GREAT BRITAIN PREPARES FOR POSSIBLE WAR

Steps Up Plans For Mobilization of Industries

VAST PROGRAM BEING MAPPED

Italo-Ethiopian and Palestine - Egypt Situations Apparently Are Involved

London, May 22.—(AP)—Great Britain stepped up its plans for mobilization of the nation's industries in the event of war today after a house of commons debate emphasized the difficulty of holding the Mediterranean in case of conflict with Italy.

A vast program for facilitating munitions production, speeding up supply of airplanes, protecting the "lifeline of the empire" and providing food supplies for the civil population in any future war time began to take shape.

Two major situations apparently were involved in the preparations: 1. The Italo-Ethiopian conflict in which Viscount Cranborne, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons yesterday the British government "is taking and will take most energetic steps" to clear up the whereabouts of L. J. Bonner, Red Cross worker reported arrested at Dire Dawa.

2. The Palestine-Egypt affair in which Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin told the commons Britain would not tolerate for interference.

Italy's ambassador to Britain, Dino Grandi, conferred late yesterday with Sir Sidney G. Van Sittart, permanent under-secretary for foreign affairs, in what authoritative sources said was a general discussion of the Ethiopian situation.

An authoritative source said the reinforced guards of the British and French legation in Addis Ababa would remain despite Italian hints that they be reduced.

Hold Celebration In Honor Of Late College President

Custom of Celebrating May 21, Birthday of Late Dr. Robert H. Wright, Inaugurated at College

Today was inaugurated the custom of celebrating on May 21, the birthday of Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of the East Carolina Teachers College for its first twenty-five years.

President Meadows requested the privilege of taking the lead in establishing the custom by making a talk himself to the present student body, some of whom he estimated of the man who built this institution, strongly impressing a few points in the character and career of Dr. Wright, and telling incidents that made his listeners realize the close friendship that existed between the two men.

Dr. Meadows took a passage from an approach book in the Bible "Now we honor great men," as the keynote to the day. He first spoke of the background of Dr. Wright, referring to the fact that he was well-born and had good parents. This furnished a good foundation on which to build, his character seemed to have been strengthened by the fact that he grew up in an environment of hardship. The excellent training in the best institutions of the land that fitted this great leader for his life work was a point stressed, and his work as a pioneer in teacher-training was given as his distinctive contribution to education.

In bringing out his personal characteristics, Dr. Meadows spoke of Dr. Wright's belief in freedom and his belief in keeping regulations, giving incidents showing that he practiced what he preached. He also spoke of the generous nature of this man who at times seemed generous to a fault.

In closing, Dr. Meadows as a religious leader and as a patriotic citizen.

Take Part In Governor's Race

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, of this city, has gone to Raleigh as head of the Woman's Division of Clyde R. Hoey's campaign for Governor. After being invited and urged to accept the post, she was granted leave of absence from her position here in order that she might accept the appointment. Mrs. Spilman is well known in political circles and was recently re-elected Vice Chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Committee. (Photo by Manning).

MORE BALLOTS ARE RECEIVED

McDonald First, Graham Second; Hoey Third

With only 14 ballots voted in The Reflector five county poll since the last published tabulation, Dr. Ralph McDonald continued to be the favorite candidate for governor receiving eight votes to four for Lieut. Gov. Sandy Graham and two for Clyde R. Hoey. The day's voting brought McDonald's clear majority in the five counties to 92. Hoey continues to hold second place as favorite among the voters with Graham third, John McRae, fourth candidate in the race has received but four votes to date from the five counties being polled by The Reflector.

The third statewide tabulation of the poll published yesterday revealed that McDonald after slipping back 14 points the previous week, regained 4 per cent of the total vote in the state while Hoey slipped back 5. Graham remained in his same position with even 16 per cent of the total votes while McRae gained 1 per cent making his total 1.8 per cent.

During its poll of the five counties The Reflector has mailed out 2,500 ballots to a cross section of registered voters in every precinct in each of the counties. In order to be included in this newspaper statewide poll all outstanding ballots must be voted and returned to The Reflector before Thursday, May 28.

On next Thursday the 25 co-operating newspapers will publish the fourth statewide tabulation and on Thursday, June 4 the final tabulation will be published. At that time it is expected that the total will include at least five per cent of the total number of ballots that will be cast in the June 6 primary and the newspapers hope upon the basis of this straw vote to accurately predict the outcome of the race for governor in the primary.

Tabulation of the vote to date in The Reflector's five counties is as follows:

Table with 5 columns: County, McDonald, Hoey, Graham, McRae. Rows: Pitt County, Beaufort, Hyde, Bertie, Martin, Total votes cast 562, McDonald majority 92.

City Aldermen Meet With Local Firemen

The Greenville Fire department was host to the Board of Aldermen at a barbecue dinner at the Respers dining room last night.

Mayor M. K. Blount and Chief George Gardner were among those making brief talks. The dinner was attended by J. A. Watson, alderman-elect, who will take office at the first meeting in July.

DR. TOWNSEND MAY BE HELD FOR CONTEMPT

Speaker Byrns Terms Defiance Plain Case of Contempt

PENSION LEADER QUILTS HEARINGS

Declares He Will Not Return to House Investigating Committee Unless Arrested

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—Terming Dr. F. E. Townsend's defiance of an investigating committee a "plain case of contempt," speaker Byrns forecast today that the house would support any committee recommendations against the old age pension leader.

The house investigating committee prepared a quick move to have Townsend seized and punished on the contempt charge.

Amid an uproar Townsend bolted the house hearing into his pension organization late yesterday and today he had established emergency headquarters in a Baltimore hotel when he hurled protests at what he termed "this communistic dictatorship in Washington."

Charging the committee with an "unfair and unfriendly attitude and with asking 'vicious questions' to besmirch" his character, he said he would return only if arrested.

Joining him in this battle against the committee was Gerald K. Smith, a leader in the late Senator Huey P. Long's share-the-wealth movement. Smith said "what the Townsend movement needs is a little action a la Huey Long."

He and Townsend issued the joint statement through Representative Main, (R. Mich.) in which they protested against the "communistic dictatorship and said:

"The assassination of Huey Long and the punishment of Dr. Townsend call for action."

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—Continuing activities of the House committee investigating his old age pension plan, are "a dagger held at the heart of democratic government," Dr. F. E. Townsend today directed other leaders of the Townsend movement not to answer the committee's questions.

In a statement headed "newsman" by Sheridan Downey, his counsel, the elderly California physician said he would be an unworthy citizen if he failed to challenge the power of the committee to persist on what he termed "unconstitutional persecution of the pension movement."

Although the possibility of a court trial on contempt charges was projected by Speaker Byrns as a result of Townsend's own blunt defiance of the committee, the pension leader ordered several Townsend men who already are under subpoena not to testify.

Downey who said he was on his way to notify the investigating committee of the Doctor's action, added:

"Dr. Townsend now prophesies that this committee will not have courage to put this matter up to the House because it is unwilling to give him a hearing there.

"He believes the committee will wakenly evade the issue by putting (Continued on page six)

FIRE AROUSE CITIZENS' IRE

Two Suspicious Fires Within 24 Hours In Camden County

Camden, N. C., May 22.—(AP)—An aroused Camden county this morning was frantically trying to track down the person or persons who, within 24 hours, have set two fires in the Camden-Belcross section, the second last night completely destroying the store of W. F. Berry at Belcross.

The blaze was discovered about 8:30 p. m. and burned with such speed that within a few minutes it had gotten completely out of control.

