RETURNS SHOW HOEY CARRIED HALF COUNTIES

Official Returns Give Administration 4,320 Lead

BAILEY RECEIVES CLEAR MAJORITY

Run-off Indicated in Lieutenant Governor's Race Between Grady and Horton

(Copyright by Associated Press) Charlotte, June 10.—(AP)—Complete returns from last Saturday's primary with official tabulations from all counties gave Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby a lead of 4,322 votes over Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem, his nearest competitor for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Clerks of superior court in the 100 counties of the state gave the Associated Press figures which totaled:

Hoey 193,862.
McDonald, 189,542.
Graham, 125,078.
McRae, 6,731.

As Hoey ran far short of the majority in Saturday's primary, there will be a run-off contest between the veteran campaigner and Dr. McDonald on July 4.

The total vote was 515,254, by far the greatest ever cast in a North Carolina Democratic primary.

The returns showed Hoey carried 50 counties, McDonald 27, Graham 22 and McRae the other.

Senator J. W. Bailey appeared to have been nominated over three opponents by a safe majority, along with the seven of the state's 11 congressmen who faced opposition.

Returns from 1,789 of the 1,860 precincts, 80 per cent of the vote, officially gave Bailey 238,344; R. T. Fountain, 175,835; William H. Griffin, 23,543; David L. Strain, 13,065.

A run-off was indicated in the Lieutenant Governor's race. With 76 small precincts unreported and the returns official from 80 counties, the stand was: Paul Grady, 154,887; W. P. Horton, 132,058; George McNeill, 123,855.

Contributions For 1936 Bible School Asked of Citizens

Community Affair to Open Monday Under Sponsorship of Greenville Ministerial Association

The Daily Vacation Bible School which opens on Monday, June 22, is a community affair. While it is sponsored by the Ministerial Association of Greenville, it is open to all children of the community, regardless of whether they are associated with local churches.

Because this is a community project the community is appealed to for its support. During the four weeks when the school is in operation several hundred boys and girls will receive instruction in the Bible in citizenship, in social behavior and responsibility, in directed and regulated recreation, in vocational training, and in many other fields of activity and interest, all looking toward the making of better men and women of tomorrow.

To carry on this program will necessitate the raising of approximately $500. This amount will cover the operation of two schools—one in the Third street school building and one in the high school. Special committees have been appointed by the members of the Greenville Ministerial Association to canvass the citizens of the community in the interest of this project. With the splendid record set by the school of two years ago it is felt certain that no appreciable difficulty will be experienced in raising this budget. All contributions will be duly listed in the Daily Reflector. If citizens do not wish to be called on they may leave their contributions at the Reflector office. A faculty of thirteen instructors, all competent teachers, under the supervision of Miss Louise Golphon, assures the best possible training for pupils of the school. Information regarding the school and its work may be obtained by calling W. A. Ryan, chairman of the committee on Daily Vacation Bible School.

GANDHI KEEPS SILENT SEVEN HOURS A DAY

New Delhi, India, (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi is now completely silent for seven hours every day.

On the advice of his physician he remains mute between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m.

His health is improving, but his blood pressure still shows a tendency to rise suddenly and then return to normal. He takes a daily walk—usually in the fields.

SPEAKER RACE GRAHAM UPSET IS PREDICTED STRAW BALLOT

Unofficial Returns Indicate Hot Contest for Position

Raleigh, June 10.—(AP)—Unofficial returns from Saturday's primary indicated today there might be a spirited contest for the speakership of the 1937 state house of representatives if the Democratic nominees win election in November according to custom.

R. Gregg Cherry of Gaston and Victor Bryant of Durham, both already prominently mentioned for the speakership were nominated. Definite data was not available on F. E. Thomas of Anson, who recently announced for speaker.

The senate and the house will each have a woman member again in 1937. It was indicated Mrs. E. L. McKee of Jackson, won nomination for the senate in the 32nd district. Mrs. Charles Hutchins of Yancey was renominated for the house.

Unofficial returns available here showed 21 members of the house were renominated. Seven former legislators and members of the 1935 assembly may have to enter second primaries. Six members of the 1935 senate were renominated and four former house members were nominated to the senate.

Showers Continue Offensive Against Southern Droughts

Warnings Come From Washington That National Housewife Soon May Feel Result of Dry Spell

Atlanta, June 10.—(AP)—Showers continued a piecemeal offensive along the southern drought front today, but failed to rout destructive dross from five southeastern states.

Meanwhile from Washington came warning that the nation's housewives soon may feel the drought in climbing potato prices.

For the fourth successive day thundershowers yesterday brought moisture to scattered points in the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, but did little toward cutting a prospective crop loss of some $135,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Weather men predicted more showers but still could not promise the general rainfall necessary to complete the work of the showers.

Henry is charged with stabbing another negro.

