FLOODS CAUSE GREAT ALARM IN SOUTHLAND

Heavy Winter Rains Menace Lives in Two States

FOG AND WIND TROUBLE DIXIE

Apprehension Felt for Nearly 40 Persons Trapped by Floods in Alabama

Birmingham, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Heavy winter rains spilled dangerous floods into many watersheds of the south today menacing lives in northern Alabama and eastern Mississippi in the wake of record-breaking snow and cold.

Inundated highways and flooded railroad tracks interrupted movement of trains and motor cars.

Fog and wind also troubled parts of Dixie.

Storm warnings were up along the Gulf coast from Brownsville, Texas, to Carrabelle, Fla., with velocities of 50 miles an hour reported.

Fears felt for the safety of the residents of Collinsville, Ala., abated as waters that ranged from 2 to 6 feet deep in the streets began subsiding.

Apprehension was felt for the safety of nearly 40 persons, the families of PWA workers trapped at Coledale, near here, by a rise of the Little Warrior river. Relief crews were seeking means of removing them.

A seven inch rain at Meridian, Miss., flooded that place and trains were running hours late. The crash of a bridge wrecked a gas main cutting off the city gas supply.

Teachers College To Dispense With Two-Year Course

Last Class to Register for Normal Course Admitted at Opening of Term Last Fall

The last class to register for the two-year normal school courses at East Carolina Teachers College was admitted at the opening of the fall term, last September, and is the class of 1937. The work must be completed by the end of the summer school of 1937.

As it takes six terms to complete a two-year course, this means that the last time any person can begin this work will be at the beginning of the spring quarter, which opens on March 17, and it will be necessary for him to continue his work through every term, in sequence, including the summer terms in order to complete the course within the time limit.

The State Department of Certification will cease issuing the Primary and Grammar grade B certificates on the basis of graduation from a two year course in 1938. It will, however, continue to issue these certificates on the basis of three years of college work, but certain required academic and professional subjects must be included. It is because of this action that East Carolina Teachers College will not issue diplomas for a two-year course after 1937.

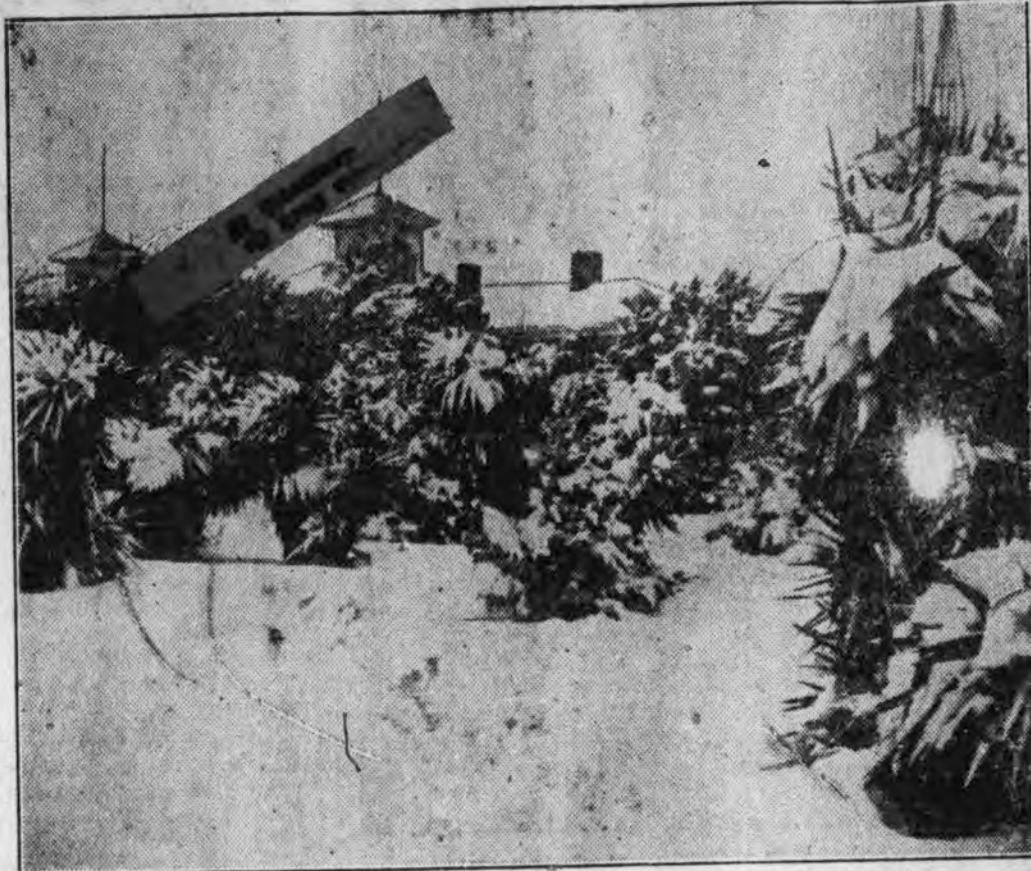

For an A certificate the State Department, after 1938, will require satisfactory completion from a four year course leading to a degree from a standard college, and it can not be earned merely by 120 hours of semester work, as heretofore.

In the fifteen years since the four-year courses have been offered by East Carolina Teachers College, the two-year normal school courses have been continued side by side with the courses leading to the A.B. degree. With the diplomas given for the completion of the two-year work, the graduates have received B certificates from the State for Primary and Grammar grades but not for High School work. It will hereafter require three years to complete the normal school work in order to conform to the certificate requirements of the State Department.

Hungary Has June In January.

Debrecen, Hungary—(AP)—Lilacs bloomed in Debrecen streets in the middle of January, and farmers worked in fields as the mildest winter in memory brought sunshine and southern breezes. When blizzards should have howled down from Russia peasants saw two rainbows, regarded as good omens for Hungary.

MANY CHARGES DRIVING DRUNK

Much of County Court Consumed in Hearing Such Cases

Persons charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of whiskey comprised most of the cases heard in Pitt county court this morning.

Richard Atkinson of Kenansville entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50 and costs and had his license revoked for 12 months.

E. C. Newton of Fountain and Whit Meeks of Stokes, denied the charge of driving drunk, but were adjudged guilty and fined $50 and costs and had their licenses revoked. Both noted appeals to Superior court and bond was set at $200 in each case.

William Harris asked for a jury trial and he will face trial in Superior court on a charge of drunken driving. Bond was set at $200.

The case charging Wilbur Smith with selling quail also was transferred to Superior court.

P. G. Shelton was charged with driving while drunk, but was convicted only of operating a car in a careless and reckless manner. Judgment was set at $200.

Crop Control Acts Wiped from Books After Suggestion

Senate Adopts Brief Bill Removing Statutes Following Suggestion By President Roosevelt

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Speedily heeding President Roosevelt's request, the senate today adopted a brief bill repealing the Kerr-Smith tobacco control act and the potato control act.

The actions taken without a dissenting vote and with barely two dozen senators on the floor.

Chairman Smith (D-S.C.) of the senate agriculture committee, explained that his bill proposed to repeal the trio of measures upset by the Supreme court's invalidation of AAA and it went through in less than a minute after it was presented on the floor.

Fletcher Now Convinced Must Wait On Congress

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Employment Insurance and Other Matters, Fletcher Said

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—North Carolina is acting wisely in refraining from taking any action with regard to any social security legislation until Congress makes more definite provision for carrying out the social security act and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus is entirely justified in declining to call a special session of the general assembly to enact any special state legislation until the social security act is further clarified in Washington, Commissioner A. L. Fletcher of the Department of Labor is now convinced, he said today.

"Since studying the social security act more carefully, I have become convinced that it would be futile to have a special session of the state legislature at this time, since it would not know even now what kind of a state enabling act to pass to permit it to participate in the Federal funds set up for un-

FARMERS SEEK BRING CROWDS

Expect 2,500 to Hear Edward A. O'Neal Monday

Representatives of Pitt county farmers will go into each of the surrounding counties this week in efforts to increase interest in the rally here next Monday, at which time Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau, will deliver an address.