A youth discovered that a window in the back part of the structure had been broken out and remnants of oil-soaked rats were seen clinging to the window sill.

Sheriff J. G. Forbes, who had been busy investigating the fire which threatened the home of T. S. Robertson the night before, again called out bloodhounds to try to track the criminal, but the dogs were unable to strike a clear scent.

Doughton Refutes Charge Politics Entered Relief

Senator Dickinson, (R. Iowa), Charges Two North Carolina Solons with "Playing Politics" in Distributing WPA Jobs

Concord, N. C., May 22.—(AP)—Representative Doughton (D. N. C.), chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, today denied a charge by Senator Dickinson (R. Iowa), that he injected politics into relief.

"I have never thought about politics in giving relief help," Doughton said. "I have never asked whether those needing relief were democrats or republicans."

Doughton said that in the first place he had no responsible jobs to give.

"I have recommended some for such jobs, but there is no assurance ever that these recommendations will result in appointment. I cannot do anything but make the recommendations."

Senator Dickinson had charged Representative Doughton and Senator Reynolds (D-N. C.) with "playing politics" in distributing WPA jobs.

Dickinson read a letter he said was to Eugene A. Russell of Watauga County, N. C., from Reynolds promising he would be "more than glad" to take up your case with the WPA "if furnished a letter of recommendation from the county Democratic chairman."

Austrian Breweries Hard Hit Vienna (AP)—Steadily declining beer consumption in Austria is severely affecting this country's 104 breweries, the majority of which long ago were reduced to part-timers. The 1935 wine crop added to their troubles so that several smaller breweries closed and others turned to the production of vinegar and other by-products of wine.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER PLEASED: Washington Republicans met a mollified and mellowed Herbert Hoover when they confabbed with him on his recent trip to the East. The verbal arrows he aimed at Alf Landon on his former visit are now directed at only two public men—Franklin D. Roosevelt and William Edgar Borah.

The most pronounced change in him concerns his attitude toward the Kansas governor and prospective presidential nominee. Though he resents the Hearst-Merriman-Landon invasion of the California primary, he confided that his eagerness to defeat FDR will prevent him from engaging in a destructive "stop Landon" movement. His personal favorites are Senator Vandenberg, Col. Frank Knox and Senator Dickinson, but he expects Mr. Landon to be named because there is no effective opposition.

Three factors have combined to soften the man from Palo Alto. One was the rebuke his instructed delegation dealt to Publisher Hearst in beating the latter's pro-Landon slate. The second is the string of Borah setbacks. The third is his belief that the party platform will headline the theories he expounded in his "educational speeches."

PRESSURE: Justice Owen J. Roberts' name has again emerged as a presidential "dark horse." Influential New Yorkers opposed to Mr. Landon have privately talked him up, but court decisions outlawing the Guffey and relief acts have enhanced his stature as a candidate.

G. O. P.-ers can't conceal their jubilation at the decisions which laid low these keystones of the New Deal. They insist that judicial junking of these laws along with the NRA and AAA assures a complete victory for FDR's alleged disregard for American traditions. Although Mr. Roosevelt has warned his advisers in soft-pedal the constitutional issue, the Fletcherties intend to nail him on the White House doorstep.

Mr. Roberts has told friends that he would not quit the bench to (Continued on page four)

TARIFF WALLS SATISFACTORY TO INTERESTS

Spokesman For Textile Industry Pleas-ed With Action

FRED MORRISON IN STATEMENT

President Increases Tariffs on Types Of Cotton Cloth Japan Exports to U. S.

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—Textile interest expressed satisfaction today over the presidential proclamation raising tariff walls in an effort to halt a sharp increase of shipments of cotton cloth from Japan to this country.

President Roosevelt acted after the tariff commission reported importations of Japanese cotton goods rose rapidly during the first quarter of this year, following failure to effect a "gentlemen's agreement" with the island empire to restrict cotton textile exports to the United States.

By proclamation issued yesterday under the 1933 flexible tariff act, the President increased tariffs approximately 42 per cent, effective June 20. The higher rates will apply to the type of cotton cloth of which Japan supplies about 90 per cent of this country's imports.

First reaction of the textile industry, which has demanded relief from Japanese competition since cotton goods exports from that country first became important in 1934, were favorable.

Fred Morrison, of Washington, a spokesman for the cotton textile industry, expressed the opinion the higher rates would do much to cut down Japanese competition.

If Japan could continue to undersell domestic producers in face of the increased tariffs, he said, President Roosevelt had the power under the new soil conservation act to put import quotas into effect.

Roosevelt States Personal Desires For Lehman Stick

President Hopes New York Governor Will Reconsider His Decision Not To Seek Re-election

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today reiterated his personal hope that Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York would reconsider his decision not to run for reelection.

The statement was made at a press conference after the President had conferred with Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state of New York and Bronx democratic leader.

The President said that Lehman, a close friend and political ally, was needed by the state.

Previously Flynn had told reporters he had expected the state convention in September to nominate Lehman despite his announcement he would not seek another term.

WEAR POPPIES AID VETERANS

Tomorrow To Be Observed As Poppy Day in City

Tomorrow will be Poppy Day in Greenville and throughout the United States. Millions of Americans will observe the day by wearing memorial poppies in honor of the World War dead. Nearly one hundred thousand women from the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute the flowers and receive contributions for the welfare of the welfare of the disabled veterans and families of the dead and disabled.

Observance of Poppy Day here will be in charge of Pitt County Chapter No. 39, unit of the Auxiliary, with Mrs. Alex Viola as general chairman. A large corps of volunteer workers from the Unit and cooperating organizations is ready to begin distribution of the flowers on the downtown streets early tomorrow morning.

By evening Auxiliary leaders hope to have practically everyone in the city wearing a poppy and to raise funds which will assure continuance of the Unit's welfare activities during the coming year.

Satisfied With School Session

D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools, today reviewed some of the accomplishments of the units this term and expressed general satisfaction over their operation. Most of the schools are closing this week. (Photo by Manning).

PITT SCHOOLS END SESSIONS

Objectives and Accomplishments Of Year Pointed Out

The 1935-36 year for all schools in Pitt county, with the exception of Stokes and Pataclus is being completed with commencement exercises this week.

D. H. Conley, county superintendent, took occasion to outline some of the objectives and accomplishments of the year. He said that, in spite of the bad weather, the system had experienced a very successful term, had run smoothly with no evidence of friction in any part of the system.

Several features were put into effect in the county schools this year to promote a better system as a whole.

All students in grades from one through seven were given stand-out tests in order to provide a more scientific classification.

For the purpose of promoting attendance, certificates were given to students neither absent nor tardy during the year. Despite the unusually bad weather during the term, a large number of pupils received the awards.

To promote extra reading, reading circle certificates were offered and numerous students earned these awards.

A basketball tournament was held with all schools, both boys and girls, taking part, in order to promote better athletic relations among the various units of the county system.

In order to promote efficiency in the care of children traveling on school buses, a prize was awarded the best driver in each school. Not a serious accident in which school trucks were involved occurred during the year. No loss was incurred through property damage or personal injury.

Attention also was called to the fact the county system and the City schools had worked hand-in-hand during the year.

The Stokes school will close May 29 and Pataclus on May 27. The others are closing this week.

Explains Method Of Exterminating Ants

Raleigh, May 22.—When ants infest houses, public eating places, or lawns, exterminate them with poison bait, says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College.

An easily prepared, inexpensive ant poison may be made with one quart of water, a pound of sugar, 125 grains of arsenate of soda, and 25 grains of tartaric acid. Boil together until the arsenate has dissolved. If a tablespoonful of honey is added, the mixture will attract ants more readily.