James Keyes, negro, was fined $10 and costs for being drunk.

French Poise Hunter Freed Nice, France (AP)—Maurice Chovel, arrested for illegal possession of firearms, gave the judge a new excuse. "I use the gun only to shoot porpoises for your honor," he said. He was released.

PREPARE SEEK AGREEMENT ON REVENUE BILL

Conferees to Try for Compromise on Tax Measure

HOUSE PROGRAM MAY BE FAVORED

Reliably Predicted Revenue Set-up Will Be in Shape Not Later Than Wednesday

Washington, June 10.—(AP)—Controversial points in the tax bill were passed over today at the first meeting of the house and senate conferees committee, seeking to work out a compromise on the legislation.

Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.), of the house ways and means committee, told reporters the conferees agreed to give out no information on their progress and that there would be a session tomorrow.

"We passed over all controversial questions today, including the tax on undistributed corporate surplus," Doughton said. "We agreed on a few minor points, such as clarifying amendments and discussed the bill generally."

He indicated the conferees would not consider the major differences between the house and senate provisions until late in the week.

Washington, June 10.—(AP)—Tackling one of the last barriers to adjournment of the 74th congress, conferees prepared today to seek a compromise on the strife-torn tax bill.

There were indications from reliable sources that the house provision of the measure might predominate when the conferees finally submit a bill to the house and senate for final action.

It was understood in some quarters that the administration's insistence for high levels on undistributed corporate profits as outlined in the house provision would be accepted.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker
Cleveland, June 10.—It's "wome" and children first at the Cleveland convention. Politically speaking, those two groups of newcomers are running the 1936 Republican show.

Political adults—the Old Guard—who have manipulated marriage strings since McKinley-Hanna days still huddle high-hattedly beneath the palms in hotel lobbies and closet themselves in upstairs rooms that nobody—not even untutored reporters—bothers them. They hang round the botanical and political fringes simply from force of habit. Actually they have been relegated to the unlovely and unimportant role of chaperones whom the boys and girls reverse but do not recognize.

That is the most striking, the most significant feature of the G. O. P.'s assemblage. It marks the end of a social, economic and political era. The old order's change means that the Old Guard is washed up. Youth—male and female—has plumped into the front seats—and driver's chair—as it never has before at a major party's convention. Certainly, for the first time in many, many years, in Republican affairs, the dominant figures in the Grand Old Party are looking for

Snell Pleads For Harmony At Republican Convention

SEES VICTORY IN NOVEMBER

Pledges Party To Preservation Of Just Liberties

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 10.—(AP)—Taking the permanent chairmanship, Representative Bertrand Snell of New York appealed to the Republican convention today to sink its differences and unite to restore the government to the people.

The party is not contending against the Democratic party as such, he told the thousands in the audience, but "it offers to lead America against an unconstitutional dictatorship—yes, the arrogant individualism of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Mentioning no candidate for the presidential nomination, he predicted victory in November and said "we shall need in executive positions the services of constitutional Democrats and Republicans alike."

In a burning prelude to the address tonight by former President Herbert Hoover, the Republican leader of the House attacked the platform of the New Deal. He charged "reckless squandering," retardation of recovery and violation of constitutional liberties under "this demoralizing reign of incompetents."

"I hear today America's earnest prayer of deliverance," he said. Republicanism he praised as a "great heritage—a political force which personifies the deeply rooted American instinct for law and order, for true social security and the square deal for a practical and workable system of government."

Snell pledged the party to the "maximum of social cooperation, consistency with the faithful preservation of the just liberties of all the people."

Large Enrollment For Summer Term At Local College

First Term of Summer School at East Carolina Teachers College to Have 500 Students

