WORLD UNREST EVIDENCED IN MANY NATIONS

Jap Forces Landed at Chinese Garrisons

RUMOR CHANGES BRITISH CABINET

Guatemala Informs League of Nations That She is Withdrawing

(By The Associated Press) Troops marched again in the Far East, the League of Nations lost another member and rumors of British cabinet changes flew in London today.

Japan's determined army landed 7,600 troops in China, reinforcing its Tientsin and Peiping garrisons. The Chinese, fearful that Italy's Ethiopian victory had spurred new Japanese dreams of conquest, predicted a new campaign for the ultimate seizure of China.

Guatemala, which had participated little in affairs at Geneva of late, informed the league it was following the examples of Germany and Japan.

The British cabinet, with one of its members now being named at a judicial inquiry into a budget "leakage," was reported in some quarters to be due for "important" changes.

One of these rumored shifts would bring Sir Samuel Hoare, he of the controversial Franco-British plan for Ethiopian peace—back into the cabinet as first lord of the admiralty.

Future policy toward Italy and Germany were discussed by Captain Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, and Leon Blum, the socialist who probably will be the premier of France next month, and in Austria Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, ousted from the government by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, promised "the world will hear from the Heimwehr," his private army "in about a week."

Two Are Indicted Extortion Charge Alfred Smith, Jr.

Private Detective and Lawyer Charged With Extorting Sum From Son of Former Governor

New York, May 15.—(AP)—Max D. Krone, a private detective, and A. Henry Ross, Brooklyn lawyer, were indicted today by the county grand jury on charges of extorting $1,500 in cash and $10,000 in promissory notes from Alfred E. Smith, Jr.

The indictments were handed up to Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions Court this afternoon.

Two indictments were returned by the grand jury after it had heard the testimony of Smith, son of the former governor of New York, and Miss Catherine M. Pavleck of Queens.

Krone was arrested and taken to the district attorney's office, while police began a search for Ross. One indictment charged Krone and Ross jointly with the extortion of $1,500 on or about May 29, 1934, on threats to expose and impute to Alfred E. Smith, Jr., a disgrace.

The second indictment naming Krone the private detective alone charged him with the extortion of $10,000 in promissory notes on Feb. 21, 1935, on threats to expose and impute to Smith a disgrace.

Reductions Expected By Tidewater Power

Raleigh, May 15.—(AP)—Reduction in both the residential and commercial electric rates of the Tidewater Power Company will be announced within a week. Stanley Winborne, utilities commissioner indicated today.

It was learned authoritatively the new rate would embody reductions in every schedule maintained by the company except industrial, or power tariffs, and the net saving to consumers would amount to between $40,000 and $50,000 annually, or about as much as the company's 1935 net profit.

Conferences with officials of the company were held here Wednesday and Thursday.

J. Claude Gaskins is shown above wearing the smile he has been exhibiting this week due to the fact no opposition filed against him for the office of Register of Deeds, a position he is assured of for at least four more years. Significance of the fact is increased two-fold since the term of office will be for four years, while in the past it has been for only two years. (Photo by Manning Studio).

DR. McDONALD ADDS TO LEAD

Holds Majority of 76 Votes Over Other Candidates

Dr. Ralph McDonald added four more votes to his clear majority today in The Reflector's five-county poll of the gubernatorial race. Ballots received today totaled 22 with McDonald receiving 18, Hoye 8 and Graham 6. In the days voting McDonald continued to be the favorite among Pitt County voters receiving 9 ballots with Hoye and Graham receiving 5 each. Hyde County gave one each to Graham and Hoye and three to McDonald. Bertie voted three for McDonald to one for Hoye and none for Graham and McRae. Martin again gave its entire support to McDonald, three votes with none for the other candidates. From Beaufort county there came but one vote and that was cast for Hoye.

Yesterday's publication of the second statewide poll showed that during the past week both Hoye and Graham had made slight gains while McDonald and McRae had registered corresponding losses. McDonald continued to lead the statewide vote, however, with the tabulation showing him leading in 58 counties and tied with Hoye for honors in two other counties. The tabulation showed Hoye to be leading in 34 counties, Graham in five counties and McRae in only one.

The Reflector is co-operating with 24 other North Carolina newspapers in conducting this statewide poll and yesterday another 500 votes were mailed by The Reflector into Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Beaufort and Hyde Counties. This is the last mailing of the poll and all ballots now outstanding must be voted before May 28 if they are to be counted. Persons who have received ballots are urged to mark them by their choice and place them in the mails now. From time to time The Reflector will carry tabulations of the vote in its five counties and on each Thursday from now until the primary a statewide tabulation will be published.

Here is how the candidates stand in The Reflector's five counties today:

	McDonald	Hoye	Graham	McRae
Pitt	137	45	28	3
Beaufort	40	17	42	1
Bertie	27	18	1	0
Hyde	20	22	4	0

PRIMARY RACE BRANCHES OUT IN NEW FIELDS

Speakers Bureau Announced by Hoye Headquarters

GROUP VETERANS BACK GRAHAM

Lumpkin Organizing Speakers Bureau To Take to Country in Behalf of McDonald

Raleigh, May 15.—(AP)—North Carolina's most heated democratic gubernatorial primary contest in years today branched out in new directions.

Headquarters of Clyde R. Hoye announced formation of a speakers bureau and said its members would make speeches for Hoye in every part of the state.

Already scores of world war veterans were claimed as active workers and speakers by the "veterans organization for Sandy Graham" and a meeting of the group was scheduled here tonight with Henry Stevens of Warsaw, former national commander of the American Legion, listed as the speaker. W. L. Lumpkin, state manager for Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, said he was organizing a speakers bureau.

The Hoye headquarters listed Angus D. McLean and J. M. Broughton of Raleigh and L. R. Varner of Lumberton. In the Graham veterans group were included Tom Daniel of New Bern and Henry Bourne of Tarboro, former state commanders of the American Legion.

McDonald's forces will include, Lumpkin said, Troy Barnes of Wilson.

Most democrats turned attention on county conventions to be held tomorrow to organize the county party groups and name delegates to the state convention to be held here June 12.

Hoye spoke at commencement exercises at Zebulon this morning, was at Scotland Neck this afternoon and Tarboro tonight.

Graham was to be at Charlotte tonight, McDonald at Rutherford this afternoon and John A. McRae at Asheboro tonight.

A. J. Maxwell, revenue commissioner, was to make a radio speech "against the candidacy of R. W. McDonald" tonight.

Two Oklahoma Escapees Captured Near Antlers

Antlers, Okla., May 15.—(AP)—Two of the desperate convicts who made a bloody dash from the Oklahoma state penitentiary were recaptured near here early today shortly after three hostages were released alive.

