FARM EXPERTS SEEKING WAYS HELP FARMERS

Secretary Wallace Inaugurates Move in Department

ACTION IS URGED BY DELEGATION

Congressmen Report Secretary is "Highly Sympathetic" With Any Move to Help.

Washington, June 2. (AP)—Secretary Wallace put agriculture department experts to work today on a plan to bring relief to farmers in drought stricken southeastern states.

His action followed a visit by a congressional delegation from Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia, who described conditions in those states and in Florida, Alabama and North Carolina.

Quoting the Secretary as being "highly sympathetic" with their efforts, members of the delegation said they were ready to put through any additional legislation that might be necessary at this session of congress.

They discussed various means of providing relief, including liberalization of the soil conservation rules to increase acreage which may be withdrawn from cultivation of tobacco and cotton—the crops worst affected — and other soil depleting crops. Such a policy would increase farmers' benefits.

Rep. Hampton P. Fulmer of Orangeburg, S. C., who arranged the conference, joined other representatives in predicting the department would provide adequate relief as quickly as possible.

They said Secretary Wallace was urged to increase from 25 per cent to 60 per cent the acreage to be placed under the soil conservation act.

Pacifists Seeking To Write Planks In Both Platforms

Disarmament Minded Members of Congress Give Up Hopes of Holding Down Army and Navy Costs

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Disarmament minded members of Congress now have about given up hope of holding army and navy costs below the billion dollar a year level but they are seeking, nevertheless, to put something in the party platforms about it.

They have had severe buffetings for several years and the acknowledged failure of the recent London naval conference to achieve more than a shadow of limitation left them crestfallen.

Total appropriations for the army and navy pushed over the billion dollar mark in the present congress, $572,000,000 to the army and $526,000,000 to the navy, a total of $1,098,000,000.

Of the army appropriation only $383,000,000 was for strictly military purposes. With non-military items out, the total for the two services still reaches $909,000,000.

Democrats who would like to choke off the expenditures point to a plank in the 1932 platform saying: "We advocate a navy and an army adequate for national defense, based on a survey of all facts affecting the existing establishments that the people in time of peace may not be burdened by an expenditure fast approaching a billion dollars annually."

The biggest recent boom for the army and navy came in 1933 when the stress for finding means of putting men to work was such that the two services were not told to cut down but to say how much they could use.

The recently ratified London naval treaty put few limitations on construction, and the navy bill this session bobbed up with authorization for two battleships—the heaviest type of war craft, costing $51,000,000 each.

They were to be started only in event building by other nations justified them. England's armaments program promptly justified them in the eyes of Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations.

It is understood that the navy department that the keels for these two will be laid soon after next January 1, when the new treaty goes into effect. Plans are described as already drawn.

Heavy Pitt Vote Slated To Be Cast In Primary

Number of County Races, as Well as Gubernatorial Contest, Expected to Bring Out Heavy Vote in County Saturday

Approximately 8,500 Pitt county voters are expected to cast their ballots in the Democratic primary tomorrow. The most accurate estimate available shows that the polls will open at 4:55 and close at 7:25, sunrise and sunset, respectively, the time provided by law for the polls to remain open.

With several county races claiming much attention, and with the gubernatorial campaign having been fought as hard in this county as any in a long time, interest here on the eve of the primary was almost at "fever" proportion.

Candidates today made their last minute moves to arouse the support of the electorate in their campaigns. While much work is expected to be done tomorrow by the various candidates and their backers, the campaign itself will be over tonight.

Two-way races for county positions are claiming the major attention of strictly local politicians. Chiefly among these are the contests for state senate, sheriff, county judge and county solicitor.

Arthur B. Corey and Col. E. G. Flanagan each have waged a strong campaign in their race for the state senate post from this district, composed of Pitt county only.

No less intensive has been the campaign for sheriff, with the incumbent, S. A. Whitehurst, being opposed by J. Knott Proctor. Jack Spain is retiring from the post of county solicitor and engaging Dink James, incumbent, in a race for Judge of County court. The position vacated by Mr. Spain is being sought by Harry Brown and Charles Harry Whedbee.

Other contests for county offices which are being sought by only two candidates include: treasurer, with J. Vance Perkins, incumbent, and Charles Laughinghouse, Jr., entered; and coroner, with A. Ellwanger, incumbent, and Clarence Taylor the candidates.

Four candidates are in the field for the county's two members of the State House of Representatives. They are John Hill, Taylor, J. S. Moore, J. Ficklen Arthur and W. J. Bundy. Mr. Taylor was the only one of the four who was a member of the body last session.

Under the new set-up each voter will express his preference for a candidate for county commissioner from each of the districts, but only one will be selected from any one district. No contests will be held in the second and fourth districts, only one man having filed in these.

In the first district, Greenville, R. A. Tyson, S. I. Dudley, Walter Cherry and E. T. Forbes are running. In the third B. M. Lewis and H. P. Owens are entered, and in the fifth G. H. Sumrell, W. L. McLawhorn and Frank M. Kilpatrick are contesting.

In the various townships, races are scheduled for constable and magistrates. In Greenville township J. Gus Stokes, incumbent, is being opposed by H. T. Boeman.

Succeeds Byrns

LATE SPEAKER PAID TRIBUTE

President and Nation Pay Last Respects To Byrns

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Lying in state before the rostrum from which he guided the House of Representatives through history-making times, Joseph Wellington Byrns today was honored by President Roosevelt and the nation.

High officials of the United States and foreign powers bowed their heads with Byrns' colleagues in Congress as the capital paid its last respect to the dead Speaker.

Sadly, the new Speaker, William B. Bankhead of Alabama, spoke in the mourning throng of Byrns' deeds and his sudden death early yesterday of a heart attack and cerebral hemorrhage.

Himself recovered only recently from a long illness and visibly worn by the ordeal of the last few days, Bankhead had to pause often during his eulogy.

Representative Bertrand Snell of New York, the Republican leader, spoke of the dead leader of the House Democrats as "my personal friend and colleague, Joe Byrns."

"He died as he had lived," Snell said, "a real man, loved, honored and respected by his colleagues and a distinguished Speaker of the House of Representatives."

Bankhead declared there was "no question that the arduous and exacting duties of the Speaker of the House must have contributed very largely to his untimely end."

Blum Broadcasts Appeal Workers Avoid Disorders

Pledges Efforts to Secure Forty-Hour Work Week

STRIKERS CLOSE BUSINESS PLACES

Fear of Food Shortage Decreases as Employers Accept Demands of Workers' Union.

