Strategic Center Falls To Italian Truck Column Led By Fascist Official

Drive Is by Far Most Important International Move Yet

DENY SUPPLIES NORTH ETHIOPIA

Capture Also Important Because of Significance to British Subjects in Area

(Copyright by Associated Press) With the northern Italian army, Gondar, Ethiopia, March 31.—(AP)—This important strategic city at the head of Lake Tana fell into the hands of an Italian truck column led by Achille Starace, secretary general of the fascist party today. The mechanical cavalry roared its way southward along the Sudanese border, cutting off all northern Ethiopia from supplies which previously had been delivered over caravan trails from the Sudan. This Italian drive is by far the most important international move yet made in the present war, because of the significance to the British of the Lake Tana region.

Tree Planted Here In Memory of Late Mayor Flanagan

Services Attended by Number of Friends and Relatives of Mayor For Many Years

A holly tree was planted in front of the old Model school sight on the Cotanche street side of the Municipal park late yesterday afternoon as a tribute to the memory of the late Mayor R. C. Flanagan. The ceremony was attended by a number of relatives and friends of the late mayor. The Woman's club sponsored the memorial, and its president, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, presided over the services yesterday.

The program was opened with a prayer by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church. "The Tree of the Tree" was read by Miss Elizabeth Hyman. The tree then was planted by J. H. Rose, George Clark and B. B. Bugg, all close friends of Mr. Flanagan during his lifetime. The tree was accepted on behalf of the city by Mayor M. K. Blount. Another poem, "Plant a Tree," was read by Miss Hyman, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Worth Wicker, rector of Saint Paul's Episcopal church.

Appropriate services will be held around the tree each year, the services to be sponsored by the Woman's club.

ADOLF HITLER PEACE OFFERS SENT TO EDEN

Special Ambassador Flies to England With Answer

PLAN IS SAID TO BE CONCILIATORY

Document Described As Containing Several Concrete Peace Suggestions

Berlin, March 31.—(AP)—Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Reichsminister of Foreign Affairs, flew to London today carrying with him an answer, said by a high authority to contain a gesture of conciliation toward the Locarno treaty power proposal for European peace. The document Von Ribbentrop carried was said to contain several concrete suggestions for the maintenance of peace.

It was suggested that the supposed conciliator, gesture was such as Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, had implored Hitler to make. What it was, however, was not immediately divulged.

Berlin, March 31.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler summoned his cabinet for a session late today—the day he promised to deliver his counter proposals to the program advanced by the Locarno powers.

At the same time, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal ambassador, was ordered to fly to London to take Hitler's proposals directly to Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. The contents of the Hitler memorandum were not immediately disclosed.

Government spokesmen intimated that Der Fuehrer's peace proposals had to be altered because of the critical speech delivered Sunday by French foreign minister, Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

Hitler was reported greatly angered by what he interpreted as Flandin's questioning of his personal integrity in the French foreign minister's address to his constituents Sunday.

Informed sources even thought it possible that Hitler might call off his proposed offering of peace suggestions altogether unless he was assured that the proposed "interim negotiations" by the generals of the other two powers would be indefinitely abandoned.

In revamping his proposals for a new security system to replace the old, some informed sources said Hitler was trying to maneuver Britain and France still farther apart.

U. S. RECOVERY FORGES AHEAD

Business Analysts Generally Anticipate Good Spring

(Copyright by Associated Press) New York, March 31.—(AP)—American economic recovery has forged ahead in the quarter of 1936 today, leaving business analysts generally to anticipate the best spring in six years.

Despite an exceptionally severe winter with storms blocking the arteries of trade, regardless of spring floods tying up railroads and wrecking industrial equipment in a number of eastern manufacturing cities, in face of fresh political and economic tension abroad and uncertainties in vital legal and legislative decision in Washington, commerce has continued to expand.

Hauptmann Loses Composure As Electric Chair Is Being Prepared

Money... Pen and paper... Wood—

THESE snared Bruno Richard Hauptmann. The sound of a hammer on nails, the whisper of the plane on wood; the rustle of bills, and the scratch of pen on paper started the murmur of doom that swelled into the tolling of the courthouse bell at Flemington, N. J., the night Hauptmann was found guilty of murdering the kidnaped Lindbergh baby. These doomed him: money... pen and paper... wood. Said the New Jersey court of errors and appeals, upholding the sentence of death: "From three, and in the main, unrelated sources the proofs point unerringly to the guilt, viz: (a) possession and use of the ransom money; (b) the handwriting of the ransom notes, and (c) the wood used in the construction of the ladder."

The German carpenter dies tonight shortly after eight o'clock.

DEFENSE ASKS STAY OF DEATH

Final Appeal For Hauptmann Made to Trenchard

Trenton, N. J., March 31.—(AP)—An appeal to Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to stay the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, set for tonight, was made today by counsel for the condemned man.

Defense counsel asked the stay to submit further investigation of the late breaking developments in the case, including the "confession" of Paul H. Wendel which was later repudiated that he kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

C. Lloyd Fisher and Judge Frederick A. Pope appeared for Hauptmann and Attorney General David T. Wilentz hurriedly summoned from his Perth Amboy home, represented the prosecution.

Arguing for the defense Attorney Fisher reviewed the arrest and "confession" of Wendel, his later repudiation of the "confession" and declared he did not believe the case should be dismissed so lightly.

He contended that the fact that Wendel on three separate occasions, made three signed "confessions" to the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, justified a stay of Hauptmann's execution. "We maintain," Fisher asserted, "that there has been no effort to verify the reasons for Wendel's repudiation."

Orphan Homes, Hospitals Get Duke Endowment

Charlotte, March 31.—(AP)—Trustees of the Duke Endowment, meeting here today, appropriated $962,499.22 to 103 hospitals and 47 orphanages in the Carolinas. Of the total, $522,475 went to hospitals in North Carolina, $343,769 to hospitals in South Carolina, $62,662.92 to orphan homes in North Carolina and $33,592.30 to orphan homes in South Carolina.

