayo's car and the other cart were headed toward Greenville.

The Gurganus boy was not injured. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps were picked up by Robert A. Erwin, Raleigh newspaperman, who was driving toward Greenville, and were rushed to Dr. Irving Shure's office in Bethel.

Hofberg remained at the scene of the accident after first turning his car around and following the Mayo car to the point where Mr. Mayo had stopped. The St. Louis salesman showed the marks where his car had almost run off the right side of the highway. Mr. Mayo continued on after giving Hofberg his name and address.

Mrs. Phelps was badly injured about the head and legs and the left side of her head was covered with blood. Mr. Phelps was badly bruised and shaken.

Chief of Police S. L. Martin of Bethel and Erwin returned to the scene of the accident where Hofberg and the Gurganus boy had remained.

Session of International Naval Conference Set For Monday Put Off by Leaders Until Tuesday

London, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today the meeting of the international naval conference, which is expected to reconsider Japan's demand for naval equality with all nations, probably will not be held until Tuesday.

Although the reason for the expected postponement of the session, scheduled originally for Monday, was not given, it was understood the move was an attempt to give delegates more time for further contacts before the next meeting.

REPORT MADE MAKALE TAKEN BY ETHIOPIANS

Unconfirmed Rumor Originates From Addis Ababa

ITALIANS CLAIM GREAT VICTORY

Communique Issued From Headquarters Says Ethiopians Suffered Heavy Losses

(By The Associated Press) The recapture of the important town of Makale by the Ethiopians was unconfirmed by rumors in Addis Ababa today but government officials said they had no knowledge of it. Makale has been held by the Italians since the completion of the second major offensive in northern Ethiopia.

A communique issued from Italian headquarters, at or near Makale said the Ethiopians had suffered heavy losses and had fled to the mountains when they were trapped by an Italian flank movement south of Makale.

At Rome the government claimed a victory in which the Ethiopians suffered heavily at the confluence of the Gabat and Gheva rivers. Italian infantry, artillery and planes were reported to have united in the engagement in which three Italian officers and three native soldiers were killed and five natives were wounded.

The Italian government announced 521 native soldiers had been killed in the Ethiopian fighting between October 3 and December 31.

LEADERS SEEK PLAN ON BONUS

Senators Secretly Negotiate For Substitute For House Bill

Washington, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Senate leaders negotiated secretly today trying for a substitute for the cash bonus bill that swept through the house yesterday which might meet presidential approval.

Chips in the game of give and take were the nine votes by which the senate last year sustained President Roosevelt's of the Patman cash bonus bill. Administration leaders were using those votes to force some concession in the flat cash payment bill which the house passed yesterday 358 to 59.

On the other hand, bonus leaders saw an arrangement which would win enough of those senators to pass a bill over the President's veto if his consent to something in the nature of a cash payment bill could not be obtained.

The basis of the compromise negotiation is the Byrnes-Stewer bill which would cash the bonus in 1938 or give 98 per cent cash this spring. Administration spokesmen were understood to be asking for a bond payment plan which would lessen the drain on the treasury. The bond would be cashable, but the veterans would be encouraged to hold them by an interest arrangement.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker PREPARATIONS: Herbert Hoover has quietly set up a "kitchen cabinet" at Washington. Besides keeping track of Rooseveltian sayings-on, the friends and former aides who compose it supply the former President with documents and material for his speeches.

Mr. Hoover writes to them regularly. He asks their advice more often than he did when he sat in the White House. He obtains through them the reaction of friend and foe at the Capital to his attacks on the New Deal. SCHOOLS OPEN THIS MONDAY

Bad Road Condition Forced Many To Close Down

D. H. Conley, superintendent of the Pitt county school system, announced today that all schools in the county will resume regular activities Monday, following a shut down on account of bad roads.

With the exception of three Farmville, Arden and Winterville, all schools in the county were closed down during this week because of the inaccessibility of the roads.

Melting snow and ice and heavy rains during the early part of the week combined to make most of the dirt roads in the county, almost impossible for kid truck travel. With the sun on duty part of today and yesterday, the roads were greatly improved, and unless there are more rains during the week-end they are expected to be in fair shape next week.

