TWENTY NEGRO CONVICTS DIE FROM FLAMES

Trapped in Cage of Truck Transferring Inmates

GASOLINE DRUM CATCHES FIRE

Two Guards Also Seriously Burned in Attempt to Rescue Prisoners

Scottsboro, Ala., Jan. 31.—(AP)—A state convict transfer truck was converted into a flaming death trap for 20 negro prisoners today as one of them tried to warm his hands over a piece of burning paper and set fire to a drum of gasoline.

Two of the 22 convicts in the truck were snatched from the blazing inferno by two white guards, but physicians said they probably would die of burns.

The guards, H. M. Middlebrook of Montgomery, and C. R. Wasson of Danville, suffered burns about the hands and face in grabbing two convicts from the truck and rolling them in the snow to extinguish their blazing uniforms.

In the cage was a drum of gasoline and a smaller can containing the inflammable liquid.

It was from one of the rescued negroes that the real cause of the fire was learned.

In the hospital here he said "one of the boys up front" pulled a piece of paper from his pocket and lighted it to warm his hands.

"I looked up and saw the blaze burning the floor. The other boys crowded to the front away from the gasoline but Stokes and me clawed at the door. Mr. Middlebrook stopped the truck quickly and flung open the door. Me and Stokes jumped out and they rolled us in the snow, calling to the others to jump out."

The convicts were en route from a prison camp south of Scottsboro to a rock crusher north of town and had passed the town when the fire broke out.

The convicts, described by Middleton as "bad," were being transferred from camp "C" at Scottsboro to a state road project on the Lee highway.

The bodies of the 20 victims were burned beyond recognition by the flames before the fire department reached the truck with chemical for battling the flames.

Response Is Good To Appeal Asking Gift of Clothing

Many Clothes Given to Aid Needy School Children; One Company Gives Truck Load

J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools, said today the response for clothing for needy school children had been gratifying many citizens having provided articles.

The largest single contribution was a truck load of various forms of clothing donated by S. T. White of the White stores here. The clothing was estimated to be worth $300.

In addition to this big contribution, a large number of Greenville people have given all kinds of wearing apparel.

Mr. Rose and other school officials were busy today issuing the clothing to the most needy cases.

Patrolman Leary to Return To Tarboro

Patrolman Otley Leary, who has been stationed in the Highway patrol offices here for several weeks while a foot he hurt while on duty was healing, will return to his regular post at Tarboro tomorrow.

Patrolman Leary's foot was hurt when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a wagon on a dark night. The vehicle had no light and the patrolman was unable to see the wagon in time to avoid striking it.

No Applicants Appear For Drivers' Licenses

For the first time since the Highway patrol started giving examinations to applicants for drivers' licenses, not a single person applied for license today.

Applicants are examined each Monday and Friday morning, and up until today the force here has been busy on each of these days in the week testing persons seeking the permits.

800 PERSONS ATTEND DANCE

President's Ball Here Declared Financial Success

Despite the bad weather that had a tendency to keep a lot of people from venturing forth last night, around 800 persons attended the President's Birthday Ball at the campus building of the college and the affair was a success financially even though the net profit will not reach the figure attained last year.

Chairman W. W. Lee in commenting on the ball this morning stated that he wished to thank publicly the college officials for the use of the campus building, those who decorated the building, those who had a part in the floor show and program in any way and all committees who had a part in making the dance a success.

Dr. R. C. Deal, of the college faculty, was master of ceremonies and the ball got under way at 10 o'clock with a floor show under the direction of Miss Ramona Staples, head of the Ramona School of Dancing here. The performance opened with a night club scene in which a group of little folks withed in evening dress were dancing at the President's Ball in the dining hall.

The dancing couples were Little Wagon Pickles, Little Miss Lillian Weston with Master J. C. Hazell, Little Miss Marie Anne Kee with Master Hugh Jenkins, Little Miss Margaret Ann Johnson with Master David Clark, and Little Miss Mary Ruth Carter with Master Jack Whitehead. As the little dancers took their seats about the tables Jack Whitehead assumed the role of night club master of ceremonies and in introducing the entertainers as they appeared on the program.

The entertainment consisted of eight specialty numbers including Little Miss Mary Wells Bunting, of Bethel, in a song and dance number; James Dudley Simpson in a song; "The Six Tapping Debutantes" including Misses Hazel Brown, Fannie Cooper, Marie Smith, Jean Jones, Anne McCormick and Frances Clark; Miss Ramona Staples in a dance "Shoppo Rhythm"; Little Miss Dorothy Davenport in a song and dance number; Miss Frances Clark in a display of acrobatics; James Smith displayed a pair of flying tappers feet; Miss Ramona Staples in a comedy song and dance. The final number consisted of the entire troupe rendering in song and dance "The Music Goes 'Round and Round." The accompaniment for the entire floor show was rendered by Miss Frances Clark.

Immediately following the floor show Bill Mavotti's orchestra took its place on the stage and dancing followed on the main floor of the spacious auditorium. At 11:30 dancing ceased for the radio address of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, after which dancing continued until about two o'clock.

Of the net proceeds from last night's ball 30 per cent will be sent to the Warm Springs Foundation for research work in connection with the disease.

SEE BREAKING OF RELATIONS

Mussolini May Take Move as Retaliation Measure

(By The Associated Press)

Informed sources at Rome predicted today a program of retaliation including possible severance of diplomatic relations as Premier Mussolini's answer to further war sanctions against Italy.

As three new taxes became effective to bolster the national economic policy, the Italian Premier prepared to advance his plan of opposition before the fascist Grand Council tomorrow night.

On the war front the Italian commander reported continuation of systemizing activities interspersed with minor skirmishes between invaders and defenders.

"Reconnaissance columns between Nechelli and Dawa Parma captured scattered groups of the enemy, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, fascist commander reported. "Golia Borana chiefs and notables continue surrendering to Nechelli, authorities asserted. Nothing new on the British (northern) front," was reported.

A pamphlet on the Italian government published at Geneva by the League of Nations contained photographs purporting to show that Ethiopians have committed atrocities on Italian soldiers.

New Directory For City Shows Population Gain

Complete Publication Issued Here Shows City Has Population in Incorporated Limits and Suburbs of Between 14,000-15,000

The new city directory for Greenville, just off the presses, shows that the city has a population of between 14,000 and 15,000 practically the year round.

More than 11,000 persons are recorded as living in the city proper and an additional 2,000 live in the immediate suburbs of the city bringing greater Greenville's total population to 13,329. The figures do not include an enrollment of a thousand at the college here.

The last census figures list the population for the city at only 9,194. The census was taken in 1930 and the latest figures reveal that the city has rapidly increased its population since that time.

The new directory is complete in every detail. In addition to the regular list of names, it has a business department and a street directory giving the names of householders, the number of occupants in each house, and denoting business places.

The directory was published by the Southern Directory company of Asheville and copies may be secured at the local Chamber of Commerce.

It is the first directory published for the city in many years and perhaps is the most complete ever put out for the city.

The preface of the publication contains the opportunities the city has to offer and points out some of the advantages found in the city. It was compiled by R. L. Powell, secretary-manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

The book also contains the various governments of the country, from the United States executive branch on down to the city official set-up.