At a meeting last night of members of the Pitt county acreage control board it was decided to send special representatives into the neighboring counties and members were designated to go in certain districts. Farmers from 25 counties in Eastern North Carolina have been invited to attend the event.

Because of inclement weather, the meeting last night was attended by only a few of the members of the board. It was decided to hold another session Thursday night when representatives will report on their campaigns in other counties.

The address by Mr. O'Neal will be made at the college auditorium. Sponsors of the affair have expressed the opinion the event would attract at least 2,500 farmers from Eastern North Carolina. Each contract holder in Pitt county has been sent an individual invitation.

State leaders in farm work are expected to attend the rally. I. O. Schaub and E. Y. Floyd, both N. C. State College extension men, have been invited to attend.

An invitation also has been sent to J. B. Hutson, head of the tobacco section of the old agricultural adjustment administration. As yet no word has been received from any of the special invited guests.

OFFICERS HINT INCENDIARISM

Considered as Cause of Fire Which Was Fatal To Seven

San Bernardino, Calif., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Possible incendiarism was considered by officials today as they hunted for additional bodies in the charred ruins of a Parker Dam construction camp dormitory where at least seven men died in a raging fire yesterday.

Twenty-one of the 140 men housed in the dormitory last night were unaccounted for. Four others were near death from burns suffered when fire ravaged the building while they slept.

Officials said it was possible a number of the missing men had fled from the building and left without notifying those in charge.

The possibility that a disgruntled workman may have fired the building was being investigated by Norman P. Henderson, San Bernardino district attorney's investigator.

Pumps were set up today to drain the dormitory's flooded basement where investigators said several men may have been trapped as they raced through the smoke-choked hall of the building.

News Behind The News

PRIVACY. The Senate Lobby Committee has set out to "smear" the American Liberty League as the anti-New Deal annex of a comparatively few wealthy men. The Black questionnaire to wealthy contributors simply bears out predictions that the Alabama investigator would drop a bomb on Al Smith's sponsors at the right time.

Senator Black has real ammunition in his arm. Although the dupes and their associates are recorded as having given only $270,000 to the League in 1935, he understands that indirect loans and gifts increase their total to a much higher figure. He will also try to show that the financing of all anti-New Deal agencies can be traced to less than a dozen immensely interested millionaires.

Democratic committee sleuths have run up against some difficulties in going over the list of guests at the American Liberty League dinner. They can't find the names in Who's Who, the Directory of Directors or Fitch's Financial Guide.

What happened is that many who attended thought it advisable to give their chauffeur's names for the official dinner roll.

ACCURACY: A naturalized American born in Vienna of Dutch parentage is probably the only man who has profited from warefaring in Ethiopia. He is Cornelius Engert, recently promoted from charge d'affaires to Minister Resident at Haile Selassie's capital of Addis Ababa.

Minister Engert has amazed the State and Military Departments by his performance. His cables on diplomatic moves have correctly anticipated obscure events by weeks. But his military communications would do credit to an observer with the struggling armies, although he is stationed hundreds of miles from both fronts. They pictured and predicted the situation so accurately that Major General Malin Craig, Chief of Staff, congratulated Secretary Hull on the diplomat's work.

Mr. Engert's military dispatches have filled a great gap. For Mussolini has not yet permitted our military and naval attaches to approach the fighting lines. But the "flying Dutchman," as his colleagues dub him, hasn't misfired once on the tug-of-war.

SEEK TO FIND MAN MISSING SEVERAL DAYS

Harry G. Wells Being Sought by Dept. of Justice

WROTE FAMILY FEARED THREATS

Letter Received Says He is About Wrecked by Threats from Extortionists

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Law agencies of two states and agents of the federal department of justice today considered possible answers to the unsolved disappearance of Harry E. Wells, well-to-do trucking contractor of Monroe, Wis.

They sought to determine whether he is in the hands of the extortionists he told his father he feared of hiding in Chicago to avoid the supposed blackmail.

The search for Wells began after his bloodstained abandoned car was found Saturday in the Chicago Loop. Yesterday a bunch of keys bearing his name was turned over to police by a man who said he found it on much-traveled Sheridan road near Evanston, 10 miles from where the car was left.

Relatives last heard from Wells when they received a letter postmarked Cudahy, Wis., relating that he was "just about wrecked" by threats of extortionists.

MANY SUFFER FROM WEATHER

Renewed Snowfall Hits Great Central Plains States

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Renewed heavy snowfall blew into the great central plains states today on the wings of high winds to glut the entire section.

Widespread suffering was aggravated, slowly rising temperature's which yesterday today and many states reported the arrival of a new cold wave.

The greater part of the nation was paralyzed in an icy embrace with snow and sleet storms making travel hazardous. Trains were blocked or delayed, motor traffic was at a standstill in places, boats were locked in frozen rivers and marooned islanders on the Atlantic coast saw their food supplies dwindle, as sleet prevented the landing of airplanes with replenishments.

Deaths continued to mount with two additional victims reported from Minnesota, four from Illinois and one from Idaho.

Several thousand residents of Tangier and Smith islands in Chesapeake Bay and Nantucket island off Cape Cod, Mass., remained cut off from the mainland by ice barriers.

Federal Men Join Police In Crusade Against Vice

Indictments Obtained Against 11 Alleged "Master Minds" of Ring Which Held 2,000 Women as Virtual Slaves

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Federal agents worked with police of eastern cities today to crush a highly organized vice mob operating in three states, with an estimated annual "take" of $12,000,000.

The ring, officers said, held 2,000 women as virtual slaves.

In 200 houses in an unprecedented late night session of his blue panel vice grand jury special racket prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey obtained indictments against the 11 alleged "master minds" of the ring who were held in a total bail of $500,000.

One indictment was returned against Peter Baltzar, alias Pete Harris, who was arrested in Philadelphia for extradition and charged with compulsory prostitution. He is alleged to have made a million dollars a year in vice.

Federal agents in Philadelphia also arrested a 21-year-old girl as the chief of "procurement" as a subsidy operating in New Jersey from New York headquarters.

As an aftermath of the simultaneous raids made Saturday night on 34 houses initiating the drive, Police Commissioner Louis J. Valentine indicated divisional shake-ups in the New York police department might follow.

He ordered investigations to ascertain how long the raided houses had been in operation. This was considered by many a possible fore runner to action against the policemen in the areas where the houses operated.

EXPECT JAPS DUCE CONFERS MAKE PROTEST WITH ADVISORS

Conciliatory Effort is Expected to Accompany Claims Leader Confronted with Fear of Further Sanctions

Tokyo, Feb. 4.—(AP)—An authoritative source said today another Japanese protest would be added soon to the long series of exchanges between Japan and Soviet Russia over Manchoukuan frontier clashes but official quarters indicated the protest would be accompanied by a more conciliatory effort to reach a border agreement.

A feeling was growing in Tokyo government circles that the Russian-Japanese situation was reaching a state where provocation on either side would contain most dangerous possibilities for a large conflict.

The war, navy and foreign ministers held a lengthy conference with government leaders this afternoon concerning the latest clashes on the border between the Japanese-advisee state of Manchoukuo and Soviet far eastern territory.

President Starts Check on Spending Without Taxes

Spread Between Spending and Tax Receipts Given Fresh Check By President Roosevelt

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—With New Deal fiscal policy debated increasingly as a campaign issue President Roosevelt undertook today a fresh check on the spread between spending and tax receipts.

Both branches of Congress had before them a second of the major political questions, farm relief in the administration bill to protect soil fertility on farms producing foods for the nation's 127,521,000 persons and insurance if possible against price deservative surpluses.