The appropriation brought to $10,586,387.08 the sum allotted to hospitals and orphan homes in the Carolinas by the Duke Endowment since its establishment in 1924. Allotments were made to hospitals on the basis of one dollar for each day's treatment of a free patient, and to orphanages on the basis of the number of day's care for each orphan for the year.

The North Carolina hospitals aided and the amount each received included: Edgecombe General Hospital at Tarboro $5,389; Goldsboro Hospital at Goldsboro $10,728; Memorial General Hospital at Kinston, $5,313; Mercy Hospital at Wilson $5,610.

MURDERER OF FAMOUS BABY DIES TONIGHT

Bronx Carpenter Continues to Maintain Innocence to Last, Telling Guards That "the State Will Never Solve Case by Sending Me to the Chair, for I am Innocent"; Writes Letter to His Impoverished Mother in Germany

Trenton, N. J., March 31.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard today denied a stay of execution for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, in what was conceded to be his last legal recourse before his electrocution tonight.

(Copyright by Associated Press) Trenton, March 31.—(AP)—The iron nerve of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, with death in the electric chair only a few hours away, snapped today but his sob-wracked story of innocence shrilled through the death house unbroken and unchanged. "I am innocent" cried the convicted Lindbergh baby killer even as final tests were being made a few feet away of the chair in which he is to die shortly after 8 o'clock for the shocking crime of the Sourland hills.

His last hope was gone. The Pardons court, which could have saved him, refused to do so. Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who dared political disaster in attempts to solve the Lindbergh case in the face of a Flemington jury's verdict that the case was already solved, said he would not again interfere. His prosecutors were unchanged in their convictions that Hauptmann, and Hauptmann alone, was guilty as proved.

In the face of it all and with the knowledge that a confession or partial confession was his only hope of escaping the chair, the 36-year-old prisoner cried out today to Colonel Mark O. Kimberling: "I am innocent; but I am not afraid to die."

He spent much of the time between 10:30 last night and 5:30 this morning pacing his cell, talking about his family with his guards, and writing a letter to his old and impoverished mother in Germany. "The state will never solve the case by sending me to the chair for I am not guilty," Hauptmann was quoted in a written report submitted to the warden by his guards.

He said he wished he could appeal to the public over the radio and say that if anyone knows anything about the case let him come forward and tell, the guards' report added.

Trenton, March 31.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, his composure shaken by the approach of the hour set for his execution today asked to see Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, principal keeper at state prison.

The condemned Lindbergh kidnap-murderer, sent for Kimberling after nervously pacing back and forth for hours in his cell next to the death chamber where he is to die tonight. Kimberling went to Hauptmann's cell when he received the request. How long he talked with the condemned man was not revealed. Indications at the prison were that Hauptmann's request to see Kimberling was not significant and did not hint that he wanted to confess or change his story.

Hauptmann, who had a mad dream he could kidnap a baby and capture a fortune, finally faces death tonight. Unless another of the swift, bewildering events that have punctuated his case should burst in the few hours that remain, the obscure Bronx carpenter, who became the most famous prisoner in the world, will pay with his life for the life of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., murdered in a $50,000 ransom kidnap four years ago.

The square, dirty, white execution chamber at the state prison awaits, ready. The chair has been tested, the witnesses summoned, the executioner engaged. The hour set for his execution is 8 o'clock, but a Philadelphia gas-killer will give Hauptmann a few more precious moments of life. The gangster, Charles Zied, also (Continued on page six)

AWAIT STAND OF M'DONALD

Indicated He Will Be in Favor of State Liquor Control

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL.

Raleigh, March 31.—The position which Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem is going to take with regard to the sale of liquor in North Carolina and liquor control in attracting more and more interest both among his followers and among his opponents, especially as the report is already going the round that he is going to favor a state-wide liquor control plan, with the revenue to go to the state to be used as a partial offset for the $10,000,000 a year revenue which will be lost if the sales tax is repealed.