Paris, June 5.—(AP)—Renner Solengro, new interior minister of France, announced today the Socialist government expects to reach a labor agreement with the country's trade unions tonight.

Solengro made the announcement after a conference on the strikes of approximately half a million French workers with leaders of the general confederation of labor.

Coincidentally the government ordered police to arrest merchants attempting to make unjustified profits from the scarcity of goods resulting from the business paralysis.

Paris, June 5.—(AP)—The Socialist, Leon Blum, new premier, broadcast an appeal today to France's workers, 500,000 of whom are on strike, to avoid disorders, promising them he would try to pass a 40-hour week law.

In addition to the 40-hour week, he promised to ask parliament to vote authorization of collective contracts and paid vacations — the three making up the principal reforms, "demanded by the labor world."

While Blum was speaking the large food stores and meat packing establishments of Paris were closed. (Continued on page eight)

Election Matinee

Beginning shortly after the closing of the polls tomorrow night The Reflector will begin receiving election returns and the public is invited to be with us and listen to the returns.

Despite expectations of one of the heaviest votes in the history of this state, arrangements are being made to handle the returns as speedily as possible.

The Reflector will use three telephones for the handling of returns from this and adjacent counties while another telephone will be used exclusively for receiving Associated Press returns from other sections of the state.

Through the co-operation of Rodgers Smith, of City Radio and Electric Shop, a public address system as well as radio will be installed in front of our building in order that we might pass on the returns to the public just as fast as they are received.

The Reflector will publish its regular issue Saturday afternoon, to be followed by an Election Extra just as soon as the returns are completed.

We will keep open house until the returns are in. The public is invited to spend the night with us.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER BRAKES: The revolt of Congressional Democrats against several major Rooseveltian policies on the eve of a renominating convention forecasts an undercurrent of anti-New Deal resentment which may embarrass FDR where he least expects it in the presidential campaign.

It's a faction of old-fashioned Democrats — Messrs. Byrd, Glass, George, etc.—who are battling the White House on taxes, relief expenditures, blank checks for Quoddy and similar projects. In the House an influential group of conservatives is holding up several NRA measures in the judiciary and other committees. In short, an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress is making mean faces at the party leader it will renominate almost unanimously. The spectacle has caused bitter comment at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

These conscientious objectors confide privately that they represent the sentiment of a majority of their constituents. They don't intend to oppose Mr. Roosevelt openly at the convention or at the polls. Their aim is rather to frame policies to which a reelected Roosevelt will have to subscribe, no matter what the 1936 platform promises. They intend to apply brakes to the New Deal, if possible.

COMPLICATIONS: The Federal Communications Commission recently adopted a censorship provision which may precipitate all sorts of diplomatic tangles. It was buried so deep in a seemingly innocuous revision of existing regulations that it escaped the attention of broadcasters, free press champions and diplomats.

It provides that radio speeches originating abroad may not be relayed by American stations without specific permission of the Commission. Sponsored by naval radio authorities, it is designed to shut off the flow of propaganda which drenches the United States every night from European capitals, especially Berlin, Rome and Paris. Only 6,000,000 short-wave sets can pick up this continental oratory by direct hookup, whereas 20,000,000 can listen in if an American chain seems fit to broadcast Hitler, Mussolini or Leon Blum.

Radio experts predict that enforcement will cause international (Continued on page four)

Dry Weather May Achieve What Man Failed Acquire

Drought Apparently to Reduce the 1936 Tobacco Yield

Charlotte, June 5.—(AP)—The drought, it appeared today may achieve where man tried and failed to limit to the 1936 flue cured tobacco crop.

After the collapse of the AAA, Congress enacted legislation permitting the tobacco producing states to enter into compacts among themselves to curb acreage.

This entailed, however, the calling of special legislative sessions in some of the states and various factors, some political, precluded action to affect the 1936 crop.

Dean I. O. Schaub, of the North Carolina State College extension service, said today North Carolina crops would be cut in half unless substantial rains bring out a recovery very soon.

Frank Parker, federal-state crop reporter for North Carolina, said the tobacco crop was suffering severely, but doubted that the crop would be reduced that much.

Sales of tobacco were 618,631,090 pounds, which brought $125,839,734. Reports of a short crop also came from South Carolina. J. W. McLendon, Florence county agent, said only 50 per cent of a normal crop had been planted there. Similar reports came from other sections of the state.

In Virginia agriculture officials said tobacco had not suffered greatly there yet.

Scattered showers throughout the tobacco belt in the past two days hardly settled the summer's accumulated dust.

ANNOUNCE AIM TOBACKPARTY

Gubernatorial Candidates to Stand Behind Nominee

Despite the bitterness that has surrounded the Democratic gubernatorial campaign each of the major contenders for the nomination will vote for the Democratic nominee in the November elections according to statements received by The Reflector today. The fourth candidate in the race, John A. McRae, was on a speaking tour and could not be reached by The Reflector which accounts for the absence of his statement.

So heated has the campaign become locally that on Wednesday local Hoyey supporters published a page advertisement in The Reflector that questioned McDonald's Democracy and lauded Hoyey's record. The advertisement ended with large display lines reading: "Don't Let Republicans Nominate Our Next Democratic Governor. Support North Carolina's Most Democratic Democrat, Clive R. Hoyey."

Prompted by such a statement to query Mr. Hoyey as to his attitude toward Dr. McDonald's Democracy, The Reflector sent the following telegram to reach Mr. Hoyey at Greensboro last night: (Continued on page two)

INTEREST LIES IN CAMPAIGNS FOR GOVERNOR

Gubernatorial Race Overshadows All Other Contests

EX-PROFESSOR IN THE SPOTLIGHT Dr. Ralph McDonald

Injects Interest in Primary with Anti-Sales Tax Platform.

Raleigh, June 5.—(AP)—North Carolina's gubernatorial campaign enlivened by a 33-year-old ex-professor's platform for repeal of the $10,000,000 a year sales tax ended today.

Tomorrow the Democratic voters will choose among the four candidates. If none gets a majority, the two high men will enter a run-off July 4.

The anti-sales tax candidate is Dr. Ralph W. McDonald who quit his college professorship three years ago to run for the legislature and to lead an unsuccessful fight for repeal of the levy at the 1935 session.

