F.D.R. BACKERS PLEASED WITH PRIMARY VOTE

Roosevelt Overwhelms Breckinridge in Penn.

Landon Victor Massachusetts

Senator Borah Piles Up Big "Write-in" with No Opposition in Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, April 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt maintained his wide lead over Colonel Henry Breckinridge as further returns were received from yesterday's presidential primary.

Figures from 3,774 of the 7,983 districts in this state gave Mr. Roosevelt 360,403 and Breckinridge 19,889.

In the Republican preferential, Senator William E. Borah, in 3,616 districts, received 219,995. Borah was unopposed.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Supporters of President Roosevelt for reelection and of Governor Landon of Kansas and Senator Borah of Idaho to oppose him in November drew satisfaction today from the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries.

Overwhelming Colonel Henry Breckinridge, his first primary opponent, the president accumulated a total in Pennsylvania that spoke for itself. Addition of the delegates from both states brought those listed for him to 442 or all of those so far selected of the 1,100 to be seated at Philadelphia.

Because neither primary was binding on the delegates chosen, Republican leaders were hesitant to draw final conclusions about the "write-in" demonstration for Landon in Massachusetts or of the total polled by Borah, unopposed in Pennsylvania.

Of the 105 instructed, Landon had 84 and Borah 21. Almost complete returns in Massachusetts gave the Governor of Kansas more votes for the Republican presidential preference than all other possibilities combined.

The majority of the preference votes in Massachusetts Democratic primary were cast for Mr. Roosevelt, but no effort was made to tabulate the total immediately.

Other political activities included a Democratic state convention in Kansas, where the state's 22 party delegates were instructed to vote for President Roosevelt at the national convention in Philadelphia.

District Attorney Says Harry Weiss Implicates Parker

Son of Burlington County Detective Named in Confession as Man Who "Fingered" Paul Wendel

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 29.—(AP)—District Attorney William F. Geoghan said today Ellis Parker, Jr., was named in a confession by Harry Weiss, as having directed the kidnaping of Paul Wendel.

Weiss, the prosecutor said, charged Parker "fingered" Wendel. The day he was abducted, helped in the torture by which Wendel's "confession" to the Lindbergh crime supposedly was obtained in a Sheepshead Bay hideout and supervised writing five Wendel "confessions."

"I saw Parker yank the rope that pulled Wendel up and down like a jack rabbit," Geoghan said Weiss told him of the torture.

Geoghan said Weiss told of Parker, disguised, pointing out Wendel to his abductors on a midtown Manhattan street.

Weiss, indicted for participation in the abduction, was arrested yesterday in Youngstown, Ohio and returned here. Parker, son of the renowned Burlington county, N. J. detective, and Murray Bleefer, are under indictment. Both are fugitives.

UNCOVER PLOT STAGE PUTSCH

Eighteen Hungarian Nazi Leaders Arrested in Budapest

Budapest, April 29.—(AP)—Police announced today that by simultaneous raids in several districts they had uncovered a Nazi plot to engineer some kind of putsch about May 1.

Eighteen Hungarian Nazi leaders, including the national chief of the movement, were arrested. Officials asserted they were informed the Nazi sympathizers planned to wear uniforms of the Hungarian army as Pseudo officers prepared to take charge of the troops in the capital.

At the same time, police said, they had received information that a large number of Nazi sympathizers living in rural districts had received secret orders to come to Budapest May 1.

Authorities expressed confidence that the alleged conspiracy was completely crushed.

Halifax, N. C., April 29.—(AP)—Evans (Snooks) Macklin, 25-year-old negro, charged with killing Chief of Police A. B. Moore of Scotland Neck, was asserted by a witness in his trial today to have admitted the slaying.

Thurston Aubon, negro, testified that Macklin told him a few days after the police chief was found shot to death in front of a Scotland Neck bank early the morning of February 16, that he did the shooting.

Macklin pleaded innocent when arraigned at the opening of court this morning.

Graham Injects Liquor Into Political Spotlight

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 29.—Liquor and how to control it in North Carolina is back in the political spotlight again as an issue in the present campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor as the result of the elaboration and clarification of his position with regard to liquor control as outlined by Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham in his speech in Spring Hope last night.

Graham is the only one of the three leading candidates who has consistently advocated some form of state-wide liquor control, although he has at no time advocated taking away the revenue of the stores from the counties which now have such stores. Some have gotten the impression that such was the case, believing that state control automatically meant for the state to get all the revenue from liquor sales.

But in his speech last night, Graham made it clear that while he advocates a single, uniform state law to govern the sales of liquor in those counties which vote for liquor stores, he would have all of the revenue remain in the counties in which the stores are located.

RAINS RETARD FASCIST DRIVE ON SASA BANEH

Northern Column Is Proceeding Toward Addis Ababa

SOCIALIST SEEN AS FRENCH HEAD

Egyptians Mourn The Passing of King As New Monarch Plans Return to Egypt

(By Associated Press)

The Italian army campaigning against the southern Ethiopian city of Sasa Baneh was temporarily halted in its operation by tropical rains today as the northern motorized column continued along the imperial highway to Addis Ababa.