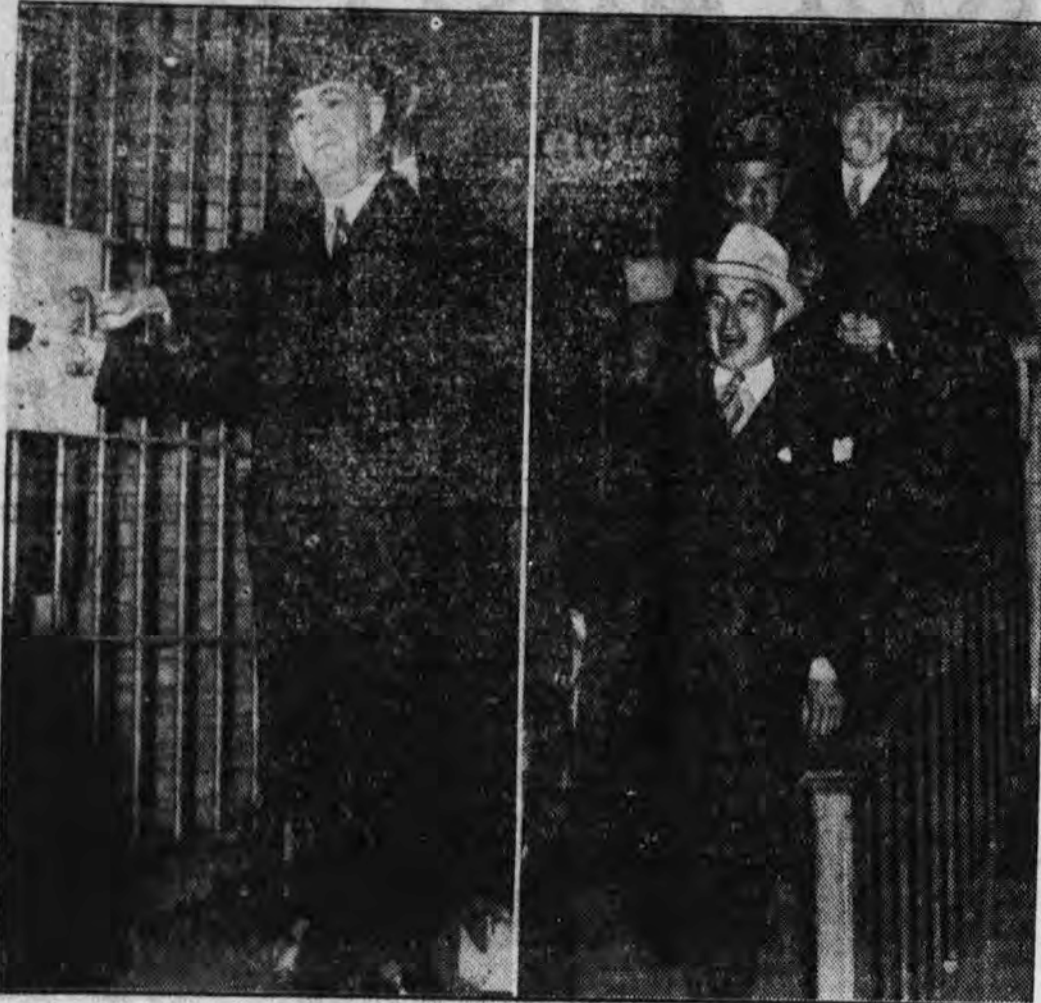

So far, Dr. McDonald has had virtually nothing to say with regard to the liquor problem, other than that he was willing to let the next legislature submit the question to a vote of the people. But with Clyde R. Hoey taking virtually the same position and regarded as being much drier than he is wet, and with Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham favoring a combination state and county liquor control system, under which the counties would get at least half the profits, but the stores would be under state control, it is believed that McDonald is going to have to take a more different stand very soon. It is being hoped he will outline his position with regard to liquor and liquor control in his state-wide radio speech on Thursday night of this week.

Since McDonald so far has been fighting Hoey harder than he has Graham, and seems to regard Hoey as his most dangerous opponent, neither McDonald's supporters nor opponents see how he can afford to hold to the same position Hoey has outlined with regard to liquor, which is that he is willing to let the next legislature submit it to a state-wide vote of the people. That is what the "drys" want, since they are still convinced that in a state-wide election, the people of the state would vote for the retention of the so-called state prohibition law rather than any form of state liquor control. Cale K. Burgess, leader of the United Drys, who is actively supporting Hoey, is still confident that the drys and the Republicans can outvote the "wet" Democrats in a state-wide election, according to recent reports.

Nor is it seen how McDonald could afford to join with Graham in his advocacy of a local option liquor control law under which any county may vote to establish liquor stores and get at least half the revenue from them, although the stores would be under state rather than county control. So in order to have another plan and avoid standing with either Hoey or Graham on the liquor question, McDonald must devise a third liquor plan that will differ materially from these other two. About the only other plan left is the state-wide liquor stores plan under which the counties would be permitted to vote separately on the establishment of liquor stores, but the stores would be operated by the state and all revenue go to the state. Since McDonald is advocating the repeal of the sales tax and is going to need new revenue desperately with which to replace the sales tax revenue, most observers here believe he will advocate the state operated stores, with the state getting all the revenue.

This plan is not expected to arouse much enthusiasm in the 17 "wet" counties in the state which are now operating 64 county liquor stores and from which the counties are now getting almost $1,000,000 a year in revenue. It is maintained. These 17 counties are now selling about $3,000,000 worth of liquor a year, on the basis of their reports for the first six months of operations, and they are not at all anxious to see this new revenue diverted from the county treasuries into the state treasury. Most of these counties have already served notice they will fight to a finish any effort to change the present county liquor stores system in the next legislature and many other counties are lining up with them. Incidentally, Dr. McDonald at the present time is regarded as having a larger following in many of these 17 counties than in any other section of the state. These 17 "wet" counties having 64 liquor

GIRL SLAIN — NEGRO SUSPECTS SAVED FROM MOB

After Vivian Woodward (left) was assaulted and fatally wounded on a lonely road near Huntsville, Ala., an angry mob of citizens seized four negroes but officers prevented a promised lynching by rescuing the suspects and taking them to prison in Birmingham. stores are: Edgecombe, Wilson, Moore, New Hanover, Pitt, Nash, Halifax, Vance, Lenoir, Beaufort, Martin, Pasquotank, Craven, Warren, Carteret, Onslow, Greene and Franklin.

It is recalled that McDonald's present campaign manager, Willie Lee Lumpkin of Franklin county, was one of the most vigorous advocates of liquor control and liquor stores in the 1935 legislature and did as much as any one in getting the 17 counties liquor laws through the house, although Dr. McDonald voted against all such legislation in the 1935 house.

One reason Dr. McDonald has not yet outlined his views on the liquor question is believed to be because he realizes it will cut both ways and that if he advocates such control, with the state getting the revenue, he knows he will lose many votes and the support of many county officers and politicians in most of the present 17 "wet" counties, as well as some "dry" votes.

Extension Expert Declares Farmers In Need Program

John W. Goodman Says New Self Improvement Plan What Farmers Have Been Needing

Clyde Station, Raleigh, March 31.—Farmers in eastern North Carolina say the new self-improvement program is what they have been needing for years.

Not only the farmers, but others who attended the meetings held last week in 23 eastern counties for explaining the new program were highly enthusiastic, reported John W. Goodman, assistant director of the State College agricultural extension service.

Speakers from the college who held the meetings reported to Goodman that approximately 15,000 farmers came to hear details of the new program.

As an indication of the favorable attitude found on every hand, Goodman said that in Cumberland County, Judge N. A. Sinclair advised superior court long enough for J. F. Criswell, of State College, to hold a farmers' mass meeting in the court room.