COLD WEATHER CHANGE PLANS FOLLOWS SNOW CITY SCHOOLS

Mercury Standing at Only 17 Degrees This Morning

The six-inch snowfall of Wednesday night and yesterday probably will stay on the grounds some time, the temperature having taken a big drop.

The lowest reading last night was 15 degrees and at 8 o'clock this morning had risen to only 17 degrees. The highest recorded during the day yesterday was 39 degrees.

Although the sun came out on time this morning, cold weather was in vogue. The weather forecast of fair and cold was fulfilled in every respect.

In contrast to previous snows, the streets in the city were cleared of the feathery flakes. By the time the snow stopped a crew of men were put on the streets clearing them.

The low temperature of 15 degrees last night compared with a low of 19 the previous night, and this morning's reading of 17 degrees at 8 o'clock was much lower than the 30-degree mark at that time yesterday morning.

Although the snow was removed from the streets as soon as possible, two local men fell and suffered broken limbs yesterday. H. G. Baker barber at the Practor Hotel barbershop broke his arm and Roy Barrett, automobile salesman for the Flinsburg Buggy company, fell and broke his right leg.

Veterans Called For Special Meet On Applications

World War veterans desiring detailed instructions concerning making application for payment of their bonus certificates are urged to attend a meeting called by J. Hicks Corey, commander of the Pitt county post, Monday night in the grand jury room at the courthouse.

Application blanks will be available next week. The forms require certain detailed information regarding ex-soldiers' service records. In order that no time be lost in securing the blanks in payment of the adjusted service certificates, the veterans are urged to attend the meeting and receive the instructions.

All legionnaires are invited to attend the meeting.

Air lines in the United States employ 107 young women as hostesses.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

FUSION: Republican masters of ceremonies will make it as pleasant as possible for Al Smith to bow himself out of the Democratic party next June!

So far they haven't framed the kind of invitation they will forward to him and his anti-New Deal playmates. But they are trying out several ideas on the inner circle of politicians. The first calls for asking the Smith-Ely-Davis faction to serve as ex-officio members of the platform committee. Another proposal is the adoption of the 1932 Democratic set of principles which Al charges "the old potato" with repudiating. Some GOP-ers suggest that at least one Cabinet office be dangled before the insurgents. They are mentioning ex-Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts as a prospect for Attorney General. Ambassadorships would be doled out to J. P. Shouse and his wealthy contributors.

Wiseest GOP-ers favor this sort of fusion over a "rump" Democratic party. Remembering the Coolidge-Davis-La Follette fracas of 1924, they fear a third party move would enable the administration to revive the warning that a three-for-all fight would throw the final choice into the House, create political chaos and retard recovery. It's a note which usually advantages the party.

Physicians Claim Death In Gas Chamber Humane

Ed Jenkins Executed By Gas at State's Prison

Raleigh, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ed Jenkins, 49-year-old Bessemer City white man, died in North Carolina's gas chamber today, the first white person to be executed with hydrocyanic gas east of the Mississippi river.

Death "to all intent and purposes" came to Jenkins', a 250-pound man, nine seconds after he first inhaled the deadly vapor, a signed statement of three physicians who witnessed the execution, read. However seven and one-half minutes elapsed from the time the cyanic pellets were dropped into the sulphuric acid solution before the prisoner was officially pronounced dead.

Dr. G. S. Coleman, prison physician of Duke University medical school, and Dr. G. F. M. Hanes, professor of the practice of medicine at Duke, all said "Jenkins died painlessly and the method of execution was humane."

Jenkins, one of the largest men ever executed in North Carolina, made no statement about his case after he was led into the gas chamber at 10:37 a. m.

He was pronounced dead 31-2 minutes earlier than was Allen Foster, young negro man who was executed last Friday, the first victim of asphyxiation.

TAX MEASURE IS NECESSARY

President Says Levy Necessary to Meet Cost of Farm Plan

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today a tax-raising measure will be necessary at this session of congress to meet cost of the farm program and study of the needs of additional revenue for the bonus is still underway.

The new soil conservation subsidy farm plan has been estimated to cost $449,000,000 a year. The bonus was estimated to cost $224,000,000.

No figure on the amount that congress would be asked to raise were mentioned by the President, however, Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that the revenues for the farm program would simply be in the nature of the processing taxes killed by the Supreme court and they would not amount to new taxation in the sense of additional taxation.

As for meeting expenses of the $224,000,000 bonus cost, the President said this problem was still under study and no details had been decided upon.

He mentioned no form of taxation for raising revenue for farm relief.

He said he was undecided whether a special message would be sent to congress on the subject.

THREE KILLED AS FAST TRAIN TAKES PLUNGE

Bodies of Last of Casualties Removed From Wreckage

SPEEDY EXPRESS RUNS OFF BRIDGE

Williamsport to New York Train Falls 30 Feet from Susquehanna River Bridge

Sunbury, Penn., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Laboring in five below zero cold, rescue workers removed the last of the casualties today from the Reading company's fast night express train which plunged 30 feet from a Susquehanna river bridge, killing at least three persons and injuring between 25 and 35 others.

The company said a fourth passenger, an unidentified Bucknell university student is dead.

Speeding through the night on its run from Williamsport to New York the express "Williamsporter" hurled from the north end of the span last night down to the bed of an abandoned canal not many feet from the Susquehanna itself.

Two men were found dead in the wreckage. A broken neck killed the engineer, who died in a hospital a short time later.

The injured were rushed to May H. Packer hospital in Sunbury, crowding that institution to such an extent that many of those hurt were laid in rows on the floor. The hospital said 33 victims were being treated there but gave no indication how many were seriously hurt.

The locomotive plunged from the track just as it reached the end of the bridge at Clement's station, directly across the river from Sunbury.

Witnesses told of hearing a blast and of seeing a blinding glare as the train pulled on to the span, leading to reports the boiler had exploded. No definite case could be learned in the first investigation.

Greece Strong Man Claimed By Death from Heart Attack

Athens, Jan. 31.—(AP)—General George Kodvils, 55 year old former "strongman" of Greece died today from a heart attack and the Athensarrison was ordered to stand by on guard against any eventuality as result of Death.

Authorities said no trouble threatened immediately but they took the precaution because of a recent date by Kodvils which caused considerable apprehension that he had intended to use force if necessary to prevent the liberal Venizelists who won Sunday's election from gaining control.

The General, long a sufferer from asthma died at noon after a heart attack in the night.

Graham Athletic Plan Referred To Faculty

Raleigh, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The so-called "Graham plan" to emphasize athletics was referred today by the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina to President Frank Graham and the faculty of the university for "further consideration and action."

The resolution referring the matter was passed by a 33-19 vote after more than two hours of debate. It was brought out that the faculty already had voted its support to President Graham in his program.

New King Played An Unwilling Role As Great Britain's 'Prince Charming'

By JAMES B. RESTON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Four years the unwilling Prince Charming of the British Empire, King Edward VIII has finally conceded his subjects that he shall rule alone.