The others in the field are Clyde R. Hoyey, a party campaigner for many years, Lieutenant Governor A. H. Graham, a legislative veteran, and John A. McRae, Charlotte lawyer.

Both Hoyey and Graham contended in their campaign the sales tax could not be repealed now without resorting to a property tax or ruin business and industry with other levies.

They look with disfavor upon the sales levy, however, and advocate that it be reduced as soon as practicable. McRae proposed a referendum on the issue.

Although main interest centers on the governor's race, Democrats will also choose among four candidates for the Senate, a score or more for Congress and a host of candidates running for State and County offices.

Election officials pointing to record registration in many counties, predicted an all time high vote of 450,000.

Three Big Stills are Discovered Today By Eight Officers

Deputies and Federal Men Destroy Distilleries Found on Grindle Creek Near Pactolus

Members of the sheriff's office and federal officers this morning discovered and destroyed one of the largest stills ever found in the county and two others of 200-gallon capacity each.

All three of the illicit distilleries were found in Pactolus township, all within a comparatively short distance of each other.

Eight officers made the raids and were prepared to catch the operators, but the stills had been vacated before they arrived. Around 10,000 gallons of beer was destroyed, however. Of this amount approximately 9,000 gallons was at the largest still. Twenty-four large vats were found at the big still.

All three distilleries were of the steam variety, the largest being of 30-horse power and about 500 gallon capacity. The smaller two were of 200 gallon capacity. All three were found about three miles from Pactolus on Grindle creek.

Due to the fact the stills were so large, officers employed dynamite to destroy them.

Deputies described the big still as the largest they had ever seen.

CITY BOARD IN REGULAR MEET

Only Routine Matters Discussed by The Town Aldermen

Only routine business, with most of this regarding the street improvement program underway in the city, was discussed by the Board of Aldermen at its regular monthly meeting last night.

Alderman A. E. Hobgood, chairman of the street committee, reported the project was moving along even faster than had been expected.

The board heard a number of citizens interested in the paving of various streets, but referred them to the street committee. It was brought out that West Third street is included in the plans and no doubt will be paved during the program.

The members voted to enter suit against all persons who are as much as five years behind in their street assessment. Mayor M. K. Blount explained that the city officials had been criticised by the auditor for laxness in this connection and the action of the auditor. It was also explained that it was necessary to collect back assessments in order to successfully carry out the present improvement program.

An asphalt surface will be laid on Evans street in the main business section and the work will begin on Monday, July 1 and 15, it was indicated in a letter received from the contractor.

The board voted to observe a half holiday on Wednesdays during the summer months if satisfactory arrangements can be made. City officials, however, will not be closed tomorrow, Primary day.

An interesting feature brought out at the meeting was a statement that the city's 1936 tax valuation surpassed that of the previous year by $250,000.

Monthly Fire Damage In City is Set at $884

Property loss from fires in the city during the month of May totaled $884, Chief George Gardner of the Fire department, revealed today in his monthly report.

The largest fire during the period was at the home of Jim Parker, where an estimated $734 damage was suffered. Only two other fires occurred during the month.

For the first five months of this year fires in the city proper have caused damage estimated at $2,180. While no definite figures were available, Chief Gardner said this was the lowest property loss for the period than in many past years.

ARMIES UNITE FOR CONFLICT

Mobilization of Chinese Armies Ordered by Council

Canton, China, June 5.—(AP)—The southwestern political council tonight ordered combined provincial armies of South China to mobilize an anti-Japanese expedition into the north.

The council's mandate decreed that the troops of two provinces be merged into the "people's revolutionary anti-Japanese national salvation forces" for the expedition.

Military conscription patrols were active and police tightened their precautions. A number of persons were arrested and detained for discussing the political situation in public.

At Hongkong it was reported an independent declaration of war against Japan had been issued by the Cantor (south) Chinese government.

The Kuomintang (nationalist party) southwest executive committee and southwest political council ordered troops to march north to resist "Japanese aggression," these reports said.

Reports from Honan province said seven Chinese spies in the pay of Japan had been caught and summarily executed.

BACKS RECORD OF MCDONALD

Raleigh Lawyer Expounds on Candidate for Governor

Miss Agnes McDonald, school teacher at Washington and a sister of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, attended the rally and made a few remarks at the court house last night when Tom Ruffin, Raleigh attorney, expounded the candidacy of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, who is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The meeting was called to order by W. C. Clark, local campaign manager for Dr. McDonald. Miss McDonald was introduced by William Tyson. She expressed her thanks for the interest the citizens are showing in the campaign of her brother and added they were not going wrong by giving him their support.

Mr. Tyson also introduced Mr. Ruffin, the principal speaker.

The Raleigh lawyer declared the main issue in the race was not McDonald, Hoey, Graham or McRae, nor even the sales tax, but said it was "the people of North Carolina versus the political machine which had held the state by the throat for the past two decades."

He reviewed McDonald's record in the past legislature and said the administration's platform for the campaign was on the same issues for which he fought in the 1935 General Assembly.

He charged that while Dr. McDonald was fighting for the people in the last legislature, "seeking better schools and a means of fairer taxation, Hoey, paid by lobbyists, was fighting on the other side."

He declared Graham was sitting in the presiding officer's chair in the senate and "did not raise his voice to help the people of the state."

RALEIGH OLD-TIMERS SAYS HOEY TO LEAD IN PRIMARY

(Continued from Page One) and fantastic, if not actually hateful. They maintain, however, that their reasoning is analyzed, these claims are not as extreme and impossible as they seem to be at first. The reasoning used in arriving at these estimates are as follows:

1. The total of 211,000 votes credited to McDonald by the newspaper poll is based on votes the greater number of which were cast from two to six weeks ago and hence does not take into consideration any shifting of sentiment during the past week or ten days.

2. The generally conceded gains which Graham has been making in all parts of the state, especially in the eastern counties, and the fact that most observers agree that Graham has cut into the McDonald strength much more deeply than into Hoey's following, with the result that many observers now agree that Graham will probably get a plurality in the voting east of Raleigh. Numerous observers estimate that Graham has taken fully 60,000 votes away from McDonald within the last three weeks, as well as some away from Hoey.

3. The belief that Hoey's strength of from 150,000 to 155,000 has stood with him almost solidly throughout the campaign unaffected by the efforts of either Graham or McDonald to take them away from him and the belief that Hoey's admittedly efficient organization can be depended upon to pick up any losses and make some gains during the last week of the campaign.