Dispatches from the southern front said the ground around Sasa Baneh had been turned into a sea of mud by the steady downpour of the last two days and the armies attacking the Ethiopian position from three sides were ordered to remain in the point already occupied.

The ideal weather north of the Addis Ababa Djibouti railway allowed the motorized column under Marshal Pietro Badoglio to continue forward, meeting little opposition from the native defenders.

Reports circulated in Paris political circles that Leon Plum, socialist leader, would be asked to form a new cabinet when the chamber of deputies meets after next Sunday's run-off voting.

The Left majority expected in the new parliament in supporting Plum's premiership would install the first regular socialist to head the French government.

As Egyptians mourned the passing of their ruler, the late King Fuad, the new monarch, 16-year-old Farouk, planned to leave England for his native land.

Australian troop movements toward western provinces and to the region opposite German Bavaria were observed in Vienna. The government explained the operations as merely Alpine training for the soldiers.

Hannah Candidate For Solicitor Of Pitt County Court

Member of Pitt Bar Association Since 1932 Enters Field, Making Four Seeking Post

With the entrance of Mr. Hannah into the race, four candidates are now seeking the post. Those previously announced are Eli Brown, Charles Wheelbee and Harry Brown. Mr. Hannah is a member of the Pitt County Bar, having started his practice in this city. He has been engaged in practice since 1932, being associated with L. W. Gaylord.

He studied law at Duke University and Wake Forest College. Although he is not a native of this county, he visited his brother, L. H. Hannah, buyer for the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company before he came here to take up his practice.

The candidate is married to the former Miss Penelope Margaret Coupl, the pair having wed last December.

Kansas Young Republican clubs boast 55,000 members.

McDonald, However, Remains Far in Front of Race

Clyde Hoey got slightly the best of today's voting in The Reflector gubernatorial poll receiving seven votes to five for McDonald and two for Graham. The 14 votes cast today bring the totals of the poll so far to 215 votes cast as follows: McDonald 114; Hoey 61; Graham 35 and McRae 4.

Hoey's votes today came two from Bertie County, three from Pitt County and two from Hyde County. The classifications included three farmers, a woman school teacher, another woman voter whose occupation was not stated, a physician and one unclassified male vote. McDonald's votes came from a fisherman in Hyde County, a farmer in the same county, two Pitt county farmers and a Pitt county insurance salesman. Graham's two votes came from a mail-clerk in Beaufort county and a Pitt county voter who did not give her occupation. For the past two Thursdays The Reflector has mailed 500 votes into the five counties of Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Beaufort and Hyde and an additional 500 ballots to registered voters in these counties will go into the mails tomorrow afternoon to be followed by 500 more on Thursday of next week and the week following. The Reflector is taking this poll in the gubernatorial race in co-operation with 19 other publishing houses in this state operating 25 of the states newspapers. While The Reflector is busy polling the five counties the other newspapers are making a like poll in the counties in their communities and on Thursday, May 7 the first statewide tabulation of votes will be published in The Reflector.

SAYS COMPACT TOBACCO BILL LACKS 'TEETH'

Governor Clings To View 1936 Law Not Practical

FARM LEADERS CONTINUE WORK

Ehringhaus Suggests Commission Be Appointed to Work Out Plan for Next Year

Raleigh, April 29.—(AP)—Leaders of organized farm groups today continued their campaign to have tobacco control legislation enacted, but Governor Ehringhaus clung to his view that the 1936 crop could not be controlled through legislation.

The Governor, who reviewed the tobacco situation in a radio speech last night, said the Kerr tobacco control act passed by congress permitting the states to enter into compacts to curb acreage lacked "teeth."

"It is one thing for congress to give the states permission to enter into a compact," he said. "It is another and a more vital and necessary thing to give these states compelling protection against cross-the-line marketing. Without such protection compacts are useless and no control is possible."

The Governor suggested that commissions be appointed in the four states producing flue cured tobacco — Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia — to work out means of curbing next year's acreage. He suggested small and large growers and farm organizations be represented. Meantime the Governor would have all growers participate in the soil conservation program and reduce their tobacco acreage in accordance with this acreage retirement program.

William L. Sweet, Manufacturer, Declares $20,000,000 Used Maintain Employment

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was told today that American business spent $20,000,000,000 from its past savings to maintain employment during the depression.

William L. Sweet, Rhode Island manufacturer, said this huge sum was paid out "in providing work and wages beyond the amount warranted by the current volume of business."

This, he said, was a denial of charges by some that employers were "ruthless exploiters of labor."

Approve WPA Funds For Various Projects

Raleigh, April 29.—(AP)—Additional allocations for 58 projects under way over the state were announced today by the Works Progress Administration.

Other projects getting funds included: Wilson, for nurses, $407. Home-making: Lenoir county $440; Wayne, $353; Greene, $1,299.

LOCAL PEOPLE IN BAD WRECK

Injured While Enroute to Dance in Wilson Last Night

Officers today were seeking the identity of a driver of a Hudson coach which struck a Pontiac sedan in which a party of Greenville people was en route to a dance in Wilson last night, injuring four of the five passengers.