The British have looked hopefully on his infrequent attentions to women whom they deemed "eligible," but today most of those are married to more willing men.

The Princess Ingrid of Sweden in years headed the list. It was when that pair were engaged and Edward's father and mother did not deny that they would have been delighted with the match. But when the romance, and in 1932 her name was linked with that of Edward's brother, Prince George.

Gossip Never Malicious

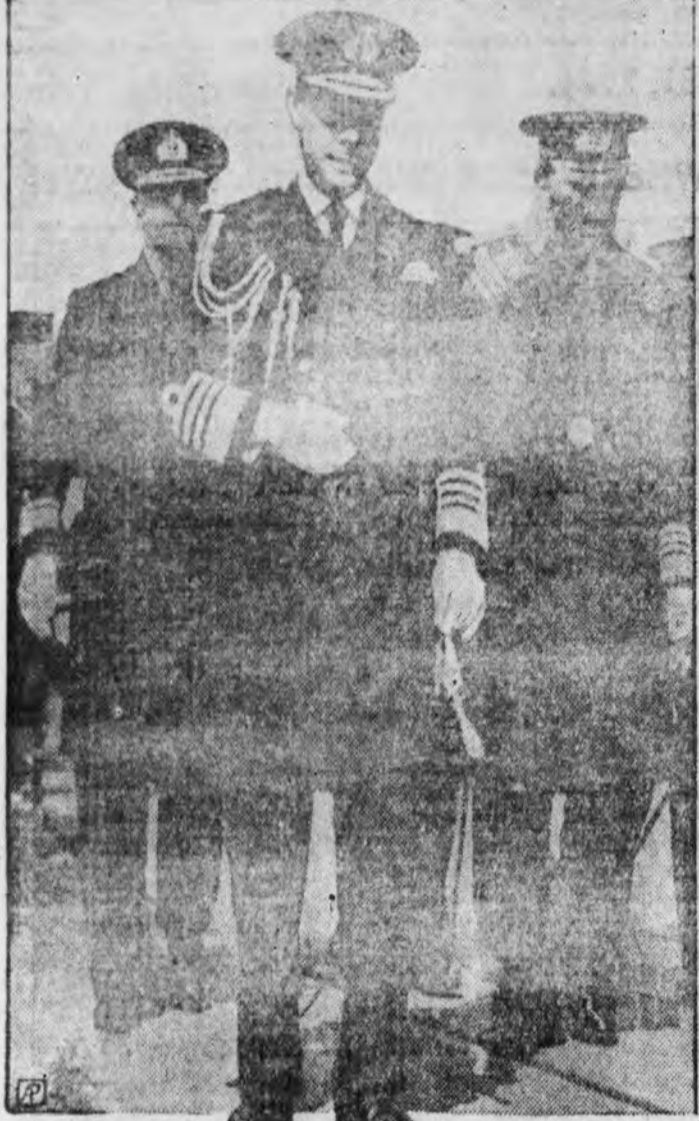

Rumor next had Ingrid's sister, Princess Astrid, later queen of the Belgians, in love with the new king. And following her, Beana of Rumania, his third cousin, was said to be in line. And so fickle gossip moved, first from one eligible royal lady to another.

The new king's name, even in the heyday period of his life, has been inordinarily free from malicious whispering. Always a man's man, he gained the widespread acclaim of his people for maintaining his independence. At no time was it suggested that he make a "marriage of convenience."

Line of Succession.

If England had any fears for the ultimate fate of the Windsor dynasty because of Edward's disposition to remain a bachelor, that fear disappeared in the marriage of Albert Duke of York, to Honorable Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon and the birth of their daughter, Princess Elizabeth. Albert now is their presumptive heir to the British throne and Princess Elizabeth an intelligent and popular child, would succeed her father.

The new king has been known to his generation mainly as "the Prince of Wales" and "H. R. H." Officially he is Edward, but his family always called him David (his seventh "given" name). It was his sister, Princess Mary, who dubbed him "David the lady-killer." The name was her retort when he teased her about the number of times she had had her photograph taken.

The name of Great Britain's new king, while he was "H. R. H.," frequently was linked in romance but it was only in the hopes of his people. So far as is known, he never faltered in his disposition to remain a bachelor.

Quartet Of Wax Dictators Attracts London Crowds

LONDON (AP)—Halle Sciasse of Ethiopia facing Italy's Mussolini and Stalin of the Soviet Union in the background and Hitler of Germany raising his hand in Nazi benediction over the others, formed a popular group of 1935 at Madame Tussaud's wax works during the exhibition's hundredth year on Baker Street.

"Nearly a million people visited the exhibition within the year," said Sciasse, Tussaud, great-grandson of the founder. With his father, John Tussaud, he carries on the family tradition of modelling and showing famous and notorious figures.

The farm problem. The situation would be almost complete if it did not involve so important an industry and the fortunes of so many millions of people. Toward this industry and these people the federal government has assumed an obligation which it scarcely dares discuss, and which it does not know with certainty how to fulfill. It has a bear by the tail.

The new administration program is called a "soil erosion" program. That is, a plan for preventing the soil from washing away. Actually, what everybody wants is exactly opposite. If a sufficient number of acres were to disappear entirely, there would be no farm problem.

Mr. Hoover, who may almost claim to have originated the word "regimentation," comes forward with the suggestion that a direct government subsidy be granted to farmers who would then turn to raising what the government thinks they should.

Meantime, after all the Republi-scribing to the second was the Republican party.

After the election the Democratic party leaders proceeded with a farm plan which took millions of dollars worth of corn and cotton off the market and gave the government a direct stake in farm prices. It also launched on the most comprehensive program of restricting production yet conceived.

Whereupon, the Republican party leaders objected loudly to the control of production, which their party platform had endorsed, and to government speculation in farm prices, which the Democrats had charged was one of the chief evils of the Hoover farm board.

Reward: A Headache.

A headache is the reward of those who try to figure this out.

That has been the reward likewise of everyone who has tried to solve the farm problem, or assist in its solution. On many occasions it has been about the only reward of the farmer himself.

After years of theorizing and experimenting, the only conclusion to which everybody agrees is that there still is a farm problem.

Senator Dickinson, who has been against the "new deal" at every turn, comes out for "stabilization or production," as one alternative. It is hard for the lay mind to understand how a thing can be stabilized without controlling it.

The truth is that the whole situation has fallen into a state of grotesque paradox and complete uncertainty.

What congress will do will be to pass some sort of bill—absolutely no one can predict at the moment what it will be—and then go home hoping for the best from Providence and the supreme court.

CLAIMS JUDGE ALTER CHARGE

Report Some Jurists Change Warrants From Original

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 27—One way has been found to get around the section of the new driver's license law which makes the revocation of driver's license mandatory in all cases where drivers have been convicted of drunken driving. It was learned here today. That is to get the judge to change the sentence or accept a plea of guilty of some other offense, it was learned here today.

At any rate, the highway safety division has already been required to restore driving permits to several drivers who had been convicted of drunken driving, following notification of a change in the original sentences passed by judges. The names of these judges as well as the names of the drivers whose licenses were restored by the action of these judges, are being kept in the files of the highway safety division here for future reference.