The Falkland, Belvoir, Bethel and Fountain schools closed down Thursday, while those at Grimesland, Chicod, Paectolus, Stokes, Grifton and Arthur ceased activities Wednesday.

Sought For Questioning In Connection With Case Of Lindbergh Kidnaping

NEW EVIDENCE IN MASON CASE

Deputy Says Defendant Threatened to Shoot Him

Lillington, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff K. C. Matthews testified in Harnett Superior Court today that Wendell White Mason, filling station operator, charged with the murder of his wife told him "Look at my dead wife there. If you don't get out, I'll shoot you, too," when the officers arrived to investigate the woman's death.

Mason, 52 years old, operator of a filling station at Pineview, 21 miles from here. His wife, Mrs. Beulah Mason, 34, was shot to death last November and the man contends she was killed by robbers.

Deputy Matthews was on the stand most of the morning as he described his investigation. The officer testified Mason told him he threw $54 across the highway when the robbers attempted to hold him up. Matthews said he found the money where Mason said it would be and that a trail of blood led from the door of the filling station across to where the money lay and back again to the station. He added the money was neatly folded when found.

Mason, Matthews said, told him the robbers hit him in the head with some blunt instrument and must have killed his wife while he was knocked out.

The deputy said he found a bloody hammer in the station, and Mason said it was the one the robbers must have hit him with.

The case will probably last well into next week as 37 prosecution and 75 defense witnesses have been summoned.

MAN CONFESSES F.D.R. THREATS

Austin Phelps Admits Threatening Life of Roosevelt

New York, Jan. 11.—A retired mechanical engineer who was reported to have blamed President Roosevelt for the loss of a one million dollar fortune confessed today, federal authorities said, that he sent two letters to the President threatening his life.

He is Austin Phelps Palmer, 42-year-old, and was arrested by Secret Service agents today in his luxurious seven-room apartment in a Park Avenue hotel.

Described as an ardent Republican, Palmer confessed sending the letters after he had been questioned seven hours by the secret service men, Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Howard Carter said.

His apartment had been under constant surveillance for more than three weeks after his address had been found to have been ineffectually erased from the first of the two letters.

Palmer was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Garret W. Cotter and held in $2,000 bail for a hearing January 24.

Doctor Condon Already on Way to South America

REPRIEVE SEEN FOR HAUPTMANN

Condemned Man Is Scheduled to Die in Electric Chair Next Friday for Crime

State House, Trenton, N. J., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Prolonged consideration by the court of pardons of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea for clemency was accompanied this afternoon by indication that his trip to the electric chair might be postponed.

After nearly four hours of deliberations, however, there was no word from behind the court's closed doors as to what it would do or even what it was discussing.

Opinion that the execution might be deferred spread around the capital after Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who is president of the pardons court, announced he would ask the Attorney General to seek the detention for questioning "Jafsie"—Dr. John F. Condon—who called suddenly on a South American cruise yesterday.

State House, Trenton, N. J., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman today sought the arrest "for questioning" of the Lindbergh murder case famous "Jafsie"—Dr. John F. Condon. As the court of pardons went into session to hear Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea to escape the electric chair.

Condon called suddenly last night for South America after a magazine began publication of "Jafsie Tells All"—a series of articles by Dr. Condon purporting to offer new details of the case including his belief that Hauptmann has a confederate.

The Governor said he would ask Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who headed the prosecution at Flemington, for Condon's arrest.

"Condon makes the flat statement that more than one person was involved in the plan" the governor said. "He goes so far as to write he knew two of those involved. If Dr. Condon knows those things I feel that the authorities should have the information."

Attorney General Wilentz, who was attending a conference of the prosecution staff, said he had not been informed by the governor he would request him to take Condon in custody "and would not anticipate what the governor will do."

The entrance to the New Jersey state house was ringed with a crowd of curious, with news reels movie cameras mounted on trucks as the hour for the meeting of the pardons court neared. The court convened under the presidency of the governor in his outer office. The deliberations were secret.