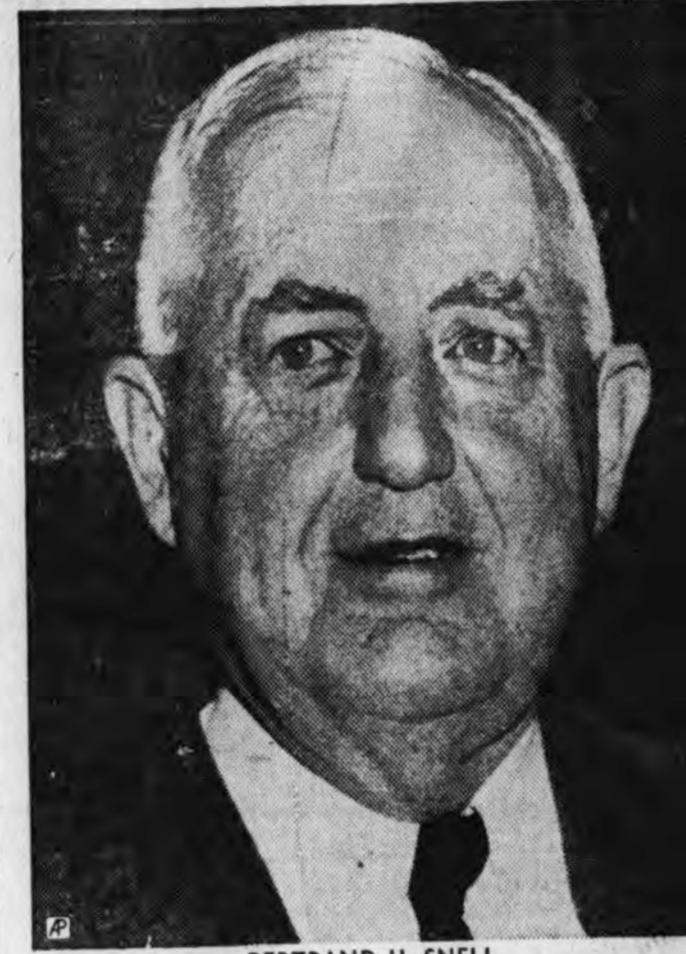

The enrollment for the first term of the summer school of East Carolina Teachers College is nearing the five hundred mark, with a number of students on the campus who have not yet completed their registration. This is the largest enrollment for the first term of the summer school since it was divided into two terms.

The large number of upper-class students, those ranking as juniors and seniors, is noticeable. This includes many graduates from the two-year normal school course who are teaching and at attendance at the summer school are working for a few A. B. degrees. There are quite a few who have attended other colleges and transfer here so as to get credit in professional courses. Some graduates holding degrees from this college are returning to get special courses they feel they need in their work or to change their certificates. There are very few first-year students who are just out of the high schools.

The travel-study group left on the New England-Canada tour early this morning, going in buses. Everything connected with the tour has so far worked according to the plans announced.

MANY ARRESTS DUDLEY CALLS BY PATROLMEN RUN-OFF RACE

Total of 2,423 Persons Arrested By Force in May

Only Two Other Pitt Contests Possible on July 4th

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 10.—The hand of the law, as represented by the State Highway Patrol, reached out and arrested 2,423 motorists who were violating the traffic and highway laws during the month of May, according to the report of the patrol's activities for May issued today by Captain Charles D. Farmer, commander of the patrol. Of the 2,423 arrested, 256 were for driving while drunk.

In addition to the number of actual arrests made, warrants were procured for 2,168 violators of the motor vehicle laws while citations were issued to 1,905 other drivers for minor violations. Highway patrolmen also stopped and inspected 15,801 vehicles during May, stopped the drivers and had them correct faulty lights on 14,225 cars and issued warnings to 7,890 drivers for minor violations not deemed serious enough to warrant arrests. Patrolmen stopped to assist 2,890 drivers in need of help on the road. They weighed 404 trucks suspected of being overloaded and found 170 of these to be in excess of the legal limit. They also investigated 1,051 complaints.

Patrolmen also examined 6,880 applicants for drivers' licenses, since for several months now no drivers' licenses have been issued unless applications are signed by patrolmen after they have been given driving tests to the applicants.

Out of 2,111 persons tried during the month of May on charges brought by highway patrolmen, 2,016 were found guilty and given sentences aggregating 56 years, one month and 11 days while only 101 were found not guilty.

The value of property recovered by the patrol during May, consisting mostly of stolen cars, was $16,546 while the fines imposed amounted to $20,238, all of which goes into the local school funds. Costs in these cases amounted to $17,863.

Patrolmen covered 367,750 miles in 43,145 hours on duty. They investigated 219 accidents in which 50 persons were killed and 227 injured.

PENNSYLVANIA BACKS LONDON

Kansan Assured of at Least 50 of State's Ballots for Presidential Candidate on Republican Ticket As National Convention Resumes Its Sessions

Cleveland, June 10.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon was assured of at least 50 of Pennsylvania votes for his party's presidential nomination as the Republican national convention resumed its session today with former President Herbert Hoover on hand "for just one purpose—to make a speech."

Landon received 50 votes on the first ballot as the Pennsylvania delegation caucused and others indicated they would vote for him on the second ballot.

The convention was buzzing as it reconvened over the announcement by Landon forces that Senator Borah, if unsuccessful in forcing his monetary monopoly and foreign relations plank into the committee platform draft, would be given an opportunity to support them from the floor.

Called for the installation of Representative Bertrand Snell as permanent chairman, the delegation first completed their organization action on reports on the credentials and other lesser committees.

As on yesterday the big moment was left for evening—the valedictory address as titular party leader by Hoover.

Chester Rowell, chairman of the California delegation said Hoover's speech tonight would be no attempt for self-seeking or to stampede this convention.

"But he was not expected to pull his punches against the New Deal any more than Snell or Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon in the keynote last night," Rowell promised a devastating indictment.

Some disappointment but no surprise was the reaction to Governor Landon's assertion in Topeka that he would come to the convention "regardless of developments."