4. The fact that the newspaper poll does not take into consideration the effects of organization and that past experience shows that the candidates with strong organizations for getting the voters to his polls on the day of the election can usually increase their vote by about 15 per cent. Organization is also credited with being able to secure heavy last-minute desertions from opposing candidates.

5. The conviction that both Hoey and Graham have strong and effective organizations reaching into every county and precinct and that McDonald is the most poorly organized of the three, with the result that both Graham and Hoey, but especially Graham, has made very heavy inroads into McDonald's following, while the Hoey managers have been able to prevent any desertions to either McDonald or Graham and have picked up some votes from McDonald.

6. The belief that the bulk of the McDonald strength has consisted of those who are displeased and disgruntled with the present state government, those who have believed they would have a chance to be appointed to state jobs if McDonald should be nominated and elected Governor and those known as "band wagon jumpers" who have followed him because they thought he was in the lead.

7. The conviction that many of those who have been for McDonald in the hope of getting jobs or because they thought he would be nominated have at last decided that he could not carry out all his promises, and that he has not been leading by as big a margin as many have thought, with the result that many have been deserting him for either Hoey or Graham.

When all of these factors are taken into consideration, it is not such an improbable or impossible thing to reason that as many as 78,000 or those who at first were inclined to follow McDonald here maintain. As a result, they are predicting that if 435,000 votes are cast in the primary Saturday as now seems probable, Hoey will get 155,000, Graham 140,000, McDonald 130,000 and McRae 10,000.

That the newspaper poll shows McDonald's strength as being considerably greater than it really is at present, is frankly conceded by the McDonald managers. They are no longer predicting that McDonald will win the nomination with a clear majority over all the others, as they were some four or five weeks ago and will be well pleased if he can stay in first place and maintain a lead of as much as 10,000 votes over Hoey. For most of the McDonald workers and supporters here who have been looking at the trend of the campaign for the past two weeks estimate that if 435,000 votes are cast, McDonald will get 160,000, Hoey 145,000, Graham 120,000 and McRae about 10,000. For while they agree that Graham has cut into their strength materially, they insist he has not cut into it enough to get into second place. They also maintain that he has taken some votes from

Besieged by Rebels

Hoey, with the result that they do not think Hoey will poll more than 145,000 votes at the most, even though the poll now gives him 151,000 votes. The McDonald leaders also frankly admit that they much prefer a second primary between McDonald and Graham, since they frankly admit they are confident of beating Hoey by a bigger margin than they could beat Graham. Some frankly say they doubt if McDonald could defeat Graham in a second primary, conceding that most of the Hoey supporters would vote for Graham rather than for McDonald.

The Graham managers maintain that Sandy now has an excellent chance to run in first place, McDonald in second place and Hoey in third place. They maintain that Sandy now has a good chance to get 155,000 votes, that McDonald will get 146,000 and Hoey not more than 125,000. They concede 10,000 votes to McRae. But no one knows the result and one guess is as good as another until after all the votes are counted Saturday night.

"Regarding advertisement 'Don't Let Republicans Nominate Our

Next Democratic Governor" requested to ask if you will vote for Democratic nominee in November regardless of which candidate is nominated."

Mr. Hoey's reply today follows: "Your telegram, I have not seen and do not know anything about the advertisement that you mention but I am a Democrat and always support Democratic nominees. I will support the Democratic nominee for governor this year. I suggest that you ask Dr. McDonald if he will support the Democratic nominee since he has only voted the Democratic ticket twice in his life time."

At Mr. Hoey's suggestion The Reflector queried Dr. McDonald as to what his action would be in the November election and likewise queried Graham's headquarters as to his position.

Dr. McDonald's reply follows: "Regardless of the outcome of this primary I shall support all of the nominees of the Democratic party in the November election as I have always done in previous elections. You have observed that I have said nothing in this campaign that would embarrass me in supporting any man running for the Democratic nomination."

Mr. Graham could not be reached personally because he was en route to Fayetteville this afternoon to deliver an address but his headquarters in Raleigh authorized the publication of his previous statement on this matter which was as follows:

"When I filed my candidacy for the nomination for governor in the Democratic primary I pledged to support the successful nominee. That pledge was made in good faith and will be strictly adhered to just as every other promise and pledge which I have made."

Election Returns at Beach.
Atlantic Beach, N. C., June 5.—Election returns of the State and county will be announced in The Casino and Atlantic Beach Hotel lobby along the boardwalk here on Saturday night. It was announced here today by the beach management. Every facility for receiving the returns quickly—telephone, radio and telegraph will be employed in giving as complete a coverage for a local broadcast as possible.

The management is giving this added feature to beach visitors on Saturday night with the thought in view of pleasing the patrons and giving them what they desire. The majority will desire the election returns, and so as a result, local and state returns will be given as quickly and accurately as possible.

This Saturday night beach attraction is in The Casino, starting at 9 o'clock and ending at 2 o'clock A. M. Joe Burke and his Duke University orchestra will make the music for the terpsichorean event.

Margaret Lindsay enjoys "doing" the amusement piers at the beach. She always wins prizes at the games. She's particularly good at knocking the milk bottles down with a baseball.

Robert Cummings of the movies spends his days off learning to operate a glider. He's a licensed pilot, too.

Cary Grant, screen actor, ran away from his English home at 15 to join a company of aerobats.

Nelson Eddy, singing star, has been telephone operator, artist, reporter and advertising man.

Ernie Hickson, art director, has a collection of 38 old-fashioned music boxes.

Joan Crawford is godmother to 16 children and more than 200 that she knows of have been named after her.

MAILS MUST GO THROUGH CROSSROADS FOLK IRKED
Crossroads, N. M. (AP)—The postman doesn't ring twice here. Not even once, half the time. Although he passes every day, mail is delivered only three times weekly.

Crossroads gets its mail from Pecos, N. M., despite the fact that it is on a new mail route between Clovis and Lovington, N. M. Senators Hatch and Chavez have been asked to do something about it.

Rich Ore Shipped
Tonopah, Nev. (AP)—A 50-ton carload of gold ore valued at $20,000, said to be the richest shipment since the boom days of old, has been shipped to a Garfield, Utah, smelter by the Jumbo mine.

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The sudden public out-cropping of assertions and denials about a "stop Landon" movement have enlivened the Republican convention preliminaries, but it is questionable how far they reflect the true situation in the Republican party.

The thunderings which have come from the Borah camp and the whisperings in other quarters both have many things undisclosed. If there is a "stop Landon" enterprise afoot, where did it originate, what is behind it, where is it going?

