HOEY LEADS IN PRIMARY

E. G. Flanagan Defeats Arthur B. Corey For State Senate

GRAHAM LEADS FOR GOVERNOR IN THIS COUNTY

Largest Vote Cast Here Yesterday In History County

CLOSE MARGINS DECIDE VICTORS

James Defeats Spain for County Judge; S. A. Whitehurst Re-nominated Sheriff

Going to the polls 10,000 strong Pitt County Democrats yesterday cast the biggest vote in the history of the county by approximately 1,500. The greatest upset of the primary locally was the gubernatorial race in which A. H. (Sandy) Graham led Ralph McDonald by two votes in Pitt County, with Clyde R. Hoey running a poor third in the county, despite pre-primary claims of McDonald supporters that he would get a clear majority in the county in the primary with Hoey probably running in second place.

From a county ticket standpoint several of the races were close with one of them being decided in the last box counted the low man coming from behind to win the nomination. The race was that of Judge Dink James and Jack Spain for the office of Judge of County Court. When all but one of the Greenville precincts had been counted Spain held a lead of 30 votes but the final box reversed the situation, giving James a total net majority of 66 votes and the nomination.

In the race between E. G. Flanagan and Arthur B. Corey for the State Senate, the contestants ran neck and neck during the early counting but as the returns continued to come in Flanagan piled up a lead of more than 400 votes which Corey failed to overcome in the last boxes to report, although (Continued on page two)

News Behind The News

Washington. By RAY TUCKER
 SUPPORT: The man whose shadow falls athwart formation of a powerful third party hostile to Franklin Roosevelt is John L. Lewis. This explains why the latching always hangs within easy reach of his huge fist whenever he visits the White House.
 Long ago the United Miners' chief pledged his 400,000 followers to the New Deal and offered his treasury's millions as a campaign fund. Despite their feud, Lewis' strategy forced President William Green of the A. F. of L. to say, "Me, too." Labor's friendliness to the President was one of the dominant factors in precipitating the Old Guard-Left Wing split among the Socialists and in dragging Farmer-Laborite Floyd Olson into the presidential camp.
 Neither the Old Guard Socialists nor the Farmer-Laborites can achieve effective independent action without organized labor's reinforcement. Because of Lewis' attitude they see no chance of such an alliance this year. So they will support the President next fall though reserving the right to go their own leftist way when and if the Democratic party deserts Mr. Roosevelt and returns to its anti-Labor's friendliness to the President.

DR. M'DONALD IN 2ND. PLACE; GRAHAM THIRD

Hoey's Plurality Cut Down by Administration foe

BAILEY LEADING BY HUGE MARGIN

Grady Ahead in Lieutenant Governor Race; George Ross Pou Leads His Field

Charlotte, June 7.—(AP) —Clyde R. Hoey held first place by an appreciable lead in the four-way contest for the governorship, while Senator J. W. Bailey piled up a clear majority over his three opponents for renomination as approximately two-thirds of the returns in yesterday's primary were tabulated here this morning.

Hoey set the pace in the early compilations for Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, Lieutenant Governor Sandy Graham and John A. McRae.

At one time Mr. Hoey's plurality was approximately 15,000 votes, but it was cut down at one time. The Shelby man, however, picked up considerably in the latest tabulation.

With 1,292 precincts out of the state's 1,856 heard from the vote was as follows:

Hoey	125,514
McDonald	114,230
Graham	74,847
McRae	4,414

A second primary between Hoey and Graham on July 4 was indicated on the face of the returns.

Bailey forged into the lead as first returns were counted. For a time his margin over former Lieutenant Governor R. T. Fountain was slight, but as additional votes were reported he took a commanding advantage over his opponents. Fountain, David Strain and W. H. Griffin.

The latest tabulation showed 1,020 precincts heard from giving:

Bailey	110,397
Fountain	78,234
Strain	5,128
Griffin	1,020

The closest race in the primary was a three-way contest between Paul Grady, W. P. Horton and (Continued on Page Two) clent gods and goddesses.

CHEERS: Although the Socialists have never polled an important vote in a presidential election, and Farmer-Labor strength is confined to a few states, New Dealers privately regard the decision of these groups to back FDR as a major victory.

In 1928 Norman Thomas, the Socialist presidential candidate received only 267,000 votes. The Old Guards who have split away from him this time plumped for Al Smith because of the Liberty League's social and economic policies as Governor of New York. In 1932 the Socialists suspected both Messrs. Hoover and Roosevelt of capitalist sympathies, and Mr. Thomas got 684,000 votes—a difference of more than 400,000. It reckoned that at least 500,000 Old Guard Socialist ballots will be cast for the President next fall, and they may be decisive in several industrial states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, etc.