Miss Elizabeth Quinerly suffered a fractured ankle and cuts about the face, Miss Margaret Rackley lost several teeth and received bruises. Sam Quinerly was cut about the face, W. J. Sullivan received minor hurts and Ralph Shell was uninjured.

According to Patrolman C. R. Williams, who investigated the wreck, the Hudson was coming toward Greenville and swerved across the road directly in front of the Greenville party. Mr. Sullivan, who was driving, said he was unable to avoid colliding with the Hudson as a ditch was on the side of the road and he was unable to drive off the highway.

The right side of the Hudson was struck by the front of the local car. Patrolman Williams said he understood three men were in the car which collided with the Greenville party's car.

Immediately after the wreck, occupants of the Hudson fled on foot and had not been apprehended to day. An investigation was being carried on, however, and Officer Williams indicated an arrest would be made in the near future.

The patrolman said Sullivan told him that he was driving about 45 miles an hour. He declared that a truck driver, who was passed by the hit-and-run driver a few hundred yards from the wreck, said the Hudson was "flying" when it passed him.

Free haircuts and shaves for charity hospital patients were demanded by a member of the San Diego county board of supervisors.

HOUSE PASSES REVENUE BILL BY BIG MARGIN

Democrats Vote Favorably on $803,000,000 Measure

BILL NOW GOES TO SENATE SIDE

Secretary Morgenthau to Testify Tomorrow Before Finance Committee

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The administration's $803,000,000 tax bill was passed by the heavy Democratic house today over opposition votes of the Republican minority.

Speaker Byrnes announced the vote as 267 to 93.

The bulky measure designed to raise funds to meet bonus and farm relief costs and embracing a complete revision of the corporate tax system now goes to the senate where the finance committee already had begun its consideration.

Tomorrow Secretary Morgenthau will testify before the committee at its first public hearing.

The major feature of the bill was a tax for corporate income graduated on the basis of earnings withheld from distribution to stockholders.

Linked with application of the normal four per cent income tax on dividends it is expected to bring in $623,000,000 to help meet President Roosevelt's request for farm and bonus funds.

The vote on passage along party lines was a near formality which sealed the tentative approval given the bill yesterday.

In addition to the revenue to be produced from the new corporate tax plan, $200,000,000 is expected from an 80 per cent "windfall" levy on processors who did not pay AAA processing taxes and $83,000,000 from temporary continuation of excess profits and capital stock taxes.

Home Owners Cor. Reports 154 Loans Thus Far in County

Reckoned on State Average, Federal Agency Already Paid $31,416 to Governmental Units

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation announced today that since 1933 it has made in the nation 1,004,206 loans to distressed home owners, amounting to $3,041,528,596. In clearing up back taxes owed to states, counties, and local governments within the United States the corporation has paid in cash $225,000,000 for delinquent taxes.

In North Carolina the corporation has paid 12,181 loans amounting to $31,005,977, and has paid to the various counties in the state and to the cities and towns within the state, $2,485,000 in cash for back taxes and assessments.

The public records of Pitt county show that the corporation has made 154 loans in Pitt county, and taking the average within the state of $2,545 per loan, the total loans within the county amount to $391,930, and taking as an average the amount paid in taxes per loan of $204 in North Carolina, the corporation has paid to the county of Pitt, and to the cities and towns within the county, the sum of $31,416 in cash for back taxes and assessments.

Attorney General Says Tobacco Law Will Be Appealed

Ruling of Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, on Scrap Measure to Be Carried to Supreme Court.

Raleigh, April 29.—(AP)—Attorney General A. F. Seawell said today a decision declaring North Carolina's scrap tobacco law unconstitutional would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, ruled the law invalid in finding J. F. Morrison of Lumberton innocent of charges of selling scrap tobacco without paying a $1,000 tax as a dealer.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER STUCK: House members on both sides of the political aisle were winded after the first few hours' debate on the new tax bill. Floor and cloakroom discussion of the most revolutionary revenue measure in twenty-five years bordered on the fantastic.

The debaters were willing enough that they ran out of words and figures. Treasury mimeographs couldn't turn out speeches fast enough for the Democrats and Henry Fletcher's inexperienced "brain trust" didn't measure up to its first major challenge. Except for three Morgenthau lawyers and three Ways and Means members, nobody around the town understands the bill. It's couched in language as bewildering as Sanskrit. And the House was almost vacant all through the explanatory period. They'll vote in the dark.

The Senate's most expert tax authorities threw up their arms. Secretary Morgenthau reluctantly appeared before the Finance Committee, but he couldn't make the statistics into sense. The committee staged its early hearings behind closed doors "so that we may acquaint ourselves with the bill." That's parliamentary language which, as one Senator confided, means that "we can't make head or tail of the damn thing." And when statesmen plead dumbness, that's news.

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, April 29.—Some of the elective state officials, in addition to those who are appointed, are getting jittery not only at the progress which Dr. Ralph W. McDonald seems to be making in his race for the Democratic nomination for Governor, but for fear he may carry his promise to "open the windows and clean out the present appointive state officials" may be extended to the elective officials as well.