None of the officials of the highway safety division were willing to be quoted directly, but they intimated that if the courts would not cooperate in the enforcement of the drivers' license law and if judges are going to change their sentences and accept pleas of guilty to violations other than those shown in the warrant, that the license law would soon become useless. Most of the courts and judges, however, are giving excellent cooperation and refusing to yield to local political pressure in handling motor vehicle and license law violations, division officials said.

Another practice that has been going in some courts for some time and is still continuing, especially in the J.P. courts, is the practice of changing warrants of persons charged with drunken driving to lesser offenses which do not make the revocation of the drivers' licenses mandatory.

REGRETTING CONFUSION

These confusions grow out of other confusions which go a good way back.

In 1932 one of the great political parties adopted a platform condemning any policy which would make the government "a speculator in farm products," and also "the unscrupulous policy of restricting agricultural production to the demands of the domestic market."

In the same year the other great party said in its platform that "the fundamental problem of American agriculture is the control of production to such a volume as will balance supply with demand."

It scarcely would be guessed today, but the party making the first of these two declarations was the Democratic party, and the one sub-

'A' PRISONERS EARN AWARDS

All High Grade Inmates to Get Certificates of Merit

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 30—All Grade "A" "trustworthy" prisoners in the North Carolina prison system, will hereafter receive a certificate of merit on the date they are advanced to the honor grade, which will contain the name, number and the date on which the prisoner will be released if he remains in this honor grade. Acting Director Oscar T. Pitts of the Prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission announced today.

In addition to being signed by the director of the prison division, these certificates must also be signed by the prisoners receiving them, and thus pledge themselves that they "will not violate any of the prison regulations, also that they will do whatever work they are assigned to do as capably as possible."

The portion of the certificate or bond, signed by the prison director, reads as follows:

"Know all men by these presents that (name of prisoner and number) has so conducted himself as an inmate of this institution as to be deemed worthy of trust and qualified for employment without the customary restraint of a guard."

The portion containing the pledge "and to be signed by the prisoner is:

"In acceptance of this certificate of merit, the undersigned pledges that he will not dishonor this bond by any violation of the regulations of the division or the principles of good conduct. He pledges that he will perform the work he is assigned to do as capably as he is able and will govern his habits with a view of establishing a foundation for future good citizenship. As surely for the recipient of this certificate and as evidence of his own confidence in the recipient, the signature of the officer making the recommendation for the award is attached."

The prison official who makes the recommendation for the advancement in grade must sign under the signature of the prisoner. The certificate, which is printed in blue and gold and looks like a bond, is held in the prison files and will be presented to the prisoner upon the completion of his term, as a certificate of good behavior.

FRIDAY
6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club building.

7:30 p. m.—Dr. Herbert Smith of the Belgian Congo, Africa, will speak in the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Returns From Northern Cities.
Miss Bess Lowe has returned from northern cities where she has been to purchase spring merchandise for Lowe's.

Miss May In Hospital
Miss Margaret May underwent an operation in the Goldsboro Hospital yesterday. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is resting comfortably today.

Salvation Army Appeal.
The Salvation Army appeal made in yesterday's Reflector has received a very good response. But there is a great need for small children and adults' clothing and shoes still.

There also is a great need for food and fuel. For instance, this morning a family was visited, a widow with three children. This family had a bucket of coal but not a thing to eat, not even bread.

There is a number of cases like this. Will you please help us to help them? Phone 761 and we will call for whatever you might have to give.

Kipling Program At College.
A Rudyard Kipling program, in which all the students participated, was presented at the college this morning at the regular student assembly hour.

Miss Ruth Horne, who was in charge of the exercises, in her introduction showed how closely the great literary man was associated with the history of England and her rulers.

We in America sympathize now with England not only in the loss of her king who ruled for twenty-five years, but for the loss of her great man-of-letters, who sang, in his poems, of the glory of the English empire under three rulers.

"The Recessional," his great poem written for Queen Victoria's Jubilee celebration, was read in concert by the students and then sung by a chorus of ten voices.

One of his most popular poems, "If," was read by Miss Helen Harding.

"Wee Willie Winkie," one of the favorite stories by this master of the short story, was told by Miss Lucile Lewis.

As a fitting close to the program, Miss Grace Dawson read his poem "When Earth's Last Picture is Painted."

Plan Youth Day Observance.
Under the guidance of the International Council of Religious Education many denominational boards are calling upon their constituents to observe "Youth Day" on Sunday, February 2nd. The Presbyterian and Christian Churches of Greenville are participating in this observance by presenting the young people of both congregations in a pageant at the Eighth Street Christian Church on Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. They will be assisted by Miss Eugenia Thomas, organist, and the members of the Christian Church choir. Through pageantry and music, youth is being called upon to dedicate itself to Christian living and, if necessary, to stand "Alone" in this divine undertaking.

The title of the pageant is "Alone," and the general public, especially the youth of Greenville, are cordially invited to attend this service.

This is a part of the program of interdenominational cooperation now being sponsored by the First Presbyterian and the Eighth Street Christian congregations of this city.

Peace Problems Discussed.
A small but interested group of people interested in problems of peace met for discussion yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Austin building at the college.

Laura Rose outlined the causes of the Italian-Ethiopian conflict, the need for new territory for excess population and a pressing need for such raw materials as oil, coal and cotton, and brought out during the discussion that these are in general the causes that are likely to precipitate any war in the near future.

The English policy and the French policy were explained and the steps taken by England and France to carry these out were analyzed.

Cadet's Queen

MARY LOUISE SHEPHERD

"Queen of the Regiment" is the appropriate title bestowed upon Miss Mary Louise Shepherd (above) of Greensboro. Miss Shepherd has been named "Queen" of the North Carolina State College E. O. T. C. Regiment by Cadet Colonel Robert W. Seitz of Camp Hill, Penn., campus leader and high honor student.

As "Queen of the Regiment" Miss Shepherd will lead the Ninth Annual Military Ball with Cadet Colonel Seitz when it is held at the college this spring.

Members of the commission are: Lionel Weil, Goldsboro, chairman; T. A. Doughton, Sparta, vice-chairman; Dr. G. W. Forster, Raleigh; J. I. Skinner, Littleton; Millard F. Jones, Rocky Mount; H. A. Mills, High Point; Julian Price, Greensboro; M. O. Blount, Bethel; and J. Allen Taylor, Wilmington.

This was the first of a series of meetings which are being held in the states of Region IV of the Re-employment organization. Mr. Scott will accompany Mr. Scott to similar meetings in Richmond, Va., February 1; Charleston, W. Va., February 2; Louisville, Ky., February 3; and Nashville, Tenn., February 4 and 5.

FARM AGENCY MEETING HELD
Farm Debt Adjustment Commission Workers Gather

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 31.—A total debt reduction of $164,974 has been effected for farmers in North Carolina since the Reemployment Administration took over the activities of Farm Debt Adjustment, Sept. 1, 1935. W. Kerr Scott, Regional FDA chief, told the State Farm Adjustment Commission and other debt adjustment workers at a meeting here today.

