LARGEST VOTE IS PREDICTED JUNE PRIMARY

Candidates For Governor List Forty-nine Speeches for Week

CAMPAIGNS HIT HIGHEST PEAK

Veteran Political Observers Concede Indications Are McDonald Will Be High

Raleigh, May 23.—(AP)—North Carolina's most bitterly contested Democratic gubernatorial campaign in years increases in intensity each week and the four candidates today listed 49 speeches for next week.

The primary, two weeks from today, is expected to result in a record vote of upwards of 400,000, Raymond Maxwell, secretary of the board of elections estimated.

Each of the four candidates for governor speaks from one to four times daily and in addition, for the first time on so wide a scale before a primary, scores of individuals in every part of the state are staging aggressive political gatherings in the interest of the various candidates.

Today was the last day of registration for prospective voters unless they become of age between now and primary or election day and many last minute qualifiers were putting their names on the books.

With the time of balloting coming closer, veteran political observers, including many backing Hoy and Sandy Graham, conceded the indications were that McDonald would have a substantial lead in the first primary. The question most said was whether there was how big the McDonald lead would be, and who would be in second place? John A. McRae of Charlotte was not being regarded as a serious contender though some observers expressed belief he was gaining strength.

Retirement Board Ready For Paying Railroad Pensions

Certain Railroads, However, Seeking Injunction in District of Columbia Supreme Court

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The railroad retirement board today said it would be ready to start paying pensions July 1 if the District of Columbia Supreme Court refuses an injunction now being sought by class one and certain other railroads.

The court hearing in which the railroads are seeking an injunction against the pension payments and an excise tax enacted at the same time was in recess over the weekend.

But attorneys for both sides expressed hope that it would be completed and a division reached before the effective date—July 1—of the pensions and the tax.

The prospect of payments actually beginning then was clouded some what by the possibility of an appeal by Jurist Jennings Bailey rules against the railroads.

The retirement board is going ahead with investigation of the 18,000 pension application it already has received.

Pace Of Industry Shows Slackening During Past Week

Associated Press Index of Industrial Activity Dips to 89.2 From 89.3 Past Week

New York, May 23.—(AP)—The pace of industry slackened somewhat last week following the peak reached the week before.

The associated press index of industrial activity dipped to 89.2 from 89.3 in the past week and 70.2 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Auto output fell back more than the normal season amount.

Cotton manufacture was a bit lower with the heavy inventory position still hanging over the market. Electrically increased less than would be normally expected at this time.

Steel mills pushed ahead a bit.

Greenville Bonds To Be Offered For Sale

Raleigh, May 23.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Local Government Commission will offer for sale here Tuesday, $75,990 Greenville street improvement securities.

DEFIANT TOWNSEND WALKS OUT ON PROBERS

"I do not propose to come back except under arrest! Thank you, gentlemen, and goodbye!" So saying Dr. F. E. Townsend took his hat in hand and defiantly walked out on a House committee investigating his old age pension plan. They tried to stop him, but Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith (left in picture at upper right) head of the late Huey P. Long's "Share-the-Wealth" movement, took Townsend by the arm and ran interference like a football player. Below, the stunned committee members watch mutely as Townsend and Smith hurried through the door. Left to right: Rep. Lucas, Chairman Bell and Rep. Hollister. (Associated Press Photos).

DEBATE PLANS UNITE CHURCH

Southern Presbyterians Discuss Problem at Assembly

Augusta, Ga., May 23.—(AP)—Southern Presbyterians debated today the problem of uniting with other branches—one of several controverted subjects before the Diamond jubilee assembly.

Opinion seemed well divided on the proposal to unite with the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., the northern faction, the Cumberland, the United and other branches.

Five Presbyterians have requested open debate. Many delegates, however, expressed the belief the matter might be settled in committee or action postponed until next year.

Ministers who declined to be quoted by name, said the proposal "has little chance of success." They declared the northern church is "distinctly liberal" while the Southern branch is conservative. Some predicted a split on the subject in the Northern church at its meeting next week.

Church Moves To Vote Consolidation

High Point, N. C., May 23.—(AP)—Another large body of Methodism—the Methodist protestant—moved toward a vote today on the perennial issue of a united church.

The northern branch of the faith the Methodist Episcopal church adopted the proposal last week in Columbus, Ohio, and leaders predicted the Methodist Protestant church would follow.

The Methodist Episcopal church, south, is expected to vote on the merger plan at its next quadrennial conference in 1938.

Three Couples Get Divorces In Court

Three divorces were granted in Pitt county Superior court this week. They were: Mildred Leggett Hardee-Lyman Hardee; Katie Dibbles-David Dibbles; Oneida Faison-William C. Faison.

Judge Marshall Spears is presiding over a two weeks' term of civil court here. Court will be resumed Monday morning.

Winston-Salem Wins Tennis Championship

Chapel Hill, May 23.—(AP)—Winston-Salem won the North Carolina high school tennis championship here today with a 7-2 defeat of Wilson. The winners lost only one singles and one doubles match.

Ambassador Daniels On Way To Capital

Mexico City, May 23.—(AP)—United States ambassador and Mrs. Josephus Daniels traveled to Washington today where the diplomat will visit state department officials. After a brief stay in Washington, they will leave for Raleigh, N. C., to visit there and attend graduation exercises of the University of North Carolina and final exercises at East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville, N. C.

PLAN REACHED FOR BIG NAVY

Conference Committee Agrees Appropriate Huge Sum

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—An agreement to appropriate $526,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was reached today at a meeting of the Senate and House conference committees.

The appropriation, the largest in peace-time history, would provide for the construction of 12 destroyers, 31 submarines and the continuation of work on 84 warships of varying types.