They are worried for fear Dr. McDonald will try to persuade his supporters to "go down the line" against all the present state elective officials and make the house-cleaning complete. It is during the last weeks of the campaign McDonald appears to have enough support to risk his own nomination by taking sides for and against other candidates.

It is already known that Dr. McDonald, or at least his managers, are making an effort in many counties not only to get a majority for McDonald, but also to nominate candidates for the general assembly who are favorable to McDonald, and his program. For both McDonald and his managers know that he will be powerless to put his program into effect, should he be nominated and elected Governor, unless he can also be assured of a majority in both houses of the general assembly.

So there is no doubt but that the McDonald forces are trying to nominate members of the general assembly who are in sympathy with his program, so that he will have a brand new "McDonald Machine" already for him if and when he becomes Governor.

The less nervous elective state officials, however, do not believe that Dr. McDonald will become sufficiently strong, in the first place, to make it safe for him to try to dictate to his supporters (Continued on page six)

SUGGEST HOEY URGE SESSION

Backers of Candidate Ask Him to Break With Governor

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, April 23.—Friends of Clyde R. Hoey are urging him to follow the lead of two of the three other candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor in demanding a special session of the general assembly both because they think a special session is needed and because it would indicate that he is not subservient to the present administration and not tied to the apron strings of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus according to reports heard here today.

Many of his supporters and well-wishers frankly feel that one of the stumbling blocks in Mr. Hoey's path at the present time is the support of Governor Ehringhaus and of a majority of the other state officials, especially since Governor Ehringhaus has so consistently and persistently refused to call a special session of the general assembly either for tobacco control legislation, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, liquor control and other matters.

For while both Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham and Dr. Ralph W. McDonald have long since jumped the gun on Hoey by calling for a special session many weeks ago, a good many Hoey supporters are confident that if he would now join in this demand, even at this late date, he could regain some of the support he is conceded to have lost among those who believe a special session of the general assembly is much needed—and right now.

They believe it would also have a wholesome effect among those who are principally opposed to Mr. Hoey because they believe he is too closely linked with the present state administration, too prudent in his defense of the sales tax and co-conspirator of the feelings of Governor Ehringhaus and his determined, if not stubborn, opposition to a special session. A good many of these are also convinced that one of the best ways to tie a can onto McDonald and spike his campaign guns from now until June 6 would be to turn him loose in a special session of the general assembly right now and give him an opportunity to do now what he says he will do in 1937 if he is elected Governor.

One of those reported as unusually displeased at the Governor's attitude and has refused to call a special session and now urging Mr. Hoey to join in the demand for such a session, is Congressman Robert L. Doughton. For it was Congressman Doughton who virtually wrote and put the Social Security bill through Congress. Yet his home state of North Carolina is one of those which is lagging back the farthest and refusing to do anything to put any of the provisions of the social security act into effect. It is no secret that his is causing Congressman Doughton much embarrassment in Washington and that privately what he has to say about Governor Ehringhaus is somewhat peppery.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Henry A. Wallace

(By The Associated Press) Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, can expect to live in a suitcase when the heavy campaign artillery opens fire in the early fall. His function is obvious: to explain the farm program. His importance scarcely can be overestimated. A liberal Republican when he entered the cabinet, he goes to the mat for the "new deal" in the west where liberalism most frequently ignores party lines. And the campaign, say the wizards, will be won or lost in the west where Wallace will be trying to gather the farmers about him.

The Wallace name has been synonymous with agriculture for years. The father of the present secretary was secretary of agriculture under a Republican administration.

He is young, personable, and he makes a convincing speech peppered with picturesque phrases. In the past four years he has withstood flurries of criticism, traded shot for shot, and comes up smiling.

now up to him to call a special session.

It is understood further that while ten or eleven house members are said to be personally supporting Mr. Hoey, that many of them feel the position and attitude of Governor Ehringhaus with regard to a special session is hurting rather than helping Mr. Hoey's chances of winning the gubernatorial nomination. Congressman Harold L. Cooley was here over the week-end and is reported to have remarked that the reaction in his district from the Governor's tobacco mass meeting speech last week was anything but favorable.

If Mr. Hoey will consent to break away more from the Ehringhaus influence and can get over the public that he is not the "crown prince" of the present administration but running on his own chassis and motor, he can regain much of the support he has undoubtedly lost because of this belief. It is maintained by many of his friends and supporters. But if he persists in either defending or in failing to say anything with regard to the Ehringhaus administration unless of a commendatory nature, the McDonald and Graham charges to the effect that he is the fair-haired "crown-prince" of the present regime, if not its Siamese twin, is going to grow, many maintain. For at the present time more and more people here are convinced that every time the Governor opens his mouth, what he says is a boost for McDonald and a blow for Hoey.

PARK SERVICE AIDING COAST

National Service Expected To Sponsor Sand Fixation

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 23.—The National Park Service is expected to sponsor the huge coastal sand fixation program in North Carolina, along with the Department of Conservation and Development, looking towards the development of an extensive national recreational center along the coast, on the basis of a tentative agreement which has already been reached, Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the conservation department announced today.