Six of the fugitives, who killed a prison breakyard foreman at the start of their spectacular dash across southeastern Oklahoma, remained at large with man-hunters of three states hot on their trail in this rugged corner of the Kiamichi mountains.

Four of them, divided in pairs, were reported surrounded in the Antlers vicinity with a posse of 50 officers closing in, and another pair was believed trapped in a mountain stretch near the Arkansas state line.

An airplane, equipped with a two-way radio, was pressed into the hunt by the Oklahoma state crime bureau to direct the officers in closing in on the latter pair.

Only a few minutes before officers came upon the farm house lair of the fugitives, four of the long-term convicts released Tuck Cobb and Victor Conn, prison guards, and Wilburn Doaks, a cowboy who had been kidnapped while out rounding up the cows.

Cops had been stabled in the neck and had lost much blood. The other hostages, joined in the chase which resulted in the capture of Bill Anderson, 30, and Archie Herbering, 25, both serving terms for robberies.

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER SURPLUS: A refurbished and renovated set of New Deal programs will be dangled before 45,000,000 voters' eyes as the Roosevelt campaign provided he is re-elected next November. The 1936 platform, which FDR has already discussed with his advisers, will place the administration on record for health insurance, cheap housing, shorter work hours and higher wages. It will attempt to strike directly at the ordinary man's yearning for comfort during his working years and security in his old age. It will, in short, rebuild such smashed or weakened pillars of the first New Deal as NRA, PWA and AAA. The desire to capitalize these issues accounts for the current indifference toward a large scale housing construction program and revival of industrial controls through general measures kicking around on Capitol Hill. FDR wants to preserve these issues for future use—a distributed political surplus, so to speak. GRIP: Great Britain's insistence on routing all wireless-telephone messages to and from Europe thru London has stirred backstage discussion at Washington and other world capitals. The arrangement results from an agreement between the British Post Office and the companies involved. With the aid of stubborn Cede Hull, the French broke London's wireless stranglehold, and are now setting up a system which will operate directly from Paris to the U. S. Other nations have been slow to protest and in some instances ignorant of the situation. Only recently the Ambassador of a European power not on good terms with France was thunderstruck when he learned of it. This country's interests are also involved, especially in the event of (Continued on page four)

PWA PROJECTS BE CONTINUED UNDER RELIEF

Public Works and Resettlement Agencies Provided For

TO OPERATE ON SMALLER SCALE

Loan of 55 Per Cent Of Cost of Projects Would Come From Revolving Fund

Washington, May 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that the Public Works and Resettlement Administration would be continued on a somewhat smaller scale under the pending $1,424,000,000 works relief appropriation.

Responding to questions at his press conference the President said certain municipal projects which have been carried on by Secretary Ickes' PWA in the past would qualify under the new relief bill. Harry L. Hopkins' WPA would furnish 45 per cent of the funds to pay the labor, he said, while the 55 per cent loan would come out of the PWA revolving fund.

The President said Ickes' agency still had quite a large revolving fund available for loans through Reconstruction Corporation sale of municipal securities, the proceeds of which are turned over to PWA.

Free Vaccination For Typhoid Fever To Be Given Here

Clinic Centers Throughout County To Be Announced at a Later Date By Health Officer

It was announced today by Doctor N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt County Health Officer, that free typhoid vaccinations would begin at certain clinic centers throughout the county on Monday, May 25.

Doctor Ennett urged citizens who have not been vaccinated within the past two years to be re-vaccinated. Children as young as three years should be vaccinated against typhoid, he said.

The records for Pitt county last year show that 35 per cent of the typhoid cases were under ten years of age, the youngest case being three years old.

The Health Officer called attention, however, to the fact that for absolute protection to typhoid fever, one must not rely on vaccination alone, but must also have sanitary toilets or privies.

The exact schedule for the clinics will be announced later.

SENATE VOTES ELECTRIC BILL

Norris Rural Electrification Bill White House Bound

Washington, May 15.—(AP)—Congress today completed action on the Norris $410,000,000 rural electrification bill and sent it to President Roosevelt.

Senate acceptance of a conference agreement on the bill was the final capitol hill step.

The measure would authorize a 10-year program of loans to farm groups and private companies to aid in providing rural areas with electricity.

It stipulated that preference is to be given by the Rural Electrification Administration to the non-profit organizations as against private concerns.

The proposal authorized the Reconstruction Corporation to make a loan of $50,000,000 for the first year. There would be annual $40,000,000 appropriations thereafter.

Leon Blum Speaks To American Club Located in Paris

Premier-Elect of French Government Says France Will Not Be Drawn Into War of Propaganda

Paris, May 15.—(AP)—Leon Blum, the man who will be premier of France, served implied notice on Europe today that his coming Leftist government will not be drawn into a "war of propaganda or reprisal" with nations like Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Addressing the American Club in Paris, he avowed France's desire to "live in peace with all," but said his country, of course, would be inclined to more friendly relations having a like "idea of social justice."

As for the American war debt, Blum asserted France believed the question "wiped out" and deplored what he called a tragic international misunderstanding over the issue.

FINAL STAGES OF CAMPAIGNS DRAWING NEAR Republican Convention Less Than Four Weeks Away

BOLT IS HINTED BY SEN. BORAH

Other G. O. P. Presidential Aspirants Flay New Deal and Set Forth Claims

Washington, May 15.—(AP)—From the far northwest to the Atlantic Seaboard campaign arguments and speechmaking ebbed today as the pre-convention drive entered its final stage.

With the republican convention of June 9 less than four weeks away, pronouncements came from several prominent members of that party.

Senator Borah of Idaho, hinting of a possible bolt, served notice that "no party alignment" would stop his pursuit of the monopoly issue. This sharply revived speculation on the future moves of the Idahoan.

"I can't say it will be the democratic ranks," he said in response to questions, "but entering the democratic ranks wouldn't stop me. Nothing will stop me."

Colonel Frank Knox, winding up his Pacific northwest campaign for the republican presidential nomination reiterated his criticism of new deal monetary policies and expressed the belief that if the republicans are restored to power there would be a "positive program."

Former President Hoover, speaking at Philadelphia last night, declared that he had been "reminded the new deal for what it really is during the past year, 'only so much the republic is in a great peril'."

Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas criticized the administration's social security program as he announced at Topeka that the state legislature would hold a special session to consider a constitutional amendment to permit Kansas to participate.

Puerto Rico Head Hold Flag of U. S. Must Be Respected

Governor of Island Orders All Island Authorities to Prohibit All Desecrations of Flag

San Juan, Puerto Rico, May 15.—(AP)—Governor Blanton Wicks today ordered all island authorities to prosecute promptly all desecration of the United States flag in Puerto Rico.