Representatives Rhinehart and Dennis company of Charlottesville, Va., builder of the Hawks' nest tunnel in south West Virginia, declined to appear before a house committee investigating charges that hundreds of men died of silicosis after working in the tube.

Both representatives Wadsworth of New York and Republican Chairman Fletcher said they knew nothing of report that some eastern Republicans favored a ticket of Gov. Landon of Kansas for president and Wadsworth for vice president.

National Politics Take Spotlight In This State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—The national political situation, especially with regard to the forthcoming campaign for the Presidency, has been claiming so much attention both here and over the state generally for the past several weeks, that not much has been heard with regard to the campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor here in North Carolina.

The public has been so interested in happenings in Washington or in what has been in process of development to replace the AAA processing taxes, the soldiers' bonus and other matters of immediate and widespread interest, that very few have thought much of the political situation here within the state.

The pendulum of interest is expected to swing back rather sharply to state politics and especially the campaign for the nomination for

GROUP SEEKS SHOW ALLIES BROKE FAITH

Tries Establish Countries Overrode Aims of Treasury

PAID LOANS WITH BORROWED CASH

J. P. Morgan is Spectator at Hearing Although He is No Longer Needed

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The Senate munitions committee today sought to show that the Allies overrode treasury objections and paid off American private bankers with part of the first money they borrowed direct from the government during the World War.

J. P. Morgan, head of the huge banking house, closely followed these efforts.

He had surprised the committee by appearing for the committee inquiry despite word that his presence would not be necessary.

It was brought out that ally nations owed American bankers and investors $2,262,000,000, most of which was loans negotiated largely by J. P. Morgan and Company at the time this country entered the World War.

"Wasn't it understood," asked Senator Vandenberg, "that the prices of the loans to the allies should not be used to fund existing obligations unless they found it absolutely necessary to meet war emergencies?"

"Yes," said Russell Leffingwell, Morgan partner who was an assistant to the secretary of the treasury during the war. "That was the general understanding."

Rep. Cooley Calls Meeting for Today to Discuss Tobacco

Action Comes After President Roosevelt's Request That Tobacco Control Act Be Repealed

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Members of the North Carolina congressional delegation were called by Representative Harold D. Cooley of Nashville, to meet late today to consider the future of flue-cured tobacco control.

J. B. Hutson, agriculture department tobacco chief, will attend the session.

Cooley's action followed President Roosevelt's request that the Kerr-Smith tobacco control act be repealed.

Expect Reprieves For at Least Three Scheduled To Die

Parole Commissioner Says They Will Be Some Stay Among Six Persons Set to Die Friday

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Edwin Gill, parole commissioner, said today, "there will be some reprieves" extended among the six men facing death at State's Prison here Friday, but it still appeared that J. T. Sanford and Thomas Watson, Durham negroes would die by gas for murder.

The commissioner said he expected to confer during the day with Governor Ehringhaus concerning the other four cases. He did not say how many would be reprieved but it was indicated three or four would be as the state has never taken more than three lives in one day.

Health Office Forces To Hear Dr. Rosenau

The entire personnel of the Pitt county health department is making arrangements to attend the address of Dr. Milton J. Rosenau of the University of North Carolina tomorrow night.

Dr. Rosenau recently came to the university to direct the division of public health at the institution. He is considered the foremost authority in the country in his line of work. Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt health officer, said the state was exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Rosenau.

The address will be in the subject "Epidemics." From the health office here Dr. Ennett, Dr. J. P. Stow, Miss Edna McKee and Miss Mae Ann Roberts expect to attend the event.

EXTRA SESSION TALK REVIVED

Special Legislative Session Urged As Political Move

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, Feb. 3.—Talk concerning a special session of the general assembly is being heard in some quarters here again. This talk is coming largely from those who think a special session would tend to help certain candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor and injure the chances of others.

Those advocating a special session of the general assembly before the state Democratic primary in June, ostensibly to pass legislation under which North Carolina might participate more fully under the National Social Security Act, maintain that such a session would help strengthen the present administration of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and hence help the candidate or candidates which the administration is supposed to be supporting.

These advocates of a special session in the near future point out that so far the Democratic administration here within the state has shown very little enthusiasm for the "New Deal" in Washington and has done very little to cooperate with it. The result is that its apparent apathy and inactivity in cooperating with President Roosevelt and the "New Deal" along several lines, especially with regard to the old age benefits law and unemployment insurance, has not strengthened it with the 100 per cent "New Dealers" here in the state, it is maintained. This inactivity and failure to cooperate with Washington, especially along social security lines, has served to supply Dr. Ralph W. McDonald with some of his most effective ammunition in his campaign for Governor, many think. For McDonald is running on a platform on which he is praising the Roosevelt administration to the skies and assailing the administration of Governor Ehringhaus for its failure to cooperate more with the "New Deal." He is promising his supporters that if they elect him Governor, he will bring a "New Deal" in the administration of the state government, similar to the "New Deal" in Washington, including old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

It is generally agreed that McDonald has picked up a lot of support from among the 100 per cent Roosevelt Democrats in the state by this line of attack and that these gains have been causing considerable worry to the more conservative groups of Democrats which are not supporting him. For both of the other two leading candidates for Governor, Clyde R. Hoy and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham, so far are apparently standing on the record of the present and past Democratic administrations in the state and not saying much about the "New Deal" in Washington, although both Hoy and Graham made strong speeches upholding the President and the "New Deal" in their Jackson Day dinner addresses. It is also regarded as significant that Graham has directed some rather pointed criticism at Governor Ehringhaus recently, regarded by many as indicating that he is not the fair-haired boy apparent of the present administration.

But if Governor Ehringhaus could be persuaded to call a special session between now and the primary to enact legislation which would permit North Carolina to share in the old age benefits which would bring as much as $60 a month to all old people over 65 years of age in the state who could qualify for the benefits, and also get in line for the unemployment insurance, the outlook might be very different. Dr. McDonald could not do about the state then and charge Governor Ehringhaus with being out of step and out of sympathy with the Roosevelt administration. It is pointed out, however, that McDonald then boasts that he would bring old age benefits, unemployment insurance and other similar items to the people of North Carolina, if he were elected. It is further maintained that his style would be badly cramped in a special session, since he would have to be very careful and cautious in what he said and did, and that in the end the session might give considerable advantage to candidates Graham and Hoy, especially to Graham, who would be president in the State senate as Lieutenant Governor.

In spite of the political advantages which might accrue to Governor Ehringhaus and candidates Graham and Hoy, very few here think there is any possibility that Governor Ehringhaus will change his mind and call a special session, however. His close friends are confident he has already made up his mind and that there will be no special session called, unless something far more important than the social security question comes up.

How's Your Health?

The Inner Mind: I

Nature apparently does not have much confidence in man's thinking power. All the vital functions such as respiration, digestion, circulation, she has taken out of voluntary control and placed under the supervision of an "inner mind." Behind certain other vital functions such, for example, as reproduction, nature has placed the drive of instinct and of glandular impulsion, and these frequently suffice to override the most nicely spun rationalizations.

The inner mind is technically known as the autonomic nervous system.

This system consists essentially of two groups of nerves, intimately connected with the glands of the internal secretion. The groups of nerves, called sympathetic and parasympathetic, connect with the brain and spinal cord, but are located outside the skull and spinal column. Both nerve groups act on the so-called (involuntary or smooth muscle (in the stomach, intestines, bronchi, arteries,) on the heart and on the glands both of internal and external secretion.

The sympathetic and parasympathetic groups of nerves, however, have antagonistic actions. Thus, activation of the parasympathetic will produce a drop in blood pressure, an increase in the activity of the gastro-intestinal tract, a slowing of the heart, a flushing of the skin, sweating, an increase in salivation and in secretion of gastric juices.

The activation of the sympathetic system will effect contrary results.