Authorization for the President to order the construction of not more than two new battleships in the event that other signatories to the 1930 London naval treaty begin building capital ships also was included in the big money bill.

Another section provides cash for building 333 new airplanes.

Full-Grown Melon Is Produced In County

A full-grown watermelon has been produced this year on the farm of Henry W. Martin and Jack Armstrong, self-styled "drug-store farmers."

The melon, which is being displayed in the front window of The Reflector, is of the rattlesnake variety. While not as large as some grown here it is a good-sized one.

Some large white potatoes, which also are being displayed in the window, were grown on the farm, five miles from Greenville.

Mother Of Mrs. Ellen Is Claimed By Death

News was received here late yesterday of the death in Mars Hill of Mrs. C. C. Bruce, mother of Mrs. C. J. Ellen. Mrs. Bruce died at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. She was well known in Greenville having visited her daughter, Mrs. Ellen on several occasions while the latter was a resident of Greenville.

Funeral services were conducted in Mars Hill at 4:30 this afternoon. In addition to Mrs. Ellen, Mrs. Bruce is survived by four other daughters.

PAROLE AGENT MAKING CHECK

Work Just Completed in Pitt County By Representative

The new Parole Commission for North Carolina under the supervision of Edwin M. Gill, has just completed its work in Pitt County on all paroled persons since 1922.

Mr. Smathers, agent of the commission has been working in the county for the past two weeks contacting paroled persons and checking on their records. Some have been transferred to counties where they have established legal residence and others are being transferred to Pitt County. The present total of active parolees which represents approximately a hundred and twenty-five years of unserved prison time.

Each person on parole is required to appear each month to the Superintendent of Public Welfare of the county of their residence and give a full account, habits and general conduct. His statement must be supported by three good citizens in the community in which he lives. The Commission is determined to know all about a man who has been given a parole and unless they do know all about him he will be hunted and if his record has not been good his parole will be revoked promptly.

Mr. Smathers commended the enforcement officers of the County for the fine cooperation he has received for making full check of parolees living in Pitt County. He stated that failure to make these reports as required by law was evidence of a failure to be a law-abiding citizen and such indifference would prolong his period of parole. The local office was described as the best in the district.

North Carolina, which at one time led all other states in the production of naval stores, today produces but five per cent of the nation's output.

PAST WEEK ON CAPITAL HILL EXCITING ONE

Taxes and Townsendism Enjoy Headline Prominence

SEEK TO PUNISH PENSION LEADER

House Deadlocked Over Punitive Action; Senate Committee Pushes Taxes

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Taxes and Townsendism shared the headline prominence today as the capital closed a week crammed with exciting doings.

The Senate finance committee neared the end of its revision of the tax program it received from the House. New Dealers were conducting a last ditch struggle to keep the government with a big stick to force certain corporations to distribute large sums in dividends.

The administration men had wanted a stiff graduated tax on undistributed corporation profits, but the Senate finance committee would agree to levy only a comparatively lean seven per cent, plus an 18 per cent levy on all net corporation income and other tax alterations. So new dealers sought today to strengthen existing penalty taxes on corporations which "improperly" accumulate surplus.

The House investigating committee was deadlocked today over punitive action to be taken against Dr. F. E. Townsend, old age pension leader, who walked out on the committee and refused to testify further.

Some members said he should be tried for contempt before the House; others said the case should be turned over to the courts. Townsend predicted the committee would "not have the courage to put this matter up to the House."

Mrs. W. B. Herring Selected Director Of U. D. C. District

Greenville Chosen Meeting Place of 1937 Convention at Annual Session in Wilson This Week

Mrs. W. B. Herring of this city was named director for three years at a meeting of the 11th district of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held at Wilson this week.

Greenville was selected as the 1937 meeting place for the district composed of Pitt, Wilson, Edgecombe and Nash counties.

Reports from the various chapters in the section showed that there were no surviving Confederate veterans. There were six survivors last year, but all deceased since the last meeting.

Mrs. Herring succeeds Mrs. J. A. Speight of Rocky Mount as district chairman.

Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour of Concord, head of the state organization, made the principal address of the meeting.

Speaking on the watchword education, Mrs. Ridenhour urged the gathering to help toward educating the children of America.

"Whoever controls the youth," she said, "controls the future of this country. The good to be accomplished in the schools is boundless. Let us have faith in youth and give our young boys and girls courage."

11:30 a. m.—Graduating exercises.

The twenty-seventh annual commencement exercises of East Carolina Teachers College will be held next week-end, beginning Friday night, May 29, with the music recital, and closing Monday morning, June 1, with the graduating exercises, which will be delivered by Hon. Josephus Daniels.

Dr. B. W. Spilman will preach the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, and will speak at the vesper services at the twilight hour.

Alumnae Day is Saturday. This is the twenty-fifth meeting of the alumnae association, which was organized in 1912 by the first class, that of 1911, hence this is the first time there has been a twenty-five year class to return for its reunion.

The alumnae business meeting will be called at ten-thirty in the morning. The luncheon will be at one o'clock and the program will be given in connection with that.

A tea will be given on Saturday afternoon for the parents of the graduates by the members of the normal school graduating class.

Ambassador and Mrs. Daniels expected to leave Mexico City last night to go directly to Washington City, where he will spend several days conferring with State Department officials before returning to his home in Raleigh, where they will spend most of their short vacation.

Former Tampa Policemen Convicted Of Kidnaping

Hold Five Men Flogged, Tared and Feathered Poulnot

Bartow, Fla., May 23.—(AP)—Five former Tampa policemen were convicted today on a charge of kidnaping Eugene F. Poulnot, one of three victims who were flogged, tared and feathered by a mob in Tampa, November 30.