What effect the governor's request for the detention of Condon may have upon Hauptmann's fate was not immediately ascertainable. It seemed unlikely that Dr. Condon who paid the $50,000 ransom for Colonel Lindbergh's baby to a man—identified as Hauptmann—in a Bronx cemetery could return here before next Friday which is the dates set for Hauptmann's execution.

This was interpreted by some today to indicate that Hauptmann would at least receive a reprieve until Condon can answer the governor's questions.

"I do not believe Bruno Hauptmann was the sole perpetrator of the kidnaping of the baby."

"I do not believe the full ends of justice will have been served with the execution of Hauptmann."

Hauptmann, awaiting the action of the court in his death house cell at the state prison, two miles away, was joined by another condemned murder, the "Jersey Dillinger," Edward Metelski, policeman killer. Hauptmann was still asleep as the convict entered.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann remained at a hotel in seclusion.

NEVER MIND THE LADY by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Something has happened to Terry and Terry Willet together. They are married in the South American coffee town of Propriation, and Terry has had to bring Allaire to the protection of a pair of chivalrous, and so on.

Chapter 41 BRIEF VISIT

"Terry came down the river bank. He had been gone nearly three months. Leaner perhaps, and a little tired about the eyes and the corners of his mouth, but striding as easily and tirelessly as ever.

"I've wanted to get down so damn often," he said, "but I just couldn't. Allaire, and I have to go right back tomorrow."

"How is everything, Terry?" "If it wasn't for this rotten rainy season that's coming up—" he stopped, and waved a dismissing hand. "Let's not bother about it. Things aren't pretty tough for you?"

"She didn't answer. Absently, she plucked at the sleeve of his shirt, her eyes dreamy. He wondered.

"What's the matter, Allaire?" he asked quickly. "Anything wrong?" "Terry, would you mind awfully if—"

Willet felt something chill him for an instant. Would he mind what?—if she went back to the States?"

"Go on, Allaire," he said steadily. "Terry," and again her color heightened. "I—you—that is, we're going to have a baby."

"It was men that had to be prepared for some things. Willet felt breathless, stunned. He tried to say something and couldn't locate any thought waves. And then he was at her side, one arm around her, and she put her head on his shoulder.

"Are you glad?" she murmured. "Oh, Allaire, I should have thought—" She sat up straight, alarmed.

"Terry, don't you want him? Because if you don't—" He drew her to him gently.

"Of course I do," he said quickly. "I was just thinking about you. I want to take care of you, honey, and I'm marooned up there and you're alone. You mustn't be alone."

He nuzzled and ran his brown hand over the shining hair at her temples. "Don't you think you'd better go up to the States where you'll be among friends and your own surroundings?"

"No," she said, "I won't. That isn't my idea of married life, to be stuck away like some housewife plant."

"Well, the capital, then? Much more comfortable and pleasant and safe?" His voice didn't quite take that last word in stride. Maybe his father had tried to get Vic to a safer place, too.

"Terry, I won't. I'm going to stay here and wait until you finish that job."

"Finish that job? She might wait a long time. Willet's hands were hot.

"Terry, you don't feel sorry or tied down or anything, do you?" He sprang up and took a nervous restless stride up and down the room.

"No!" he exclaimed. "You may have married a busted engineer, Allaire, but you haven't married a heel."

He stopped and looked down at her seriously. "Take care of yourself, honey, be careful and—" he suddenly knelt on one knee by her side, "you know I have to go back, don't you? I wouldn't leave you otherwise, but I have to, Allaire—"

Of course he had to. She had a feeling that the bulk of his confidence and his courage was locked in his death grip with the Palva, and he was drawing on all that remained to bolster her in the face of what lay ahead of them both.

THE procession of weeks had started again, broken only by Terry's quick visit. Once again he had disappeared into the still, fateful silence of that camp up the river.

As the weeks went by she began to rebel at sitting around down here while he was off somewhere. It was like marrying a sailor on a furlough and the next time she saw him to be pointing out the halfback on the local high school team as his son.

That wasn't the way she'd dreamed of marriage. She wanted to be with Terry.