The autonomic system not only keeps watch over the workings of the inner man but actually determines his character. This system of nerves and glands plays an important role in the development, growth and differentiation of the human organism. It influences the constitutional type of the individual, and largely determines his physiologic temperament and psychologic character.

WELL-KNOWN ORCHESTRA TO PLAY FOR THE MID-WINTER GERMANS AT U. OF CAROLINA

Chapel Hill, Feb. 4.—The University German Club, which will sponsor its annual set of mid-winter dances February 14-15 in Bynum Gymnasium, has secured Jimmy Joy and his orchestra to play for all four affairs, it was announced today by Charles Edwards, of Greensboro, secretary-treasurer. Joy will bring his orchestra here from Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati where he has been broadcasting over Station WLW and the Mutual Broadcasting System. During the Christmas holidays his orchestra played at the Trianon Ballroom in Chicago.

U.N.C. FRENCH CLUB TO SEE DUKE PLAYS

Chapel Hill, Feb. 4.—Members of the University French Club will attend the presentation of two modern one-act French plays by the Duke University students at the Quadrangle Theatre on the Duke campus tonight (Tuesday). It was announced today by Prof. Walter D. Creech, Jr., faculty adviser.

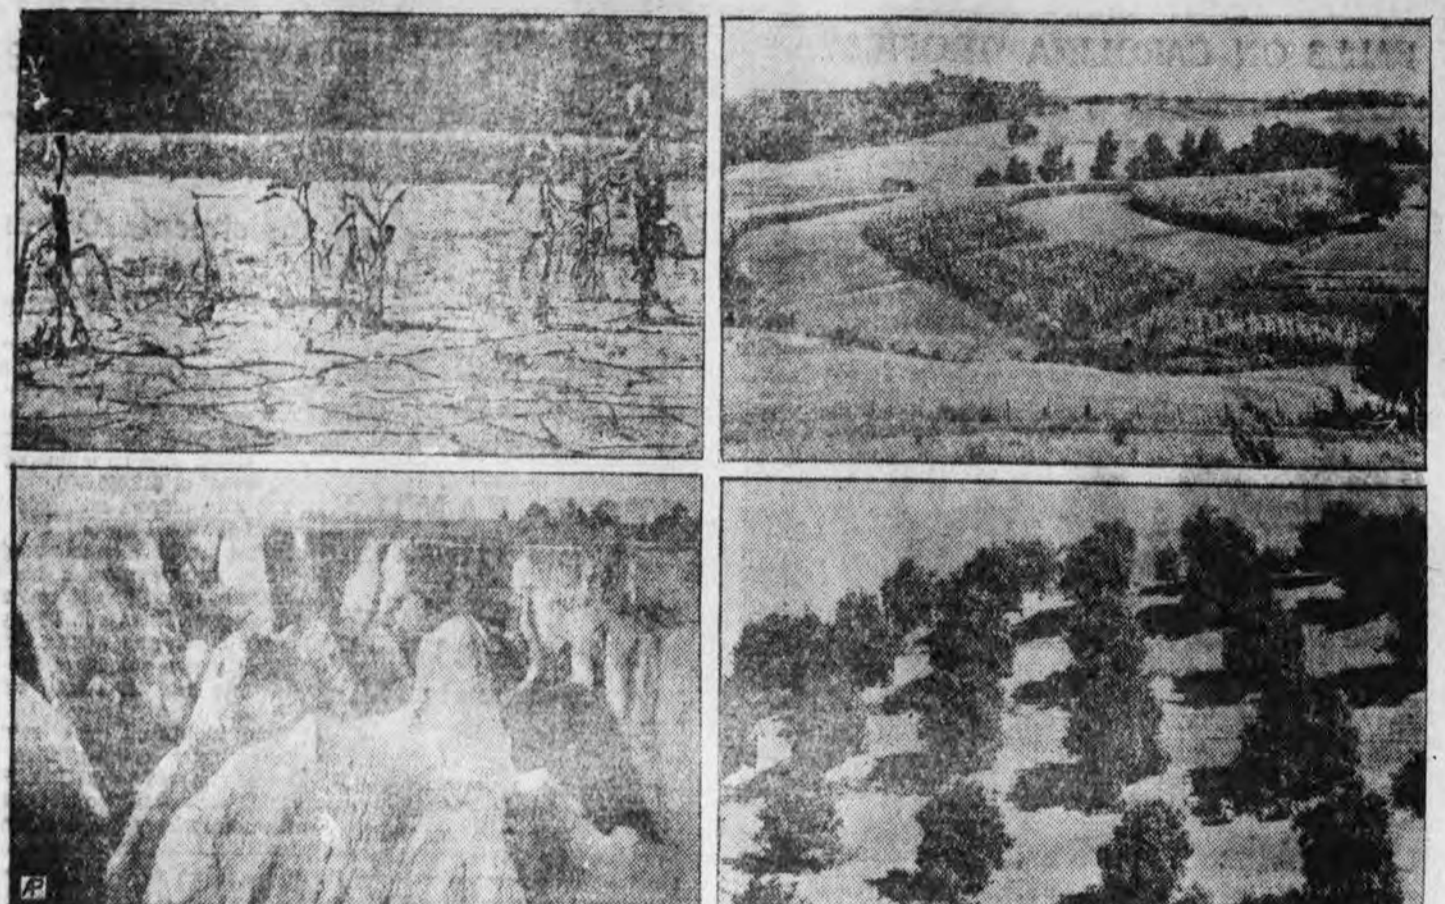

'BELT AND BUCKLE' SPRING FABRIC PRINT

WANT ADS PAY

U. S. Would Wage War On Erosion Under Soil-Saving Farm Program

In practically all sections of the United States, erosion is at work, taking its annual toll of three billion tons of top soil. These pictures show erosion at work and results of efforts to halt it. Above, left, what was left of a Wisconsin corn field after rains had washed soil and debris from the hill; and right, strip crops planted to prevent erosion in Ohio. Below, left, erosion at its worst in Georgia; and right, trees planted in contour lines on a California hill to slow the progress of rain water and allow the soil to absorb it.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington (AP)—Against the great destroyer which takes 3,000,000,000 tons of soil annually from the face of the earth in America, Uncle may send soon a new and vastly broadened offensive.

Administration plans for a successor to AAA, founded on the retirement of poor land from cultivation and its rehabilitation by conservation methods, point toward a campaign against soil erosion of a scope never before attempted. Erosion, enemy of land millions of years before recorded history, is even believed by some experts to have denuded that area which theologians have marked out as the probable site of the Garden of Eden.

Millions of Acres Ruined.
Today, says the federal soil conservation service, it has substantially ruined 50,000,000 formerly cultivated acres in this country; has scarred another 50,000,000 almost as badly; has taken much of the life-giving top soil from 125,000,000 and has got a good foothold in another 100,000,000.

Thus 325,000,000 acres, much of it among the finest farm soil in the country—has been wounded in varying degrees.

Though it has widened rapidly since the soil conservation service got under way 28 months ago, government action thus far against this slow destruction of land has been only upon demonstrational basis. In 41 states privately-owned land aggregating 7,000,000 acres is being treated, as are 49,000,000 acres of public lands.

Rehabilitation Plans.
The administration substitute for AAA, however, would involve taking out of cultivation some 35,000,000 farm acres—or five times the amount of privately-owned land now being strengthened by the SCS against erosion.

The new conservation process would not contemplate such extensive work as that being done by SCS—which builds terraces, furrows the soil in contour, encourages the planting of strip crops, conducts wide researches and experiments. But it would turn back to soil-holding and water-saving grasses and trees vast reaches whose loose and shifting top soil went into the air by millions of tons in the great dust storms of 1934 and 1935.

The proponents of conservation see a shining picture in all this, aside from the crop control it would provide through the retirement of cultivated acreage. They see millions of trees growing again, a return of game and birds, a scarred land healed.