Minnesota Governor Olson has not always been sympathetic toward the administration. Democratic politicians have neglected him in a futile attempt to build up a Democratic party in the state. It is generally admitted that if Mr. Olson campaigned against FDR he could deliver his state to the G.O.P. So his belated decision to go along cheers the White House, especially as it may round up Senators Shipstead and Benson.

HALTED: Important makers of power equipment are engaged in a running backstage battle with Harold Ickes over the breakdown of his grandiose policy for building municipal plants. The inside story suggests that the New Deal's program is preventing reclamation and blocking power expansion instead of furthering either cause.

Mr. Ickes has allotted funds for the construction of almost 1,000 municipal power plants under the grant-and-loan system. But only 170 are actually under construction or completed as a result of three years of government building and ballyhoo. All the others are tied up by departmental red tape or court litigation.

Before PWA a single construction company used to build 100 municipal plants a year. It financed the project with private capital at 6 per cent, accepting the completed plant as security. But it has lost this business because municipalities preferred to borrow at cheaper rates from the government. The cities are now holding off pending court decisions which will not be handed down for a year or more. Thus both private and public construction has been halted, and the relief rolls grow longer and more expensive every day.

GOVERNOR: New Dealers and G.O.P.-ers are girding for a major engagement on the New York sector next fall. With 47 electoral votes at stake, they are trying to coax their strongest champions into the race for the admittedly arduous and thankless post of Governor.

The Roosevelts are still in a quandary as a result of Governor Lehman's refusal to run for reelection. Chairman Farley's candidate—Internal Revenue Robert H. Jackson—is virtually unknown. State Attorney General John Bennett is suspected of being lukewarm towards the New Deal. The Democrats' ideal man is Senator Wagner but he doesn't relish the prospect of quitting the Senate for Albany.

Representative James W. Wadsworth is the G.O.P.'s best bet. But he is angling apparently in vain for the vice-presidential nomination at Cleveland. He may win it though the Landonites prefer Senator Vandenberg. If he doesn't he may agree to run for the Governorship. Should he win and the presidential nominee be defeated, he might be in a fine spot for 1940. That's how FDR made the grade!

HEADACHE: Builders of naval vessels are ganging up against the Vinson provision that their profits cannot exceed 10 per cent of the contract price. Unless the matter is straightened out by negotiation they plan a court suit or a boycott.

partment bills that is simply following the terms of the law. It's just another New Deal headache for private industry.

New York By JAMES McMULLIN MILESTONE: If Mr. Roosevelt carries New York State this November he should certainly send a note of thanks to Supreme Court Justices Butler, Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Roberts. Astute political observers figure that no single event could have done so much to boost FDR's stock in his home state as their decision that the New York law establishing a minimum wage for women is constitutional. Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Both Rupert Joris and Dirk, who is his younger brother, know that Rupert did not commit suicide—although the police accept that theory. The mystery which has always surrounded Hope—Dirk is now sure that it connects also with a wife's terrible secret which all the Jorises thought had been buried when a wing of the great Joris house burned years ago. Hope is showing Dirk how to enter the secret stair.

Chapter 29 MAN NAMED VINES

INSTANTLY a panel of the wall began to move. An opening as tall and wide as the average door disclosed a narrow hall with one small high window. A bed—mattress and blankets—lay on the floor, an old lantern and a kerosene stove beside it. A narrow stair went down into blackness.

The stair, the secret stair. How had Hope found it? "Till tell you everything," she was saying. "Help me a little more, it wasn't his fault. Only find him . . . if he's down here."

"And if he's not?" Dirk asked. "Then he wasn't badly hurt. He's gone back . . . back to the house where you found me . . . Twenty-second Street. Go to his room there . . . on the second floor . . . the door at the back. Find out . . ."

"You haven't told me his name yet." "Vines," she said after a pause. "Just ask the landlady, Mrs. Turner. Her name is, if she opens the front door. But she may not be there. Here's my key."

She turned and opened the drawer beneath the long mirror. It was empty. All her belongings had been moved into the south room. She remembered now.

"I'll get it," she said. "I'll give you the key."

He went with her, made her stay in the south room, found hat and overcoat, and was gone.

"I'll find my way," he told her. "If I'm not back in half-an-hour you may know I've gone into New York."

"Close the panel!" she whispered. "You'll find the spring on the other side."