The doctor who came to see her once in a while as the days passed was no help. He had a doleful, funeral expression, and his attitude, coupled with the empty hot loneliness of Propriation, caused her to finance the cost, and in many cases impossible to do so.

If there are three hundred connections to be made and if each connection cost fifty dollars that would amount to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and even the most optimistic person can hardly see how this amount of money can be raised in Greenville for this purpose by first of April.

I am suggesting that after the sanitary inspector has completed his survey that the Board of Aldermen secure bids for the entire job complete. It is my opinion that the Board can, for so large a job, save a large sum of money for the property owners.

I am suggesting that the proposition be financed in the following manner:

That the property owner be required to pay 20 per cent of the cost in advance and 20 per cent each year with interest until the whole is paid.

I think that the property owners should get together on the proposition and act as a whole, for if they undertake the work individually it will cost them far more than if they act collectively.

And there should be a spirit of

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Continued from Page One) of the metal work. It has made silver too valuable as a commodity for it to be used as money—which was their goal. The story goes back to the 1933 London economic conference. The nations agreed to monetize silver individually and through collective action. But only the United States Congress, spurred by Silver Senator Pittman of Nevada, took the idea seriously. Mr. Morgenthau was forced to buy and buy and buy. Domestic and foreign speculators gladly unloaded as the price sagged to 81 cents. China tumbled off the silver standard. Uncle Sam was the "goat."

Then Mr. Morgenthau hit back. He bought more sparingly, more secretly. The price sagged to 49 cents. First to howl is Mexico, which had stepped up production to profit from the American demand. Now the two countries are negotiating a deal for stabilized production and price. Mr. Morgenthau won't be offended if other nations take notice.

RASKOB: There's an inside explanation for the strenuous between Rooseveltians and Liberty Leaguers that hasn't been told. As often happens between old friends, it involves money.

John J. Raskob's faction financed the Democratic National Committee from 1928 to 1932. They borrowed money liberally to elect Al Smith and then to destroy Herbert Hoover. After spoiling Mr. Hoover's chances for reelection, they set out to block Roosevelt from winning the nomination. Three present-day Leaguers heading the movement were Al Raskob and Joseph Shoen. The party deficit totaled $11,300 when Raskob stepped out as national chairman.

The Farley deficit amounts to about $400,000. As the Roosevelt managers see it, they would be in the financial clear if it were not for the Raskob debt. To add insult to injury, Leaguer Shoen condemns their money-raising methods when they stage a dinner so they can pay off Raskob. They still owe him $30,000 and he has made no bones about asking for it.

NEUTRALS: Between them President Roosevelt and William E. Borah make hard the political lot of Progressives like Hiram Johnson, Jim Couzens, Bob LaFollette and Gerald Nye.

These senatorial freebooters have no personal affection for Borah; they don't know yet whether he is kidding them again. But they suspect that he has many followers in their home states whom they don't care to alienate. They have also resented some of FDR's gestures toward eastern interests. All in all, a while back it seemed wise to remain neutral under the threat of Borah-Roosevelt collision.

well's rural resettlement. Rex can copy on for a while with holiday dough—and leaving him out of the budget forecasts a Congressional debate that could prove no end embarrassing to the administration. Third was the lack of a housing appropriation. This means that the Morgenthau-Peter Grimm idea of turning housing back to private enterprise has won out. Fourth was omission of any provision for the Railroad Coordinator's office. It looks as if Joe Eastman might as well start gunning for another job when his present appointment expires. That would please J. J. Peiley—head of the Association of American Railways—but a number of other railroad men wouldn't agree.

INDUCED: Informed New Yorkers learn that Federal Reserve authorities have given up all idea of invoking their new power to raise the reserve requirements of member banks as a method of curbing inflation. If inflation should later need curbing it will have to be done some other way.

It has been discovered that—despite the record volume of excess reserves—some member banks have little or no excess at existing scales. Blanket jacking up of reserves would land them in an awkward jam—which would never do. Word is that any individual bank which seems to be giving undue encouragement to speculation will be called on the Washington carpet and "induced" to desist. It would be a hardy banker who resisted such an inducement.