The six-man jury in criminal court returned its verdict after slightly more than three hours deliberation of Judge Robert T. Dewell's charge that the defendants should be acquitted unless the jurist believed without doubt, that Poulnot was abducted for the purpose of being secretly imprisoned.

The five convicted men are John P. Bridges, C. W. Carlisle, F. W. Switzer, C. A. Brown, Jr., and Sam Crosby.

Two others, former Police Chief R. G. Tibbitts and Special Officer Robert Chappell, were acquitted by directed verdicts several days ago.

Poulnot, Sam Rogers and Joseph Shoemaker—an admitted Socialist and labor organizer—were arrested by Tampa officers while they were attending a political meeting in a private home the night of November 30. The officers had no warrants.

After being questioned about alleged communist activities the trio was released. Just outside the police station they were hauled into automobiles and driven outside the city where they were stripped of their clothing, beaten, tared and feathered.

Poulnot and Rogers made their way back to town but Shoemaker had to wait for help to be sent back to him. Nine days later he died in a hospital.

Conviction of the five carried with it a maximum penalty of 10 (Continued on page four)

MAJOR CHANGE FOR MINISTRY PROBABILITY

England's Budget Leakage Scandal Has Repercussions

THOMAS RESIGNS COLONIAL OFFICE

Predicted Cabinet Turnover Would Carry Sir Samuel Back Into Office

London, May 23.—(AP)—The resignation of Colonial Secretary J. H. Thomas in Britain's budget leakage scandal—the third desertion from Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's original cabinet—raised a probability today of a major shakeup in the ministry.

Political sources predicted a cabinet turnover which would carry back into office Sir Samuel Hoare, former foreign secretary, who was the first of the ministry to withdraw under fire.

In addition to filling Thomas' place at the colonial office, Baldwin faced a possibility of having to find a successor for the first lord of the admiralty, Viscount Mollath.

Sir Samuel Hoare, original scapegoat of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis now being hailed as a "far-seeing prophet" for his peace plan to give Italy only part of Ethiopia, might return to the cabinet as secretary for the dominions, informed sources said.

Baldwin, with the "national union" character of his cabinet broken further by the downfall of the former labor government, Thomas was expected to seek to strengthen the largely conservative ministry at any rate to hold it together until King Edward's coronation next year, when many believe the prime minister himself will retire.

Revised Estimate Of Revenue Yield Short By Big Sum

Chairman Harrison Says Committee of Opinion Excise Tax Should Be Placed on Sugar

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—A revised estimate of the yield of the Senate finance committee's compromise tax plan placed the total $560,000,000 or $60,000,000 short of the additional permanent revenue sought by President Roosevelt.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) in giving this figure, said the committee moreover seems to be of the opinion that an excise tax should be placed on sugar to enforce the Jones-Costigan sugar act and that it would bring in an estimated $68,000,000.

DURHAM PLANS SAFETY DRIVE

Bull City to Take Lead in Highway Safety in State

Raleigh, May 23.—The city of Durham is planning to get the jump on all the other cities in the state in the matter of highway safety and is now making preparations to adopt a safety program which will make it the safest city in the state as far as automobile accidents and accidents to pedestrians are concerned, it was announced today by Director Arthur Fulk of the Division of Highway Safety of the State Department of Revenue. City Manager Henry A. Yancey and Director of Public Safety W. J. Croom were here Friday for a conference with Director Fulk and Ben R. Stroup of the National Safety Council, with a view to adopting safety measures advocated by the National Safety Council which are already in effect in other states in cities of proportionate size.

"If the safety measures and regulations which we discussed are put into effect in Durham, as Messrs. Yancey and Croom indicated, it should lead the state in the reduction of street and highway accidents within the next few months," Fulk said. "We are hoping that other cities will also become as interested as has Durham in traffic accident prevention and adopt similar programs. This division is carrying on a campaign of 10 (Continued on page four)

MOTOR MADNESS

Last year 36,100 lives were sacrificed in motor accidents, while 895,280 people were more or less seriously injured. From 1922 through 1935, deaths from automobile mishaps aggregated 380,000.

These alarming figures should induce every motorist to do some serious thinking. What is the major cause of motor fatalities? Official records show that speed results in the greatest number of deaths or injuries.

Some people's selfishness is convincingly portrayed when they place their hands upon a steering wheel. Little evidences of meanness crop out, as for example, "hogging" the road; forcing another car almost into a ditch; impatiently honking the horn at a brother motorist who, law observing and considerate of human life, is doing a modest thirty or thirty-five as compared with the impatient one's sixty; making no effort to avoid striking a stray hen, a promenading dog, or an adventure-seeking feline; failing to give signals when starting, stopping or making a turn (usually the car windows are shut tight, making the giving of signals impossible, as the driver is evidently afraid of fresh air); making uncomplimentary remarks to the pedestrian who fails to jump quickly enough; hurling jibes at the car that "broke down" and is being ministered unto by a flustered and perspiring owner; dodging in and out of traffic, thus scraping new fenders and bumpers.

The underlying purpose of the motor car is to provide reasonably economic transportation for either business or pleasure, not to kill, maim, wound and disfigure the population. From a most useful and beneficial adjunct to human experience, the auto has become an engine of death and destruction. Not that the mass of intricate steel has taken on the aspects of a Frankenstein, but men have evidently become more selfish than heretofore, more callous to their neighbor's welfare, more indifferent to human suffering. This condition of affairs is a reproach to our people and should be sharply curbed by adequate punishment. The only motor vehicles that should be permitted to speed are the various police, fire and ambulance services. The average motorist has no justification in endeavoring to break the record of Sir Malcolm Campbell. Human life is far too precious to throw away upon our city streets and highways.—New Age Magazine.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

president of the cyanamid corporation, and has frequently been mentioned as a vice presidential prospect if the Republicans frame a coalition ticket—which they won't.