DIRK went down the stone steps, moving the pale arc of his flash before him. It was a long flight, descending below the level of the ground floor into the warmth and dampness of the earth.

He found himself in a stone passage, parallel, he determined, with the basement of the house. His flash showed burnt-out matches scattered amid the moss and fungi on the floor.

He followed the passage slowly, moving his light with care. He had come, he judged, a little more than thirty yards when he encountered other steps, stone like the others, and narrow, leading upward. They were green with moss, and recent mud had been tracked over them.

Above them was a trap-door, long and narrow, with blackened hinges and ratchets on each side.

He thrust the flash into his pocket and went up the steps, pushing with both hands against the cold metal of the door, feeling it yield and slip gratefully along the ratchets. He emerged into the stairway, feeling a vague sense of familiarity with the spot.

Yonder was the river, there the railroad, there the stone wall separating him from Lowrie Wood. In a circle about him, outside an iron fence, were the snow-bowed cedars. He had just ascended from Uncle Pieter's grave.

Dirk descended again into the grave, drew down the bronze door with its warning inscription. He had violated that inscription. His childhood dream had come true. But there had never been any Uncle Pieter to curse or bless. Uncle Pieter's grave had been a mere doorway for that respected smuggler, Ancestor Hans Joris.

How had Hope found it? Dirk was musing along the passage, and up the stair. He went through the sliding door whose spring from this side was distinctly visible. He would not disturb Hope. Dirk got out his car, and in another moment was speeding through the snow and starlight into Manhattan.

At the house in Twenty-second Street there was no need to use the key. A woman answered the bell, a stout, troubled-looking woman whom he guessed at once to be Mrs. Turner.

"Does someone named Vines live here?" he asked. She replied in a low voice. "Are you Mr. Joris?"

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)

Washington Trip.

The camera was turned on the country women of the world in Washington this week. Pitt county was in the picture. It was a tired, happy group that returned to Greenville Wednesday night. If they were not proud of their organization they are now. Mrs. Paul T. Ricks conducted this tour which left Greenville early Sunday morning.

We were housed in the National camp and did much sight-seeing in and around Washington. The opening program of the conference was attended as well as the White House party and some of our group returned through the Shenandoah Valley. Mrs. Roosevelt said in her address that so many farm women could leave home, and the President said he had heard it said that farmers would not stick together, but he had evidence that the farm women could and did stick together. Mrs. Roosevelt said women have a desire for friendliness but must study economic causes. Secretary Wallace said the women contributed more to agriculture than any other one phase of work. Women can make it possible for men to conquer. There would be little young people for church leadership. This is the sixth year that young people from the local Christian Church have attended the North Carolina conference.

mothers and wives to attend the Third Triennial Conference of the country women of the world. Those who attended from Pitt county were: Mrs. J. R. Lewis, Miss Dorothy Taylor, Mrs. B. T. Cox, Miss Annie Carroll, Miss Carolyn Blount, Mrs. Fronia Hawkins, Mrs. R. L. Little, Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, Mrs. W. E. Andrews, Mrs. John Thorne, Mr. John Thorne, Miss Mary Lee Thorne, Mrs. Paul T. Ricks, and Miss Ethel Nice.

4-H Encampment.

The 4-H girls who stuck to their work throughout the year and turned in their reports are being rewarded on invitations to the 4-H encampment at White Lake, June 8-13. We regret that all girls eligible cannot attend. We shall leave from back of the Court View filling station at 9 o'clock Monday morning and return to the same place about noon Saturday. Miss Clara Small, a nurse from Greenville, will be present to render any services needed. Miss Laura Whitley, life-guard from Tarboro, will be in charge. Leaders from Pitt county will include Misses Ethel Little, Roxie Worthington, Evelyn Baker, Arlene Parker, and Ella Lee Lewis. We shall camp with Washington and Edgecombe girls and leaders.

INCREASE IN GOOD WILL NOTED BY PRIEST—FINDS AMERICANS LEARNING TO LIVE TOGETHER IN CIVILIZED WAY

A Roman Catholic priest, a rabbi of the synagogue, and a Presbyterian minister have just completed a nationwide tour. They have emphasized spiritual concerns. They have pleaded for the preservation of civil liberties and human rights for all. With infringements of the practices of organized religion in Mexico and Germany in mind, they resounded the American principle of liberty of conscience.

One newspaper editor put it this way:

"The seriousness of the state of men's minds today was driven home by the trio. They pled for an understanding of the totalitarianism which is gripping other countries and preventing freedom of thought and expression.