Clouds even obscure the question whether there is any relation between the activities of Governor Landon's opponents and the party's present schism between old guard and liberals. In various published statements, the old guardmen who dominated Republican politics for so many years have been pictured backing Landon, on the one hand, and as forming the nucleus of a "stop Landon" organization on the other.

Partly this public confusion is due to the character of the Landon campaign which had been built around a policy of comparative silence. Partly it is due to the inconstant liability of ranking old guard leaders to make up their minds, and their consequent unwillingness to make commitments in advance.

When two groups of such importance in the party both are keeping their own counsel, it is no wonder a great deal of guessing is indulged in elsewhere.

The "stop" device is a familiar recourse, and its employment does not necessarily indicate personal antagonism toward the candidate selected as the victim. Oftener than not, it simply is a routine and wholly impersonal part of the calculating and cold-blooded game of politics.

In every convention two sets of men are important. One is the group of active and receptive candidates, each of whom hopes to be nominated. The other is the numerous school of organization leaders, each of whom hopes to control the nomination.

When these gentlemen see, or think they see, one candidate getting out ahead of the pack, their natural reaction is to dispose of him. Sometimes tacitly, sometimes openly, they band themselves together regardless of the disagreements among them and try to hold out enough votes to destroy the leading aspirant's hope of victory. The moment that is accomplished, they again fall to fighting among themselves.

There was an open "stop Hoover" movement in 1928, but it collapsed when Governor Lowden refused to go along with it and released his delegates. The "stop Roosevelt" movement in 1932 was less frankly spoken of, but it was no less real. It fell apart when the Garner delegates, chiefly William G. McAdoo, pulled out and went over to Roosevelt.

In some other years, "stop" movements have been entirely successful. McAdoo himself was stopped both in 1920 and in 1924 after he became leading man. Lowden helped stop General Wood in 1920, and then himself fell victim to the stop system.

One thing which is happening now is that a considerable number of prominent Republicans are beginning to wonder where they will be left if the quiet-working and somewhat mysterious Landon boom turns out to be all that is claimed for it.

Even Governor Landon's best friends do not dispute that this is a natural impulse. Most of the old leaders of the party, and some of the younger ones, know little about the governor personally. They appear to have no faintest notion what he might do, if nominated, to the party organization.

If a formidable "stop Landon" movement develops at Cleveland, this consideration undoubtedly will have much to do with it. There may be other causes, to be sure, but from the viewpoint of many of the prominent Republicans aforesaid, it will be essentially a "stop, look and listen" movement.

OUR STRAW POLL

As was to have been expected, there has come a howl from the Hoy and Graham supporters here because of the fact that, based on the newspaper straw poll we yesterday announced McDonald as the leader of the first primary in the gubernatorial race.

Of course the results indicated by the straw poll can be wrong, but at least to date we believe it far more accurate than any claims being made by the supporters of the various candidates.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Continued from Page One complications. The Commission cannot know in advance what a foreign chancellor plans to say, and will have no guidance in issuing or denying permits.

Gypsy Weather

SYNOPSIS: Dirk's brother Rupert has committed suicide in the presence of his wife, Hope. Rupert's marriage had surprised everyone, even Hope. He never recovered from the fact that Elvior, leaving married another man, he never even cared to recover.

Chapter 38 HOPE TALKS

DEAR Dirk, the letter began in Rupert's swift, erratic hand. Life's a roundabout road, and we don't know where we're going, but whatever the end, there's many a short-cut.

It was not signed, and Dirk noticed what Connolly had not observed, that the mark at the close was not a period, but merely a trace of the pen, as if it had rested there, inadvertently, or been about to begin another word, the upward stroke of a "t," perhaps.

RUPERT was buried on Friday from the little Dutch chapel at Lowrie Wood. Hope was not present. It was generally known that Rupert's wife had not recovered from the shock of his death.

"How does one come to realize a thing like this?" she asked and added, "Elvior doesn't know yet. She can't have heard. I'll have a letter waiting for her in Delhi. She mustn't hear it over there—from some one else, I mean."

"Poor Dirk!" softly from Isabel. "What a month you've had! Rupert ill, and then Hope. And now this." Presently she rose, leaned a little closer to him, smoothing his hair.

"How long has it been?" she asked, after their first unhappy greeting. And as Dirk, sitting near her, did not answer, scarcely knowing what she meant, she added:

"No one will tell me anything. But I know that Rupert died. He died that night. How long ago was that night?" "It was last Wednesday," Dirk told her. "Today is Saturday."

and to propose terms of peace a certain American chain wanted to rebroadcast Der Fuhrer's speech. But it sought to ascertain first whether the White House had any objection.

dramatize him in public opinion. Latest reports reveal that Kansas has received about $375,000,000 from the federal government since 1933. New Dealers say they can find no record that Mr. Landon opposed these grants, but have found many Kansas requests for more money — at a time when the Governor was reducing taxes.

GHOST: Several unpublished tidbits have been produced as a result of the disclosure that the Schechter family has met only misfortune since it cut the throat of the Blue Eagle.

"Schechter," in Jewish, means "the slaughterer." He is the official who kills chickens by a stab in the neck in accord with ancient ritual. Only the Schechters' co-religionists sensed the significance of their legal role.

A New York group raised the NRA ghost when President Roosevelt recently attended the Jefferson Day dinner there. The joker sent this message to the toastmaster: "Don't serve chicken to the President. It might remind him of the sick chicken case."

angle, the "you can't hear that" rule will probably be recinded. BOUNTY: In anticipation of All Landon's nomination, New Deal accountants have tabulated advances the federal government has made to the state of Kansas.

Mr. Wilkie then went to President Roosevelt. The White House is understood to have intimated that the question might be discussed further after Congress adjourns, but that nothing could be done about it now.

The Sportsman

By HARRY BAUER

Flies, plugs and live bait are the three means used by the millions who fish for sport. Many shift from one method to another to suit conditions and circumstances, but the dyed-in-the-wool scientific angler sticks to one way of fishing, come what may.

The word "plug" as used by fishermen covers a multitude of artificial lures, and might be stretched to take in spoons and spinners used for trolling, as these, too, can be cast. Most plugs represent minnows, but there are also imitations of frogs and other aquatic life on which game fish feed.