Place the poison syrup in shallow containers where it will be easily accessible to the ants. Fill boxes waterproofed inside with hot paraffin, clean tin snail boxes with holes punched in the lid, or even small glass mayonnaise jars make good containers, Brannon stated.

A sponge or a little excelsior placed in the container will help the ants reach the syrup and escape with a load of poison. The poison is weak enough for the ants to carry it back to their nest for feeding the queen and young ants.

TO ELIMINATE TAX ON TAXES FROM REVENUE

Levy To Be Removed From New Compromise Tax Bill

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $40,000,000

Indicated That Some Changes Will Be Made to Bring Revenue to Sum Sought

Washington, May 22.—(AP)—The senate finance committee in another stormy session agreed today to eliminate from its new compromise corporation tax plan a "tax on taxes."

It was estimated this decision would mean a loss of $40,000,000 in revenue.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) said the new plan should raise at least $29,000,000 of additional money over existing laws. To that would be added approximately $100,000,000 expected from a "wind-fall" tax on processors who evaded payment of AAA processing taxes.

The tax on tax payments would have resulted from the fact that honey used to pay a projected flat 18 per cent tax on total corporation income since it would not have been distributed to stockholders would have been subject to a seven per cent levy on undistributed corporation earnings.

Harrison said he hoped the bill, in ultimate form, would bring in the revenue sought by the President, indicating that some changes might be made to that end.

"I hope we can keep from increasing the normal income tax rate," he said. "But that keeps bobbing up."

He spoke also of a possibility of readjusting income surtaxes upward if necessary to bring in more money, as well as of lowering exemptions from individual income tax payers.

He said he expected to be ready to report the bill out of committee Monday afternoon and take it up on the Senate floor late next week after passage of the deficiency relief appropriation bill.

Police Inspector Says 'Nightriders' Will Face Murder

Seven Members of Order Charged With 'Ritual Slaying' of WPA Worker For Beating Wife

Detroit, May 22.—(AP)—Police Inspector John I. Navarre said today seven members of the Black Legion, blackrobed secret society of night riders, would be charged with murder for the "ritual slaying" of Charles A. Poole, found shot to death beside a suburban road May 13.

Sixteen officers of the society were held for investigation. Navarre said four of them had confessed participating in the "execution" of the young WPA worker after he was accused of beating his wife.

Prosecutor Duncan C. McCreo too statements from the 16, whose organization he said, was known publicly as "The Wolverine Republican Club," although it had no connection with the Republican party.

Alfred E. Farrell and Lou Chabrelian, sheriff's investigators, said the men told a detailed story of terroristic activity by the society despite fears for their lives because of their statements.

Pitt Farm Bureau Plans Rally Meet Early Next Month

Officials of Other County Bureaus To Be Invited to Affair Planned By Local Organization

Directors of the Pitt County Farm Bureau last night laid plans for a Pitt County Farm Bureau Rally and basket dinner picnic around June 10.

A committee was appointed to secure the Third Street School Grounds, if possible, for this picnic. The directors also instructed E. F. Arnold, Executive Secretary for the State Farm Bureau, to invite, as their guest, Presidents, Vice-Presidents, Secretary-Treasurers, and County Agents from each of the forty counties which now have Farm Bureaus. This group will hold a meeting in the morning at which time policies and programs for the County and State Organizations (Continued on page six)

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Dirk Joris has at last determined to see his sister-in-law Hope in her room, and try to discover her secret. Hope is the suddenly-chosen wife of Dirk's older brother Rupert, some of whose pecuniary interests in the Adirondacks, Martin, Hope's chauffeur, has reported to Dirk that he heard a man's voice in Hope's room, but that when he searched he could find no trace of anyone. The complication is that Dirk is more than a little interested in Hope himself.

Chapter 27

CIGARET SMOKE

"How is Rupert?" Hope asked.

"Rupert was better this morning," Dirk answered. "Doesn't Sanford keep you advised? I asked him to."

"Yes, he telephones. But then..." Her voice was lower than usual, as if she feared disturbing some one. It was sheer weakness, no doubt.

"I understand," Dirk said. "You feel I've just come from him. He's going to pull through. He's got every chance. . . . Please sit down, Hope. I'll only stay a minute."

After a moment she moved with a twinkle of beaded, padded slippers, and sank in the big chair. She did not look at him now, but sat clutching the shawl, staring before her, her face pale in the dusk.

Dirk sat down, too, permitting his anxiety to creep into his voice.

"Martin tells me you had something of a scare the other night."

"Yes," she said, still in the lowered, rather husky voice, as if she were afraid of disturbing some one.

Suddenly Dirk was aware of an odor in the room, the faint, not altogether stale, odor of cigars. He thought of Timothy who held that ghosts have their "scent." He thought of Nora who had said that Mrs. Joris did not smoke. Nora, he recalled, did not look after Mrs. Joris's room these days. That nervous people sometimes took up smoking, Dirk was aware.

He said: "I understand that Martin himself was worse than the burglar, or whatever it was."

"Mary," she answered, "says that it was a ghost."

"Yes, I know. I didn't know whether you'd heard of the tower-ghost or not. . . . Whatever it was, Hope, I want you to move your room."

"But I like this room."

"Even though it's haunted?"

Dirk smiled as he said the word, but he was serious enough in wanting her out of here, in wanting to examine this room as he had never examined it. The smell of cigars disturbed him, even though, to his mind, Hope might have good reason to take up smoking.

She answered now in the low voice: "I don't think the room's haunted."

"And you're not afraid?" he asked.

After the barest possible moment her face turned to him. He thought he could have seen her face, star-white with the tragic eyes, even in the dark.

"No," she said. "I am not afraid."

Defiance, faint but unmistakable, was in her voice.

Dirk spoke impulsively. "I know you're afraid, Hope. Let me help you."

She looked at him. "You think I'm afraid?"

"I'm sure of it. Won't you trust me?"

"But why should you think I'm afraid?"

"What else? Why else should you have the revolver?"

Her eyes lit darkly. "I knew it was you. Where is it?"

"The revolver?" he said. "I knew nothing about it. . . . Nothing about your having it. . . . till Nora told me. She found it in the safe."

"NORA. . . . In the safe."

She repeated the words automatically, as if they had stunned her. Then suddenly:

"Nora opened a safe!" she said. "She took what was not hers. It's common thievery."

So that was her opinion of the transaction. And she had assumed that the thief was he.

"Nora didn't know that the revolver belonged to you," he explained. "She dusts in the safe occasionally. When she found a gun in it she took it out for fear you might run across it, and hurt yourself. Was it loaded?"

She said that it was. She had risen now, and was moving about the room, quietly at first, then blindly, distractedly, like a moth. The painted shawl had fallen on the floor, and Dirk picked it up. Dirk lit the lamp, and she walked about, facing him, paler than ever in the light.

"Aren't you going to tell me where it is?"

"Rupert has it," he answered quietly. "Nora took it in to Rupert."

"You mean Rupert has it with him. . . . at camp?"

"I don't know yet. It hasn't been found in his room. I've ordered Nora to make a thorough search. I have my own reasons for hoping he didn't see fit to go off with such a thing. You don't hunt grouse with revolvers."

She had paused, and after a moment:

"I know," she said, speaking as quietly as he. "It may be. . . . he didn't take it," as if to reassure them both. "It may be merely. . . . didn't want me to have it. If Nora finds it. . . ."