The order was issued as a result of recent demonstrations in which U. S. flags have been torn down and national banners hoisted in their place.

His instructions were sent by telegram to all mayors, judges, prosecuting attorneys and police chiefs.

Drawn attention to the provision in the Puerto Rican law prohibiting the desecration of the Stars and Stripes, the governor's message stated that immediate arrest and prosecution shall follow any and all violations.

Welfare Agent Says Women Were 'Fakes'

Greenville citizens who bought paper flowers from four women who crossed the city several weeks ago, saying they were selling them to raise money for the International Society to build a church in Westchester, Ky., gave their money to impostors, K. T. Fugate, county welfare officer, said his investigation showed today.

Mr. Fugate said he questioned the women and later wrote to the Kentucky Department of Public Welfare asking if the story told by the women was authentic. He said he had received a letter from the department saying that no such organization existed there.

Fayetteville Fails to Show Up for Scheduled Game

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD

Did you ever make great plans for some good picnic and then on the day it was to be held, wake up and find that it was raining; or did you ever take the nickel that pop gave you for an ice cream cone, only to find that you had lost it when you arrived at the drug store?

This was the same reaction it had on those who went out aspiring to see the baseball teams of the Greenville and Fayetteville high schools wind up this season at the Third street stadium yesterday.

In a long-distance telephone conversation earlier in the week J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville city schools was informed by authorities of the Fayetteville high school that they would engage the locals here yesterday afternoon. Reynolds May had promised the boys an opportunity to exhibit all the playing ability they possessed.

To make this a gala event, Mr. Rose had permitted all school students to attend the game free of charge. This was very satisfactory to those who could and could not make their pockets jingle.

But when they all assembled for the game, forming the largest crowd of the season in attendance, they failed to see the Fayetteville baseball team, and also a ball game. It was learned that the Fayetteville team stayed at home and combated a team there. It was said today that this was the second time this season that this has happened between the local and Fayetteville high schools.

It was further said that the game with Williamston probably marked the last of the season for the Greenvies who have managed to obtain fifteen consecutive victories.

But of all his horses he selects Bold Venture and Clock Tower as the best.

"Clock tower never had a chance to show how good he really was," declares Schwartz. "Bold Venture may prove his equal."

YOU MUST REGISTER

The registration books will be open at the various polling places in the county early tomorrow. Be sure you are registered if you want to vote in the June 6 primary.

Especially do we urge the voters in Greenville and the other townships to visit the polling places and see to it that their names are placed on the books.

These two townships have been split into several voting precincts since the 1932 primaries and it is necessary that all those who have not registered since that time to do so now. If you go to the polls June 6 to vote and find that you cannot vote because you have not registered, you will have but your own fault to blame for it. Don't let your negligence in this matter take away from you your right to vote in the coming primaries.

SEND IN YOUR BALLOTS

Of course you have a choice for governor in the coming primary, and to all those who have received Republican straw vote ballots we make a plea to vote their ballots now. The last quota of 500 ballots was mailed yesterday and must be returned to this office before May 23 if they are to be counted in the final tabulation of the state-wide poll.

If you have received a ballot from us now, or if you know someone who has received a ballot and has not yet voted it, urge them to send it in at once.

WILL THEY STAY OUT?

Apparently Greenville today is rid of its slot machines, but the question is: "Will They Stay Out?" The answer to this question lies in the organized effort of the people of this community. A mass meeting has been called for the court house next Tuesday night, and if our citizens will attend this meeting and pledge to stick together in their fight on the slot machines and keep everlastingly at it, they will be able to keep our city and county free of the machines. And while the citizens are at it they might also include in their efforts a fight for law enforcement of all kinds in this county.

Law enforcement in any community will be just as good and just as effective as the community wants it, and if the citizens generally are indifferent to conditions about them they will have the most law enforcement.

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

Chapter 21 FAMILY PARTY THE Sanford Jorises gave their party during the week before Elinor's wedding. Elinor's wedding was to be a quiet affair, with no attendants except Isabel and Dirk, and Ernest Webb, who was Seymour's best man.

Elinor was not yet sufficiently emerged from mourning to attend dances, so both she and Seymour were absent from the Joris party, which was a small, though gay, affair, made up chiefly of the younger set.

The first floor of the Joris penthouse in the east States was given over to it, and Hope met that night still other Jorises, as well as Sanford, Rykers, Hamiltons and van Zaandts, all relatives of Rupert and Dirk, most of them young.

Hope was a different being from the demure person who had attended Elinor's dinner in the gay gown. Dirk, who had heard Adelaide Joris ask Hope to bring her guitar, saw that it was put into the car that night. Most of the evening Rupert was invisible, though he appeared at its beginning to dance once with Hope, and later at Adelaide's reminder to hear her when she sang.

Hope sang in Adelaide's modernistic drawing-room, with its glass ceiling and silver-stenciled walls, its Picasso and Modiglianis, its queer black mantel where a spray of white coral lifted from a green jade bowl. Sanford Joris was a solid and conventional citizen, but Adelaide's enthusiasms were progressive and inflammable.

She had just finished decorating her house. Now she was interested in Hope as something odd and vivid and new, dropped suddenly into that grave and settled pattern that was "the family."

"She didn't let herself out at Elinor's," thought Adelaide. "She was like smoldering coals." Sanford had remarked, "You've only Rupert's word for it that she can sing. Suppose she's crude. Remember Rupert's in love."

"If Rupert says she can sing, she can sing," answered Adelaide. "Besides, Rupert's not in love with her. He married her to spite Elinor. I wish I knew where they met."

"I told you where they met," said Sanford. "She went to him professionally. I've a suspicion that Rupert and Elinor quarreled about her, and Elinor turned to Seymour."

"Well, I haven't," said Adelaide. On the night of the party she set a bowl of tiger lilies on the silver-and-black piano, and gave Hope a little three-cornered chair beside it. And Hope, who had danced till she was breathless, sang to new relatives and friends her Spanish songs, including the passionate one about the turkey, her cowboy plaints and jingles, laughing, flinging back her head, tapping her little slippered foot with its red heel.

DIRK watched her rather darkly. The burden she had borne that night in the library, the disquiet that had possessed her then, was gone, he felt, or she could not have sung in this way. Her songs seemed to him like peacocks, like bright shouts of victory.

His scouts who watched the gates of Lowrie had discovered little in their inquiries regarding Jones and Lucky Dan; no more, in fact, than Dirk himself had gleaned from the arena director. The investigations, however, had not been dropped.

"Hope, keeping her word, had driven out more of late. Martin had reported the day after the rodeo that she had resumed her shopping. There seemed little more to buy, but Rupert made no objection.