Arrangements under which the National Park Service will share in the sponsoring of this development were made during a recent conference between representatives of the park service, the Conservation Department, the Works Progress Administration and the Transient Conservation Corps, Etheridge said.

The National Park Service will supply extensive technical advice and assist in the direction of the sand fixation work on which more than 1,000 transients now housed along "the banks" and sand dunes are now employed, as the result of this arrangement. Thus the program for checking the drifting sands along the coast will have the benefit of long-range planning and will fit in with the broad plans which have already been made for the reforestation of a considerable portion of "the banks," as the long, narrow strips of sand between the ocean and the sounds are called.

The establishment of a great National Park, extending for at least 75 miles down "the banks" as far south as Cape Hatteras, has been a major objective of the Conservation Department and groups of interested individuals for many years. Etheridge pointed out, such a National Park would bring great improvements by the National Park Service, such as paved highways, recreations camps, hotels and free bathing beaches, which would attract hundreds of thousands of visitors each year, its sponsors believe.

Pride and Prejudice.

Mrs. C. A. Bowen's reading of Helen Jerome's dramatization of "Pride and Prejudice", on Monday evening, was the last of this year's series for the A. A. U. W. Drama Group.

This play, based on a beloved novel, keeps the charm of the original, and Mrs. Bowen's interpretation seemed to her listeners exactly right.

In "Pride and Prejudice", there is no "bow-wow" strain. Mrs. Bennett, her husband, three daughters, and friends lived simple lives; but there were enough problems, entangling alliances, petty intrigues, well-meant blunders, and emotional reactions to make monotony impossible. Poor Mrs. Bennett had much to manage, for it is hard for girls to make suitable marriages, if they have no wealth and no important family connections, especially if they are cursed with intelligence. Probably the most attractive character is Elizabeth, who is not an elegant female, but a rational creature with the inelegant habit of speaking the truth. In spite of Mrs. Bennett's stupidity obvious plans to entrap the men and Elizabeth's unflinching frankness and sparkling cynicism, the play closes with Mrs. Bennett happy over the assurance of three son-in-laws.

The other plays that have been presented before the group this year are A. A. Milne's "The Dover Road," read by Dr. C. M. Simpson; George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," read by Miss Emma L. Hooper, and Katherine Dayton and Geo. Kaufman's "First Lady," read by Mr. V. M. Mulholland.

The meeting was opened by salute to our flag and preamble given in concert. Mrs. Wiley Brown led in prayer. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The Auxiliary will observe annual Poppy Day on Saturday, May 23rd. The poppy chairman, Mrs. Alex Viola, outlined plans for Poppy Day—and many poppies were given out to members. The Auxiliary voted to give prizes to the boy or girl selling most poppies—first prize, $1.50; second, $1.00, and third, 75c.

The Auxiliary adjourned to meet again May 25th.—Reported.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Although public hearings on the Wagner bill providing for a federal outlay of a billion dollars for slum clearance and low-rent housing are in progress, its supporters entertain little hope it will be passed at this session of congress.

Administration leaders say privately that it all depends on the attitude of the White House when the bill is given preferred status. If Mr. Roosevelt insists that action of some kind be had before adjournment an attempt will be made to go along with his wishes.

Few believe, however, that he will.

The emphasis opponents of the "new deal" are laying on spending makes it risky politically in a campaign year such as this to push for enactment of a measure carrying such a large appropriation, however meritorious it may be.

Would Avoid Criticism.

Advisers of the administration would let the Wagner housing bill ride until after the November elections. Then if the "new deal" is endorsed for another four years the measure can be pushed through early in the next congress.

The housing division of PWA they argue has sufficient money already at its disposal to keep the subject of slum clearance and low-rent housing before the public. It is now engaged on a $130,000,000 program comprising 49 projects in 35 cities.

These projects, "new deal" politicians argue, are sufficient for show window purposes until the campaign and elections are out of the way. The entire development can be pushed to completion without risking the danger of criticism from opponents of the administration that the "new deal" is off again on an orgy of spending.

Not Looking For Trouble.

One of the principal reasons "new deal" political strategists counsel delay on the Wagner bill is that the pending tax bill is providing enough trouble without looking for more.

For congress to levy taxes in one breath and in the next appropriate more than the amount which would be raised in the tax bill is something which would be very difficult to explain in the coming campaign.

Incidentally, PWA's housing division has made its program of slum clearance and low-rent projects particularly appropriate for show window purposes.

The fancy names given the various projects are works of art. In Memphis, Tenn., for example, the old "Greasy Plank" slum district has been rechristened "Dixie Homes." The 35-acre project in Chicago will be called "Diversey."

Washington — The President's prerogative of making recess appointments to public office while congress is not in session could become a question of major importance this year.

The 15-year term of J. R. McCarl, comptroller general of the United States and the government's No. 1 "no" man, expires by law on June 30. Under the law McCarl cannot be reappointed.

The comptroller general is appointed by the President and must be confirmed by the senate.