Goodman pointed out that the fundamental purposes of the new program are:

To conserve and improve soil fertility, to promote economic use of the land, to check exploitation and wasteful use of soil resources, to establish and maintain farm income at a "fair level," to protect the consumers by assuring adequate supplies of agricultural commodities in the future, and to control the run-off of rain water so as to prevent erosion, control floods, and keep rivers, reservoirs, and harbors from being filled with silt.

The series of meetings started last week will be continued until the new program has been presented to all farmers in the State who wish to learn about it, Goodman said.

The seven speakers from State College who are holding the meetings are: E. Y. Floyd, tobacco specialist; J. F. Criswell, farm management specialist; Dr. Julian Mann, in charge of extension studies; and E. W. Galtner, L. B. Altman, B. Troy Ferguson, and O. F. McCrary, district farm agents.

WM. A. GRAHAM FOE NOT LIKELY

Signs of Opposition for Agriculture Head Fading

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 31.—Signs that Commission of Agriculture William A. Graham will have opposition for renomination are fading rapidly and indications now are that he will be unopposed in the June primary, most observers here believe.

Some months ago there were indications that W. Kerr Scott of A'ance county, former master of the State Grange, might become a candidate against Graham, and recently there has been a revival of this talk. But it is now believed by those in a position to know that Scott will not become a candidate against Graham.

The principal reason for the belief that Graham is not going to have any opposition for renomination as Commissioner of Agriculture, is the generally admitted fact that Graham is better known among the farmers and the voters of the state than any of those who have been mentioned as possible opponents and the added fact that every person who has ever opposed him in previous primaries has been decisively defeated by Graham. He is admitted to be popular among the farmers in every section of the state, as was his father, whom he succeeded as Commissioner of Agriculture during the administration of former Governor Cameron Morrison. In addition to his personal popularity, Graham is generally conceded to be one of the most adept politicians in the state who knows how to get the help and support of the key men in most of the counties. He is frankly regarded by most political observers here as the ablest politician among all the state's elective officials.

The rumor was current here for a day or two last week that former Sheriff E. A. Rasberry, Sr., of Snow Hill, Green county, who was a member of the 1935 general assembly, might become a candidate against Graham for Commissioner of Agriculture, but so far there has been nothing to indicate that this was anything more than a rumor.

Story of Carolina Minstrel Show Scene—in the yard of the house of Mammy and Pappy Washington. Time—about 7:00 o'clock on a summer evening.

Pappy Washington is sleeping on the porch, as the curtain rises, and a concealed chorus is softly singing "Old Folks At Home." Mammy appears in the door of the cabin just in time to see "Epidemic" her small son, shooting his pappy in the "breadbox" with his sling-shot. After scolding Epidemic and sending him to find his little sister, Mamma, who has fallen in the river, she tells Pappy about all the work she has been doing in preparing for the return of their fifteen children, all of whom are now famous on the radio and in theatres.

The two children are sent into the cabin to wash and dress themselves. Marse Randall and the Missus, and Marse Gene and his "fiancy" arrive at the cabin. While they are being most graciously welcomed by Mammy and Pappy, sounds of an approaching bus are heard. The children return. Mammy's happiness turns to sorrow when she find that her children are on their way to Miami to give a show and that they will stay with her only a short time. When they see Mammy's disappointment and find that she has killed her "bestest" roosters and has the cabin full of "cin-mun" cakes, they decide to rehearse their show for her. They bring in their director, Gene goes to the house for his sister Ruth and her guests (six couples) and a minstrel show full of songs, dances and jokes is staged for Mammy and Pappy.

When the show ends Mammy sends them all in the cabin for food, after which they leave. Mammy is left in tears. She sends Epidemic and Mamma off to bed while she and Pappy clear the yard of chairs. Pappy sits down on a bench underneath the "lasy, ole moon," and as usual, falls asleep. Mammy covers him with a shawl and sits near him singing "Old Folks At Home" as the curtain is drawn.

The above sketch, which was written by Miss Lorraine Hunter, is the story of the Carolina Minstrel Show to be given at the college on Friday night of this week, April 3.

PLAN CONTEST AMONG SCOUTS

Troops in East Carolina Council Are Competing

Local Scoutmasters this week received from the East Carolina Council headquarters city all details of the new Council efficiency contest. A South African Cape Skin will be awarded to the troop which wins three periods (a period consists of three months), of which two must be in succession. This skin has been made valuable because James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, has thereon autographed his name. This was accomplished at the National Training Conference at Fren's Lick, Ind. at which all professional leaders were in attendance.

The Autograph Contest consists of seven major items with emphasis on Attendance, Advancement and Camping. The other items are Good Turn, Uniform, Program and Growth.

Beginning April 1st all 79 troops of the East Carolina Council will strive to meet the requirements and score the highest points to win the coveted award. This contest is different from the previous contest held in as much as it begins all over again each three months and gives the new, or a troop that has not made a great deal of progress, an opportunity to have the trophies far ahead begin again "from scratch."

The winner of each period will have his name burned into the skin and the troop that finally wins the skin will not only have the troop number, but the entire membership burned in before being presented.

This contest is equally fair for the small units as well as the large and for the units that are located in urban centers as well as rural territory.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, March 31.—The inside story of White House delay in appointing the seventh and last member of the federal reserve board is much more involved than surface explanations would indicate. Latest reports are that President Roosevelt shows a "disposition" to wait until he returns from his Florida vacation trip to make known his selection. It is significant that Senator Carter Glass of Virginia observed the delay "suits me."

Behind-the-scenes whispers say the President already has in mind the man he wants to appoint to the board, but that the selection doesn't meet with the approval of Glass. He is from the middle west and would represent the agricultural interests of the country on the board. Glass, known as the "father of the federal reserve system," and the youthful Governor species of the reserve board, entertain widely divergent views on monetary questions. That fact ties in directly with the appointment of the seventh member of the board.