HISTORY: Mr. Bell has never before participated in politics, but his concern had a brush with a senatorial lobby committee six years ago. It was accused of helping to finance a dummy corporation in an attempt to obtain a lease on Muscle Shoals from the Hoover administration.

Claudius H. Huston was then chairman of the Republican National Committee. He was also president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which was interested in development of streams that now furnish power for TVA. Testimony before the Caraway Lobby Committee brought out the interests associated with the American Cyanamid Company paid $36,100 to Mr. Huston. Though the chairman said the money was for map making, the committee thought otherwise.

The affair caused a political sensation. Mr. Huston was disclosed as having used the money in the stock market, though he subsequently repaid it to the improvement association. But the reverberations eventually led to his resignation and did Herbert Hoover's administration no good.

SET: President Roosevelt has recently made several seemingly unrelated moves of great significance when placed together. They indicate that private power magnates rank second among his personal public enemies — bankers first — and that he will shape his plans accordingly if reelected.

When House and Senate conferees deadlocked over the provision permitting private companies to borrow government money for rural electrification, the President sided with Senator Norris against extending the privilege. Not even Rural Electrifier Morris Cooke, who favored the friendly gesture, could move FDR, although usually they see eye to eye.

Then Mr. Roosevelt reappointed David Lilienthal as a TVA director even in the face of Chairman Morgan's threat to resign in protest. The President dreaded a break in the TVA ranks but he stood by Lilienthal. The latter is a protégé of Senators Norris and La Follette, and a former member of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission. His advanced ideas on government operation of power plants apparently endears him to FDR. This is one New Deal front on which there'll be no retreat.

REWARD: President Roosevelt is missing no bets that will salvage from senatorial wreckage the scheme of taxing undistributed surpluses in the revenue measure. He will accept the Senate's rewriting of the House bill; but he wants the split-surplus provision preserved in a mild form.

FDR demonstrated his partiality for this anti-bigness weapon in a way the politicians on Capitol Hill can understand. He named Rep. Samuel B. Hill to a twelve-year, $10,000-a-year post on the Board of Tax Appeals as a reward for his exertions on behalf of the measure in the House. Though the place has been vacant for a year, Mr. Roosevelt handed it to Mr. Hill in the midst of the tax fight. It was a surprise overnight move.

The explanation is that as ranking and most intelligent Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee, the Washington Congressman led the battle for the administration's reforms. The appointment came as a timely warning that good Democrats go to a political heaven.

COUP: President Roosevelt has given his blessing to a political stroke that will place a fighting young liberal on the federal bench and land a handsome 1940 presidential prospect in the Senate. Mr. Roosevelt has privately approved the scheme under which Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana will become a judge and permit Governor Paul McCurtain to stay in the political limelight. Key figure in the deal is the Indiana Governor. His gubernatorial term expires on January 1, and he cannot be reelected. And this "young man in a hurry" realizes that he won't even be heard of in 1940 unless he can hang around high-and-mighty places. The coup won't be staged until

Gypsy Weather

BY MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Hope Joris, wife of Dirk's elder brother Rupert, has shut herself in her room and although obviously ill and in great distress to move or to admit that she feels badly, Rupert is ill of pneumonia in the Adirondacks. Dirk has returned to Hope because Rupert, her chauffeur, heard a man's voice in her room. And now Dirk, who just has talked with Hope, smelled the faint odor of cigarette although Hope does not smoke. He is trying to pump Mary, a servant, without success.

Chapter 28 SPANISH CIGARETS

MARY felt no particular loyalty to Martin. "Wait till Mister Rupert comes back. She'll be right as anything. You'll see."

Dirk spoke to Mary about the heat. Bernard, who had charge of the furnace, must stoke it a bit more heartily.

"Bernard's doing all he can, Mister Dirk. The tower-room's not really cold. She can't get warm for worrying. I've been thinking of getting an electric stove. If she could see the red glow of it..."

Dirk approved the idea. "By the way," he said, "what brand of cigarettes does Mrs. Joris smoke? I mean to get her some."

"Now that I couldn't tell you, sir. She hasn't smoked at all, till lately."

The revolver was unloaded, Dirk discovered.

"But she smokes now," persisted Dirk. "Well, yes, sir. I notice the odor now and then. However, I never see any lying about, so I wouldn't know the brand."

Dirk watched her go, saw her knock on Hope's door. He went to his room, had just lit his lamp, when Mary came to him there.

"Mrs. Joris has mentioned her brand of cigars, sir. I told her you wanted to know. I've written it down."

Dirk took the slip of paper, and read in Mary's painstaking script, "Hermosas."

"It's a Spanish cigaret, she says, sir. She doubts if you can find them here."

"I can try, tell her." Mary came inside the room. She closed the door behind her.

"Mister Dirk," she said, "I couldn't talk free to you just now. We were just outside her door. I'm worried about her, as a matter of fact. I'm afraid she's right ill."

"I'll call a doctor," Dirk said at once.

MARY shook her head. "A doctor, if she'd see him, wouldn't do any good. I'd almost say she wanted to die. And yet something keeps her up, makes her eat the things I bring her. Something happened... while she was away, or since she came back. I try to think... that's the rest of the help do think... that it's Mister Rupert she's grieving about. I'm not so sure. But if it was the noise the other night..."

"Well," said Dirk, as she paused, "if it was the noise, why won't she leave the tower-room?"

"Have you any idea as to why she won't?" asked Dirk.