"If Nora finds it," Dirk finished as she paused, "you shall have it back. Or I'll get you another. If you are afraid, and won't leave the room. . . ."

"I'm not afraid," she broke in firmly. "The gun is not new."

"Well, at any rate, you won't leave the room."

"I see no need to."

"All right, Hope. But admit you are nervous, and not very well."

He had approached her on his way to the door, was holding out his hand as if in good-bye. She seemed not to see the gesture, but he continued to stand there, and presently she laid her hand in his.

"And cold," he added. "Your hand is like ice."

"I know," she admitted. "I can't get used to your winter."

"I'll tell Bernard to send up more heat," he said.

She had felt about her shoulders for the little shawl. It was still in Dirk's hand, and he laid it around her. She was close to him now. Her tumbled hair brushed his face.

"Hope, dear! . . . Hope, please. . . ."

He felt her stiffen beneath the shawl, beneath his hands. She withdrew, moving slowly now standing beside the chair, facing him, waiting for him to go.

IT WAS no use. She wouldn't confide in him, wouldn't admit even that there was anything to confide. She had no faith in him, had even thought him capable of stealing her revolver. And he had estranged himself still further by accusing her of fear.

"After all," he said, "it takes a pretty brave girl to own a forty-five gun. I take back what I said about your being afraid. But I do say you aren't well, and I don't want you to have any more shocks, Martin or otherwise. If you do hear anything, I hope you'll call me."

The little smile he had seen that first night touched the corners of her mouth.

"I suppose," she said, "that you're a tower of bravery, yourself."

"Well, at any rate," he answered, "I could fight anything you were mad at."

"So can I," she said.

Then the two of us could lay anything I want you to call me, and if you don't get better right away, I want you to see a doctor. Promise?"

She nodded, faintly smiling, standing in the glare of the lamp.

In the hall Dirk met Mary approaching with a tray. Earlier in the evening he had wondered about Mary, about the freedom of her access to Hope's room when the other servants were excluded. He had dismissed the question with its aroma of distrust.

Mary had from the start approached Hope with a respectfully maternal hand. She was slightly deaf, and very near-sighted, and completely lacking in suspicion.

Always she had evinced a disconcerting gift for accepting any account as true. Dirk remembered how she had said to him that first Sunday morning, the morning that Hope had disappeared, and he had ridden out to find her: "Mrs. Joris has been to church, sir."

He had doubted this with a vague and unhappy doubt, but Mary had believed it.

This quality in Mary—a credulity that no doubt had its root in loyalty—Hope had no doubt divined. And who, when ill or troubled, would not have preferred Mary's precise and gentle ministrations?

Dirk replied now to her inquiries concerning Rupert, and said to her: "I'm worried about Mrs. Joris. I think we should call a doctor."

Mary answered that Mrs. Joris didn't seem ill enough for that. "She'll be all right," Mary added.

"What do you think it is?" Dirk asked.

"Worry, sir. . . . that's all."

19-year-old Buddy Lewis, Lewis won the third-base assignment in camp, and clinched it in the first few weeks. Any youth who can boast a .366 average at the plate for his first month's work against big time pitching has little to worry about. There is no doubt that his fat average will shrink some when the pitching begins to tighten up, but it won't shrink much.

Buddy has a smooth, natural stroke at the plate. An orthodox batter, he swings from the left side of the plate and takes a healthy well-controlled cut at the ball. Lewis' rise to the regular ranks is amazing when one considers that the youngster reported to the Senators at Orlando, Fla., this spring with one year of experience in professional baseball as a background.

All around the National league one hears nice reports on the Dodgers' rookie first baseman, Buddy Hassett. He has developed into the most dependable batter in the Brooklyn lineup. No one is more delighted with the fine showing of Hassett than Manager Casey Stengel. Stengel found himself very much on the spot after the Hassett deal was made, for he had little more than second-hand knowledge of the player's ability yet he urged the Brooklyn owners to part with $40,000 to get him. It proved to be a worth-while gamble for Buddy looks the part of a big league first baseman. . . . a good fielder, a dependable hitter, and what is very important, he appears to be durable enough to go through a 154-game schedule.

Traynor Strikes Gold

The Cardinals were fortunate when Johnny Mize reported for training in good condition. The operation last winter remedied the injury that caused him to walk with a decided limp last season and kept him out of the big show. Mize showed up well enough to push the slugging Ripper Collins right off first base and keep the veteran in the dugout. Johnny hits the ball hard and looks like one of the rookie finds of the year.

Pie Traynor struck gold when he picked up young Wilbur Brubaker. Traynor was rapidly approaching the time when he would no longer be able to cover third base regularly for the Pirates. Playing regularly and trying to manage the team at the same time was a big job. But until this spring Traynor had found no one ready to take his place at the hot corner. Then along came Wilbur Brubaker. In 14 games he poured the ball for an average of .433. He won't keep that pace up—no one expects him to—but he looks as though he will do, and that's a mighty big load off Manager Pie Traynor's worried mind.

HOW'S YOUR APPETITE FOR THRILLS?

and we mean something besides speed

If you like the song a sweet motor sings — set a date when we can get together and let's have some fun!

We want you to thrill to the quiet rhythm of the ablest straight-eight engine in the world — the valve-in-head straight-eight in these Buicks of ours!

We want you to feel the way a Buick minds your touch on the treadle, your hand on the wheel, your foot on the brake.

We want you to send it romping up a hill — and learn what it means to have a car that always has "plenty left in reserve."

We want you to pretend for an hour that you own a Buick — and see for yourself how it feeds your appetite for obedient action like no other car you ever wheeled through traffic!

We want you to get acquainted with these Buicks — to know from driving one why everybody agrees Buick's the buy!

If you've wanted thrills — power-thrill, comfort-thrill, style-thrill — give us a chance to show you what a Buick will do. How about setting the date now?

SPORT SLANTS

The 1936 Rookie crop has been fairly well weeded out after a month of play and a mere handful of novices remains. Not more than half a dozen or so stand out.

The prize "freshman" of the year appears to be Joe DiMaggio, the Pacific Coast youngster, now playing left field for the New York Yankees. DiMaggio has not been subjected to the same test as the other newcomers, as he was delayed in getting started by a training camp accident. In the two or three weeks he has been in the lineup his every move at the plate and in the field has been closely watched by rival players and managers as well as by his own managers and teammates.

If DiMaggio is lacking in any department or has any particular weakness at the plate it has not shown itself to date. He has been pacing his teammates in batting, his fielding has been of definite big league flavor, and his throws from the outfield have been sensational.

This was the opening performance of the first tour of the Federal Theatre troupe number one and more than fulfilled the high hopes for its success. The two-act performance, the one in Goldsboro and the one in Oxford two weeks ago were actually rehearsals and tests for trying out equipment and staging.

The play in Wilson tonight, coming on here tomorrow, when Greenville will have the chance to see right at home a real New York performance.

The play was written by a North Carolinian, Wilbur Daniel Steele, who returned to the state for a while, living in Chapel Hill for two years, and he wrote it in collaboration with Miss Norma Mitchell while he was a resident of the state in 1932.

The play has made an impressive success in northern cities during the two past seasons, with 375 performances to its credit, a long run in New York, three in Boston, and four in Chicago.

'WILL OF GOD' SERMON TOPIC

Special Services Continue at Memorial Baptist Church

"It is a dangerous thing to hear God's Word proclaimed" declared Dr. John W. Ham, in some remarks by way of preface to the evening's message delivered at Memorial Baptist church. It was the will of God that Israel should be delivered from Egyptian bondage. A series of plagues ensued. Pharaoh's heart being hardened, while Moses' heart was softened and made tender in its relation to the God of their fathers. This people was to be released for their God-appointed task. Egypt sought to interfere, and their hosts perished in the Red Sea. Acceptance or rejection of God's message is always the result. We are either nearer to God or farther away from Him after every hearing of His word.