"Their sincerity and their earnestness cannot be doubted. It is inspiring to hear men of this type, who accept no remuneration for their work battling against the greatest wall of cynicism and unrest which has ever gripped the world."

They concluded their seven weeks tour sponsored by The National Conference of Jews and Christians on May 28th with a large meeting in Philadelphia. Opening on the evening of April 13, in Washington, the trio visited 25 leading cities in 10 states going as far West as California and Oregon. They addressed 13,000 people; these audiences were in addition to general audiences in open meetings, university college and high school assemblies, fraternal and social clubs, church and synagogue congregations, university and college faculties.

Rishops Approve Participation

The trio held innumerable conferences with individuals and small groups and delivered radio broadcasts in every city of importance, one of these being on a hook-up covering the entire Pacific Coast region. More than once the trio appeared before five or six groups in a single day.

Every Catholic bishop of the fourteen dioceses in the jurisdiction of which the cities visited were located gave their cordial approval to the participation of the writer in this activity, reports of which were often carried in the diocesan weeklies, and the meetings were frequently announced from the Catholic pulpits of the city. Similar cooperation came from Protestant and Jewish quarters. The secular press was remarkably sympathetic both with editorial and news space, so that it is safe to say that the nature and objectives of the movement for justice, amity, understanding and cooperation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews were never so widely nor so enthusiastically publicized.

Prayerful Enthusiasm

An outstanding effect of the meetings on the audiences with whom the trio came into contact was the reverent, almost prayerful enthusiasm with which the message of tolerance and good will was received. This enthusiasm was nearly always coupled with an outspoken determination to carry this message by personal precept and example as well as by round-table groups and other forms of organization.

formation about the type of work and then let him make his own decision. The speaker declared it was his ambition to have a department at N. C. State College which would take all new students into conference and seek to help them locate in the field for which they are best fitted. He said that he was of the opinion that one-third of all the students taking engineering courses at the college should be working toward some other aim.

He drew a distinction between guiding and steering by saying that he guided an automobile, boat or bicycle, the vehicles going exactly where he steered them, but he guided a horse, leaving the animal to pick his own steps.

Prof. Boshart said this work is of vital importance in the state's school system, but added that North Carolina had a long way to go in this phase of education.

William Woolard, son of Kiwanian W. H. Woolard, and his school mate at Oak Ridge College, E. S. Hamilton, Jr., of West Virginia, were guests of the club.

Master Of Repartee

(Chicago AP) — Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires has become more moderate in his actions since his stormy days with the Chicago White Sox, but he hasn't lost the gift of brisk repartee. The Great Man, now playing with the Chicago Mills, a semi-professional club, was being ridden by the fans in a recent game. One in particular was on him. Shires stood it about five minutes, then walked over to the stand and addressed the customer: "Now listen, friend, anything I do out here is ample reward for the half a buck you paid to get in."

The ministry of communications of Brazil has divided the country into seven zones and limited the number of radio stations permissible for each zone so that Rio de Janeiro can have but seven stations. Sao Paulo five, Porto Alegre, Recife, Belo Horizonte and Sao Salvador, two each. Other state capitals may have one apiece.

Is The Golden Rule Sufficient?

"Creeds and dogmas mean nothing to me. The Golden Rule is my religion." A common statement. A growing sentiment. A dangerous tendency which bodes ill for the human soul and for the good of our country.

With the Golden Rule, no real Christian has any quarrel. It is Christ's own command to "love thy neighbor as thyself." But is that all that God commands? Is that all that Christ taught in His three years of missionary life?

No Bible student—no true Christian—will concede this, nor can he help but deplore a condition today which enables mere man with his so-called "freedom of conscience" to cast aside one by one God's eternal truths, leaving himself at last with the Golden Rule alone, which he too often follows merely from an innate sense of decency and from a desire to maintain the respect of his fellow man.

The Catholic Church with its positive creed, its absolute dogmas, its uncompromising adherence to eternal truths—has not only existed basically unchanged throughout the ages, but has flourished in all parts of the world, under all sorts of conditions and persecutions. To the unbiased thinker, all this must cause a wonderment and a desire to know the Catholic secret of success.

THERE IS NO CATHOLIC SECRET

Everything Catholic is open to the world to inspect, dissect, to ask questions about with a demand for the authority and reasonableness of the answers. We, your neighbors, will welcome your questions, with no thought other than to tell you, what every fair-minded man wants to know—the other side of the story.