Dirk had not received Martin's report tonight, though Martin had been ready to make it. "Later," he had said, for Hope herself had told him about the silver comb she had found, and the red-heeled slippers.

Much of the evening Dirk had spent with Isabel - Isabel in ice-cream satin that fitted her like a mermaid's scales, and swirled into a little mermaid tail that swished when she danced. She wore great, brutal-looking bracelets of emeralds and silver.

It was, in a way, a relief to be with her, to look upon her cool loveliness and reflect that it concealed little to speculate about. He knew her perhaps as well as a man can know a woman who has been no more than a friend. He felt near to her tonight, as to his own kind.

He smiled as he danced with Isabel. Hope flashed by them in her black dress.

"I do like her," Isabel said generously. "And I almost forgave her when she sang 'Lonesome Kiyote.'" "Forgave her for what?" ventured Dirk, smiling still.

"As if you didn't know!... What's a kiyote?" "It's a big bad wolf. The kind that eats suspicious little girls. You don't have to forgive anybody anything."

"Don't I, Dirk?" The slate colored eyes looked doubtfully up at his. He surrendered her with regret to Freddy Nevin. On the ride home anybody might sit close to Hope, as the tulle bouffants were already crushed, Dirk suggested that Rupert avail himself of the invitation, and Rupert rather abstractedly complied.

Rupert's mood seemed to permeate the car. The ride was made almost in silence. They passed the darkened car, parked in the shadows opposite the gates of Lowrie. Still on guard, absurdly, perhaps, thought Dirk. He was determined to keep it there through November.

When Rupert and Hope had gone upstairs Dirk delayed for Martin's report.

SOMETHING happened today, Mister Dirk. You know I take Mrs. Joris to the shops, and park near where I can see her when she comes out. Lately she's been going to Cher Simonette. Sometimes she has stayed a good while, and the cop there has had his eye on me. Today, almost as soon as I let Mrs. Joris out he made me move.

"Cher Simonette is in Forty-ninth Street, just off Fifth Avenue. So I made a show of moving along, rode toward Sixth, meaning to work back by way of Forty-eighth Street, and park again till he sent me off. Because you told me to watch, you know."

"Well, on Forty-eighth Street I discovered something. I found out that Cher Simonette has another entrance there, a sort of back door - for I saw Mrs. Joris come out of it. She came out just as I got there, and she began to walk toward Sixth Avenue. She didn't see me. She walked like she was in a hurry."

"Well," as Martin stopped for breath. "Well, sir, I couldn't follow her. I mean in the car. She was headed west, you see. So I got out, left the car parked, risked getting a ticket... and followed on foot, a little ways behind her. She looked back once or twice. I think she's as afraid as you are... afraid for her safety. But she didn't see me. She was bound for Madison Square Garden... for the rodeo."

"But there was no rodeo this afternoon." "She didn't go in the bowl, sir. She went to the doors on Forty-ninth Street, where the offices are, and where you go downstairs to the stables. Just like a flash she went downstairs. Nobody stopped her."

"But they stopped me. They said I'd have to have a permit. They were husky fellows, standing around the entrance, cowboys and such. They told me to go to the office and get a permit."

"I was afraid to leave the door. I didn't know what she might be getting into down there, specially as I didn't like the feller that went with her."

St. Louis and Washington have formed the headline topic at private councils of relief chiefs.

Though sporadic now, what the worriers envisage is a movement similar to the 1932 bonus march that proved so fatal to President Hoover. So far the administration has met these moves by compromise.

Agreed to substitution of the prevailing wage clause in the $1,425,000 relief measure, despite his no-surrender stand against. Pat McCarran last year Harry Hopkins agreed with the crippled delegation after refusing to see them for two days.

Latest report is that the unemployed will stage a "hunger march" on Philadelphia during the Democratic national convention. The official sleuths are now investigating so as to stave off such an ironic climax to the expenditures of billions through the last few years.

Inside suspicions are that certain anti-New Deal schemers are promoting these demonstrations.

SWAP: "Gentlemen," thundered United Mine President John W. Lewis, "when you closed down your mines in three Pennsylvania counties, you gave my people only one choice - starve or steal! Under the circumstances I would advise them to steal!"

That was the bushy-haired leader's bold deft to anthracite coal operators who asked him to suppress coal bootlegging in return for meeting his terms on hours, wages and working conditions. Lewis was even more adamant to their explanation that they had lost $10,000,000 last year and could no longer raise wages without boosting retail costs - and losing more customers to oil and gas and coke competitors.

For the same reason they said they could not afford a strike at this time.

At the last minute the operators bowed. But not to Lewis or the threat of New Deal Conferee McGrady to denounce them. They surrendered because of economic pressure which threatens to revolutionize their industry. They even agreed, though it wasn't advertised, to make a survey of costs and capitalization which Lewis maintains are excessive. In return he will cooperate in the suppression of bootlegging.

REPRISALS: Mr. Lewis' success in negotiating this agreement gave him another round in his championship battle with AFL-er William Green over craft versus the industrial union. He had already taken a long lead when he beat Mr. Green to the punch in calling for President Roosevelt's reelection.

Reports reaching labor headquarters say the A. F. of L. rank and file envy the seven hour day with no loss of pay which the miners' chief obtained for his men. It has been a long time since labor won such a victory in other fields.

The Roosevelt declaration also struck a responsive chord, as Mr. Green's indorsement of the President a few days later revealed.

Most of labor's aggressive chieftains - Lewis, Hillman, Gorman, Dubinsky - are now on record for FDR.

But these Lewis achievements have angered the Green faction, split labor wide open and brought a heavy counter-attack. The so-called Green unions are understood to be turning up new members in recent reports. Insiders forecast that the AFL-ers will move to expel Mr. Lewis if he can recruit enough votes for next fall's convention - even on the eve of a national campaign.

New York SHOCK: New Yorkers high in Republican councils confide that they aren't at all disturbed by the prevailing atmosphere of defeatism in anti-Roosevelt circles - which has definitely begun to lighten in the past couple of weeks. They go so far as to intimate that it is sound strategy at this stage to paint the picture of G. O. P. prospects, as black and the Democratic chances as bright as possible.

"Only so can it be drilled into party workers and party backers; that we must all pull together and as hard as we can to have our chance of winning. Later on, our check will rise two points for every point the Democrats' stock drops. There's plenty of time to cultivate victory psychology when the real battle begins."

It can be stated on excellent authority that the heaviest Republican batteries will be kept carefully masked until after the conventions. Then the plan is to loose a continuous intensive barrage of material - compiled in the past two years - and so heavy as to keep the Democrats constantly on the defensive. It is expected that the nature of the revelations to be made will check a large portion of the normally Republican but currently pro-Roosevelt vote back to its former allegiance.