Landon prefer for the acceptance speech to be deferred until August.

Labor Suggestions Of Premier Blum Meet Opposition

Possible Split of France's New Socialist Government Threatens 40-Hour Work Week

Paris, June 10.—(AP)—A possible split in France's new socialist government imperiled Premier Leon Blum's proposal for a 40-hour work week today.

The radical socialist organ, Ere Nouvelle, took a strong stand against the government's measure to shorten labor's hours.

The 40-hour week, Ere Nouvelle said, would put production cost so high France would lose all her foreign markets, and unemployment would result the organ said.

The newspaper's criticism was one of the first authoritative indications of a vigorous fight when the socialist leader's bills are called for debate in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday.

The labor proposals, which Blum introduced yesterday, include, in addition to the 40-hour week, paid annual vacations, collective bargaining contracts and restoration of some civil service pension reductions.

As the parliamentary maneuvering began tens of thousands of striking workers straggled back to their jobs.

Coal miners in northern fields who asserted it was better "to strike and starve than work and starve" reached an agreement to pick up their tools tomorrow.

Individual accords were completed in many industries but new walkouts continued to break among groups not covered by the workers' employment agreement which government won Monday to break the backbone of the extensive "folded arms" strike.

Personnel Of New Senate Said Be Anti-McDonald

Indications Are That The Sales Tax Will Be Retained

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL.
Raleigh, June 10.—The 1937 state senate will be overwhelmingly "regular" so that even if Dr. Ralph W. McDonald calls for a second primary and defeats Clyde R. Hoey and thus win the Democratic nomination for Governor, he would not be able to get his tax reform program and many promises, through the first general assembly, a survey of the new 1937 senate, on the basis of those who appear to have won the nomination, indicates today.

For while it is now generally admitted that there was a definite hook-up between the McDonald forces in almost every county to go "down the line" for the McDonald or anti-sales tax candidates for the legislature, this effort seems to have failed completely with the result that the 1937 senate is regarded as being decidedly anti-McDonald. This is also generally regarded as indicating that the 1937 senate will favor the retention of the sales tax — but with the exemptions on basic foods restored — rather than Dr. McDonald's substitute tax proposals.

For in the final analysis, the senate is far more powerful than the Governor, due to the fact that the Governor has no veto power and hence is entirely impotent unless he is able to get a majority with him in both houses, or especially in the senate. For no proposal can be enacted into law until passed by the senate. It is also generally conceded that the senate holds the whip hand and that sooner or later the house eventually concedes to the senate, even though they may disagree violently in the beginning of the legislative sessions.

It was the 1935 senate which sat down more violently on Dr. McDonald's tax proposals than did the house. And judging from the make-up of the 1937 senate, on the face of present returns from Saturday's primary, Dr. McDonald would have just as much if not more difficulty in getting his tax program through that body as he encountered in the 1935 senate. But if Hoey should be nominated and elected, he can be assured of a large working majority in the 1937 senate, it is now conceded.

Some of the pro-McDonald, anti-sales tax candidates for the 1937 senate who appear to have been decisively defeated in Saturday's primary are: Julian Allbrook, of Halifax county, violent opponent of the sales tax in the 1935 senate; A. B. Corey of Pitt county, who was a member of the 1933 and 1935 state senates; Roscoe Griffin of Rocky Mount, who was opposing W. G. Clark of Tarboro on a definite pro-McDonald and anti-sales tax platform; U. S. Page, the "Bladen Bombshell" from Bladen county, who was one of the most vociferous members of the 1935 house and this time a candidate for the senate; former Senator S. H. Hobbs of Clinton, Sampson county, who was defeated by Jeff D. Johnson of Clinton. The list might be continued for district after district.