The come-back of grass, uprooted by the plow on a giant scale a generation ago, seems assured through conclusions reached by government technicians as to its astonishing erosion resistance qualities. Thru actual measurements of water and silt run-off from selected plots they have found these things:

At one experiment station, the loss of soil, through water run-off, when planted in cotton was 625 times greater than when planted to grass.
The loss in another plot planted to corn was 1,000 times greater than when planted to mixed clover and timothy. Experts calculated that it would require only 15 years to lose seven inches of top soil under continuous cultivation of corn, wheat, and clover.

C., and being the same property described in deed of record in Book C-11, page 165 to which reference is made. This 1st day of February, 1936. F. C. HARDING, Commissioner. Feb. 4-1tw-4wk.

True Story

It's just an old American custom to call for CAPTAIN APPLE BRANDY. It glorifies the Mint Julep, builds up the Old-Fashioned, adds zing to a Hot Toddy and literally MAKES a Manhattan! Straight...it's the real McCoy. If you're looking for a liquor that "has everything" (except an extravagant price), you're looking for CAPTAIN APPLE BRANDY! Sold at State Stores. The fast pace of Modern Living puts an extra strain on Digestion

TRAFFIC puts a load on nerves and digestion. When you "get the red," light a Camel. Camels set you right...help keep the digestion working normally.

Natural digestive action notably increased by smoking Camels

People in every walk of life get "keyed up." The effects on digestion are known to all! In this connection, it is an interesting fact that smoking a Camel during or between meals tends to stimulate and promote digestion. Enjoy Camel's mildness... the feeling of well-being fostered by Camels matches less blend of costlier tobaccos. Smoke Camels for digestion's sake!

First Church of Christ, Scientist. "Love" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 2.

The golden text was from I John 3:18. "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth."

In the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in him dwelleth in God, and God in him." (I John 4:12, 16).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If we pray to God as a corporeal person, this will prevent us from relinquishing the human doubts and fears which attend such a belief, and so we cannot grasp the wonders which are wrought by infinite, incorporeal Love, to whom all things are possible. Because of human ignorance of the divine Principle, Love, the other of all is represented as a corporeal creator; hence men recognize themselves as merely physical, and are ignorant of man as God's image or reflection and of man's eternal incorporeal existence."

DUKE SENIOR WRITES NOVEL ABOUT MODERN YOUNG FOLKS

Durham, N. C., Feb. 3.—James Stuart Gillespie, Jr., 20, of Stamford, Conn., and New York, a senior at Duke university has had his first novel accepted, and is hard at work on another.

"Hangover—1936" has been accepted for publication in April by the Galleon press, and the young author is already at work on a new novel tentatively titled "Memoirs of a Poor Relation." He is also the author of a volume of poetry entitled "Modern Moods."

The Duke senior's novel is said to be a brilliant fast-moving story of the Eastern social set with which he is familiar. It is set against a background that shifts from New York to Newport to Greenwich. The novel, according to the publishers, does for the current generation what Scott Fitzgerald did for the post war generation.

Anniversary Week Planned by Scouts At Local Meeting

Pitt County Scouters-Pow Wow Circle Holds Second Monthly Meeting in Field House

The Pitt County Scouters-Pow Wow Circle held its second monthly meeting last night at the Third Street Field house. Sixteen Scoutmasters and Assistants were present and discussed plans for Scout Anniversary Week, February 7 through 13th.

The tentative plan for a mass meeting of all Pitt County Scouts on February 5th, Scoutings birthday, was called off due to the bad weather. Some of the Scouts in Pitt County live as much as seven miles from their meeting place. A suggested outline was made for each day of the week to be used by the individual Troops and communities. All Scoutmasters were urged to request to make it possible for their Troop to meet together at 6:35 on Saturday, February 5th, to hear the message of the President of the United States, and honorary president of Scouting, F. D. Roosevelt, the President of Scouting, Walter W. Head, and the Chief Scout Executive leading in a dedication to Scouting, throughout America, with the Scout Oath and Law.

Two more officers were elected for the Pow Wow Circle during the business meeting. Ed Nash Warren of Farmville, was elected vice-chairman, and J. P. McBryde of Grimesland was elected Keeper of the Wampum. After the business meeting the Scouters had their fellowship supper prepared for them at the field house.

In pre-war years more than 35,000 new books were published annually in Germany, while in 1934 production declined to 20,852 books.

SCOUT COURSE OFFERED HERE

Second Meeting of Study Held at College Last Night

The second meeting of the Scouters first Aid training course was held Monday evening at 7:30 in the Austin building at East Carolina Teachers College.

The purpose of this course is to give the students taking it a general knowledge of the aims, procedure and contents of the first aid program, as set forth by the American Red Cross and the Boy Scouts of America. It is intended to teach the leaders of boys the elements of first aid, not only to prevent accidents but to give them proper treatment, should they occur. By acquiring cutting this knowledge he will be made a safer leader for his group of boys and will also make himself a more useful and beneficial citizen in his community. Further, this course aims to give the Scout leader the technique of teaching this material to his Scouts.

After the opening of the meeting a new patrol contest was explained to the men. Points will be given for attendance, being on time, bringing new members and studying the lesson. The winning patrol will be given a supper by the losers. The points stand: Eagle Patrol, H. B. Mayo of Fountain, patrol leader, 53 points; Rooster Patrol, led by W. R. Harrison of Stokes, 30 points; Hen Patrol led by M. B. Hearn of Greenville, 100 points; Wolfe Patrol led by J. H. O'ward of Ayden, 150 points.

Lieut. Lester Jones of the State Highway Patrol, was introduced by Dr. E. L. Henderson to instruct the class. The lesson covered the subject of "Wounds and Bleeding." Wounds are subject to two dangers, infection and serious bleeding. No matter how small the wound may be it is always large enough for thousands of germs to enter. Take the proper care of each wound as soon as it occurs. 1. Do not touch the wound. 2. Do not wash with soap and water, or even water. 3. Encourage some bleeding. 4. Apply half strength (31-2 per cent) tincture of iodine once. Wash well down in the wound, not just on the surface. Let the iodine dry to prevent blistering. 5. Do not disturb blood-clots. 6. Never re-apply iodine. 7. In all serious bleeding think first of pressure, for arterial bleeding immediately apply digital or hand pressure between the wound and the heart, at one of the six points where the main arteries lie close to a bone. The tourniquet is preferably used with a pad over the artery. Loosen the tourniquet every fifteen to twenty minutes. 8. For venous

Talks To Parents

Camouflaged Ideals. BY BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

It is not unusual to hear parents complain of the lack of ideals of modern youth.

"They laugh at everything. Nothing is sacred to them any longer. They believe in nothing, respect nobody and have no dreams, no heroes."

To a large extent the parents are wrong about the youngsters, and in some degree they are to blame for what truth there is in their accusations.

Some ideals and dreams the children have, though, of course, not the same ones their parents had. But they hide them under a "line" of boredom and worldly wisdom which trips very inconspicuously from the tongues of exquisite young girls and clean looking boys. The innocent girl who knew more than she seemed has given place to the sophisticated miss who seems to know more than she does. And the boys have ceased to assume the protective attitude.

The tone to which the youngsters are dancing was set by their parents, many of whom were trained during the war period to hush and "joke" at everything. Cynicism, much of it cheap, was the fashion and became the habit. Everywhere the old traditions broke down.

To express one's real feelings was poor form. Devotion, heroism, ideals of family life and abiding love, were all made the target of mockery. Natural vice children assumed the same attitude. What else was there to do? Their younger brothers and sisters followed the suit. Cynicism, like a style of clothes became correct.