The Virginia senator is said to be even—three conservatives and three liberals, the latter as represented by Eccles. Whoever is appointed as the seventh member of the board will break this deadlock one way or the other.

Insiders say the man President Roosevelt has in mind for the position was suggested by Eccles.

The diminutive and fiery Glass has a way of stirring up trouble when aroused and no one doubts but what he would if rubbed the wrong way in this instance.

The President desires to keep peace in the family as long as possible and will do all he can to prevent trouble.

The Glass-Eccles feud is of long standing.

During consideration of banking legislation in the last session of congress the veteran Virginia senator lashed out openly at Eccles and his monetary views. He accused Eccles of being an inflationist.

"The newest member of the Federal Reserve Board," he said, "never had a day's association with a Federal Reserve Bank in his life, but proceeded within 90 days after his nomination to propose revolutionary changes in the system."

Glass didn't openly oppose Eccles' confirmation as chairman of the board in the Senate, but everyone knew how he felt. He himself said the reason he didn't was because it would have been futile.

He'll be heard from, however, and in a big way if the forthcoming appointment to the board does not suit him.

PIGS LOSE THEIR SQUEAL ON IRELAND'S BORDER

Dublin—(AP)—Ireland can now boast—if it cares to—of its gruntless, squealless pig, guaranteed to remain noiseless under any and all conditions.

Smugglers of livestock over the Free State-Ulster border are responsible for these silent pigs—in order that customs officers may not be guided by appealing "oink-oinks" in the darkness.

An operation is performed on the pig, the vocal chords being removed, and the perfect pig for smuggling is produced in a few minutes.

The attendance prize given by Kitchen Cobb was won by Lebrun Spence even though Lebrun had to have it recalled him that he tried to tip Dick Reynolds of Winston Salem for giving him, Lebrun, an airplane ride.

WAR TOYS FOR CHINA REPLACE BAMBOO TOPS

Nanking—(AP)—Militaristic tendencies of the age are reflected in the playthings being collected at the capital for an exhibition which is to be the high light of China's first officially promulgated "Children's Year."

The Chinese boys who once flew kites and worked Chinese puzzles now fly miniature bombers and pursuit planes and deploy tin soldiers. Instead of spinning bamboo tops, the modern child of old Cathay winds the clockwork of war tanks and machine guns, and prefers toy hand grenades to paper or rubber balls.

Exhibiting conspicuously the national emblems of China, many of these war toys come from Germany. Others are made in Japan.

POACHING BY JAPANESE CHARGED IN PHILIPPINES

Manila (AP)—Alleged illegal fishing in Philippine waters by Japanese boats has caused army and customs officials to urge all citizens to report such incidents immediately so that the offending boats may be pursued.

The latest of a long list of incidents occurred recently off the Moro islands in the south. Provincial officials reported that Japanese were fishing off the isolated island of Cagayan de Sulu, and near Sionagan, Parang. The intruders were alleged to have gathered thousands of turtle eggs, killed many male turtles and carried away hundreds of the females.

Circulars, printed in the dialects of coast tribes, instruct the natives to report illegal fishing to the consabulary.

Golden Rain by Margaret Wildemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Louning is attending her first New York cocktail party, and she is enjoying it immensely. She has been snatched from her small town environment by her Aunt Phina, the famous couturier, and her brother Owen, who designs for Phina. Now she is talking with Allan Beckley, who is played by Iris' "differentness" and is drawing her out to tell her whole story. Iris likes energy, and well.

Chapter 22

CAMILLA AGAIN

"I don't wanted what the other girls had," Iris ended simply. "money for movies and nice clothes like the others, and to give back little parties for their little parties. And sometimes to give Uncle Will things that I never had. And run in to town to a show, and maybe own a Ford."

She laughed, quite his friend again, he had listened so eagerly, smiled so sympathetically. "Just a small-town girl in the city; but, oh, it's a heavenly city. Aunt Phina giving me everything in the world, and a perfectly strange bunch of people asking me to a party the second day out. And I'm buying Uncle Will a radio tomorrow, and a dozen darling, Georgia threw his cousin Jimmy last year when Jimmy's dad got into the tabloids as a malefactor of great wealth, and then finished himself and some of the wealth. "But she seems to have a taste for the family—and who wouldn't, I ask you? Social stuff to burn, money to burn, nice manners, well-known polo player and art collector. Girl collector, too. Georgia thought she had him hung over the side of the boat.

"Lots of girls thought they had Allan hung over the side of the boat, but he's a collector. 'Member, I warned you, Beautiful, he's a collector! An' here I've spilled Georgia's beans, introduc' n' another new girl. Will Mother give me hell?" Iris stopped his cheerful monologue by a quick, "Do you mean to say Georgia didn't want me at the party?"

"Now, now, baby-child! Don't mind poor old dopy Dicky, best heart in the world! 'Course she wants you, I want you, everybody wants you, that's your trouble. Do you know the Double Trouble? Step I invented."

She removed herself resolutely from him in a convenient corner. She stepped backward in the half-gloom, found she had almost put a satin-slipped foot on somebody's hand. She dropped down beside this somebody in order to apologize and of the kind of shirts he always wanted."

Her eager gray eyes, with their dilated black centers, her whole living intensity and charm, were close to him. But he answered quietly, smiling at her.

"I'm sorry the Ford and the movies are all you wanted; I am a collector of sorts; I was hoping you cared enough for Matisse to come see my place."

"Why, thank you, I'd love to," she said politely.

"But not mad about it? Like this sort of thing better?" His voice was piqued, and yet a little relieved.

"I do love it!" she answered joyously. "I hope lots of people ask me to lots more parties and I have ones like this myself."

He glanced around them. The accordion was playing jauntily with loud exaggerated rhythms. The dancers in their reds and blacks and tinsels swung and moved and sang the whining exciting silly words to the negro's tunes.

"I don't," he said wearily.