NAMES: New York anti-New Deal circles snicker impudently at mention of the President's recent conferences with such industrial and financial leaders as Owen Young, Bernard Baruch and Walter Chrysler, and his widely publicized plans for promotion of the housing and railroad equipment industries.

They characterize these maneuvers as a rather inept attempt to woo business with headlines or at least to convey an impression to the public that outstanding business chieftains are still willing to play along with the administration. They predict the first objective will be a total flop and they doubt that the second will get very far.

Mr. Chrysler has been consistently more friendly to the New Deal than any other big time industrialist. But for all his importance in the automobile field his views carry little weight among other industrial leaders. Mr. Young hasn't nearly the prestige among his business peers that he had four years ago. In any case, there is no reason to believe that he is fundamentally sympathetic to the New Deal.

Mr. Baruch is no longer the potent force he used to be in the financial world.

All three have good "headline names." But even if they became public cheerleaders for the Roosevelt team - which is very unlikely - it wouldn't mean a thing to business men in general.

ROW RENEWED OVER COLLEGE

Chapel Hill Unit Seeks to Keep Engineering School

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, May 12.—The renewal of the efforts of the Chapel Hill branch of the University of North Carolina to prevent the removal of the School of Engineering to the State College unit here in Raleigh despite the fact that two sessions of the general assembly, the board of trustees and President Frank P. Graham have decided that it should be located at State College, is causing many who are familiar with the facts to wonder if the Chapel Hill unit is not only attempting to dictate how the entire Greater University shall be administered, but to also dictate the future course of higher education in North Carolina.

Comment here today, following the two faculty meetings of the Chapel Hill unit yesterday and Monday for the purpose of opposing the removal of the Engineering School to Raleigh, is generally to the effect that the Chapel Hill faculty is a case of the tail trying to wag the dog, since there are two other units of the University.

The facts in the case seem to be that Dr. H. G. Baily head of the Chapel Hill Engineering School, and his fellow faculty members, do not want to leave the high superior and cloistered atmosphere of Chapel Hill and become contaminated with the ordinary atmosphere in Raleigh and the less refined student body at State College, according to those who have been reading between the lines of the speeches made in the Chapel Hill faculty meetings on Monday and Tuesday afternoons.

Many of the Chapel Hill alumni make the point that one of the principal reasons for leaving the engineering school at Chapel Hill is that many young men will not take engineering if they must be subjected to the less-bouty-touty and more earthy "atmosphere" at State College. But if the engineering school is left at Chapel Hill, or at least a branch of it, many youths who do not want to associate with the sons of farmers, wage earners and mechanics at State College will be glad to study engineering with those whom they consider their social equals in the highly refined, if not downright snobbish atmosphere at Chapel Hill, some of its alumni frankly maintain.

For in spite of all the argument about the value of the physical plants at Chapel Hill and State College, about equipment, facilities and so forth, the whole argument boils down in the final analysis to the fact that neither the faculty in the Chapel Hill engineering department nor the handful of engineering students there want to leave Chapel Hill and come to State College here in Raleigh, which they regard to be inferior socially and intellectually to Chapel Hill.

The actual figures show that during the past six years, from 1930 through 1935, only 180 graduates from the Chapel Hill engineering school at a total cost to the state of $280,579 or an average cost of $1,553 per graduate. In the same six year period, there were 627 graduates from the State College engineering school at a total cost to the state of $626,898 or an average cost per student of only $1,000 as compared with an average cost per student of $1,553 in the Chapel Hill school.

In 1936, only 28 graduated from the Chapel Hill engineering school, as compared with 94 from the State College school. In 1931, the Chapel Hill unit graduated 36 and State College 100. In 1932 only 34 graduated from the Chapel Hill school and 95 from State College. In 1933 a total of 27 finished their engineering course at Chapel Hill, while 109 graduated from State College.

BIG QUESTION IN CAMPAIGNS

Claims and Counter Claims in Gubernatorial Race

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, May 14.—Who is helping who and how are the dominant questions here in connection with the campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor in which Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, Clyde R. Hoey and Sandy Graham are competing in a soaking contest for the title of champion Political Pope of the state.

When the soaking contest started some months ago, both Hoey and Graham concentrated their soaking to McDonald, while the Winston-Salem man took hearty jabs and punches at both of his opponents. But now that Graham has recently decided to sock Hoey, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, former Governor O. Max Gardner, Assistant Commissioner of Revenue Marcus Cicero Stephens Noble, Jr., and various and sundry others and branch out into the heavyweight centipede class many are beginning to wonder whether he is helping his own campaign or that of his opponents.

The McDonald managers and supporters are elated and delighted at the new tactics of Graham and maintain that his attack on Governor Ehringhaus, the present Democratic administration and on O. Max Gardner is merely making more votes for Dr. McDonald by proving the contentions of the Forsyth college professor that the state has been and still is dominated by the Ehringhaus-Gardner machine.

W. L. Lumpkin, state campaign manager for Dr. McDonald, today issued a statement in which he gloated and exulted over the new Graham tactics and pointed out that all Graham is now doing is to substantiate the charges of machine domination which McDonald has been making since the beginning of the campaign.

The Hoey forces, which are becoming increasingly bitter towards Graham because of the attack he is making on both Governor Ehringhaus and Max Gardner, are convinced that he is making a tremendous mistake, also that he is driving more voters away from the Graham camp than he is attracting into it. They are convinced that some of these are going over into the Hoey camp, because of disgust at the new Graham campaign and more or less committed to a continuation of the present regime in the state government.

The result, according to the Graham managers and strategists, is that those Democrats to whom Dr. McDonald has seemed too radical and Mr. Hoey too conservative, but who feared that Graham was also too closely linked with the present administration, are now realizing that Graham is the only safe, sane, free and unfettered candidate in the race, neither too liberal nor too radical.

Accordingly, he is cutting deeply into the McDonald following in many counties and even drawing some away from Mr. Hoey, his workers maintain. They further insist that the only way to cut into the McDonald following was for Graham to indicate that he was not the fair-haired favorite of the present administration by making a clean break with the present powers that be to the extent of denouncing both Governor Ehringhaus and former Governor Gardner.

WILD HORSE HERD IS REESTABLISHED IN POLAND

Bialoweza, Poland.—(AP)—The wild horses of Poland are going to get a chance to come back. The Bialoweza forest used to be full of them, but by the beginning of the nineteenth century they had disappeared. Scientists, however, contended that some of the horses pulling plows on farms in this region were pure-blooded descendants of the wild steeds.