But, like most fashions, it is only skin deep, and already shows signs of dying. Before long the parents will be out of date unless they too throw off the habit of camouflaging their deep feelings as something of which they are ashamed.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

Taste-Tester Tester. Nicholas G. Barbella's job is tasting the tastes of Uncle Sam's taste testers. There are some 20 food judges in the department of agriculture and Barbella tries to establish what he calls their "minimum threshold of taste." A good taste-tester is one whose own taste is not too sensitive—not too dull. Barbella uses sucrose, common salt, caffeine and tartaric acid—the chemicals present, in various forms, in a great variety of foods—on his subjects to test their four primary taste sensations. Each is on record as to where he started to taste salt and that is his "minimum threshold of taste" for salt—and so on down the line. Barbella blindfolds his subjects in testing their tastes for meats to determine the part sight plays in tasting.

Because of the tremendous interest over the entire state in the national political situation and in the Roosevelt administration, two of the candidates for Governor have already been bringing the national situation into their campaigns and definitely linking themselves and their campaigns with the Roosevelt "New Deal." The first to do this was Dr. McDonald, who for months has been accusing the present Democratic administration within the state of turning a cold shoulder to the Roosevelt "New Deal" and that if elected Governor, he would bring a "New Deal" here in North Carolina similar to the "New Deal" brought to the nation by Roosevelt, also that he would insure closer cooperation between the North Carolina state government and Washington. It is generally agreed that McDonald has gained much substantial support as a result of this attitude. More recently, Lieutenant Governor Graham, in his Jackson Day Dinner speech in Asheville, closely allied himself with the President and the "New Deal" and indicated that he, too, if elected governor, would advocate closer cooperation with Washington.

In his Jackson Day Dinner address before the Cleveland County Young Democrats in Shelby, Hoey eloquently lauded the President and his administration and gave the Republican party a stinging tongue lashing, but failed to indicate what his course would be in relation to the national administration if he should be nominated and elected. Since Hoey is being credited with getting much of his strongest support from among the conservative element in the Democratic party in the state, much of which is conceded to be bitterly opposed to many Roosevelt policies and to most of the "New Deal" many here are already wondering just what position he will take in his campaign with regard to the present administration in Washington.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs the most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

THE BOOMERANG CLUE
 BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS: Frankie Derwent just has staged a fake accident of the gateway of Nervosway Court in order to be carried inside. And she wants to get inside because a man named Bassington-French lives there, and Frankie suspects him of pushing a man over a cliff and of attempting the life of her friend, Bobby Jones with an overdose of morphine. Frankie has been received in a well, and now she has to wait until George Arbuthnot's fake examination, George being an advertisement doctor friend of Frankie's.

Chapter I.
MEAN TRICK

GEORGE, darling, this won't blight your career, will it? Frankie asked. "They won't strike you off the register, or whatever it is, will they?"

"Probably," said George gloomily. "That is, if it ever comes out."

"It won't," said Frankie. "Don't worry. George, I shan't let you down." She added thoughtfully, "You did it very well. I've never heard you talk so much before."

George sighed. He looked at his watch. "I shall give my examination another three minutes," he said.

"What about the car?" "I'll arrange with a garage to have that cleared up."

"George," said Frankie, "you've been an angel. I don't know why you did it."

"No more do I," said George. "Damn fool thing to do."

"Bye-bye. Enjoy yourself."

"I wonder if I shall," said Frankie. She was thinking of that cool impersonal voice with the slight American accent.

George went in search of the owner of it, whom he found waiting for him in the drawing-room.

"Well," he said abruptly, "I'm glad to say it's not so bad as I feared. Concussion very slight and already passing off. She ought to stay quietly where she is for a day or so, though." He paused. "She seems to be a Lady Frances Derwent."

"Oh, fancy!" said Mrs. Bassington-French. "Then I know some cousins of hers, the Draytons' girls well."

"I don't know if it's inconvenient for you to have her here," said George. "But if she could stay where she was for a day or two—"

"Oh of course. That will be quite alright," said Mrs. Bassington-French.

"Thank you very much, Dr. Arbuthnot. By the way, I'll see to the car business. I shall be passing a garage."

"Thank you very much, Dr. Arbuthnot. How very lucky you happened to be passing! I suppose a doctor ought to see her to-morrow just to see she's getting on all right."

"I don't think it's necessary," said George. "All she needs is quiet."

"I see. But her people ought to know."

"I'll attend to that," said George.

WELL here I am, thought Frankie. "Safely in the enemy's camp. Now it's up to me."

There was a tap on the door and Mrs. Bassington-French entered. Frankie raised herself a little on her pillows.

"I'm so frightfully sorry," she said in a faint voice. "Causing you all this bother."

"Nonsense," said Mrs. Bassington-French. Frankie heard anew that cool, attractive, drawing voice with a slight American accent, and remembered that Lord Marchington had said that one of the Hampshire Bassington-Frenches had married an American heiress. "Dr. Arbuthnot says you will be quite all right in a day or two if you just keep quiet."

Frankie felt still more ashamed. It was a mean thing she was doing - mean - mean - mean. She would give it up! Go back to town - Her hostess went on. "It won't be too dull here. To-morrow my brother-in-law is coming back. You'll like him, I'm sure. Everyone likes Roger."

"He lives with you?" "Off and on. He's a restless creature. He calls himself the 'ner-do-well' of the family, and perhaps it's true in a way. He never sticks to a job for long - in fact I don't believe he's ever done any real work in his life. But some people just are like that, especially in old families. And they're usually people with a great charm of manner. Roger is wonderfully sympathetic. I don't know what I should have done without him this Spring when Tommy was ill."

"What was the matter with Tommy?" "He had a bad fall from the swing. It must have been tied on to a rotten branch, and the branch gave way. Roger was very much upset because he was swinging the child at the time - you know, giving him high ones such as children love. We thought at first Tommy's spine was hurt, but it turned out to be a very slight injury and he's quite all right now."

"He certainly looks it," said Frankie, smiling, as she heard faint yells and whoops in the distance. "I know. He seems in perfect condition. It's such a relief. He's had bad luck in accidents. He was nearly drowned last winter."

"Was he really?" said Frankie thoughtfully. "She no longer meditated returning to town. The feeling of guilt had abated. Accidents! Did Roger Bassington-French specialize in accidents, she wondered."

She said: "If you're sure you mean it, I'd love to stay a little longer. But won't your husband mind my butting in like this?"

"Henry?" Mrs. Bassington-French's lips curled in a strange expression. "No, Henry won't mind. Henry never minds anything - nowadays."

Frankie looked at her curiously. "If she knew me better she'd tell me something," she thought to herself. "I believe there are lots of odd things going on in this household."

Henry Bassington-French joined them for tea, and Frankie studied him closely. There was certainly something odd about the man. His type was an obvious one - a jovial, sport-loving, simple country gentleman.

But such a man ought not to sit twitching nervously, his nerves obviously on edge.

Frankie meets Roger Bassington-French to-morrow.

streamed into the executive chamber to discover Vice-President Garner at the President's right. Mr. Roosevelt laughed off inquiries. He said they were gossiping of "fishing and hunting." He declined to say what they were fishing and hunting for.

What the two head men were talking was new taxes. The Texas has long been an expert on this subject - he framed and disrupted every tax plan which Andrew Mellon sent to Capitol Hill ten years ago. Moreover, he knows how Mr. Roosevelt can skate on this extent the sting of being uprooted from native soil. Einstein is most famous of all the exiles. Another how directing Werfel's play on Broadway.

But, not all exiles and refugees are here to escape the wrath of foreign governments. There is that ex-convict who came out of prison at the age of 35. He has a family in California. For two years he has been working on an invention, and now it seems that he will win. He can't go home because he doesn't want to stimulate publicity of which too much has already been visited upon his wife and children. The money will be placed in trust funds for his children. In time his wife is going to join him in New York. And they are to be remarried under the new name he has legally adopted.

One of the first attributes of a good press agent is diplomacy, and Benjamin Sonnenberg, walrus-moustached but a "smoothie" withal, is credited with a feat that would do credit to an ambassador at least.