Attention was drawn to the special message to be presented tonight on the subject, "Seeing the Orient through American Eyes." This lecture will carry the hearer's mind to the East, and through the eyes of the visitor will see the peoples of these other lands, learning to appreciate them and to know them better. All children and young people are especially invited to be present tonight.

Based on the evening's sermon on the text of Isaiah 55:1-13, Dr. Ham spoke on the subject, "The Desert and the Garden." The first portion of this section of the chapter describes a desert type of life. Through this analogy the prophet points out that Israel has become a backsliding people. They have become ossified by and in the spirit of Babylon. So the evangelist, prophet says to them: "Wherefore do ye spend your money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness." Here are lean souls; thirsty souls yearning for the water of life. They are a people in the desert, in bondage to the very things that they had set up as their mode of life. The call of God now comes to them to leave the desert and come up into the Garden of God. They could easily have declared that they already possessed a fine synagogue, they had excellent music, they had a fine man to preach to them, they had provided the very best in terms of equipment for work, and that all about them were the evidences of material progress. Yet—there is a lack of spiritual power. They are still presented with this invitation to come into a spiritual Garden.

Throughout this chapter there is presented the contrast between the actual and possible experience. When one speaks of "backsliders" it is necessary to clearly understand what is meant by the term. In the Old Testament a principle is stated: "Can two walk together except they be agreed?" which is reiterated in the New Testament in Galatians 6:7, 8. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth unto his own flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth unto the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap eternal life." There are members of the church who have never experienced the "new birth," who know nothing of the "possessing" life of the Spirit. But there are also members of the church who are "born-again" ones, who have lost their grip upon their spiritual life, and have returned to the old ways of life. They have become indifferent to the claims of Christ and the Church, cold to the love that once warmed their hearts into zealous action and witnessing for him. Some of the ways in which backsliding comes about in the lives of Christians who were once warm-hearted and earnest are:

(1) through being unequally yoked in business. A Christian joined in a business enterprise with a non-Christian. Such a relationship generally results in the deterioration of the Christian's activities, and his falling away from his duties to Christ. Being unequally yoked in the marriage bond is another way in which the same result is brought about. Still another way in which backsliding comes into being in the church is through making entering the lives of the people. An unchristian spirit comes to the fore. People no longer speak to one another. Their souls become corroded; short-circuits result; sparks fly; broken relationships come about. Then it is necessary to have a "wash-day" in the church. Sin must be dealt with, and cleansed. Confession is the method.

The call of the hour is in this word: "Let the wicked forsake his ways, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto Jehovah, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon." Who are the wicked? Anybody who is outside the will of God. You can test your own life and present experience with this principle. How can you know whether you are in the will of God or not? What appears before your eyes when you close them to pray? That obstruction must be cleared away before the power comes. Forsake! is the challenging word. You must turn from that sin, let it go, and let God come into your life in His cleansing power.

The spirit-filled life is available. There is a cost attached to it. "You can get God's best when you give your best to God." What have you to confess, and free yourself for the spirit-filled life? If you've the price, you will pass from the duster life into the Garden of God. Through your life a genuine, positive Gospel will be preached. An unconditional surrender is the supreme necessity. Will you make it? At the call of the evangelist a large number in the audience presented themselves for re-dedication, and surrender to the call of God to live this Spirit-filled life.

The morning hour brought the final message of the series for this week on the subject, "The Holy Spirit as symbolized by an Old Field Dove." Dr. Ham centered the study in the third chapter of Matthew's Gospel. In a most enlightening manner, he led the minds and hearts of the hearers into a clearer comprehension of the important truth concerning the Holy Spirit. It was an hour of high spiritual experience and blessing.

Local Peace Council to Dramatize Sermon

On Sunday night at eight o'clock in the Pitt Theatre the Greenville Council for Peace Action will present the dramatization, "The Unknown Soldier Speaks."

The setting is at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington. A dialogue is carried on between the spirit of the Unknown Soldier and a visitor. There has been ample time since the Unknown Soldier was entombed at Arlington for him to think out the matter of war and peace. Wearied of the endless procession of visitors who do not see the implication of war and who misunderstand much of the part played by him and his buddies, the Unknown Soldier decides that this particular visitor will be a sympathetic listener, and he ventures a most confidential talk with him. The conversation proceeds to a most dramatic climax at the close where one is forced to face the grave, not only of those who gave their lives in the World War, but also the graves of the heroes of peace—men who, like the soldiers, were willing to die, but to die for good will, one of life's eternal values.

The play is being coached by Miss Helen Dortsch of the Federal Dramatic group. Dr. Gilbert R. Conby makes the part of the visiting clergyman and Robert S. Moye the role of the Unknown Soldier. There will be special music by the High School Glee Club and young men of the community will serve as ushers. This is a community project the purpose of which is to make more real the reasonableness of and necessity for world peace. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

The Play Day is organized on the "Get Your Goat" idea. Each girl will be assigned to one of the ten color goat teams. When a team loses in a competition, each member of the losing team gives a goat to the winning team and gold ribbons are awarded to the team winning the most goats.

JUDICIAL REFORMS FOLLOW BUDGET FILIPINO PROGRAM

Manila (AP)—President Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippine Commonwealth has taken another step in his reorganization program by naming a budget commission.

The next step is expected to be the judiciary setup. A new court of appeals has already been organized and the president, it is expected, will next tackle the question of justice of the peace courts.

President Quezon has two plans under consideration. One would change the justice courts to circuit courts with jurisdiction over two or three municipalities. The other would eliminate the justice courts entirely and create district courts.

Under the latter plan violations of local ordinances would be handled by municipal police courts.

Few Landowners

Bride, Idaho (AP)—Publication of an analysis of Idaho land recently showed that in this state a private land owner is something of a rarity. Seventy-nine per cent of its area is public property.

Among the largest holdings are 36 per cent in national forests, 21 per cent in public domain, 6 per cent in state land and 1 per cent in Indian reservations.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES

This editorial is addressed to Arthur B. Corey and E. G. Flanagan, candidates for the State Senate, and J. Ficklen Arthur, W. J. (Dick) Bundy, J. S. Moore and John Hill Paylor, candidates for the House of Representatives to represent Pitt County in the next session of the General Assembly.

In view of the fact that each of you is asking the support of the voters of Pitt County in the coming primary the voters are entitled to know how you stand upon important issues that will come before the General Assembly, therefore we are taking the liberty of asking you the following questions with the request that you answer same for publication in order that the voters might more intelligently cast their ballots at the polls June 6.

1. TAXATION AND REVENUES

(a) Do you favor repeal of the sales tax in this state if other sources of revenue can be found without returning the tax burdens to land?

(b) If elected to the legislature, do you promise to diligently seek those other sources of revenue most able to pay the tax and refuse to vote for the sales tax until and unless these sources are properly and adequately taxed according to their ability to pay?

(c) If you have previously served in either branch of the General Assembly please give brief record of your votes for or against the sales tax measures on each of the three readings.

(d) Do you favor the repeal of the present statute that gives preference to owners of stocks and bonds of foreign corporations by exempting such stocks and bonds from ad valorem taxes and limits taxation to a maximum of six per cent of the dividends, and would you vote to have these stocks and bonds taxed upon a basis of their actual worth the same as real estate and other property?