So then of them, judged by experts to be without any taint of ordinary domestic horse ancestry, have been turned loose in the woods to multiply. They are under the special protection of the forest administration which hopes to have the same luck with them as with European bison.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE SEEKS EARLY POSTMARK

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—The national park service is reasonably certain there was a post office at Old King's Gap near Warm Springs between 1831 and 1855.

But it wants some tangible proof—a postmarked envelope or letter cover bearing the stamp of the old tavern post.

If found, the relic will be placed in the museum now being set up at Pine Mountain state park.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

Our Dad said this—
"In our Family's Whiskey we've got as fine a recipe as ever there was. And when you got a good thing, let her be."
The Wilkens sitting in the picture are Will, Tom, Harry Jr. and a neighbor.

There's nothing quite like a real Family Recipe!

To Dad's way of thinking—and to ours, too—there can't anything quite come up to an honest-to-goodness family recipe. I guess you'd think it kind of funny if The Wilken Family Recipe wasn't good. Figuring the experience of Granddad, and Dad's 44 years, and all us boys shown at supper here—you might say it took 100 years to work out this Family's Whiskey Recipe of ours. Well anyways I'm glad you like it!

WASHINGTON DAY BOOK

By PRESTON GROVER
 Washington—A major Republican campaign issue may grow out of George N. Peek's new attack on the administration's reciprocal trade treaty program, made just as Secretary of State Hull announced the signing of a new pact with France.

Peek formerly was foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt and head of the export-import banks set up in connection with the treaty program, and for a time was stroke car in AAA. In conflict on several sides, he took himself and his ideas out of the administration last winter.

He thinks the trade negotiations are being badly operated—and on a false theory. He now is airing his dislike of the Hull policy in a series of magazine articles.

What he expects out of the campaign personally he does not disclose. It is a logical surmise he might be receptive to a Republican cabinet post as secretary of agriculture—in event the Republicans win in November. He supported the Democratic party in 1928 and 1932 but says his partisanship "rests lightly" upon him.

 Senator Vandenberg of Michigan tried early this session to make an issue of the trade program by listing increases in agricultural imports in the face of the AAA curtailment program. His charges had less apparent effect than his subsequent New Deal criticisms. Democratic senators merely replied that the imports remained small in comparison with American production.

A basic theory back of the program is that the United States has become a creditor nation and must permit sales of foreign goods in this country so foreign debtors may pay their bills and thus be able to buy more American goods. Thus commerce would be improved.

Peek said in a speech a few days ago in Philadelphia that the theory was not bad, but that it did not fit the conditions. In the first place, he asserted American is losing her position as creditor and "the administration has refrained from making any particular effort to collect what is due us on the public and private debts."

Instead of buying American goods Peek said, European investors are buying American securities to regain a creditor relationship.

He concedes he has to present a rather involved argument.

Recently Hull defended his program before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and was encouraged by an indorsing resolution with a peek-like hook on it which recommended that the program be operated so as not to bring in products competing with American agriculture.

DR. McDONALD NOT WORRIED

Slight Slump in Straw Vote Causes Little Concern

Raleigh, May 15.—The campaign managers of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor are not at all worried at the fact that the figures showing the past week. They indicated that some fluctuation is to be expected in any campaign and maintain that the slight gains shown by Clyde R. Hoey and Sandy Graham, the other two leading candidates, were largely as the result of the intense and desperate work they have been doing because of the steady gains registered by McDonald so far.

"We are confident that by next week the figures will show Dr. McDonald has recovered whatever he may have lost this week and that he will be out in front farther than ever," W. L. Lumpkin, McDonald's campaign manager said. "For our people are going to work harder than ever this week to compensate for any losses this past week."

The Hoey and Graham forces, however, are jubilant over the fact that they both registered substantial gains during the past week, that their claims are substantiated by the actual figures, and that these same figures show that Dr. McDonald is definitely slipping. They are confident that the figures, when released next week, will show more gains for Hoey and Graham and further losses for McDonald.

"The voters of the state have now had time to think over the various issues and to reach a definite decision, with the result that they are deciding that Dr. McDonald is promising too much—far more than he can ever deliver," Cutler Moore, one of the managers in Hoey's headquarters here said today. "We are getting scores of calls from our county managers all through the east who are reporting that Mr. Hoey is gaining rapidly everywhere, while McDonald is slipping. They report that more and more farmers have decided that Dr. McDonald cannot possibly put his program over without the enactment of a heavy state-wide property tax in place of the sales tax—and they definitely do not want a state property tax. They are confident that the figures next week are going to show a still greater gain for Mr. Hoey."

The Graham forces are likewise pleased at the gains made by Sandy during the past week and at the reports from various sections of the State indicating that the aggressive and militant campaign started by Graham two weeks ago is getting definite results.

"We have succeeded in getting Dr. McDonald on the defensive and have forced him to start explaining to his followers that he is not infallible," Ronald Wilson, in Graham headquarters, said today. "And the more a candidate tries to explain his mistakes, the more he becomes like a cat stuck in a piece of stick fly paper—the harder he struggles to get out, the more tangled up he gets. And that is what is happening to Dr. McDonald with regard to his vote for the bill imposing a sales tax on hotels and hotel meals, and his vote to include Forsyth county in the Pasquotank liquor bill, until a roll call was demanded. There is no doubt that Dr. McDonald is now on the toboggan and going down hill faster and faster."

The Graham forces are also pleased at the inroads they claim they have made into the Hoey strength by means of Graham's assaults on the present administration and on O. Max Gardner. They are convinced that this new line of attack is breaking into both the McDonald and Hoey blocs.

The Hoey forces are convinced that Mr. Hoey is using the best political sense in the campaign by insisting on keeping his appeal to the voters on a high plane and refusing to throw mud or make impassioned appeals to prejudice. They are convinced that while it may take longer for Mr. Hoey's line of thought directed towards the intelligence of the people instead of to their passions and prejudices, to sink in, that in the long run this course will yield better results. They maintain that whatever strength Hoey has now and whatever gains he is making is the result of the clear-cut, understandable manner in which he is dealing with the issues in the campaign and the intelligent reaction on the part of the voters.

HIGHWAYS GET NEW SURFACES

Road Treatment Work Going on in Many Sections

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, May 15.—Treatment of numerous county roads with oil or with bituminous surface treatment is proceeding rapidly in various sections of the state as a result of the additional $2,000,000 which has been made available to the highway department to be used in road betterments and on additional maintenance from now until July 1, Chief Engineer W. Vance Baise said today.

Additional stretches of highway are also being prepared for surface treatment so that as soon as the various road oiling gangs finish the projects they are now on, they can start at once on others.