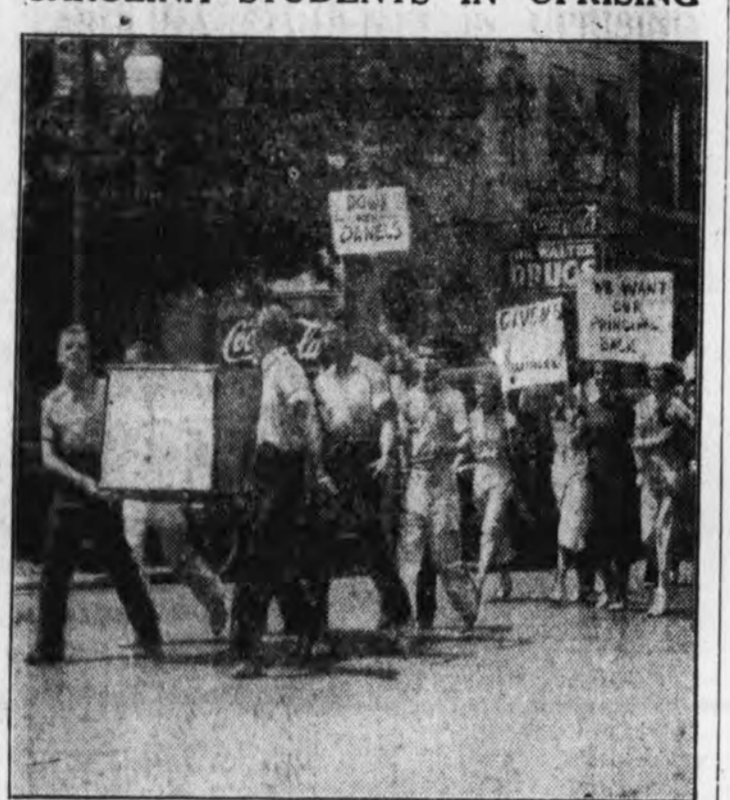

Those who appear to have won the nomination for the state senate on the basis of the latest returns available are as follows:

First District—W. I. Halstead of Camden and Jerry Hughes of Elizabeth City, representing Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Gates, Hertford, Pasquotank, and Perquimans counties.

Second District—W. B. Rodman, Jr. and T. B. Attmore, both of Washington, Beaufort county, appear to be the two highest candidates and leading former Senators R. L. Coburn of Williamson and Carl L. Bailey of Plymouth. Because of the agreement for the nomination to go to the two high men, a second primary does not appear likely. This district is composed of Beaufort, Dare, Hyde, Martin, Pamlico, Tyrrell and Washington counties.

Third District—Archie Gay of Northampton. This district is composed of Bertie and Northampton counties.
Fourth District—Dr. T. M. Long of Halifax, and W. G. Clark of Tarboro, Edgecombe county. Dr. Long defeated former Senator Julian Allbrook of Roanoke Rapids, bitter anti-sales taxer in the 1935 senate. Clark, who has served in the senate in the last five sessions of the general assembly, defeated Roscoe Griffin, pro-McDonald and anti-sales tax candidate from Rocky Mount, Edgecombe county.

WELCOME FARMERS

Greenville today is host to hundreds of farmers gathered here for the American Farm Federation picnic. We are indeed glad to have them in Greenville today.

SCENES OF CARNAGE

A writer in a recent issue of American Mercury presented a new and interesting view of the automobile accident problem. He observed that, in the light of present-day conditions, it is not remarkable that 36,000 persons are being killed in traffic accidents annually—but that it is remarkable that the number is not several times as great.

In the average state, almost anyone not completely crippled can obtain a license to drive a car, irrespective of his ability, responsibility, intelligence or judgment. If he chooses, he can operate a car that belongs by rights in the junk heap—a car with an inaudible horn, feeble or glaring lights, uncertain brakes, and a steering gear affected with St. Vitus dance.

If any progress is to be made in reducing the horrible toll of automobile deaths and injuries, stringent methods must be adopted. Traffic codes must be modernized and enforced with the utmost strictness and impartiality. Much higher qualifications for the issuance of drivers' licenses must be established. And the unsafe automobile, as well as the unsafe driver, must be banished from the road.

SECRET DOOR

"You came in then, and there was a minute—perhaps you remember it—when I was about to tell you everything. I was desperate, and I seemed to feel your sympathy, your desire to help me.

"It was then I saw you watching me—watching me in the little mirror on the mantel. Watching me so... I can't describe it. It was as if you were in ambush, and had almost caught me."

"You were nervous and on edge," Dirk said. "I know. But I knew then—what was true—that it had been you spying on me—not Rupert, not Torrobin."

"Poor Hope! No friend at all—no friend she knew about."

"I had Olga and Pipolo. Only they were away. And I still had hopes of winning Rupert. Elinor's dinner showed me that some night how foolish such hopes were."

"I had no intention of telling, and I knew that Roddie hadn't. I was happy because he was going away and leave Roddie. Adelaide's party was that night. I remember you said I seemed happy. I was happier than I had been for months. I had visions of a big ship taking Roddie and me away. It would take money, but somehow I would get it."

"And then they got Torrobin. They got him as he was boarding a ship himself. He's in jail. He'll never get out. They've got other things on him—a long record of things."

"I read it in the paper when I got back from Big Moose. I was certain it was Chowdhury who gave him away, for Roddie said he had kept in touch with her. But I was frightened, remembering Torrobin's threat, and I couldn't rest till I had got in touch with Roddie. Martin was watching me then, I knew, and I felt I was watched at night, though I never saw any one but once."

"I got Roddie on the phone—the day I read about Torrobin, the day I got back from Big Moose—and I made him come out. Even then, so far as I knew, they were hunting for him."

"That's what made you ill," said Dirk. "Fear for Roddie."