(e) If after exhausting all other sources of revenue you found it necessary to raise additional revenues by a sales tax, would you vote to remove the present $10 limit in order that every purchase might bear its true proportionate part of such a tax? Would you also vote for the sales tax to be collected through a stamp tax or a system of fractional money in order that the present inequalities in the payment of the tax might be removed and the present high cost of collection might be eliminated?

2. SCHOOLS:

(a) Are you in favor of the highest possible standards for the public school system of this state with teachers' salaries in keeping with salaries and wages of other state and private employees who must spend an equal amount of time and effort to equip themselves to efficiently fill their positions?

(b) Will you vote for and work for larger appropriations for schools?

(c) Do you favor some form of civil service system for the school teachers of this state whereby their salaries might be increased from time to time, based on years of service and the attainment of certain proficiencies in their work?

(d) Do you favor making reasonable provision for sick leave for teachers?

3. SLOT MACHINES AND LEGALIZED GAMBLING:

(a) Will you sponsor, vote for and work for legislation that would bar from operation in this state any slot machine or other form of coin operated machine that does not give a fixed and the same value each and every time it is operated?

(b) Are you opposed to all forms of legalized gambling in this state?

4. LIQUOR CONTROL

(a) Do you favor a return to our former status of state-wide prohibition under the Turlington Act?

(b) If you believe that legalized sale of liquor, properly controlled, is preferable to re-enactment of the prohibition law, will you vote for a state-wide control measure that would set forth a uniform system for county control in each and every county that has or later votes for legalized liquor with the revenues derived therefrom to remain the property of the counties or the counties and cities in which the stores operate?

5. ABSENTEE BALLOT AND ELECTION REFORMS:

(a) The 1935 General Assembly enacted a law prohibiting the voting of the absentee ballot in the primaries in Pitt and several other counties. Will you vote against any effort to repeal this prohibition as it pertains to our county and will you vote for a law that would prohibit absentee balloting throughout our state? If you have previously served in the General Assembly, what has been your previous stand on this question?

(b) Will you seek and support other reforms in our election laws that would tend to make our elections more honest?

6. HIGHWAY SAFETY:

(a) Do you favor strengthening the present driver's license law to the extent that persons caught driving during a period of revocation of their license would serve a mandatory jail sentence?

(b) Do you favor enlargement of the highway patrol and would you confine their duties to that of protecting life and property on our highways and carrying out the traffic laws?

Feeling that the voters of our county desire to know how each of you candidates stand on these issues, we submit them to you with the earnest request that you make clear your stand on them. Our desire in this matter is to serve the people of this county by endeavoring to aid them in choosing the best possible representatives from among the candidates, and your answers to these questions will be published without cost to you or anyone else, in order that the voters might have this information.

In preparing your answers please make them as brief as possible. We realize that the answers to some of the questions will require explanations but in the interest of space, wherever a plain "yes" or "no" will suffice do not go into lengthy detail. The questions will be reprinted by us on the day your answers appear so it is not necessary that you repeat the questions in your reply to us. If you will number and letter your answers as the questions are numbered and lettered it will be sufficient.

In order to be perfectly fair to each and every candidate we will make no publication of any answers until our issue of Wednesday, May 27. This will give each candidate ample opportunity to answer these questions if he so desires. All answers will be held in strict confidence until they appear in the paper, in order that no candidate might have the opportunity to know the attitude of another candidate before preparing his answers. Prepare your answers now, plainly mark them "Candidate's Questionnaire," and they will not be opened until the day of publication. If you desire to hold your answers until the day of publication please deliver them to this office by nine o'clock on the morning of that day to insure publication that afternoon.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

enter politics. In fact, he has often criticized Chief Justice Hughes for doffing the ermine for the toga in 1916. But insiders understand that tremendous pressure to reconsider will be exerted on the Pennsylvanian between now and convention time.

QUERY: President Roosevelt's insistence on a uniform rate for power generated at his "yardstick" plants perplexes both private and public utility experts. They don't see how he can farm a system away from the "juice" shall pay more than consuming units located in the shadow of Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Boulder Dam. The scheme constitutes FDR's most savage blow to existing power and industrial setups. It threatens sharper and more extensive competition for private utilities if costs are uniform for both a long and short haul of hydroelectricity. It may promote the decentralization of industry—a pet theory of New Deal supporters that hasn't worked out under other legislation.

The question worrying friends of a public system is—"Who's going to pay the bill?" Largest item in electricity rates is the cost of transmission. Will Uncle Sam subsidize distant consumers so that they may enjoy cheaper rates, or will charges be boosted so as to absorb extra transmission cost?

POLICY: Certain smart advisers are urging President Roosevelt to use the court decision upsetting the 1935 relief act as a vehicle for unloading part of the relief responsibility and costs on the states. Instead of taking an appeal that can't be decided until after election, they counsel immediate revision of the pending $1,425,000,000 to meet judicial objections.

Under the proposed system the federal government would set up the same sort of state-aid machinery it has devised for other projects — roads, PWA construction, social security. It would make any amount put up by the states, thereby cutting federal costs in half. These federal-state arrangements have been upheld by the courts again and again.

The politicians bitterly oppose such a change. They want FDR to carry the case to the Supreme Court and to dole out relief funds at least through next November. Behind their persistent arguments lies the realization that the 2,000,000 relief vote may be alienated if it gets the impression that Mr. Roosevelt's first name isn't Santa Claus.

NORMAL: Although Mrs. Roosevelt calls her husband "Franklin" among small groups of friends, Mrs. Garner always refers to the Vice President as "Mister Garner." In other respects she bosses the vice presidential household.

"Mister Garner," she said the other day, "I am not going to wait until Congress adjourns before going home. I want to get the house ready, and I think I'll leave on June 1."

The Vice President looked at his wife and secretary. "All right," he replied, "the office will probably run better without you." Just like any husband to any wife.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
UNBROKEN: The Securities Exchange Commission has gone into a pretty new skin for the benefit of utilities which have failed to register under the holding company act. Its program for administering the law is being worked out on a liberal line, as if to reassure potential political snags that they have nothing to fear.

The Commission's jurisdiction over various moves to be made by Middle West Corporation of Chicago will be gently exercised. Other utility men caustically comment that Middle West makes an admirable stooge because no matter what happens it is highly unlikely to quarrel with the federal authority. Certainly it has been most obliging about fulfilling the requirements of the law to date.

The big unregistered group show no signs of rising to the bait. It can be stated on excellent authority that reports of their sub rosa cooperation with the Commission are the bunk. The passive resistance front will remain unbroken.

SMOOTH: The tax bill pig-staw puzzle is still some distance from a final solution. But New York sharpshooters remark that no matter how it turns out the master politician in the White House has put over one of his smoothest political operations. They point to five tactical advantages he has gained from his maneuvering.
1. He has kept faith with his declaration at the time Congress authorized immediate cashing of the bonus over his veto that Congress would have to find the money to pay for it.
2. He has moved to check any further increase in the federal debt, thus minimizing one of his opponents' most effective weapons. By shrewdly setting a high water mark he disarms those who contend that there is nothing to prevent a debt of seventy or eighty billion dollars under New Deal auspices.
3. He avoids personal responsibility for an unpopular tax measure. Congress will be the author of whatever bill is finally enacted. If the corporate surplus tax had gone through in its original form he could have claimed credit. Since it ran around, it was Treasury expert Herman Oliphant, not the President, who got kicked in the teeth.
4. The camel's nose of a levy on undistributed corporate earnings remains in the tent. Establishment of this principle on a tenable legal formula might come in handy in Mr. Roosevelt's second term.