"It's simple enough, sir. She likes the room. She's used to it. It's next to Mister Rupert's room, and all his things. And she wants to be there when he comes home. I've seen sick people like that before, sir... not wanting to move or to change. Only if it was the ghost that made her almost the end of Gov. McNutt's term. Meanwhile, it assures the President of the up-rising campaign support of a forceful speaker and a head man in the American Legion. But it may make trouble in 1940 if Mr. Roosevelt selects somebody besides the Indiana man as his "crown prince."

New York BY JAMES McMULLIN MENACE: New York surveys who have made a careful analysis of backstage political factors tell John L. Lewis' support the most valuable single asset FDR has in his fight for reelection. Lewis' United Mine Workers are the most effectively coordinated group in organized labor. The union is well-heeled financially and Lewis has ill... No, sir, it's not any ghost, not even Mister Rupert's illness. I think she's grieving about her people. "Her family, you mean... in Texas?" "If that's where they are, sir. Have you noticed she never gets any letters? If it's worry about her folks, and they won't have anything to do with her, a doctor won't do any good."

Dirk reflected, when Mary had gone, that her diagnosis of Hope's condition might be in a measure right. He remembered that Hope herself had told him that she was estranged from her family... from her father, to be exact. He had thought little of it at the time, or since.

More likely it was Hope herself who refused to write or to communicate, and was suffering the consequences of her own pride. It might even be that she had not told them where she was, or that she had married.

SHE had probably not wanted them to know. She would probably not forgive him if he telegraphed them now. Yet, even if the estrangement was not at the root of her illness, or in part to blame, he would feel safer if her father were here, or at least apprised of her condition.

Why had he not thought of this before? Because Hope had seemed to him to have no more ties than a wandering gypsy might. She had drifted into his house, into his life, with no background but the circus, the rainy night, and now... she might be drifting out again, might be really ill...

He encountered Nora on his way to the telephone. She had found the revolver. "On his desk, sir. Not tucked away at all, but layin' under a great pile of papers, sir. I never touch his desk... never. You've told, sir, comin' and gettin' it, if ye want it?" Dirk went into Rupert's room and found the revolver. It was unloaded, he discovered. Rupert, no doubt, had attended to that. Hope was not visible when he returned to her room. Her dinner had been placed on a small table beside the lamp, and there was a light on in her dressing-room. He called out his errand to her.

"I'm putting your cannon in the wall-pocket." She thanked him, and he went out, wishing he might have seen her again, if only for a moment. He telephoned first to Old Forge and talked with Dr. Graves who he knew would be there that night. Rupert was doing as well as they could hope, and Graves was returning in the morning. He would come at once, on arrival, to see Hope.

Even if he could not help her, he might be able to tell them what had stricken her. The name of Hope's father was in Dirk's note-book... How much to tell him? How little did he know? The Rev. Silas Devine El Paso, Texas Hope'll here at Lowrie Wood. My brother away, and too ill himself to be told of his wife's condition. Feel it imperative that you should come at once.

full discretion to utilize this war chest as he sees fit. Most important of all the Mine Workers are strongest in the doubtful key states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and will go all out to carry them for the President — especially since the Supreme Court threw out the Gaffey act. If they succeed, the election will be all over but the shouting. Michigan might be added to the list because of Lewis' firm grip through his ally Homer Martin on the newly launched Automobile Workers union, which will be fired with enthusiasm to demonstrate its power at the polls.

Well posted Republican leaders are fully aware of the seriousness of the Lewis menace but haven't yet been able to dope out any effective plan to nullify it.

"BLOC": Insiders predict that Lewis will be prominent in the political spotlight by 1940. He is playing for far bigger stakes than the leadership of organized labor. Exceptionally informed sources reveal that he visualizes himself — not La Follette or Wheeler or Olson or any other left wing politico — as the top man in a new and virile Farm-Labor party to be built up in the next four years. Moreover he is said to feel that such a party has a swell chance of winning in 1940 if the groundwork is properly laid.

This is the real long range objective of the Lewis-dominated drive for industrial unionization and the Lewis-inspired activity of Labor's Non-Partisan League for Roosevelt. Naturally it would be premature for Mr. Lewis to admit as much at present.

Lewis is an extremely able organizer and he isn't overlooking any bets. He won't advertise it, of course, but it can be stated on excellent authority that he already has a "bloc" of six senators whom he feels he can count on to vote his way in any matter of importance to him. He is working behind the scenes to expand this group to twelve, which would give him a strong "balance of power" position in the Senate.

OPPOSED: Governor Landon's well meaning friends continue to commit costly faux pas right down the stretch. One evening last week John Hamilton — the Kansan's campaign manager — was conferring with Charles D. Hilles in a strenuous effort to sell the New York veteran on joining the Landon parade. At almost the very same moment George H. Sibley — Young Republican leader and ardent Landonite — was making a speech in which he demanded Hilles' ouster as national committeeman. Some teamwork!

Only a few days before that a New York Hearst paper coupled a boost for Landon with a blistering attack on Hilles and Kenneth Simpson — G. O. P. leader in New York county and a key figure in the state party organization. That was no help to the governor either.

Most of the real powers in the New York Republican setup are privately opposed to Landon, although they will swing to him at Cleveland if he looks like a sure winner rather than be left on the beach. The possibility also remains — as we have predicted before — that the G. O. P. women leaders in New York, overwhelmingly pro-Landon, may force their hand.

a ticket headed by Landon. This could happen — but it isn't very probable. Insiders rate it a rather crude effort by the Landonites to shelve the man who might develop into the Kansan's most dangerous rival. They doubt that the proposition will appeal much to Vandenberg — who has a realistic eye on 1940 regardless of what happens this year.

TO THE EDITOR: There occurred in Thursday's Daily Reflector an article advertising a dramatization of John Haynes Holmes' famous sermon "The Unknown Soldier Speaks," to be presented next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock at Pitt Theatre.