Although the date originally set by administration leaders for the adjournment of congress has been tentatively advanced from a month to six weeks, even the most pessimistic don't expect the session to extend further than mid-June.

That leaves it solely to the President to pick McCarl's successor. Unless a special session of congress is convened between the time of adjournment and January 3, 1937, the man he selects will serve until then, regardless of what the senate may think of the choice.

This is important because with the exception of the supreme court the voice of the comptroller general is probably the most potent in the government.

While the President appoints him, he may not fire him. He may be removed in two ways only. He may be impeached, the house preferring charges and the senate acting as a court. Or he may be removed by joint resolution of house and senate.

Hence, the comptroller general is virtually independent, free to go his way and able to devote his whole time to carrying out a clause in the Constitution that reads: "No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law."

Speculation as to whom President Roosevelt will select as McCarl's successor has centered on a number of individuals. There are two, however, generally regarded by insiders as being closest in line for consideration. Both are in the "new deal" family.

The first is Daniel W. Bell, acting

BARKEEP MIXES DRINKS 29 YEARS; WON'T TASTE 'EM

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—For 29 years Vic Lavsa has been mixing drinks all the way from Sloppy Joe's in Havana to South Bend, but he has yet to taste one of his own concoctions.

If it wasn't for a glass of beer every two or three years, Vic says he would qualify for a total abstinence. It has been two years since his last glass, but he figures he may quaff another if the coming summer gets too warm.

Vic was born in Vienna about 50 years ago. He speaks English, German, Bohemian, Hungarian and Polish and says he can swear in Spanish. He picked up the latter at Sloppy Joe's in Havana, where, he says, it was

Senate liberals who sponsored the inquiry grumble that nothing damaging has been uncovered. Bipartisan conservatives will ballot against more money on general principles.

The Communications Commission charge that they have been obstructed by A. T. and T. in every move to dig up evidence designed to disclose excessive charges and valuation figures.

SCARED: The big, bad brewers are begging for a czar to make them behave. They'll pay from $50,000 to $100,000 a year for the right man.

The beer boys have been staging a private feud ever since "suds" stimulated a hankering for "suds" besides clean linen. They wrote the repeal legislation to suit their private practices.

ERRATA: Congressional Republicans who work at their political trade are groaning over the series of blunders which the high command has committed in the last few days.

They deplore and view with alarm: (1) Choice of Rep. Bert Snell of New York as permanent chairman because he has been identified with G. O. P. reactionaries for twenty years.

But the real point—more important than the argument that between them they appeal to most elements in the party—is that both are Congressional veterans, well-versed in the technique of conventions and not the type to get their signals mixed.

By James McMullin. STERRED: Exceptionally well-posted New Yorkers say the designation of Senator Steiwer of Oregon as keynote and of Congressman Bernard Snell of New York as permanent chairman of the Republican convention fits prettily into a pattern being worked out in important backstage quarters.

A New York Republican who is a key man behind the scenes puts it this way: "No matter who is in the lead when the convention starts, don't bet your shirt on appearances,

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Dirk Joris has witnessed the final scene between his older brother Rupert and Elinor Fleming—Elinor has broken her engagement to Rupert, because Rupert will not stop drinking. After taking Elinor home, Dirk has gone to a tent show in Jersey to wait for Elinor's cousin Isabel and her party. He has seen a charming bookish rider knocked down by a bully, and has in turn knocked down the bully. Now he is in the tent of Miss Chowdhury, fortune teller.

As a matter of fact he did—little gold ones, smelling of Amour-Amour, and almost a perfect fit. An agreeable host, Joe seemed to Natalie decidedly virile and desirable, in spite of the fact that he had been spending his summer in the woods painting pictures.

Chapter Six. FIGURE IN SHADOW. Freddy and Isabel came in. Freddy carried an umbrella, and Isabel, all in yellow chiffon, looked like an indignant daffodil.

Chapter Seven. LADY IN PERIL. But the figure was real. It flitted swiftly up the drive, keeping to the shadows of the still dripping beeches.

Chapter Eight. FREDDY and Isabel came in. Freddy carried an umbrella, and Isabel, all in yellow chiffon, looked like an indignant daffodil.

Chapter Nine. "Waited long?" asked Freddy, a blond young man who was not himself when he was damp.

Chapter Ten. "The news?" repeated Dirk. "Gage Seymour," she assisted him. "Oh, yes," Dirk said. "She told us."

Chapter Eleven. "With customary tact," acknowledged Dirk. The rain had begun again, was pounding on Madame Chowdhury's roof, zozing through the seams.

Chapter Twelve. "For two cents I won't pick up Joe. Why can't he get his own car?" "I won't give you two cents," said Isabel. "What's a little rain?"

Chapter Thirteen. "What you do for you, Miss?" she answered. "Close the door!" she answered, so imperatively that he obeyed, staring at her still, glancing up the stairs to make sure that Mister Rupert didn't hear and come down.

Chapter Fourteen. "I wish to speak with Mr. Joris," she answered. "Sorry, Miss," said Timothy. "Mr. Joris is in bed."