5. The Chamber of Commerce and other business critics of the surplus tax have concentrated so heavily on that feature that they are impeded to shift their attack in a hurry. So it looks as if an increase of more than 30 per cent in the corporate income tax might get by almost unchallenged. In any case the business opposition is in the position of a rifleman with his sights carefully adjusted to old objective who suddenly discovers that the target is somewhere else.

BLOCKING: But FDR has to monopoly on smooth politics. New York G. O. P. chieftains staged a neat little act of their own last week. Everything was set to turn the statewide Young Republican gathering into a Landon love-feast. A preferential vote was to be held which would have shown the Kansas miles ahead of the field. But this didn't fit in at all with the plans of top-flight Republican leaders to keep the state delegation completely uncommitted until they get a chance to see how the tide is running at Cleveland. At this crucial moment Young Republicans from Onondaga and Erie Counties raised strenuous objections to the poll and it never came off. Clarence King of Syracuse—party chief in Onondaga—is perhaps the most influential single figure these days behind the New York Republican scenes. He has never been what you could call a Landon enthusiast. Edwin Jaekle of Buffalo and Eric County and is also very much present in inner party councils. Officially they had nothing to do with the matter—the very ideal Charles D. Hillis—veteran national committeeman—usually has this sort of thing pinned on him, but insiders say that this time he was merely an interested—and approving—spectator. Anyway there was some expert blocking.

COMEBACK: Governor Harold Hoffman of New Jersey is regaining a large portion of his political grip on his state party organization. Insiders say that this can be ascribed in part to subtle activities on the part of Democratic boss Frank Hague—who is said to feel that a Hoffman comeback is the best guarantee of a disrupted Republican party in New Jersey.

Whitehurst Explains His Position As To Law Enforcement

"I consider the Sheriff's Association of North Carolina the finest organization I have ever had the privilege of being affiliated with. The manner in which the members cooperate with their officers is gratifying, and speaks for itself of the unselfishness which is the keynote of our office. Our Association has pursued its original course—that of striving to bring safety to the lives of the citizens of our State. This is our goal and we must reach it.

"It is my opinion that the person who sets snares in the form of vice joints to trap our youth is a murderer, and greatly to be feared. Our penal institutions are positive proof that there are more young men and women between the ages of eighteen and thirty dealing in crime, than at any other age.

"Our work is not solely the apprehension of the criminal. Would we not be wiser to take inventory of those elements in his life which contributed to such a career, seek like conditions in our own environment, and then eliminate them before they have an opportunity to crush the soul of our civilization?"

"Let us not seek to glorify ourselves, but to destroy the evils which menace the lives of those people who have entrusted to us the government of their State."

The above sentiments were expressed by me August, 1935, when I was inducted into the office of President of the Sheriff's Association of North Carolina. They now, as well as at that time and during my tenure of office as Sheriff of Pitt County, represent my true convictions. During my service I have conscientiously endeavored to carry out these convictions and shall continue to do so as long as I remain in the office entrusted to me by the citizens of this county.

When one in public office, myself or anyone else, fails to execute his position in a conscientious manner, he is unworthy of the confidence placed in him by the good thinking and law abiding citizens of his county.

I reiterate the above represents my convictions and I have striven to carry them out during the years the people have placed their confidence in me, and shall continue to do so as long as I hold the office I now maintain.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF PITT COUNTY

R. T. Fountain, a real Democrat and true friend of the people, as candidate of U. S. Senate, is making a gallant campaign at his own expense, without the privilege of government envelopes to mail his speeches through the state, to defeat Senator Bailey in the Democratic primary. Before casting your vote consider the records of the two men. The Democrats must have a man in the Senate who will support President Roosevelt. Bailey's hasn't done this, we know Fountain will.

WPA ACTIVITIES IN PITT COUNTY

E. J. Hill, director Works Progress Administration, District No. 2 at New Bern, has announced that an exhibit will be held at Sheppard Memorial Library at Greenville during the week beginning May 25 and ending May 30. The purpose of this exhibit is to give to the general public in Pitt county an idea of the work being done by the Women's Division of WPA. This exhibit will show the scope of work being carried on in Pitt county.

Since WPA projects began in November, 1935, the women's division has operated sewing rooms in Greenville, Farmville and Ayden. During that period, fifty-one women have been given employment on the sewing room project and each has had a monthly income of from $24.20 to $46.20, dependent upon her skill in sewing. WPA has expended for sewing room projects in this county in labor and material $10,687.62. All textiles used on these projects have been furnished by the Federal Government. The Board of County Commissioners has, however, furnished space for the sewing rooms, all fuel, light and water necessary and has made contributions in thread, needles, etc. The operation of this project would have been impossible but for the loyal support of the Board of County Commissioners, City Board of Aldermen and other interested citizens. J. H. Rose has been especially cooperative in locating a sewing room in Greenville.

Since this project is sponsored by the Board of County Commissioners, all articles made from the sewing rooms are property of the County Board and are turned over at their direction to K. T. Futrell, Superintendent of Public Welfare. These garments are distributed by his department to the needy in Pitt county. Since November 1 and up to April 15, the Women's Division has turned over to Mr. Futrell 7,593 garments at a total valuation of $5,683.45.

WPA has also operated in Pitt county a county-wide lunch room project for the two-fold purpose of giving employment to women on relief rolls and to help the schools serve lunches to the needy children enrolled. Ten women have been employed on that project and with the assistance of these women 33,140 lunches have been served at a total valuation of $1,098.61.

The register of deeds in Pitt county has long been anxious to initiate a project for indexing the records of vital statistics in his county. We were able to secure an approved project application for this work and five women, experienced in clerical work, have been given employment on this project. This project will be invaluable to office holders, attorneys and other citizens who have occasion to use the Vital Statistics records. Much of the credit for the successful operation of this project is due J. C. Gaskins, register of deeds in Pitt county.

Probably no work done by the Women's Division in the State has had more favorable comment than that being carried on in Book Mending and Library projects. In Pitt county fifteen women have been employed to mend books for the schools and libraries all over the county. These women have mended and restored to the shelves in excellent condition approximately 2,849 books at an approximate valuation of $2,493.27. All materials used on this project have been furnished by the County Board of Education and the various Library Boards in the county. WPA again believes that much of the success of this project is due the County and City Board of Education and the officials connected with the Sheppard Memorial Library. Mrs. W. C. Vincent, librarian, has at all times worked untiringly for this project.

In addition to the above mentioned projects, four Federal projects have been carried on in the county. Ten unemployed teachers have work under the Emergency Education Program, ten professional and white collar workers have been employed on the Federal Census, Federal Theatre and a District Wide Farm Survey Project. Forty-three youths have been given employment in Pitt county under the National Youth's Administration.

A total of $15,454.39 has been spent for women's projects in the county and ninety-six women have been given employment in this program.

In District No. 2 of which Pitt is one of the twelve counties, $223,685.40 has been allotted to women's work and 1,389 women have been given employment. There has been turned over to the twelve County Welfare Departments 138,133 garments at a total valuation of $58,167.32; 11,190 books mended at a total valuation of $7,741.06, and 478,457 lunches served to undernourished children at a total valuation of $13,612.98.

The unemployed woman has been given equal consideration with the unemployed man in the WPA program and 40 per cent of the number employed in District No. 2 are women. Excellent work has been done by them on these projects and Mr. Hill wishes the general public to know about these accomplishments. Every citizen in Pitt county interested in its women is urged to go by the library and see what these women can and have done when given the opportunity.