The article says that the local churches are cooperating in sponsoring this dramatization. I was present at the last meeting of the Ministerial Association, and this subject was not mentioned until this article came out in Thursday's Daily Reflector. I had not heard the subject mentioned by anyone. The article goes on to say that Greenville should turn out en masse for this unusual production.

I'm for peace and peace movements, but I think the best way to promote peace is to stand by the preaching of the Gospel of the Prince of Peace. One of our local churches, the Memorial Baptist Church, is engaged in an evangelist meeting. Dr. John W. Ham is doing the preaching. Of course, we are calling off our Sunday night service to cooperate with Memorial Baptist Church in their revival meeting. As pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, may I urge that every faithful member of our church stay away from the program Sunday night at

AL JOLSON IN "SINGING KID" OPENS AT PITT ON MONDAY

Al Jolson, probably the world's greatest entertainer, starring in what is heralded as the most pretentious musical extravaganza in which he has yet appeared, "The Singing Kid," the latest of First National's mammoth spectacles, will be the feature attraction at the Pitt Theatre on Monday-Tuesday.

The production is a splendid human interest drama which swings intermittently between rollicking comedy and heart wrenching pathos. It is full of color, glamor and romance, with two great specialty numbers in which scores of beautiful dancing girls appear, and with many catchy new songs.

4-H Leaders and Principals

To all 4-H leaders and school principals who had 4-H Clubs in their schools we want to extend our appreciation. Without the support of these people nothing can be accomplished. We realize they are busy and appreciate them all the more because of this. Boys and girls need some one in their community who believes in what they are trying to do and support them. They need time to do their projects and someone to answer their questions. There is no more important "crop" in Pitt County than the boys and girls.

Washington

Only a few days until we'll be on our way to Washington and the Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. All who are going from Pitt County will meet between the post office and the Court House at 6 a. m. Sunday, May 31. We are going through Williamston to meet the women from that county.

Action, Not Sentiment, Seen Necessary for Promotion of Good Will Movement. Removal of Prejudice by Individuals Urged

One of the surest ways of killing a movement, either political or social or economic or cultural, is to talk much and do nothing about it. Unless there is less talk and more action, the good will movement is doomed to the same inglorious extinction. The purpose of this article is to suggest concrete and practical methods which will result in good will.

What is good will? This, the reader will admit, is a very elementary question to be answered. Good will, of course, is not mere sentiment. Feelings may accompany its exercise but feelings are not of its essence. Good will, moreover, is not confined to external deportment. Even a murderer has been known to be polite in the execution of his nefarious project. Good will is not secured by professional lip service or devotion to humanity. The object of good will is not humanity but the individual human beings—of our community, of our city, of our state, of our nation, of our world—who compose humanity.

Good Will Rests on Reason

Good will is produced in the intellect and in the will. It rests upon reason and results in action. Good will recognizes the fact that all men are sons of God, that they are bound by the same moral law and that God wishes every one of them to be saved and to participate in a life of glory with Him beyond the grave. Good will, therefore, is the attitude and act of willing or wishing good towards every created human being in the world.

There is no conflict between good will and the virtues of justice and obedience and sincerity or any other virtue which may regulate our relationship with our fellowman. The judge who obeys the mandate of the law and sentences the condemned individual to life imprisonment, may possess abundant good will towards the criminal whom he punishes in the name of the State. Good will is primarily concerned with persons and not with things. How ridiculous it would be to speak of good will towards murder or adultery or rape or kidnaping! To love the sinner but to hate his sin, is one of the ways in which the Catholic Church expresses its doctrine of good will towards those who have offended against the laws of God and man.

Catholic Position Explained

How, then, are we to increase the amount of good will within the world? Writing from the standpoint of a Catholic and in behalf of my Catholic brethren I can safely say, without fear of contradiction, that neither the Catholic Church nor the Catholic population in America has ever been guilty of a lack of good will towards those who are not members of our faith. The past three hundred years of the history of the United States have been constantly stained with organized persecutions and with volcanic demonstrations of bad will. Neither the Catholic Church or the Catholic population has been guilty of a single one of them. The ill will begotten and propagated by the native American party in the 1830's, by the Know Nothing Movement in the 1850's, by the Ku Klux Klan, from 1920 to 1925 inclusive, was directed by non-Catholics against Catholic and not by Catholics against non-Catholics.

Even at present, despite the gathering momentum of the good will movement in America, there still exist organized elements and expressions of bad will against Catholics and Jews in our country. Publications, like the "Fellowship Forum" and the "Raisplitter" with their constant and unjustifiable attack against Catholic personalities and Catholic activities, are prolific sources of bad will.

Good and Bad Will

The individual who is ready and anxious to believe the worst slanders and calumnies about Catholics or Jews, without investigation or explanation, is guilty of bad will. The individual who attends lectures by those who are renegade Catholics and who are employed by certain non-Catholic organizations for the sole purpose of vilifying the Catholic church, does not possess good will. Institutions have a right to be known through the example of their average and their best members and not through the example of their worst. Failure to realize this and to act upon this is one of the greatest sources of bad will throughout the country today.

Good will comes by thinking and not by talking. Good will comes by willing and not by feeling. Let those who have been guilty of bad will in this country and those who are anxious for good will remove the bad will—prejudiced public speaking, prejudiced public speaking programs, prejudiced public speaking and good will in America—between Catholic and Protestant and Jew will become a shining and a lasting reality.