Chapter Fifteen. "No matter," said the girl. "I've got to see him. It's—it's on business, tell him." And as Timothy still hesitated, she thrust her hand inside her cape and drew out a flower, a faded white rose.

Chapter Sixteen. "Timothy looked at the token. For his master's own sake he would not have the lady see him now. Something had happened this evening at dinner, something between his master and Miss Fleming. Perhaps this lady was to blame, this dark-eyed young woman in the damp green cloak, who gave a faded rose as her passport, and desired to see him 'on business.'"

Chapter Seventeen. "What's the trouble?" asked Rupert. Except for a thickness of voice he seemed little different from the Rupert of the early evening. His coat was off, and his shock of black, unruly hair a bit more rumped, but that was all.

Chapter Eighteen. "What is it?" he asked. "I wanted to see Mr. Joris," she replied. "Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities."

Joe showed them his work.

SYNOPSIS: Elinor Fleming has broken her engagement with Rupert Joris, Dirk's older brother. And Dirk has gone to meet Isabel, Elinor's cousin, and a party at a little circus in Jersey, and has come to the defense of a persecuted maiden while waiting for the party, and has waited still longer with Isabel while a fortune teller gives Isabel's friend Natalie a "reading." Now, on the way to Natalie's house, Dirk sees a phantasmic woman's figure run quickly up the drive of the Joris estate.

Chapter Seven. LADY IN PERIL. But the figure was real. It flitted swiftly up the drive, keeping to the shadows of the still dripping beeches.

Chapter Ten. "The news?" repeated Dirk. "Gage Seymour," she assisted him. "Oh, yes," Dirk said. "She told us."

Chapter Eleven. "With customary tact," acknowledged Dirk. The rain had begun again, was pounding on Madame Chowdhury's roof, zozing through the seams.

Chapter Twelve. "For two cents I won't pick up Joe. Why can't he get his own car?" "I won't give you two cents," said Isabel. "What's a little rain?"

Chapter Thirteen. "What you do for you, Miss?" she answered. "Close the door!" she answered, so imperatively that he obeyed, staring at her still, glancing up the stairs to make sure that Mister Rupert didn't hear and come down.

Chapter Fourteen. "I wish to speak with Mr. Joris," she answered. "Sorry, Miss," said Timothy. "Mr. Joris is in bed."

Chapter Fifteen. "No matter," said the girl. "I've got to see him. It's—it's on business, tell him." And as Timothy still hesitated, she thrust her hand inside her cape and drew out a flower, a faded white rose.

Chapter Sixteen. "Timothy looked at the token. For his master's own sake he would not have the lady see him now. Something had happened this evening at dinner, something between his master and Miss Fleming. Perhaps this lady was to blame, this dark-eyed young woman in the damp green cloak, who gave a faded rose as her passport, and desired to see him 'on business.'"

Chapter Seventeen. "What's the trouble?" asked Rupert. Except for a thickness of voice he seemed little different from the Rupert of the early evening. His coat was off, and his shock of black, unruly hair a bit more rumped, but that was all.

Chapter Eighteen. "What is it?" he asked. "I wanted to see Mr. Joris," she replied. "Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities."

Chapter Nineteen. "What is it?" he asked. "I wanted to see Mr. Joris," she replied. "Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities."

Chapter Twenty. "What is it?" he asked. "I wanted to see Mr. Joris," she replied. "Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities."

Chapter Twenty-One. "What is it?" he asked. "I wanted to see Mr. Joris," she replied. "Rupert finds, tomorrow, that the mysterious figure is a person of great possibilities."

GREENIES WIN EASY CONTEST

Local High School In 15-4 Victory Over Washington

The Greenies, Pitt county's hopes in the class "A" conference group were victorious over their long-time rivals, the Pam Pack of the Washington high school at the Third street stadium here yesterday afternoon, and sent the visitors home with a defeat of 15-4 resting upon their shoulders.

Richard Downing, an uprising pitcher in the field of baseball tossed a five-hit game before a very large audience and proved to the visitors that his pitching ability was somewhat more than they could handle in order to obtain a win over the locals who yesterday placed another win on their five win heap.

George Lautares and Dillon Forbes, 14-year-old youngster had the game to themselves in the second inning. All of the bases were loaded with Washington boys and a player at bat sent a sizzling wallop in George Lautares' neighborhood. Lautares accepted the rocket and sent it spinning to Dillon Forbes who was holding down third base. This completed a double staged by the two and halted the charge, which Washington had so skillfully attempted in order to gain new territory on the local high school lads.

In addition to exhibiting outstanding ability in the infield, Lautares showed the fans that he was also capable of swatting the old pill. When the curtains were drawn on the game, he had four hits out of four times at bat to his credit.

Joe Hatem did exceptionally well at bat yesterday by obtaining two doubles and a single.

Chauncy and Kugler did the mound work for the visitors. Chauncy started on the mound for Washington but was relieved in the sixth inning by Kugler, who allowed the locals only five scattered hits.

Harold Forbes did the catching for the locals in yesterday's tilt in the absence of L. G. Hamilton. Three of the local's regular mainstays were unable to face the firing line yesterday, but will be ready to see service sometime in the near future.