PREMIER BLUM BRANDED 'JEW' BY OPPONENTS

Students and Police Engage in Bitter Conflict

OFFICERS MAKE MANY ARRESTS

One Deputy Says Blum's Coming to Power Will be His- toric Date in France

Paris, June 6.—(AP)—Students and police fought in the Latin quarter in an outburst of violence tonight after Socialist Premier Blum had temporarily withdrawn from the Chamber of Deputies under a personal attack.

A Rightist deputy had assailed Blum as a Jew. The students demonstrated with shouts of "France for the French."

Sergeant-at-arms suppressed the outburst which approached physical violence in the Chamber of Deputies.

Gendarmes broke up the student demonstrations making a dozen arrests.

Leftists supporting the new Socialist government and the Rightist opposition jeered behind their desks tops and shouted.

The riotous demonstrations reached its height when a Rightist deputy yelled:

"Blum's coming to power will be a historic date for it is the first time that Gallic-Roman country has been governed by a Jew."

Blum arose and walked out of the room.

MAKING PLANS SUMMER CAMP

Local National Guard Receives Motor Equipment

When the local unit of the National Guard, Battery A, 113rd field artillery, leaves for its annual two weeks' summer encampment Wednesday, July 1, it will go by new motorized equipment.

The unit has just received three new two and one-half ton trucks, bringing the quota up to six. The big guns located here have been mounted on new, pneumatic tires, the old-style, hard rubber tires having been discarded for the new equipment. This will enable the guns to be moved more speedily in case the unit is called out for duty.

The two weeks' encampment at Fort Bragg this year, beginning July 1, is much earlier than in the past. Some members of the unit have been traveling to and from the camp by train, but the purchase of the new trucks will enable all of them to travel by motor.

When the unit goes to camp this summer, the members also will be equipped with new uniforms which have been purchased since last year's encampment.

The unit has been outstanding in past years at the summer camp, taking athletic honors as well as receiving good marks on the range.

BODY REMOVED TO NASHVILLE

President Accompan- ies Remains of the Late Speaker

Aboard the Roosevelt train en route to Nashville, Tenn. June 6.—(AP)—Over a route he had traveled many times in his 27 years as national legislator, the body of Joseph W. Byrns moved today—back to his native Tennessee for last services and burial.

The coffin bearing the late Speaker of the House of Representatives was escorted by President Roosevelt, a host of colleagues and friends in Washington officialdom who had attended the impressive state funeral in the House chamber yesterday.

The funeral train, running in two sections with the Chief Executive following behind the Congressional party and members of the 66-year-old legislator's family, crossed the Virginia-Tennessee border long before daybreak, after speeding through the hills of Eastern and Northern Tennessee. The trains were due in Nashville for a mid-afternoon funeral.

Consumers' Purses Affected By Weather

(By Associated Press)
Freakish weather conditions—early drought in the southeastern states and late frosts in the northern states and Canada—struck today at the pocketbooks of millions of consumers. Commodity prices soared as food and produce dealers in the large consuming centers, their stocks already running low rushed orders to producers in the agricultural sections.

Persian Minister To Preach Here Sunday

Rev. Yost Benjamin, of Persia, will preach at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church Sunday night at eight o'clock. His subject will be "My Life and Experiences in Persia and Russia." He was for ten years a missionary in his native country and Russia, and has had remarkable experiences. It is hoped that a large number of people will hear him Sunday night at Jarvis Memorial church.

Mr. Victory
New York, (AP)—Miss Victory is on her way out!
For years the graven image of a woman extending a laurel wreath has depicted "victory" in sports, but Joseph Nicolosi, noted New York sculptor, is completing a new representation, "The Hour of Victory." This is a masculine figure posed by Charles Atlas, who has twice won the title of the world's most perfectly developed man.

The Mary Marshall

YOURS—These Authentic Reproductions
—at Prices You Can Afford!

From historic Williamsburg, the cradle of the nation, came the original heirloom bed from which this authentic and genuine colonial suite was reproduced. Christened the MARY MARSHALL, after the colonial belle, it has the mellow charm of antiquity. In your home, its authenticity and good taste will go unchallenged. The years to come, will find the simple loveliness of its design and its fine, quality construction undimmed by use. You can select your own grouping from its wide variety, or find just the fill-in piece you've been wanting—at almost your own price. It is made in either Solid Philippine Mahogany, with a soft, dull colonial red finish, or Solid Hard Maple, with a true Early American mellow tone. Be sure to see the Mary Marshall suite before you buy. You'll find it well within your budget, and unequalled in value and taste.