John Carmody of Washington, D. C., national supervisor of the FDA section of the Reemployment Administration, took a leading part in the meeting, which was held in the senate chamber of the state capitol at 10 o'clock a. m. Speaking informally, Mr. Carmody praised the work of the FDA advisory committee in this state. "They have given freely, without pay, of their time in assisting their neighbors to save their homes," he said. He also spoke of the appreciative response that has come from creditors in this region, declaring that "few creditors are adverse to accepting a fair adjustment when it is made clear that the mortgage indebtedness is beyond present value and ability of the debtor to pay."

Members of the commission present joined in a roundtable discussion and made suggestions to debt adjustment workers. Mr. Carmody held an instructional conference with district supervisors following the meeting.

In his quarterly report to the commission, Regional Chief Scott gave out the following figures for North Carolina:

Cases adjusted, 124; cases dropped, 44; cases on hand, 309; total indebtedness of cases settled, $688,757; total debt reduction, $164,974; total taxes paid as result of these adjustments, $6,376.

Mr. Scott also paid a compliment to the local debt adjustment committee by citing examples of their work, "One man from New York," Loerach, Germany.—(AP)—Residents of this town are greatly impressed by the modern fortifications that the Swiss are putting up, just across the Rhine near Basel.

The forts, of stone and concrete, seem to lie along the Jura heights—one directly opposite the German town of Saackingen, and another above the historic city of Laufenburg, Switzerland.

The Swiss government, it is said here, has appropriated nearly $2,000,000 for these works.

Mayor Decides He's Unwelcome.
Sens. France.—(AP)—Doctor Andre Dupechez, ex-mayor of Sens, believes Frenchmen take local politics seriously.

A few days after his election last May his automobile was hit by a gang of unidentified men who beat him into unconsciousness and left him with his membership card in the national Croix de Feu pinned to his coat lapel.

In November he was stabbed twice by a man who entered his office under the pretext of being a messenger from Colonel Francois de la Roque, chief of the Croix de Feu.

Passing citizens hurled bricks through the windows of his office and of his home.

The doctor called a new election to determine "whether I really am the choice of the people." He was not. He told his successor: "If they don't like you, resign before they start giving you hints."

Fire loss in 1935 for Beaumont, Tex., was placed at $1.45 per capita one of the lowest averages in the country.

a survey of the work of the past five years. This survey has been completed and the report, covering all departments and organizations of the congregation, will be presented on Tuesday night. Copies of this report will be given to all families of the church that the results of the survey may be studied and recommendations as to future objectives understood. Members and friends anticipating attending the supper are asked to notify either Mrs. Z. V. Murphy or Mrs. J. Knott Porcator, who are in charge of reservations.

NEW METHODS ARE EMPLOYED

Modern Equipment is Used in Fighting Forest Fires

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Jan. 31.—Forest fire control has long ago ceased to be carried on without a definite plan, but development of new technique and the designing of new tools and devices is steadily advancing suppression of flames in the woods to a definite science, according to W. C. McCormick, state chief of forest fire control.

"The fire-fighter of today is a trained worker equipped with tools that would seem strange implements to the few interested in such an undertaking years ago.

Immediate attack on a fire is stressed in the art of fighting flames in the woods, and facilities for rapid transportation are emphasized," McCormick said today. Thirty-five half-ton trucks are in service at this time in the various counties providing cooperation with the Department of Conservation and Development in the protection of woodlands against their greatest enemy—flames.

"Most of these trucks are equipped with a 75-gallon storage tank served by a motor driven centrifugal pump for filling and discharging water under pressure. The truck carries sufficient fire-fighting equipment for 10 men for whom there is space on the truck."

Two caterpillar tractors are the newest equipment provided for intensive protection on units where landowners provide a special fund for this purpose. These tractors draw a special 3-disc fire line plow which is capable of cutting a six-foot line around a burning fire.

Anniversary Week Will Be Observed By Local Church

Eighth Street Christian Church Congregation to Honor Rev. W. A. Ryan for Long Service

Plans are about completed for the celebration of Anniversary Week in the Eighth Street Christian Church, which is the means being used by that congregation to mark the fifth anniversary of the ministry of William A. Ryan, February 1st.

The two particular services which are being stressed are: the morning worship hour on Sunday, February 2nd, at which time the congregation and friends of the congregation are asked to attend a service of Holy Communion—a time of confession and re-dedication.

Mr. Ryan will speak on "The Trail of Friendship" at that service. On Tuesday, February 4th, there will be a congregational fellowship supper served at the church at 7 p. m. Several months ago the Committee on Religious Education recommended

THE BOOMERANG CLUE BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS: Bobby Jones and Frankie Derwent are trying very hard to find out something about a man named Bassington-French, who must be implicated in the mysterious case of the man who "fell" over the cliff.

Chapter 14 ABOUT THE BISHOP

"ONE'S right," said the Inspector. "Photograph of his sister. It was. She came down and identified him."

"How absurd to say there were three!" "Oh, that's easy, your ladyship. These newspaper reporters sometimes exaggerate, and sometimes they get the whole thing wrong."

"I know," said Frankie. "I've heard the wildest stories." She paused a moment, then drew freely on her imagination.

"That's a good one." "I suppose really he had just the usual things in his pockets?" "And very few at that. A handkerchief, not marked. Some loose change, a packet of cigarettes and a couple of Treasury notes—those, not in a case. No letters. We'd have had a job to identify him if it hadn't been for the photo. Providential, you might call it."

"I wonder," said Frankie. "In view of her private knowledge, she considered 'providential' a singularly inapposite word. She changed the conversation.

"I want to see Mr. Jones, the Vicar's son, yesterday. The one who's been poisoned. What an extraordinary thing that was!" "Ah!" said the Inspector. "Now that is extraordinary. If you like. Never heard of anything like it happening before. A nice young gentleman without an enemy in the world, or so you'd say. You know, Lady Frances, there are some queer customers going about. All the same I never heard of a homicidal maniac who acted just this way."

"Is there any clue at all to who did it?" Frankie was all wide-eyed inquiry. "It's so interesting to hear all this," she added.

The Inspector swelled with gratification. He enjoyed this friendly conversation with an Earl's daughter. Nothing stuck up or snobbish about Lady Frances.

"There was a car seen in the vicinity," said the Inspector. "Dark-blue Talbot. A man on Lock's Corner reported dark-blue Talbot No. GG 8282 passed going direction St. Botolph's."

"And you think—" "GG 8282 is the number of the Bishop of St. Botolph's car."

Frankie toyed for a minute or two with the idea of a homicidal bishop who offered sacrifices of clergymen's sons but rejected it with a sigh.

"You don't suspect the Bishop, I suppose?" she said.

"We've found out that the Bishop's car never left the Palace garage that afternoon."

"So it was a false number."

"Yes. We've got that to go on all right."

With expressions of admiration Frankie took her leave. She made no damping remark, but she thought to herself. "There must be a large number of dark-blue Talbots in England."

On her return home she took a directory of Marchbolt from its place on the writing-table in the library and removed it to her own room. She worked over it for some hours. The result was not satisfactory. There were four hundred and eighty-two Evanses in Marchbolt.