"I thought I would die. But I knew I had to live. Roddie came that night—down by the secret way. It was a terrible night, snowing hard. That was the night Martin heard him. Roddie didn't want to stay. He said he was safe outside. But he stayed. He saw I would die of fear if he left me."

"We carried bedding from a closet in one of the closed rooms. His pallet just fitted across the narrow passage—but you saw it. We found an old lantern, and a kerosene stove. I used to forage for food for him in the dead of night. And books for him to read."

"Even if Torrobin sent them here—here to Lowrie Wood—no one knew about the passage and the stair. But I still wanted to get away—to go away on a ship with Roddie."

"Pipolo was back in town; Pipolo and Olga. Merritt's show had broken up down in Georgia, and they were here, planning to go to Finland and have their own circus. Roddie said they were at Pazzini's."

"I slipped away one night—I knew Martin was watching me by day; by night too, for that matter, for hadn't he heard Roddie?—but I went by the front. If I went by the back Roddie would know and go with me, and I felt he mustn't be seen."

(Continued from Page One) ward rather than backward. Alf Landon, the probable nominee, is still in his forties. So are most of the men mentioned for the vice-presidential nomination. Campaign Manager John Hamilton's boyish smile, flamboyant red hair and gay freckles portray him as a man fresh from political cornfields rather than "smoke-filled" rooms where the politicians have been wont to choose their presidential pet in midnight blackness. That's why the moss-backs don't warm up to him.

They're dreaming of Abraham Lincoln. There's more than a difference of calendars in this contrast. The new-comers headline such issues as re-employment, purchasing power, agricultural and industrial price levels. The Old Guard still harangues about the old-fashioned tariff, the League of Nations and the 1896 model of the "tail dinner palis."

temed and awakened by such impacts as their World War experiences, their vicissitudes during the depression, their political exile from high place for four years. They see and feel problems differently from Old Guardsmen. The elders whom they are dethroning lived remote from such scorching campfires and battlefronts. The Hillises and Rorabacks and Browns all near the age of biblical maturity, took these events in their stride; the Landons and Hamiltons and Tafts took them on the chin. And their women—who influence decisions here beyond their most start-eyed dreams—suffered along with them.

Now these ideals and yearnings may not be definitely reflected in the platform or the presidential candidate. Political parties—and administrations—move forward in zigzag fashion. Practical considerations may temper the youngsters as they have marred their elders for so many years. But the Grand Old Party is rearing; it will never offer the same half-baked bread again to the hungry and forlorn. If President Roosevelt should move further to the left in the campaign or in a prospective second term, the Republican party as now reorienting will homestead, in a nice, legal way, the political acreage which he cultivated and then deserted.

There's another thing about this new generation of post-depression Republicans that accords with their novel political and economical outlook. They have nicknames. Mr. Landon is called "Alf" by friends and strangers, and Mr. Hamilton answers to "Jack." Their New York leaders are "Bob" Bacon and " Clarence" Hancock. Floor Manager

NAMED BLACK LEGION CHIEF

Slumped down in a chair, "Colonel" Harvey Davis is shown sitting in court at Detroit when Dayton Dean, confessed "executioner," testified that the "colonel" was the chief of the Black Legion. of these controversial problems. His opponents planned to make a strong final effort to pin him down on these questions—on the basis that the platform should fit the candidate. If he responded with definite views whatever he said could be used against him. If he refused to bite, it could be vehemently claimed that he doesn't know his own mind. It is hoped that William Allen White—Kansas representative on the resolutions committee—will help the cause along by advocacy of a constitutional amendment.

BACKFIRE: The second piece of bitter-end strategy involves reviving strong Hooverite opposition to the Kansas. Realistic anti-Landonites privately agree that Borah's threat of defection is not enough to scare the mass of delegates away from their favorite. But if Hoover as well as Borah could be pictured as disapproving it might start a backfire of doubt that would head off the pro-Landon prairie fire.

Mr. Hoover will personally remain scrupulously non-committal about all candidates. But Landon's opponents hope to persuade some of Hoover's friends—Walter Brown, for instance—to see the light. Informed New Yorkers also suggest keeping an eye on Chester Rowell—chairman of the California delegation—in this connection.

A third possible alternative—encouraging Borah to spatter oil on the Kansas—has been abandoned by backstagers as futile. The inside dope is that Borah has nothing really damaging to contribute.

DISGUSTED: The Treasury's efforts to freeze out the "free riders" on its latest billion dollar offering flivvered badly. "Free riders" are small speculators who subscribe to government by issues by putting up a small deposit for securities which they do not intend to pay for. Instead they resell their allotment at a quick and easy profit before they receive it. This is a sure thing gamble as long as new Treasury issues are consistently quoted at a premium over the offering price.