"Then why do you come to places like these?"

"Because," he said, "I come of a race that's run out; too tired, too demoralized. I happen still to have a sufficiently good brain to realize that. And so I play about with these yelling dancing children instead of my own generation because they have what I want. Life, vividness, vitality. That's why I come to Georgia's idiotic parties. Georgia is vital. The parties aren't."

"Why, everything's alive, everything's vital!" Iris said, surprised. She did not understand him.

"You are," he said. "More than anyone I have seen for years Iris—"

DICKY, lit to his usual state, caught her up and away in the dance before she heard the end of what Allan had been saying. "Where you been all my life?" he demanded inevitably.

"Just waiting for you," Iris said, as she would have said back home. "This is noble of me, taking you away." Dicky informed her. "I like it, you know. But's nobility. If Georgia sees you burning up Allan Beckley she'll bite your ear off."

Industrial union some months ago and they threw out the Green man they had elected as their head. So A. F. of L. President Green was more or less indifferent to the outcome of the dispute. His organization contented itself with a contribution of $2,000. Mr. Lewis forwarded $3,000 and five organizers.

The result was a strike which lasted longer than any in recent years. It proved costly to both employers and employees, and was finally settled by the intervention of Ed McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor. What worries other leaders is that this controversy weakens their movement at the very moment when they should be united to reap the benefits of recovery.

KNIVES: Ex-Tammany Chieftain John F. Curry paid a short, stealthy visit on Capitol Hill a few days ago. But he stayed long enough to wage a favorable committee report on the nomination of a District Attorney for New York who has been opposed by the bar associations. The incident disguises that Jim Farley is having Tammany trouble again. Leader Dooling, who displaced Mr. Curry is too friendly with Al Smith. There is a suspicion that the Farleyites would be glad to join with Curry and other malcontents to out Dooling before the convention. It gains credence from the fact that the unhorsed Curry is able to put over his District Attorney while Leader Dooling starves for jobs.

Tammanyites insist that Mr. Farley would be rebuffed in an attack on their chieftain. The Tiger is growling at FDR and the hitherto popular Governor Lehman. The President tosses them to tidbits and the Governor is fixing to toss certain prominent politicians into jail. "You can't get anywhere in politics by kicking old friends around," snaps a Tammany veteran. In other words, the Wigwag will scalp Mr. Roosevelt next fall unless it is bought off with political wampum.

TROUBLE: Father Coughlin has come afoul of the hierarchy of the long-heralded newspaper. And the central figure in the quarrel is that leading churchman and political trouble-maker—Al Smith.

The Detroit cleric's tabloid caricatured Al as a "mental midget," attacking him for his affiliation with the DuPonts. The cartoon provoked an "open, friendly letter" from Monsignor Albert E. Smita, who edits the Baltimore Catholic Review for Cardinal Curley. Msgr. Smita denounces the cartoon as "crude, undignified, cheap," comparing it to the Fellowship Forum's "foul" attacks on Mr. Smith's presidential candidacy because of his religion.

Latest reports say that Father Coughlin is flirting with the White House again—principally because he has no other place to go. He doesn't like any of the Republican candidates who have a chance for the nomination.

PATCHING: Alf Landon's friends' exception to Herbert Hoover's off-stage charges that the Kansas Governor barged into the California political situation without consulting the party's titular leader. It's this neglect of his prerogatives which has transformed Hoover from a prospective ally into a political enemy of the Kansas Coolidge.

The Landon campaigners insist that they tried to negotiate an agreement for partition of California delegates. They say they simply asked assurance that one-third of the delegation would be Landon men. The Hooverites were willing, according to the Kansasian version, but they insisted that they be permitted to select the Landon representatives. That would make them Landon delegates nominally but finally answerable to Mr. Hoover's dictation.

Mr. Landon also felt that he owed something to the Hearst-Merriam group which had entered him in the primary, whereas the Hoover spokesmen insisted on complete repudiation of his original backers. Now that the Governor has come out of hiding, it is understood attempts to patch up the differences have been resumed. Mr. Landon wants to make no enemies.

NEW YORK By JAMES McMULLIN HELPFUL: Governor Landon's well-meaning friends are getting him into a lot of hot water in the East. Word has sifted through from sources close to Landon that the Kansas would like to have Congressman Jim Wadsworth of New York as his running mate.

This is evidently a clumsy effort to woo New York support at the convention and to offset Borah's statement that he favored New York publisher Frank Gannett for vice president. If that was the idea, it's a flop. The sponsors of this brain wave didn't even bother to find out in advance whether it was acceptable to New York party chiefs. So the latter are resentful rather than grateful. Moreover, Wadsworth is far from unanimously popular with state G. O. P. leaders. Many of his former supporters still resent his walking out on them without warning when they wanted him to run for governor in 1934.

On top of this, the New Jersey Republican organization had just gone on record for Landon with the private understanding that their favorite son, ex-Senator Walter Edge would get reciprocal support for the vice presidency. The Jersey boys are mad as a wet cat and talk darkly of a double-cross. Landon's pals are about as helpful as kerosene in a fire extinguisher.

COALITION: Long-headed backstagers of all parties are already giving a lot of thought to 1940. Many Republicans—especially liberals—privately concede Roosevelt's reelection and are fishing around for worthwhile future connections. There are two main premises: Roosevelt will be personally out of the picture after a second term. The Democratic party as such can never return to pre-New Deal conservatism.

We have already stressed the importance of the radical third party nucleus being quietly organized by the LaFollettes and others. It would include the Wisconsin Progressive and Minnesota Farm-Labor parties, left wingers from both old parties, right wing socialists, probably Sinclair's EPICs and a formidable section of organized labor. Most of these elements will back Roosevelt this year. Such a coalition could raise plenty of cash by 1940 but as a third party would probably lack the strength to win a national election.

Now some of New York's shrewdest observers forecast a long step beyond this on the basis of strong political trends behind the scenes.