"Damn!" said Frankie. "She began to make plans for the future."

A WEEK later Bobby had joined Badger in London. He had received several enigmatic communications from Frankie, mostly in such an illegible scrawl that he was quite unable to do more than guess at their meaning.

Meanwhile the young man remained very strictly on his guard. The effect of eight grains of morphine was to render his taker extremely suspicious of food and drink and had also induced him to bring to London a service revolver, the possession of which was extremely irksome to him.

He was just beginning to feel that the whole thing had been an extravagant nightmare when Frank-his "g's" in 1928. They insist their private reports show that he has slipped with the plain people. In fact, they contend his "conservative" swing will drive the Progressives—Norris, the LaFollettes, Hiram Johnson—closer to the President. But they must figure on the worst while hoping for the best.

le's Bentley roared down the mews and drew up outside the garage.

Bobby, in greasestained overalls, came out to receive it. Frankie was at the wheel and beside her sat a rather gloomy-looking young man.

"Hullo, Bobby," said Frankie. "This is George Arbuthnot. He's a doctor and we shall need him."

Bobby winced slightly as he and George Arbuthnot made faint acknowledgements of each other.

"Are you sure we're going to need a doctor?" he asked. "Aren't you being a bit pessimistic?"

"I don't mean we should need him in that way," said Frankie. "I need him for a scheme that I've got on. Look here, is there anywhere we can go and talk?"

Bobby looked dubiously round him. "Well, there's my bedroom," he said obediently.

"Excellent," said Frankie. "She got out of the car and she and George Arbuthnot followed Bobby up some outside steps and into a microscopic bedroom."

"I don't know," said Bobby, looking round dubiously. "If there's any where to sit."

There was not. The only chair was loaded with, apparently, the whole of Bobby's wardrobe.

"The bed will do," said Frankie. "She plumped down on it. George Arbuthnot did the same and the bed groaned protestingly."

"I've got everything planned out," said Frankie. "To begin with we want a car. One of yours will do."

"Do you mean you want to buy one of our cars?" "Yes."

"That's really very nice of you, Frankie," said Bobby with warm appreciation. "But you needn't. I really do draw the line at sticking my friends."

"You've got it all wrong," said Frankie. "It isn't like that at all. I know what you mean—it's like buying perfectly appalling clothes and hats from one of your friends who are just starting in business. A nuisance, but it's got to be done. But this isn't like that at all. I really need a car."

"What about the Bentley?" "The Bentley's no good."

"You're mad," said Bobby. "No, I'm not. The Bentley's no good for what I want it for."

"What do you want it for?" "Smashing it up."

Bobby groaned and put a hand to his head. "I don't seem very well this morning."

George Arbuthnot spoke for the first time. His voice was deep and melancholy. "She means," he said, "that she's going to have an accident."

"How does she know?" said Bobby wildly.

Frankie gave an exasperated sigh. "Somehow or other," she said. "We seem to have started wrong. Now just listen quietly, Bobby, and try and take in what I'm going to say. I know your brains are practically negligible, but you ought to be able to understand if you really concentrate."

She paused, then resumed. "I am on the trail of Bassington-French."

"Hear, hear!" "Bassington-French—our particular Bassington-French—lives at Merroway Court at the village of Staverley in Hampshire. Merroway Court belongs to our Bassington-French's brother, and our Bassington-French lives there with his brother and his wife."

"Whose wife?" "The brother's wife of course. That isn't the point. The point is, how are you or I—or both of us—going to worm ourselves into the household? I've been down and reconnoitered the ground. Staverley's a mere village. Strangers arriving there to stay would stick out a mile. It would be the sort of thing that simply isn't done. So I've evolved a plan. This is what is going to happen. Lady Frances Derwent, driving her car more recklessly than well, crashes into the wall near the gates of Merroway Court. Complete wreckage of car, less complete wreckage of Lady Frances, who is carried to the house suffering from concussion and shock and must emphatically not be moved."

"Who says so?" "George. Now you see where George comes in. We can't risk a strange doctor's saying there is nothing the matter with me. Or perhaps some officious person might pick up my prostrate form and take it to some local hospital. No, what happens is this. George is passing, also in a car (you'd better sell us a second one), sees the accident, leaps out and takes charge."

Frankie buys, tomorrow, a very bad car indeed.

his confirmation. But the Senator was consulted regularly and admits reluctantly that "It's a good board except for one man." What he means is that the other five will sit on Chairman Eccles.

Mr. Roosevelt showed courage in retiring Hamlin and Miller. They are old family friends and yearned to stay on. But both are over 70 years and too fixed in their banking ideas.

JUICY: Inside figures have revised their original estimates that the bonus bill will require an immediate cash outlay of only $1,000,000,000. Now they put it nearer to double that amount.

Since the measure seemed assured of passage, the veterans' bureau has been besieged with requests for the names of beneficiaries. These have come from notorious framers of "sucker lists," from promoters of phoney stocks listed in the SEC's rogues' gallery, and from almost every get-rich-quick group in the land.

Under the law the names are confidential. No request has been granted, including those from wives who hope to cash in on some back alimony. But copies of the Congressional Record showing how much bonus money will be paid out to various cities, counties and states have been gobbled up by the sharp-shooting salesmen.

By JAMES McMULLIN COLLECTED: There was no surprise in Al Smith's blast against the New Deal. The news behind the news lies in the fact that he has finally burned his political bridges behind him. Though he has criticized the administration before, he has hitherto been careful not to step beyond the possibility of reconciliation.

Ever since 1928 leading New York interests have been gradually linking Al to their cause with strands of gratitude. They have been decidedly helpful to his personal business career—especially in the dark days of 1933. Such services rendered are the strongest sort of claim on loyalty to a man of Al's temperament. His friends confide that he was glad of a chance to requite the kindness of the financially mighty.

Where Al will "walk" after the Democratic convention is still unsettled backstage. It won't be into the GOP fold. That would be asking too much. A Constitutional Democratic party is possible—but not certain. The important point—as shrewd observers see it—is that Smith, John Davis, Albert Ritchie and Newton Baker have been collected in one basket and have one job to do.

SMART: Dr. Townsend's announcement that third party plans are off until after the major party conventions carries the same implication as Father Coughlin's "plague on both your houses" attitude.

Coughlin and the Townsend general staff have both decided there's nothing to be gained by trying to work up a third party. Therefore both will ignore the presidential contest and concentrate entirely on electing Congressmen pledged to their respective causes—whether labeled Republican, Democratic or Independent.

Joan Blondell Takes Normie On Vacation; Loses Pound A Day And Gives Nurse Raise

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Joan Blondell doffs her hat and salutes the "average mother."

Although Norman Scott Barnes is 14 months old, only now does Joan realize to the full joys of motherhood. She has taken her son on a vacation—just the two of them.

When Normie was born, Joan was determined to combine her career and motherhood, with emphasis on the latter.

She hired a nurse, but there were many things about Normie's schedule that needed, she felt, her personal supervision. She must plan his food, select his clothes, be sure he gets plenty of everything a baby needs for health and happiness. When she works, she gets up early to have her "playtime" with him, and gets home early for the "romp" together. During the day she telephones home frequently.