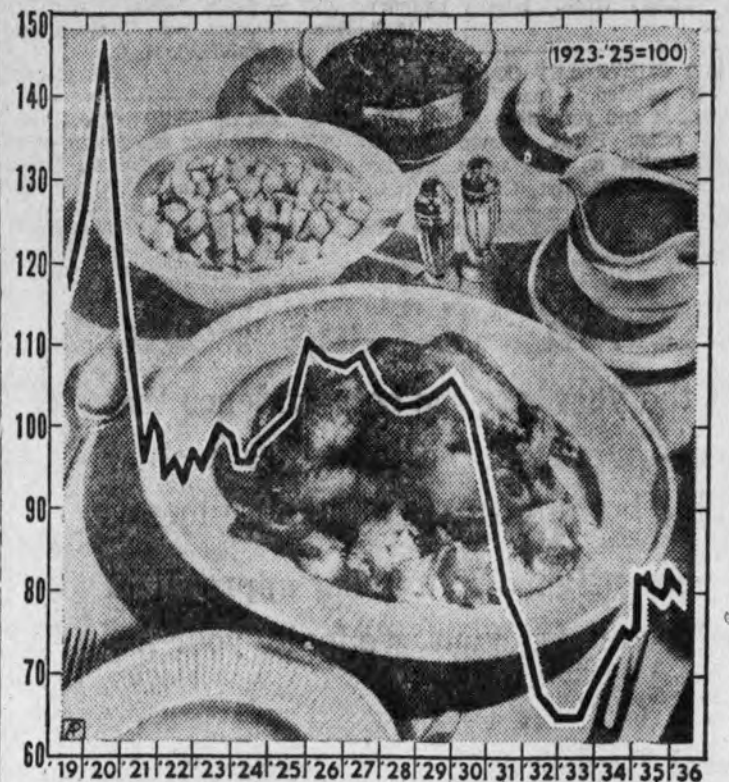

The surface treating of Route 303 in Brunswick county, between Town Creek and Southport, has already been completed and the road oil gang which was working on this project has now started work on the Nevasa road, Baise said. Another road oil gang has been working for more than a week surface treating the road between Pinehurst and Carthage.

A third road oiling gang, after completing its work on the Wrightsville Beach road in New Hanover county, has been moved to Lumberton, in Robeson county, and is now putting down the priming coat on the Jennings Mill county road and will be there some time yet, Baise said.

Another floating repair gang is sacrificing and reconditioning Route 39 from Selma northward, and hauling sand and screenings to put on this road, getting it ready for surface treatment. Another gang has just completed the reconditioning of Route 421 between Lillington and Sanford and is now being moved to Route 24, in Lee and Harnett counties, where it will recondition the road between Jonesboro and Manchester and get it ready for surface treatment.

"This summary of the surface treatment work just completed or about to get under way is in Division B only — and there is just as many if not more projects under way in all the other divisions," Baise said. "Within a few weeks more the people of the state will be able to see the results of our road repair and betterment program in every section of the state."

LOWER FOOD PRICES PROMISE HOUSEWIVES 'BREATHING SPELL'

Food costs which dropped rather steadily from late in 1925 until 1933, then rose sharply, are expected by government experts to "level off" in 1936. The chart, with the average costs of the 1923-35 period considered normal, shows price trends since 1919.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington.—(AP)—A "breathing spell" from mounting food costs is in prospect for American housewives.

Government food supply experts say that barring severe crop damage such as was caused by the record breaking drought of 1934 the outlook is for a general leveling off of prices in 1936 and probably a substantial decline in meat costs toward the end of the year.

The plebeian pork chop, which became a patrician of the food family last year because of scarcity, is expected to cheapen still more early in the summer and to register a noticeable drop next fall.

The cost of beefsteak is slated to join the downward movement along with other better cuts of beef. Moreover, lower pork prices may have some "sympathetic effect" on prices of beef and lamb.

Vegetables Plentiful.
Prospectively abundant supplies of most fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as canned fruits and vegetables, indicate that these increasingly important items in the family diet will maintain relatively low price levels. The ubiquitous potato, however, may rise slightly in price this spring.

Bread prices which, together with meat and lard quotations, dropped immediately after elimination of the processing taxes by the supreme court in January, may decline fur-costs now is about 20 per cent below 1923-25, meats recently were 1 per cent higher, and cereal and bakery products were within 6 per cent of that level.

Eggs were 15 per cent below while dairy products and fruits and vegetables were 26 and 47 per cent, respectively, below the 1923-25 prices.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Alfred M. Landon

(By The Associated Press)
Governor Alfred M. Landon stuck closely to his Kansas knitting as other Republican contenders for the presidential nomination made speeches hither and yon.

Nevertheless, Republican state conventions saw Landonites winning wide approval for their candidate. It seemed possible that the Republican convention would open in Cleveland in June with more delegations pledged to Landon than to any other man.

He has the virtue, in Republican eyes, of coming from the middle west where the campaign is expected to be won or lost. The financial east has made no vigorous objection to him. His insistence on budget balancing tunes in well with Republican speeches generally. And he survived the Democratic land-slides of '32 and '34.

If he falls of nomination his managers expect he will continue to battle for the ticket, probably in the agricultural belt where his knowledge of farm problems will be valuable.

(Tomorrow—Daniel C. Roper.)

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The closing days of the congressional session are developing some interesting signs of independent thinking in capitol hill. It can not be said that President Roosevelt's leadership has disappeared, nor does it ever appear that he will lose many, if any, of the remaining major legislative battles of the session. What has happened with respect to the tax bill and other things is notable chiefly for what it may mean in the more distant future.

A president serving a first term and one serving a second term are two entirely different figures in politics. It is not uncommon for congress to take the ball away from a chief executive it knows will come up again as a candidate. That happened to Theodore Roosevelt, and to Woodrow Wilson.

A tendency toward congressional initiative is apparent in the Byrd survey of the possibilities of governmental reorganization; one outcome might be a wholesale scaling down of the alphabetical agencies. On the heels of this move comes a house proposal to make all of the spending agencies answerable to congress, in detail, after the middle of 1937.

The whole future of history making at Washington may depend on the extent and persistency of this tendency in the congressional session which follows this year's election.

Word comes from the Landon camp that the governor of Kansas has said all he intends to say before the Cleveland convention, except perhaps for one short speech touching but lightly on political issues.

Nevertheless it is the view of some of his friends thus far hardly forecasts what he will do if nominated.

Some who know him best believe he would be a highly vocal nominee. They argue that, not having declared himself an active candidate, he has felt no responsibility for speaking out. Should he formally be declared the spokesman of the Republican party, however, he would assume new obligations, and find himself in an entirely different role.