REVAMP: Men and events are shaping towards a second party—not a third party—which would include all the above groups plus New Deal Democrats and liberal Republicans. Such a party would logically take a position further to the left than Roosevelt has done out not as extreme as the LaFollette coalition would be on its own.

All conservatives—of whatever previous label—would thus be driven permanently into the other party which might or might not retain the Republican designation. A number of prominent politicians—both Democratic and Republican—have privately indicated strong interest in the idea. The LaFollettes favor it—even if it means compromising some of their principles—because it would give them a

(Continued from Page One) striking seamen are guilty of "mutiny" and subject to court-martial. Miss Perkins fought him bitterly and successfully, arguing that sailors have the right to strike without being subjected to yardarm treatment. But only two days after this dispute the Copeland bill backed by a powerful shipping lobby was favorably reported to the Senate and the Guffey proposal sidetracked. The inside explanation is that Mr. Green's worries over the Lewis on the slaught gave him no time to kill the measure entrusting seamen to Mr. Roper's stern supervision.

SPLIT: The Akron rubber strike marked the first serious factory dispute since Messrs. Lewis and Green squared off in their personal battle. Here again labor suffered because of internal dissensions. Mine-Workers Lewis proselytized the rubber workers in favor of an

SAYS MARKERS TO BE ERECTED

Installation of First Group to Be Made Within Week

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 31.—Installation of the first group of 22 of the historical markers being erected along the highways of North Carolina as a cooperative enterprise by several state agencies should be completed within about one week. R. Bruce Etheridge, director of the Department of Conservation and Development, announced today.

In order to speed the work along, Mr. Etheridge said that J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount, a member of the Board of Conservation and Development and favor of the program, is giving substantial assistance in working out details for the erection of some of the plates.

With one or two exceptions, all of the first group will be placed immediately. Some delay will be experienced in at least one instance in permitting details of ceremonies accompanying the erection to be worked out.

In the meantime, according to Mr. Etheridge, the committee of historians headed by Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the State Historical Commission, is completing new legends and is selecting additional spots to be marked.

Several new inscriptions have been forwarded to the manufacturer who is expected to have these completed within the next few weeks. One of these markers will be for the grave of Annie Carter Lee, daughter of General Robert E. Lee, at Warrenton. Other new markers are for the Battle of Kings Mountain, just over the South Carolina line from the North Carolina town of the same name; Ocracoke inlet, former important commercial inlet into North Carolina; and the Battle of Alamance, Alamance county.

With most of the details necessary in the launching of the program completed, Mr. Etheridge said that he expected the program to be speeded along considerably during the current spring and summer. The erection of the plates is proceeding under the supervision of the State Highway and Public Works Commission which is also furnishing the funds for the purpose under a special enabling act of the 1935 General Assembly.

Licenses Revoked Of More Motorists Making Total 2,182

Driving Permits of 88 Persons Revoked in One Week, Highway Safety Division Reports

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 30.—The driving permits of 88 drivers were revoked last week by the highway safety division of the State Department of Revenue, bringing the total number of revocations to date to 2,182, it was announced today by Roland Hocutt, assistant director of the division.

Most of the 88 licenses were revoked because of drunken driving or reckless and drunken driving, although one was revoked permanently because of incompetence. The division has authority to permanently revoke the driving permits of those found to be incompetent, such as epileptics, and other persons who are mentally incapable of driving an automobile.

In cases where the driving licenses of persons convicted of drunken driving are not sent in to the highway safety division with the notices of their conviction, a letter is sent to each driver asking him to surrender and send in his license. If this is not done in a reasonable length of time, a highway patrolman is sent to take up his license,

SPORT SLANTS

Even a casual glance over the list of some 70 golfers who have been invited to compete in the third annual Augusta national invitation tournament shows Bobby Jones has had up no "soft touch" for his third comeback effort. In the field will be Sam Parks, U. S. open champion; Johnny Revolta, P. G. A. titleholder; Lawson Little, winner of the British and American amateur crowns, and, in addition to just about every "master golfer" in this country, two Japanese representatives—Torchy Toda and Chick Chin—and Robert Sweeney of England.

Gene Sarazen's amazing No. 1 spoon shot for a double-eagle duce which enabled him to tie the Wood in the regulation 72-hole play was easily the outstanding shot of the 1935 golf campaigns.

Wood had turned in his card of 282 and looked like a certain winner. Only Gene, who was among the late finishers, had a chance of overtaking him. And his chances were none too bright. Going into the 69th Sarazen had to beat par by three strokes to match Wood's figures. His tee shot ate up 265 yards of the 485-yard 15th hole. He picked the ball off the fairway with his left-hand spoon and sent it on a straight line to the cup to close the gap of three strokes on his rival who had scored a birdie four on the same hole. Gene got his pars on the next three holes and finished in a tie—and with a decided psychological advantage over the stunned Wood.

One-Shot Campaign
The next day Sarazen defeated Wood in the play-off, 144 to 149, to collect first money. And that is about all Gene did accomplish in the big tournaments last year. He seemed to have spent all his luck in this one breath-taking spoon shot—the pace-setting shot of the year.

Craig Wood has been the hard-luck competitor of the two previous Masters tournaments. In the inaugural he shot 285, three under par yet he had to be content with second place when Horton Smith carded his 284. Last year Wood's 282 was good for only a tie, and the defeat in the play-off.

Bobby Jones seems to have regained a measure of his skill, in practice rounds, at least. He has toured the Augusta layout in sub-par figures on several occasions, once scoring a 67 to beat par by five strokes. The fine scoring is due largely to his new-found putting touch. Jones isn't claiming any first prize on the strength of his showings in practice, laying most of the scoring to "luck rather than skill." Modestly, he places himself none too high in his predictions on how the great field will finish.

Board of Directors of Local Club Hold Meeting

The board of directors and other members of the business organization of the Greenville baseball club enjoyed a barbecue supper at 6:30 o'clock yesterday, at which time more plans for the coming baseball season were discussed.