The average plug caster uses a short stiff rod and may be found tossing his offerings anywhere in bass, muskie, pike or pickerel waters. If one doesn't tempt 'em, he tries another from his well-filled box. It's o. k. to attach the line to the plug when bass fishing, but a short wire leader is recommended for the "teethy" customers.

You can identify the fly fisherman by his long, plant rod, and by the fanatical gleam in his eye—especially if he is out to test a pet theory. He is found in great numbers along trout streams and is quite plentiful in bass country. There are two classes of fly fishermen—wet and dry. Dry flies represent insects and float upon the surface. Wet flies imitate the water stages—nymphs, larvae—of insects.

Bait fishermen use a longer rod than the plug caster, but not as whippy in the tip as a fly rod. Crawfish, minnows, worms, etc., are cast into likely looking spots. As is the case with all other ways of casting it takes practice to get accuracy and to keep the bait on.

The pole-and-liner takes its ease by keeping his bait in one place until some finny denizen agitates the bobber placed a few feet above the hook and sinker. He gets rest while the caster gets exercise.

In the mountain states, where the trout grow big and are full of fight, the lid is off with fishermen reporting prospects the best in several years. R. G. Parvin, Colorado game and fish commissioner, says: "There's plenty of fish in the streams this year. Water has been plentiful following heavy snows. This is going to delay the fly fishing season until about August 1, but in the meantime the bait dunkers should have an interesting time getting."

Landon benefited along with other governors. It lent especially to Landon's popularity, they contend, because he, as a Republican, was able to obtain substantial relief grants from a Democratic national administration. They say he contributed much to his re-election as governor in 1934.

Ultimately the advent of WPA to replace FERA brought a change in the state management of federal distributions, but the midwestern Democrats thought harm had been done them needlessly.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Certain midwestern Democrats think Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, is responsible to a large extent for Governor Landon's rise as a presidential threat.

They do not hesitate to say that they are disgruntled about what may happen to their state and congressional tickets if Landon should win the Republican nomination and carry part of the midwest.

As they view it, Landon has had many opportunities to advance politically by his exchanges with Hopkins, these including the one of some time ago when the WPA administrator said at a press conference that Kansas had not contributed a "thin dime" to match federal relief funds.

They complained that tended to focus attention upon the Kansas as a target of the New Deal even before Postmaster General Farley's more recent reference to Landon and a "typical prairie state." Their complaint was intensified when Landon was able to show Kansas had contributed relief funds, even though the sum was less than the WPA administrator said was the state's share.

But their displeasure reaches back even beyond that. As one Kansas Democrat related it, this is the situation of which they complain:

In the days of the federal emergency relief administration Hopkins allocated substantial sums to Kansas, along with other states, to take care of the unemployed. The governor in each state was made largely responsible for setting up the administrative machinery to get the money out to the people who needed it.

This tended to make the thousands on relief believe the governor in each state was to some degree to be credited for the aid they were getting. These Democrats suggest

AMATEUR DIVER'S OUTFIT MADE LARGELY OF JUNK

Bonham, Tex. (AP)—Bonham has an amateur diver whose equipment consists largely of junk—Earl "Sparky" Sparkman.

The diving helmet is made of an ordinary hot water tank and has a heavy glass window. Air is pumped to him by means of inner tubes. The pump is an old style auto tire pump.

Sparky's dives have been made in the lake in the state park here. He has been down to a depth of 40 feet. Once, he said, he went lower, but the pressure was so great he threw off the helmet and beat it to the top.

ANTI-NOISE ORDINANCE ADOPTED FOR HOUSTON

Houston, Tex. (AP)—Houston city fathers recently stole a page from New York's city ordinances. The new anti-noise ordinance provides for a $20 fine for these violations:

Sounding of an automobile horn for curb service or to hurry up traffic.

Playing of radios or any other musical instrument too loudly, especially between 10:30 a. m. and 7 a. m.

Allowing chickens to crow or dogs to bark to a point where it disturbs others.

Driving a rattling truck. Hawking popcorn or peanuts in a voice too loud. And the making of many other noises held to be "unnecessary" or "detrimental to the life or health of the individual."

PIEDMONT NOW BATTLE SCENE

Gubernatorial Campaign Centered in Western Counties

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, June 2.—The Piedmont is the battleground in the present campaign for Governor. Instead of either the eastern or western part of the state, most of those who have been observing the course of the campaign are now convinced. As a result, the candidate who succeeds in getting a majority or a plurality of the votes cast in the Piedmont counties will be the candidate who will lead in the first primary.

If Dr. Ralph W. McDonald succeeds in getting the big vote in the large and populous counties of the Piedmont, with their large number of industrial workers, which he and his managers are predicting, he will undoubtedly be the leading candidate in the first primary, most observers here agree. And according to the straw poll conducted by the newspapers, as well as to the opinion of experienced observers, Dr. McDonald will poll a heavy vote and undoubtedly lead the other three candidates for the nomination in most of the Piedmont counties, thus assuring him of being high man in the primary of Saturday.

But present indications are that Dr. McDonald will not get anything more than a very narrow plurality in the counties east of Raleigh, if any at all. For most of those who have been through the 35 or 40 counties east of Raleigh are now predicting that Sandy Graham will probably run in first place, Dr. McDonald in second place and Clyde R. Hoey in third, with a very slim margin between the last two. Many of the McDonald strategists now privately agree that they do not expect anything more than an even break in the eastern counties between Graham and Hoey and frankly admit that for more than two weeks now Graham has been cutting very deeply into their former strong following in the east. There are also indications that the battle cry of the Hoey managers in the eastern counties this week is "Stop Graham" instead of "Stop McDonald."

Nor can Dr. McDonald expect to do more than run third in most of the western counties, where most observers now concede that Hoey will run in first place, probably with a majority, Graham in second place and McDonald third. Most of those familiar with sentiment in the 30 western counties maintain that when all the votes are cast and counted Hoey will have about 60 per cent of the votes, Graham about 20 per cent and McDonald not more than ten per cent, in spite of the optimistic claims of both Graham and McDonald in the west. For while it is generally conceded that McDonald will lead in Catawba county and that he may get as much as 30 per cent of the Buncombe county vote, most observers maintain that in most of the western counties the race is almost entirely between Hoey and Graham, with Hoey having a big advantage. It is pointed out that for almost 40 years Hoey has been campaigning in behalf of the Democratic nominees in these counties, has spoken in almost every court house, church and cross roads school and is hence known personally to a majority of the Democrats in them. It is also conceded that in most of these western counties, where their big fight comes in the fall election rather than in the primary, the Democrats have formed the habit of centering on one candidate in the primary, and that in this primary most of the county Democratic leaders are supporting Hoey. Thus with Hoey assured of a big lead, probably a clear majority, in most of the western counties and with indications pointing to Graham having a plurality in the aggregate vote of the eastern counties, McDonald will have to get a big enough plurality in the Piedmont counties to overcome Graham's lead in the east and Hoey's in the west; most observers here now agree.