SECRET VOTES McDONALD AID

Gardner - Sponsored Law Expected Help Forsyth Man

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, May 21.—Dr. Ralph W. McDonald is predicting that he will be nominated for Governor largely because of a law advocated by former Governor O. Max Gardner, with the result that if he is nominated, he will owe it more to Gardner than to anyone else, it is being pointed out here. The law is the Australian or secret ballot law, passed by the 1929 general assembly at the insistence of Governor Gardner and after one of the bitterest fights ever waged in a North Carolina general assembly.

In several recent speeches Dr. McDonald has said that he expected to win the nomination since the people, with the protection of the Australian ballot, could not be intimidated.

But Dr. McDonald must thank former Governor Gardner for the secret ballot, since if he had not made the intense fight for its enactment that he did during the 1929 general assembly, the chances are that the state would still be without a secret ballot law, most observers here agree. And if Dr. McDonald regards the secret ballot as one of the biggest factors in his favor and if he should be nominated, he would thus owe his nomination very largely to Governor Gardner who forced the enactment of the secret ballot law by the first general assembly after he became Governor, it is pointed out.

It is also being recalled that but for Governor Gardner, the 1931 general assembly would have enacted a general sales tax, since most of the representatives from the counties in the east and Piedmont which are now so bitterly opposed to the sales tax were then demanding a sales tax and that Josephus Daniels was also calling upon the general assembly to enact a sales tax almost daily through his editorials. But Governor Gardner went before a joint session of the general assembly and opposed the enactment of any form of a sales tax, maintaining it was not needed to balance the budget.

ROAD PROGR'M MOVING AHEAD

Improvements Moving Rapidly in Eastern Sections

Raleigh, May 23.—Rapid progress is being made on the county road betterment program in every section of the state, Chief Highway Engineer W. Vance Baise said today. Reports received from Division Engineer J. C. Gardner in Tarboro show that many projects are under way or nearing completion throughout his district.

In four counties in the second division, eleven projects are either under way or have been completed. These include two projects in Tyrrell county, three in Washington county, three in Martin and three in Hyde. Most of these projects include grading of roads with tractors and road machines and in most cases resurfacing with sand-clay and gravel or with sand.

Twenty projects are already under way, with others to be started soon, in the five counties in District 3, composed of Carteret, Craven, Jones, Pamlico and Lenoir counties. Three large projects are nearing completion in Carteret county, including the sand surfacing of Cedar Island road. Seven projects have either been completed or are nearing completion in Craven county while three more are almost completed in Pamlico county. Four extensive resurfacing and drainage projects are under way in Jones county, the resurfacing being of either sand or sand and topsoil. Four more big projects are about half completed in Lenoir county, two of them near LaGrange.

SERMON TOPIC ON THE ORIENT

Dr. John W. Ham Discusses Travels in Many Countries

"Seeing the Orient through American Eyes" was the subject of a travelogue delivered by Dr. John W. Ham at Memorial Baptist church last night. The message was well received as the speaker took the audience on a trip to the Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China and the Philippines. The beauties of the Hawaiian Islands, and especially the environs of Honolulu, were described with keen appreciation of their value. The natives of these islands were described as a very quiet people whose manner of life fitted into the climatic conditions of this Garden spot in the Pacific.

Japan furnished the next point of interest in the visit. Here the evangelist could study the workings of the heathen religions at first hand, and come to appreciate the inadequacy of them in leading the people to God. The marked changes since 1868, when the Emperor's Edict was declared against all Christians, penalizing them to six months imprisonment in a dungeon, or death upon a second offense, were brought to the attention of the hearers in sharp contrast with the past. Education is the means of getting across Christianity in an effective manner in this country of the Far East.

China is not as intensely interested in education as connected with religion, as in religion itself. Anything pertaining to religion is laid hold avidly and often leads to deep spiritual life. The effective work of modern missions was brought forcefully to the attention of the hearers of this travelogue, and one's appreciation of the missionary task and effort of the church of today was greatly strengthened and deepened. Large audiences are expected for the services tomorrow. Three meetings will be held during the day. Morning and evening worship, and the special meeting for ladies only, in the afternoon, at 3:00 p. m. Get a card of admission.

BEAMAN TALKS KIWANIS CLUB

Morehead City Port Terminal Manager Speaks on Project

M. R. Beaman, manager of the Morehead City port terminal, delivering the feature address at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club last night, pointed out the advantages of the project and declared it would mean much to North Carolina and other nearby states.

He displayed a number of pictures showing the rapid progress being made on the port, which he claimed would be among the best on the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Beaman called attention to the fact that the port was located within 90 miles of four of the world's largest tobacco markets. He also referred to other industries in the state which will benefit from the port.

He said the port belonged to the business men in this section and that it would be operated on a business scale. He cited fertilizer, tobacco, cotton and gasoline as commodities which will likely consume much of the port's business and provide freight savings to the shipper or consumer.

Immediately following the address by Mr. Beaman, K. W. Cobb, a guest of the club, said the port manager was doing a great job on the port and deserved a lot of credit.

Other guests of the club J. B. Smith, C. W. Shuff, H. A. Beaman, nephew of the speaker, and L. S. Spence.

H. A. McDougle, regular club-singing leader, was back at the meeting after having been absent due to an appendicitis operation.

Last night's program was presented by the Reception committee, headed by George J. Woodward. Three Greenville High School students, Misses Mabel Beaman, Pauline Abrogains and Rosayn Swindell, sang two numbers, they were accompanied by Miss Ona Shindler. The three girls won first place in their division in a statewide musical contest in Greensboro recently.

Announcement was made the Lenoir High School band would represent the state at the International convention in Washington next month. The various Kiwanis clubs in the state are providing the funds for the band to make the trip.

RACE BETWEEN HOEY, GRAHAM

Each Seeking Opportunity Enter Second Primary

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, May 23.—A close race between Clyde R. Hoey and Sandy Graham for second place in the first primary, in fact much closer than either the Hoey supporters or the backers of Dr. Ralph McDonald will publicly admit, is now in progress, according to the more thoughtful political observers of the state.