Manager Boley Farley informed those present that he was making contacts with baseball players of the best colleges of the south, and feels sure that the team to be had this year will be unsurpassed second to none. He added, however, that no players had been signed up thus far to represent this city in the Coastal Plain League, but the formality of composing the team was underway.

During the past years, Greenville has been able to produce the best in baseball clubs. This year the officials of the Greenville baseball club have made it their aim to give the baseball fans of Greenville an opportunity to see some of the finest games ever to be seen by a team representing us in previous league games.

W. W. Morgan, secretary and treasurer of the local club said today that it is the opinion of the directors and other officials of the Greenville baseball club that the fans of this and surrounding territories will give the club, this year, a support of 100 per cent.

The first game of the season will be played June 2, and you are urged to be there and see the boys on to victory.

State Engineers in Meet For Studies Wrecked Kid Bus

"Inquest" Held Over Wilson Bus to Study Safety Means to Protect School Children

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, March 31.—The safety engineers of the State School Commission, the State Highway and Public Works Commission and of the Division of Purchase and Contract, together with the body designing engineers of the companies which build school bus bodies for the state, are meeting in Wilson today and holding an "inquest" over the school bus body involved in the school bus wreck in Lee county last week in which the bus ran off a curve and turned completely over twice, although none of the 26 school children in the bus was killed or even seriously injured.

"We thought it would be a fine thing for all the body designing engineers of the body building concerns, as well as for our own engineers to see and examine this bus body, especially since we are soon going to let the contracts for 500 new buses and new bodies," Claude F. Gaddy, assistant secretary of the School Commission in charge of transportation, said today.

"We are already convinced that but for the safety features which we have required in all school bus bodies since 1931, several of the children in this bus would have been killed or seriously injured. So we are going to have the engineers study this wrecked body thoroughly and see if there are any more safety features we can add to make the bus bodies even stronger and safer than they now are. If it is found advisable to change some of the specifications and add still more safety features, we will make these changes before we call for the bids on the 500 new bodies we are going to get soon for use next year."

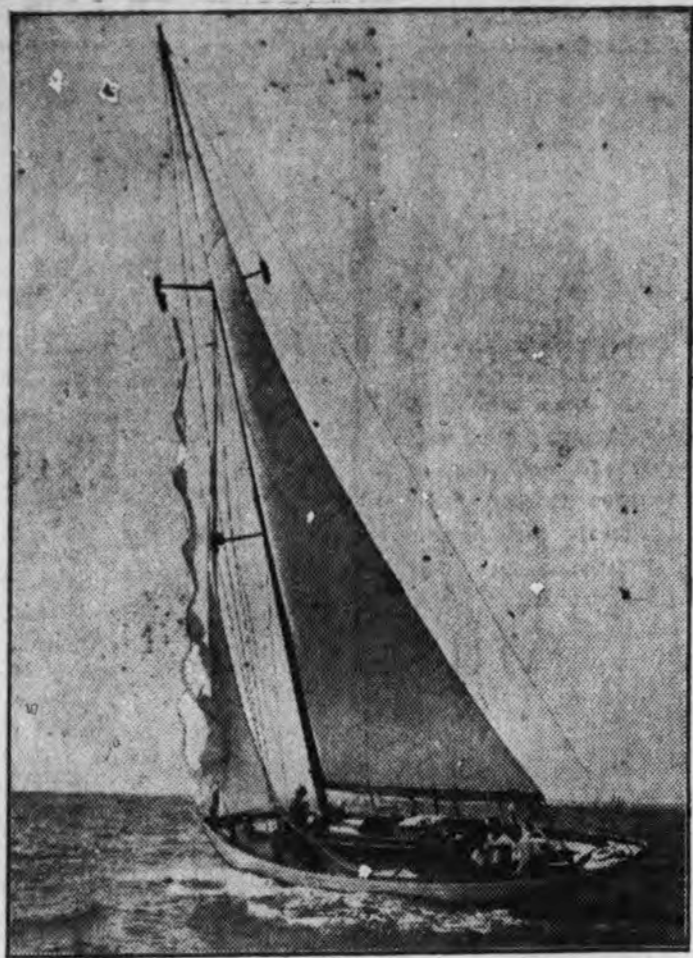

Not a single school child was killed in a school bus wreck last year in North Carolina and not a single child has ever been killed in a bus wreck in which the bus was equipped with one of the new standardized safety bodies, Gaddy pointed out.

New York Cotton

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, five to one lower by trade buying of near months and steadier Liverpool cables which were partially offset by foreign selling off distant positions. Prices held fairly steady within a narrow range, however, with active months ruling about net unchanged to four points higher at the end of the first hour. At midday the market was ruling within a point of two of yesterday's closing quotations except for July which was relatively steady and five points net higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 31.—(AP)—The stock market today put on a slow rally. A few buyers lifted some of the steels, motors, rails and specialties from a fraction to around three points.

Traders were fairly optimistic brokers said, but most liked the courage of their conviction so far as active participation was concerned.

The late tone was firm. Transactions approximately 1,100,000 shares.

HAUPTMANN LOSES COMPOSURE AS ELECTRIC CHAIR IS MADE READY

is to die tonight. The one legal avenue of hope, according to best information, lay in an appeal to Justice Thomas W. Trenchard for a new trial. His counsel considered this avenue so hopeless that it was doubtful even if it would be sought in the short hours left. Even the justice has been quoted as saying he could not act now in the case.

With Governor Harold G. Hoffman's terse, unqualified announcement "there will be no second reprieve," Hauptmann's strongest advocate before the pardons court was definitely interference against any further interference with the sentence of the court. There was the possibility that Hauptmann himself might supply the sensation of the last day by confessing or making a statement of the importance of which might be great enough to bring at least a delay of the execution.

Each puff less acid A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke. In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.