OPEN OFFICES OF EXHIBITION

Chambliss to Open State Fair Headquarters Now

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, May 21.—Business offices for the North Carolina State Fair will be opened here Thursday or Friday in some down town location, Norman Y. Chambliss of Rocky Mount, secretary of the fair, announced here today, where he is seeking a location. The offices will not be moved to the state fair grounds until September 1.

J. A. Stewart of Clinton has been added to the managerial staff of the state fair as assistant secretary and purchasing agent and will arrive here June 1 to take over his new duties, Chambliss said. Stewart has been manager of the Sampson county fair for several years and has assisted with the state fair here in the past. He will not only be in charge of all purchases for the North Carolina State Fair, but will also do all the purchasing for the seven fairs which will be held this year by the North Carolina Fair Operating Company, including the New Jersey State Fair, Chambliss said. The North Carolina State Fair will be operated, as in the past, by Chambliss and George A. Hamid of New York City, under a lease in which they guarantee to pay the state $8,000 cash and a percentage of all receipts in excess of that amount.

The beautification of the fairgrounds, for the first time under the exclusive control of Chambliss and Hamid, is now proceeding rapidly and Chambliss predicts that by fall the fair grounds will be more beautiful than ever before with flowers, shrubbery and new grass. The buildings are also being painted and repaired, while the new building being constructed to replace the one which burned several years ago will contain twice as much space as the former building. This new building will be used entirely for industrial and commercial exhibits of an educational nature, Chambliss said.

Schlitz
the beer with Sunshine VITAMIN-D

If you have watched a trout fly dance down the swirling eddies of a sparkling stream... if you have felt, across your cheek, the tingle of cold spray where rapids break against the boulders...

Then you know how a cool, brown bottle of SCHLITZ BEER refreshes on a hot summer day. It cools. It invigorates. It gives you Sunshine Vitamin D*—important aid to summer vitality. This precious element of buoyancy and invigoration adds more lasting benefits—gives new meaning to refreshment! Beer is good for you—but SCHLITZ is extra good for you.

Modern living; clothing; hours spent indoors or in the shade—rob us of sunshine benefits even in mid-summer. SCHLITZ in brown bottles or cans gives you the SUNSHINE VITAMIN D so important to health and vigor—plus the tangy, old-time SCHLITZ flavor and bouquet safeguarded by PRECISE ENZYME CONTROL—and at no increase in price.

*Each 12-ounce bottle or can of SCHLITZ contains 100 U. S. P. X. Units of Sunshine Vitamin D.

SCHLITZ brewer's yeast contains the pro-vitamin D which is activated directly by the ultra-violet rays of the sun to form Vitamin D. (Protected by U. S. Letters Patent.)

New York Cotton

New York, May 22.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, two higher to two lower with trade buying of crop positions and liquidation of distant months. General business was quiet and the market at the end of the first hour was within a point or two either way of yesterday's close. General business remained quiet with active month's ruling higher, with July selling around 11.40 and December at 10.35 at midday. The market closed steady, three higher to four lower, spot quiet, middling 11.69.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 22.—(AP)—The stock market took a shy look at generally bright business news today and bids for many of the shares were raised fractions to a point or more. Traders felt their way carefully however, and quiet dealings were the rule throughout. The utilities, steel and industrial specialties pointed the way upward. The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

Strip-Cropping Means to Check Soil Erosion

Raleigh, May 22.—Strip-cropping is a comparatively new but effective means of checking erosion on sloping fields, according to Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College. The Soil Conservation Service has promoted strip-cropping on its demonstration areas in 41 States, the plan continued, and very satisfactory results are being reported. Strip-cropping means planting strips of close-growing, soil-protecting crops on the contour between strips of clean-cultivated, soil-depleting crops. When Claudette Colbert returned from a "little shopping trip" to New York, an entire carload of furniture followed her.

INTEREST LOW LESSER RACES

Erwin Finds Many People Not Aware He is Running

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, May 22.—State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin is confident that he will win the nomination to succeed himself in the Democratic primary June 6, despite the fact that he is still holding to his policy of making no political speeches although he admits he is doing some campaigning between commencement speeches. One of the biggest obstacles he is meeting with is the lack of interest on the part of the public in his candidacy as well as in those of other state officials with the exception of the candidates for Governor. "Whenever I stop at a filling station or store I always make it a point to ask about the campaign and to find out how sentiment is in that locality, especially with regard to the campaign for State Superintendent of Public Instruction," Erwin said. "Sometimes I find that I seem to be favored, but in far too many cases the people with whom I talk have never heard of me or any of my opponents, plainly indicate that they are not interested in who is nominated for anything except Governor. Before I leave, however, I naturally try to get them interested in my candidacy." The fact that so many people are not interested in the candidacies of those seeking the lesser state offices makes it very difficult for those seeking the nominations for those offices to arrive at any estimate of the progress they are making, Erwin said.

PITT FARM BUREAU PLANS RALLY MEET NEXT MONTH

(Continued from page one) will be discussed. After the picnic spread, speakers of State-wide prominence will be assured. Dean I. O. Schaub, Assistant Director of John W. Goodman, State Tobacco Specialist, E. Y. Floyd will be invited. Just as soon as a definite date is set and the grounds secured, definite announcements will be made. The membership card will admit the entire family to the grounds. All members will be requested to present either their membership cards or their receipts for membership dues. Any farmer who wishes to join will be provided with membership cards and receipt. Farmers who have already joined and have not received their membership card may secure same by contacting the director from their township. The following committees have been appointed to make full and complete arrangements for the occasion. Program committee: J. E. Winslow, R. L. Little, John T. Thorne, G. E. Trevathan. Reception Committee: Mrs. Roy T. Cox, Mrs. J. E. Winslow, Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, Mrs. B. L. Lyson, Mrs. John R. Carroll, Mrs. Norma Forbes, Mrs. Bruce F. Hadley, Mrs. Coy L. Forbes, Mrs. A. L. Woolard, Mrs. G. E. Trevathan. Entertaining committee: F. M. Kilpatrick, J. J. Carroll, Coy L. Forbes. Arrangement committee: A. L. Woolard, Arch J. Flanagan, R. B. Tyer, W. R. Tyson, J. S. Fleming, R. B. Wilson, P. S. Moore, W. O. Jolly, Mack G. Smith, Jack Quinery, C. A. Langley. Refreshment committee: J. V. Taylor, Paul Davenport, W. H. Dail, Jr., E. R. Dudley, E. F. Duke, Oscar Speight.

DR. TOWNSEND MAY BE HELD FOR CONTEMPT

(Continued from page one) this unhappy baby in the lap of the United States district judge here in Washington and that there will be no trial until after the national elections. Termining the pension leader's walkout on the investigating committee "a plain case of contempt," Speaker Byrns told reporters: "I expect the House to take what ever action is recommended by the committee."

program of lowering trade barriers by reciprocal treaties. As textile interests expressed satisfaction over the proclamation, the President told reporters that under the reciprocal agreement the idea was to lower tariffs without hurting domestic interests. He raised cotton goods duties under the flexible provisions of the tariff act, he added, were guaranteed because one branch of an industry was suffering from foreign imports. He said the government tried to reach a general agreement for limiting Japanese imports, but this did not succeed and the only other avenue open was the flexible clause. Secretary Wallace later declined to comment on the effect the increased duties on Japanese cotton goods might have on the volume of exports of American cotton to Japan. Japan has been the United States' largest single customer for cotton and exports to that country for nine months ended April 30 were more than 1,300,000 bales.