Of course none of these friends assume to speak with the authority of the governor himself. They merely venture the opinion that, 1936 being what it is, he would not sit down at Topeka and hope that the presidency would come his way. They foresee him staking everything on an active campaign.

They acknowledge that such a course might expose him to experiences quite new to him, but they figure that's what will happen—if and when the opportunity presents itself.

If the demand for national convention seats means anything—and it usually does—political interest is running extremely high this year in both parties.

Those who allot places in the press galleries are smothered under an outpouring of applications numbering many hundreds more than there are seats available.

The crush for spectators' tickets likewise is overwhelming, many of the applicants are willing to spend hundreds of dollars of their own money journeying from far points to see the show.

Even at Philadelphia, where the Democratic proceedings are expected universally to follow a pattern well understood in advance, the demand already is heavy and insistent.

Evidently the country is going to have one grand time over its politics in 1936.

PHILIPPINE COPRA CROP MOUNTS TO SIZABLE TOTAL

Manila, P. I.—(AP)—The Philippine copra coconut meal) crop in 1935 amounted to 641,587 metric tons, according to the annual report of copra brokers.

Total production of coconut oil during the year was 201,722 tons. Copra exports amounted to 256,538 tons, while desiccated coconut exported totaled 34,728 tons.

Copra and coconut oil stocks on hand Dec. 31, 1935 were valued at $28,953,000, as compared with $19,528,000 the previous year.

Sh-Sh-Sh! That's our ACE IN THE HOLE!

YOU can't keep good news from spreading—so the word is out that the handsome Series 40 Buick Special is not only big, but amazingly thrifty to boot!

One fellow, for instance, writes that he is getting three more miles per gallon than the salesman promised—why, asks he, don't we print such important news?

The fact is, we don't advertise specific miles-per-gallon figures because you simply can't set a figure that could be right for all drivers under all conditions.

So, instead of following the popular custom of claiming the world, on such matters we prefer to play safe and "talk small"—leaving Buick's really surprising frugality to be one of those nice things you discover after you've driven one awhile!

It works out fine, too! Owners are constantly coming in to brag about high mileage averages, low costs on oil, long trips without a penny for service or attention.

With all of its style, and comfort, and stand-out performance—at prices beginning at $765* list—Buick's a winner and its thrift is all plus. Ride in one and see if that's not the truth!

$765 is $1945 are the list prices of the new Buicks at Flint, Mich., subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups at extra cost.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 15.—(AP)—The stock market spring of yesterday was transformed today into a reverse crawl. There was a brief early attempt to follow through on the upside, but profit taking stemmed the advance and near the start of the fourth hour a number of the leaders had backed up fractions. Traders found little change in the news picture either for the better or worse. The transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Negro Education Day Is Scheduled Tonight

"Education Day" will be observed at the Greenville negro High school tonight at 8 o'clock, the program to be composed of a number of entertaining as well as instructive features. Rev. J. A. Chase, Methodist minister, will deliver the invocation. The program will include a number of recitations, readings, musical numbers and a one-act play. Provisions have been made to take care of white patrons of the event, for which no admission will be charged.

Even in a costume picture, Joan Crawford likes gowns in pale blue. Stealing chickens in daytime is petty larceny in Kansas; but if the theft be at night, it is grand larceny.

Local Production Credit Association Reports Activities

Report of Loans Made in First Three Months of Year Shows Increase Over Previous Period

Loans made by the Greenville Production Credit Association during the first quarter of the year show an increase over last year, according to J. C. Galloway, secretary-treasurer of the association, which serves this county.

Over $249,795.00 went to farmers in cash loans during the first three months of the year, compared to $205,725 in the same period in 1935, Mr. Galloway said.

Authorized to serve farmers in Pitt and Greene counties, the Association made 346 loans during the first quarter for an average amount of $458 per loan.

Farmers used the loans primarily to purchase seed, fertilizer, and farm supplies. Secretary Galloway stated.

"With a good outlook in farm conditions and production money available at reasonable rates, many farmers in this section are starting to finance their operations on a cash basis," he continued. "Storekeepers and supply merchants are selling to more farmers for cash this spring than for a number of years. With continued improvement in farm conditions, a large number of store accounts will probably be transferred to cash accounts due to the financing of production credit associations, banks, and other lenders equipped to handle farmers' short-term credit needs on a business basis at a reasonable cost."

SPORT SLANTS

The excellent showing of Don Budge, the young California red-head, against the Mexican team in the Davis Cup matches raised American hopes of scoring over the Australians. On the strength of his convincing defeat of Daniel Hernandez, Mexico's finest tennis prospect, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3, his teammates are predicting that Budge will score in his singles matches against Jack Crawford and Adrian Panatier, who are likely to represent Australia.

Budge flashed such speed and form against the Mexican entry that he caused a bit of concern in the American camp that he might perhaps be a bit too far advanced in condition for his own good. Some experts doubt the wisdom of being so fine at this early stage. Budge hardly shares their point of view. He feels certain that he will be able to carry his speed and strength through the long grind ahead.

The youngest of whom our tennis fathers are counting heavily to help regain the Davis cup quit the game several times as a boy. Even as late as two years ago he was almost ready to hang up his racket for keeps.

His mother, Mrs. John Budge, recalls that even after he first won the California state singles championship in 1933 he called tennis a "sissy" game and preferred to play basketball instead.

It was his older brother, Lloyd, who first taught him the game when he was nine, who insisted that Don keep right on playing. Don was ready to quit the game, too, just before his first state tournament several years ago in the boys-under-15 division. Lloyd, then a University of California tennis player, had entered him, but the younger calmly announced he didn't intend to play.

But Lloyd insisted, and his father added the plea it would not be sportsmanlike to withdraw, so Don played—and went on to win the title.

Mrs. Budge credits that indifference and his lack of worry with being strong factors in his play. "Tennis is just a game," she says. Don tells her, "so why worry about it? It isn't worth it."

The French tennis rankings, recently released, show the passing of the gallant "Four Musketeers" who made tennis history in France. Only one is included in the first 10—the aging Jacques Brugon is ranked seventh, Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque of other days, has abandoned international singles play and figured only in the doubles ranking. Rene Lacoste has definitely retired and Henry Cochet has turned professional.

Christian Boususs, frail mainstay of the French Davis Cup team last year, is France's top-ranking tennis player for the second successive year. French court experts rate the spindly-legged champion of France "the smartest tennis player living."

Cocky Andre Merlin slipped from second place, which he held last year, to sixth—and virtual oblivion since Davis Cup selections are usually made from the first five players. Marcel Brenand moved up into second and Bernard Destremau, 19-year-old sensation last year, counted on many to bring tennis glory back to France, jumped to fifth from 20th position.