These gentry have long been a nuisance to the Treasury. Subscriptions are padded out of all proportion by their synthetic demand—preventing accurate appraisal of over subscriptions—and their resale activities disturb the government bond market. This time Secretary Morgenthau tried to get rid of them by raising the deposit amount from 5 per cent to 10 per cent and urging bankers and dealers to check up on their customers and hold their own bids down to the amount they actually desired to purchase.

The 10 per cent requirement had no effect at all. The banks and legitimate dealers did as the Treasury requested—with the result that they got smaller allotments than they wanted, while the "riders"—padding their subscriptions as usual—got a larger proportionate allotment than ever before. New York bankers are disgusted and swear they will never cooperate with the Treasury in that way again.

PLUM: New York investment trust circles are all worked up about an obscure and mysterious section in the latest Senate version of the corporate tax bill. This section provides that "common trusts"—defined in effect as trusts maintained by banks—shall enjoy a tax differential of 15 per cent as against 23 per cent for ordinary investing corporations.

Perhaps the Senate committee didn't realize that some banks have quietly developed sizable investment trusts under their management as distinct from small trusts administered for individuals. These trusts will have an enormous edge on competitors unless the bill is changed. New York observers cannot figure why Congress—having razed the banks all over the landscape for three years—should now tussle such a juicy plum in their laps.

EXIT: New Yorkers with excellent western contacts learn that the Landon crowd in the Midwest and West are cocky about being able to raise the financial support needed for the campaign without much assistance from the East.

Furthermore they indicate that they will gladly pay the bill in order to take control of the Republican party away from New York. John Hamilton is determined to bust up the influence of the eastern old guard.

Charles D. Hill's of New York and other leaders of his stripe owe much of their power to the fact that the G. O. P. has had to depend on them to dig up the heavy sugar. If their services are no longer required in this connection they will be added to the party's exterior decorations.

GREENIES WIN FOURTH IN ROW

Hitchcock Gets Five Hits, Two Homers, Bats in 7 Runs

The local baseballers continued their march of victory at Williamston yesterday and took an easy win from the Martins by a 10-1 score.

In previous engagements the Williamston nine held it's sway over the Greenies and the locals dropped each game played with them. Yesterday, however, the locals turned the cards and enabled the Martins to feel the sting of defeat.

Billy Hitchcock, Greenie short-stop and powerful hitter, led with the stick for the Greenville bunch. Billy brought in seven runs with five hits, with two of these being homers. He also got two doubles and a single to reach his end of a perfect day with the stick.

Billet, local hurler held the Martins to six scattered hits in order to blaze a win in his credit. Four of the hits were made by Gaylord, a Williamston player, with one of them being a double.

Armstrong, Williamston tasser pitched until the eighth frame, after which time he was yanked out and replaced by Jenkins, new material for the Martins, after Armstrong had allowed seven runs and ten hits.

Armstrong's twirling had been successful until Billy Hitchcock made his last showing by producing a circuit drive after Ty Wagner and Ace Parker had made a little progress with the stick to increase the Greenies' credits.

This afternoon the locals are facing the Martins at the Third street stadium, and an unusually large crowd will probably turn out to see the Greenies on to another victory.

The new markers are as follows: Craacoek Inlet, once chief trade inlet for North Carolina and scene of death of famous pirate, "Blackbeard," at Atlantic in Carteret county.

Abner Nash, governor during British invasion and member of Provincial and Continental Congresses, near New Bern. (Grave).

Richard Dobbs Spaight, signer of the U. S. Constitution and governor; also Richard Dobbs Spaight, Jr., also governor, near New Bern. (Grave).

St. James Church, built 1833 near site of older church, begun about 1751, Wilmington.

Moore's Creek Bridge, first North Carolina battle of the Revolution and U. S. Military Park, Malpass's corner in Pender county.

Andrew Johnson (birthplace), seventh president of the United States, in Raleigh.

John Charles McNeill (grave and birth place), notable North Carolina poet, near Wagram.

James C. Dobbin (home), secretary of United States Navy, 1853-57; helped found State hospital for insane, Fayetteville.

Battle of Alamance, where militia of Governor Tryon defeated Regulators, May 16, 1771, near Burlington.

Kings Mountain, scene of decisive British defeat, October 7, 1780, in S. C. National Park, near town of Kings Mountain.

Sidney Lanier (scene of death), famous Southern poet, in town of Lynn, Polk county.

John Motley Morehead (home), pioneer in railroad and industrial development and Governor, 1841-43, in Greensboro.

About a score of markers, scattered from Henderson county to New Hanover and Dare counties have already been erected. Approximately 18 additional markers have been supplied by the committee of historians headed by Dr. C. C. Crittenden secretary of the State Historical Commission. All of these markers are expected to be placed during the next several weeks.

Schmeling Perfects Marksmanhip, Then Trainer Polishes His 'Left'

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Napanoch, N. Y. (AP)—Whether Max Schmeling likes Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium, June 18, is something else again. But this much is certain.