It seems that while Sonnenberg was handling a fashionable casino on Long Island an unusual crowd attended the opening and the under-manned staff of waiters was sorely harassed, taking care of everybody. Sonnenberg noticed one of the waiters staggering weakly with a tray. Upon investigation he discovered that in the rush of things the management had forgotten to feed the waiter.

"You know Napoleon said that an army travels on its stomach," reminded the waiter. "How can we work if he don't feed us?"

Sonnenberg brought the waiter to a buffet upon which roast squabs were displayed. "Take one of these, sneak out the back, and eat it," instructed he.

Then Sonnenberg called the manager. "You shouldn't have forgotten to feed your men," he reproved. "They'll only do you dirty and feed themselves in their own way. Come out in the back and I'll show you what I mean. That is, I'll show you if you promise never to say anything about it."

With that he brought the manager outside and showed him the waiter surreptitiously feeding on young squab. "See," he cried, "he was so hungry he stole squab. If you had offered him spaghetti and potatoes there would be no necessity for this."

Epilog: Those waiters now are the most elegantly fed by the metropolitan area.

Bank demanded still further deflation instead - which Laval felt was asking the impossible.

Word is that the Bank has now seen the light and that Foreign Minister Flaminio was busy trying to wrangle a loan of fifty million pounds from Britain while he was in London for King George's funeral. This would be camouflaged as a credit to the Bank of France to avoid exposing France's financial weakness to the world. There's no doubt in informed circles that France urgently needs such help. Further internal credits on an adequate scale are out of the question.

The English are said to be willing to tender financial first aid - provided the French give them a quid pro quo. They want a trade agreement which will facilitate the sale of British goods in France by removing quotas and tariffs. They will probably get it. Britain has the whip-hand and knows it. She has never been reluctant to put on the pressure when there's something to be gained.

SENSE: Back in the days of NRA cooperation among the air lines was reluctant and undertaken mainly for the purpose of getting around code restrictions. No - for the first time in their history - they are cooperating voluntarily and effectively through the new-formed Air Transport Association.

The head of the Association, Colonel Edgar Gorrell, is a West Pointer who was one of the Army's pioneer aviators and saw flying service in Mexico with General Pershing's expedition. During the war he commanded an air unit and his aggressiveness in tackling tough problems won him the nickname of "The Infant Hercules." He takes his new job seriously and will promote a big campaign of joint institutional advertising by the lines as well as a better type of liaison with Washington.

One decision reached by the air lines is that future publicity will not feature the types of planes used. Today's mechanical marvel becomes obsolete tomorrow. Moreover, the railroads don't try to lure customers by announcing that they use Baldwin or American locomotives and their silence on this detail is rated sound sense.

MAJORITY: Despite persistent reports to the contrary, financial insiders predict that the membership of the Securities-Exchange Commission will remain intact for some time.

It was announced some weeks ago that George C. Matthews was going to resign to accept a job with Associated Telephone. This is all off. A closer look convinced Mr. Matthews that the offer wasn't as enticing as he had thought. James D. Ross is said on excellent authority to be at odds with some of his colleagues about administration of the holding company law. He expected to be in charge of the Commission's regulation of utilities and it hasn't worked out that way. But he isn't likely to quit either.

The new member William O. Douglas - hasn't been around long enough to make his presence felt. But he is understood to be in accord with the ideas of Chairman Landis - which is reassuring news to New York. That would give the "rationals" on the Commission (Landis, Matthews and Douglas) a 3 to 2 majority over the "radicals" (Ross and Healy).

WHIP-HAND: New York learns that one unpublished reason why Premier Laval of France resigned was because the Bank of France wouldn't support his efforts to negotiate an external loan in England. Governor Jean Tannery of the

 They think that his reprieve of Hauptmann results from too much reliance on tips and new evidence suggested by volunteer Sherlock.
 Every experienced detective is familiar with these communications. The Treasury agents who first set the net for Hauptmann were deluged with them in the early days. Before they quit the Lindbergh homestead at Hopewell they had filled fifteen sugar barrels with letters from cranks. They ran down some tips which seemed to point to a trail, but not a single one developed any worthwhile clue. Whenever the case is revived in the headlines, the amateurs take their pens in hand again.
 The attics of every detective office at Washington are stuffed with these mementos. They poured in during the chase after Capone, Dillinger, Dutch Schultz and all the other gangsters, now dead or imprisoned or on the loose.
 LEAK: Senator Arthur Vandenberg has put Harold Ickes "on the spot."
 The Michigan man has demanded that the Secretary of the Interior appear before a Senate committee to give his opinion of some of the vast projects which the New Deal has undertaken. Somebody must have tipped off the Senator, for Mr.

ickes bitterly fought such ventures as Passamaquoddy in Maine, the Florida Ship Canal and Santee-Cooper in South Carolina. They were approved in spite of adverse reports by him and his engineers.
 Publicly the Secretary of the Interior has "gone along." He raised his voice against these projects in secret councils but he did not carry the fight outside. But privately his opinion is well-known and it has apparently "leaked" to his senatorial inquisitors.

Greenies Ready For Tilt Tonight With Washington

Game Between Old Rivals To Start at 7:30 o'Clock

The basketball game between the Greenville Greenies and the Pam Pack of the Washington high will begin promptly tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The boys composing the local quint were going through their same routine of practice this afternoon, and each of them seem to be in fine shape to give any opposing team a good fight.

The record made by the basket- eers this season is undoubtedly one of the finest that could be expected by any coach who has such a team in charge. Mr. J. H. Rose as well as Coach Reynolds may have expressed their opinion in regards to the high, and it is their opinion that the local group is unsurpassed second to none.

The Greenville high school is also to have a track team this year. Equipment to be used by participants of the team arrived yesterday but due to the weather the practice will be on a standstill until more favorable weather conditions are available. Talk of a track team at the local high was being circulated around Christmas and practice was to have started during the holidays, but bad weather prevailed and practice was halted.

A Washington Daybook

Washington—Strange as it may seem, the precipitate action of the President in vetoing the bonus could be a factor in aiding the administration's legislative program as it develops during the remainder of the present congress.

It has been true in the past that when Democrats of the house made a show of their "Independence", a subsequent tendency to get right with the administration was quickly as possible became evident. That is likely to be true now.

There are urgent reasons. Primary elections are just around the corner for all members of the house. The stage has been set in Philadelphia for the re-nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. And then there is the powerful factor of the President's own personal popularity upon which many Democrats in the house base their hopes of reelection.

On F.D.R.'s Coat Tails. It requires more than five pages in the Congressional Directory just to list the men in the house of representatives serving their first or second term. Most of these are Democrats. The importance of these gentlemen "getting right" with the administration is obvious.

An undetermined but considerable number are holding seats from congressional districts which have been Republican in normal times. Furthermore, these Democrats are to be first or second terms—come in on Mr. Roosevelt's "coat tails". They were elected either in the Roosevelt sweep of 1932 or in the confirmation of the Roosevelt administration in the congressional elections of 1934.

There is another good reason why they should desire to get back in the good graces of the administration. All of them know that while the Republicans may be slow in getting together on their national ticket for the coming campaign, this is not true with respect to individual seats in the house and senate up for contest.

Townsend Plan To Have a "New Deal"

The Townsend Messiah is IRWIN BARROUR. Townsend Plan to pay $200 monthly to persons above sixty is to have a New Deal. The transactions are to be carried on in the money is to be each day.