VETERANS: Estimates from reliable source place the actual cash outlay for the bonus between a billion and a half and two billion dollars. The purchase or improvement of homes is likely to absorb approximately 20 per cent of it. Mortgage money is cheap now—at the time of the last advances to veterans it was expensive. Another 10 per cent slice will go into security purchases.

Some 400,000 veterans have never bothered on their certificates and will now receive around $400,000,000. It is expected that this group will reinvest most of what they get rather than go on a spending spree.

BRACER: Pre-fabricated steel houses are at last on their way out of the talking stage. American Rolling Mills is constructing 100 of them to sell from $3500 to $5500 each.

If this development proves at all successful it should develop into a brand new market for steel—and what a bracer for the industry that would be.

FIGHT: Many GOP insiders are getting uneasy about the Literary Digest poll. They figure it's too good to be true—probably because it doesn't reach the millions of have-nois who are FDR's natural supporters. They also have an idea that a fair percentage of ballots disapproving the New Deal come from dissatisfied leftists who are bound to string with Roosevelt rather than vote Republican.

What these leaders fear chiefly is over-confidence. If party workers get the idea victory is in the bag

Motor Licenses To Be Perennial In Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A motorist's dream—a permanent license plate for his car—is coming true in Connecticut.

After March 1, 1937, car owners in this state will keep the same number indefinitely. A tax designating the year, however, will be inserted annually. A similar system is in effect in Florida.

Col. Michael A. Connor, Connecticut motor vehicle commissioner, who has been authorized to purchase material for the new plates, says the annual monetary saving involved is estimated at $125,000. The numerals and letters will be on an aluminum background.

LOST! -A Golf Ball! FOUND! -A Mystery! A dubbed shot had sent Bobby's ball over the cliff. Bobby, peering disgustedly after it, drew back in shocked surprise, hurried down to what he saw below, found himself enmeshed in a tangled web of mystery, adventure and romance. THE BOOMERANG CLUE BY AGATHA CHRISTIE is the story of what happened when Bobby and Lady Frances Derwent refused to accept the coroner's jury verdict of "accident" as an explanation of the tragedy on the golf course. In their role of amateur detectives this lively young couple soon found need of all the inspiration and quick-wittedness they could command. The climax is startling, the story throughout entertaining, expertly told. STARTING THURSDAY, JANUARY 16 The Daily Reflector

Churches Begin Union Services. Tomorrow night at seven-thirty o'clock the first of the Union Evening Services sponsored by the Presbyterian and Christian churches of Greenville will be held in the Presbyterian church. Some months ago a movement was started by the laymen of the Christian church to have the churches of Greenville unite in the evening service on Sunday. For various reasons, with the exception of the Presbyterian and Christian groups, did not find it expedient to endorse the movement. The two groups mentioned, feeling that the small attendance which marks the usual evening service in Greenville could be served as well by joint services as by individual services, decided to give the proposed policy a trial by uniting in the evening worship service until the summer of 1936. The services will be held alternately on a monthly schedule in the two churches and the ministers of the two congregations will alternate in the preaching. Tomorrow night the service will be held in the Presbyterian church and Mr. Ryan will preach.

Parent-Teachers Association. The Parent-Teachers Association of the Training School will meet on Monday night at eight o'clock. An interesting program has been arranged, part of which will be a discussion of the place and importance of homework as part of the school requirement. Neither schoolmen nor parents are in complete agreement on the subject of this matter will mark the Monday night meeting. Parents of all pupils attending the Training School classes have received a letter from the President of the P. T. A., Wm. A. Ryan, asking for a full attendance on Monday night, special emphasis being placed on the need for attendance on the part of the fathers of pupils. Accompanying the letter was a schedule of the phases of the homework question which have been assigned for discussion. The public will be welcomed to any of the meetings of this group.

Immanuel Baptist Society. The Woman's Missionary Society of the Immanuel Baptist Church will meet Monday morning at 10:30 at the church.

Reading minutes of last meeting and letters of appreciation were read by the secretary, Mrs. R. M. Garrett, from the other clubs in town, guests of the End of the Century Club at its Christmas program meeting held in the college auditorium, when Prof. Frederick Koch read the Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens.