Joe Louis is going to get hit. "Nobody has ever hit Joe Louis a real hard punch," the German said today. "Maybe that's why they call him a superfighter. But I will hit him. Let me tell you.

"Ever since I came here I have been practicing at finding a target with my right. For two weeks it was no good. I would aim at the jaw, but the blow would land high up on the face or on my sparring partner's head or shoulder.

"But I kept practicing every day. Now it is different. I hit what I am at."

Schmeling proved it, too. He went into the ring with three different sparring partners and hit each where and when he pleased.

The job now is to perfect his left and Max will concentrate on that until he breaks camp the day before the fight.

"That is the important hand in this fight," said Trainer Max Mechnon. "So we go right to work on it."

Machon didn't explain why he regarded Schmeling's left as his principal weapon against the Brown Bomber, but he certainly left the impression that there is plenty of room for improvement of Max's shots from the port side.

When they arrived from Germany in April, both Schmeling and Machon insisted Louis had a weakness and that they knew what it was, but you couldn't get another word out of them on the subject.

"That is between Max and me," Machon would say. Not even Herr Director Joe Jacobs knows the secret.

Schmeling, living the life of a hermit in his training camp here, will talk of anything but the approaching fisticuffs. Mention Louis and he replies:

"Let's go shoot clay pigeons," or "let's go have coffee," or "Congressman Zioncheck, he is what you call some playboy, no?"

'I Didn't Come To Lose'
On several occasions, when asked point-blank as to his chances he would invariably reply:

"I did not come across the water to lose."

The camp sees little or nothing of the German. Four days weekly he roars into the reservation from his cottage two miles away, hurriedly changes into trunks, then goes into the ring for 18 minutes of boxing.

Then back into street clothes and a five-minute visit to press headquarters. He is pleasant enough but will not talk fight.

A quick dash back into the woods and you see no more of Schmeling until it is time to box again.

The only occupants of the cottage are Machon, Max, Otto Petri, a companion, and a German cook, who can go to town with pancakes.

Manager Mystified
Not even Manager Joe Jacobs, quartered with the reporters down the big road, knows what goes on at the house in the woods. There are reports that Machon, one of the smartest handlers of fighters in Europe, daily does ring to; and gives Max a few pointers in private.

The two Maxes saw Louis whip Paulino Uzcudun and they have spent hours studying films of the Brown Bomber's fights with Max Baer and Primo Carnera. They insist Louis has a weakness and that they know what it is.

"It's the left that will count in this fight," repeated Machon, "and we are working on that now. You will see an upset, maybe, on June 18."

Schmeling is in fine shape physically. Always a clean liver, he fairly glows with health. His eyes sparkle, there is a spring in his walk and his sparring mates say his short right-hand punches are headaches every time they land.

EXPERTS START HOLLYWOOD TAPPING, NOW AMATEUR TOES WON'T BE STILL

Betty Furness, of the movies, practices a kick "just for fun."

Juanita Quigley, 4, is the youngest pupil in a Hollywood studio dance class.

By ROBBIN COONS
 Hollywood—Some tap for fun, some tap for work, and some just because everybody else is tapping. But Hollywood is tap-tapping its way to slenderness and grace. On the heels—or should it be toes?—of the tap-dancing cycle in films, the excitement spread from the people who make a business of it to the people who only want to learn.

Not everybody can dance like Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell, Bill Robinson, Ruby Keeler or Eleanor Whitney, but everybody—so it seems to Dave Gould, dance instructor at Metro—can try and do.
 Since Eleanor Powell came on the lot and made a hit, Gould's classes has multiplied. His latest pupil is May Robson, who is 71, and thinks nothing of being assigned a tap dance for her new film, "Gram." Gould already has taught her a fine step, difficult preliminary to other tapping achievement.
 It is a film role that brings the venerable May to class. But then says Gould, that is how many of his regular pupils get the dancing fever. They learn a few steps for a picture, and then they "off to Buffalo."

Gould's youngest pupil is Juanita Quigley, 4, who has been studying two years already. Rosalind Russell, an interested student, practices in spare time. Louis Hayward took it up to improve footwork in his boxing hobby. Joan Crawford learned to dance long ago, but when she thought she was to dance opposite Clifton Webb in a movie, she went to work with serious intent. The picture was called off, but Joan still dances.

Marion Talley, the opera star, who had never danced in her life, learned the b-lroom type during her long idleness under contract at the studio.
 All newcomers of course, are expected to report for tap-dance lessons regularly. It's supposed to enhance their poise, attractiveness and health, besides preparing them for possible dancing roles.
 Stenographers, secretaries, executives as well as stars are learning the intricacies. Exercise, fun, waistline preserver—whatever they call it, they dance.
 No spy reports, as yet, that Louis B. Mayer, the rotund studio chief, has abandoned the rumba for tapping. But that may come in time.