If the McDonald forces, with the assistance of President Roy R. Lawrence of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, can get the solid labor vote from the cotton mills, the hosiery mills, furniture factories, tobacco factories and the many other industries in the Piedmont, there is little doubt but that McDonald will come out of the fight with a big plurality over Hoey and Graham in these industrial counties, if not an actual majority. And if McDonald can get a majority in the Piedmont counties in which there are often more votes in a single precinct than there are in entire counties in both the east and west, there is little doubt that he will get a plurality over the other two and be in first place. Or if McDonald can get even a good plurality in the Piedmont counties he can still be assured of being in second place and of thus getting into the second primary.

On the other hand, if either Hoey and Graham can do the unexpected and improbably and manager to run ahead of McDonald in the Piedmont counties, either one can be in first place rather than McDonald, most of the seasoned political strategists agree. It is no secret that the Hoey forces are concentrating their drive this last week in the Piedmont against both McDonald and Graham in an effort to take enough votes away from them to put him in first place over the state as a whole, even though Graham may get a plurality in the eastern counties, as is now indicated. It is also true that McDonald and his managers are putting forth their greatest efforts in the Piedmont this week, with virtually all of the Winston-Salem candidate's speaking dates in that area and its western edge, in a last, tremendous effort to pile up a big vote in the more populous counties. For if McDonald can get a good plurality or a majority in Forsyth, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Cabarrus, Gaston, Iredell, Rockingham, Richmond, Alamance and Durham counties and even get a third of the votes in Buncombe, as his managers are claiming he will, he can be pretty sure of being high man in the state as a whole, most observers agree.

But the Graham managers are by no means confining their efforts to the eastern counties, which they regard as now definitely in the Graham fold, but are likewise concentrating in the Piedmont counties. They are confident that although this is the last week of the campaign, they can cut into the McDonald following just as deeply in the Piedmont counties as they cut into it in the eastern counties last week and week before. They are also confident that their very strong gains in the east have convinced many that Hoey cannot win even should he get into a second primary with McDonald, with the result that there is already a heavy in the Piedmont counties, as well as trend away from Hoey to Graham away from McDonald to Graham. Accordingly they are convinced that Sandy will at least be in second place, regardless of who is in first place — and many think he now has a chance to run in first place.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington — House action in turning over to the courts the contempt proceedings against Dr. Francis E. Townsend convinced many congressmen that the affair probably is in cold storage until after election time.

Whether that would be more acceptable to certain nervous members of congress or to Townsend plan officials pressing forward the $200-a-month drive remained problematical.

Experience with previous congressional contempt cases indicates it takes time to carry such an action through the courts.

William P. McCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, was convicted of contempt by the senate, without court action, after disappearance of certain papers requested in the air-mail investigation. His appeal to the supreme court prolonged the case, however, so more than a year elapsed between the time the senate found him guilty and the beginning of his 10-day jail term February 26, 1935.

The Harry P. Sinclair contempt action growing out of the Teapot dome oil investigation was tried originally before the courts in the manner ordered for the Townsend case. In that instance it was five years and two months from the time he refused to answer certain committee questions until May 6, 1929, when he went to jail in the District of Columbia and as a pharmacy clerk began making pills for fellow prisoners.

Leslie Garnett, district attorney for the District of Columbia, said the Townsend case could not possibly arise until the fall term of court.

Those congressmen fearful of making a martyr of the elder California physician estimated it would be very late in the campaign and perhaps after election time before Dr. Townsend might be in a position to accomplish his assertion that he would "spend my life in jail" before giving further testimony.

SENATE HOLDS GREAT POWERS

Eastern Counties in Position to Lose Upper House

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotels.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, June 4.—Unless the Democrats in the eastern counties rally back of older and more experienced candidates who are seeking the Democratic nomination to the state senate and renominate the men who have been serving in the senate from the east, indications are that for the first time in about 20 years the Piedmont and western counties will have more experience in the senate than the eastern counties and will thus have control of the upper body, a survey of the present candidates for the 1937 senate indicates.

As a result of the apparent widespread demand for a change in the state government, which so far has seemed unusually strong in the east, there is a distinct possibility that the eastern counties may send so many new and inexperienced men to the senate and house of the 1937 general assembly that for the first time in two decades it will lose control of the legislature. But if the eastern counties renominate the older and more experienced candidates for the senate who have previously served either in the senate or the house, it is generally conceded that the east will again be in the saddle. For it is the senate which in the long run, controls all legislation since no law is enacted until passed by the senate.

The first senatorial district will have two new senators this time and hence have little influence and no major committee appointments due to the fact of the candidates for the senate none has ever served in it before. This district has for years sent experienced men and has usually been able to get choice committee assignments.

In the second district, two of the five candidates have had previous experience in the senate and one of these, Carl L. Bailey of Plymouth, Washington county, has been able to get choice committee assignments.

In the second district, two of the five candidates have had previous experience in the Senate and one of these, Carl L. Bailey of Plymouth, Washington county, has been an outstanding leader in the last two sessions and is regarded as being in line for the chairmanship of either the finance or appropriations committee in the 1937 senate if he is renominated and elected. The other candidates with previous experience in the Senate is R. L. Coburn of Williamston, Martin county, who served in the 1935 senate. The other three candidates from the second district are T. B. Attmore of Washington, W. B. Rodman, Jr., also of Washington, and Julius Dees of Pamlico county. Of these three, Attmore is generally regarded as the more experienced in legislative procedure. If the second district, which has two senators, decides to renominate Bailey and Coburn, or to keep either one of its old senators, it will be in line to keep its former influence in the senate. But if it sends an entirely new slate, it will not be able to expect much from the 1937 session, most observers here agree. Reports indicate that Bailey and Attmore have an excellent chance to be the two high men in the primary.

In the third district, composed of Bertie and Northampton counties, Archie Gay, who has served several terms in the legislature, has no opposition for the nomination and this district will hence be represented by an experienced man.