Joan's Big Idea
Well, came vacation time, and Joan's big idea. She wanted to take little Normie, all alone, without nurse or cook or outside aid, and be an "average mother."

They went to a resort near Norco, Calif., and Joan settled down for a nice long stay. She stayed four days, lost four pounds, and came back to Hollywood to give the nurse a raise.

Little Normie is at the age when babies "get into everything." His toddling feet wandered uncertainly down a hill Joan gave chase, fell and skinned her knees. (Little Normie toddled back, unharmed.)

Little Normie left "toys" around for Joan to trip over, which Joan did. Little Normie likes to kick—Joan, taking off his shoes, got one on the chin.

She didn't sleep much last night, either, because little Normie might not be uncovered.

And then there was the game of "watching Normie"—just waiting for whatever is coming next.

The average mother knows this game. She sits down, sets up, sits down, get up, sets down, "No, no, dear, not the cat basket!" "We don't like those mother's actions, but you mustn't play with them," etc.

But Joan Blondell is undaunted. She stands to try it again—after she has come in toasting.

It's Contagious
Joan's mother helped June study her script. She would read the other parts and give the cues, at home in the evenings. Acting is contagious. They do it now even when there are no lines to learn. June says she will put her mother in pictures.

Walter Connolly rewarded a studio messenger who had returned a small lost book. He asked the messenger if he (Connolly) could bet on a horse at the race for him.

The messenger gave him "Odd Blue" without hesitation.

Connolly bet, and Odd Blue won. Connolly thought he had a tipster here. But no—

"My cousin rode him," the boy explained, pocketing his winnings. "Odd Blue was the only horse I knew."

Taking care of little Normie (aged 14 months) without any help was Joan Blondell's big idea for her vacation. She stuck it out four days. Now she admires the "average mother."

Anniversary Of "Bloody Tuesday" Brings Forebodings To Parisians

PARIS (AP)—With the "left bloc" elements of the French chamber of deputies in especially strong political positions, Paris is approaching the anniversary of the "bloody Tuesday" in February with some forebodings, wondering what the Croix de Feu, the Young Patriots and other rightist organizations are going to do.

Pierre Laval prolonged the life of his cabinet in December with a law authorizing the disbanding of "armed political leagues," but not one league has been disbanded.

On the contrary, the Croix de Feu now boasts nearly half a million members; the Young Patriots claim to have doubled their membership, and the minor league leaders are equally pleased with themselves.

Headquarters Enlarged
The original war cry of the extreme left—"dissolve the Croix de Feu or oust Laval"—won Colonel Francois de la Rocque's league such widespread attention that the Paris headquarters moved to a five-story building and a small army of secretaries was hired to handle membership applications.

"Our opponents pictured us as rabid revolutionists armed to the teeth," said La Rocque. "We ended that by proposing that armed leagues be abolished. We hope the law will be enforced, for we are not armed. We are interested only in defending law and order. If the government guarantees to protect our meetings we are perfectly willing to abolish our private police force."

Pierre Taittinger, rightist deputy and head of the Young Patriots, made all France laugh by calling his organization the "National Popular Party," which he incorporated under a constitution which follows, word for word, the constitution of the powerful Radical Socialist party.

"Francists" Also Grow
"If the Radical Socialists want to dissolve the Young Patriots, they'll have to dissolve themselves, too," said Taittinger.

Marcel Bucard, plump war veteran and shrewd publicist, emerged from a Strasbourg jail where he had been locked for holding unauthorized meetings, and announced that his frankly fascist "Francists" had capitalized their leader's "martyrdom" with a highly successful membership drive.

"Hitler went to jail after the beer hall putsch," said Bucard. "Mussolini's road to Rome was not strewn with roses. The surest way to show Frenchmen the need of a strong Francist government lies in such futile attempts to dissolve the leagues."

Charge Laval Aids Leagues
Communists and socialists have combined with left wing Radical Socialists to charge that the Laval government, instead of disbanding the leagues, had aided them to expand. The communist newspaper, "Humanite," has accused Minister of War Jean Fabry with "encouraging the fascist leagues to organize within the army."

Government officials, denying the charge, added that the army is "above all politics," but that the ministry of war cannot be responsible for the soldier's political affiliations "outside the barracks."

"Rightist" organizations of a strong fascist flavor have continued to grow in France, despite demands of the powerful left bloc that they be disbanded. The picture shows an assembly of Croix de Feu members with banners and Col. Francois de la Rocque, leader of the league, which now boasts nearly half-a-million members.

from Republican National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, who said that on this subject "I certainly am in accord with Mr. Roosevelt. I'd even say it was a swell word."

About the same time President Roosevelt was praising boondoggling to stave and federal relief workers in New Jersey, the Senate awoke with something of a start to the realization that it had been a beneficiary of the practice. It came out that the Nye munitions investigating committee had used WPA money in developing some of its evidence in New York.

Robertson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the Senate, was particularly indignant that the "United States Senate or its committees had been put on relief."

"We may be 'harp' up; we may be in difficult circumstances; but, thank God, we have not as yet come to that pass."

A white-tailed kite, a fading species of hawk, was captured recently at McAllen, Texas.

the question through and takes the position that more money cannot be expended without more laws, and that the state cannot spend $20,000,000 a year more unless it takes in that much more in revenue. The pendulum may not swing all the way over the extreme liberalism advocated by the Winston-Salem candidate, a good many believe. For while most of things being advocated by the extreme liberals are admittedly desirable, many of these are not absolutely essential to the people of the state, it was pointed out, especially if he entail a greater outlay in expenditures than the state can provide. For consequently, if the people who vote decide it is necessary to preserve a balance between income and outgo or revenue and expenditures will make additional expenditures will make additional taxes necessary, even if some existing taxes are removed, the pendulum may not swing so far over to the liberal side as some would think it will in that case, the nomination of either Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sand) Graham of Hillsboro or of Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby is regarded as likely since both are considered by their supporters as moderate liberals.

But with the recent trend towards greater liberalism in government and especially in the Democratic state government in North Carolina there seems to be a trend towards younger men in government and who have had some definite experience and training in government.

This is regarded by the supporters of Lieutenant Governor Graham as being decidedly in his favor and that it will help him more and more as the campaign progresses.

If a majority of the Democrats in the state, however, still adhere to the belief that it is best to make haste slowly and feel that the state should continue to follow the more or less conservative and tested courses it has been following for the past 25 years; the opinion of many is that Clyde Hoey will be nominated Governor. For it is agreed that Hoey, while conceding the desirability of many of the new things being advocated by the liberalists, belongs to that school of political thought which believes in looking before it leaps and in having the money in pocket before spending it. If Hoey should be nominated, it would indicate that the present extreme liberal group in the state had more sense than numbers, it was pointed out. And while at the present time more noise is undoubtedly being made by the extreme liberals than by any others, many believe that as the campaign progresses, the real contest will develop between the moderate liberal and the conservative liberalists.

the question through and takes the position that more money cannot be expended without more laws, and that the state cannot spend $20,000,000 a year more unless it takes in that much more in revenue. The pendulum may not swing all the way over the extreme liberalism advocated by the Winston-Salem candidate, a good many believe. For while most of things being advocated by the extreme liberals are admittedly desirable, many of these are not absolutely essential to the people of the state, it was pointed out, especially if he entail a greater outlay in expenditures than the state can provide. For consequently, if the people who vote decide it is necessary to preserve a balance between income and outgo or revenue and expenditures will make additional expenditures will make additional taxes necessary, even if some existing taxes are removed, the pendulum may not swing so far over to the liberal side as some would think it will in that case, the nomination of either Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sand) Graham of Hillsboro or of Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby is regarded as likely since both are considered by their supporters as moderate liberals.