Mrs. J. L. Little reported for the library committee that the books for the "Bowen Shelf" have been accepted by the club from the Library Commission to replace those destroyed by fire—and they are now in Sheppard Memorial Library. The "Bowen Shelf and Books" is the End of the Century Club's gift to the library as its loving and living appreciation of Mrs. W. A. Bowen for her loving interest in the library, giving it for years her faithful and untiring services, beginning when the club books became the nucleus of what is now the splendid Sheppard Memorial Library for Greenville and vicinity.

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. M. K. Fort, whose subject was "Interior Decorators"—she very interestingly told of some of the most prominent ones and of their work. One of the best known in this art is Elsie DeWolf, America's first woman interior decorator, and has been called the world's "best dressed woman."

Mrs. Fort ended her interesting remarks on her subject by saying that we do not have to go abroad for art, for we have "the best of having a woman interior decorator in Greenville, our Miss Lelia Higgs."

Mrs. White had as special guests her mother, Mrs. G. W. Lay, Mrs. Fickler Arthur and Mrs. David J. Whitchard, Jr. The nestess was assisted by Mrs. Whitchard in serving a delicious salad course with coffee. The next meeting of the club will be on January 22nd with Mrs. Ed Batchelor—Reported.

The Democratic National Committee, meeting in the capital to choose the 1936 convention city, signaled the formal opening of the campaign to elect the Roosevelt administration in November.

Important political personages were in action on a wide front. At the Jackson Day dinner in Washington, President Roosevelt held the center of the stage, speaking to a nation-wide audience. He is to speak again later in January at Philadelphia.

One of the outstanding political events of the month is to be the address which Al Smith will deliver before the American Liberty League in Washington. Already widely publicized by the refusal of the 1928 Democratic presidential nominee to accept a White House invitation during his stay in the capital, the Smith speech promises to be a banner political event.

On the Republican front the biggest show when he invades the east on January 28 to make a speech in New York. Much more will be known of the Idaho senator's candidacy after his address.

GREENIES TRIM KINSTON HIGH

Locals Victorious Over Foes by 38-13 Score

The Greenville high's basketball team defeated Kinston high in the local high school gymnasium by a score of 38-13 last night, bringing them their fourth consecutive win of the season and the second win of the week.

After the start of the game, the fighting Greenies proved too much for the Kinston Eagles, and they weakened under the pressure which was forced upon them by the quint of the locals.

Joseph Hatem, L. G., for the Greenies was the most outstanding player of last night's clash. He tallied 10 of the points made, and was followed up by Harry Rountree, R. F., who scored 6 points. Others presenting fine form were Parrish, Sugg, Lautares, Pierce and John Wells who made his debut on the local high gym floor last night, and proved to be much competition for his opponent on the opposing Kinston team.

Following the footsteps of Wells in playing in their first game of the season, were Wayland Tucker, and Earl Hellen, Jr., who also proved to the locals that they will some day make themselves players that any basketball fan will enjoy seeing.

Showing fine playing ability for the Kinstonians were Thompson, Cooke, Smith and Kilpatrick, who blended the game with opposition for the locals too make it more enjoyable to the many fans that attended the game and shared the fun with the high school spectators who lifted the roof of the building with cheers.

The second major game for the locals this season will be the one with the Duke University Freshmen, whom they are scheduled to face on Wednesday of next week in the Duke gymnasium at Durham.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)

The Farmville H. D. Club met Monday afternoon with Miss Alla Mae Bailey. Mrs. G. H. Dunn and Mrs. J. W. Owens, recent brides of the club, were "showered." Several useful kitchen utensils were received by each. Games were played and refreshments enjoyed.

Leaders' School Miss Pauline Smith, district agent and J. G. Weaver, horticulturist of State College, conducted a leaders' school for Home Beautification leaders, Tuesday. At noon a delightful lunch was served by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore of the Greenville; Woman's Club. Thirty-four were present for the day. We have some excellent leaders for the project and our hopes are high for good club work this year. Mrs. S. B. Tucker of ited Banks planted a tree Tuesday afternoon and Helen Brooks of the same club has given her drive and front lawn. Mrs. Oscar Tucker, also of that club, has planted several dozen bulbs this month. These leaders have offered a prize for the best notebook kept in their club. They have both been started. The major subject this month is "The Ideal Home." The minor subject—which each president should assign a club member—is "Kinds of Government."