The highs left this afternoon for Williamston, whom they hope will enable them to obtain another victory and change their record to seven straight wins.

FOREST FIRES LOSS IS GAINING

Damage in March Is Greater Than Any Previous Month

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, April 27.—In spite of heavy rains more forest fires are recorded in North Carolina counties organized for the control of the "Red Demon" during March than for any month within the last year, according to a report issued yesterday by W. C. McCormick, assistant State Forester.

Flames occurring in the woodlands of the State during the month numbered 768 compared with 783 for March of last year, and more than double the number occurring in any intervening month.

The forest fires last month, however, were not as destructive as those of March 1935, when the damage was estimated at $68,772. Last month the destruction was estimated at less than half this amount or $28,674. This record is ascribed to more effective control measures and less favorable conditions for burning.

According to the report, the most dangerous threat to the woodlands of the state was careless smokers who were held responsible for 246 or about a third of the total. Brush burning accounted for the third largest number of fires—189; incendiaries were charged with setting 194; campers and fishermen started 30; and the others were assigned to various sources.

Mr. McCormick pointed out that all of the fires reported during the month were in the preventable class, none being assigned to lightning, the only known natural cause in the state.

The largest acres ever to receive this service in North Carolina this year has the benefit of a forest fire protection organization. Fifty-six counties are operating under cooperative agreements with the Department of Conservation and Development for the protection of forests against fires. Last year only 44 counties were under such agreement.

youth who has been doing a noble job of filling in the centerfield spot left vacant by the sale of Al Simmons to the Detroit Tigers. Kreevich played third base for Kansas City. He played six games for the Sox last September and made an excellent showing by clouting the ball at a 435 clip. The impression is that Mike will remain in centerfield only until Zeke Bonura rounds into shape so that he can relieve Mule Haas of the job at first base. Then Haas will return to the outfield, in center, most likely.

The current campaign is likely to see the passing of three National league stars who were born in the "gay nineties" from the ranks of active players — Frankie Frisch, Charlie Grimm and Bill Terry.

The cooling comfort of the dugout is likely to look mighty good to Frankie Frisch when the old summer heat starts beating down on the baked infield soil. His leg showed signs of weakening last year. And why should that? They have taken more than their share of punishment since Frisch bounded from the Fordham campus in 1919 to win a place at second base in the Giant infield. He is going on 38, and remarkable athlete that he is, he cannot go on much longer.

Terry Has 'Double'

Bill Terry was fortunate in having a capable substitute on hand for the opening game. Terry hated to miss the curtain raiser, but his bad knees would not permit him to start the game. To many it was the beginning of the end—it is safe to venture the guess that Terry would gladly retire to manage the team from the bench if he was sure that Leslie could carry on in championship style. Bill makes no bones about the fact that he has been casting about for a capable young first baseman.

It must have been that Charlie Grimm let the spring air get the better of him when he announced that he would return to first base for the Cubs this year. Perhaps it was a sly little trick to spur his youthful first sacker, Phil Cavarretta, on a bit. Grimm has been in the big show since 1916, and he knows as well as anyone, and perhaps better, that he cannot stand the strain of everyday work.

SPORT SLANTS

Manager Jimmy Dykes sort of tipped off his hand when he announced that the White Sox had signed Steve Mesner, now playing with Los Angeles, for delivery in the spring of 1937. Mesner, a chunky third-sacker built along the lines of durable Jimmy, is 20 years old and quite a sensation in the field and at the plate. It is very likely that Dykes is planning to use Mesner at third and at the plate. It is very likely that Dykes is planning to use Mesner at third and retire to the shadow of the dugout.

One can hardly blame Dykes for looking ahead to retirement. He has been around a long, long time. In November he will celebrate his fortieth birthday. Last winter he made several efforts to pick up a dependable third baseman but had no success. There was nothing left for him to do but start the present campaign—his eighteenth in the American league—at his old stand, the hot corner.

Jimmy comes mighty close to being, if he is not actually, the dean of American league players. Off hand, no veteran comes to mind who can challenge his right to the honor. He broke in with the Athletics in 1917 although it was not until two years later that he won a regular's berth. That's a long time back.

No Wonder Everyone Is Saying:
"My next refrigerator will be KELVINATOR"

We, too, say the 1936 Kelvinator is a fine refrigerator. We like the way the company has answered the questions wise buyers ask—about temperatures, operating cost, and service.

It has answered with Visible Cold—a Built-In Thermometer shows you that your food is being kept surely, safely, dependably cold.

It has answered with Visible Economy—for not only does the new Kelvinator use one-half to one-third the current—but a Certificate of Low Cost of Operation shows you, in advance, that current consumption will be amazingly low.

It has answered with Visible Protection—for a 5-year Protection Plan gives you signed assurance of long years of service.

And the 1936 Kelvinator is a beautiful refrigerator... designed with the aid of Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky. Furthermore, it has dozens of conveniences to lighten the work of preparing meals.

So come in and see the 1936 Kelvinator. It will pay for itself and the terms are so easy that it just seems foolish not to own one.