The belief prevails among the more experienced observers here that Sandy Graham is not yet out of the running and that he is pulling up on both McDonald and Hoey much faster than either case to admit.

The reasoning back of this belief is as follows: The McDonald strength is essentially composed of those who are against something, rather than for McDonald. The youthful former college professor means nothing to most of those who are planning to vote for him except that he is against something—against the sales tax, against Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, against former Governor O. Max Gardner, against the so-called "Democratic administrations."

This "anti" sentiment has been existing for years and has been growing. Four years ago R. T. Fountain ran on almost the very same platform that McDonald is now running on and almost defeated Ehringhaus for the nomination. McDonald has now taken this same "anti" sentiment and welded it together and expanded it back of his candidacy until there is now no doubt in most minds but that he will be the leading man in the first primary. But few can be found who believe he will get a majority over the field in the first primary and thus win the nomination.

The Hoey following, on the other hand, is composed almost exclusively of the conservative element in the Democratic party which believes that the party has wrought well and good in the past. They like Mr. Hoey's conservatism and have only whole-hearted approval of the records made by Governor Ehringhaus and former Governors Gardner, Morrison, et al. They want to see the same conservative policies for which the Democratic party has been noted during the past 35 years without interruption and are convinced that Mr. Hoey is the man to continue these policies and keep the state on an even keel. They are the "pros" and except among themselves are generally agreed to be in the minority at the present time.

The Graham supporters, however, are admittedly composed of both "antis" and "pros" and of more "antis" than of the other group. For it is generally conceded that while Graham is not against as many things as is McDonald, he is far from being as conservative and as closely linked with the old order in the Democratic party as is Hoey, with the result that he is pulling votes from both McDonald and Hoey, but more than the McDonald group than from any other. The prevailing belief in all but the Hoey circles here is that Graham is cutting into McDonald much more deeply than Hoey and that the Shelby man is scarcely cutting into the McDonald following at all. The Hoey supporters maintain, however, that Graham is no longer a factor in the campaign and it is already a clear-cut first to the finish between Hoey and McDonald.

Carrying this same line of reasoning on a little further, and estimating that 400,000 votes will be cast in the first primary, many of the observers here maintain that the "anti" vote will be 50 per cent of the total or about 240,000. But of this amount, it is further contended that Dr. McDonald will get only about two-thirds, or 160,000 with the other one-third, amounting to 80,000 votes, going to Graham. This group is convinced that McDonald's total maximum vote will not exceed 160,000 in the first primary, although he would probably get the entire 240,000 and win the nomination if Graham were not in the contest.

This leaves a "pro" vote, then, of 160,000. But here, again, it is contended that Hoey will not get all of these 160,000 votes, but that about one-third of these, or 40,000 votes, will go to Graham from those who are inclined to regard Hoey as being too conservative and not quite as liberal as Graham.

When all these are added up, the result gives McDonald 160,000, Hoey 120,000 and Graham 120,000 and shows Hoey and Graham running neck and neck for second place.

So while the Hoey managers claim that he already has second place in the bag, with a chance to displace McDonald, the Graham forces or convinced they still have a chance to put Sandy in second place and are working night and day to do that, even though the odds favor Hoey.

ONLY 3 YEARS TO WAIT FOR FREE COLLAR BUTTON

Lexington, Ky. (AP)—John G. Cramer walked into a local clothing store and displayed a gold collar button he had purchased in the store 47 years ago and had worn continuously since.

"Wear it three more years," said the proprietor of the store, "and when it reaches its fiftieth anniversary the store will give you a new one."

DURHAM PLANS SAFETY DRIVE

(Continued from page one) sion as well as the National Safety Council will give them the same assistance and cooperation as we are now trying to give Durham. "A big step towards making the streets and highways in North Carolina safer for both motorists and pedestrians has been taken as the result of the decision by the Deans of the summer schools at both the University of North Carolina and Duke University to offer courses in highway safety for school teachers. The offering of such courses was the first step in a long-range highway safety program for North Carolina suggested by the National Safety Council. An effort will be made to get all the other institutions in the state having summer schools to include similar courses in their curricula.

MUSIC AFFAIR TO BE RESUMED

Asheville Festival to Use N. C. Symphony Orchestra

Raleigh, May 23.—The annual music festival, for years a feature of the spring season in Asheville and which attracted attention throughout the state, will be revived in June with the assistance of the WPA, the North Carolina symphony orchestra and Asheville musicians, it was announced here today by Fred Cohn, assistant administrator of the Works Progress Administration in North Carolina. The first concert of the festival will be on Monday, June 8, by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Joseph DeNardo. The concerts will continue through Wednesday, June 10, when the Asheville Festival Chorus, assisted by the symphony orchestra, will present Gault's famous oratorio, "The Holy City." Tuesday night, June 9, the music festival attraction will be the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful operetta, "The Mikado" with Asheville singers comprising both the chorus and principals.

"It is a pleasure for us to be able to announce the resumption of the Asheville Music Festival, with all North Carolina talent, so that the long record of musical achievement in Asheville can continue," Mr. Cohn said. "For a number of years the Asheville Music Festival became one of the best known in the south and attracted visitors from far and wide. On several occasions it was assisted by members of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra and by famous artists.

"In reviving the festival this year, only local singers will be heard, assisted by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra," and all-North Carolina organization, which has been stationed in Asheville for several months. We are confident that the festival is going to be most worthwhile and that it will attract a great deal of attention.

The Asheville Recreation Council, Little Theatre and the various WPA sewing rooms have been cooperating with the directors of the