4-H Clubs The two 4-H Clubs at Stokes met Wednesday morning. The Bethel club met also Wednesday morning. "Accessories" and "Planting" are the subjects this month.

Simpson and Stokes Clubs Because of bad roads the Home Demonstration Clubs of Simpson and Stokes did not hold their meetings this week. The officers and leaders of these clubs are urged to hold these meetings before the end of the month in order that we may be ready for the February work.

Chicoed Club The Chicoed Club served a supper to the Junior Order of Grifton recently. A neat sum was added to their club building fund.

New Clubs Any new section desiring a Home Demonstration Club should be organized this month, while we are starting on a new project. During the summer and fall several groups wanted to organize, but could not do so because of the heavy tobacco season. If you want a club let the home agent know about it at once.

Red Banks H. D. Club The Red Banks club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Walter Cherry. The leaders conducted this meeting and gave excellent reports from the leaders' school.

Council Meeting A brief council meeting was held during the lunch hour Tuesday. The council voted to give a free trip to the State Short Course to the club leader who does the best piece of work in her club between now and the short course.

Garden Notes. Such vegetables as cabbage, cauliflower, tomato, peppers and egg-plant started in shallow boxes in the house may be transferred to cold-frames in order to develop stocky plants and to harden them off before setting into the garden. Cold-frames are also used as a seed bed in growing plants of the above vegetables for late season planting. A coldframe resembles a tobacco plant bed. The wooden frame en-

BING, HEARST AND MAE AMONG HIGHEST PAID

Contrary to some people's opinion, the day of juicy salaries did not end with the depression. Here are three of the top-notchers on the list of those whose salaries were made public by the house ways and means committee: Bing Crosby (left), whose crooning brought him $192,998 in 1934; William Randolph Hearst (center), publisher who made $500,000, and Mae West (right), actress who drew $339,166.65. The salary of the President of the United States is only $75,000. (Associated Press Photos) closing the bed is 15 to 18 inches high along the back and 8 to 10 inches in front. It should be 6 feet wide and 24 feet long for the average home garden. Locate the cold-frame in a sunny place facing the South. Around six inches of good garden loam soil mixed with old stable manure is placed in the frame. Second-hand sash or unbleached muslin is used as a covering for the coldframe to protect the plants from frost. Muslin saturated with hot linseed oil will hold the heat of the sun within the bed and shed water. A solution made by dissolving one pound of paraffin in a gallon of gasoline may be used instead of the oil. As warm weather approaches the plant bed is left open a little more each day to harden the plants. Ventilation is necessary, even a little on cold days to prevent moisture from condensing on the underside of the frame covering. Water the plants on sunny mornings when the temperature is rising. Thoroughly wet the soil and do not water again until the surface appears dry. Transfer the young plants from the window box to the coldframe when the first two true leaves have developed. Set them 2 to 4 inches apart and then transplant to garden when they begin to crowd or when danger of frost and freezes have passed.

Fertilize potatoes with 5-7-5, fertilizer mixture at the rate of 5 to 6 pounds to 75 foot row. Mix thoroughly in furrow before planting.

Speaking of ODD JOBS—

Whistle Tutor. Nobody can tell Miss Lucia Carruthers, 21, to go whistle for a living; she already does. Whistling, says the pretty Seattle, Wash., girl is an art. So she has opened up a whistling studio in the university district, and is building up groups of hobby-whistlers and professional-whistlers. She starts with the scale and breathing exercises, then progresses to bird calls and obbligato, with concert work the final step. "Whistlers like singers must be born with a certain flexibility of the tongue," she said. "I've whistled all my life, but it's only in recent years that I've whistled seriously." As a background for professional whistling, Miss Carruthers studied music at Washington State college in Los Angeles.