The new House and better Plan would require federal billions and would be approved within a few days by the next doctor who descends the job of the physician in California to become a great Messiah to what his leaders claim are seven million followers. A new problem of the new bill will be: Designation of the term "penalty" to include the 200-a-month payment and substitution of "social dividends." Appointment by Congress of the pension fund appropriations to the states to be distributed by them under charitable acts conforming to the federal law (this would both effect decentralization and avoid the Supreme Court's interdiction against federal taxation for non-federal use.) Taxation designed to compel spending of unearned incomes—such as rent, dividends and interest—both to prohibit additions to present topheavy accumulations and to prevent choking of the plan's operation by building up stagnant savings. A federal bond issue of ten billion dollars to finance the early operation of the plan. Gradual pensioning of eligibles, starting with the most advanced ages, to obviate the shock of sudden dropped for non-payment due to poverty or other causes. The clubs try to raise their funds for their quotas by bazaars and various other methods familiar to churches and ladies' aid societies.

The formula "Youth for Work—Age for Leisure" marches on among the rank and file. A golden paradise of rest and travel after 60 paid for by a paternal government which will raise the taxes somehow—it always has.

Men who are supposed to know say it can't be done—that it would bankrupt the country; but Townsendites reply the others are following the taxes somehow—it always has. The depression. Spend twenty billions a year to put the country to work. Replace the superannuated with youth, paying the old off for their services in the past—a social dividend. Give age a chance to breathe, to enjoy the declining years. Relieve youth of the duty of support, age of the fear of poverty, of being the object of compassion, or the ride over the hill.

These Townsend meetings see more tears than cheers. "God bless Dr. Townsend, a prophet come among us, a Moses to lead us out of the wilderness."

The cries for millions of human hearts are the driving force that the politicians have to confront, the economists combat—and each one a voter. Of course the movement is cluttered up with the something-for-nothing boys, chiselers, political racketeers and wave-riders of all sorts. But the true believers would canonize Dr. Townsend today as the redeemer of America and there are more than enough of them to make this an interesting political year even if it were not going to be anything in all states.

The real play, of course, is to get favorable Congress by pressure in every Congressional district. Approximately $150,000 a month is being spent in organization propaganda and development, which runs into important money in short time. It is coming from dimes out of the purses of old ladies and from the cigar money of old men. The very profitable Townsend Weekly, which sells for a nickel a copy and is packed with small ads largely promoting nostrums for the relief of ailments, indigenous to age, contributes its share. Leaders claim that only about 10 per cent of the "quotas" of each club are actually paid in, but that members are not

ROTARY CLUB BACKS PEACE

Club Presented With Forms Asking Neutrality Acts

Last night the Rotary Club had a closed business session at their regular weekly meeting. Before the meeting got under way Gilbert Combs presented the Club with form letters to Congressman Lindsay Warren to request his backing for the strengthening of present and proposed acts of Congress for neutrality.

Dr. Combs brought the form letters which had been prepared by the Greenville Peace Union which is a local organization actively engaged in doing their part to promote peace among all nations. In the presentation of the matter to the Rotarians the need for the appeal in view of counter activity on the part of "big business" and munitions manufacturers was brought out.

Yo Walker handed the Club last night an autographed picture of Major Bows as a gift of appreciation to the Greenville Rotarians for the Barbecue luncheon given Major Bows' Amateurs the day they were in town last week. Not to be outdone our local "Major Bows," Hayward Dall jumped to his feet waving a letter direct from Major Bows signed Hayward said just plain "Major."

Guests of the evening were W. J. Sermons and Louis Bullock — the latter a visiting Rotarian from Goldsboro. The attendance prize given by Carl Adams was won by Wyatt Brown. Lawrence Stroud, vice-president of the Club, presided in the absence of Bill Lee the club president. Lawrence was also in charge of the evening's program.

WHEN THE MERCURY SANK OUT OF SIGHT! BR-R-R

Pigs in the parlor and thermometers with the mercury sunk out of sight were seen when Arctic weather swept down from the north and seized the middle west. After six of her pigs froze to death, Mrs. J. A. Peters of Des Moines, Iowa, moved the survivors into her home while 20-below prevailed outside. And when the mercury went down to a record low of 33.5 at Minneapolis, an old timer gazed at the thermometer, hardly able to believe his own eyes. (Associated Press Photos)

At these prices a better demand developed from the trade, however, and the market was five to eight up from the lowest at midday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The stock market, closed its buying attention largely to specialties today, leaving many of the recent leaders without any particular support.

Conscious in the higher price range were merchandising, farm implements and rubber issues. The ticker tape fell behind at the start. Realizing abated later and selective demands appeared. The motors and mines pointed lower and most of the utilities were narrow.

The late tone was firm. Transferable approximately 2,800,000 shares.

Now that the soldiers' bonus bill has been passed by Congress over a presidential veto, President Roosevelt sends a letter to Speaker Byrns of the House, telling him to find funds to pay the ex-soldiers $2,249,000,000. Byrns (upper left) hands the letter to Rep. Taylor of Colorado, acting chairman of the House appropriations committee. Below, Taylor is shown wrestling with the gigantic task of raising the money. BIG TURNOVER IN DIVISIONS

Heavy Change of Inmates at Penal Institutions

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, Feb. 4.—The turnover among the inmates of various state charitable and penal institutions is much larger than is generally believed, especially in the prison industry, it was pointed out here today by R. Eugene Brown, director of institutions of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare.

There has been an impression prevalent in a good many sources, frequently among county welfare directors, that there have been very few inmates discharged from the various state institutions, Brown said. But the figures indicate that the turnover in most institutions has been about as great as could be expected.

During the year 1935, there were 20,654 prisoners admitted to the prison system and 19,541 released, leaving a balance of 8,467 in prison as of January 1, the figures show. Among the corrective state schools for juvenile delinquents, including the Eastern Carolina Training School and the Jackson Training School for delinquent white boys, the Morrison Training School for negro boys, the Samaritan Training School for delinquent girls and the Eiland School for delinquent negro girls, which is extended some state aid, there 709 new admission during 1935 and 739 released, leaving 953 still in these institutions as of January 1, 1936.

The three State Hospitals for the Insane in Raleigh, Morganton and Goldsboro and the Caswell Training School for the feeble minded in Kinston, had a total of 6,528 patients, 2,243 January 1, 1935, had 2,391 new admissions during the year of 1935, released in that same period and had a total population of 6,576 as of January 1, 1936. The Raleigh hospital received 926 new patients and discharged 893, the Goldsboro hospital received 574 new patients and discharged 532 and the Morganton hospital received 851 new patients and discharged 875 during 1935. The Caswell Training School at Kinston received 40 new patients and discharged 43 during the year.

The other state hospitals — the Orthopedic Hospital near Gastonia, the Tubercular Hospital at Sanatorium—the School for the Deaf at Morganton and the School for the Blind in Raleigh, had an enrollment of 1,326 on January 1, 1935, received 1,823 new patients and students during 1935, released 1,817 during that period and had a population and enrollment of 1,332 on January 1, 1936.

E. C. T. C. Girls to Play Wingate College Here

The teachers will play their third game of the season when they meet the Wingate Junior College team at the E. C. T. C. Gym on Thursday night at eight o'clock. This has been a successful year for the E. C. T. C. girls as they have won both games by doubling the opponents score.

Last year the teachers played Wingate, losing one game and winning one game. This game will break the tie.

Tobacco Success Rests Great Deal On Plant Quality

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—Success with the tobacco crop depends a great deal upon the development of healthy, sturdy plants in the seed bed, say specialists in the agronomy, botany and entomology departments at State College.

In a good bed, where the young plants are given proper nourishment and protection from cold weather and disease, they will become hardy and thrifty by the time they are to be transplanted into the fields.

Among the causes for plant-bed failures are: poor location, inadequate preparation of the soil, improper fertilization, diseased seed, improper handling of the beds during the growing period, disease infestations, and insect attacks.

To aid farmers avoid these pitfalls, the agronomy, botany, and entomology departments of State College have prepared a bulletin, Extension Circular No. 207, "Approved Practices in Handling Tobacco Plant Beds," which gives detailed regarding the construction and operation of seed beds. The publication was prepared under the supervision of Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist, and copies may be obtained free of charge by tobacco growers by addressing a request to the Agricultural Editor at State College.