But with the recent trend towards greater liberalism in government and especially in the Democratic state government in North Carolina there seems to be a trend towards younger men in government and who have had some definite experience and training in government.

This is regarded by the supporters of Lieutenant Governor Graham as being decidedly in his favor and that it will help him more and more as the campaign progresses.

If a majority of the Democrats in the state, however, still adhere to the belief that it is best to make haste slowly and feel that the state should continue to follow the more or less conservative and tested courses it has been following for the past 25 years; the opinion of many is that Clyde Hoey will be nominated Governor. For it is agreed that Hoey, while conceding the desirability of many of the new things being advocated by the liberalists, belongs to that school of political thought which believes in looking before it leaps and in having the money in pocket before spending it. If Hoey should be nominated, it would indicate that the present extreme liberal group in the state had more sense than numbers, it was pointed out. And while at the present time more noise is undoubtedly being made by the extreme liberals than by any others, many believe that as the campaign progresses, the real contest will develop between the moderate liberal and the conservative liberalists.

Charge Laval Aids Leagues
Communists and socialists have combined with left wing Radical Socialists to charge that the Laval government, instead of disbanding the leagues, had aided them to expand. The communist newspaper, "Humanite," has accused Minister of War Jean Fabry with "encouraging the fascist leagues to organize within the army."

Government officials, denying the charge, added that the army is "above all politics," but that the ministry of war cannot be responsible for the soldier's political affiliations "outside the barracks."

A white-tailed kite, a fading species of hawk, was captured recently at McAllen, Texas.

COLLEGE TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Coach Mathis' Five to Meet Guilford Tonight

Coach "Doc" Mathis, head coach at East Carolina Teachers College seems to possess that enviable ability of being able to take raw material and polish it into a smoothly functioning basketball team.

Although his Pirates lost their first contest to High Point College, they have been improving consistently and have won four games from Rocky Mount, Washington and Williamson during the past two weeks.

Tonight at 7:30 the Pirates will meet a team from Guilford College in the E. C. T. C. gym, in an attempt to increase their consecutive wins to five games. Last year Coach Mathis' team split a double-header with the Quakers, and the game tonight is expected to be the closest one thus far this season.

The E. C. T. C. probable lineup includes Fleming and Cunningham, forwards; Holleman, center; and Ridenhour and Johnson, guards. Due to sickness, Perrebe and Stowe will not see action tonight.

The Guilford team will spend the night here and play the Pirates again Saturday night at 8:30.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Support arrived for stocks in today's market and recoveries of fractions to two points were recorded in the rather active dealing.

Buying sentiment was revived when analysts concluded that yesterday's reaction was in the nature of a "health condition" due to the rapid price advance.

The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 3,000,000 shares.

REPORT CROSS EFFORTS SEEN LIQUOR SALES MUST GRAHAM

More Than Million Dollars Worth Sold in 17 Counties

Raleigh, Jan. 31.—The gross sales in the county-operated liquor stores in North Carolina from the time they opened in July and August up to December 1, 1935, amounted to $1,232,850.59 in 17 counties, according to the corrected report issued today by the State Department of Revenue.

The total gross sales are taken from the sales tax reports sent in by the more than 50 stores in the 17 counties operating liquor stores up to December 1st. Since that date, one more county, Franklin, has opened several liquor stores. But no figures have yet been obtained from the Franklin county stores.

The state collected $36,965.52 in sales taxes from these gross sales of liquor—the only revenue the state gets, since the 1935 general assembly did not levy any state tax on the sale of either liquor or wine in North Carolina.

It is estimated that the counties operating these liquor stores have been earning a net profit of at least 30 per cent from the sale of liquor. In which case the profit of the counties amounted to $399,855 from the time the stores opened in July, August and September until Dec. 1.

The Wilson county stores rank first in gross sales, with $178,881, and paying the state $5,366 in sales taxes. The Edgecombe county stores rank second in volume of sales with $145,421, paying the state $4,362 in sales taxes. The New Hanover county stores rank third, with a sales volume of $121,645, paying the state $3,649 in sales taxes. The Pitt County store was fourth with sales of $114,489, paying the state $3,434 in sales taxes.

Total liquor store sales in other counties up to December 1, are as follows: Pasquotank, $36,652; Carteret, $30,245; Craven, $30,151; Onslow, $23,318; Martin, $45,398; Beaufort, $53,966; Halifax, $39,249; Warren, $24,480; Vance, $109,925; Lenoir, $81,032; Nash, $105,517; Greene, $9,558; Moore, $9,740.

What will be the outcome of this meeting no one knows. But most observers here are betting that Graham and the Graham forces will come out on top in the full meeting of the board, despite the viciousness of the effort of the three groups which are definitely not "get" him.

The three groups, composed of both alumni and outsiders, but for which alumni are acting as spokesmen, which have been fighting Graham and which are expected to muster their greatest strength in the meeting of the board of trustees today in an effort to force his removal as president of the Greater University, are as follows:

1. The group composed largely of non-alumni manufacturers and big business men, many of them not alumni of the University, who have been and still are out of sympathy with Graham's liberal social and economic views, who dislike his independence and intellectual honesty and are disturbed because they cannot control him and hence the University.
2. The group composed largely of alumni and professional gamblers who have become aroused and displeased at Graham's position favoring the purifying of University athletics especially of football, as outlined in the recommendations made by the committee of which he was chairman, but which was appointed by the American Association of State University Presidents to make a study of university athletics and report its findings and recommendations.
3. The group composed of the trustees of the School of Engineering from the Chapel Hill unit of the University to the State College unit, in which John Sprunt Hill of Durham and Dr. H. G. Baily of the Chapel Hill Engineering School are the representatives.

In the meeting of the board of trustees today, nothing is likely to be accomplished by the first group or any other group, but made about Dr.

Expect Attempts Culminate in Trustee's Meet Today

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, B. J. C. BASSERVILLE

Raleigh, Jan. 31.—The three-cornered effort which has been under way for a good many months to oust Dr. Frank P. Graham's too liberal social views or independence, because it is generally conceded that the trustees have been supporting him on this stand for a long time and will probably continue to. One reason he was elected president of the university was because he was known to be independent and liberal, and one that could not be controlled by any selfish or political clique, it is generally agreed. In addition, the group which is opposed to Graham because of his liberalism and independence, though powerful financially, is regarded as having a very decided minority with on the board of trustees, if forced to stand by itself. It is also agreed to stand by group is of the type which usually tries to remain unseen and unidentified and which prefers to work through other groups.