The situation in the fourth district, composed of Edgecombe and Halifax, and with two senators, is somewhat doubtful despite the fact that W. G. Clark of Tarboro, has been one of the senators from this district for years and is regarded as one of wheel horses in every senate. Clark is being opposed by Rouse Griffin of Rocky Mount, Phile in Halifax county the race is between Julian Allbrook of Roanoke Rapids and Dr. W. E. Long of the same place. Both Allbrook and Long have had previous legislative experience. Allbrook having been a member of the 1935 senate. But Griffin has had no previous experience in the legislature. It is generally agreed that if Clark should be defeated, this district would suffer a great loss of prestige in the 1937 session.

A stiff contest is reported in the Fifth district, composed of Pitt county, for the one seat in the senate from that county. Arthur Corey, who has served two terms in the senate is being opposed by Ed Flanagan who served four terms in the house from Pitt county. So whichever of these wins the nomination, Pitt will be represented by a veteran legislator who knows his way around.

Senator L. L. Gravelly of Rocky Mount, has no opposition as one of the two senators from the sixth district, so that Nash county will have an experienced man representing it. Gravelly is in line for chairman of the finance or some other important committee. He was chairman of the appropriations committee in the 1935 senate.

GOVERNOR HAS HEAVY DUTIES

Powers Delegated To Chief Executive Far-Reaching

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, June 3.—In spite of all the interest in the present campaign for nomination of a Democratic candidate for Governor of North Carolina, there are thousands of people in the state who have no definite idea of the duties and responsibilities of the Governor—it is generally agreed.

They know in a general way that the Governor lives in the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh, has an office in the Capitol, has the power to make a good many appointments—and a large number seem to think he makes the laws. But definite, concrete knowledge of the exact powers of the Governor, especially his authority over state finances and spending, is generally lacking, most observers agree.

The most far-reaching power the Governor has, according to most political observers and students of government, is his power as Director of the Budget to supervise the spending of all state appropriations, amounting to more than $30,000,000 a year for all state departments, institutions and agencies, including the highway department. Nor is this power over the state's finances discretionary—it is mandatory. For under the Executive Budget Act, passed in 1925 and now regarded as the greatest single accomplishment of the late, great Governor Angus W. McLean of Lumberton, the Governor, as Director of the Budget has the power to scale down and reduce appropriations if at any time it appears that any department or agency has a larger appropriation than it needs. And if there is any indication of a deficit in the budget, it is the compulsory duty of the Governor to reduce appropriations so that they will stay within expected revenues and thus prevent a deficit. Governor McLean, during the four years of his administration, is estimated to have saved the state at least $12,000,000 by reason of his budget powers and the savings he made out of appropriations, while former Governor O. Max Gardner reduced appropriations by about $10,000,000 although the legislature of 1931 so provided that the school appropriation of some $17,000,000 should be subject to the Executive Budget Act and the control of the Governor, with the result that a deficit of $14,000,000 was incurred in the last two years of the Gardner administration.

As Director of the Budget, the Governor also has the power to reclassify and regulate the salaries of all state employees and to approve or disapprove all requests by state officials, department and division heads for additional employees and office equipment such as typewriters, furniture, supplies and so forth. He is in fact, as a theory, the "watch dog" of the State treasury and through the powers delegated to the Assistant Director of the Budget, must approve every proposed expenditure before the money for the expenditure can be actually spent. The Governor is thus analogous to the president of a corporation which spends $50,000,000 a year, with the powers of both treasurer and auditor in addition to his executive powers.

The Governor, with the approval and consent of the Council of State, may also borrow money on short term notes in the name of the state, either to cover deficits pending their refunding with bonds, which must be authorized by the general assembly, or for current operating expenses in anticipation of revenue as yet uncollected. He must accordingly be familiar with governmental finance and be able to deal with the big bankers of Wall street.

Before he can actually take office as Governor, the man elected Governor must take an oath in the presence of the members of both branches of the general assembly, that he will support the Constitution and laws of the United States and of the state of North Carolina and that he will faithfully perform the duties appertaining to the office of Governor. The duties of the Governor as set out in the State Constitution and in addition to those already enumerated, are:

1. He shall reside in the "seat of government."
2. Give the general assembly information as to the affairs of the state.
3. Make recommendations to the general assembly as to needed legislation.
4. Grant reprieves, commutations and pardons after convictions for all offenses with the exception of impeachment and transmit every two years a list of all pardons, reprieves and commutations to the general assembly.

5. Transmit the reports of other state officers to the general assembly.
6. He shall be commander-in-chief of the national guard except in the time of war.
7. Shall have power to call extra sessions of legislature.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief for functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. It is successful use by thousands of women.

"I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel irritable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was regulated. I feel much better."

When such suffering can be avoided by taking Cardui, isn't that the common-sense thing to do? Of course, if it does not seem to reach the cause of your trouble, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

Vote For Arthur B. Corey For STATE SENATE

As Senator from Pitt County in the 1933 and 1935 sessions of the General Assembly, Mr. Corey made one of the best representatives this county has ever had in Raleigh.

He has the reputation among his colleagues for his integrity and his determination to get all the facts pertaining to each and every piece of legislation and then voting his convictions for the best interest of his people.

His legislative record shows that he:

1. Sponsored and labored for the drivers' license law and was one of the great factors in getting this piece of legislation enacted. (Senate Bill No. 3)
2. He was co-author of the Senate bill that sought the repayment by the state highway commission to counties, sums expended by counties for highways taken over by the state. The General Assembly ordered the appointment of a commission to study the claims of the various counties. (Senate Bill No. 224)
3. As a member of the Senate appropriations committee he labored for maximum appropriations for the public schools and institutions of higher learning and was one of the main factors in procuring greater appropriations for vocational training in the rural schools of the state.
4. During his two terms in the Senate he consistently fought the general sales tax and voted against it on each and every reading. (Senate Journal 1933-1935)
5. He sought legislation that would increase the pay of highway workers in the lower brackets.
6. He labored for abolition of the absentee ballot law on a state-wide basis and when this legislation failed he succeeded in procuring a law that abolished absentee voting in Pitt County as it pertained to county offices. (Senate Bill No. 435)

A careful study of his record during his two terms in the Senate reveals that Arthur B. Corey voted consistently for good government and in the interest of his people. He was not always on the popular side in so far as the so-called leaders were concerned because he preferred to vote his convictions rather than curry favor for his own popularity but this gained for him great respect among his colleagues.
